3 The privilege has been held to apply where the possible charge was one of theft (Cartwright v Green (1803) 8 Ves 405); incest (Claridge v Hoare (1807) 14 Ves 59); subornation of perjury (Baker v Pritchard (alias Hosier) (1742) 2 Atk 387; Selby v Crew (1794) 2 Anst 504); assault and false imprisonment (Glynn v Houston (1836) 1 Keen 329); forgery (see Lloyd v Passingham (1809) 16 Ves 59); embezzlement (Waters v Earl of Shaftesbury (1865) 14 WR 259); fraud (Maccallum v Turton (1828) 2 Y & J 183), but not in every case (see Chadwick v Chadwick (1852) 16 Jur 1060; Stickland v Aldridge (1804) 9 Ves 516; Dixon v Olmius (1787) 1 Cox Eq Cas 414); conspiracy (Lee v Read (1842) 5 Beav 381; Re Reynolds, ex p Reynolds (1882) 20 ChD 294, CA), but not in every case (see Dummer v Chippenham Corp (1807) 14 Ves 245); libel (Triplex Safety Glass Co v Lancegaye Safety Glass (1934) Ltd [1939] 2 KB 395, [1939] 2 All ER 613, CA; and cf Webb v East (1880) 5 ExD 108, CA). The rule also applies to the inspection of entries in bankers' books: Waterhouse v Barker [1924] 2 KB 759, CA. As to the privilege against self-incrimination in respect of civil proceedings for fraud see also AT & T Istel Ltd v Tully [1993] AC 45, [1992] 3 All ER 523, HL. See also Practice Direction--Applications PD 23A para 11A, which provides that any party or a prosecutor or defendant in the criminal proceedings may apply to the court for a stay of the civil proceedings; and PARA 310.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(1)(a), negating United States of America v McRae (1867) 3 Ch App 79. The Civil Procedure Rules do not permit a litigant to avoid an order for inspection where compliance involves breaching the law of a foreign jurisdiction: Morris v Banque Arabe et Internationale d'Investissement SA [2000] 01 LS Gaz R 24, (1999) Times, 23 December.

5 East India Co v Campbell (1749) 1 Ves Sen 246; Mitchell v Koecker (1849) 11 Beav 380.

6 Allhusen v Labouchere (1878) 3 QBD 654; Fisher v Owen (1878) 8 ChD 645, CA; Spokes v Grosvenor and West End Railway Terminus Hotel Co Ltd [1897] 2 QB 124, CA; National Association of Operative Plasterers v Smithies [1906] AC 434, HL; Paxton v Douglas (1809) 16 Ves 239; Ex p Symes (1805) 11 Ves 521; Claridge v Hoare (1807) 14 Ves 59; Lee v Read (1842) 5 Beav 381; Earl of Lichfield v Bond (1843) 12 LJ Ch 329; Glynn v Houston (1836) 6 LJ Ch 129; cf Dummer v Chippenham Corp (1807) 14 Ves 245; King of Two Sicilies v Willcox (1851) 1 Sim NS 301; French v Macale (1842) 4 I Eq R 574; Jones v Green (1829) 3 Y & J 298; Harvey v Lovekin (1884) 10 PD 122, CA; and see Hill v Campbell (1875) LR 10 CP 222.

7 Spokes v Grosvenor and West End Railway Terminus Hotel Co Ltd [1897] 2 QB 124, CA; National Association of Operative Plasterers v Smithies [1906] AC 434, HL. Similarly the fact that the answer to a request for further information may tend to incriminate is no objection to making the request, but the requirement under CPR Pt 18 to give further information is subject to any rule of law to the contrary: see CPR 18.1(2); and PARA 611.

8 See the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 14 (amended by the Finance Act 1972 s 55(1), (7); the Finance Act 1975 s 52(1), Sch 12 paras 2, 8; and the Inheritance Tax Act 1984 ss 274, 276, Sch 8 para 2); and Customs and Excise Comrs v Ingram [1948] 1 All ER 927 at 929, CA, where Lord Goddard CJ said that the rule did not apply as an answer to claims by the Crown under legislation designed to protect the revenue of the Crown. Some statutes provide that the liability to criminal prosecution is not to constitute an objection to giving discovery (now 'disclosure') in civil proceedings, but that the disclosure so obtained is not to be used in any other proceeding against the party giving it: see eg the Newspapers, Printers and Reading Rooms Repeal Act 1869 s 1, Sch 2, continuing the Stamp Duties on Newspapers Act 1836 s 19 (publication of libels in newspapers); and see Ramsden v Brearley (1875) 33 LT 322; Lefroy v Burnside (1879) 41 LT 199; Carter v Leeds Daily News Co and Jackson (1876) 20 Sol Jo 218; Wilton v Brignell [1875] WN 239; and LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 215. Another statutory provision depriving a party of this ground of objection in certain proceedings is the Theft Act 1968 s 31(1): see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1477. The privilege against self-incrimination of a person or his spouse has been withdrawn in respect of intellectual property proceedings: see the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 72; and PARA 319. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to the abrogation of the privilege against self-incrimination by the provisions of the Companies Act 1985 and the Insolvency Act 1986 relating to investigations into a company's affairs see Re London United Investments plc [1992] Ch 578, [1992] 2 All ER 842, CA; Bishopsgate Investment Management Ltd (in provisional liquidation) v Maxwell [1993] Ch 1, [1992] 2 All ER 856, CA; Re Jeffrey S Levitt Ltd [1992] Ch 457, [1992] 2 All ER 509. The Banking Act 1987 s 42(1) (repealed) provided by implication that a person subject to an order made under it had a duty to disclose the specified documents, regardless of the fact that the result may show a contravention of any criminal law provision: Bank of England v Riley [1992] Ch 475, [1992] 1 All ER 769, CA.

9 Lamb v Munster (1881) 10 QBD 110. See also Webb v East (188) 5 Ex D 108, CA; and Harrison v Southcote and Moreland (1751) 1 Atk 528.

10 Triplex Safety Glass Co v Lancegaye Safety Glass (1934) Ltd [1939] 2 KB 395, [1939] 2 All ER 613, CA; but see Sitwell v Sun Engraving Co Ltd [1937] 4 All ER 366 at 369, CA, per Lord Greene MR ('his oath to that effect') (ie that a document would incriminate) 'is a thing which must be taken as conclusive and the court will not inquire into it').

11 R v Boyes (1861) 1 B & S 311; Parkhurst v Lowten (1816) 1 Mer 391. In Stewart v Smith (1867) LR 2 CP 293, an action for malicious prosecution for theft of books, after the plaintiff had been tried and acquitted, the defendant was allowed to interrogate him as to whether some of the books were not in his possession, and when, where, and from whom he bought them, and the price he paid for them.

12 A-G v Cunard Steamship Co (1887) 4 TLR 177; Williams v Farrington (1789) 2 Cox Eq Cas 202; Roberts v Allatt (1828) Mood & M 192; Trinity House Corp v Burge (1828) 2 Sim 411; Davis v Reid (1832) 5 Sim 443.

13 Mitford, pleadings 195, 307; Hare, Discovery of Evidence (2nd Edn) 110; East India Co v Atkyns (1720) 1 Com 346; R v Charlesworth (1860) 2 F & F 326; Ex p Fernandez (1861) 10 CBNS 3; and see Lord Uxbridge v Staveland (1747) 1 Ves Sen 56.

14 Ewing v Osbaldiston (1834) 6 Sim 608. See Fisher v Price (1849) 11 Beav 194.

15 Sitwell v Sun Engraving Co Ltd [1937] 4 All ER 366, CA.

16 C plc v P [2007] EWCA Civ 493, [2007] 3 All ER 1034.

17 See Chetwynd v Lindon (1752) 2 Ves Sen 450; Parkhurst v Lowten (1816) 1 Mer 391; Williams v Trye (1854) 18 Beav 366; Benyon v Nettlefold (1850) 3 Mac & G 94.

18 This point generally arises in connection with requests for further information, as to which see PARA 611.

19 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(1); and see Cartwright v Green (1803) 8 Ves 405.

20 King of the Two Sicilies v Willcox (1851) 1 Sim NS 301; Parkhurst v Lowten (1816) 1 Mer 391; Gibbons v Waterloo Bridge Co (1818) 5 Price 491.

21 McFadzen v Liverpool Corp (1868) LR 3 Exch 279.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/14. DISCLOSURE OF DOCUMENTS/(2) EXCEPTIONS TO THE OBLIGATION TO PRODUCE DOCUMENTS FOR INSPECTION/(v) Other Grounds of Objection to Production for Inspection/581. Statutory secrecy.

(v) Other Grounds of Objection to Production for Inspection

581. Statutory secrecy.

In a number of cases disclosure of information is forbidden by statute. Thus under the Agricultural Marketing Act 1958 a person who discloses information obtained by him in the exercise of a power conferred by the Act, save for the purpose of legal proceedings under the Act or for some other purpose authorised by the Act, is liable to imprisonment or a fine¹. Hence, in proceedings which are not under the Act, an official of a marketing board can object to disclosing returns made by a farmer even though he is served with a witness summons². Other instances of legislation restricting disclosure of information relate to certain records concerning adopted children³, to census information and statistics of population⁴, information furnished in connection with funding of legal services for an individual⁵, information relating to certain trades or businesses obtained under statutory powers⁶ and information affecting national security⁷.

¹ See the Agricultural Marketing Act 1958 s 47(2), (3); and AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND MARKETING vol 1 (2008) PARA 1101.

² Rowell v Pratt [1938] AC 101, [1937] 3 All ER 660, HL; and see further AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND MARKETING vol 1 (2008) PARA 1101.

³ See the Adoption Agencies Regulations 1983, SI 1983/1964, reg 15; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 449. Information contained in such records must, however, be disclosed to a court having power to make an adoption order and to certain other bodies and persons: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 449.

⁴ See the Population (Statistics) Act 1938 s 4(2); the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 s 39(1); and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 634.

⁵ See the Access to Justice Act 1999 s 20; and LEGAL AID vol 65 (2009) PARA 228.

⁶ See eg the Water Industry Act 1991 s 206; the Water Resources Act 1991 s 204(1); and WATER AND WATERWAYS vol 100 (2009) PARA 183.

⁷ See eg the Atomic Energy Act 1946 s 11; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 499. As to offences in respect of official secrets see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 478 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/14. DISCLOSURE OF DOCUMENTS/(2) EXCEPTIONS TO THE OBLIGATION TO PRODUCE DOCUMENTS FOR INSPECTION/(v) Other Grounds of Objection to Production for Inspection/582. Agreement not to disclose.

582. Agreement not to disclose.

An agreement between the parties not to disclose a particular document or information is a ground for refusing disclosure of that document or information¹. Such an agreement may be express or implied. Where communications are expressed to be 'without prejudice' and are made as part of negotiations in an attempt to compromise the proceedings they are subject to privilege from disclosure to the court by either party². An article in a company's articles of association providing that the directors were not bound to disclose their grounds for refusing to register a transfer precluded further information as to those grounds³. The privilege attaching to statements made to persons acting as conciliators in matrimonial disputes⁴ is also based on an implied agreement that such statements are made 'without prejudice'⁵. A landlord seeking to enforce an agreement to grant a lease, which did not give the other party a right to call for the title to the freehold, was not liable to produce his deeds for inspection, unless some specific objection to the title was taken⁶.

¹ Rabin v Mendoza & Co [1954] 1 All ER 247, [1954] 1 WLR 271, CA; Berry and Stewart v Tottenham Hotspur Football and Athletic Co Ltd [1935] Ch 718; Whiffen v Hartwright (1848) 11 Beav 111; Turney v Bayley (1864) 4 De GJ & Sm 332.

² As to the meaning of 'without prejudice' see PARA 804 note 4. Strictly this privilege is a rule of evidence, rather than a matter relating to disclosure of documents, since any 'without prejudice' document will necessarily have been sent to the other party and thus both disclosed and inspected as between them. It is a rule of evidence, since it precludes the court from knowing the terms of negotiations between the parties. The rule is based on the public policy of assisting and encouraging parties to settle disputes if possible without resorting to litigation: see generally PARA 804. The court also has a duty as part of its active case management powers to help the parties to settle the whole or part of a case: see CPR 1.4(f); and PARA 246. But, where such documents are brought into existence in negotiations between two parties and litigation ensues between one of them and a third party, considerations of disclosure in that subsequent litigation are involved: Rabin v Mendoza & Co [1954] 1 All ER 247, [1954] 1 WLR 271, CA (surveyor's report obtained as a result of negotiations undertaken 'without prejudice' between the parties not ordered to be produced for inspection). A solicitor when sued by a third party, may also claim protection for 'without prejudice' letters written by him: La Roche v Armstrong [1922] 1 KB 485; cf Schneider v Leigh [1955] 2 QB 195, [1955] 2 All ER 713, CA, cited in PARA 571 text and note 11; Rush & Tompkins Ltd v Greater London Council [1989] AC 1280, [1988] 3 All ER 737, HL (admission made as between two parties to litigation, not admissible as between one of them and another party to the same litigation).

³ Berry and Stewart v Tottenham Hotspur Football and Athletic Co Ltd [1935] Ch 718. Cf Cartland v Houston and British and South American Steam Navigation Co Ltd [1912] WN 110.

⁴ See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 833.

⁵ Mole v Mole [1951] P 21, [1950] 2 All ER 328, CA.

⁶ See Jones v Watts (1889) 43 ChD 574, CA. In that case the contract was governed by the Vendor and Purchaser Act 1874 s 2 (repealed: see now the Law of Property Act 1925 s 44(2), (11); and SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 140), which precluded calling for the title unless there was a stipulation to the contrary in the contract.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/14. DISCLOSURE OF DOCUMENTS/(2) EXCEPTIONS TO THE OBLIGATION TO PRODUCE DOCUMENTS FOR INSPECTION/(v) Other Grounds of Objection to Production for Inspection/583. Inspection disproportionate.

583. Inspection disproportionate.

Before the Civil Procedure Rules came into force¹, the court could refuse to order inspection of certain documents or classes of documents on the grounds that it would be unduly oppressive to the party giving discovery (now known as 'disclosure')². What was unduly oppressive depended upon the particular circumstances of each case. The position under the Civil Procedure Rules is similar, in that where a party considers that it would be disproportionate to the issues in the case to permit inspection of documents within a certain specified category or class of document, he is not required to permit inspection of documents within that category or class; but he must state in his disclosure statement that inspection of those documents will not be permitted on the grounds that to do so would be disproportionate³. A party may, however, apply to the court for an order for specific inspection of such documents⁴.

1 CPR Pt 31 (disclosure: see PARA 538 et seq) came into force on 26 April 1999: see PARA 30.

2 ie under RSC Ord 24 rr 2(5), 3(3), 8 (revoked).

3 See CPR 31.3(2); and PARA 539.

4 See CPR 31.12(3); and PARA 547.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/584. In general.

15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE

(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE

584. In general.

'Statement of case' means a claim form¹, particulars of claim² where these are not included in a claim form, defence³, Part 20 claim form⁴, or reply to defence and includes any further information given in relation to them⁵ voluntarily or by court order⁶. The general rules about statements of case⁷ do not apply where the claimant⁸ uses the alternative procedure for claims (the Part 8 procedure)⁹. A subsequent statement of case must not contradict or be inconsistent with an earlier one¹⁰. A party may:

- 635 (1) refer in his statement of case to any point of law on which his claim or defence, as the case may be, is based;
- 636 (2) give in his statement of case the name of any witness he proposes to call; and
- 637 (3) attach to or serve¹¹ with his statement of case a copy of any document¹² which he considers is necessary to his claim or defence, as the case may be¹³.

In relation to particular types of proceedings¹⁴ in respect of which special provisions for statements of case are made by the rules and practice directions applicable to those types of proceedings, the general provisions relating to statements of case¹⁵ apply only to the extent that they are not inconsistent with those rules and practice directions¹⁶.

1 Ie Form N1 in The Civil Court Practice. For the contents of the claim form see CPR16.2; and PARA 585. As to claim forms see also CPR Pt 7; and PARA 116 et seq.

2 See CPR 16.4; and PARA 587.

3 As to the contents of a defence see CPR 16.5; and PARA 599. As to filing a defence see PARA 199 et seq. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

4 Ie Form N211 in The Civil Court Practice. A 'Part 20 claim' is now known as an additional claim: see PARA 618 note 1; and as to additional claims see PARA 618 et seq.

5 Ie further information given under CPR 18.1: see PARA 611.

6 CPR 2.3(1). As to replying to the defence see PARA 604.

7 Ie CPR Pt 16: see PARA 584 et seq.

8 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

9 CPR 16.1. As to the meaning of 'Part 8 procedure' see PARA 127 note 2; and as to using that procedure see PARA 127 et seq.

10 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 9.2. Eg a reply to a defence must not bring in a new claim. Where new matters have come to light the appropriate course may be to seek the court's permission to amend the statement of case: para 9.2.

11 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

12 le including any expert's report to be filed in accordance with CPR Pt 35 (see PARA 838 et seq): Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 13.3(3).

13 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 13.3.

14 Types of proceedings with special provisions about statements of case include (1) defamation claims (CPR Pt 53); (2) possession claims (CPR Pt 55); and (3) probate claims (CPR Pt 57): Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 1.3.

15 le CPR Pt 16 and Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16: see the text and notes 1-14; and PARA 585 et seq.

16 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 1.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/585. Contents of the claim form.

585. Contents of the claim form.

The claim form¹ must:

- 638 (1) contain a concise statement of the nature of the claim²;
- 639 (2) specify the remedy which the claimant seeks³;
- 640 (3) where the claimant is making a claim for money, contain a statement of value⁴;
- 641 (4) where the claimant's only claim is for a specified sum, contain a statement of the interest accrued on that sum⁵; and
- 642 (5) contain such other matters as may be set out in a practice direction⁶.

In civil proceedings against the Crown⁷, the claim form must also contain (a) the names of the government departments and officers of the Crown concerned; and (b) brief details of the circumstances in which it is alleged that the liability of the Crown arose⁸.

If the particulars of claim⁹ are not contained in or are not served with the claim form, the claimant must state on the claim form that the particulars of claim will follow¹⁰. If the claimant is claiming in a representative capacity, the claim form must state what that capacity is¹¹ and if the defendant is sued in a representative capacity, the claim form must state what that capacity is¹².

The court¹³ may grant any remedy to which the claimant is entitled even if that remedy is not specified in the claim form¹⁴.

If the claimant is seeking to recover an additional liability¹⁵ in respect of a funding arrangement¹⁶, he must provide information to the defendant concerning the funding arrangement¹⁷.

The claim form must be verified by a statement of truth¹⁸.

1 See Form N1 in The Civil Court Practice. As to serving the claim form see PARA 120. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 CPR 16.2(1)(a). See Nomura International plc v Granada Group Ltd [2007] EWHC 642 (Comm), [2007] 2 All ER (Comm) 878.

3 CPR 16.2(1)(b). As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 Ie in accordance with CPR 16.3 (see PARA 586): see CPR 16.2(1)(c).

5 CPR 16.2(1)(cc).

6 CPR 16.2(1)(d). The claimant must include an address at which the claimant resides or carries on business, even though the claimant's address for service is the business address of his solicitor: Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 2.2. Where the defendant is an individual, the claimant must, if he is able to do so, include in the claim form an address at which the defendant resides or carries on business, even though the defendant's solicitors have agreed to accept service on the defendant's behalf: para 2.3. In a claim for damages for libel the publication the subject of the claim must be identified in the claim form and in a claim for slander the claim form must so far as possible contain the words complained of, and identify the person to whom they were spoken and when: see Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.2; and see LIBEL AND SLANDER. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

- 7 As defined in CPR 66.1(2): see PARA 1239 note 8.
- 8 CPR 16.2(1A).
- 9 As to the contents of the particulars of claim see CPR 16.4; and PARA 587.
- 10 CPR 16.2(2).
- 11 CPR 16.2(3). As to representative claims see PARAS 229-231.
- 12 CPR 16.2(4).
- 13 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.
- 14 CPR 16.2(5); and see Ajou v Stern [2001] All ER (D) 132 (Feb).
- 15 As to the meaning of 'additional liability' see PARA 1830 note 20.
- 16 As to the meaning of 'funding arrangement' see PARA 1830. As to funding arrangements see PARA 1830 et seq.
- 17 See CPR 44.15; Practice Direction about Costs PD 43-48 para 19; and PARA 1832. The information is to be given in Form N251 in The Civil Court Practice and is required to include the nature of the funding arrangement, although not the amount of any success fee or percentage increase: see Practice Direction about Costs PD 43-48 paras 19.1(1), 19.4(1). As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.
- 18 See CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/586. Statement of value to be included in the claim form.

586. Statement of value to be included in the claim form.

Where the claimant¹ is making a claim for money² he must state, in the claim form:

- 643 (1) the amount of money claimed³;
- 644 (2) that he expects to recover either not more than £5,000⁴, or more than £5,000 but not more than £25,000⁵, or more than £25,000⁶; or
- 645 (3) that he cannot say how much is likely to be recovered⁷.

In a claim for personal injuries⁸, the claimant must also state in the claim form whether the amount which he expects to recover as general damages for pain, suffering and loss of amenity is not more than £1,000⁹ or more than £1,000¹⁰. In a claim which includes a claim by a tenant of residential premises against a landlord where the tenant is seeking an order requiring the landlord to carry out repairs or other work to the premises, the claimant must also state in the claim form:

- 646 (a) whether the estimated cost of those repairs or other work is not more than £1,000¹¹ or more than £1,000¹²; and
- 647 (b) whether the value of any other claim for damages is not more than £1,000¹³ or more than £1,000¹⁴.

If the claim form is to be issued in the High Court it must, where this rule applies:

- 648 (i) state that the claimant expects to recover more than £25,000¹⁵;
- 649 (ii) state that some other enactment provides that the claim may be commenced only in the High Court and specify that enactment¹⁶;
- 650 (iii) if the claim is a claim for personal injuries state that the claimant expects to recover £50,000 or more¹⁷; or
- 651 (iv) state that the claim is to be in one of the specialist High Court lists¹⁸ and state which list¹⁹.

When calculating how much he expects to recover, the claimant must disregard any possibility that the court may make an award of interest²⁰ and costs²¹. He must also disregard any possibility that the court may make a finding of contributory negligence²², that the defendant²³ may make a counterclaim²⁴ or that the defence may include a set-off²⁵ or that the defendant may be liable to pay an amount of money which the court awards to the claimant to the Secretary of State for Social Security²⁶ under the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997²⁷.

The statement of value in the claim form does not limit the power of the court to give judgment for the amount which it finds the claimant is entitled to²⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 See CPR 16.3(1). Where a claim is for a sum of money expressed in a foreign currency it must expressly state (1) that the claim is for payment in a specified foreign currency; (2) why it is for payment in that currency;

(3) the sterling equivalent of the sum at the date of the claim; and (4) the source of the exchange rate relied on to calculate the sterling equivalent: Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 9.1.

3 CPR 16.3(2)(a).

4 CPR 16.3(2)(b)(i). Such a claim may be suitable for allocation to the small claims track: see PARA 267.

5 CPR 16.3(2)(b)(ii). Such a claim may be suitable for allocation to the fast track: see PARA 268.

6 CPR 16.3(2)(b)(iii). Such a claim may be suitable for allocation to the multi-track: see PARA 469.

7 CPR 16.3(2)(c).

8 As to the meaning of 'claim for personal injuries' see PARA 19.

9 CPR 16.3(3)(a). Such a personal injury claim may be suitable for allocation to the small claims track: see CPR 26.6(1)(a); and PARA 267. As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1.

10 CPR 16.3(3)(b). See generally DAMAGES.

11 CPR 16.3(4)(a)(i).

12 CPR 16.3(4)(a)(ii).

13 CPR 16.3(4)(b)(i).

14 CPR 16.3(4)(b)(ii). A housing repair claim where neither the estimated cost of repairs nor the financial value of any claim for damages exceeds £1,000 may be suitable for allocation to the small claims track: see CPR 26.6(1)(b); and PARA 267. Landlord and tenant claims must, however, normally be started by a modified form of the Part 8 procedure (to which the rules relating to statements of case do not apply): see CPR Pt 56; and PARA 127 et seq. See further LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 468.

15 CPR 16.3(5)(a). This is in order to comply with Practice Direction--How to Start Proceedings: The Claim Form PD 7A para 2.1 which provides that proceedings (whether for damages or for a specified sum) may not be started in the High Court if the claim is for more than £15,000: see PARA 116.

16 CPR 16.3(5)(b). For examples of such claims see PARA 116 the text and notes 9-11.

17 CPR 16.3(5)(c). This is in order to comply with Practice Direction--How to Start Proceedings: The Claim Form PD 7A para 2.2; and the High Court and County Courts Jurisdiction Order 1991, SI 1991/724, art 9: see PARA 116 text and note 5.

18 As to the meaning of 'specialist list' see PARA 67 note 8; and as to specialist proceedings see PARA 1536 et seq.

19 CPR 16.3(5)(d). As to specialist proceedings see CPR Pt 49; and PARA 1536 et seq.

20 CPR 16.3(6)(a)(i).

21 CPR 16.3(6)(a)(ii).

22 CPR 16.3(6)(b).

23 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

24 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

25 CPR 16.3(6)(c).

26 Ie under the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 6 (recoupment of benefits): see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 915.

27 CPR 16.3(6)(d).

28 CPR 16.3(7).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/587. Contents of the particulars of claim; in general.

587. Contents of the particulars of claim; in general.

Particulars of claim¹ must include:

- 652 (1) a concise statement of the facts on which the claimant relies²;
- 653 (2) if the claimant is seeking interest, a statement to that effect and the details set out below³;
- 654 (3) if the claimant is seeking aggravated damages⁴ or exemplary damages⁵, a statement to that effect and his grounds for claiming them⁶;
- 655 (4) if the claimant is seeking provisional damages, a statement to that effect and his grounds for claiming them⁷; and
- 656 (5) such other matters as may be set out in a practice direction⁸.

If the claimant is seeking interest he must:

- 657 (a) state whether he is doing so under the terms of a contract⁹, under an enactment (and if so which)¹⁰ or on some other basis and, if so, what that basis is¹¹; and
- 658 (b) if the claim is for a specified amount of money, state:
 - 72 20. (i) the percentage rate at which interest is claimed¹²;
 - 21. (ii) the date from which it is claimed¹³;
 - 22. (iii) the date to which it is calculated, which must not be later than the date on which the claim form is issued¹⁴;
 - 23. (iv) the total amount of interest claimed to the date of calculation¹⁵; and
 - 24. (v) the daily rate at which interest accrues after that date¹⁶.

73

Particulars of claim served separately from the claim form must also contain the name of the court in which the claim is proceeding, the claim number, the title of the proceedings and the claimant's address for service¹⁷.

Particulars of claim must be verified by a statement of truth¹⁸.

1 Particulars of claim, if not included in the claim form, must be served with it or within 14 days after service of the claim form (see CPR 7.4(1)(b); and PARA 123) and, in any event, no later than the latest time for serving the claim form (see CPR 7.4(2); and PARA 123), ie within four months of issue if for service in the jurisdiction (see CPR 7.5(2); and PARA 120) or within six months of issue if for service out of the jurisdiction (see CPR 7.5(3); and PARA 120). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 CPR 16.4(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18. The court cannot require a claimant to include in his claim all of the losses he has sustained: Khiaban v Beard [2003] EWCA Civ 358, [2003] 3 All ER 362, [2008] 1 WLR 419. A claim included in a claim form but omitted from the particulars of claim is not deemed to have been irretrievably abandoned: British Credit Trust Holdings v UK Insurance Ltd [2003] EWHC 2404 (Comm), [2004] 1 All ER (Comm) 444.

3 CPR 16.4(1)(b). See heads (a), (b) in the text.

4 'Aggravated damages' are additional damages which the court may award as compensation for the defendant's objectionable behaviour: see CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see

PARA 31. As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1; as to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22; and as to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18. See generally DAMAGES.

5 'Exemplary damages' are damages which go beyond compensating for actual loss and are awarded to show the court's disapproval of the defendant's behaviour: see CPR 2.2, Glossary.

6 CPR 16.4(1)(c).

7 CPR 16.4(1)(d).

8 CPR 16.4(1)(e). See further PARA 587 et seq.

9 CPR 16.4(2)(a)(i). As to claims based on a contract see further PARA 590.

10 CPR 16.4(2)(a)(ii).

11 CPR 16.4(2)(a)(iii).

12 CPR 16.4(2)(b)(i).

13 CPR 16.4(2)(b)(ii).

14 CPR 16.4(2)(b)(iii).

15 CPR 16.4(2)(b)(iv).

16 CPR 16.4(2)(b)(v).

17 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 3.8. As to separate service of the particulars of claim see PARA 123.

18 See CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613. Where the particulars of claim are not included in the claim form, the form of the statement of truth is as follows: '[I believe][the claimant believes] that the facts stated in these particulars of claim are true.': Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 3.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/588. Other miscellaneous matters to be contained in particulars of claim.

588. Other miscellaneous matters to be contained in particulars of claim.

Where a claim is made for an injunction¹ or declaration in respect of or relating to any land or the possession, occupation, use or enjoyment of any land the particulars of claim must state whether or not the injunction or declaration relates to residential premises and identify the land (by reference to a plan where necessary)².

Where a claim is brought to enforce a right to recover possession of goods the particulars of claim must contain a statement showing the value of the goods³.

In clinical negligence claims, the words 'clinical negligence' should be inserted at the top of every statement of case, including the particulars of claim⁴.

A claimant in a claim for wrongful interference with goods must, in the particulars of claim, state the name and address of every person who, to his knowledge, has or claims an interest in the goods and who is not a party to the claim⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'injunction' see PARA 315 note 2.

2 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.1. As to particulars of possession claims see PARA 593. Landlord and tenant claims must normally be started by a modified form of the Part 8 procedure (to which the rules relating to statements of case do not apply): see CPR Pt 56; and PARA 127 et seq. See further LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 468.

3 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.2.

4 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 9.3.

5 CPR 19.5A(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/589. Matters relied on which must be specifically set out in particulars of claim.

589. Matters relied on which must be specifically set out in particulars of claim.

A claimant¹ who wishes to rely on evidence of a conviction of an offence² or on evidence of a finding or adjudication of adultery or paternity³ must include in his particulars of claim a statement to that effect and give the following details:

- 659 (1) the type of conviction, finding or adjudication and its date;
- 660 (2) the court or court-martial which made the conviction, finding or adjudication;
and
- 661 (3) the issue in the claim to which it relates⁴.

Furthermore, the claimant must specifically set out the following matters in his particulars of claim where he wishes to rely on them in support of his claim:

- 662 (a) any allegation of fraud;
- 663 (b) the fact of any illegality;
- 664 (c) details of any misrepresentation;
- 665 (d) details of all breaches of trust;
- 666 (e) notice or knowledge of a fact;
- 667 (f) details of unsoundness of mind or undue influence;
- 668 (g) details of wilful default; and
- 669 (h) any facts relating to mitigation of loss or damage⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 Ie under the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 11 (convictions as evidence in civil proceedings): see PARA 1208.

3 Ie under the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 12 (findings of adultery and paternity as evidence in civil proceedings): see PARA 1211.

4 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 8.1.

5 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 8.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/590. Particulars of claim based upon contract.

590. Particulars of claim based upon contract.

Where a claim is based upon a written agreement, a copy of the contract or documents constituting the agreement should be attached to or served¹ with the particulars of claim and the original(s) should be available at the hearing². Any general conditions of sale incorporated in the contract should also be attached³.

Where a claim is based upon an oral agreement, the particulars of claim should set out the contractual words used and state by whom, to whom, when and where they were spoken⁴.

Where a claim is based upon an agreement by conduct, the particulars of claim must specify the conduct relied on and state by whom, when and where the acts constituting the conduct were done⁵.

In a claim issued in the High Court relating to a consumer credit agreement, the particulars of claim must contain a statement that the claim is not one which is required by statute⁶ to be brought in the county court⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.3(1). Where, however, the contract is, or the documents constituting the agreement are, bulky, this requirement is complied with by attaching or serving only the relevant parts of the contract or documents: para 7.3.

3 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.3(2); and see note 2.

4 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.4.

5 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.5.

6 Ie it is not a claim to which the Consumer Credit Act 1974 s 141 applies: see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARAS 288-289. As to the meaning of 'consumer credit agreement' see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 81.

7 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 7.6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/591. Particulars of personal injury claim.

591. Particulars of personal injury claim.

In personal injury claims¹, the particulars of claim must contain the claimant's date of birth and brief details of the claimant's personal injuries². A schedule of details of any past and future expenses and losses claimed must be attached to the particulars of claim³. Where the claimant is relying on the evidence of a medical practitioner a report from the medical practitioner giving details of the personal injuries which he alleges he suffered must also be attached to or served with the particulars of claim⁴.

In a case where provisional damages⁵ are claimed, the claimant must in his particulars of claim:

- 670 (1) state that he is seeking an award of provisional damages under the relevant statutory provision⁶;
- 671 (2) state that there is a chance that at some future time the claimant will develop some serious disease or suffer some serious deterioration in his physical or mental condition; and
- 672 (3) specify the disease or type of deterioration in respect of which an application may be made at a future date⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'claim for personal injuries' see PARA 19.

2 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.1.

3 See Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.2.

4 See Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.3.

5 As to provisional damages see CPR Pt 41; and PARAS 1217-1221. Provisional damages may be awarded under either the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 32A or the County Courts Act 1984 s 51 where there is a chance that at some future time the claimant will develop some serious disease or suffer some serious deterioration in his physical or mental condition, as a result of the act or omission which gave rise to the cause of action the subject matter of the claim. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. See further DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 930, 1154.

6 Ie under either the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 32A or the County Courts Act 1984 s 51: see note 5.

7 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/592. Particulars of fatal accident claim.

592. Particulars of fatal accident claim.

In a fatal accident claim the claimant¹ must state in his particulars of claim:

- 673 (1) that it is brought under the Fatal Accidents Act 1976;
- 674 (2) the dependants on whose behalf the claim is made;
- 675 (3) the date of birth of each dependant; and
- 676 (4) details of the nature of the dependency claim².

A fatal accident claim may include a claim for damages for bereavement³. In a fatal accident claim the claimant may also bring a claim on behalf of the estate of the deceased⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 5.1. As to dependency claims see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 934.

3 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 5.2. As to bereavement claims see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 938.

4 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 5.3. See DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 939.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/593. Particulars of claim for the recovery of land.

593. Particulars of claim for the recovery of land.

The following provisions do not apply where the special procedure for accelerated claims for possession of property let on an assured shorthold tenancy¹ is used² or, except where the court orders otherwise or the rules so provide, where the claimant³ seeks an interim possession order⁴. Subject to that, in a possession claim⁵ the particulars of claim must identify the land to which the claim relates and state whether the claim relates to residential premises⁶. They must also state the ground on which possession is claimed, give full details about any mortgage or tenancy agreement and give details of every person who, to the best of the claimant's knowledge, is in possession of the property⁷.

If the claim relates to residential premises let on a tenancy and includes a claim for non-payment of rent, the particulars of claim must set out:

- 677 (1) the amount due at the start of the proceedings;
- 678 (2) in schedule form, the dates and amounts of all payments due and payments made under the tenancy agreement for a period of two years⁸ immediately preceding the date of issue, or if the first date of default occurred less than two years before the date of issue from the first date of default and a running total of the arrears;
- 679 (3) the daily rate of any rent and interest;
- 680 (4) any previous steps taken to recover the arrears of rent with full details of any court proceedings; and
- 681 (5) any relevant information about the defendant's circumstances, in particular whether the defendant is in receipt of social security benefits and whether any payments are made on his behalf directly to the claimant under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992⁹.

If the claim for possession relates to the conduct of the tenant, the particulars of claim must state details of the conduct alleged¹⁰, and if the possession claim relies on a statutory ground or grounds for possession, the particulars of claim must specify the ground or grounds relied on¹¹. In a case where the claimant knows of any person entitled to claim relief against forfeiture as underlessee¹², including a mortgagee, the particulars of claim must state the name and address of that person and the claimant must file a copy of the particulars of claim for service on him¹³.

If the claim is a possession claim against trespassers, the particulars of claim must state the claimant's interest in the land or the basis of his right to claim possession and the circumstances in which it has been occupied without licence or consent¹⁴. Additional requirements are specified if the claim is a possession claim by a mortgagee¹⁵ or is a possession claim in relation to a demoted tenancy where the landlord is a housing action trust or a local housing authority¹⁶.

1 As to assured shorthold tenancies see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1051 et seq.

2 See CPR 55.2(2)(b). As to the procedure relating to such accelerated possession claims see CPR 55.11-CPR 55.19; and LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1129 et seq.

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 See CPR 55.2(2)(c). As to the procedure relating to interim possession orders against squatters see CPR 55.20-CPR 55.28: and LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 659.

5 'Possession claim' means a claim for the recovery of possession of land (including buildings or parts of buildings): CPR 55.1(a).

6 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.1(1), (2); CPR 55.4.

7 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.1(3)-(5).

8 If the claimant wishes to rely on a history of arrears which is longer than two years, he should state this in his particulars and exhibit a full (or longer) schedule to a witness statement: Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.3A.

9 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 paras 2.2, 2.3. The particulars of claim must be filed and served with the claim form: CPR 55.4. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8; and as to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to payment of social security benefits directly to a person's landlord see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 163.

10 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.4A.

11 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.4B.

12 If under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 146(4) or in accordance with the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 38 or the County Courts Act 1984 s 138(9C): see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 628-629. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

13 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.4.

14 Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.6.

15 See Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 paras 2.5, 2.5A; and MORTGAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 548.

16 See Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 2.7; and LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1382. As to the meaning of 'demoted tenancy' see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1376.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/594. Particulars of hire purchase or conditional sale agreement claim.

594. Particulars of hire purchase or conditional sale agreement claim.

Where the claim is for the delivery of goods let under a hire-purchase agreement or conditional sale agreement¹ to a person other than a company or other corporation, the claimant² must state in the particulars of claim:

- 682 (1) the date of the agreement;
- 683 (2) the parties to the agreement;
- 684 (3) the number or other identification of the agreement;
- 685 (4) where the claimant was not one of the original parties to the agreement, the means by which the rights and duties of the creditor passed to him;
- 686 (5) whether the agreement is a regulated agreement³, and if it is not a regulated agreement, the reason why;
- 687 (6) the place where the agreement was signed by the defendant⁴;
- 688 (7) the goods claimed;
- 689 (8) the total price of the goods;
- 690 (9) the paid-up sum;
- 691 (10) the unpaid balance of the total price;
- 692 (11) whether a default notice⁵ or a notice before taking action⁶ or notice to terminate⁷ has been served⁸ on the defendant, and if it has, the date and method of service;
- 693 (12) the date when the right to demand delivery of the goods accrued;
- 694 (13) the amount (if any) claimed as an alternative to the delivery of goods; and
- 695 (14) the amount (if any) claimed in addition to the delivery of the goods or any claim under head (13) above, with the grounds of each claim⁹.

Where the claim is not for the delivery of goods, the claimant must state in his particulars of claim:

- 696 (a) the matters set out in heads (1) to (6) above;
- 697 (b) the goods let under the agreement;
- 698 (c) the amount of the total price;
- 699 (d) the paid-up sum;
- 700 (e) the amount (if any) claimed as being due and unpaid in respect of any instalment or instalments of the total price; and
- 701 (f) the nature and amount of any other claim and how it arises¹⁰.

1 Is an agreement to which the Consumer Credit Act 1974 applies: see generally CONSUMER CREDIT. As to the meaning of 'hire purchase agreement' and 'conditional sale agreement' see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARAS 23, 45.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 As to the meaning of 'regulated agreement' see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 79. For the special procedure relating to regulated agreements see Practice Direction--Consumer Credit Act 2006--Unfair relationships PD 7B. The county court has exclusive jurisdiction over such agreements: see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 288.

4 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 As to the meaning of 'default notice' see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 263.

6 Is a notice under the Consumer Credit Act 1974 s 76(1) (notice before taking certain action in non-default cases): see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 234.

7 Is a notice under the Consumer Credit Act 1974 s 98(1) (notice to terminate in non-default cases): see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 262.

8 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

9 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 6.1.

10 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 6.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/595. Particulars of defamation claim.

595. Particulars of defamation claim.

Statements of case in defamation claims should be confined to the information necessary to inform the other party of the nature of the case he has to meet. Such information should be set out concisely and in a manner proportionate to the subject matter of the claim¹. The claimant² must specify in the particulars of claim the defamatory meaning which he alleges that the words or matters complained of conveyed, both as to their natural and ordinary meaning and as to any innuendo³ meaning⁴. In the case of an innuendo meaning, the claimant must also identify the relevant extraneous facts⁵.

In a claim for slander the precise words used and the names of the persons to whom they were spoken and when must, so far as possible, be set out in the particulars of claim, if not already contained in the claim form⁶.

1 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.1.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 The meaning alleged to be conveyed to some person by reason of his knowing facts extraneous to the words complained of: Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.3(1)(b). As to innuendo see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 47.

4 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.3(1).

5 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.3(2).

6 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/596. Contents of statement of case in human rights claim.

596. Contents of statement of case in human rights claim.

A party who seeks to rely on any provision of, or right arising under, the Human Rights Act 1998 or seeks a remedy available under that Act must state that fact in his statement of case and must, in his statement of case:

- 702 (1) give precise details of the Convention right¹ which it is alleged has been infringed and details of the alleged infringement;
- 703 (2) specify the relief sought;
- 704 (3) state if the relief sought includes a declaration of incompatibility² or damages in respect of a judicial act³;
- 705 (4) where the relief sought includes a declaration of incompatibility, give precise details of the legislative provision alleged to be incompatible and details of the alleged incompatibility;
- 706 (5) where the claim is founded on a finding of unlawfulness by another court or tribunal, give details of the finding; and
- 707 (6) where the claim is founded on a judicial act which is alleged to have infringed a Convention right of the party⁴, give details of the judicial act complained of and the court or tribunal which is alleged to have made it⁵.

A party who seeks to amend his statement of case to include any such matters must, unless the court⁶ orders otherwise, do so as soon as possible⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'Convention rights' see the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1; and JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 651; CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

2 In accordance with the Human Rights Act 1998 s 4: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. No such declaration may be made unless 21 days' notice, or such other period of notice as the court directs, has been given to the Crown: CPR 19.4A(1). Where such notice has been given, a minister or other person permitted by the Human Rights Act 1998 must be joined as a party on giving notice to the court: CPR 19.4A(2). Where the appropriate person has not applied to be joined as a party within 21 days, or such other period as the court directs, after the notice is served, the court may join the appropriate person as a party: CPR 19.4A(4). Such notice must be served on the person named in the list published under the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 17 and annexed to Practice Direction--Crown Proceedings PD 66: Practice Direction--Addition and Substitution of Parties PD 19A para 6.4(1). The court may consider at any time whether notice should be given to the Crown and give directions for the content and service of the notice, but will normally do so at the case management conference: paras 6.1, 6.2. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 In relation to which the Human Rights Act 1998 s 9(3) applies: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. See also CPR 19.4A(3)(a). Notice must be given to the Crown: CPR 19.4A(3)(b). Such notice must be given to the Lord Chancellor and served on the Treasury Solicitor on his behalf, unless the judicial act is of a court-martial when the appropriate person is the Secretary of State for Defence and the notice must be served on the Treasury Solicitor on his behalf: Practice Direction--Addition and Substitution of Parties PD 19A para 6.6(2).

4 In accordance with the Human Rights Act 1998 s 9: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. See also note 3.

5 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 15.1.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 15.2. Where a party amends his statement of case to include any such matter, then the court will consider whether notice should be given to the Crown and give directions for the content and service of the notice: Practice Direction--Addition and Substitution of Parties PD 19A para 6.3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/597. Statement of case where party wishes to rely on finding made by Office of Fair Trading.

597. Statement of case where party wishes to rely on finding made by Office of Fair Trading.

A party who wishes to rely on a finding of the Office of Fair Trading as provided by the Competition Act 1998¹ must include in his statement of case a statement to that effect and identify the Office's finding on which he seeks to rely².

1 le as provided by the Competition Act 1999 s 58: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 148.

2 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 14.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/598. Statement of case in probate claim.

598. Statement of case in probate claim.

The claim form in a probate claim¹ must contain a statement of the nature of the interest of the claimant and of each defendant in the estate². If a party disputes another party's interest in the estate he must state this in his statement of case and set out his reasons³.

Any party who contends that at the time when a will⁴ was executed the testator did not know of and approve its contents must give particulars of the facts and matters relied on⁵.

Any party who wishes to contend that:

- 708 (1) a will was not duly executed;
- 709 (2) at the time of the execution of a will the testator lacked testamentary capacity; or
- 710 (3) the execution of a will was obtained by undue influence or fraud, must set out the contention specifically and give particulars of the facts and matters relied on⁶.

A defendant may give notice in his defence that he does not raise any positive case, but insists on the will being proved in solemn form and, for that purpose, will cross-examine the witnesses who attested the will⁷. If he gives such a notice, the court will not make an order for costs against him unless it considers that there was no reasonable ground for opposing the will⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'probate claim' means a claim for (1) the grant of probate of the will, or letters of administration of the estate, of a deceased person; (2) the revocation of such a grant; or (3) a decree pronouncing for or against the validity of an alleged will, not being a claim which is non-contentious (or common form) probate business as defined in the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 128 (ie the business of obtaining probate and administration where there is no contention as to the right thereto, including the passing of probates and administrations through the High Court in contentious cases where the contest has been terminated, all business of a non-contentious nature in matters of testacy and intestacy not being proceedings in any claim, and the business of lodging caveats against the grant of probate or administration): CPR 57.1(2)(a). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. See O'Brien v Seagrave [2007] EWHC 788 (Ch), [2007] 3 All ER 633, [2007] 1 WLR 2002; and see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

2 CPR 57.7(1). As to the meanings of 'claimant' and 'defendant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 57.7(2).

4 'Will' includes a codicil: CPR 57.1(2)(d). See further WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 251.

5 CPR 57.7(3).

6 CPR 57.7(4).

7 CPR 57.7(5)(a). As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

8 CPR 57.7(5)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/599. Contents of defence; in general.

599. Contents of defence; in general.

In his defence, the defendant¹ must state:

- 711 (1) which of the allegations in the particulars of claim he denies²;
- 712 (2) which allegations he is unable to admit or deny, but which he requires the claimant³ to prove⁴; and
- 713 (3) which allegations he admits⁵.

Where the defendant denies an allegation he must state his reasons for doing so⁶ and if he intends to put forward a different version of events from that given by the claimant, he must state his own version⁷.

Subject as follows, a defendant who fails to deal with an allegation is to be taken to admit that allegation⁸. A defendant who fails to deal with an allegation, but has set out in his defence the nature of his case in relation to the issue to which that allegation is relevant, must be taken to require that allegation to be proved⁹. Where the claim includes a money claim, a defendant must be taken to require that any allegation relating to the amount of money claimed be proved, unless he expressly admits the allegation¹⁰.

If the defendant disputes the claimant's statement of value¹¹ he must state why he disputes it¹² and, if he is able, give his own statement of the value of the claim¹³. If he is defending in a representative capacity, he must state what that capacity is¹⁴ and if he has not filed¹⁵ an acknowledgment of service¹⁶, he must give an address for service¹⁷. He must also give details of the expiry of any relevant limitation period relied on¹⁸. Where a defendant is an individual, he must provide his date of birth (if known) in the defence¹⁹.

A defence must be verified by a statement of truth²⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 CPR 16.5(1)(a).

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 CPR 16.5(1)(b).

5 CPR 16.5(1)(c).

6 CPR 16.5(2)(a).

7 CPR 16.5(2)(b).

8 CPR 16.5(5).

9 CPR 16.5(3).

10 CPR 16.5(4).

11 Ie under CPR 16.3: see PARA 586.

12 CPR 16.5(6)(a).

13 CPR 16.5(6)(b).

14 CPR 16.5(7). As to representative parties see PARAS 229-231.

15 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

16 Ie under CPR Pt 10: see PARAS 184, 186.

17 CPR 16.5(8). An address for service must be within the United Kingdom: see CPR 6.23; and PARA 143. Where the defendant is an individual, and the claim form does not contain an address at which he resides or carries on business, or contains an incorrect address, the defendant must provide such an address in the defence: Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 10.4. He must still provide the address so required if his address for service is not where he resides or carries on business: see para 10.5. Any address which is provided for the purpose of these provisions must include a postcode, unless the court orders otherwise: para 10.6. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

18 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 14.1. As to limitation periods see generally LIMITATION PERIODS.

19 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 10.7. He must also provide the date of birth in the acknowledgment of service, admission, defence and counterclaim, reply or other response: para 10.7.

20 See CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613. The form of the statement of truth is as follows: '[I believe][the defendant believes] that the facts stated in the defence are true.': Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 12.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/600. Defence of tender before claim.

600. Defence of tender before claim.

Where a defendant wishes to rely on a defence of tender before claim¹ he must make a payment into court of the amount he says was tendered². If the defendant does not make a payment into court the defence of tender before claim will not be available to him until he does so³.

1 'Defence of tender before claim' is a defence that, before the claimant started proceedings, the defendant unconditionally offered to the claimant the amount due or, if no specified amount is claimed, an amount sufficient to satisfy the claim: CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31. As to the meanings of 'claimant' and 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 CPR 37.2(1).

3 CPR 37.2(2). As to CPR Pt 37 see PARA 1553 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/601. Defence of set-off.

601. Defence of set-off.

Where a defendant¹ contends he is entitled to money from the claimant² and relies on this as a defence to the whole or part of the claim, the contention may be included in the defence and set off against the claim³.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 16.6. This applies whether or not the defence is also an additional claim: CPR 16.6. As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618; and as to such claims see PARA 618 et seq. As to set-off in general see PARA 634 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/602. Contents of defence in personal injury claim.

602. Contents of defence in personal injury claim.

Where the claim is for personal injuries¹ and the claimant² has attached a medical report in respect of his alleged injuries³, the defendant⁴ must:

- 714 (1) state in his defence whether he agrees, disputes, or neither agrees nor disputes but has no knowledge of, the matters contained in the medical report;
- 715 (2) where he disputes any part of the medical report, give in his defence his reasons for doing so; and
- 716 (3) where he has obtained his own medical report on which he intends to rely, attach it to his defence⁵.

Where the claim is for personal injuries and the claimant has included a schedule of past and future expenses and losses⁶, the defendant must include in or attach to his defence a counter-schedule stating which of those items he agrees, disputes, or neither agrees nor disputes but has no knowledge of and, where any items are disputed, supplying alternative figures where appropriate⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'claim for personal injuries' see PARA 19.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 le as required by Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.3: see PARA 591 text and note 4.

4 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 12.1.

6 le as required by Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 4.2: see PARA 591 text and note 3.

7 Practice Direction--Statements of Case PD 16 para 12.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/603. Contents of defence in defamation claim.

603. Contents of defence in defamation claim.

Where a defendant¹ alleges:

- 717 (1) that the words complained of are true, he must specify the defamatory meanings he seeks to justify and give details of the matters on which he relies in support of that allegation²;
- 718 (2) that the words complained of are fair comment on a matter of public interest, he must specify the defamatory meaning he seeks to defend as fair comment on a matter of public interest and give details of the matters on which he relies in support of that allegation³;
- 719 (3) that the words complained of were published on a privileged occasion, he must specify the circumstances he relies on in support of that contention⁴.

A defendant who relies on an offer to make amends⁵ as his defence must state in his defence that he is relying on the offer⁶ and that it has not been withdrawn by him or been accepted⁷. He must attach a copy of the offer he made with his defence⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.5. As to the defence of justification see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 82 et seq.

3 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.6. As to the defence of fair comment see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 135 et seq.

4 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.7. As to the defences of absolute privilege and qualified privilege see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 94 et seq.

5 Id under the Defamation Act 1996 s 2: see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 160.

6 Id in accordance with the Defamation Act 1996 s 2 s 4: see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 163.

7 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.11(1).

8 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.11(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/604. Reply to defence.

604. Reply to defence.

A claimant¹ who does not file² a reply to the defence will not be taken to admit the matters raised in the defence³. A claimant who files a reply to a defence but fails to deal with a matter raised in the defence will be taken to require that matter to be proved⁴.

If a claimant files a reply to the defence, he must file his reply when he files his allocation questionnaire and serve his reply on the other parties at the same time as he files it⁵.

A reply must be verified by a statement of truth⁶.

A party may not file or serve any statement of case after a reply without the permission of the court⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

3 CPR 16.7(1).

4 CPR 16.7(2).

5 CPR 15.8. As to filing allocation questionnaires and the period for doing so see CPR 26.3(6); and PARA 263. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

6 See CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613 et seq.

7 CPR 15.9. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/605. Contents of reply in defamation claim.

605. Contents of reply in defamation claim.

Where a defendant¹ alleges that the words complained of are true², or are fair comment on a matter of public interest³, the claimant⁴ must serve a reply specifically admitting or denying the allegation and giving the facts on which he relies⁵. If the defendant contends that any of the words or matters are fair comment on a matter of public interest, or were published on a privileged occasion⁶, and the claimant intends to allege that the defendant acted with malice⁷, the claimant must serve a reply giving details of the facts or matters relied on⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the defence of justification see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 82 et seq.

3 As to the defence of fair comment see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 135 et seq.

4 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

5 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.8. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

6 As to the defences of absolute privilege and qualified privilege see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 94 et seq.

7 As to defences defeated by malice see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 149 et seq.

8 Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.9.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(1) STATEMENTS OF CASE/606. Court's power to dispense with statements of case.

606. Court's power to dispense with statements of case.

If a claim form has been issued¹ and served², the court³ may make an order that the claim will continue without any other statement of case⁴.

1 In accordance with CPR 7.2: see PARA 118.

2 In accordance with CPR 7.5: see PARA 120. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 16.8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(2) AMENDMENTS TO STATEMENTS OF CASE/607. Amendments to statements of case; in general.

(2) AMENDMENTS TO STATEMENTS OF CASE

607. Amendments to statements of case; in general.

A party may amend his statement of case¹ at any time before it has been served² on any other party³. If his statement of case has been served, a party may amend it only with the written consent of all the other parties⁴ or with the permission of the court⁵.

Amendments to a statement of case must be verified by a statement of truth unless the court orders otherwise⁶.

1 Amendments to statements of case must be indorsed with a statement as to any necessary permission: see Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 2.1. The statement of case in its amended form need not show the original text. However, where the court thinks it desirable for both the original text and the amendments to be shown, the court may direct that the amendments should be shown either (1) by coloured amendments, either manuscript or computer generated; or (2) by use of a numerical code in a monochrome computer generated document: para 2.2. Where colour is used, the text to be deleted should be struck through in colour and any text replacing it should be inserted or underlined in the same colour: para 2.3. The order of colours to be used for successive amendments is: (a) red; (b) green; (c) violet; and (d) yellow: para 2.4.

2 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 CPR 17.1(1).

4 CPR 17.1(2)(a).

5 CPR 17.1(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. If a statement of case has been served, an application to amend it by removing, adding or substituting a party must be made in accordance with CPR 19.4 (see PARA 214): CPR 17.1(3). As to when an appeal may be granted against a refusal to amend a statement of case where some of the proposed amendments have been adjudicated on and some have not see Convergence Group plc v Chantrey Vellacott (a firm)[2005] EWCA Civ 290, (2005) Times, 25 April. In deciding whether to grant permission to amend a statement of case where the effect of the amendment sought would be to withdraw an admission made in an earlier statement of case, the court should have regard to the relative prejudice which would be suffered by each party if the admission was (or was not) withdrawn: White (for and on behalf of the members of Equity Red Star Syndicate No 0218 at Lloyds) v Greensand Homes Ltd[2007] EWCA Civ 643, [2007] BLR 313. As to refusal of leave to amend see eg Les Laboratoires Servier v Apotex Inc[2008] EWHC 2347 (Ch), [2008] All ER (D) 79 (Oct).

6 See CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613.

UPDATE

607 Amendments to statements of case; in general

NOTE 5--Apotex, cited, reported at [2009] IP & T 600.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(2) AMENDMENTS TO STATEMENTS OF CASE/608. Court's power to disallow amendments made without permission.

608. Court's power to disallow amendments made without permission.

If a party has amended his statement of case¹ where permission of the court was not required², the court may disallow the amendment³. A party may apply to the court for an order under this provision within 14 days of service⁴ of a copy of the amended statement of case on him⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584.

2 This may be done at any time before the statement of case is served on any other party, or afterwards with the agreement of all parties: see PARA 607. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 17.2(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq.

5 CPR 17.2(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(2) AMENDMENTS TO STATEMENTS OF CASE/609. Amendments to statements of case with court's permission.

609. Amendments to statements of case with court's permission.

When making an application to amend a statement of case¹, the applicant must file with the court² the application notice and a copy of the statement of case with the proposed amendments³. The application may be dealt with either at or without⁴ a hearing⁵.

Where the court gives permission for a party to amend his statement of case, it may give directions as to amendments to be made to any other statement of case and as to service of any amended statement of case⁶. Where permission to amend has been given, the applicant must file with the court the amended statement of case within 14 days⁷ of the date of the order, or within such other period as the court may direct⁸. A copy of the order and the amended statement of case must be served on every party to the proceedings, unless the court orders otherwise⁹.

If the substance of the statement of case is changed by reason of the amendment, the statement of case must be re-verified by a statement of truth¹⁰.

1 Such application is required if the amendment is sought after the statement of case has been served on another party and all the parties do not agree to the proposed amendment: see PARA 607. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. A claimant may at the court's discretion be permitted to make an amendment to a statement of case in the form of the resurrection of a claim included in the claim form but omitted from the particulars of claim: British Credit Trust Holdings v UK Insurance Ltd [2003] EWHC 2404 (Comm), [2004] 1 All ER (Comm) 444.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

3 Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.2.

4 Ie if CPR 23.8 (see PARA 308) applies: Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.1.

5 Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.1.

6 CPR 17.3(1). Conditions were imposed on permission to amend a claim under this provision in eg SX Holdings Ltd v Synchronet Ltd [2000] All ER (D) 1330, CA. Amendment was permitted and upheld where a claim had been brought under the wrong statutory provisions in Thurrock Borough Council v Secretary of State for the Environment, Transport and the Regions [2000] All ER (D) 2258, (2000) Times, 20 December, CA. Application to amend a defence under this provision was refused in eg Strongway Nominees Ltd v Pallett [2000] All ER (D) 314. The court's power to give permission under CPR 17.3 is subject to (1) CPR 19.1 (change of parties; general: see PARA 210); (2) CPR 19.4 (special provisions about adding or substituting parties after the end of a relevant limitation period: see PARA 214); and (3) CPR 17.4 (amendments of statement of case after the end of a relevant limitation period: see PARA 610): CPR 17.3(2). As to the meaning of 'limitation period' see PARA 213 note 1.

7 As to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq.

8 Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.3.

9 Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.5.

10 Practice Direction--Amendments to Statements of Case PD 17 para 1.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(2) AMENDMENTS TO STATEMENTS OF CASE/610. Amendments to statements of case after the end of the limitation period.

610. Amendments to statements of case after the end of the limitation period.

Where a party applies to amend his statement of case¹ in one of the ways mentioned below² and a period of limitation³ has expired⁴, the court⁵ may allow an amendment:

- 720 (1) whose effect will be to add or substitute a new claim, but only if the new claim arises out of the same facts or substantially the same facts as a claim in respect of which the party applying for permission has already claimed a remedy in the proceedings⁶;
- 721 (2) to correct a mistake as to the name of a party, but only where the mistake was genuine and not one which would cause reasonable doubt as to the identity of the party in question⁷;
- 722 (3) to alter the capacity in which a party claims, if the new capacity is one which that party had when the proceedings started or has since acquired⁸.

¹ As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584. As to applications to amend the statement of case see PARA 609.

² ie in one of the ways mentioned in CPR 17.4(2)-(4): see heads (1)-(3) in the text.

³ As to the meaning of 'limitation period' see PARA 213 note 1.

⁴ ie under the Limitation Act 1980, the Foreign Limitation Periods Act 1984 or any other enactment which allows such an amendment, or under which such an amendment is allowed: CPR 17.4(1)(b). See generally LIMITATION PERIODS.

⁵ As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

⁶ CPR 17.4(1), (2). Amendment was permitted under this provision in eg Kuwait Airways Corp v Iraqi Airways Co [2001] All ER (D) 184 (May) by Langley J but refused in eg First Roodhill Leasing Ltd v Gillingham Operating Co Ltd [2001] NPC 109, [2001] All ER (D) 65 (Jul) by Lightman J. In deciding whether an amendment actually constitutes a new cause of action, it is necessary to compare pleadings before and after the amendment: Savings and Investment Bank Ltd (in liquidation) v Fincken [2001] EWCA Civ 1639, (2001) Times, 15 November. See also P & O Nedlloyd BV v Arab Metals Co, The UB Tiger [2006] EWCA Civ 1300, [2007] 1 WLR 2483; and ED & F Man Sugar Ltd v Lendoudis [2007] EWHC 2268 (Comm), [2008] 1 All ER 952. For an interpretation of CPR 17.4(2) in the light of the Human Rights Act 1998 s 3(1) see Goode v Martin [2001] EWCA Civ 1899, [2002] 1 All ER 620, [2002] 1 WLR 1828.

⁷ CPR 17.4(1), (3). The judge's permission to amend a statement of case under this provision was upheld in eg Gregson v Channel Four Television Corp [2000] All ER (D) 956, (2000) Times, 11 August, CA; applied in Morgan Est (Scotland) Ltd v Hanson Concrete Products Ltd [2005] EWCA Civ 134, [2005] 3 All ER 135, [2005] 1 WLR 2557 (see PARA 215). See also ABB Asea Brown Boveri Ltd v Hiscox Dedicated Corporate Member Ltd, ABB Asea Brown Boveri Ltd v Jardine Lloyd Thompson Ltd [2007] EWHC 1150 (Comm), [2007] All ER (D) 259 (May). Where the nature of a claim is wrongly inserted on a claim form caused by a pure administrative error, the court may exercise its general discretion in order to achieve justice, even where the limitation period has expired: Evans v CIG Mon Cymru Ltd [2008] EWCA Civ 390, [2008] 1 WLR 2675, [2008] PIQR P312.

⁸ CPR 17.4(1), (4). Where a claimant had cured a defect in her standing to bring proceedings by taking an assignment of her trustee in bankruptcy's interest and right in the cause of action, this was not an alteration in capacity so as to bring her within CPR 17.4(4), since she brought the claim in her personal capacity both before and after the assignment: see Haq v Singh [2001] EWCA Civ 957, [2001] 1 WLR 1594, CA. As to the circumstances in which the court may allow a new party to be added or substituted after the end of a relevant limitation period see CPR 19.5; and PARA 215.

UPDATE

610 Amendments to statements of case after the end of the limitation period

NOTE 6--See also Lombard North Central plc v Automobile World (UK) Ltd [2010] EWCA Civ 20, [2010] All ER (D) 166 (Jan) (amendment to case put forward only in final submissions deemed to late).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(3) FURTHER INFORMATION/611. Obtaining further information.

(3) FURTHER INFORMATION

611. Obtaining further information.

Subject to any rule of law to the contrary¹, the court² may at any time order a party to clarify any matter which is in dispute in the proceedings or give additional information in relation to any such matter, whether or not the matter is contained, or referred to, in a statement of case³.

Before applying for such an order, the party seeking clarification or information should first serve on the party from whom it is sought a written request for that clarification or information stating a date by which the response to the request should be served; the date must allow the second party a reasonable time to respond⁴. The request should be concise and strictly confined to matters which are reasonably necessary and proportionate in order to enable the requesting party to prepare his case or to understand the case he has to meet⁵.

A response to a request must be in writing, dated and signed by the party from whom the information is sought or his legal representative⁶. Where the request is made in a letter the response may be given by letter or in a formal reply⁷. A second or supplementary response to a request must identify itself as such in its heading⁸. The party responding must, when he serves his response on the party who made the request, serve on every other party and file with the court a copy of the request and of his response⁹.

A response must be verified by a statement of truth¹⁰.

If the party requested to provide the information objects to complying with the request or part of it or is unable to do so at all or within the time stated in the request he must inform the first party promptly and in any event within that time¹¹. Where a party requested to provide information considers that the request can only be complied with at disproportionate expense and objects to complying for that reason he should say so in his reply and explain briefly why he has taken that view¹². It is then for the requesting party to apply to the court for an order requiring the other party to provide the further information¹³.

An application notice for an order under these provisions must set out or have attached to it the text of the order sought and in particular must specify the matter or matters in respect of which the clarification or information is sought¹⁴. If a request for the information or clarification has not been made, the application notice must, in addition, explain why not¹⁵, while if such a request has been made, the application notice or the evidence in support should describe the response, if any¹⁶. Both the requesting party and the responding party must consider whether evidence in support of or in opposition to the application is required¹⁷.

Where the party from whom the information was requested has made no response to a request served on him, the requesting party need not serve the application notice on him, and the court may deal with the application without a hearing¹⁸. Otherwise the application notice must be served on that party and on all other parties to the claim¹⁹.

Where the court makes such an order, the party against whom it is made must file his response and serve it on the other parties, within the time specified by the court²⁰.

¹ Eg under the Contempt of Court Act 1981, no court may require a person to disclose, nor is any person guilty of contempt of court for refusing to disclose, the source of information contained in a publication for which he is responsible, unless it be established to the satisfaction of the court that disclosure is necessary in the interests of justice or national security or for the prevention of disorder or crime: see s 10; and CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 408. See also note 3.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 18.1(1), (2). In defamation claims, however, unless the court orders otherwise, a party will not be required to provide further information about the defendant's sources of information: see CPR 53.3.

4 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 1.1. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. Subject to the provisions of CPR 6.23(5), (6) and Practice Direction--Service PD 6A paras 4.1-4.3 (see PARA 144), a request should be served by e-mail if reasonably practicable: Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 1.7.

5 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 1.2. Requests must be made as far as possible in a single comprehensive document and not piecemeal: para 1.3. A request may be made by letter if the text of the request is brief and the reply is likely to be brief; otherwise the request should be made in a separate document: para 1.4. If a request is made in a letter, the letter must, in order to distinguish it from any other that might routinely be written in the course of a case, state that it contains a request made under CPR Pt 18, and deal with no matters other than the request: Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 1.5. A request which is not in the form of a letter may, if convenient, be prepared in such a way that the response may be given on the same document, with the numbered paragraphs of the request on the left hand half of each sheet so that the paragraphs of the response may then appear on the right. Where a request is prepared in this form an extra copy should be served for the use of the party from whom the information is sought: para 1.6(2). Whether made by letter or in a separate document, a request must (1) be headed with the name of the court and the title and number of the claim; (2) in its heading state that it is a request made under CPR Pt 18, identify the first party and the second party and state the date on which it is made; (3) set out in a separate numbered paragraph each request for information or clarification; (4) where a request relates to a document, identify that document and (if relevant) the paragraph or words to which it relates; and (5) state the date by which the requesting party expects a response to the request: para 1.6(1).

6 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 2.1. As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

7 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 2.2(1). Such a letter should identify itself as a response to the request and deal with no other matters than the response: para 2.2(2). Unless the request is in the format described in para 1.6(2) (see note 5) and the party responding uses the document supplied for the purpose, a response must (1) be headed with the name of the court and the title and number of the claim; (2) in its heading identify itself as a response to that request; (3) repeat the text of each separate paragraph of the request and set out under each paragraph the response to it; and (4) refer to and have attached to it a copy of any document not already in the possession of the party requesting the information which forms part of the response: see para 2.3(1).

8 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 2.3(2).

9 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 2.4. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

10 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 3; CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613.

11 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 4.1(1). He may do so in a letter or in a separate document (a formal response), but in either case he must give reasons and, where relevant, give a date by which he expects to be able to comply: para 4.1(2). There is no need for him to apply to the court in these circumstances: para 4.2(1).

12 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 4.2(2).

13 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.

14 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.2.

15 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.3(1).

16 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.3(2).

17 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.4.

18 See Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.5(1). This applies only if at least 14 days have passed since the request was served and the time stated in it for a response has expired: para 5.5(2).

19 Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.6.

20 CPR 18.1(3). The response must be verified by a statement of truth: see the text and note 10. The judge's exercise of his discretion under CPR 18(1) will only rarely be reviewable on appeal: see Toussaint v Mattis [2000] All ER (D) 709, CA. Where the court makes an order which does not mention costs (1) the general rule is that no party is entitled to costs or to seek an order under the Legal Services Act 2007 s 194(3) for a payment to the prescribed charity in respect of pro bono representation (see PARA 1824) relating to the order; but (2) this does not affect any entitlement of a party to recover costs out of a fund held by that party as trustee or personal representative, or pursuant to any lease, mortgage or other security: CPR 44.13(1); Practice Direction--Further Information PD 18 para 5.8(2). 'Pro bono representation' means legal representation provided free of charge (CPR 43.2(1)(q)); 'free of charge' has the same meaning as in the Legal Services Act 2007 s 194(10) (ie otherwise than for or in expectation of fee, gain or reward) (CPR 43.2(1)(p)); and 'prescribed charity' has the same meaning as in the Legal Services Act 2007 s 194(8) (ie the charity prescribed by order made by the Lord Chancellor) (CPR 43.2(1)(r)). Where the court makes (a) an order granting permission to appeal; (b) an order granting permission to apply for judicial review; or (c) any other order or direction sought by a party on an application without notice, and its order does not mention costs, it will be deemed to include an order for applicant's costs in the case: CPR 44.13(1A). Any party affected by a deemed order for costs under CPR 44.13(1A) may apply at any time to vary the order: CPR 44.13(1B).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(3) FURTHER INFORMATION/612. Restriction on the use of further information.

612. Restriction on the use of further information.

The court¹ may direct that information provided by a party to another party² must not be used for any purpose except for that of the proceedings in which it is given³.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Ie whether given voluntarily or following an order made under CPR 18.1 (see PARA 611): see CPR 18.2.

3 CPR 18.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(4) STATEMENTS OF TRUTH/613. Documents to be verified by a statement of truth.

(4) STATEMENTS OF TRUTH

613. Documents to be verified by a statement of truth.

The following documents must be verified by a statement of truth:

- 723 (1) a statement of case¹;
- 724 (2) a response complying with an order² to provide further information³;
- 725 (3) a witness statement⁴;
- 726 (4) an acknowledgment of service in a claim begun by way of the Part 8 procedure⁵;
- 727 (5) a certificate stating the reasons for bringing a possession claim or a landlord and tenant claim in the High Court⁶;
- 728 (6) a certificate of service⁷;
- 729 (7) any other document where a rule or practice direction requires⁸;
- 730 (8) an application notice, if an applicant wishes to rely on matters set out therein as evidence⁹;
- 731 (9) an expert's report¹⁰;
- 732 (10) a notice of objections to an account being taken by the court, unless the notice is verified by an affidavit or a witness statement¹¹; and
- 733 (11) a schedule or counter-schedule of expenses and losses in a personal injury claim, and any amendments to such a schedule or counter-schedule, whether or not they are contained in a statement of case¹².

Where a statement of case is amended, the amendments must be verified by a statement of truth unless the court orders otherwise¹³.

Subject as follows, a statement of truth is a statement that the party putting forward the document or, in the case of a witness statement, the maker of the witness statement or, in the case of a certificate of service, the person who signs the certificate, believes the facts stated in the document are true¹⁴. If a party is conducting proceedings with a litigation friend¹⁵, the statement of truth in a statement of case, a response or an application notice is a statement that the litigation friend believes the facts stated in the document being verified are true¹⁶.

The statement of truth may be contained in the document it verifies or it may be in a separate document served subsequently, in which case it must clearly identify the document to which it relates¹⁷. The statement of truth must be signed:

- 734 (a) in the case of a statement of case, a response or an application, by the party or litigation friend or the legal representative¹⁸ on behalf of the party or litigation friend¹⁹;
- 735 (b) in the case of a witness statement, by the maker of the statement²⁰; and
- 736 (c) in the case of a notice of objections to an account, by the objecting party or his legal representative²¹.

A statement of truth in a statement of case may be made by a person who is not a party, or by two parties jointly, where this is permitted by a relevant practice direction²². Special provision is made for where a document containing a statement of truth is to be signed by a person who is unable to read or sign the document²³.

- 1 CPR 22.1(1)(a). As to the documents contained in a statement of case see PARA 584. The form of a statement of truth verifying a statement of case, a response, an application notice or a notice of objections (see heads (1), (2), (6), (8) in the text) must be: 'I believe'[the (claimant or as the case may be) believes] that the facts stated in this (name document being verified) are true.': Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 2.1. A claimant may not verify a claim which includes inconsistent statements, but may amend a statement of case to present alternative claims: Clarke v Marlborough Fine Art (London) Ltd [2002] 1 WLR 1731; approved in Binks v Securicor Omega Express Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 993, [2003] 1 WLR 2557.
- 2 Ie under CPR 18.1: see PARA 611.
- 3 CPR 22.1(1)(b).
- 4 CPR 22.1(1)(c). The form of a statement of truth verifying a witness statement must be: 'I believe that facts stated in this witness statement are true.': Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 2.2. As to witness statements see CPR 32.4(1); and PARA 982.
- 5 CPR 22.1(1)(d). As to the Part 8 procedure (the alternative procedure for claims) see PARA 127 et seq.
- 6 Ie in accordance with CPR 55.3(2) and 56.2(2): CPR 22.1(1)(e). See LANDLORD AND TENANT.
- 7 CPR 22.1(1)(f). As to certificates of service see PARA 154.
- 8 CPR 22.1(1)(g).
- 9 CPR 22.1(3); Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.2. In addition the application notice for a third party debt order (see CPR 72.3; and PARA 1417), a hardship payment order (see CPR 72.7; and PARA 1423), or a charging order (see CPR 73.3; and PARA 1472) must be verified by a statement of truth: Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.4(1). See Forms N244 Pt C, PF244 Pt C in The Civil Court Practice.
- 10 See Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.3; CPR Pt 35; and PARA 839.
- 11 See Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.4(2); Practice Direction--Accounts, Inquiries etc PD 40A para 3.3; and PARA 1526. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.
- 12 See Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.4(3).
- 13 CPR 22.1(2). As to amendments to statements of case see CPR Pt 17; and PARAS 607-610.
- 14 CPR 22.1(4).
- 15 As to the meaning of 'litigation friend' see PARA 222.
- 16 CPR 22.1(5).
- 17 See CPR 22.1(7); Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 1.5. Where the form to be used includes a jurat for the content to be verified by an affidavit then a statement of truth is not required in addition: para 1.6. Where the statement of truth is contained in a separate document, the document containing the statement of truth must be headed with the title of the proceedings and the claim number: para 2.3. As to the method by which the document being verified must be identified in the statement of truth see para 2.3(1)-(5).
- 18 The statement signed by the legal representative will refer to the client's belief, not his own. In signing he must state the capacity in which he signs and the name of his firm where appropriate: Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3.7. His signature will be taken by the court as his statement (1) that the client on whose behalf he has signed had authorised him to do so; (2) that before signing he had explained to the client that in signing the statement of truth he would be confirming the client's belief that the facts stated in the document were true; and (3) that before signing he had informed the client of the possible consequences to the client if it should subsequently appear that the client did not have an honest belief in the truth of those facts (see CPR 32.14; and PARAS 988): Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3.8. A legal representative who signs a statement of truth must sign in his own name and not that of his firm or employer: para 3.10. In the case of a company or corporation, the position regarding in-house legal representatives is as follows: a legal representative employed by a party may sign a statement of truth; however a person who is not a solicitor, barrister or other authorised litigator, but who is employed by the company and is managed by such a person, is not employed by that person and so cannot sign a statement of truth (unlike the employee of a solicitor in private practice who would come within the statutory definition of legal representative), but such a person may be a manager and able to sign the statement on behalf of the company in that capacity: see para 3.11. See further note 15. As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

19 CPR 22.1(6)(a). Where a document is to be verified on behalf of a company or other corporation, then subject to Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3.7 (see note 14), the statement of truth must be signed by a person holding a senior position in the company or corporation. That person must state the office or position he holds: para 3.4. Each of the following persons is a person holding a senior position for these purposes: (1) in respect of a registered company or corporation, a director, the treasurer, secretary, chief executive, manager or other officer of the company or corporation; and (2) in respect of a corporation which is not a registered company, in addition to those persons set out in head (1), the mayor, chairman, president or town clerk or other similar officer of the corporation: para 3.5. Such persons are expected to have personal knowledge of the content of the document or to be responsible for managing those who have that knowledge: see para 3.11. Where the document is to be verified on behalf of a partnership, those who may sign the statement of truth are (a) any of the partners; or (b) a person having the control or management of the partnership business: para 3.6. An insurer or the Motor Insurers' Bureau may sign a statement of truth in a statement of case on behalf of a party where the insurer or the Motor Insurers' Bureau has a financial interest in the result of proceedings brought wholly or partially by or against that party: para 3.6A. For examples of how these rules might be applied in practice see para 3.11, which is not, however, an indication of how a court might apply the practice direction to a specific situation. If insurers are conducting proceedings on behalf of many claimants or defendants a statement of truth in a statement of case may be signed by a senior person responsible for the case at a lead insurer, but (i) the person signing must specify the capacity in which he signs; (ii) the statement of truth must be a statement that the lead insurer believes that the facts stated in the document are true; and (iii) the court may order that a statement of truth also be signed by one or more of the parties: para 3.6B.

The individual who signs a statement of truth must print his full name clearly beneath his signature: para 3.9.

As to the importance of statements of truth see the concluding observations of Ferris J in WPP Group plc v Reichmann[2000] All ER (D) 1409.

20 CPR 22.1(6)(b).

21 Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3.3.

22 CPR 22.1(8); and see notes 16-17.

23 See Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3.A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(4) STATEMENTS OF TRUTH/614. Failure to verify a statement of case.

614. Failure to verify a statement of case.

If a party fails to verify his statement of case¹ by a statement of truth² the statement of case will remain effective unless struck out³ but the party may not rely on the statement of case as evidence of any of the matters set out in it⁴. The court⁵ may strike out a statement of case which is not verified by a statement of truth⁶ and any party may apply for such an order striking out the statement of case unless it is verified by the service⁷ of a statement of truth within such period as the court may specify⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584.

2 As to statements of truth see PARA 613.

3 CPR 22.2(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'striking out' see PARA 218 note 2. As to striking out a statement of case see further PARA 520.

4 CPR 22.2(1)(b).

5 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

6 CPR 22.2(2).

7 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

8 CPR 22.2(3); Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 4.2. The usual order for the costs of such an application will be that the costs be paid by the party who had failed to verify in any event and forthwith: para 4.3. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(4) STATEMENTS OF TRUTH/615. Failure to verify a witness statement.

615. Failure to verify a witness statement.

If the maker of a witness statement¹ fails to verify the witness statement by a statement of truth² the court³ may direct that it is not to be admissible as evidence⁴.

1 As to witness statements see CPR 32.4(1); and PARA 982.

2 As to statements of truth see PARA 613.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 22.3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(4) STATEMENTS OF TRUTH/616. Power of the court to require a document to be verified.

616. Power of the court to require a document to be verified.

The court¹ may order a person who has failed to verify a document by a statement of truth² to verify the document³. Any party may apply for such an order⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Ie in accordance with CPR 22.1: see PARA 613.

3 CPR 22.4(1).

4 CPR 22.4(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(5) SET-OFF/617. Set-off in general.

(5) SET-OFF

617. Set-off in general.

Where the defendant¹ claims that the claimant² is indebted to him, he may be entitled to raise the defence of set-off³. Thus, where the defendant's cross-claim consists of a money claim, he may be entitled to deduct the amount of his cross-claim from the claim, or to extinguish the claim altogether, or to establish a right to an excess over the claim. The right of set-off is dealt with elsewhere in this title⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 See CPR 16.6; and PARA 601.

4 See PARA 634 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/618. Counterclaims and other additional claims; in general.

(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS

618. Counterclaims and other additional claims; in general.

An additional claim (formerly known as a 'Part 20 claim'¹) is any claim other than a claim made by a claimant against a defendant² and includes:

- 737 (1) a counterclaim³ by a defendant against the claimant or against the claimant and some other person⁴;
- 738 (2) an additional claim by a defendant against any person (whether or not already a party) for a contribution⁵ or an indemnity⁶ or some other remedy⁷; and
- 739 (3) where an additional claim has been made against a person who is not already a party, any claim made by that person against any other person (whether or not already a party)⁸.

The purpose of Part 20 of the Civil Procedure Rules is to enable counterclaims and other additional claims to be managed in the most convenient and effective manner⁹.

¹ le before the substitution of CPR Pt 20 by the Civil Procedure (Amendment) (No 4) Rules 2005, SI 2005/3515. There are still some references to Part 20 claims in the Civil Procedure Rules and in some forms.

² CPR 20.2(2)(a). Unless the context requires otherwise, references to a claimant or defendant include a party bringing or defending an additional claim: CPR 20.2(2)(b).

³ A counterclaim is a claim brought by a defendant in response to the claimant's claim, which is included in the same proceedings as the claimant's claim: CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the meanings of 'claimant' and 'defendant' see PARA 18; and as to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31.

⁴ CPR 20.2(1)(a).

⁵ 'Contribution' is a right of someone to recover from a third person all or part of the amount which he himself is liable to pay: CPR 2.2, Glossary.

⁶ As to the meaning of 'indemnity' see PARA 232 note 33.

⁷ CPR 20.2(1)(b).

⁸ CPR 20.2(1)(c).

⁹ CPR 20.1. See Arkin v Borchard Lines Ltd [2003] EWHC 3088 (Comm), [2004] 1 Lloyd's Rep 636.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/619. Application of Civil Procedure Rules to additional claims.

619. Application of Civil Procedure Rules to additional claims.

An additional claim¹ must be treated as if it were a claim for the purposes of the Civil Procedure Rules, except as provided by Part 20².

The following rules do not apply to additional claims:

- 740 (1) the rules relating to the time within which a claim form may be served³;
- 741 (2) the rule requiring a statement of value where a claim is to be issued in the High Court⁴; and
- 742 (3) the rules relating to the preliminary stage⁵ of case management⁶.

The rules relating to default judgment⁷ apply to an additional claim only if it is a counterclaim⁸.

The rules providing that a party may admit the truth of another party's case in writing⁹ and the rule providing that where such an admission is made, any other party may apply for judgment on the admission¹⁰, apply to all additional claims, but otherwise the rules relating to admissions¹¹ apply to such a claim only if it is a counterclaim¹².

Parties must be aware that the provisions relating to failure to respond to a claim apply to additional claims¹³.

The contents of an additional claim must be verified by a statement of truth¹⁴.

The relevant practice direction makes provision for the titles of proceedings where there are additional claims¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 CPR 20.3(1).

3 Ie CPR 7.5, 7.6: see PARAS 120-121.

4 Ie CPR 16.3(5): see PARA 586.

5 Ie CPR Pt 26: see PARA 260 et seq.

6 See CPR 20.3(2).

7 Ie the provisions of CPR Pt 12: see PARA 506 et seq.

8 CPR 20.3(3). As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

9 Ie CPR 14.1(1), (2): see PARA 187.

10 Ie CPR 14.3: see PARA 190.

11 Ie CPR Pt 14: see PARA 187.

12 See CPR 20.3(4). As to obtaining judgment in default of defence where the additional claim is a counterclaim against the claimant see CPR 12.3(2); and PARA 507; and as to special provision for default judgment in some categories of additional claims see CPR 20.11; and PARA 515.

13 See Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 3.

14 See Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 4.1. The form of the statement of truth should be as follows: '[I believe][the [Part 20 claimant] believes] that the facts stated in this statement of case are true': para 4.2. As to statements of truth see generally PARA 613 et seq.

15 See Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 paras 7.1-7.11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/620. Proceedings by or against the Crown.

620. Proceedings by or against the Crown.

In a claim by the Crown for taxes, duties or penalties, the defendant¹ cannot make a counterclaim² or other Part 20 claim³ or raise a defence of set-off⁴. In any other claim by the Crown, the defendant cannot make a counterclaim or other Part 20 claim or raise a defence of set-off which is based on a claim for repayment of taxes, duties or penalties⁵.

In proceedings by or against the Crown in the name of the Attorney General, no counterclaim or other Part 20 claim can be made or defence of set-off raised without the permission of the court⁶. In proceedings by or against the Crown in the name of a government department, no counterclaim or other Part 20 claim can be made or defence of set-off raised without the permission of the court unless the subject matter relates to that government department⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'Part 20 claim' see PARA 618.

4 CPR 66.4(1). As to set-off see PARA 634 et seq. As to Crown proceedings see CROWN PROCEEDINGS AND CROWN PRACTICE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 117 et seq.

5 CPR 66.4(2).

6 CPR 66.4(3).

7 CPR 66.4(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/621. Defendant's counterclaim against the claimant.

621. Defendant's counterclaim against the claimant.

A defendant¹ may make a counterclaim² against a claimant³ by filing⁴ particulars of the counterclaim⁵. He may make such a counterclaim without the court's⁶ permission if he files it with his defence⁷ or at any other time with the court's permission⁸.

An application for permission to make an additional claim must be supported by evidence stating:

- 743 (1) the stage which the proceedings have reached;
- 744 (2) the nature of the additional claim to be made or details of the question or issue which needs to be decided;
- 745 (3) a summary of the facts on which the additional claim is based; and
- 746 (4) the name and address of any proposed additional party⁹.

Where delay has been a factor contributing to the need to apply for permission to make an additional claim an explanation of the delay should be given in evidence¹⁰. Where possible the applicant should provide a timetable of the proceedings to date¹¹.

The rules relating to acknowledgment of service¹² do not apply to a claimant who wishes to defend a counterclaim¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

5 CPR 20.4(1). The defence and counterclaim should normally form one document with the counterclaim following on from the defence: see Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 6.1.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 CPR 20.4(2)(a).

8 CPR 20.4(2)(b). CPR Pt 15 (defence to a claim: see PARA 199 et seq) applies to a defence to a counterclaim: see CPR 20.3(1); and PARA 619.

9 See Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 2.1. As to evidence see also CPR Pt 32; and PARA 749 et seq.

10 Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 2.2.

11 See Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 2.3.

12 Ie CPR Pt 10: see PARAS 184, 186.

13 CPR 20.4(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/622. Counterclaim against a person other than the claimant.

622. Counterclaim against a person other than the claimant.

A defendant¹ who wishes to counterclaim² against a person other than the claimant³ must apply to the court⁴ for an order that that person be added as an additional party⁵. An application for such an order may be made without notice unless the court directs otherwise⁶. Where the court makes such an order, it will give directions as to the management of the case⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 20.5(1). As to the procedure for such an application see PARA 621.

6 CPR 20.5(2).

7 CPR 20.5(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/623. Defendant's claim for contribution or indemnity from co-defendant.

623. Defendant's claim for contribution or indemnity from co-defendant.

A defendant¹ who has filed² an acknowledgment of service or a defence may make an additional claim³ for contribution⁴ or indemnity⁵ against a person who is already a party to the proceedings by filing a notice containing a statement of the nature and grounds of his additional claim⁶ and serving⁷ the notice on that party⁸.

A defendant may file and serve the notice (1) without the court's permission, if he files and serves it with his defence or if his additional claim for contribution or indemnity is against a party added to the claim later, within 28 days after that party files his defence⁹; or (2) at any other time with the court's permission¹⁰.

- 1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.
- 2 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.
- 3 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.
- 4 As to the meaning of 'contribution' see PARA 618 note 5.
- 5 As to the meaning of 'indemnity' see PARA 232 note 33.
- 6 CPR 20.6(1)(a).
- 7 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.
- 8 CPR 20.6(1)(b).
- 9 CPR 20.6(2)(a).
- 10 CPR 20.6(2)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/624. Procedure for making any other additional claim.

624. Procedure for making any other additional claim.

An additional claim¹, except a counterclaim² only against an existing party and a claim for contribution³ or indemnity⁴ from another party⁵, is made when the court issues the appropriate claim form⁶. A defendant⁷ may make an additional claim without the court's permission if the additional claim is issued before or at the same time as he files⁸ his defence⁹ or at any other time with the court's permission¹⁰. An application for such permission may be made without notice, unless the court directs otherwise¹¹.

Particulars of an additional claim must be contained in or served with the additional claim¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'contribution' see PARA 618 note 5.

4 As to the meaning of 'indemnity' see PARA 232 note 33.

5 I.e. a claim for contribution or indemnity made in accordance with CPR 20.6: see PARA 623.

6 CPR 20.7(1), (2). See Form N211 'Part 20 Claim Form' in The Civil Court Practice. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. See also CPR 7.2(2), which provides that a claim form is issued on the date entered on the form by the court: see PARA 118.

7 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

8 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

9 CPR 20.7(3)(a). As to the period for filing a defence see CPR 15.4; and PARA 201.

10 CPR 20.7(3)(b).

11 CPR 20.7(5). As to the procedure for making such an application see PARA 621.

12 CPR 20.7(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/625. Separation of additional claim from main claim; relevant matters.

625. Separation of additional claim from main claim; relevant matters.

Where the court¹ is considering whether to permit an additional claim² to be made³, or to dismiss an additional claim⁴, or to require an additional claim to be dealt with separately from the claim made by the claimant⁵ against the defendant⁶, the matters to which the court may have regard include:

- 747 (1) the connection between the additional claim and the claim made by the claimant against the defendant⁷;
 - 748 (2) whether the additional claimant is seeking substantially the same remedy which some other party is claiming from him⁸; and
 - 749 (3) whether the additional claimant wants the court to decide any question connected with the subject matter of the proceedings:
- 74
- 25. (a) not only between the existing parties but also between the existing parties and a person not already a party⁹; or
 - 26. (b) against an existing party not only in a capacity in which he is already a party but also in some further capacity¹⁰.
- 75

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

3 CPR 20.9(1)(a).

4 CPR 20.9(1)(b).

5 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

6 CPR 20.9(1)(c). See also CPR 3.1(2)(e), (j) (court's power to order that part of proceedings be dealt with as separate proceedings and to decide the order in which issues are to be tried); and PARA 247. As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

7 CPR 20.9(1), (2)(a).

8 CPR 20.9(1), (2)(b).

9 CPR 20.9(1), (2)(c)(i).

10 CPR 20.9(1), (2)(c)(ii).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/626. Service of claim form for additional claim.

626. Service of claim form for additional claim.

Where an additional claim¹ may be made without the court's permission², and if that claim is a counterclaim³ against an additional party only, the claim form must be served⁴ on every other party when a copy of the defence is served⁵. In the case of any other additional claim which may be made without the court's permission⁶, except a claim for contribution⁷ or indemnity⁸ from another party⁹, the claim form must be served on the person against whom the claim is made within 14 days after the date on which the additional claim is issued by the court¹⁰.

Where the court gives permission to make an additional claim it will at the same time give directions as to its service¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 Ie under CPR 20.4(2)(a): see PARA 621.

3 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

4 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

5 CPR 20.8(1)(a).

6 Ie under CPR 20.7(3)(a): see PARA 624.

7 As to the meaning of 'contribution' see PARA 618 note 5.

8 As to the meaning of 'indemnity' see PARA 232 note 33.

9 Claims for contribution or indemnity from another party are made under CPR 20.6: see PARA 623.

10 CPR 20.8(1)(b), (2). As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

11 CPR 20.8(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/627. Procedural steps on service of additional claim form on a non-party.

627. Procedural steps on service of additional claim form on a non-party.

Where an additional claim¹ form is served² on a person who is not already a party it must be accompanied by:

- 750 (1) a form for defending the claim³;
- 751 (2) a form for admitting the claim⁴;
- 752 (3) a form for acknowledging service⁵; and
- 753 (4) a copy of every statement of case⁶ which has already been served in the proceedings⁷ and such other documents as the court⁸ may direct⁹.

A copy of the additional claim form must be served on every existing party¹⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 CPR 20.12(1)(a). See Forms N9 and N211A, N211C 'Response Pack' in The Civil Court Practice.

4 CPR 20.12(1)(b). As to the relevant forms see note 3.

5 CPR 20.12(1)(c). See Form N213 'Part 20 Acknowledgment of Service' in The Civil Court Practice.

6 As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584.

7 CPR 20.12(1)(d)(i).

8 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

9 CPR 20.12(1)(d)(ii).

10 CPR 20.12(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/628. Effect of service of additional claim.

628. Effect of service of additional claim.

A person on whom an additional claim¹ is served² becomes a party to the proceedings if he is not a party already³. When an additional claim is served on an existing party for the purpose of requiring the court⁴ to decide a question against that party in a further capacity, that party also becomes a party in the further capacity specified in the additional claim⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 CPR 20.10(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 20.10(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/629. Case management where a defence to an additional claim is filed.

629. Case management where a defence to an additional claim is filed.

Where a defence is filed¹ to an additional claim² the court³ must consider the future conduct of the proceedings and give appropriate directions⁴. In giving such directions the court must ensure that, so far as practicable, the original claim and all additional claims are managed together⁵.

Where the defendant to an additional claim files a defence, other than to a counterclaim, the court will arrange a hearing to consider case management of the additional claim⁶ and will give notice of the hearing to each party likely to be affected by any order made at the hearing⁷. At the hearing the court may:

- 754 (1) treat the hearing as a summary judgment hearing;
- 755 (2) order that the additional claim be dismissed;
- 756 (3) give directions about the way any claim, question or issue set out in or arising from the additional claim should be dealt with;
- 757 (4) give directions as to the part, if any, the additional defendant will take at the trial of the claim;
- 758 (5) give directions about the extent to which the additional defendant is to be bound by any judgment or decision to be made in the claim⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

2 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618. Where a claimant serves a reply and a defence to counterclaim, the reply and the defence to counterclaim should normally form one document with the defence to counterclaim following on from the reply: Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 6.2. As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18. As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 5.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 20.13(1).

5 CPR 20.13(2). Where permission is required to issue the additional claim, the court will have considered the matters set out in CPR 20.9(2) (see PARA 625) when deciding whether the additional claim should be dealt with or tried with the claim made by the claimant against the defendant.

6 Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 5.1. This will normally be at the same time as a case management hearing for the original claim and any other additional claims: para 5.1.

7 Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 5.2.

8 Practice Direction--Counterclaims and other Additional Claims PD 20 para 5.3. The court may make any of the orders in heads (1)-(5) in the text either before or after any judgment in the claim has been entered by the claimant against the defendant: para 5.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/630. Grounds for striking out a counterclaim.

630. Grounds for striking out a counterclaim.

A counterclaim is for most purposes a claim in its own right, and the grounds for striking out a statement of case are the same with regard to counterclaims as to any other claim¹.

If a defendant does not attend a trial, the court may strike out his defence or counterclaim (or both)². If the claimant³ does not attend, the court may strike out his claim and any defence to counterclaim⁴.

1 See PARA 252.

2 CPR 39.3(1)(c). As to the court's power to restore proceedings see CPR 39.3(2); and PARA 1129.

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 CPR 39.3(1)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/631. Stay on submission to arbitration.

631. Stay on submission to arbitration.

A counterclaim in respect of a matter which the parties have agreed to submit to arbitration¹ may be stayed².

1 See the Arbitration Act 1996 s 9; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1222.

2 See Chappell v North [1891] 2 QB 252, DC; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARAS 1222, 1223. The plaintiff must not have taken a step in the proceedings to answer the substantive claim since the counterclaim was served: Arbitration Act 1996 s 9(3); see ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1222. Merely applying for leave to defend and counterclaim does not constitute a step in the proceedings: Patel v Patel (1999) Times, 9 April, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/632. Execution.

632. Execution.

Where a claimant¹ obtains judgment on his claim and a defendant² on the counterclaim, there are two judgments for all purposes except execution. Execution may not issue for more than the balance, and for this purpose it is immaterial whether judgment has been entered in the one or the other of these forms³.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

3 Stumore v Campbell & Co [1892] 1 QB 314, CA. Where judgment was entered for the plaintiffs (claimants) with costs on the claim, and judgment for the plaintiffs and other persons (added as defendants to the counterclaim) with costs on the counterclaim, it was held that the judgment debts were separate and could not be the subject of one bankruptcy notice: Re A Bankruptcy Notice (1906) 96 LT 133, CA. The claim and counterclaim are treated as one action for the purpose of determining the sum on which a solicitor has a charging order for his costs: Westacott v Bevan [1891] 1 QB 774. As to such charging orders see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1014.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/15. PLEADINGS AND STATEMENTS OF CASE/(6) ADDITIONAL CLAIMS AND COUNTERCLAIMS/633. Offers and payments into court.

633. Offers and payments into court.

Where a party makes an offer to settle (a 'Part 36 offer')¹, the offer must state whether it takes into account any counterclaim². Where a Part 36 offer is accepted within the relevant period the claimant's costs include any costs incurred in dealing with the defendant's counterclaim if the Part 36 offer states that it takes into account the counterclaim³.

1 CPR 36.2(1). As to offers to settle and payments into court generally see CPR Pt 36; and PARA 729 et seq. An offer to settle an action made under CPR Pt 36 can be withdrawn at any time prior to acceptance: Scammell v Dicker [2001] 1 WLR 631, CA.

2 CPR 36.2(1)(e).

3 CPR 36.10(6).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(A) IN GENERAL/634. Scope and significance of set-off.

16. SET-OFF

(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF

(i) Introduction

(A) IN GENERAL

634. Scope and significance of set-off.

This part of the title is concerned with the situation where A has a claim against B and B has a cross-claim against A¹. It deals with the following situations:

- 759 (1) B's right, where his cross-claim consists of a money claim, to deduct from the amount paid to A a sum representing his cross-claim²; and
- 760 (2) B's right to raise legitimately and successfully such a cross-claim in a claim brought by A, so as to reduce or extinguish A's claim and to establish any right of B to an excess over A's claim³.

Whilst much of the jurisprudence applicable to this part of the title appears to bear a procedural hallmark, the doctrines of abatement and set-off represent, to some extent, rules of substantive law: the substantial advantage which B derives from the relevant doctrines is that he may defer meeting A's claim, wholly or in part, until a court has adjudicated on his own cross-claim⁴. Typically, the doctrines of set-off, counterclaim and abatement are concerned with deductions made by B. If these are permissible and B has a triable cross-claim, then B is entitled to withhold payment, wholly or proportionately, until his cross-claim has been resolved by the court. If the deductions are impermissible, B may at best have to meet A's claim at once, the trial of his cross-claim being deferred to a later hearing⁵; at worst, B may have placed himself in breach of a continuing contract thereby entitling A to repudiate⁶, or may be met by an applicable time-bar in his later action⁷.

1 See eg CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 1073.

2 See eg the Sale of Goods Act 1979 s 53(1)(a) (breach of warranty). As to abatement generally see PARA 643 et seq.

3 CPR Pt 20 deals with counterclaims and other additional claims, ie any claim other than a claim made by a claimant against a defendant: see PARA 618 et seq. As to the meanings of 'claimant' and 'defendant' see PARA 18. A set-off may be included in the defence and set off against the claim, whether or not it is also a claim under CPR Pt 20: CPR 16.6. The value and complexity of a counterclaim or other Part 20 claim must be taken into consideration in deciding which track to allocate a claim to: CPR 26.8(1)(e). As to the allocation of claims to the small claims track, the fast track or the multi-track see CPR Pt 26. See also CPR Pts 27-29.

4 See eg PARA 635.

5 An example is where A has already obtained summary judgment against B, which has been satisfied, and B is then not entitled to counterclaim: CSI International Co Ltd v Archway Personnel (Middle East) Ltd[1980] 3 All ER 215, [1980] 1 WLR 1069, CA.

6 Eg a rescission of the contract for an inadequate reason: see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 1007.

7 As to the limitation of actions as it affects set-off see PARAS 644, 656, 666; and LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 944.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(A) IN GENERAL/635. Summary judgment.

635. Summary judgment.

In relation to proceedings begun before 26 April 1999¹, where A sought summary judgment and B demonstrated a triable cross-claim by way of abatement² or set-off³, the court could give B leave to defend, wholly or in part⁴. Under the Civil Procedure Rules, the court may give summary judgment against a claimant or defendant if it considers that the claimant or defendant has no real prospect of succeeding on, or as the case may be, successfully defending, the claim or issue, and there is no other compelling reason why the case or issue should be disposed of at a trial⁵.

1 le the date on which the CPR came into operation: see PARA 30.

2 As to abatement see PARA 643 et seq.

3 As to set-off generally see PARA 652 et seq.

4 See RSC Ord 14 r 4(3) (revoked).

5 CPR 24.2; and see PARA 524. As to the matters which the court has considered in determining whether a set-off or counterclaim will provide sufficient reason for refusing summary judgment see Esso Petroleum Co Ltd v Milton [1997] 2 All ER 593, [1997] 1 WLR 938, CA. See, however, as to the citation of cases decided before the commencement of the CPR, PARA 33 text and note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(A) IN GENERAL/636. Limitation periods.

636. Limitation periods.

In some cases a period of limitation¹ affecting B's cross-claim may prevent him from relying on the relevant doctrines², so that he must meet A's claim at once, his cross-claim being remitted to separate proceedings which A can meet by pleading the limitation period. A period of limitation may apply because English statute law so provides³ or because the parties to a contract have agreed on a time-limit for initiating proceedings on the cross-claim⁴.

1 For the purposes of the Limitation Act 1980, a claim by way of set-off or counterclaim is deemed to be a separate action which commenced on the same date as the original action: s 35(1)(b), (2).

2 As to the situation where B's cross-claim is a true defence see PARAS 638, 643 et seq; and LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 944.

3 See the Limitation Act 1980 s 35; and PARA 645.

4 See PARAS 645, 648.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(A) IN GENERAL/637. Rules of court.

637. Rules of court.

Rules of court do not define or determine the juridical nature of set-off¹, which is a matter of law for the courts².

1 As to set-off see CPR 16.6; and PARA 639. See also PARA 634 note 3.

2 The question as to what is a set-off is to be determined as a matter of law and is not in any way governed or influenced by the language used by the parties in their pleadings: Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9 at 26, [1958] 2 All ER 141 at 152, CA, per Morris LJ.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(B) DEFINITIONS/638. Abatement at common law.

(B) DEFINITIONS

638. Abatement at common law.

Subject to certain exceptions¹, where A has a claim for a sum of money against B for the price of goods or services and B has a cross-claim for a sum of money, whether liquidated or unliquidated, against A, arising out of deficiencies in those goods or services, the general rule is that B is entitled to deduct the amount of his cross-claim and set it up as a true defence at common law in an action by A². This defence is unaffected by any English statute of limitation³.

1 As to the exceptions to the abatement rule see PARA 645 et seq.

2 See PARA 643.

3 See PARA 644; and LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 944.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(B) DEFINITIONS/639. Meaning of 'set-off'.

639. Meaning of 'set-off'.

Where A has a claim for a sum of money against B and B has a cross-claim for a sum of money against A¹ such that B is, to the extent of his cross-claim, entitled to be absolved from payment of A's claim, and to plead his cross-claim as a defence to an action by A for the enforcement of his claim², then B is said to have a right of set-off against A to the extent of his cross-claim³.

1 The claim may be for an unascertained amount: CPR 16.6 (which does not limit the right of set-off to an ascertained amount).

2 CPR 16.6.

3 See PARA 652 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(B) DEFINITIONS/640. Distinction between abatement and set-off.

640. Distinction between abatement and set-off.

Abatement is a right at common law¹, and is distinct from set-off at law which originated in statute² and equitable set-off (or defence)³.

1 See Mondel v Steel (1841) 8 M & W 858; and PARA 643.

2 See the Statutes of Set-off (2 Geo 2 c 22 (Insolvent Debtors Relief) (1728), and 8 Geo 2 c 24 (Set-off) (1734)) (both repealed); and PARA 658.

3 See PARA 658.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(B) DEFINITIONS/641. Distinction between set-off and counterclaim.

641. Distinction between set-off and counterclaim.

Set-off is distinguishable from counterclaim both in its application and in its effect. In its application set-off is limited to money claims¹, whereas counterclaim is not so limited. Any claim in respect of which the defendant could bring an independent claim against the claimant may be enforced by counterclaim subject only to the limitation that it must be such as can conveniently be tried with the claimant's claim². Thus not only claims for money, but also other claims such as a claim for an injunction or for specific performance or for a declaration may be the subject of a counterclaim.

In its effect set-off is essentially different from counterclaim in that set-off is a ground of defence, a shield and not a sword³, which, if established, affords an answer to the claimant's claim wholly or pro tanto, whereas counterclaim as such affords no defence to the claimant's claim, but is a weapon of offence which enables a defendant to enforce a claim against the claimant as effectually as in an independent action⁴. Where facts pleaded by way of counterclaim constitute a set-off they may be additionally pleaded as such⁵.

1 See CPR 16.6; and PARA 652 et seq. See also PARA 634 et seq.

2 See CPR Pt 20; PARA 618 et seq.

3 Stooke v Taylor (1880) 5 QBD 569 at 575-576, DC, per Cockburn CJ.

4 Stooke v Taylor (1880) 5 QBD 569, DC; applied in BICC v Burndy Corpn [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA; Re Stahlwerk Becker Akt's Patent [1917] 2 Ch 272; Sociedad Financiera de Bienes Raices SA v Agrimpex Hungarian Trading Co for Agricultural Products [1961] AC 135, [1960] 2 All ER 578, HL. For a modern case in which the distinction between set-off and counterclaim has been considered in a bankruptcy context see Hofer v Strawson (1999) Times, 17 April. As to set-off in bankruptcy generally see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 547 et seq.

5 See CPR 16.6; and PARA 715.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(i) Introduction/(B) DEFINITIONS/642. Distinction between set-off and payment.

642. Distinction between set-off and payment.

Set-off is entirely distinct from payment. Payment is satisfaction of a claim made by or on behalf of a person against whom the claim is brought. The person paying performs the obligation in respect of which the claim arises, which thereby becomes extinguished. Set-off exempts a person entitled to it from making any satisfaction of a claim brought against him, or of so much of the claim as equals the amount which he is entitled to set off, and thus to the extent of his set-off he is discharged from performance of the obligation in respect of which the claim arises¹.

Where there has been payment, the party against whom the claim is brought pleads payment or accord and satisfaction², which in effect alleges that the claim no longer exists. On the other hand, a plea of set-off in effect admits the existence of the claim, and sets up a cross-claim as being ground on which the person against whom the claim is brought is excused from payment and entitled to judgment on the claimant's claim. Until judgment in favour of the defendant on the ground of set-off has been given, the claimant's claim is not extinguished³.

Payment is a good answer to set-off, and a payment made by an unauthorised agent and not ratified until after set-off has been pleaded may be pleaded in defence to a set-off⁴.

1 See Ribblesdale v Forbes (1916) 140 LT Jo 483, CA. Tender of the balance of a debt due after setting off a sum due from the creditor, without his consent, is not strictly a legal tender, although the same consequences as to costs may follow. See CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 974. As to costs see PARA 1729 et seq. A defendant who pays into court the difference between the amount of the claim and the set-off he succeeds in establishing is in the same position as a defendant who has paid into court the whole amount recovered.

2 As to accord and satisfaction see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARAS 1043-1051.

3 Re Hiram Maxim Lamp Co [1903] 1 Ch 70. If there is a doubt whether the facts show payment or set-off, both payment and set-off should be pleaded as alternative defences. Both defences must be specially pleaded: see Fidgett v Penny (1834) 1 Cr M & R 108; Cooper v Morecraft (1838) 3 M & W 500; Thomas v Cross (1852) 7 Exch 728.

4 Eyton v Littledale (1849) 7 Dow & L 55; Simpson v Eggington (1855) 10 Exch 845. This defence must be specially pleaded.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(A) THE RULE/643. Origins and nature of abatement.

(ii) Abatement at Common Law

(A) THE RULE

643. Origins and nature of abatement.

From the early nineteenth century, when A sued B for the cost of goods or for work and labour, B was permitted to deduct from the amount due to A a sum representing the diminution in the value of the goods or services caused by A's breach of contract¹. This would also give B a true defence at law to A's claim. In the case of breach of warranty on the sale of goods, the defence is now confirmed by statute². Such a defence may, and usually does, rely on an unliquidated cross-claim for damages³. Being a true defence it is unaffected by English statutes of limitation⁴. The rule is confined to contracts for the sale of goods and for work and labour⁵, and does not extend to contracts generally⁶. For a party to rely on the right of abatement he must establish that the breach of contract directly affected and reduced the actual value of the goods or work, so that any other loss or damage, if it is to be relied on as an answer to a claim for the price, will arise from the principle of equitable set-off⁷.

1 The term 'abatement' originated in Mondel v Steel (1841) 8 M & W 858 at 871 per Parke B, and was adopted in Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398 at 404, [1977] 1 WLR 185 at 190, HL, per Lord Wilberforce, and at 405 and at 192 per Lord Simon of Glaisdale. In early editions of this work the subject was not treated under this title. See also PARA 665.

2 See the Sale of Goods Act 1979 s 53(1); and SALE OF GOODS AND SUPPLY OF SERVICES vol 41 (2005 Reissue) PARA 307.

3 Basten v Butter (1806) 7 East 479; Farnsworth v Garrard (1807) 1 Camp 38; Mondel v Steel (1841) 8 M & W 858; Bright v Rogers [1917] 1 KB 917; Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA; Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL; Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL.

4 See PARA 644; and LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 944.

5 As to contracts of employment see Sagar v H Ridehalgh & Son Ltd [1931] 1 Ch 310, CA; and PARA 700.

6 See Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL.

7 Mellowes Archital Ltd v Bell Properties Ltd (1997) 87 BLR 26, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(A) THE RULE/644. Abatement and limitation.

644. Abatement and limitation.

The general statutory provisions relating to limitation of actions provide that any claim by way of set-off or counterclaim is to be deemed to be a separate action and to have been commenced on the same date as the action in which the set-off or counterclaim is pleaded¹. Since the defence of abatement is a true defence rather than a set-off or counterclaim it is not subject to that provision².

1 See the Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1). The Limitation Act 1980 does not apply where a period of limitation is prescribed by or under any other enactment: s 39. The Act applies to arbitrations: see the Arbitration Act 1996 ss 13, 14; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARAS 1220-1221. As to international carriage by land or air see PARA 648; and CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARAS 121 et seq, 650 et seq. As to the carriage of goods by sea see the amended Hague Rules art III para 6, set out in the Schedule to the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act 1971; PARA 645; and CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 205 et seq.

2 See the cases cited in PARA 643 note 3, especially Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; and see LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 944. As to limitation as it affects exceptions to the abatement rule see PARA 645 note 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/645. The freight exception (voyage charter).

(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS

645. The freight exception (voyage charter).

It has long been accepted as law, and has now been confirmed¹, that a claim to freight under a voyage charter, where the charterer has a cross-claim concerning deficiencies in the services performed, constitutes an exception to the rule of abatement. Hence, in principle, the charterer cannot deduct anything from the amount due, or raise his cross-claim by way of abatement, but must meet the claim to freight in full, and then raise his cross-claim in a separate action². However, since the cross-claim ranks as a counterclaim, and having regard to the practice and procedure in relation to counterclaim³, it is rare for the charterer to suffer any disadvantage in practice⁴, although where there is a time-limit affecting his cross-claim the exception may result in the charterer being debarred from a remedy⁵. Equity follows the law in applying the freight exception equally to an equitable defence⁶.

The freight exception applies to an agent who collects freight on behalf of the ship-owner or charterer. The agent must account for it without deduction or set-off⁷. The exception applies also to an assignee of the right to freight, to advance freight and to freight payable on delivery of goods at the port of discharge⁸.

1 See Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd[1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL.

2 See Shields v Davis (1815) 6 Taunt 65 (previous proceedings sub nom Sheels v Davies (1814) 4 Camp 119); Mondel v Steel (1841) 8 M & W 858; Dakin v Oxley (1864) 15 CBNS 646; Meyer v Dresser (1864) 16 CBNS 646; Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede[1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA. See also Kish v Taylor[1912] AC 604, HL; Bede Steam Shipping Co Ltd v Bunge y Born (1927) 27 Ll L Rep 410.

3 See PARA 618 et seq. The CPR apply to Admiralty and commercial actions: see CPR Pt 58 (Commercial Court) and CPR 61 (Admiralty claims).

4 Where the charterer has a triable counterclaim unaffected by a time-bar, the proper order is 'judgment on the claim; stay of execution pending trial of counterclaim'. This has been a practice in the Commercial Court. Hence, in most cases, the question will not arise. See Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede[1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA.

5 Where the only applicable period of limitation is to be found in the Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1) (see PARA 644), the exception is unlikely to have practical effect since the charterer has six years in which to initiate his cross-complaint (s 5), and perhaps longer, if he can invoke s 35(1) and date back the initiation of his action to the commencement of the claimant's claim. However, where the parties have agreed in the charterparty that complaints by the charterer must be initiated within a certain period, the exception may come into play. For example, the amended Hague Rules art III para 6 (set out in the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act 1971 Schedule), provides that in any event the carrier and the ship are to be discharged from all liability in respect of loss or damage unless suit is brought within one year after delivery of the goods or the date when the goods should have been delivered. If, therefore, the claimant does not bring proceedings within one year, a counterclaim by the charterer is not assisted by the Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1), as his counterclaim is still outside the one-year limit to which he has agreed. Since his cross-complaint does not constitute a defence and since it is out of time, his cross-action must fail: Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede[1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd[1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL. Furthermore, the provisions of the Hague Rules (unlike some other statutes of limitation, including the Limitation Act 1980), when incorporated in a contract, operate as a contractual time-bar to the rights of the charterer as well as the remedy. This was the first ground on which the charterers failed in Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd[1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL, the second being general in nature, relying on the exception: see PARA 650. In the case of international carriage of goods by road, the Convention on the Contract for the International Carriage of Goods by Road (CMR) (Geneva, 19 May 1956; TS 90 (1967); Cmnd 3455), art 32, provides a time-limit for claims by the customer and, by art 32(4), a right of action which has become barred by lapse of time may not be exercised by way of counterclaim or set-off. The convention is set out in the Carriage of Goods by Road Act 1965, Schedule. See CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 650 et seq. As to international carriage by air see the Carriage by Air Act 1961 s 1(1), Sch 1 Pt I art 29, Sch 1A art 29 (Sch 1 substituted as from a day to be appointed by the Carriage by Air and Road Act 1979 s 1(1), Sch 1; Carriage by Air Act 1961 Sch 1A added by SI 1999/1312); and CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 164. See also PARA 648.

6 Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL; Bank of Boston Connecticut v European Grain and Shipping Ltd [1989] AC 1056, [1989] 1 All ER 545, HL. See also PARA 658.

7 James & Co Scheepvaart en Handelsmij BV v Chincrest Ltd [1979] 1 Lloyd's Rep 126, CA, but cf Samuel v West Hartlepool Steam Navigation Co (1906) 11 Com Cas 115, 12 Com Cas 203, and see Colonial Bank v European Grain and Shipping Ltd, The Dominique [1987] 1 Lloyd's Rep 239 (affd sub nom Bank of Boston Connecticut v European Grain and Shipping Ltd [1989] AC 1056, [1989] 1 All ER 545, HL); Wehner v Dene Shipping Co [1905] 2 KB 92.

8 Bank of Boston Connecticut v European Grain and Shipping Ltd [1989] AC 1056, [1989] 1 All ER 545, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/646. Bills of exchange.

646. Bills of exchange.

An unliquidated cross-claim¹ cannot be relied upon as an extinguishing set-off against a claim on a bill of exchange². However, as between the immediate parties, a partial failure of consideration may be relied on as a pro tanto defence provided that the amount involved is ascertained and liquidated³.

¹ I.e. a cross-claim by way of abatement or equitable defence, as to which see PARA 663.

² See James Lamont & Co Ltd v Hyland Ltd [1950] 1 KB 585, [1950] 1 All ER 341, CA; Nova (Jersey) Knit Ltd v Kammgarn Spinnerei GmbH [1977] 2 All ER 463, [1977] 1 WLR 713, HL; considered in Esso Petroleum Ltd v Milton [1997] 2 All ER 593, [1997] 1 WLR 938, CA; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 1599.

³ Nova (Jersey) Knit Ltd v Kammgarn Spinnerei GmbH [1977] 2 All ER 463, [1977] 1 WLR 713, HL, considered in Esso Petroleum Ltd v Milton [1997] 2 All ER 593, [1997] 1 WLR 938, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/647. Time charters: a partial exception.

647. Time charters: a partial exception.

Since payment under a time charter partakes of hire, the withholding of payment is not necessarily governed by the same principles as apply to a voyage charter¹. A wrongful deduction from payment by the charterer may entitle the owner to repudiate²; conversely, such a deduction correctly made, to which the owner wrongly reacts by claiming that the contract has been repudiated, entitles the charterer to damages for repudiation by the owner. Where the owner wrongly deprives the charterer of the use of the vessel, or prejudices him in the use of it, the charterer is entitled to deduct the appropriate amount by way of abatement without untoward consequences, but it seems that no such right exists in the case of damage to cargo due to the negligence of the crew. This situation therefore constitutes a partial exception to the abatement rule³.

1 As to voyage charters see PARA 645; and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

2 As to the repudiation of contracts generally see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 997 et seq.

3 Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (affd on other grounds [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307, HL). The many cases considered in this decision are not cited here, because the results of the decision are more apt for consideration of their substantive effect on the law of contract, especially charterparties (see SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW), and because the case was debated under the rubric of equitable estoppel (see PARA 658). However, the decision does have an impact on the predominantly procedural matters considered in this title, and in suitable cases the partial exception could be significant. See also SL Sethia Lines Ltd v Naviagro Maritime Corpn, The Kostas Melas [1981] 1 Lloyd's Rep 18.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/648. Carriage by land or air.

648. Carriage by land or air.

The freight exception¹ applies to a contract for the carriage of goods by road made subject to the Convention on the Contract for the International Carriage of Goods by Road, although certain provisions² contemplate the possibility of a set-off or counterclaim³. It has been held that the exception applies also to a domestic contract for carriage by land⁴. Otherwise, contracts of carriage by land⁵ or air⁶ have not yet been placed authoritatively either in the category of contracts falling within the abatement rule or within the freight exception⁷. These contracts may, therefore, be considered further in future cases on this subject⁸.

¹ See PARA 645.

² I.e. the Convention on the Contract for the International Carriage of Goods by Road, Schedule arts 32(4), 36; see PARA 645 note 5.

³ RH & D International Ltd v IAS Animal Air Services Ltd [1984] 2 All ER 203, [1984] 1 WLR 573. See also Impex Transport Aktieselskabet v A G Thames Holdings Ltd [1982] 1 All ER 897 at 901-902, [1981] 1 WLR 1547 at 1551-1553, where Robert Goff J assumed that a set-off is possible in contracts for the carriage of goods by road, at least when they are subject to the Convention.

⁴ United Carriers Ltd v Heritage Food Group (UK) Ltd [1995] 4 All ER 95 at 102, [1996] 1 WLR 371 at 378, where May J so held 'with unconcealed reluctance'.

⁵ As to carriage by road and rail generally see CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 101.

⁶ As to carriage of goods by air generally see CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 94 et seq.

⁷ As to these categories see PARA 645.

⁸ This caveat is made necessary by an observation of Lord Wilberforce in Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL, that there is no case of the rule of abatement having been extended to contracts of any kind of carriage, and that the rule against deduction in cases of carriage by sea is, in fact, as well settled as any common law rule can be. Lord Wilberforce thus kept open all contracts of carriage for further consideration.

In the case of international carriage, if the application or incorporation of a statute or rules bars the right as well as the remedy, the rule in Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL, would presumably apply: see PARA 645 note 5. When rules or standard terms are incorporated into a contract they are to be construed as part of the contract: Nea Agrex SA v Baltic Shipping Co Ltd [1976] QB 933, [1976] 2 All ER 842, CA; Consolidated Investment and Contracting Co v Saponaria Shipping Co Ltd, The Virgo [1978] 3 All ER 988, [1978] 1 WLR 968, CA. In an arbitration, whether the incorporated contractual clause affects the right or the remedy, the court retains jurisdiction to extend time under the Arbitration Act 1996 s 12: see Nea Agrex SA v Baltic Shipping Co Ltd [1976] QB 933, [1976] 2 All ER 842, CA; Consolidated Investment and Contracting Co v Saponaria Shipping Co Ltd, The Virgo [1978] 3 All ER 988, [1978] 1 WLR 968, CA; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1221; LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARAS 915, 917.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/649. Rent.

649. Rent.

In answer to a claim for rent, a tenant has an ancient common law right¹ to set up by way of defence any sum of money actually expended by him on repairs which the landlord, in breach of covenant, has failed to carry out, or any sum of money actually expended by him at the landlord's request to fulfil the landlord's obligations in respect of the land or to protect the tenant's occupation². Ordinarily the common law right cannot be exercised before the landlord has notice of the want of repair³, though in cases of emergency it may be that the tenant can effect the repairs and recoup the expense from the rent despite lack of notice⁴. The right is a right of recoupment apart from being a defence to an action for rent and, if the rent has been paid, the right may constitute an answer to a claim to distrain⁵. The right is exercisable against arrears of rent as well as future rent⁶. However, the common law right extends no further, and it is said that it does not include cross-claims for an uncertain or unliquidated sum⁷.

¹ See Lee-Parker v Izzet [1971] 3 All ER 1099, [1971] 1 WLR 1688; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA. See also Waters v Weigall (1795) 2 Anst 575.

² Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (affd [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307, HL); British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063, applying Taylor v Beal (1591) Cro Eliz 222, considering Waters v Weigall (1795) 2 Anst 575, and following Lee-Parker v Izzet [1971] 3 All ER 1099, [1971] 1 WLR 1688. See also Carter v Carter (1829) 5 Bing 406 (payment of mesne landlord's ground rent); Doe v Hare (1833) 2 Cr & M 145; Johnson v Jones (1839) 9 Ad & El 809 (payment of rent to mortgagee); Boodle v Campbell (1844) 2 Dow & L 66.

³ Lee-Parker v Izzet [1971] 3 All ER 1099, [1971] 1 WLR 1688; British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063.

⁴ See SR Derham Set-Off (2nd Edn, 1996) p 119.

⁵ Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA; see also Lee-Parker v Izzet [1971] 3 All ER 1099, [1971] 1 WLR 1688.

⁶ Asco Developments Ltd v Gordon [1978] 2 EGLR 41, 248 Estates Gazette 683.

⁷ See British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137 at 148, [1979] 2 All ER 1063 at 1070, obiter per Forbes J; and PARA 697.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/650. Contracting out from right to set off, deduct or abate.

650. Contracting out from right to set off, deduct or abate.

Parties may contract out of the right to set off, deduct or abate, but this can only be done by clear and unequivocal words ¹ or at least a clear implication².

1 Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL. See Mottram Consultants Ltd v Bernard Sunley & Sons Ltd [1975] 2 Lloyd's Rep 197, (1974) 118 Sol Jo 808, HL (in which the contract was held to exclude abatement). For instances of strict insistence on clear words see Acsim (Southern) Ltd v Danish Contracting and Development Co Ltd (1989) 47 BLR 55, CA; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA; The Teno [1977] 2 Lloyd's Rep 289. But a clause excluding set-off is not subject to the requirement that set-off be specifically excluded; such a clause does not exclude liability in the way that a clause excluding liability for negligence does: see Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co of Chicago v Papanicolaou [1986] 2 Lloyd's Rep 441, 83 LS Gaz R 2569, CA. For instances of 'no set-off' clauses and the application to them of the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 s 3 see Stewart Gill Ltd v Horatio Myer & Co Ltd [1992] QB 600, [1992] 2 All ER 257, CA; George Mitchell (Chesterhall) Ltd v Finney Lock Seeds Ltd [1983] QB 284, [1983] 1 All ER 108, CA (affd [1983] 2 AC 803, [1983] 2 All ER 737, HL) (clause held to be unfair and unreasonable); Schenkers Ltd v Overland Shoes Ltd [1998] 1 Lloyd's Rep 498, CA (clause held to be reasonable); RW Green Ltd v Cade Bros Farms [1978] 1 Lloyd's Rep 602 (clause held to be reasonable); Singer Co (UK) Ltd v Tees and Hartlepool Port Authority [1988] 2 Lloyd's Rep 164, [1988] 1 FTLR 442 (clause held to be fair and reasonable). As to contracts imposing a time-limit for cross-complaints see PARA 645 note 5; and as to similar principles affecting an equitable defence see PARAS 664-665.

2 Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL. See also Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(ii) Abatement at Common Law/(B) ESTABLISHED AND POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS/651. The contemporary significance of the right of abatement.

651. The contemporary significance of the right of abatement.

It may still be essential to prove a right of abatement at common law in at least two cases: (1) where an equitable defence (set-off) is unavailable because the facts do not disclose the necessary 'equity' in the defendant¹; and (2) when an equitable defence (set-off) is time-barred by reason of the Limitation Act 1980².

1 As to the equitable defence see PARA 658 et seq. The necessary equity in the defendant may be lacking because he has contractually agreed to a time-limit on his cross-claim: Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL, where it was held that, if anything, the equity lay with the ship-owner, having regard to the terms of the contract; see PARAS 663, 665. It appears to follow that if, for example, a contract of carriage by land is in issue, and it contains a time-limit on a claim by the customer, it may be essential to prove that such a contract is within the rule of abatement, since the necessary equity may be lacking for equitable defence: see the discussion in PARA 665.

2 Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233 at 246, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA, where Lord Denning MR held (obiter) that what is now the Limitation Act 1980 s 35 did not apply to equitable set-off, in which case the point mentioned in the text does not arise. This was a minority view; as to the implications of the contrary view see PARA 666 note 3. It is sufficient to note here that if the contrary view prevailed, there would be cases where proof of a common law right of abatement would be essential.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/652. Origin of the right.

(iii) Set-off at Law

652. Origin of the right.

Set-off at law was the creature of two statutes¹ early in the eighteenth century designed to prevent the imprisonment as a debtor of a person not truly indebted because there was a mutual debt owing by his creditor. Although now repealed, their effect has been preserved².

¹ The original enabling statutes were 2 Geo 2 c 22 (Insolvent Debtors Relief) (1728), and 8 Geo 2 c 24 (Set-off) (1734) (both repealed), known as the Statutes of Set-off.

² The Statutes of Set-off were repealed by the Civil Procedure Acts Repeal Act 1879 (repealed), and the Statute Law Revision and Civil Procedure Act 1883 (repealed), but the rights conferred by them were preserved by the Supreme Court of Judicature (Consolidation) Act 1925 s 39(1)(a) (repealed). See now the Supreme Court Act 1981 ss 49(2), 84(2) (s 84(2) amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 4 para 26(1), (2); at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. See also the County Courts Act 1984 s 38 (substituted by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 3; and amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 ss 12(2), 15(1), 146, Sch 1 Pt 2 para 17, Sch 4 Pt 1 paras 160, 167, Sch 18 Pt 1).

UPDATE

652 Origin of the right

NOTE 2--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/653. Nature of the right.

653. Nature of the right.

The right conferred by the Statutes of Set-off¹ was a right to set off mutual debts² arising from transactions of a different nature³ which were due and payable⁴ and could be ascertained with certainty at the time of pleading⁵. Thus no legal set-off could exist against a claim which sounded in unliquidated or uncertain damages⁶, nor could a claim which sounded in such damages be set off at law against a claimant's claim⁷. The fact that a claim was framed in damages precluded the raising of a set-off at law, notwithstanding that the claim might have been differently framed in a way which would have permitted such a set-off⁸. Where a claim for a liquidated debt was joined by a claimant with a claim for damages, set-off at law might only be pleaded in defence to the former claim⁹. Set-off at law operates as a defence¹⁰.

1 As to these statutes see PARA 652 notes 1-2.

2 Mutuality does not require that the debts arise at the same time: Day & Dent Constructions Pty Ltd v North Australian Properties Pty Ltd (1986) 150 CLR 85. Mutuality requires that the demands be between the same parties and in the same right or interest: Inca Hall Rolling Mills Co Ltd v Douglas Forge Co (1882) 8 QBD 179, 183. The suggestion by Lord Denning in the Court of Appeal that the nature of the arrangements may be so special as to deny mutuality (Halesowen Presswork and Assemblies Ltd v National Westminster Bank [1971] 1 QB 1 at 36) was criticised on appeal sub nom National Westminster Bank Ltd v Halesowen Presswork and Assemblies Ltd [1972] AC 785 at 812 per Lord Cross of Chelsea; cf at 806 per Viscount Dilhorne, [1972] 1 All ER 641 at 654-655, cf 650.

3 Where there was a running account of connected transactions, the common law regarded the balance as the debt so no question of set-off arose: Green v Farmer (1768) 4 Burr 2214 per Lord Mansfield. The third edition of this work gave the impression that Lord Mansfield was referring to a cross-complaint arising out of the transaction which was the subject of the plaintiff's claim, and the passage was adopted in Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA, by Lord Denning MR, who took Lord Mansfield and the learned editor to be distinguishing set-off at law (necessarily separate transactions) from abatement (the same transaction: see PARA 643). It is respectfully submitted that this was not the case. Abatement was not recognised until later (see PARA 643) and Lord Mansfield was dealing with separate but connected transactions at common law, and separate but unconnected transactions under the statutes, which permitted set-off 'notwithstanding that such debts are deemed in law to be of a different nature'. It is submitted that if any defendant ever wished to avail himself of a liquidated set-off at law arising out of the transaction on which the plaintiff sues, he is entitled to do so. It is further submitted that the conclusion of Lord Denning MR, that 'set-off' in what is now the Limitation Act 1980 s 35 is confined to set-off at law, is unaffected by the foregoing analysis. See PARAS 654, 663.

4 Stein v Blake [1996] AC 243, [1995] 2 All ER 961, HL, per Lord Hoffmann. The traditional view was that the mutual debts should be due and payable at the date of commencement of the action: Pilgrim v Kinder (1744) 7 Mod Rep 463; Richards v James (1848) 2 Exch 471. But now, as a result of rules of court, a right of set-off arising after the action has commenced may be relied upon as a defence: Stein v Blake [1996] AC 243, [1995] 2 All ER 961, HL.

5 See Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA. Such claims include the amount of a judgment debt or of a verdict for which judgment has not been entered: Baskerville v Brown (1761) 2 Burr 1229; Hawkins v Baynes (1823) 1 LJOSKB 167; Russell v May (1828) 7 LJOSKB 88.

6 Stooke v Taylor (1880) 5 QBD 569 at 575 per Cockburn CJ (the plea 'is available only where the claims on both sides are in respect of liquidated debt, or money demands which can be readily and without difficulty ascertained'). If an indemnity is given in respect of a liquidated demand, the liability under the indemnity is liquidated and may be set-off under the Statutes of Set-Off: see Attwooll v Attwooll (1853) 2 E & B 23, explained in Axel Johnson Petroleum AB v MG Mineral Group AG [1992] 2 All ER 163, [1992] 1 WLR 270, CA; Crawford v Stirling (1802) 4 Esp 207; Cooper v Robinson (1818) 2 Chit 161; Morley v Inglis (1837) 4 Bing NC 58; Williams v Flight (1842) 2 Dowl NS 11; Hutchinson v Sydney (1854) 10 Exch 438; Brown v Tibbits (1862) 11 CBNS 855; Pellas v Neptune Marine Insurance Co (1879) 5 CPD 34, CA. The reference in Stooke v Taylor (1880) 5 QBD 569 at 575 to 'money demands' is to demands analogous to debts which can be readily ascertained: Aectra Refining & Manufacturing Inc v Exmar NV [1994] 1 WLR 1634 at 1647, [1995] 1 Lloyd's Rep 191 at 199, CA, per Hirst LJ. To generate a set-off, it now seems that the claim and cross-claim need not be debts strictly so called, but may sound in damages: Axel Johnson Petroleum AB v MG Mineral Group AG [1992] 2 All ER 163, [1992] 1 WLR 270 at 272, CA, per Leggatt LJ, cited with evident approval in B Hargreaves Ltd v Action 2000 Ltd [1993] BCLC 1111 at 1113, CA, per Balcombe LJ. A sum specified as payable by way of demurrage and liquidated damages could ground a set-off: Axel Johnson Petroleum AB v MG Mineral Group AG [1992] 2 All ER 163, [1992] 1 WLR 270, CA. But cf Seager v Duthie (1860) 8 CBNS 45 (where a claim for delay in loading a ship was not within the demurrage clause and could not ground a set-off).

7 Freeman v Hyett (1762) 1 Wm Bl 394; Howlet v Strickland (1774) 1 Cowp 56 (non-delivery of goods); Weigall v Waters (1795) 6 Term Rep 488; Morley v Inglis (1837) 4 Bing NC 58; Williams v Flight (1842) 2 Dowl NS 11; Newfoundland Government v Newfoundland Rly Co (1888) 13 App Cas 199, PC.

8 Cooper v Robinson (1818) 2 Chit 161; Hardcastle v Netherwood (1821) 5 B & Ald 93; Thorpe v Thorpe (1832) 3 B & Ad 580.

9 Birch v Depeyster (1816) 4 Camp 385; Crampton v Walker (1860) 3 E & E 321.

10 Re Bankruptcy Notice (No 171 of 1934) [1934] Ch 431, CA, cited in Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9 at 16, [1958] 2 All ER 141 at 145, CA, per Morris LJ.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/654. Set-off generated by a claim based on a guarantee.

654. Set-off generated by a claim based on a guarantee.

The traditional view was that a claim based on a guarantee cannot give rise to a set-off. This was because it was thought that the obligation undertaken by a guarantor under a contract of guarantee is to see that the debtor performs his obligation to the principal creditor¹. So even if the guarantee is of the payment of a debt, the creditor's remedy against the guarantor is an action for damages for breach of contract². But now that legal set-off is not confined to debts strictly so called, it is doubtful that the traditional view would prevail. In comparable jurisdictions at least it seems that the guarantor can be sued for the sum which the debtor has failed to pay³ and, accordingly, that a claim based on a guarantee can give rise to a set-off⁴. In any event, a guarantee may be expressed as a conditional agreement to pay in which event the liability arising upon breach would ground a set-off⁵. It has been held that a guarantor can avail himself of any right of set-off held by the debtor against the creditor⁶.

1 Moschi v Lep Air Services [1973] AC 331, [1972] 2 All ER 393, HL.

2 Moreley v Inglis (1837) 4 Bing NC 58.

3 Sunbird Plaza Pty Ltd v Maloney (1988) 166 CLR 245; Hawkins v Bank of China (1992) 26 NSWLR 562.

4 See National Bank of Australia v Swan (1872) 3 VR(L) 168; and text and note 6.

5 Moschi v Lep Air Services [1973] AC 331, [1972] 2 All ER 393, HL; Sunbird Plaza Pty Ltd v Maloney (1988) 166 CLR 245. See also The Raven [1980] 2 Lloyd's Rep 266.

6 BOC Group plc v Centeon LLC [1999] 1 All ER (Comm) 53.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/655. Claim upon an indemnity as the subject of a set-off.

655. Claim upon an indemnity as the subject of a set-off.

As an indemnity, unlike a guarantee, creates a primary not a secondary liability¹, if the principal obligation is capable of generating a set-off, then so is the indemnity. The critical question is whether the amount of the indemnity is ascertainable with precision at the time of pleading². So, if the indemnity is given in respect of a liquidated demand, liability may be legally set off³, but not otherwise⁴.

An indemnity in respect of a loss arising out of the occurrence of a particular event can give rise to a set-off, if the loss is ascertainable with precision⁵. It is otherwise in the case of claims on policies of indemnity insurance because they are held to be claims for unliquidated damages⁶, even when the loss has been adjusted⁷. However, the correctness of this approach has been doubted⁸.

In the case of non-indemnity insurance, it seems that a set-off is available when the liability relates to a liquidated sum due under the contract⁹.

¹ Argo Caribbean Group Ltd v Lewis [1976] 2 Lloyd's Rep 289 at 296, CA, citing Yeoman Credit Ltd v Latter [1961] 2 All ER 294, [1961] 1 WLR 828, CA.

² Axel Johnson Petroleum AB v MG Mineral Group AG [1992] 2 All ER 163, [1992] 1 WLR 270, CA.

³ Hutchinson v Sydney (1854) 10 Exch 438.

⁴ Cooper v Robinson (1818) 2 Chit 161; Hardcastle v Netherwood (1821) 5 B & Ald 93.

⁵ Hutchinson v Sydney (1854) 10 Exch 438.

⁶ Pellas v Neptune Marine Insurance Co (1879) 5 CPD 34, CA; William Pickersgill & Sons Ltd v London and Provincial Marine and General Insurance Co Ltd [1912] 3 KB 614; Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139; Chandris v Argo Insurance Co Ltd [1963] 2 Lloyd's Rep 65, Edmunds v Lloyd's Italico [1986] 2 All ER 249, [1986] 1 WLR 492.

⁷ Luckie v Bushby (1853) 13 B & C 864; Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139.

⁸ See SR Derham Set Off (2nd Edn, 1996) p 18.

⁹ Blackley v National Mutual Life Association (No 2) [1973] 1 NZLR 668.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/656. Statutes of limitation.

656. Statutes of limitation.

A set-off at law is deemed to be a separate action and to have been commenced on the same date as the action in which it is pleaded¹. But where a set-off is based on a debt which arose after the commencement of the action, enforceability would be determined when set-off is pleaded².

¹ Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1)(b), (2), which refers to 'set-off' without further description. It is established that this phrase refers to set-off at law: Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA. A set-off cannot be based on an unenforceable debt: Walker v Clements (1850) 15 QB 1046; Aectra Refining & Manufacturing Inc v Exmar NV [1994] 1 WLR 1634, 1650-1651 CA ('the cross-claim has to be actionable'). See PARA 653. As to whether the statute refers to equitable defence see PARA 663.

² See SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) p 27 n 130.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iii) Set-off at Law/657. Bankruptcy.

657. Bankruptcy.

Bankruptcy may have constituted an exception to principles of common law limiting the right to set off¹. Set-off in bankruptcy is now governed by special statutory principles².

¹ Anon (1676) 1 Mod Rep 215 per North CJ; Chapman v Derby (1689) 2 Vern 117; Green v Farmer (1768) 4 Burr 2214.

² See BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 547 et seq. For a modern case in which the distinction between set-off and counterclaim has been considered in a bankruptcy context see Hofer v Strawson [1999] 2 BCLC 336, (1999) Times, 17 April.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/658. History of the right.

(iv) Equitable Defence

(A) THE RIGHT

658. History of the right.

The traditional view is that equitable set-off pre-dated the Statutes of Set-off¹. But it is difficult to find instances of equitable set-off before 1728². Prior to the Judicature Acts³, courts of equity admitted cross-complaints by way of defence in actions proceeding in Chancery and would also restrain a claimant in an action at law from proceeding or levying execution where there was an equity which went to impeach the title to the legal demand⁴. The right was then usually referred to as 'equitable set-off'. Since 1873, however, the right of equitable set-off previously available in Chancery has been available as a defence to an action at law⁵. That is not to say that the legislation of that date, which brought about the fusion of law and equity, extended the right of set-off to cases where it had not previously existed; rather it equated the procedure by which these hitherto separate remedies might henceforth be employed, so that an equitable defence is now available in all circumstances in which before 1873 it might have been raised either in equity as a defence or to restrain an action at law⁶. However, whilst the courts will derive general principles from the practice of the former courts of equity⁷, it appears that in making a practical application of principle the courts today are prepared to develop the fused system independently of an inquiry into what might have been done in the nineteenth century in a Court of Chancery⁸.

1 Ex p Stephens (1805) 11 Ves 24, 32 ER 996 per Lord Eldon LC.

2 The cases are discussed in Meagher, Gummow & Lehane Equity--Doctrines and Remedies (4th Edn, 2002).

3 I.e. the Supreme Court of Judicature Act 1873, and the Supreme Court of Judicature Act 1875.

4 Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161 at 178-179 per Lord Cottenham LC, cited by Lord Denning MR in Federal Commerce Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927 at 974, [1978] 3 All ER 1066 at 1078, CA.

5 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 49(2)(a), which specifically refers to 'equitable defences'. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. In this title 'equitable set-off' and 'equitable defence' are used indiscriminately, as in the decided cases. See also Coca-Cola Financial Corp'n v Finsat International Ltd [1998] QB 43, [1996] 2 Lloyd's Rep 274, CA.

6 The Judicature Acts did not alter the rights of parties; they only affected procedure: Stumore v Campbell & Co [1892] 1 QB 314 at 316, CA, per Lord Esher MR. See also, however, Bankes v Jarvis [1903] 1 KB 549, DC, and the cases cited in notes 7-8.

7 Aries Tanker Corp'n v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL; Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (affd on another point [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307, HL).

8 Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927 at 974, [1978] 3 All ER 1066 at 1078, CA, per Lord Denning MR: 'These grounds [of equitable set-off] were never precisely formulated before the Judicature Act 1873. It is now far too late to search through the old books and dig them out . . . the streams of common law and equity have flown together and combined so as to be indistinguishable . . . we have to ask ourselves: what should we do now so as to ensure fair dealing between the parties?'. Cf United Scientific Holdings Ltd v Burnley Borough Council [1978] AC 904 at 924, [1977] 2 All ER 62 at 68, HL, per Lord Diplock; and see also EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 901 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/659. Nature of the right.

659. Nature of the right.

Where a right of set-off exists at law, it will be recognised in equity, unless reliance on it is inequitable¹. Apart from the recognition of a legal set-off, there are now three kinds of equitable set-off: (1) an equitable set-off existing by an analogy with a legal set-off; (2) an equitable set-off arising by agreement; and (3) general equitable set-off, which is much more comprehensive in its scope and arises where the party seeking the benefit of it can show some equitable ground for being protected against his adversary's demand².

1 See Re Whitehouse & Co (1878) ChD 595; Sankey Brook Coal Co Ltd v Marsh (1871) LR 6 Exch 185.

2 Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/660. Analogy with set-off at common law.

660. Analogy with set-off at common law.

Equity developed its jurisdiction by analogy with set-off at common law¹. Where there are cross-claims of such a nature that if both were reasonable at law they would be the subject of a legal set-off, if either of the claims is equitable only, a set-off will be allowed in equity², so when there are mutual liquidated cross-claims one of which is cognisable in equity, an additional equity is not required to support a set-off³. But a set-off will not be allowed if special circumstances make it inequitable to do so⁴.

1 As to set-off at common law see PARA 652 et seq.

2 Clark v Cort (1840) Cr & Ph 154, Thornton v Maynard (1875) LR 10 CP 695; Ex p Mariar (1879) 12 ChD 491. See also Tony Lee Motors Ltd v MS MacDonald & Son (1974) Ltd [1981] 2 NZLR 281 at 286-288 (approving the statement of principle in Meagher, Gummow & Lehane Equity Doctrines and Remedies (3rd Edn, 1992) para 3707); but cf Middleton v Pollock, ex p Nugee (1875) LR 20 Eq 29.

3 See Tony Lee Motors Ltd v MS MacDonald & Son (1974) Ltd [1981] 2 NZLR 281; but cf Middleton v Pollock, ex p Nugee (1875) LR 20 Eq 29.

4 See Spry Equitable Remedies (4th Edn, 1990) pp 172-173.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/661. Equitable set-off arising from agreement.

661. Equitable set-off arising from agreement.

A right of set-off may be created by agreement, and on this ground there may be a set-off of a debt which could not otherwise be so pleaded¹. Equitable set-off was initially based on an express or implied agreement to that effect², though the jurisdiction has been exercised when there was no such agreement³. The court has been willing to imply an agreement from slight foundations⁴, but there must generally be some evidence on which the court can find an agreement, express or implied⁵. A course of dealing between the parties by which mutual debts have been set off is evidence from which the court will imply such an agreement⁶, but a set-off cannot be based on a custom of which the claimant was not aware⁷. Set-off by agreement is not allowed if there is no consideration to support the agreement⁸.

1 Wood v Akers (1797) 2 Esp 594 (claim by husband and set-off of debt owed by wife before marriage); Kinnerley v Hossack (1809) 2 Taunt 170.

2 Downam v Matthews (1721) Prec Ch 580; Hawkins v Freeman (1723) 2 Eq Cas Abr 10.

3 Arnold v Richardson (1699) 1 Eq Cas Abr 8.

4 Jeffer v Wood (1723) 2 P Wms 128; Ex p Prescott (1753) 1 Atk 230. See also Downam v Matthews (1721) Prec Ch 580; Cuxon v Chadley (1824) 5 Dow & Ry KB 417 (agreement binding though not in writing); Unity Joint-Stock Mutual Banking Association v King (1858) 25 Beav 72.

5 Freeman v Lomas (1851) 9 Hare 109; Hunt v Jessel (1854) 18 Beav 100.

6 Jeffer v Wood (1723) 2 P Wms 128; Bamford v Harris (1816) 1 Stark 343. See also CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 944.

7 Blackburn v Mason (1893) 68 LT 510, CA.

8 Birkbeck Building Society v Birkbeck (1913) 29 TLR 218, DC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/662. General equitable set-off.

662. General equitable set-off.

Where a cross-claim for a sum of money is so closely connected with the claim that it goes to impeach the claimant's title to be paid and raises an equity in the defendant, making it unfair that he should pay the claimant without deduction, the general rule is that the defendant may deduct with impunity the amount of the cross-claim, or raise it by way of equitable defence when sued¹. The element of impeachment requires, in the absence of an independent equitable ground, a sufficiently close connection between the claims. This is not necessarily to be equated with a requirement that the claims arose out of the same transactions, though there is some support for such a proposition². If the cross-claims arise out of separate transactions, they may not be sufficiently connected³. It is not enough that the claims arise out of the same contract⁴. Nor is it necessarily enough that the cross-claim is related to the transaction on which the claim is based⁵. It has been said that the cross-claim must go to the root of the claimant's claim⁶ or that it must question, impugn or disparage the title to the claim⁷ or that the claims must be interdependent⁸. There is some support for the proposition that equitable set-off is available whenever the cross-claim arises out of the same transaction as the claim or out of a transaction that is closely related to the claim⁹. But the impeachment test was subsequently confirmed at the highest level¹⁰, though it has been linked subsequently to the notion that the cross-claim will impeach the claimant's claim if the cross-claim is so closely connected with the claim that it would be unfair not to allow a set-off¹¹. Because the impeachment test is unfamiliar to modern lawyers, the House of Lords has re-stated the test so that an equitable set-off may arise if there is a cross-claim flowing out of and inseparably connected with the dealings and transactions which also give rise to the claim¹².

The cross-claim must be for a sum of money, whether liquidated or unliquidated¹³. As to the claim, it is probable that set-off can only be raised in defence to a money claim¹⁴, and uncertain whether it may be raised only in defence to a liquidated money claim¹⁵.

1 Piggott v Williams (1821) 6 Madd 95; Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161; Young v Kitchin (1878) 3 ExD 127; Newfoundland Government v Newfoundland Rly Co (1888) 13 App Cas 199, PC; Banks v Jarvis [1903] 1 KB 549; Morgan & Son Ltd v S Martin Johnson & Co Ltd [1949] 1 KB 107, [1948] 2 All ER 196, CA; Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA; Henriksens Rederi A/S v THZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL; Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (affd on another point [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307, HL); Sim v Rotherham Metropolitan Borough Council [1987] Ch 216, [1986] 3 All ER 387; Dole Dried Fruit and Nut Co v Trustin Kerwood Ltd [1990] 2 Lloyd's Rep 309, CA. See also Khan v Islington London Borough Council (1999) 32 HLR 534, [1999] EGCS 87, CA (set-off of tenant's rent arrears by local authority landlord against home loss payment); and Benford v Lopecan SL [2004] EWHC 1897 (Comm), [2005] 2 BCLC 258.

2 Bank of Boston Connecticut v European Grain & Shipping Ltd [1989] AC 1056, [1989] 1 All ER 545, HL. Cf Bim Kemi AB v Blackburn Chemicals Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 457, [2001] 2 Lloyd's Rep 93 (it is not necessary for a cross-claim to arise out of the same transaction as the principal claim for an inseparable connection to be established between them).

3 Re Convere Pty Ltd [1976] VR 345.

4 Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161.

5 Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA.

6 British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137.

7 MEK Nominees Pty Ltd v Billboard Entertainments Pty Ltd (1993) Conv R 54-468.

8 Grant v NZMC Ltd [1989] 1 NZLR 8. The fact that the plaintiff (now claimant) is insolvent is not enough for a set-off: Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161.

9 Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233 at 248, citing Morgan & Son Ltd v S Martin Johnson & Co Ltd [1949] 1 KB 107, [1948] 2 All ER 196, CA, and Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA. In Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233 at 249, CA, Lord Denning MR asserted 'with any breach by the plaintiff of the self-same contract, the defendant can in equity set up his loan in diminution or extinction of the contract price'. See also Box v Midland Bank Ltd [1981] 1 Lloyd's Rep 434, CA.

10 Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185 HL. See also Federal Commerce & Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (where Lord Denning MR finally acknowledged that there must be an equitable ground to impeach the plaintiff's claim and went on to ask at 974 and 1078 'what should we do now so as to ensure fair dealing between the parties?'); AB Contractors Ltd v Flaherty Bros Ltd (1978) 16 BLR 8, CA.

11 Federal Commerce & Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA; The Teno [1977] 2 Lloyd's Rep 289; Dole Dried Fruit and Nut Co v Trustin Kerwood Ltd [1990] 2 Lloyd's Rep 309, CA; National Westminster Bank plc v Skelton [1993] 1 All ER 242, [1993] 1 WLR 72n, CA; SL Sethia Liners Ltd v Naviagro Maritime Corp, The Kostas Melas [1981] 1 Lloyd's Rep 18; BICC v Burndy Corp [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA; Sim v Rotherham Metropolitan Borough Council [1987] Ch 216, [1986] 3 All ER 387.

12 Bank of Boston Connecticut v European Grain & Shipping Ltd [1989] AC 1056, [1989] 1 All ER 545, HL; Dole Dried Fruit and Nut Co v Trustin Kerwood Ltd [1990] 2 Lloyd's Rep 309, CA (where a counterclaim was allowed for damages for breach of agency sales contracts); Eso Petroleum Ltd v Milton [1997] 2 All ER 593, [1997] 1 WLR 938, CA (where counterclaim by motor fuel retailer for future loss arising from oil company's repudiation of contract was held not to be sufficiently connected with oil company's claim for payment for past deliveries); see also Guinness plc v Saunders [1988] 2 All ER 940 [1988] 1 WLR 863, CA; Zemco Ltd v Jerrom-Pugh [1993] BCC 275; The Aditya Vaibhav [1991] 1 Lloyd's Rep 573. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

13 This is the essential nature of set-off and equitable defence: see CPR 16.6; and PARA 634. Other cross-complaints can be raised by way of counterclaim, as to which see PARA 618 et seq. The view expressed by Dixon J in MacDonnell & East Ltd v McGregor (1936) 56 CLR 50 at 62 that an unliquidated demand cannot support a set-off does not apply to an equitable set-off. See Beasley v Darcy (1800) 2 Sch & Lef at 403n, HL; Galambas & Son Pty Ltd v McIntyre (1974) 5 ACTR 10; British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063.

14 See eg PARA 675.

15 See Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA, where a customer sued a builder in respect of allegedly defective work (a claim for unliquidated damages in which she recovered much less than the sum claimed) and the builder set up by way of defence the fact that various sums were owing to him. There was a balance due to the builder, and the Court of Appeal awarded him all the costs of the action. It is submitted that the implication that equitable defence lies against unliquidated claims is sound and consistent with principle, although the contrary was decided in McCreagh v Judd [1923] WN 174, DC (not cited in Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA). See also Rawson v Samuel (1841) Cr & Ph 161; and Gathercole v Smith (1881) 7 QBD 626, CA. It is also submitted that in general a defendant should be permitted an equitable set-off against an unliquidated money claim. If he is permitted to deduct and defend in respect of a merely triable and unliquidated cross-claim against a claimant's otherwise cast-iron liquidated claim, the equities would appear to be still more in his favour if the claimant's claim is unliquidated and the defendant's is liquidated and cast-iron. Both Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA, and McCreagh v Judd [1923] WN 174, DC, concerned the effect of the doctrine on costs. The former result appears just, and the latter indefensible. See also PARA 721. See also BICC v Burndy Corp [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA; Aectra Refining & Manufacturing Inc v Exmar NV [1995] 1 All ER 641, [1994] 1 WLR 1634, CA (claim under charterparty for stipulated rate of daily hire in respect of specific off-hire periods is a liquidated debt capable of constituting a legal set-off).

UPDATE

662 General equitable set-off

NOTE 12--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(A) THE RIGHT/663. Analogy with abatement.

663. Analogy with abatement.

In certain cases where the common law would not permit abatement¹ equity follows the law by recognising similar exceptions². However, in other cases equity supplements the law by allowing an equitable defence³.

¹ See PARA 645 et seq.

² As to the freight exception (voyage charter) see PARA 645 text and notes 5-6. In the cases there cited it was held that the freight exception operated on an equitable defence as well as on the common law defence of abatement: see especially Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL; Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA. See also PARA 651 note 1. As to bills of exchange see PARA 646. As to time-charters see PARA 647. See also Santiren Shipping Ltd v Unimarine SA, The Chrysovalandou-Dyo [1981] 1 All ER 340. As to other contracts of carriage see PARA 648. It is submitted that whatever may be the status of contracts of carriage generally in relation to abatement, equitable set-off should be generally available: see Federal Commerce and Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (on appeal on other points [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307, HL); and PARA 658. However, where there is a relevant time-limit for a defendant to bring his claim, difficult considerations may arise: see PARA 665. As to contracting out from a right to deduct or abate see PARA 650; and Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL. Although this case was concerned partly with construction of a contract and partly with abatement, it would seem to follow that a defendant may by clear words contractually agree to give up a right to an equitable defence. See PARAS 664-665.

³ As to cross-claims against claims for rent at law see PARA 649. As to the current position by way of equitable defence see eg PARA 697. For the general principle see the observations of Lord Denning MR cited in PARA 658 note 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(B) CONTRACTUAL TERMS AFFECTING THE RIGHT/664. Contracting out of right to deduct.

(B) CONTRACTUAL TERMS AFFECTING THE RIGHT

664. Contracting out of right to deduct.

Parties may contract out of the equitable right of set-off, but this can only be done by clear and unequivocal words¹ or a clear implication². A clause which excludes a right of set-off is not subject to the same rule of construction that applies to clauses excluding liability for negligence³. It has been suggested that an agreement to submit disputes to arbitration (including the cross-claim) may possibly constitute an agreement to exclude equitable set-off⁴. The suggestion is problematic and depends in any event on the terms of the contract⁵. The Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 may operate to restrict or exclude a right of set-off in respect of a liability arising under a contract⁶.

1 Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL (this was concerned with the interpretation of a contract and abatement at common law). See also The Teno [1977] 2 Lloyd's Rep 289; BICC plc v Burndy Corp [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA; CM Pillings & Co Ltd v Kent Investments Ltd (1985) 30 BLR 80, CA; NEI Thompson Ltd v Wimpey Construction UK Ltd (1987) 39 BLR 65, (1987) 4 Const LJ 46; Accsim (Southern) Ltd v Danish Contracting & Development Co Ltd (1989) 47 BLR 55, CA; Rosehaugh Stanhope (Broadgate Phase 6) plc v Redpath Dorman Long Ltd (1990) 50 BLR 69, 26 Con LR 80, CA; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA. See also Sinochem International Oil (London) Co Ltd v Mobil Sales and Supply Corp [2000] 1 All ER (Comm) 474, CA (contract did not prevent set-off of liability of affiliate when actual contracting party had not defaulted). As to the overriding effect of clear contractual words see PARA 665.

2 Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA (where a lease provided that rent was to be paid 'without any deduction' and it was held that the expression would not ordinarily exclude a right of equitable set-off arising from the party's own breach of contract); The Teno [1977] 2 Lloyd's Rep 289 (where a provision in a time charter that fine was to be paid 'without discount' was held not to exclude an equitable set-off). See also BOC Group plc v Centeon LLC [1999] 1 All ER (Comm) 53 (defendant's obligations expressed to be unaffected by '... any other matter whatsoever'; those words did not exclude the right of set-off).

3 Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company of Chicago v Papanicolaou [1986] 2 Lloyd's Rep 441, 83 LS Gaz R 2569, CA; Mottram Consultants Ltd v Bernard Sunley & Sons Ltd [1975] 2 Lloyd's Rep 197, HL.

4 Wood English and International Set-off (1989) p 691.

5 See SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 140-144; and Glencore Grain Ltd v Agros Trading Co Ltd, Agros Trading Co Ltd v Glencore Grain Ltd [1999] 2 All ER (Comm) 288, CA. As to withholding payment in relation to construction contracts see the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 Pt II (ss 104-117); the Scheme for Construction Contracts (England and Wales) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/649; and BUILDING CONTRACTS, ARCHITECTS, ENGINEERS, VALUERS AND SURVEYORS vol 4(3) (Reissue) PARAS 157, 160.

6 See the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 s 13; Stewart Gill Ltd v Horatio Myer & Co Ltd [1992] QB 600, [1992] 2 All ER 257, CA (where it was held that, in the circumstances of the case, the term was unreasonable). See also Electricity Supply Nominees Ltd v IAF Group Ltd [1993] 3 All ER 372, [1993] 1 WLR 1059.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(B) CONTRACTUAL TERMS AFFECTING THE RIGHT/665. Contractual time-bar.

665. Contractual time-bar.

The existence of a contractual time-bar is one of the features which renders this subject somewhat complex. Where the defendant has, by the contract, undertaken that any cross-action will be commenced within a certain time, it is a matter of construction whether he has abandoned all right to deduct¹. If the words are clear and unequivocal in extinguishing his rights, the defendant loses all right to deduct once the period has expired². If, however, the words used are appropriate only to bar the remedy, the defendant may deduct if the general rule of abatement at common law applies³. If the rule of abatement does not apply⁴ it is uncertain whether the defendant can rely on the equitable defence to allow him to deduct once the period has expired⁵.

1 See Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL.

2 See Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL; and PARA 645 note 5.

3 If the time-limit only goes to the remedy this will affect the defendant if, for example, his cross-action is greater than the claimant's claim.

4 Eg if the freight exception (as to which see PARAS 645, 648) operates.

5 The existence of the time-bar will affect the defendant's 'equities': see Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL. However, that case may, arguably, be limited to the situation where the freight exception applies or where the contractual time-bar goes to the cross-claim itself and not merely to the remedy. Where the time-bar applies to the remedy only, there should be no equity against the defendant to prevent him exercising his right to deduct. Reference in that case to 'equities' may, it is submitted, be limited to the two primary findings in that case, that the construction in the text to note 2 applied, and that the freight exception applied. If the construction in the text to note 3 applies, there would appear to be no equity at all against the defendant. Where the defendant claims in time, whether by separate action or by counterclaim, no problem arises, since a proper order in summary judgment proceedings is 'judgment on the claim; stay pending counterclaim': see PARAS 648, 650-651.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(iv) Equitable Defence/(C) EQUITABLE DEFENCE AND LIMITATION/666. English statutes of limitation.

(C) EQUITABLE DEFENCE AND LIMITATION

666. English statutes of limitation.

It is uncertain whether the equitable defence of set-off operates as a true defence unaffected by the Limitation Act 1980 or whether it is within the description 'set-off' in that Act¹, in which case it is deemed to be a separate action commenced on the same date as the action in which it is pleaded². In the latter case the equitable defence might in some cases become statute-barred³.

1 See the Limitation Act 1980 s 35(2). As to abatement as a true defence, unaffected by statute, see PARA 644. As to set-off at law and limitation see PARA 656.

2 Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1)(b).

3 See Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede [1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA; and PARA 651 note 2. In that case Lord Denning MR (obiter) held that equitable defence was not a 'set-off' within the Limitation Act 1939 s 28 (now the Limitation Act 1980 s 35), and was a defence unaffected by the statute. Cairns LJ (obiter) did not accede to this interpretation and Roskill LJ (obiter and without expressing a final opinion) disagreed. See Federal Commerce & Navigation Co Ltd v Molena Alpha Inc [1978] QB 927, [1978] 3 All ER 1066, CA (affd [1979] AC 757, [1979] 1 All ER 307); Westdeutsche Landesbank v Islington Borough Council [1994] 4 All ER 890, (1993) 91 LGR 323. See also Aries Tanker Corp v Total Transport Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 398, [1977] 1 WLR 185, HL. It is submitted that the former view is preferable. Unlike legal set-off, equitable set-off is a substantive defence which would seem to be affected by those statutes which simply bar the remedy but leave the substantive right on foot. By 1939 the nature of equitable set-off as a defence was well recognised (see PARAS 658, 662) and the courts had established a limitation period for set-off at law: Walker v Clements (1850) 15 QB 1046; see PARA 654. It is submitted that in 1939 it was unlikely that Parliament, in a procedural statute, would have intended to affect adversely the judicial status of equitable defence, but was more likely to be enacting the decision in Walker v Clements (1850) 15 QB 1046, relating to set-off at law. It is also incongruous to 'deem' equitable defence to be a separate action, since at least in the Courts of Chancery it had always availed as a defence. As to limitation accepted by contract see PARA 665.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/667. When set-off is available.

(v) The Modern Right of Set-off

(A) IN GENERAL

667. When set-off is available.

A set-off¹ is available to a defendant only when the rules of procedure of the court in which the claimant brings his action allow a set-off to be pleaded², and the mode in which a plea of set-off is to be raised is also determined by those rules³.

A defendant cannot be compelled to plead a set-off; he can, if he wishes, enforce his claim by independent action⁴.

1 In this paragraph and in PARAS 668-711, unless specifically stated, no distinction is drawn between authorities based on set-off at law and those based on equitable defence. As to this distinction see PARAS 653, 658.

2 See CPR 16.6; and PARAS 634 note 3, 712 et seq.

3 This is part of the general rule that the pleadings in a court are governed by the rules of procedure of that court.

4 Laing v Chatham (1808) 1 Camp 252; Jenner v Morris (1861) 3 De GF & J 45; Davis v Hedges (1871) LR 6 QB 687; Re Sturmeys Motors Ltd, Rattray v Sturmeys Motors Ltd [1913] 1 Ch 16.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/668. Set-off in Crown proceedings.

668. Set-off in Crown proceedings.

In a claim by the Crown for taxes, duties or penalties, the defendant cannot make a counterclaim¹ or other Part 20 claim² or raise a defence of set-off³. In any other claim by the Crown, the defendant cannot make a counterclaim or other Part 20 claim or raise a defence of set-off which is based on a claim for repayment of taxes, duties or penalties⁴.

In proceedings by or against the Crown in the name of the Attorney-General, no counterclaim or other Part 20 claim can be made or defence of set-off raised without the permission of the court⁵. In proceedings by or against the Crown in the name of a government department, no counterclaim or other Part 20 claim can be made or defence of set-off raised without the permission of the court unless the subject matter relates to that government department⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 20 claim' see PARA 618.

3 CPR 66.4(1). As to proceedings by the Crown generally see CROWN PROCEEDINGS AND CROWN PRACTICE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 107-109.

4 CPR 66.4(2).

5 CPR 66.4(3).

6 CPR 66.4(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/669. Set-off: waiver and estoppel.

669. Set-off: waiver and estoppel.

Old authorities support the view that the right of set-off under the Statutes of Set-off cannot be waived¹. But, in principle, there is a strong argument that a defendant should be entitled to waive the benefit of a set-off². The modern view is that a person can contract out of the right of set-off³. If it is possible to contract out of the right of equitable set-off, then it would seem possible to waive the right to equitable set-off and set-off under the Statutes⁴.

A defendant may be estopped by his conduct from relying on a set-off. Thus a defendant to whom the plaintiff (now claimant) had produced an account which the defendant admitted to be correct was not allowed, when sued for a sum debited in the account after a long period of acquiescence, to claim a set-off in respect of a loss as to which he had admitted he had no claim⁵. Similarly, where a defendant, due to a mistake, had given credit in an account with the plaintiff, and, after discovering the mistake, had allowed the plaintiff to remain in ignorance of it, he was not allowed to set off the sum for which credit had been so given when sued by the plaintiff⁶.

1 Lechmere v Hawkins (1798) 2 Esp 625; Taylor v Okey (1896) 13 Ves 180; McGillivray v Simson (1826) 9 Dow & Ry KB 35. There are also old cases in which a debtor has been allowed a set-off, although he has contracted to pay in money: Eland v Karr (1801) 1 East 375; Cornforth v Rivett (1814) 2 M & S 510. As to the Statutes of Set-off see PARA 652.

2 If the Statutes of Set-off were enacted for the benefit of defendants rather than in the public interest, then there is no strong reason why a defendant should not be entitled to waive the benefit.

3 Hong Kong & Shanghai Banking Corp'n v Kloeckner & Co AG [1990] 2 QB 514, [1989] 3 All ER 513, applied in Coca-Cola Financial Corp'n v Finsat International Ltd [1998] QB 43, [1996] 2 Lloyd's Rep 274, CA, and not following Taylor v Okey (1806) 13 Ves 180 and Lechmere v Hawkins (1798) 2 Esp 625. See also BICC plc v Burndy Corp'n [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA; and Farrar 'Contracting Out of Set-off' (1970) NLJ 771.

4 BICC v Burndy Corp'n [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA.

5 Baker v Langhorn (1816) 6 Taunt 519.

6 Skyring v Greenwood (1825) 4 B & C 281, and cf R v Blenkinsop [1892] 1 QB 43. See also ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARAS 1057, 1059.

UPDATE

669 Set-off: waiver and estoppel

NOTE 3--See Re Kaupthing Singer and Friedlander Ltd; Newcastle Building Society v Mill [2009] EWHC 740 (Ch), [2009] 2 BCLC 137.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/670. Claims must arise in the same right.

670. Claims must arise in the same right.

Subject to certain exceptions¹, a set-off may only be maintained where the claims to be set off against each other exist between the same parties and in the same right².

¹ For these exceptions see PARA 679 et seq.

² See the Statutes of Set-off (2 Geo 2 c 22 (Insolvent Debtors Relief) (1728) s 13; 8 Geo 2 c 24 (Set-off) (1734) s 5 (both repealed)), and PARAS 652, 653. See also Freeman v Lomas (1851) 9 Hare 109; Richardson v Richardson (1867) LR 3 Eq 686; Stammers v Elliott (1867) LR 4 Eq 675 (on appeal (1868) 3 Ch App 195); Middleton v Pollock, ex p Nugee (1875) LR 20 Eq 29; NW Robbie & Co Ltd v Witney Warehouse Co Ltd [1963] 3 All ER 613, [1963] 1 WLR 1324, CA; Rother Iron Works Ltd v Canterbury Precision Engineers Ltd [1974] QB 1, [1973] 1 All ER 394, CA. For example, where a municipal corporation opened three separate accounts with the plaintiff's bank, the first as the corporation, the second as managers of public baths and washhouses, and the third as the local board of health, and was sued for a balance due on the first account, it was held that it could set off sums due to it on the second and third accounts: Pedder v Preston Corpn (1862) 12 CBNS 535. However, where a trustee for creditors of a firm to whom an assignment of debts due to the firm had been made sued for a debt owing to him in respect of the business which had accrued since the assignment, it was held that the defendant could not set off a pre-existing debt due from the firm: Hunt v Jessel (1854) 18 Beav 100. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/671. Inalienable claims.

671. Inalienable claims.

Where a claim is based upon a statutory right which, by the terms of the statute, is not transferable to any person other than the claimant, a debt due from the claimant may not be set off against it¹.

¹ Gathercole v Smith (1881) 17 ChD 1, CA (claim for a pension created by the Incumbents Resignation Act 1871 (repealed)). See also Gathercole v Smith (1881) 7 QBD 626, CA. It may be that the decision in this case disallowing set-off turns on the view that allowance of a set-off would have frustrated the object of the statute. As to the transfer and assignment of pensions see CHOSER IN ACTION vol 13 (2009) PARAS 94, 96.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/672. Debt due to or by the claimant jointly with others.

672. Debt due to or by the claimant jointly with others.

A joint debt and a several debt cannot be set off against each other¹. Thus in an action for a debt due from the defendant to the claimant² separately, the defendant cannot set off a debt due from the claimant jointly with others who are not co-claimants in the action³. However, he may set off a debt due from the claimant severally as well as jointly with others⁴.

A defendant sued for a debt by two or more claimants jointly cannot set off a debt from one of the claimants separately⁵, even though the joint debt was contracted owing to fraud⁶.

1 Ex p Twogood (1805) 11 Ves 517. This rule applies where the joint debt is a partnership debt, unless one partner has been held out as sole partner: see PARA 702.

2 As to the meanings of 'defendant' and 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 Arnold v Bainbrigge (1853) 9 Exch 153. But if a course of business is shown in which such debts have been set off, then, if the facts are strong enough to raise a presumption of an agreement to set off, the set-off is allowed: Downam v Matthews (1721) Prec Ch 580; Vulliamy v Noble (1817) 3 Mer 593. See also Middleton v Pollock, ex p Knight and Raymond (1875) LR 20 Eq 515. See also PARA 662. Cf Re Pennington and Owen Ltd [1925] Ch 825, CA, where the liquidator in the winding up of a company was not allowed to set off a debt of a partnership firm against a separate debt due by the company to one of the partners. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

4 Fletcher v Dyche (1787) 2 Term Rep 32; Owen v Wilkinson (1858) 5 CBNS 526.

5 Crawford v Stirling (1802) 4 Esp 207; Gordon v Ellis (1846) 2 CB 821; Piercy v Fynney (1871) LR 12 Eq 69.

6 Middleton v Pollock, ex p Knight and Raymond (1875) LR 20 Eq 515.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/673. Debt due by or to the defendant jointly with others.

673. Debt due by or to the defendant jointly with others.

If two defendants are sued for a joint debt they cannot set off a debt due to one of them separately¹, and, if a defendant is sued for a separate debt, he cannot set off a debt due to himself and another jointly².

A defendant who is sued alone as one of several joint debtors may plead that the debt is due from himself jointly with others, and that he and his co-debtors are entitled to a set-off in respect of a debt owed by the claimant to them jointly³, but he cannot set off a debt due to one of the co-debtors separately, even though the co-debtor has assigned a share of the debt to him⁴.

1 Jones v Fleeming (1827) 7 B & C 217; Watts v Christie (1849) 11 Beav 546.

2 Ex p Riley (1731) Kel W 24; Kinnerley v Hossack (1809) 2 Taunt 170; Re Fisher, ex p Ross (1817) Buck 125; Toplis v Grane (1839) 5 Bing NC 636; Re Willis, Percival & Co, ex p Morier (1879) 12 ChD 491, CA; and see Loughnan v O'Sullivan [1922] 1 IR 103 (Ir CA) (affd [1922] 1 IR 160 (High Court of Appeal)). If the other person is dead the defendant as sole surviving creditor may set off the debt: Slipper v Stidstone (1794) 5 Term Rep 493. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

3 Stackwood v Dunn (1842) 3 QB 822.

4 Bowyear v Pawson (1881) 6 QBD 540.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/674. Set-off as affected by the character in which the claims are made.

674. Set-off as affected by the character in which the claims are made.

The Statutes of Set-off applied to cross-debts at law between the parties to an action at law¹. If there is a lack of mutuality at law, but there is in equity, equity by analogy with the legal right of set-off under the Statutes may allow a set-off². On the other hand, where there is mutuality at law, if one of the debts has been assigned in equity or held in trust for a third party, equity would generally not allow a set-off on the ground that it would be unconscionable to do so³.

The general rule is that an equitable assignee takes subject to the debtor's right of set-off against the assignor before the debtor receives notice of the assignment⁴. But no set-off is available in relation to a debt arising after notice⁵.

1 See Isberg v Bowden (1853) 8 Exch 852, discussed in Watkins v Clark (1862) 12 CBNS 277 at 281-282 per Keating J ('the Statutes of Set-off are confined to legal debts set between the parties'); Wilson v Gabriel (1863) 8 LT 502; Bankes v Jarvis [1903] 1 KB 549, DC. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1. As to the Statutes of Set-off see PARA 652.

2 Freeman v Lomas (1851) 9 Hare 109; Cavendish v Geaves (1857) 24 Beav 163; Cochrane v Green (1860) 9 CBNS 448; Agra and Masterman's Bank Ltd v Leighton (1866) LR 2 Exch 56; Barclay's Bank Ltd v Aschaffenburg Zellstoffwerke AG [1967] 1 Lloyd's Rep 387, CA. See also Winch v Keeley (1787) 1 Term Rep 619; Tucker v Tucker (1833) 4 B & Ad 745.

3 Re Whitehouse & Co (1878) 9 ChD 595; Re Paraguassu Steam Tramroad Co (1872) 8 Ch App 254; Mercer v Graves (1872) LR 7 QB 499. It is thought that the statements by Jessel MR in Re Whitehouse & Co (1878) 9 ChD 595, and Lord Selborne LC in Re Paraguassu Steam Tramroad Co (1872) 8 Ch App 254 that, where cross-claims are mutual at law but not in equity, set-off under the Statutes will not be allowed, are too absolute. The governing principle is that of unconscionability: Rother Iron Works Ltd v Canterbury Precision Engineers Ltd [1974] QB 1, [1973] 1 All ER 394.

4 Moore v Jervis (1845) 2 Coll 60; Wilson v Gabriel (1863) 4 B & S 243; but cf Dixon v Winch [1900] 1 Ch 736; Turner v Smith [1901] 1 Ch 213.

5 Wilson v Gabriel (1863) 4 B & S 243; Christie v Taunton, Delmard, Lane & Co [1893] 2 Ch 175.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/675. Claims which may or may not be pleaded by way of set-off.

675. Claims which may or may not be pleaded by way of set-off.

Modern authority favours the view that in an action for specific performance of a contract for the sale of land the defendant can plead by way of set-off a debt due from the claimant to the defendant¹. A mortgage debt may be set off against a claim for the purchase money².

In an action for a sum payable under a contract which contains a provision that in certain events the defendant may claim a deduction to be ascertained by arbitration, a set-off may be pleaded of a sum which the arbitrator has found to be the proper amount of deduction³.

1 BICC plc v Burndy Corpn [1985] Ch 232, [1985] 1 All ER 417, CA (where Dillon and Ackner LJ considered that both statutory and equitable set-off are a good defence re an action for specific performance; but cf Kerr LJ, who considered that neither is a defence though each is relevant to the exercise of the court's discretion to refuse relief). The view of Kerr LJ may be correct as to legal set-off, but it does not seem to be correct as to equitable set-off. See also Phipps v Child (1857) 3 Drew 709. If the vendor's agent without the vendor's knowledge agrees that the purchaser may deduct from the purchase price a debt due from the agent, this agreement does not bind the vendor and affords no ground of set-off, even though completion has taken place: Young v White (1844) 7 Beav 506; but see, to the contrary, Gathercole v Smith (1881) 7 QBD 626, CA, per Bramwell LJ. Cf PARA 657.

2 Wallis v Bastard (1853) 4 De GM & G 251 (where the set-off was based on an implied agreement).

3 Parkes v Smith (1850) 15 QB 297; Murphy v Glass (1869) LR 2 PC 408; Alcoy and Gandia Rly and Harbour Co Ltd v Greenhill (1897) 76 LT 542 (on appeal (1898) 79 LT 257, CA). See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 901. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/676. When the claim must arise.

676. When the claim must arise.

Under the law as it existed before 1873¹ no debt could be made the subject of a set-off at law unless it was in existence and was an actionable and enforceable debt both at the time when the action was commenced² and at the date when the plea was pleaded³, and had continued unsatisfied up to the trial⁴. It was no objection to a set-off that the debt relied upon accrued due after the plaintiff's cause of action accrued⁵. Nevertheless, a plea of set-off of a debt was bad unless it alleged that the plaintiff was liable to the defendant at the commencement of the action and still was so liable⁶. Equity would appear to have followed the law in refusing to permit such debts to be set off⁷.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, a claim (including a counterclaim) must be made by a statement of case, and amendment to such statement may only be made as permitted by the rules of procedure⁸.

1 le before the passing of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act 1873 (repealed).

2 Evans v Prosser (1789) 3 Term Rep 186; Richards v James (1848) 2 Exch 471. So a defendant could not set off a sum due on a bill of exchange which was in the hands of a third person at the date the action was brought, and which was subsequently indorsed to the defendant: Braithwaite v Coleman (1835) 4 Nev & MKB 654.

3 Eyton v Littledale (1849) 7 Dow & L 55.

4 Eyton v Littledale (1849) 7 Dow & L 55; Lee v Lester (1849) 7 CB 1008 at 1015 per Maule J, arguendo. See also Loughnan v O'Sullivan [1922] 1 IR 103, Ir CA (affd [1922] 1 IR 160 (High Court of Appeal)).

5 Lee v Lester (1849) 7 CB 1008.

6 Dendy v Powell (1838) 3 M & W 442.

7 Whyte v O'Brien (1824) 1 Sim & St 551; Green v Darling 5 Mason's Reps 201 at 212 (US 1828) per Story J; Maw v Ulyatt (1861) 31 LJ Ch 33.

8 See CPR Pts 16-18; and PARAS 607 et seq, 712 et seq, 719.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/677. Company winding up and bankruptcy.

677. Company winding up and bankruptcy.

If a company goes into liquidation, debts which accrued due before the winding up may be set off against one another¹, but there is authority for the proposition that a defendant sued for a debt which has accrued since the winding up cannot set off a debt due from the company before the liquidator was appointed². Similar considerations govern set-off in bankruptcy³.

1 Re Agra and Masterman's Bank, Anderson's Case (1866) LR 3 Eq 337; Christie v Taunton, Delmard, Lane & Co [1893] 2 Ch 175. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Ince Hall Rolling Mills Co v Douglas Forge Co (1882) 8 QBD 179; Re Newdigate Colliery Ltd, Newdegate v Newdigate Colliery Ltd [1912] 1 Ch 468, CA. The decision in Ince Hall Rolling Mills (1882) 8 QBD 179 has been the subject of controversy. The decision is inconsistent with the principle as stated by Dixon J in Hiley v Peoples Prudential Assurance Co Ltd (1938) 60 CLR 468 at 497 ('it is enough that at the commencement of the winding-up mutual dealings exist which involve rights and obligations of such a nature that afterwards in the events that happen they mature or develop into pecuniary demands capable of set-off'). See Re Charge Card Services Ltd [1987] Ch 150, [1986] 3 All ER 289 (where Millett J accepted the statement by Dixon J as correct); affd [1989] Ch 497, [1988] 3 All ER 702, CA. See also Naoroji v Chartered Bank of India (1868) LR 3 CP 444 at 451-452; Gye v McIntyre (1991) 171 CLR 609. Compare Ince Hall Rolling Mills Co v Douglas Forge Co (1882) 8 QBD 179 with Rother Iron Works Ltd v Canterbury Precision Engineers Ltd [1974] QB 1, [1973] 1 All ER 394, CA (a receivership case in which a set-off was allowed and Ince Hall Rolling Mills Co v Douglas Forge Co (1882) 8 QBD 179 was distinguished). See also Wood English and International Set-off (1989) pp 326, 336; SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 367-376. A debtor to a company of which a receiver has been appointed cannot set off an amount due to him as holder of second mortgage debentures in the company, as the effect would be to give him a preference over the first debenture holders: see H Wilkins and Elkington Ltd v Milton (1916) 32 TLR 618; and COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1320.

3 But see Drew v Josolyne (1887) 18 QBD 590, CA; Re Tout and Finch Ltd [1954] 1 All ER 127, [1954] 1 WLR 178; Re Davis & Co, ex p Rawlings (1888) 22 QBD 193, CA. As to set-off in bankruptcy generally see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 547 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(A) IN GENERAL/678. Set-off of costs by solicitor.

678. Set-off of costs by solicitor.

A solicitor may set off an amount due to him for costs even though he has not complied with the statutory provision¹ which requires the delivery of a bill of costs a month before action².

¹ See the Solicitors Act 1974 s 69(1): see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 956.

² Harrison v Turner (1847) 10 QB 482; Ex p Cooper (1854) 14 CB 663; Brown v Tibbits (1862) 11 CBNS 855; Currie & Co v Law Society [1977] QB 990, [1976] 3 All ER 832 (where, however, set-off was refused in the exercise of the judge's discretion). See also Rawley v Rawley (1876) 1 QBD 460; and LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 956 et seq. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/679. Claim by disclosed principal or by agent.

(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES

(

679. Claim by disclosed principal or by agent.

A defendant who is sued by the disclosed principal of an agent cannot set off a debt due from the agent¹, and if the defendant is sued by the agent he cannot set off a debt due from the principal², unless it can be shown that the agent has assented to such a set-off³. A set-off will not be allowed if it would prejudice an agent's lien for his expenses or any prior charge given him by his principal over the money in respect of which the action is brought⁴.

1 Moore v Clementson (1809) 2 Camp 22; Richardson v Stormont, Todd & Co[1900] 1 QB 701, CA. As to the relationship between principal and agent see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 71 et seq. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Atkyns and Batten v Amber (1796) 2 Esp 491; Isberg v Bowden(1853) 8 Exch 852; Manley & Sons Ltd v Berkett[1912] 2 KB 329 (set-off of debt due from owner to purchaser against claim by auctioneer for price). As to actions by auctioneers see AUCTION vol 2(3) (Reissue) PARA 258.

3 Jarvis v Chapple (1815) 2 Chit 387. In such a case the set-off may be considered as based on agreement: see PARA 661.

4 Manley & Sons Ltd v Berkett[1912] 2 KB 329. As to lien generally see LIEN. As to agents' liens see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARAS 114-118.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/680. Claim by undisclosed principal.

680. Claim by undisclosed principal.

A defendant sued on a liquidated claim by an undisclosed principal¹ may set off a debt due to him from the agent of that undisclosed principal², provided (1) that the claim is in respect of a transaction entered into by the agent acting in his own name as principal; (2) that the claimant authorised the agent so to act or held him out as principal; (3) that the defendant dealt with the agent in the belief that he was the principal; and (4) that the debt which the defendant seeks to set off accrued due before he knew that the agent was merely an agent³.

1 As to the enforceability of contracts with undisclosed principals generally see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 125 et seq.

2 Rabone v Williams (1785) 7 Term Rep 360n; George v Clagett (1797) 7 Term Rep 359; Carr v Hinchcliff (1825) 4 B & C 547; Purchell v Salter (1841) 1 QB 197 (revsd sub nom Salter v Purchell (1841) 1 QB 209, Ex Ch); Turner v Thomas (1871) LR 6 CP 610; Montgomerie v United Kingdom Mutual Steamship Association Ltd [1891] 1 QB 370; Re Henley, ex p Dixon (1876) 4 ChD 133, CA; Montagu v Forwood [1893] 2 QB 350, CA; Browning v Provincial Insurance Co of Canada (1873) LR 5 PC 263. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

3 Borries v Imperial Ottoman Bank (1873) LR 9 CP 38; Isaac Cooke & Sons v Eshelby (1887) 12 App Cas 271, HL. If the defendant has no belief one way or the other, the right of set-off does not arise: Isaac Cooke & Sons v Eshelby (1887) 12 App Cas 271, HL. See also Carr v Hinchcliff (1825) 4 B & C 547; Fish v Kempton (1849) 7 CB 687; Kaltenbach, Fischer & Co v Lewis & Peat (1885) 10 App Cas 617.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/681. Mercantile agents.

681. Mercantile agents.

If the defendant knows only that the agent is an agent, for example that he is a broker, without knowing his principal, he is put on inquiry and in an action by the principal cannot set off a debt due from the agent¹, nor can he rely on any custom not known to the claimant as giving him the right of set-off². The existence of an authority from the principal to the agent to receive payment from the defendant on behalf of the principal does not enable the defendant to effect payment by a set-off against a debt owing by the agent³. However, if the defendant believes that the agent, having the right to do so, for example if he is a factor, has sold in his own name to repay advances made by him to his principal, the defendant is not bound to make further inquiry, and so may set off against a claim by the principal a debt due from the agent⁴.

1 Baring v Corrie (1818) 2 B & Ald 137 (where a set off was denied to a third party who bought goods from a broker selling in his own name, the broker's authority being confined to selling in the name of the principal); Fish v Kempton (1849) 7 CB 687; Walshe v Provan (1853) 8 Exch 843; Dresser v Norwood (1863) 14 CBNS 574; Semenza v Brinsley (1865) 18 CBNS 467; Pearson v Scott (1878) 9 ChD 198; Mildred v Maspons (1883) 8 App Cas 874, HL; Knight v Matson & Co (1902) 22 NZLR 293. In this respect the position of a broker differs from that of a factor. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Blackburn v Mason (1893) 68 LT 510, CA.

3 Pearson v Scott (1878) 9 ChD 198.

4 Warner v McKay (1836) 1 M & W 591. See also Hudson v Granger (1821) 5 B & Ald 27.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/682. Defendant contracting by broker.

682. Defendant contracting by broker.

If the claim which the defendant seeks to set off arises out of a transaction with an agent entered into by a broker acting on the defendant's behalf, the knowledge of the broker is the knowledge of the defendant, and if the broker knew that the agent was an agent the defendant cannot set off a debt due from the agent¹.

1 Dresser v Norwood (1864) 17 CBNS 466, Ex Ch: see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARAS 133, 137.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/683. Set-off between principal and agent.

683. Set-off between principal and agent.

A broker may set off as against his principal a debt due from the principal¹. Where, however, a broker, the defendant, had purchased and then resold goods on behalf of the claimant he could not set off the price paid by him to the original seller, for whom he sold the goods under a del credere commission, against the claim made by the claimant for the proceeds of the resale, even though the claimant knew that the defendant had acted throughout as broker².

1 Dale v Sollet (1767) 4 Burr 2133, which is an authority not on set-off but rather on the common law right of deduction enabling an agent who recovered money for his principal to deduct from the proceeds the amount of his recompense. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Morris v Cleasby (1816) 4 M & S 566 at 575 per Lord Ellenborough CJ. His Lordship thought that the case must be considered on the basis that the principal was disclosed at the sale and went on to say 'the principal must always be debtor, and that, whether he is known in the first instance or not, except where the broker has by the form of the instrument made himself so liable'. As to del credere agents see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 13; SALE OF GOODS AND SUPPLY OF SERVICES vol 41 (2005 Reissue) PARA 120.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/684. Claims between insurance brokers and underwriters.

684. Claims between insurance brokers and underwriters.

A claim under an insurance policy is a claim for unliquidated damages, and losses and premiums could not be set off against each other under the Statutes of Set-off¹. However, the nature of the claim and cross-claim might in appropriate cases permit an equitable defence or counterclaim².

1 See PARAS 652-653. As to the Statutes of Set-off see PARA 652 note 1. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1. A broker who effects a policy of marine insurance on behalf of an insured is responsible as a principal to the underwriter for the premium: Marine Insurance Act 1906 s 53(1). The prima facie rule is that, unless the broker effects the policy on his own account, a set-off of the underwriter's liability to the insured is not available against the broker's liability for unpaid premiums: see Koster v Eason (1813) 2 M & S 112; Wilson v Creighton (1782) 3 Doug KB 132; Bell v Auldjo (1784) 4 Doug KB 48.

2 As to equitable defence see PARA 658 et seq. As to counterclaims see PARA 618 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(A) Agents and Assignees/685. Set-off against assignee of chose (or thing) in action.

685. Set-off against assignee of chose (or thing) in action.

In general, a debtor may set off against an assignee of a chose (or thing) in action any debt that he could have set off against the assignor, provided that it is a debt which accrued due before notice of assignment¹. The defendant to an action brought by the assignee of a marine insurance policy is entitled to raise any defence, and therefore any set-off, arising out of the contract which he would have been entitled to raise against the assignor².

1 For a detailed analysis of this right of set-off see CHOSSES IN ACTION vol 13 (2009) PARA 63. There is no right of set-off against the assignee of a debt which had neither accrued due before the date of the assignment nor was connected with the assigned debt, even though it had arisen under a contract which had been made between the debtor and the assignor before the date of the assignment: Business Computers Ltd v Anglo-African Leasing Ltd [1977] 2 All ER 741, [1977] 1 WLR 578. See also Banco Central SA and Trevelan Navigation Inc v Lingoss and Falce Ltd and BFI Line Ltd, The Raven [1980] 2 Lloyd's Rep 266.

2 See the Marine Insurance Act 1906 s 50(2); and INSURANCE vol 25 (2003 Reissue) PARA 389. Such a defendant has no greater right of set-off than the assignee of any other chose (or thing) in action and may not set off a claim for indemnity arising out of a policy other than that on which the claimant sues: Baker v Adam (1910) 102 LT 248.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(B) Banks and Customers/686. Set-off between bank and customer.

(

686. Set-off between bank and customer.

A bank is entitled to set off what is due to a customer on one account against what is due from him on another account¹, even if the money due to him may in fact belong to another person², unless there is some equity sufficient to bar the legal right of set-off³. But a bank has no right to set off a credit in a customer's account against a debit in a third party's account merely on suspicion that the customer holds as nominee of the third party⁴. Neither is a bank justified of its own motion in transferring a balance from what it knows to be a trust account of its customer to the customer's private account⁵, or in setting off against its customer's balance a debt from the customer before it has actually fallen due⁶; nor may it set off any debt from its customer against the holder of a letter of credit given to the customer⁷.

A customer has a right to set off a balance due to him from his bank against a debt due to the bank from him⁸, unless he has notice that the debt due from him has been assigned to a stranger⁹.

1 Bailey v Finch(1871) LR 7 QB 34 (which was distinguished in Re Willis, Percival & Co, ex p Morier(1879) 12 ChD 491, CA, and has been criticised: see SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 423-424); Re European Bank, Agra Bank Claim(1872) 8 Ch App 41; Union Bank of Australia Ltd v Murray-Aynsley[1898] AC 693, PC. See also Watts v Christie (1849) 11 Beav 546; Baker v Lloyds Bank Ltd[1920] 2 KB 322; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARAS 835, 860. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Bank of New South Wales v Goulburn Valley Butter Co Pty[1902] AC 543, PC; cf North and South Wales Bank Ltd v Macbeth, North and South Wales Bank Ltd v Irvine[1908] AC 137, HL.

3 Bailey v Finch(1871) LR 7 QB 34; Newell v National Provincial Bank of England (1876) 1 CPD 496; Parsons v Sovereign Bank of Canada[1913] AC 160, PC.

4 Bhogal v Punjab National Bank[1988] 2 All ER 296, 1 FTLR 161, CA. See also Saudi Arabia Monetary Agency v Dresdner Bank AG [2004] EWCA Civ 1074, [2005] 1 Lloyd's Rep 12 (bank blocked money transfer on suspicion money beneficially owned by debtor; customer awarded summary judgment).

5 Re Gross, ex p Kingston(1871) 6 Ch App 632, approved in Bank of New South Wales v Goulburn Valley Butter Co Pty[1902] AC 543, PC. See FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 842.

6 Rogerson v Ladbroke (1822) 1 Bing 93; Jeffryes v Agra and Masterman's Bank(1866) LR 2 Eq 674; cf Thomas v Howell(1874) LR 18 Eq 198 (distinguished in Halse v Rumford (1878) 47 LJ Ch 559).

7 *Re Agra and Masterman's Bank, ex p Asiatic Banking Corp*n(1867) 2 Ch App 391, explained in Rainford v James Keith and Blackman Co Ltd[1905] 1 Ch 296.

8 Bailey v Finch(1871) LR 7 QB 34.

9 Cavendish v Geaves (1857) 24 Beav 163.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(B) Banks and Customers/687. Customer's personal and joint accounts.

687. Customer's personal and joint accounts.

Where a customer of a bank having an account in his own name also has an account in the name of himself and another jointly¹, a right to set off items in the two accounts will only arise where the customer is so beneficially interested in the balance of the joint account that a court of equity would without terms or inquiry compel a transfer of the account into the customer's name alone².

1 As to joint accounts generally see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 823.

2 Watts v Christie (1849) 11 Beav 546; Re Willis, Percival & Co, ex p Morier (1879) 12 ChD 491, CA. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/688. Claims by and against personal representatives.

(

688. Claims by and against personal representatives.

The defendant to a claim by an executor or administrator for a debt which has accrued due to the estate since the death may not set off a debt due to himself from the deceased during the lifetime of the deceased¹. Nor may a person sued for a debt which accrued due before the death set off a debt which has accrued due from the estate after the death². Similarly, an executor or administrator who is sued for a debt which accrued due from the deceased during his lifetime cannot set off a debt which has accrued due to the estate since the death³; but where an executor or administrator can show a debt due from the deceased he may set it off against a debt due to him⁴.

1 Shipman v Thompson (1738) Willes 103; Schofield v Corbett (1836) 11 QB 779; Rees v Watts (1855) 11 Exch 410; Mardall v Thellusson (1856) 6 E & B 976; Hallett v Hallett (1879) 13 ChD 232; Re Gregson, Christison v Bolam (1887) 36 ChD 223; Re Gedney, Smith v Grummitt [1908] 1 Ch 804. See further EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Newell v National Provincial Bank of England (1876) 1 CPD 496. See also Lambarde v Older (1851) 17 Beav 542; Allison v Smith (1869) 10 B & S 747.

3 Rees v Watts (1855) 11 Exch 410; Mardall v Thellusson (1856) 6 E & B 976.

4 Blakesley v Smallwood (1846) 8 QB 538, explained in Rees v Watts (1855) 11 Exch 410.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/689. Set-off against debts due from legatees.

689. Set-off against debts due from legatees.

An executor can set off against a legatee a debt owed to the testator¹ even though the debt has become statute-barred since the death of the testator². A debtor of a testator who is also the creditor of a legatee cannot, by some interposition of the executors, apply a legacy bequeathed by the testator to the legatee in discharge of the debt, unless there is some contract with the legatee for the purpose³.

1 Smith v Smith (1861) 3 Giff 263. See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 903; EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Coates v Coates (1864) 33 Beav 249; Gee v Liddell (No 2) (1866) 35 Beav 629.

3 Smee v Baines (1861) 4 LT 573, where A bought part of the testator's business in his lifetime for £350 and sold it after his death to a legatee for £350.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/690. Claims must exist in the same right.

690. Claims must exist in the same right.

The rule that the debts must accrue in the same right¹ is strictly applied. Therefore, if a claimant sues as executor, the defendant cannot set off a debt due from the claimant in his personal capacity². If an executor is sued as executor, he cannot set off a claim he has in his personal capacity against the claimant³, and if sued in his personal capacity he cannot set off a claim he has as executor, unless it is such a claim that he can also sue on it in his personal capacity⁴. If the claimant sues as assignee, the executor cannot set off a personal claim against the assignor⁵.

1 As to this rule see PARA 670.

2 Hutchinson v Sturges (1741) Willes 261; Bishop v Church (1748) 3 Atk 691; Macdonald v Carington (1878) 4 CPD 28; Re Dickinson, Marquis of Bute v Walker, ex p Hoyle, Shipley and Hoyle [1888] WN 94; Phillips v Howell [1901] 2 Ch 773. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

3 Gale v Luttrell (1826) 1 Y & J 180.

4 Bishop v Church (1748) 3 Atk 691; Harvey v Wood (1821) 5 Madd 459; Macdonald v Carington (1878) 4 CPD 28; Re Willis, Percival & Co, ex p Morier (1879) 12 ChD 491, CA; Nelson v Roberts (1893) 69 LT 352, DC.

5 Bishop v Church (1748) 3 Atk 691; Whitaker v Rush (1761) Amb 407. But cf Taylor v Taylor (1875) LR 20 Eq 155; Re Jones, Christmas v Jones [1897] 2 Ch 190.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/691. Personal representative who is both debtor and creditor.

691. Personal representative who is both debtor and creditor.

There is no principle which requires a different rule as to set-off to be applied in equity¹ from that to be applied at law. However, where the representative, having discharged all the liabilities of the estate, has, as sole next of kin or residuary legatee, become legally and equitably the absolute owner of a debt due to his testator, the debtor may set off a debt due from the representative personally against a claim for the debt, even though made by the representative in his representative capacity². This equitable exception is not, however, to be extended to a case in which administration accounts require to be taken in order to show that the representative is the beneficial owner of the debt³.

1 Newell v National Provincial Bank of England (1876) 1 CPD 496. As to equitable defences see PARA 658.

2 Jones v Mossop (1844) 3 Hare 568. See the discussion of this case in SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 424-425.

3 Re Willis, Percival & Co, ex p Morier (1879) 12 ChD 491, CA, explaining Bailey v Finch (1871) LR 7 QB 34.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/692. Set-off against claim of next of kin.

692. Set-off against claim of next of kin.

Where there is a claim in administration proceedings by a next of kin for a sum due in respect of a share of the intestate's estate, the administrator may set off a debt due to himself personally from the next of kin¹ notwithstanding that the share has been paid into court² or has been assigned by the next of kin³ or that the debt is statute-barred⁴.

1 Taylor v Taylor (1875) LR 20 Eq 155 (there was no fund in existence representing the proceeds of the intestate's estate). See also Whitaker v Rush (1761) Amb 407 (where it seems the legatee's claim was for payment out of a particular fund). As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Taylor v Taylor (1875) LR 20 Eq 155.

3 Re Jones, Christmas v Jones [1897] 2 Ch 190. An executor may set off against a legacy costs which have been ordered to be paid to him by the legatee in probate proceedings: see Re Knapman, Knapman v Wreford (1881) 18 ChD 300, CA.

4 Re Cordwell's Estate, White v Cordwell (1875) LR 20 Eq 644. The decision in this case was based on the rule in Cherry v Boulton (1839) 4 My & Cr 442 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 559), rather than set-off.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/693. Set-off between trustee and trust estate.

693. Set-off between trustee and trust estate.

A trustee is ordinarily entitled to set off an amount due to him from the trust estate against an amount due to it from him¹. He can also set off an amount due to the estate from a beneficiary against a sum payable out of the estate to that beneficiary².

In garnishee proceedings by a judgment creditor against solicitors for payment of money received by them on trusts which had failed, the solicitors could not set off against the fund the amount of legal costs owed to them by the judgment debtor³.

1 McEwan v Crombie (1883) 25 ChD 175, where, on a sum being found to be due to two trustees from the trust estate and a sum being due to the estate from one of them who was bankrupt, it was held that the portion, if any, of the sum due to the two trustees which, on inquiry, should be found to be due to the bankrupt trustee should be set off against the sum due from him. There is generally no right to set off a gain against a loss arising out of different breaches of trust: see Adye v Feuilleteau (1783) 3 Swan 84n; and TRUSTS vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 1102.

2 Re Harrald, Wilde v Walford (1884) 53 LJ Ch 505, CA: see PARA 688 et seq. As to the right of trustees to retain trust property against beneficiaries indebted to the trustees as such see Priddy v Rose (1817) 3 Mer 86; and TRUSTS vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 923.

3 Stumore v Campbell & Co [1892] 1 QB 314, CA. See also PARA 707.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(C) Personal Representatives, Trustees and Beneficiaries/694. Set-off between trustee and debtors to the trust estate.

694. Set-off between trustee and debtors to the trust estate.

Where a trustee sues a debtor to the trust estate, the debtor can set off against the trustee's claim an amount due to him from the beneficiary¹, and a person who is sued for a debt can set off a sum due from the claimant to a trustee for him².

1 Thornton v Maynard (1875) LR 10 CP 695. There can be a set-off even if the amount due from the beneficiary is in respect of unliquidated damages: Bankes v Jarvis [1903] 1 KB 549, which was approved in Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA, per Morris LJ. Note, however, that the statement by Channell J in Bankes v Jarvis [1903] 1 KB 549 at 553 that 'the Judicature Act and more especially the rules, . . . put an unliquidated claim on the same footing as a liquidated claim for the purpose of set-off' is difficult to support: McDonnell & East v McGregor (1936) 56 CLR 50 at 61-62. But where trustees of a settlement are creditors of a testator under his covenant in the settlement, a legacy left by him to their beneficiary cannot be set off by way of satisfaction against their claim under the settlement: Smith v Smith (1861) 3 Giff 263.

2 Cochrane v Green (1860) 9 CBNS 448; but see Middleton v Pollock, ex p Nugee (1875) LR 20 Eq 29. Trustees of an estate in which they are also beneficiaries cannot set off a debt due to the estate from a person who is insolvent against a debt due from them personally to trustees for that person: Middleton v Pollock, ex p Nugee (1875) LR 20 Eq 29. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(D) Husband and Wife/695. Debts of or due to wife in proceedings between husband and third person.

(D) HUSBAND AND WIFE

695. Debts of or due to wife in proceedings between husband and third person.

Debts incurred by or due to a wife before marriage cannot be set off in proceedings between her husband and a third person¹. Debts due to a wife after marriage are her separate property and cannot be set off by her husband in an action against him², but debts incurred by a wife after marriage may apparently be set off by a defendant to an action by the husband if they were incurred in respect of necessities³.

¹ See Wood v Akers (1797) 2 Esp 594; Ex p Blagden (1815) 19 Ves 465; Burrough v Moss (1830) 10 B & C 558. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

² See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW. A debt due to a husband in right of his wife before the Married Women's Property Act 1882 could not be set off by him against a debt due from him personally: Paynter v Walker (1764) Bull NP 175.

³ Jenner v Morris (1860) 1 Dr & Sm 218; affd (1861) 3 De GF & J 45 (advances to deserted wife for purchase of necessities; held that the lender stood in the shoes of a supplier who had a remedy against the husband and that the lender could set off against the husband's judgment debt the husband's liability in equity arising from the advances). See Jenner v Morris, Webster v Jenner (1863) 11 WR 943; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(D) Husband and Wife/696. Debts between husband and wife.

696. Debts between husband and wife.

A husband may set off a debt paid by him as surety for his wife against an amount payable by him to trustees for his wife under an agreement¹. Where a wife was entitled to set off against a debt due from her to her husband the amount ordered to be paid by him by way of maintenance, the amount of set-off was limited to the amount actually paid to the wife under a 'less tax' order and did not include deductions for income tax².

1 Ribblesdale v Forbes (1916) 140 LT Jo 483, CA. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 Butler v Butler [1961] P 33, [1961] 1 All ER 810, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(E) Landlord and Tenant/697. Set-off against claims for rent.

(E) LANDLORD AND TENANT

697. Set-off against claims for rent.

At common law a tenant's cross-demand for a liquidated sum may be set-off against the landlord's claim for rent under the Statutes of Set-off¹. Although it was thought that a tenant could not set off a cross-claim for unliquidated damages against the landlord's claim for rent², it is now recognised that there is nothing in the nature of the landlord's claim for rent that precludes a tenant from setting off a cross-claim so long as the cross-claim is sufficiently closely connected with the liability to pay rent³. Equitable set-off against rent is not confined to a cross-claim for breach of a covenant to repair⁴. However, a cross-claim that would otherwise give rise to an equitable set-off against a claim for the payment of rent by the landlord mortgagor will not do so when the rent is claimed by the mortgagee⁵.

The right of set-off is to be distinguished from the lessee's right to recoup from arrears of rent or future payments of rent money expended on repairs where the leased premises have fallen into disrepair and the landlord is in breach of a covenant to repair⁶. The right of set-off is also to be distinguished from rights of abatement⁷.

The traditional view is that no right of set-off under the Statutes can affect the landlord's remedy of distress⁸. But where an equitable set-off is available to the tenant he may be entitled to an injunction to restrain the landlord's remedy of distress⁹; and where a sub-tenant is forced by the superior landlord to pay unpaid rent or other charges owing by the immediate landlord, the immediate landlord cannot levy distress on the ground that the sub-tenant is regarded as authorised by the immediate landlord to apply the rent to which he is entitled in this way¹⁰.

A tenant's right of set-off is, of course, not limited to cases in which the landlord seeks to recover rent¹¹. Money due from the landlord may also, it seems, be set off against rent where there is an agreement to that effect between the parties¹².

1 Gower v Hunt (1734) Barnes 290; Brown v Holyoak (1734) cited in Willes 263; Cleghorn v Durrant (1858) 31 LTOS 235; Hamp v Jones (1840) 9 LJ Ch 258. As to the Statutes of Set-off see PARA 652 note 1.

2 Weigall v Waters (1795) 6 Term Rep 488; Hart v Rogers [1916] 1 KB 646. See also Taylor v Webb [1937] 2 KB 283, [1937] 1 All ER 590.

3 British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063. See also Melville v Grapelodge Developments Ltd (1978) 39 P & CR 179; and see Edlington Properties Ltd v JH Fenner & Co Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 403, [2006] 3 All ER 1200, [2006] 1 WLR 1583 (no set-off against rent of damages for defective premises where reversion assigned to another party). As to equitable set-off see PARA 658 et seq.

4 British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd [1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA (set-off based on breach of the covenant for quiet enjoyment). See Fuller v Happy Shopper Markets Ltd [2001] 1 WLR 1681 (overpayments of rent giving rise to equitable right of set-off against future arrears of rent).

5 Reeves v Pope [1914] 2 KB 284, CA. See Wood English and International Set-off (1989) pp 886-887; Waite 'Disrepair and Set-off of Damages Against Rent: The Implications of British Anzani' [1983] Conv 373 at 384-386 (as to absolute sale of the reversion); and the discussion in SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 597-603.

6 Taylor v Beal (1591) Cro Eliz 222; Watson v Weigall (1795) 2 Anst 575, Lee-Parker v Izzet[1971] 3 All ER 1099, [1971] 1 WLR 1688; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd[1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA; Asco Developments Ltd v Gordon[1978] 2 EGLR 41, 248 Estates Gazette 683. See LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 463.

7 See PARA 640; and LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 266.

8 Absolon v Knight (1743) Barnes 450; Townrow v Benson (1818) 3 Madd 203. See also Sapsford v Fletcher (1792) 4 Term Rep 511; Willson v Davenport (1833) 5 C & P 531; Pratt v Keith (1864) 33 LJ Ch 528; British Anzani (Felixstowe) Ltd v International Marine Management (UK) Ltd[1980] QB 137, [1979] 2 All ER 1063. But see now Eller v Grovecrest Investments Ltd[1995] QB 272, [1994] 4 All ER 845, CA (where there are suggestions that the traditional view might be reconsidered). On the other hand, there is still support for a distinction between set-off under the Statutes of Set-off and equitable set-off in relation to distress: see Aectra Refining & Manufacturing Inc v Exmar NV[1994] 1 WLR 1634, [1995] 1 Lloyd's Rep 191, CA, per Hoffman LJ. As to distress generally see DISTRESS.

9 Eller v Grovecrest Investments Ltd[1995] QB 272, [1994] 4 All ER 845, CA.

10 Sapsford v Fletcher (1792) 4 Term Rep 511; Carter v Carter (1829) 5 Bing 406. See the discussion in SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) p 117.

11 Filross Securities Ltd v Midgeley [1998] EGLR 43, [1998] 43 EG 134, CA (where the landlord sued in respect of the tenant's failure to pay service charges); Maunder Taylor v Blaquiére [2002] EWCA Civ 1633, [2003] 1 WLR 379 (tenant not entitled to set off claims for unpaid service charge made by newly appointed manager of property against claims he might have for original landlord's breaches of lease).

12 Willson v Davenport (1833) 5 C & P 531; Roper v Bumford (1810) 3 Taunt 76.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(E) Landlord and Tenant/698. Tenant's claims against landlord.

698. Tenant's claims against landlord.

Where a tenant who had obtained judgment against his landlord became subsequently indebted to him in arrears of rent and for dilapidations, it was held that he could not be restrained from issuing execution against his landlord on the judgment¹.

¹ Maw v Ulyatt (1861) 31 LJ Ch 33.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(E) Landlord and Tenant/699. Assignment of reversion.

699. Assignment of reversion.

The rule of equity that to an action by an assignee of a chose (or thing) in action the defendant may set off a claim for damages against the assignor directly arising out of the same transaction as the subject matter of the assignment¹ does not apply where a mortgagee of a reversion on a lease, being in possession, is claiming rent against which the set-off is claimed in respect of a liability of the mortgagor². But where a mortgagee, having sold the mortgaged property pursuant to a possession order and the sale yielded insufficient funds to satisfy the debt, petitioned for the mortgagor's bankruptcy in respect of the balance, the mortgagor was allowed to counterclaim, on the ground that the mortgagee had negligently failed to obtain the market value of the property³.

1 As to set-off against assignees generally see PARAS 685, 705; and CHOSSES IN ACTION vol 13 (2009) PARA 63.

2 Reeves v Pope [1914] 2 KB 284, CA. See PARA 697.

3 TSB Bank plc v Platts [1998] 2 BCLC 1, CA (where it was held that it was for the court hearing the petition to ascertain the maximum possible value of the counterclaim and deduct it from the value of the debt on which bankruptcy was sought).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(F) Employer and Employee or Independent Contractor/700. Proceedings between employer and employee.

(F) EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE OR INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR

700. Proceedings between employer and employee.

The right of an employer to make certain deductions from his employee's wages is governed by the contract between them and sometimes by usage, and is controlled by statute¹. An employee discharged without proper notice may set off a claim for wages in lieu of notice against a claim by the employer for money had and received². However, it has been held that an employer sued for wages cannot set off a sum claimed for the value of goods lost by the negligence of his employee³ unless there is an agreement between them authorising such sum to be deducted from the wages⁴.

1 See EMPLOYMENT vol 39 (2009) PARA 231 et seq. As to deductions in respect of bad work see Sagar v H Ridehalgh & Son Ltd [1931] 1 Ch 310, CA (deduction being permissible in appropriate cases under the principle of abatement). But in later cases the principle of abatement has not been applied and it has been said that the question is whether the employee can make out a case for equitable set-off: see Miles v Wakefield Metropolitan District Council [1987] AC 539, [1987] 1 All ER 1089, HL; Sim v Rotherham Metropolitan Borough Council [1987] Ch 216, [1986] 3 All ER 387 (where it was held that the employer can maintain a cross-claim for damages).

2 East Anglian Rlys Co v Lythgoe (1851) 10 CB 726.

3 Le Loir v Bristow (1815) 4 Camp 134.

4 Le Loir v Bristow (1815) 4 Camp 134. See also Duckworth v Alison (1836) 1 M & W 412; Cleworth v Pickford (1840) 7 M & W 314 (both cases concern independent contractors).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(F) Employer and Employee or Independent Contractor/701. Proceedings between employer and independent contractor.

701. Proceedings between employer and independent contractor.

Proceedings between an employer and an independent contractor¹, involving as they usually do a contract for services or work and labour, are subject to the rules governing abatement² and equitable defence³.

¹ As to rights of set-off arising under building contracts see BUILDING CONTRACTS, ARCHITECTS, ENGINEERS, VALUERS AND SURVEYORS vol 4(3) (Reissue) PARAS 89, 91, 182. See Sable Contractors Ltd v Bluett Shipping Ltd [1979] 2 Lloyd's Rep 33, CA; Rapid Building Group Ltd v Ealing Family Housing Association Ltd (1984) 24 BLR 5, CA; Tubeworkers Ltd v Tilbury Construction Ltd (1985) 30 BLR 67, 1 Const LJ 385, CA; Chatbrown Ltd v Alfred McAlpine Construction (Southern) Ltd (1986) 35 BLR 44, 11 Con LR 1, CA; Archital Luxfer Ltd v AJ Dunning & Sons (Weyhill) Ltd (1987) 47 BLR 1, [1987] 1 FTLR 372, CA; NEI Thompson Ltd v Wimpey Construction UK Ltd (1987) 39 BLR 65, (1988) 4 Const LJ 46, CA; BWP (Architectural) Ltd v Beaver Building Systems Ltd (1988) 42 BLR 86; Smallman Construction Ltd v Redpath Dorman Long Ltd (1988) 47 BLR 15, CA; Acsim (Southern) Ltd v Danish Contracting and Development Co Ltd (1989) 47 BLR 55, CA; Mellowes PPG Ltd v Snelling Construction Ltd (1989) 49 BLR 109, QBD; MJ Gleeson plc v Taylor Woodrow Construction Ltd (1989) 49 BLR 95, 21 Con LR 71, QBD; A Cameron Ltd v John Mowlem & Co plc (1990) 52 BLR 24, CA; RM Douglas Construction Ltd v Bass Leisure Ltd (1990) 53 BLR 119, 25 Con LR 38, QBD; Hermcrest plc v G Percy Trentham Ltd (1991) 53 BLR 104, 25 Con LR 78, CA; B Hargreaves Ltd v Action 2000 (1992) 62 BLR 72, [1993] BCLC 1111, CA; CA Duquemin v Raymond Slater (1993) 65 BLR 124.

² See PARA 643 et seq. The right of set-off may only be taken away by clear and unequivocal words, or at least by a clear implication: Gilbert-Ash (Northern) Ltd v Modern Engineering (Bristol) Ltd [1974] AC 689, [1973] 3 All ER 195, HL; Connaught Restaurants Ltd v Indoor Leisure Ltd [1994] 4 All ER 834, [1994] 1 WLR 501, CA; RM Douglas Construction Ltd v Bass Leisure Ltd (1990) 53 BLR 119, 25 Con LR 38.

³ See PARA 658 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(G) Partners, Shareholders/702. Partner's joint and separate debts.

(G) PARTNERS, SHAREHOLDERS

702. Partner's joint and separate debts.

The law as to set-off between joint debts and several debts¹ applies when one or more of the parties is a firm. Therefore, where a defendant is sued by a firm he cannot set off a debt due from one of the partners individually² unless the partners have permitted one of their number to deal as a sole trader with the defendant and thereby led him to believe that he was dealing with an individual and not with a firm, and the defendant in this belief has made advances or given credit to that partner. In such a case the defendant may set off against the firm the debt due from the individual partner in respect of that advance or as to which the credit has been given³. Similarly, if in like circumstances an individual partner has agreed to allow a set-off, the agreement is binding on the firm⁴ provided the debt is due in respect of a matter within the scope of the apparent authority given by the firm to the individual partner⁵. However, if the other party knew that somebody besides the individual partner had an interest in the debt sued for, he will not be allowed to set off a debt due from the individual partner, and an agreement to allow him to do so, if made without the authority of the other partners, is not binding on the firm⁶.

1 See PARAS 673-674.

2 See PARTNERSHIP vol 79 (2008) PARA 83. Where the debt accrued due from the individual partner before the firm was constituted, there is no right of set-off even though the firm has since admitted the existence of the debt: France v White (1839) 6 Bing NC 33.

3 Stracey and Ross v Deey (1789) 7 Term Rep 361n; Gordon v Ellis (1846) 2 CB 821 (where set-off was disallowed because the plea did not allege that the partner appeared as sole owner with the consent or by default of his partners). As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

4 Muggeridge's v Smith & Co (1884) 1 TLR 166 (where the other party was justified in believing that the individual partner was the only partner in the business and was authorised to give the other party credit for the amount of his account).

5 Baker v Gent (1892) 9 TLR 159 (where the court disallowed a counterclaim for articles supplied by the defendant to 'L & Co', the defendant believing L to be the sole partner when the name 'L & Co' suggested otherwise).

6 Piercy v Fynney (1871) LR 12 Eq 69; but cf Harper v Marten (1895) 11 TLR 368. See also PARTNERSHIP vol 79 (2008) PARAS 47-57.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(G) Partners, Shareholders/703. Firm acting as agent.

703. Firm acting as agent.

Where a firm makes a contract as agent for an undisclosed principal, the other party to the contract in an action brought against him by the undisclosed principal may set off a debt due from the firm if the circumstances are such that he would have had a right of set-off if the agent had been a single individual¹. A similar rule applies where the agent is not really a firm but contracts in a firm name on behalf of one only of the persons acting as agents under that name².

1 Rabone v Williams (1785) 7 Term Rep 360n. As to claims by undisclosed principals see PARA 680.

2 Spurr v Cass, Cass v Spurr (1870) LR 5 QB 656.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(G) Partners, Shareholders/704. Debts owed by and to a firm.

704. Debts owed by and to a firm.

A defendant sued for a debt due from himself alone may not set off a debt owing to a firm of which he is a member¹. Similarly, a debt owed by a firm may not be set off against a claim by an individual partner². However, where all the other partners have died and the right to the firm debts is in the individual partner as survivor, the common law rule was that it could be made the subject of a set-off³. In equity, however, the claim is brought to account in ascertaining the entitlement of the deceased partners' estates⁴. A former partner of a dissolved partnership cannot set off money owed to him by the partnership against money owed by him to other partners⁵.

1 See the cases cited in PARA 673 note 2. A person may not be sued alone for a debt on a transaction concluded by him under a firm name unless he alone constituted the firm or so held himself out to the claimant: see Bonfield v Smith (1844) 12 M & W 405. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

2 See the cases cited in PARA 672 note 3.

3 Golding v Vaughan (1782) 2 Chit 436; Slipper v Stidstone (1794) 5 Term Rep 493; French v Andrade (1796) 6 Term Rep 582; Smith v Parkes (1852) 16 Beav 115. See also PARTNERSHIP vol 79 (2008) PARA 87.

4 McClellan v Kennard (1874) 9 Ch App 336.

5 See Re a Debtor (No 303 of 1997) (2000) Times, 3 October.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(G) Partners, Shareholders/705. Set-off against assignee of debt.

705. Set-off against assignee of debt.

The law as to set-off as against an assignee obtains where any one or more of the parties concerned is a firm¹, and a firm may set off against the assignee of a retiring partner a debt due from the retiring partner at the date of assignment². Similarly, a debtor may set off against the assignee of a firm a debt due from the firm before assignment³.

1 This is, of course, subject to the limitation as to setting off joint and several debts, as to which see PARAS 672-673.

2 Smith v Parkes (1852) 16 Beav 115. See PARTNERSHIP vol 79 (2008) PARA 126. As to set-off at law and in equity see PARA 667 note 1.

3 Puller v Roe (1793) Peake 198. For a criticism of this decision see SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 347-348. As to set-off against assignees generally see PARA 685.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(G) Partners, Shareholders/706. Set-off in relation to companies.

706. Set-off in relation to companies.

A shareholder may set off against a call a debt presently due and owing to him by the company while the company is a going concern¹. However, a set-off made within six months of a winding-up petition may constitute a fraudulent preference².

A debenture holder cannot set off a debt due from him to the company against sums due from the company to him on his debentures³, nor can a company's solicitor set off an unliquidated claim for his costs against calls made in respect of shares in the company held by him⁴.

In a winding-up, whether compulsory or voluntary, the ordinary rules of set-off apply in the case of a solvent company⁵, but if the company is insolvent the mutual credit provisions of bankruptcy apply⁶. Further in a winding-up a contributory cannot himself set off a debt owed to him by the company, although his trustee in bankruptcy may do so⁷. Where the liability of either the contributory or the company is unlimited the court may allow the contributory to set off money due to him in his personal capacity but not money due to him as a member of the company⁸.

¹ See COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1140; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARAS 738-740.

² See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARAS 846, 850.

³ See COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1327.

⁴ Johnson v Lyttle's Iron Agency (1877) 5 ChD 687, CA.

⁵ See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 792.

⁶ See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 792; BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 547 et seq. In a compulsory winding-up, the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, apply. For the purposes of r 4.90, set-off is limited to mutual claims existing at the date of the bankruptcy and there can be no set-off of claims by third parties, even with their consent: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 8) [1998] AC 214, [1997] 4 All ER 568, HL.

⁷ See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 738.

⁸ See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 740.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(H) Solicitors/707. Solicitor's costs.

(H) SOLICITORS

707. Solicitor's costs.

A solicitor is not prevented from setting off a sum due for costs by reason only of the fact that he has not complied with the statutory provision as to the delivery of a bill¹.

Where a claim for costs and disbursements in respect of work done by a solicitor fails because the solicitor has been negligent, and there is joined with that claim a claim to which this defence does not apply, the defendant cannot set off against the second claim money paid to the solicitor and expended by him in doing the work before the negligence occurred². In proceedings where one party is receiving Legal Services Commission funding³, the protection afforded by the limitation of costs awarded against the funded party⁴ does not apply in respect of orders for costs to be used as a shield or set off⁵.

1 See PARA 678.

2 Lewis v Samuel(1846) 8 QB 685. As to solicitor-trustees see PARAS 689-690.

3 See PARA 1814 et seq.

4 See the Access to Justice Act 1999 s 11; and LEGAL AID vol 65 (2008) PARA 109.

5 Hill v Bailey[2003] EWHC 2835 (Ch), [2004] 1 All ER 1210, (2004) Times, 5 January, following Lockley v National Blood Transfusion Service[1992] 2 All ER 589, [1992] 1 WLR 492, CA. See also R (on the application of Burkett) v Hammersmith and Fulham London Borough Council[2004] EWCA Civ 1342, [2004] All ER (D) 186 (Oct), [2005] JPL 525.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(I) Sureties/708. Claim against surety by third person.

(I) SURETIES

708. Claim against surety by third person.

A surety for payment of a sum due under a contract is entitled to be exonerated by his principal, and in an action against himself as surety may therefore set off a debt due from the claimant to the principal arising out of the same transaction¹. If under the contract the principal is entitled to the benefit of a deduction to be ascertained by arbitration, the surety may set off a sum awarded by an arbitrator acting under the contract².

¹ Bechervaise v Lewis(1872) LR 7 CP 372. Hyundai Shipbuilding and Heavy Industries Co Ltd v Pournaras [1978] 2 Lloyd's Rep 502, CA; but cf National Westminster Bank plc v Skelton[1993] 1 All ER 242, [1993] 1 WLR 72n, CA (where doubt is expressed as to this proposition). See the discussion in SR Derham Set-off (2nd Edn, 1996) pp 642-644. See also FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 1135.

² Parkes v Smith(1850) 15 QB 297; Murphy v Glass(1869) LR 2 PC 408; Alcoy and Gandia Rly and Harbour Co Ltd v Greenhill (1897) 76 LT 542 (on appeal (1898) 79 LT 257, CA).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(I) Sureties/709. Proceedings between surety and principal.

709. Proceedings between surety and principal.

A surety sued by his principal may set off sums paid by him as surety¹, and if he is sued by the executor of the principal the right of set-off holds good².

1 This is so even if the surety has been sued to judgment and a writ of fieri facias has been issued, and the sum has been paid by the sheriff out of the proceeds of the goods taken in execution: Rodgers v Maw (1846) 15 M & W 444. See also FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARAS 1126, 1135, 1164.

2 Jones v Mossop (1844) 3 Hare 568. See also Ribblesdale v Forbes (1916) 140 LT Jo 483, CA, where a husband who paid a debt as surety for his wife was allowed to set off the amount of the debt against a sum due to trustees for his wife under an agreement.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(I) Sureties/710. Claim against surety's securities.

710. Claim against surety's securities.

Where a loan is made by an insurance company to a person on the security of a policy on the life of another, and the latter dies, the company cannot set off a debt due from the deceased against a claim on the policy by a surety who has paid off the loan¹.

¹ Re Jeffery's Policy (1872) 20 WR 857.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(1) THE RIGHT OF SET-OFF/(v) The Modern Right of Set-off/(B) SET-OFF IN PARTICULAR CASES/(J) Bills of Exchange/711. Proceedings by holder of bill of exchange.

(

711. Proceedings by holder of bill of exchange.

Actions on bills of exchange constitute an exception to the rights of abatement and equitable defence¹.

¹ See PARA 646.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(i) Pleading a Set-off/712. Procedure.

(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE

(i) Pleading a Set-off

712. Procedure.

A set-off may be raised as follows. Where a defendant contends that he is entitled to money from the claimant¹, and relies on this as a defence to the whole or part of the claim, the contention may be included in the defence and set off against the claim².

Where the alternative procedure for claims is followed for the original claim³, a Part 20 claim may not be made without the permission of the court⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 CPR 16.6. See PARA 715.

3 I.e. the procedure provided by CPR Pt 8. This procedure is available where a claimant seeks the court's decision which is unlikely to involve a substantial dispute of fact, or where it is provided by a practice direction that the procedure is to apply: CPR 8.1(1), (6).

4 CPR 8.7; see PARA 134.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(i) Pleading a Set-off/713. Set-off as separate action.

713. Set-off as separate action.

A set-off is specifically included in the word 'action' for the purposes of the Bills of Exchange Act 1882¹ and the Sale of Goods Act 1979². However, a claim for set-off is not an 'action' within the provisions³ restricting the bringing of an action by a solicitor to recover costs⁴. For the purposes of the Crown Proceedings Act 1947, 'proceedings against the Crown' includes a claim by way of set-off⁵.

For limitation purposes a claim by way of set-off is deemed to be a separate action and to have been commenced on the same date as the action in which the set-off is pleaded⁶.

1 Bills of Exchange Act 1882 s 2.

2 Sale of Goods Act 1979 s 61.

3 Ie the Solicitors Act 1974 s 69: see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 956 et seq.

4 See PARA 678.

5 Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 38(2). See PARA 668. As to proceedings against the Crown see CROWN PROCEEDINGS AND CROWN PRACTICE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 110-114.

6 Limitation Act 1980 s 35(1), (2). As to whether this provision applies only to set-off at law and not to abatement or equitable defence see PARAS 644, 656, 666.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(i) Pleading a Set-off/714. Counterclaim operating as set-off.

714. Counterclaim operating as set-off.

As a general rule, when the defendant's successful cross-claim exceeds the claimant's claim and is also effective as a set-off or defence, his cross-claim extinguishes the claimant's claim, and he also recovers the excess on his counterclaim¹. Where the claimant sues as an assignee of a debt² or the claimant is a sovereign prince or state unamenable to English jurisdiction³, the defendant may still raise his defence but he cannot recover the excess on his counterclaim. If, in either case, the nature of the cross-claim is not such as to make it a defence, the defendant cannot pursue his counterclaim at all in that action⁴.

1 See PARA 713.

2 Young v Kitchin (1878) 3 ExD 127; Newfoundland Government v Newfoundland Rly Co (1888) 13 App Cas 199, PC; Banco Central SA and Trevelan Navigation Inc v Lingoss and Falce Ltd and BFI Line Ltd, The Raven [1980] 2 Lloyd's Rep 266. See also CHOSES IN ACTION vol 13 (2009) PARA 63.

3 Imperial Japanese Government v Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co [1895] AC 644, PC; South African Republic v Compagnie Franco-Belge du Chemin de Fer du Nord [1898] 1 Ch 190. As to diplomatic immunity generally see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 265 et seq.

4 See PARA 630.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(i) Pleading a Set-off/715. Pleading a set-off.

715. Pleading a set-off.

Where a defendant contends that he is entitled to money from the claimant¹, and relies on this as a defence to the whole or part of the claim, the contention may be included in the defence and set off against the claim².

¹ As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

² CPR 16.6. The defence of set-off may be included whether or not it is also a Part 20 claim: CPR 16.6. As to the meaning of 'Part 20 claim' see PARA 618. The statement of value required to be included in the particulars of claim of a claim for money must disregard the possibility that the defendant may make a counterclaim or that the defence may include a set-off: CPR 16.3(6)(c); see PARA 586.

As to the procedure for filing a defence see CPR Pt 15; and PARA 199.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(i) Pleading a Set-off/716. Facts alleged by way of defence, or set-off.

716. Facts alleged by way of defence, or set-off.

A defendant relying, in support of a set-off, on facts already alleged by way of defence need not repeat them in full, but may incorporate them in the set-off by way of reference only¹. Similarly, where the same claim is relied on as a subject both of set-off and counterclaim, the facts, if not already alleged in the defence, may be alleged in the counterclaim and incorporated in the set-off by way of reference. An additional claim is for most purposes a claim in its own right, and, with certain exceptions, subject to the same procedural and evidential requirements as any other claim².

1 Birmingham Estates Co v Smith (1880) 13 ChD 506; Benbow v Low (1880) 13 ChD 553.

2 See CPR 20.3; and PARAS 619, 713. The CPR are silent on the question whether facts may be incorporated by reference as described in this paragraph. As to the citation of old cases in connection with the CPR see PARA 33 text and note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(ii) Service, Striking Out etc/717. Striking out set-off.

(ii) Service, Striking Out etc

717. Striking out set-off.

Where the court is considering whether to permit an additional claim¹ to be made, dismiss an additional claim or require it to be dealt with separately from the claim by the claimant against the defendant², it may have regard to (1) the connection between the additional claim and the claim made by the claimant against the defendant; (2) whether the additional claimant is seeking substantially the same remedy which some other claimant is claiming from him; (3) whether the additional claimant wants the court to decide any question connected with the subject matter of the proceedings (a) not only between existing parties but also between existing parties and a person not already a party; or (b) against a party not only in a capacity in which he is already a party, but also in some further capacity³.

A set-off may be struck out as one which ought not to be allowed under the rules relating to pleadings generally, for instance because it is embarrassing⁴, or tends to delay the fair trial of the action⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 As to the court's power to order that part of proceedings be dealt with as separate proceedings see CPR 3.1(2)(e). As to the power to decide the order in which issues are to be tried see CPR 3.1(2)(j).

3 CPR 20.9. The court has a duty to ensure that, as far as possible, the claim and corresponding additional claim are dealt with together: see CPR 20.13(2); and PARA 629.

4 Fendall v O'Connell (1885) 52 LT 538; on appeal 29 ChD 899, CA. See CPR 3.4(2); and PARA 520.

5 Gray v Webb (1882) 21 ChD 802; Normar (Owners) v British Transport Docks Board, The Normar [1968] P 362, [1968] 1 All ER 753; Zimmer Orthopaedic Ltd v Zimmer Manufacturing Co [1968] 3 All ER 449, [1968] 1 WLR 1349, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(iii) Responding to a Set-off/718. Point of law in reply.

(iii) Responding to a Set-off

718. Point of law in reply.

An additional claim¹ is for most purposes a claim in its own right², and replying or raising a point of law in defence to an additional claim is treated in the same way as in the case of defence to any other claim³.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 See CPR 20.3; and PARA 619.

3 As to reply to defence see PARA 604. As to raising a point of law in defence see Practice Direction--Statement of Case PD16 para 13.3(1). As to disposal of cases after decisions on preliminary issues see CPR 3.1(2)(l); and PARA 247.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(iv) Amendment/719. Amendment of set-off.

(iv) Amendment

719. Amendment of set-off.

An additional claim¹ is for most purposes a claim in its own right, and, with certain exceptions, subject to the same procedural rules as any other claim². A party may amend his statement of case³ at any time before it has been served on any other party⁴. After a statement of case has been served it may be amended only with the written consent of all other parties or with the permission of the court⁵. In a case where permission is not required⁶, a party may, within 14 days of service of a copy of the amended statement of case on him, apply to the court to disallow the amendment⁷.

An amendment to a statement of case must be verified by a statement of truth unless the court orders otherwise⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'additional claim' see PARA 618.

2 See CPR 20.3; and PARA 619.

3 As to statements of case see CPR Pts 16, 17, which (except CPR 16.3(5)) apply to defences to Part 20 claims (CPR 20.3); and PARA 618 et seq.

4 CPR 17.1(1).

5 CPR 17.1(2). Where the court gives permission it may give directions as to the amendment of any other statement of case, and service of any amended statement of case: CPR 17.3(1).

6 See text and note 4.

7 See CPR 17.2.

8 CPR 22.1(2). As to statements of truth see PARA 613 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(v) Judgment/720. Form of judgment.

(v) Judgment

720. Form of judgment.

Where the defendant establishes a set-off equal to or exceeding the claimant's claim, judgment is entered in his favour on the claim, because a set-off amounts to an absolute defence¹. Therefore, if he has also counterclaimed in respect of the matters pleaded by way of set-off, he obtains judgment both on the claim and the counterclaim². If both the claim and the counterclaim fail, judgment is entered for the defendant on the claim and the claimant on the counterclaim³.

Where the court gives judgment for specified amounts both for the claimant on his claim and against the claimant on a counterclaim⁴, if there is a balance in favour of one of the parties it may order the party whose judgment is for the lesser amount to pay the balance⁵. In such a case the court may make a separate order for costs against each party⁶.

¹ Baines v Bromley(1881) 6 QBD 691, CA; Lowe v Holme(1883) 10 QBD 286; Hanak v Green[1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA; Henriksens Rederi A/S v PHZ Rolimpex, The Brede[1974] QB 233, [1973] 3 All ER 589, CA.

² See the cases cited in PARA 721 notes 8-9.

³ Saner v Bilton(1879) 11 ChD 416; Mason v Brentini(1880) 15 ChD 287, CA; James v Jackson[1910] 2 Ch 92.

⁴ As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

⁵ CPR 40.13(1), (2).

⁶ CPR 40.13(3). As to costs see further PARA 721 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(vi) Costs/721. The court's discretion.

(vi) Costs

721. The court's discretion.

The court has discretion as to whether costs are payable by one party to another, the amount of those costs, and when they are to be paid¹. The general rule is that the unsuccessful party will be ordered to pay the costs of the successful party, but the court may make a different order². In deciding what order (if any) to make, the court must have regard to all the circumstances, including (1) the conduct of all the parties³; (2) whether a party has succeeded on part of his case, even if he has not been wholly successful; and (3) any payment into court or admissible offer to settle made by a party which is drawn to the court's attention and which is not an offer to which costs consequences⁴ apply⁵.

Where a party entitled to costs is also liable to pay costs the court may assess the costs which that party is liable to pay and either (a) set off the amount assessed against the amount the party is entitled to be paid and direct him to pay any balance; or (b) delay the issue of a certificate for the costs to which the party is entitled until he has paid the amount which he is liable to pay⁶.

Where a defendant succeeds in establishing a set-off equal to or exceeding the claimant's claim, then, in the absence of circumstances which the court may treat as a ground for depriving him of costs, he is entitled to judgment with costs⁷, and, if he has also counterclaimed in respect of the matters relied on by way of set-off, he is similarly entitled to the costs of the counterclaim⁸. If he proves a set-off for less than the claimant's claim he is held to have succeeded to that extent⁹.

1 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 51(1) (substituted by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1991 s 4(1)); CPR 44.3(1). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to costs generally see PARA 1729 et seq.

2 CPR 44.3(2). The orders which the court may make under this rule include an order that a party must pay (1) a proportion of another party's costs; (2) a stated amount in respect of another party's costs; (3) costs from or until a certain date only; (4) costs incurred before proceedings have begun; (5) costs relating to particular steps taken in the proceedings; (6) costs relating only to a distinct part of the proceedings; and (7) interest on costs from or until a certain date, including a date before judgment: CPR 44.3(6). Where the court would otherwise consider making an order under head (6), it must instead, if practicable, make an order under head (1) or (3): CPR 44.3(7).

3 The conduct of the parties includes (1) conduct before, as well as during, the proceedings, and in particular the extent to which the parties followed any relevant pre-action protocol; (2) whether it was reasonable for a party to raise, pursue or contest a particular allegation or issue; (3) the manner in which a party has pursued or defended his case or a particular allegation or issue; and (4) whether a claimant who has succeeded in his claim, in whole or in part, exaggerated his claim: CPR 44.3(5). As to pre-action protocols see PARAS 13, 107 et seq.

4 I.e. the costs consequences of CPR Pt 36 (as to which see further PARA 736): CPR 44.3(4)(c).

5 CPR 44.3(4).

6 CPR 44.3(9).

7 Baines v Bromley (1881) 6 QBD 691, CA. See also CPR 44.3.

8 Lowe v Holme(1883) 10 QBD 286; Lund v Campbell(1885) 14 QBD 821, CA. Where a defendant recovered on his counterclaim a sum equal to that recovered by a plaintiff on his claim, Neville J ordered the plaintiff to pay the costs of the claim and counterclaim (Sprange v Lee[1908] 1 Ch 424 at 432, CA), but it is difficult to see how this order can be supported unless the subject of counterclaim was also a good ground of set-off.

9 Lund v Campbell(1885) 14 QBD 821, CA. The word formerly used in the County Courts Act 1984 ss 19, 20 (repealed), was 'recover', and it has been held that the word 'recover' means recover when set-off is allowed: Ashcroft v Foulkes (1856) 18 CB 261; Beard v Perry (1862) 2 B & S 493; Staples v Young (1877) 2 Ex D 324; Stooke v Taylor(1880) 5 QBD 569, DC. If the claimant succeeds on his claim to an extent entitling him to High Court costs, and the defendant succeeds on a counterclaim but not on a set-off, the claimant is entitled to costs on the High Court scale as he has 'recovered' the amount of the claim: Stooke v Taylor(1880) 5 QBD 569, DC.

UPDATE

721 The court's discretion

NOTE 5--See Parkes v Martin[2009] EWCA Civ 883, [2009] PIQR P1 (reduction of costs proportionate to reduction of damages for contributory negligence).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/16. SET-OFF/(2) PLEADING AND PRACTICE/(vi) Costs/722. Detailed assessment of costs.

722. Detailed assessment of costs.

In relation to proceedings begun on or after 26 April 1999¹, taxation of costs is replaced by assessment of costs, which may be either a summary assessment by the court, or a detailed assessment by a costs officer².

1 Ie the date on which the CPR came into operation: see PARA 30.

2 See CPR 44.7. As to provision for detailed assessment see CPR Pt 47; and PARA 1779 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/723. In general.

17. DISCONTINUANCE

723. In general.

The rules in Part 38 of the Civil Procedure Rules¹ set out the procedure by which a claimant² may discontinue all or part of a claim³. A claimant who claims more than one remedy and subsequently abandons his claim to one or more of the remedies but continues with his claim for the other remedies, is not treated as discontinuing all or part of a claim for these purposes⁴.

1 Ie CPR Pt 38: see PARAS 724-728. As to the procedure where the parties are agreed as to the discontinuance or withdrawal of proceedings see Practice Statement (Administrative Court: uncontested proceedings)[2009] 1 All ER 651.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 38.1(1).

4 CPR 38.1(2). The procedure for amending a statement of case (see CPR Pt 17; and PARAS 607-610) applies where a claimant abandons a claim for a particular remedy but wishes to continue with his claim for other remedies: see CPR 38.1(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/724. Right to discontinue claim.

724. Right to discontinue claim.

A claimant¹ may discontinue all or part of a claim at any time². He must, however, obtain the court's³ permission if he wishes to discontinue all or part of a claim in relation to which the court has granted an interim injunction⁴ or any party has given an undertaking to the court⁵. Furthermore, where the claimant has received an interim payment in relation to a claim⁶, he may discontinue that claim only if the defendant⁷ who made the interim payment consents in writing⁸ or the court gives permission⁹.

Where there is more than one claimant, a claimant may not discontinue unless every other claimant consents in writing¹⁰ or the court gives permission¹¹.

Where there is more than one defendant, the claimant may discontinue all or part of a claim against all or any of the defendants¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 CPR 38.2(1).

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 38.2(2)(a)(i). No permission is required to discontinue claims against other parties, who were not subject to interim restraint: Astaldi SpA v Generali-Kent Sigorta AS (25 June 2002, unreported). As to the meaning of 'injunction' see PARA 315 note 2.

5 CPR 38.2(2)(a)(ii).

6 Ie whether voluntarily or pursuant to an order under CPR Pt 25 (see PARA 315 et seq): see CPR 38.2(2)(b).

7 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

8 CPR 38.2(2)(b)(i).

9 CPR 38.2(2)(b)(ii).

10 CPR 38.2(2)(c)(i).

11 CPR 38.2(2)(c)(ii).

12 CPR 38.2(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/725. Procedure for discontinuing.

725. Procedure for discontinuing.

In order to discontinue a claim or part of a claim, a claimant¹ must file a notice of discontinuance² and serve a copy on every other party to the proceedings³. The claimant must state in the notice of discontinuance which he files that he has served notice of discontinuance on every other party to the proceedings⁴. Where the claimant needs the consent of some other party, a copy of the necessary consent must be attached to the notice of discontinuance⁵ and where there is more than one defendant⁶, the notice of discontinuance must specify against which defendants the claim is discontinued⁷.

Discontinuance against any defendant takes effect on the date when notice of discontinuance is served on him⁸. The proceedings are brought to an end as against him on that date⁹ but this does not affect proceedings to deal with any question of costs¹⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 CPR 38.3(1)(a). Such notice should be in Form N279 in The Civil Court Practice. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

3 CPR 38.3(1)(b). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

4 CPR 38.3(2).

5 CPR 38.3(3).

6 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

7 CPR 38.3(4).

8 CPR 38.5(1). See eg Jarvis plc v PriceWaterhouseCoopers (a firm) [2000] All ER (D) 978, [2000] 2 BCLC 368.

9 CPR 38.5(2). This is subject to the defendant's right to apply to have the notice of discontinuance set aside under CPR 38.4: see PARA 726.

10 CPR 38.5(3). As to liability for costs see PARA 727.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/726.
Application to have notice of discontinuance set aside.

726. Application to have notice of discontinuance set aside.

Where the claimant¹ discontinues² the defendant³ may apply to have the notice of discontinuance set aside⁴. He may not, however, make such an application more than 28 days after the date when the notice of discontinuance was served on him⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 I.e. under CPR 38.2(1): see PARA 724.

3 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

4 CPR 38.4(1). As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6. As to the notice of discontinuance see PARA 725. As to the circumstances in which the court will set aside a notice of discontinuance see Sheltam Rail Co (Proprietary) Ltd v Mirambo Holdings Ltd [2008] EWHC 829 (Comm), [2009] 1 All ER 84.

5 CPR 38.4(2). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2; and as to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/727. Liability for costs.

727. Liability for costs.

Unless the court¹ orders otherwise, a claimant² who discontinues is liable for the costs which a defendant³ against whom the claimant discontinues incurred on or before the date on which notice of discontinuance⁴ was served on the defendant⁵. If proceedings are only partly discontinued the claimant is so liable for costs relating only to the part of the proceedings which he is discontinuing⁶.

Unless the court orders otherwise, the costs which the claimant is liable to pay will not be assessed until the conclusion of the rest of the proceedings⁷.

These provisions do not apply to claims allocated to the small claims track⁸.

Where proceedings are partly discontinued and a claimant is liable to pay costs under these provisions, then if he fails to pay those costs within 21 days of the date on which the parties agreed the sum payable by him, or of the date on which the court ordered the costs to be paid, the court may stay⁹ the remainder of the proceedings until the claimant pays the whole of the costs which he is liable to pay¹⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

4 As to notice of discontinuance see PARA 725.

5 CPR 38.6(1). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to the basis of assessment where the right to costs arises on discontinuance see CPR 44.12; and see eg R (on the application of Bowhay) v North and East Devon Health Authority (2000) 60 BMLR 228, [2000] All ER (D) 1959 (defendants contributing to claimant's costs in discontinued judicial review proceedings); Lloyds TSB Bank plc v Barlow [2001] All ER (D) 172 (Jun) (costs of counterclaim set off against costs of proceedings to date). It is generally the case that the actual assessment of costs is a different procedure from deciding whether a party is to be awarded such costs: R (on the application of Chorion plc) v Westminster City Council [2002] EWCA Civ 1126, [2002] All ER (D) 468 (Jul). Where discontinuance of an action would equate to the claim being worthless from the beginning, the liquidator should not have commenced the proceedings and in deciding to discontinue the action, should be made to pay the respondent's costs: Re Walker Wingsail Systems plc, Walker v Walker [2005] EWCA Civ 247, [2006] 1 All ER 272, [2006] 1 WLR 2194. See also Lay v Drexler [2007] EWCA Civ 464, [2007] Bus LR 1357. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

6 CPR 38.6(2)(a).

7 CPR 38.6(2)(b).

8 CPR 38.6(3). As to the small claims track see CPR Pt 27; and PARA 274 et seq.

9 As to the meaning of 'stay' see PARA 233 note 11.

10 CPR 38.8(1), (2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/17. DISCONTINUANCE/728. Discontinuance and subsequent proceedings.

728. Discontinuance and subsequent proceedings.

A claimant¹ who discontinues a claim needs the permission of the court² to make another claim against the same defendant³ if he discontinued the claim after the defendant filed⁴ a defence⁵ and the other claim arises out of facts which are the same or substantially the same as those relating to the discontinued claim⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

4 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

5 CPR 38.7(a).

6 CPR 38.7(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/729. Offers to settle; in general.

18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT

729. Offers to settle; in general.

Part 36 of the Civil Procedure Rules contains rules about offers to settle¹ and the consequences where an offer to settle is made in accordance with Part 36². Nothing in Part 36 prevents a party making an offer to settle in whatever way he chooses, but if the offer is not made in accordance with the specified rule³, it will not have the specified consequences⁴.

A Part 36 offer may be made at any time, including before the commencement of proceedings, and may be made in appeal proceedings⁵. A Part 36 offer which offers to pay or offers to accept a sum of money will be treated as inclusive of all interest until the date on which the period stated⁶ expires; or, in the specified circumstances⁷, a date 21 days after the offer was made⁸.

A Part 36 offer has the consequences set out in Part 36 only in relation to the costs of the proceedings in respect of which it is made, and not in relation to the costs of any appeal from the final decision in those proceedings⁹. Before expiry of the relevant period (which is normally 21 days)¹⁰, a Part 36 offer may be withdrawn or its terms changed to be less advantageous to the offeree¹¹, only if the court gives permission¹². After expiry of the relevant period and provided that the offeree has not previously served notice of acceptance, the offeror¹³ may withdraw the offer or change its terms to be less advantageous to the offeree without the permission of the court¹⁴. The offeror does so by serving written notice of the withdrawal or change of terms on the offeree¹⁵.

A Part 36 offer is made when it is served on the offeree¹⁶. A change in the terms of a Part 36 offer will be effective when notice of the change is served on the offeree¹⁷.

1 An offer to settle which is made in accordance with CPR 36.2 (see PARA 730) is called a Part 36 offer: CPR 36.2(1).

2 CPR 36.1(1).

3 Ie CPR 36.2: see PARA 730.

4 CPR 36.1(2). As to the specified consequences see CPR 36.10 (see PARA 736), CPR 36.11 (see PARA 737) and CPR 36.14 (see PARA 740). The court will take into account any offer however made when dealing with the issue of costs: see PARA 1739.

5 CPR 36.3(2).

6 Ie under CPR 36.2(2)(c): see PARA 730 head (3).

7 Ie if CPR 36.2(3) (see PARA 730 note 4) applies.

8 CPR 36.3(3).

9 CPR 36.3(4).

10 In CPR Pt 36, 'relevant period' means (1) in the case of an offer made not less than 21 days before trial, the period stated under CPR 36.2(2)(c) (see PARA 730 head (3)) or such longer period as the parties agree; (2) otherwise, the period up to end of the trial or such other period as the court has determined: CPR 36.3(1)(c).

11 In CPR Pt 36, the party to whom an offer is made is the 'offeree': CPR 36.3(1)(b).

12 CPR 36.3(5).

13 In CPR Pt 36, the party who makes an offer is the 'offeror': CPR 36.3(1)(a).

14 CPR 36.3(6).

15 CPR 36.3(7). As to the costs consequences following judgment of an offer that is withdrawn see CPR 36.14(6); and PARA 740.

16 CPR 36.7(1).

17 CPR 36.7(2). As to provision about when permission is required to change the terms of an offer to make it less advantageous to the offeree see the text and notes 12-14.

UPDATE

729 Offers to settle; in general

NOTES 5, 9--See AF v BG [2009] EWCA Civ 757, [2009] All ER (D) 249 (Jul) (proceedings to which Pt 36 offer related were entire proceedings, both original claim and proposed counterclaim).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/730. Form and content of a Part 36 offer.

730. Form and content of a Part 36 offer.

An offer to settle which is made in accordance with the provisions below¹ is called a Part 36 offer². A Part 36 offer must:

- 761 (1) be in writing;
- 762 (2) state on its face that it is intended to have the consequences of Part 36;
- 763 (3) specify a period of not less than 21 days within which the defendant³ will be liable for the claimant's costs⁴ if the offer is accepted⁵;
- 764 (4) state whether it relates to the whole of the claim or to part of it or to an issue that arises in it and if so to which part or issue; and
- 765 (5) state whether it takes into account any counterclaim⁶.

In appropriate cases, a Part 36 offer must contain certain further information⁷. An offeror⁸ may make a Part 36 offer solely in relation to liability⁹.

1 le CPR 36.2.

2 CPR 36.2(1).

3 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

4 le in accordance with CPR 36.10: see PARA 736. As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

5 Head (3) in the text does not apply if the offer is made less than 21 days before the start of the trial: CPR 36.2(3).

6 CPR 36.2(2). As to provision for when a Part 36 offer is made see CPR 36.7; and PARA 729.

7 CPR 36.2(4), which refers to such information as is required by CPR 36.5 (see PARA 732), CPR 36.6 (see PARA 733) and CPR 36.15.

8 As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.

9 CPR 36.2(5).

UPDATE

730 Form and content of a Part 36 offer

NOTE 6--See AF v BG [2009] EWCA Civ 757, [2009] All ER (D) 249 (Jul).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/731. Defendants' offers.

731. Defendants' offers.

A Part 36 offer¹ by a defendant² to pay a sum of money in settlement of a claim must be an offer to pay a single sum of money³ but an offer that includes an offer to pay all or part of the sum, if accepted, at a date later than 14 days following the date of acceptance will not be treated as a Part 36 offer unless the offeree⁴ accepts the offer⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

2 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 36.4(1). This is subject to CPR 36.5(3) (see PARA 732) and CPR 36.6(1) (see PARA 733).

4 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.

5 CPR 36.4(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/732. Personal injury claims for future pecuniary loss.

732. Personal injury claims for future pecuniary loss.

In the case of a claim for damages for personal injury which is or includes a claim for future pecuniary loss, an offer to settle such a claim will not have particular costs consequences¹ unless it is made by way of a Part 36 offer² under these provisions³. In such a case, a Part 36 offer may contain an offer to pay, or an offer to accept (1) the whole or part of the damages for future pecuniary loss in the form of (a) a lump sum; or (b) periodical payments; or (c) both a lump sum and periodical payments⁴; (2) the whole or part of any other damages in the form of a lump sum⁵.

To the extent that a Part 36 offer by a defendant⁶ under these provisions includes an offer to pay all or part of any damages in the form of a lump sum⁷, the offer:

766 (i) must state the amount of any offer to pay the whole or part of any damages in the form of a lump sum⁸;

767 (ii) may state:

76

27. (A) what part of the lump sum, if any, relates to damages for future pecuniary loss; and

28. (B) what part relates to other damages to be accepted in the form of a lump sum⁹;

77

768 (iii) must state what part of the offer relates to damages for future pecuniary loss to be paid or accepted in the form of periodical payments and must specify:

78

29. (A) the amount and duration of the periodical payments;

30. (B) the amount of any payments for substantial capital purchases and when they are to be made; and

31. (C) that each amount is to vary by reference to the retail prices index (or to some other named index, or that it is not to vary by reference to any index); and¹⁰;

79

769 (iv) must state either that any damages which take the form of periodical payments will be funded in a way which ensures that the continuity of payment is reasonably secure¹¹ or how such damages are to be paid and how the continuity of their payment is to be secured¹².

Where the offeror makes a Part 36 offer to which these provisions apply and which offers to pay or to accept damages in the form of both a lump sum and periodical payments, the offeree may only give notice of acceptance of the offer as a whole¹³. If the offeree accepts a Part 36 offer which includes payment of any part of the damages in the form of periodical payments, the claimant¹⁴ must, within seven days of the date of acceptance, apply to the court for an order for an award of damages in the form of periodical payments¹⁵.

1 le those set out in CPR 36.10 (see PARA 736), CPR 36.11 (see PARA 737) and CPR 36.14 (see PARA 740).

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 CPR 36.5(1), (2).

4 CPR 36.5(3)(a).

5 CPR 36.5(3)(b).

6 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

7 CPR 36.5(5).

8 CPR 36.5(4)(a).

9 CPR 36.5(4)(b).

10 CPR 36.5(4)(c).

11 Ie in accordance with the Damages Act 1996 s 2(4): see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 931.

12 CPR 36.5(4)(d).

13 CPR 36.5(6).

14 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

15 CPR 36.5(7), referring to CPR 41.8 (see PARA 1222). Practice Direction--Periodical Payments under the Damages Act 1996 PD 41B contains information about periodical payments under the Damages Act 1996: see PARA 1222. Where the parties settle a claim to which CPR 36.5 applies, any consent order, whether made under CPR 40.6 or on an application under CPR Pt 23, must satisfy the requirements of CPR 41.8 and 41.9: Practice Direction--Periodical Payments under the Damages Act 1996 PD 41B para 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/733. Offer to settle a claim for provisional damages.

733. Offer to settle a claim for provisional damages.

An offeror¹ may make a Part 36 offer² in respect of a claim which includes a claim for provisional damages³. Where he does so, the Part 36 offer must specify whether or not the offeror is proposing that the settlement is to include an award of provisional damages⁴.

Where the offeror is offering to agree to the making of an award of provisional damages the Part 36 offer must also state:

- 770 (1) that the sum offered is in satisfaction of the claim for damages on the assumption that the injured person will not develop the disease or suffer the type of deterioration specified in the offer;
- 771 (2) that the offer is subject to the condition that the claimant⁵ must make any claim for further damages within a limited period; and
- 772 (3) what that period is⁶.

If the offeree⁷ accepts the Part 36 offer, the claimant must, within seven days of the date of acceptance, apply to the court for an order for an award of provisional damages⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 CPR 36.6(1).

4 CPR 36.6(2). CPR 36.4 (see PARA 731) applies to the extent that a Part 36 offer by a defendant includes an offer to agree to the making of an award of provisional damages: CPR 36.6(4). As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

6 CPR 36.6(3).

7 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.

8 CPR 36.6(5), referring to CPR 41.2 (see PARA 1217).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/734. Clarification of a Part 36 offer.

734. Clarification of a Part 36 offer.

The offeree¹ may, within seven days of a Part 36 offer² being made, request the offeror³ to clarify the offer⁴. If the offeror does not give the clarification so requested within seven days of receiving the request, the offeree may, unless the trial has started, apply for an order that he does so⁵. If the court makes such an order, it must specify the date when the Part 36 offer is to be treated as having been made⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.

4 CPR 36.8(1).

5 CPR 36.8(2). As to provisions about making an application to the court see CPR Pt 23; and PARA 852 et seq.

6 CPR 36.8(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/735. Acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

735. Acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

A Part 36 offer¹ is accepted by serving written notice of the acceptance on the offeror². Subject to the provision below³, a Part 36 offer may be accepted at any time (whether or not the offeree⁴ has subsequently made a different offer) unless the offeror serves notice of withdrawal on the offeree⁵.

The court's permission is required to accept a Part 36 offer in certain circumstances⁶. Where the court gives such permission, unless all the parties have agreed costs, the court will make an order dealing with costs, and may order that certain costs consequences⁷ will apply⁸.

Unless the parties agree, a Part 36 offer may not be accepted after the end of the trial but before judgment is handed down⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

2 CPR 36.9(1). As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.

3 Ie CPR 36.9(3).

4 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.

5 CPR 36.9(2). As to compromise etc by or on behalf of a child or protected party see CPR 21.10; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1422.

6 See CPR 36.9(3). The court's permission is so required where (1) CPR 36.12(4) (see PARA 738) applies; (2) CPR 36.15(3)(b) (see PARA 741 head (2)) applies, the relevant period has expired and further deductible amounts have been paid to the claimant since the date of the offer; (3) an apportionment is required under CPR 41.3A; or (4) the trial has started: CPR 36.9(3)(a)-(d). As to offers by some but not all of multiple defendants see CPR 36.12; and PARA 738. As to deductible amounts see CPR 36.15; and PARA 741. As to the meanings of 'claimant' and 'defendant' see PARA 18. CPR 41.3A requires an apportionment in proceedings under the Fatal Accidents Act 1976 and Law Reform (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1934.

7 Ie set out in CPR 36.10: see PARA 736.

8 CPR 36.9(4).

9 CPR 36.9(5).

UPDATE

735 Acceptance of a Part 36 offer

NOTE 5--See Sampla v Rushmoor BC [2008] EWHC 2616 (TCC), [2008] All ER (D) 335 (Oct).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/736. Costs consequences of acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

736. Costs consequences of acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

Subject to certain provisions¹ set out below, where a Part 36 offer² is accepted within the relevant period³, the claimant⁴ will be entitled to the costs of the proceedings up to the date on which notice of acceptance was served on the offeror⁵.

Where:

- 773 (1) a defendant's⁶ Part 36 offer relates to part only of the claim; and
- 774 (2) at the time of serving notice of acceptance within the relevant period the claimant abandons the balance of the claim, the claimant will be entitled to the costs of the proceedings up to the date of serving notice of acceptance unless the court orders otherwise⁷.

Costs under the provisions above will be assessed on the standard basis if the amount of costs is not agreed⁸.

Where:

- 775 (a) a Part 36 offer that was made less than 21 days before the start of trial is accepted; or
- 776 (b) a Part 36 offer is accepted after expiry of the relevant period, if the parties do not agree the liability for costs, the court will make an order as to costs⁹.

Where head (b) above applies, unless the court orders otherwise, the claimant will be entitled to the costs of the proceedings up to the date on which the relevant period expired; and the offeree¹⁰ will be liable for the offeror's costs for the period from the date of expiry of the relevant period to the date of acceptance¹¹. The claimant's costs include any costs incurred in dealing with the defendant's counterclaim if the Part 36 offer states that it takes into account the counterclaim¹².

- 1 le subject to CPR 36.10(2) (see text to note 5) and CPR 36.10(4)(a) (see head (a) in the text).
- 2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.
- 3 As to the meaning of 'relevant period' see PARA 729 note 9.
- 4 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.
- 5 CPR 36.10(1). As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.
- 6 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.
- 7 CPR 36.10(2).
- 8 CPR 36.10(3). Where the amount of costs is to be assessed on the standard basis, the court will only allow costs which are proportionate to the matters in issue; and resolve any doubt which it may have as to whether costs were reasonably incurred or reasonable and proportionate in amount in favour of the paying party: CPR 44.4(2).

- 9 CPR 36.10(4).
- 10 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.
- 11 CPR 36.10(5).
- 12 CPR 36.10(6).

UPDATE

736 Costs consequences of acceptance of a Part 36 offer

TEXT AND NOTES--On the determination of costs, the issue of contributory negligence is part of liability and is not a separate issue: Onay v Brown [2009] EWCA Civ 775, [2010] All ER (D) 64 (Mar) (nothing to justify claimant paying costs).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/737. Effect of acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

737. Effect of acceptance of a Part 36 offer.

If a Part 36 offer¹ is accepted, the claim will be stayed². In the case of acceptance of a Part 36 offer which relates to the whole claim the stay will be on the terms of the offer³.

If a Part 36 offer which relates to part only of the claim is accepted:

- 777 (1) the claim will be stayed as to that part on the terms of the offer; and
- 778 (2) unless the parties have agreed costs, the liability for costs is to be decided by the court⁴.

If the approval of the court is required before a settlement can be binding, any stay which would otherwise arise on the acceptance of a Part 36 offer will take effect only when that approval has been given⁵. Any stay arising under these provisions will not affect the power of the court to enforce the terms of a Part 36 offer or to deal with any question of costs (including interest on costs) relating to the proceedings⁶.

Unless the parties agree otherwise in writing, where a Part 36 offer by a defendant⁷ that is or that includes an offer to pay a single sum of money is accepted, that sum must be paid to the offeree within 14 days of the date of acceptance or of the order, when the court makes an order⁸, unless the court orders otherwise⁹.

If the accepted sum is not paid within 14 days or such other period as has been agreed the offeree may enter judgment for the unpaid sum¹⁰. In certain circumstances¹¹, where a Part 36 offer (or part of a Part 36 offer) is accepted and a party alleges that the other party has not honoured the terms of the offer, that party may apply to enforce the terms of the offer without the need for a new claim¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

2 CPR 36.11(1). As to the effect of a stay of proceedings see PARA 278 note 11.

3 CPR 36.11(2).

4 CPR 36.11(3).

5 CPR 36.11(4).

6 CPR 36.11(5).

7 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

8 Ie under CPR 41.2 (order for an award of provisional damages) or CPR 41.8 (order for an award of periodical payments).

9 CPR 36.11(6).

10 CPR 36.11(7).

11 Ie where a Part 36 offer (or part of a Part 36 offer) is not an offer to which CPR 36.11(6) applies.

12 CPR 36.11(8).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/738. Acceptance of a Part 36 offer made by one or more, but not all, defendants.

738. Acceptance of a Part 36 offer made by one or more, but not all, defendants.

Where the claimant¹ wishes to accept a Part 36 offer² made by one or more, but not all, of a number of defendants³:

779 (1) if the defendants are sued jointly or in the alternative, the claimant may accept the offer if:

80

32. (a) he discontinues his claim against those defendants who have not made the offer; and

33. (b) those defendants give written consent to the acceptance of the offer⁴;

81

780 (2) if the claimant alleges that the defendants have a several liability⁵ to him, the claimant may:

82

34. (a) accept the offer; and

35. (b) continue with his claims against the other defendants if he is entitled to do so⁶.

83

In all other cases the claimant must apply to the court for an order permitting him to accept the Part 36 offer⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

4 CPR 36.12(1), (2).

5 As to the meaning of 'several liability' see PARA 822 note 8.

6 CPR 36.12(1), (3).

7 CPR 36.12(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/739. Restriction on disclosure of a Part 36 offer.

739. Restriction on disclosure of a Part 36 offer.

A Part 36 offer¹ will be treated as 'without prejudice'² except as to costs³.

The fact that a Part 36 offer has been made must not be communicated to the trial judge or to the judge (if any) allocated in advance to conduct the trial until the case has been decided⁴ but this does not apply:

- 781 (1) where the defence of tender before claim⁵ has been raised;
- 782 (2) where the proceedings have been stayed⁶ following acceptance of a Part 36 offer; or
- 783 (3) where the offeror and the offeree agree in writing that it should not apply⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

2 As to the meaning of 'without prejudice' see PARA 804 note 4.

3 CPR 36.13(1).

4 CPR 36.13(2). See HSS Hire Services Group plc v BMB Builders Merchants Ltd [2005] EWCA Civ 626, [2005] 3 All ER 486; Johnson v Gore Wood & Co [2004] EWCA Civ 14, [2004] All ER (D) 248 (Jan). Where the judge becomes aware of such offer, he is obliged to determine whether justice required him to recuse himself; in reaching a decision, the judge should ask himself whether he can put the CPR Pt 36 offer out of his mind; if he can, he may consider the additional time, cost and difficulty for all concerned if the hearing were to be aborted: Millensted v Grosvenor House (Park Lane) Ltd [1937] 1 KB 717, [1937] 1 All ER 736; Garratt v Saxby [2004] EWCA Civ 341, [2004] 1 WLR 2152.

5 As to the meaning of 'defence of tender before claim' see PARA 600 note 1.

6 Ie under CPR 36.11: see PARA 737. As to the effect of a stay of proceedings see PARA 233 note 11.

7 CPR 36.13(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/740. Costs consequences following judgment.

740. Costs consequences following judgment.

The following provisions apply where on judgment being entered:

- 784 (1) a claimant¹ fails to obtain a judgment more advantageous than a defendant's Part 36 offer²; or
- 785 (2) judgment against the defendant is at least as advantageous to the claimant as the proposals contained in a claimant's Part 36 offer³.

Subject to heads (A) to (C) below, where head (1) above applies, the court will, unless it considers it unjust to do so, order that the defendant is entitled to his costs from the date on which the relevant period⁴ expired; and interest on those costs⁵.

Also subject to heads (A) to (C) where head (2) above applies, the court will, unless it considers it unjust to do so, order that the claimant is entitled to:

- 786 (a) interest on the whole or part of any sum of money (excluding interest) awarded at a rate not exceeding 10 per cent above base rate⁶ for some or all of the period starting with the date on which the relevant period expired;
- 787 (b) his costs on the indemnity basis from the date on which the relevant period expired; and
- 788 (c) interest on those costs at a rate not exceeding 10 per cent above base rate⁷.

In considering whether it would be unjust to make the orders referred to above⁸, the court will take into account all the circumstances of the case including:

- 789 (i) the terms of any Part 36 offer;
- 790 (ii) the stage in the proceedings when any Part 36 offer was made, including in particular how long before the trial started the offer was made;
- 791 (iii) the information available to the parties at the time when the Part 36 offer was made; and
- 792 (iv) the conduct of the parties with regard to the giving of or refusing to give information for the purposes of enabling the offer to be made or evaluated⁹.

Where the court awards interest under these provisions and also awards interest on the same sum and for the same period under any other power, the total rate of interest may not exceed 10 per cent above base rate¹⁰.

The provisions above¹¹ do not apply to a Part 36 offer:

- 793 (A) that has been withdrawn;
- 794 (B) that has been changed so that its terms are less advantageous to the offeree, and the offeree has beaten the less advantageous offer;
- 795 (C) made less than 21 days before trial, unless the court has abridged the relevant period¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730. As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 36.14(1). As to the power under CPR 36.14(1) to adopt a broad approach and to award costs in favour of the losing party or to make no order for costs see Carver v BAA plc [2008] EWCA Civ 412, [2008] 3 All ER 911, [2009] 1 WLR 113.

4 As to the meaning of 'relevant period' see PARA 729 note 9.

5 CPR 36.14(2).

6 'Base rate' means the interest rate set by the Bank of England which is used as the basis for other banks' rates: CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31.

7 CPR 36.14(3).

8 Ie in CPR 36.14(2) and CPR 36.14(3).

9 CPR 36.14(4).

10 CPR 36.14(5).

11 Ie CPR 36.14(2) and CPR 36.14(3).

12 CPR 36.14(6). As to the requirement that the court consider an offer to settle that does not have the costs consequences set out in CPR Pt 36 in deciding what order to make about costs see CPR 44.3; and PARAS 1738-1741.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/741. Deduction of benefits and lump sum payments.

741. Deduction of benefits and lump sum payments.

The following provisions apply where a payment to a claimant¹ following acceptance of a Part 36 offer² would be a compensation payment³.

A defendant⁴ who makes a Part 36 offer should state either:

- 796 (1) that the offer is made without regard to any liability for recoverable amounts⁵; or
- 797 (2) that it is intended to include any deductible amounts⁶.

Where head (2) above applies, the following provisions will apply to the Part 36 offer⁷.

Before making the Part 36 offer, the offeror⁸ must apply for a certificate⁹. The Part 36 offer must state:

- 798 (a) the amount of gross compensation;
- 799 (b) the name and amount of any deductible amount by which the gross amount is reduced; and
- 800 (c) the net amount of compensation¹⁰.

If at the time he makes the Part 36 offer, the offeror has applied for, but not received a certificate, he must clarify the offer by stating the matters referred to in heads (b) and (c) above not more than seven days after receipt of the certificate¹¹.

Where:

- 801 (i) further deductible amounts have accrued since the Part 36 offer was made; and
- 802 (ii) the court gives permission to accept the Part 36 offer, the court may direct that the amount of the offer payable to the offeree¹² be reduced by a sum equivalent to the deductible amounts paid to the claimant since the date of the offer¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 CPR 36.15(2), referring to a compensation payment as defined in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 1(4)(b) or 1A(5)(b) (see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 904).

4 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 CPR 36.15(3)(a). 'Recoverable amount' means 'recoverable benefits' as defined in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 1(4)(c); and 'recoverable lump sum payments' as defined in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) (Lump Sum Payments) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1596, reg 4: CPR 36.15(1)(a)-(c).

6 CPR 36.15(3)(b). 'Deductible amount' means (1) any benefits by the amount of which damages are to be reduced in accordance with the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 8, Sch 2 ('deductible benefits': see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 904); and (2) any lump sum payment by the amount of which damages are to be reduced in accordance with the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) (Lump Sum Payments) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1596, reg 12 ('deductible lump sum payments': see DAMAGES): CPR 36.15(1)(d).

7 CPR 36.15(4).

8 As to the meaning of 'offeror' see PARA 729 note 12.

9 CPR 36.15(5). 'Certificate' (1) in relation to recoverable benefits is construed in accordance with the provisions of the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997; and (2) in relation to recoverable lump sum payments has the meaning given in s 29 as applied by the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) (Lump Sum Payments) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1596, reg 2 and modified by Sch 1: CPR 36.15(1)(e).

10 CPR 36.15(6). For the purposes of CPR 36.14(1)(a) (see PARA 740 head (2)), a claimant fails to recover more than any sum offered (including a lump sum offered under CPR 36.5) (see PARA 732) if the claimant fails on judgment being entered to recover a sum, once deductible amounts identified in the judgment have been deducted, greater than the net amount stated under head (c) in the text: CPR 36.15(8). As to requirement that the court specify the compensation payment attributable to each head of damage see the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 15; and DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 921.

11 CPR 36.15(7).

12 As to the meaning of 'offeree' see PARA 729 note 10.

13 CPR 36.15(9). As to the requirement for permission to accept an offer where the relevant period has expired and further deductible amounts have been paid to the claimant see CPR 36.9(3)(b); and PARA 735 note 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/742. Money paid into court under a court order.

742. Money paid into court under a court order.

A party who makes a payment into court under a court order must (1) serve notice of the payment on every other party; and (2) in relation to each such notice, file a certificate of service¹.

¹ CPR 37.1. As to the modes of payment in see Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 paras 1.1, 1.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/743. Payment out of money paid into court.

743. Payment out of money paid into court.

Money paid into court under a court order or in support of a defence of tender before claim¹ may not be paid out without the court's permission except where (1) a Part 36 offer² is accepted without needing the permission of the court³; and (2) the defendant⁴ agrees that a sum paid into court by him should be used to satisfy the offer (in whole or in part)⁵.

Where the court's permission is required, permission may be obtained by making an application in accordance with Part 23 of the Civil Procedure Rules⁶. The application notice must state the grounds on which the order for payment out is sought, and evidence of any facts on which the applicant relies may also be necessary⁷. Where the court gives permission⁸, it will include a direction for the payment out of any money in court, including any interest accrued⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'defence of tender before claim' see PARA 600 note 1. As to the requirement of payment into court where a defendant wishes to rely on a defence of tender before claim see PARA 600.

2 As to the meaning of 'Part 36 offer' see PARA 730.

3 As to when the court's permission is required to accept a Part 36 offer see CPR 36.9; and PARA 735.

4 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 CPR 37.3; Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 3.1. Where permission is not required to take money out of court, the requesting party should file a request for payment in Court Funds Office form 201 with the Court Funds Office, accompanied by a statement that the defendant agrees that the money should be used to satisfy the Part 36 offer in Court Funds Office form 202: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 3.4. As to the details required to be given in the request for payment see para 3.5. Where para 3.4 applies, interest accruing up to the date of acceptance will be paid to the defendant: para 3.6.

6 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 3.2. As to CPR Pt 23 see PARA 303 et seq.

7 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 3.2.

8 I.e. under CPR 37.3.

9 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 3.3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/18. OFFERS TO SETTLE AND PAYMENTS INTO COURT/744. Payment into court under enactments.

744. Payment into court under enactments.

A practice direction may set out special provisions with regard to payments into court under various enactments¹.

¹ CPR 37.4. See Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 paras 4, 5 (payment into court, and payment out, under the Life Assurance Companies (Payment into Court) Act 1896); Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 paras 6, 7 (payment into court, and payment out, under the Trustee Act 1925); and Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions About Payments into Court PD 37 para 8 (payment into court under Vehicular Access across Common and other Land (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1711 (lapsed)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/19. SECURITY FOR COSTS/745. Security for costs; in general.

19. SECURITY FOR COSTS

745. Security for costs; in general.

A defendant¹ to any claim² may apply³ for security for his costs of the proceedings⁴ and such an application must be supported by written evidence⁵. Where the court makes an order for security for costs, it will determine the amount of security⁶ and direct the manner⁷ in which and the time within which the security must be given⁸.

Note that when the court makes any order, it may make it subject to conditions, including the payment of a sum into court⁹; and that the court also has power to order the payment of a sum into court as a condition for continued participation in litigation when a party has been guilty of non-compliance with a rule, practice direction or relevant pre-action protocol¹⁰. Money paid into court by a party in such circumstances will stand as security for any sum payable by that party to any other party in the proceedings¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 Ie including Part 20 claims and counterclaims: see CPR 20.1; CPR 20.3; and PARAS 618-619. As to the meaning of 'Part 20 claim' see PARA 618. As to the application of CPR 25.12 to New York Convention awards see Gater Assets Ltd v Nak Naftogaz Ukrainiy[2007] EWCA Civ 988, [2008] 1 All ER (Comm) 209.

3 Ie under CPR 25.12-CPR 25.15: see the text and notes 4-8; and PARAS 746-748.

4 CPR 25.12(1). As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

5 CPR 25.12(2). An order is not intended to be a weapon by which a defendant can obtain speedy summary judgment without trial: Radu v Houston[2006] EWCA Civ 1575, [2006] All ER (D) 295 (Nov). The court should be reluctant to award security in respect of pre-action costs: Lobster Group Ltd v Heidelberg Graphic Equipment Ltd[2008] EWHC 413 (TCC), [2008] 2 All ER 1173.

6 CPR 25.12(3)(a). Where the court is not satisfied that it has a full account of the claimant's resources, it has a discretion to set an amount according to its best estimate of what the claimant can afford: Al-Koronky v Time-Life Entertainment Group Ltd[2006] EWCA Civ 1123, [2006] All ER (D) 447 (Jul).

7 The manner in which security is ordered to be given is usually that the amount of security be paid into court. As to the payment of money into court see CPR Pt 37; and PARA 1553 et seq.

As to the provision of security in the form of a charge over property without a bank guarantee see AP (UK) Ltd v West Midlands Fire & Civil Defence Authority[2001] EWCA Civ 1917, [2002] 1 CPLR 57. See also Cie Noga D'Importation et D'Exportation SA v Abacha (as personal representatives of Sani Abacha (deceased)) (No 3) [2003] EWCA Civ 1101, [2003] 2 All ER (Comm) 935.

8 CPR 25.12(3)(b). As to making further orders increasing the security see Cripps v Heritage Distribution Corpn, New England International Surety Inc v Cripps [1999] CPLR 858, (1999) Times, 10 November, CA. As to security for costs under the Companies Act 1986 s 726 see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 308; and see eg Fernhill Mining Ltd v Keir Construction Ltd [2000] CPLR 23, CA.

9 See CPR 3.1(3); and PARA 247.

10 See CPR 3.1(5); and PARA 247.

11 See CPR 3.1(6A); and PARA 247.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/19. SECURITY FOR COSTS/746. Conditions to be satisfied.

746. Conditions to be satisfied.

The court¹ may make an order for security for costs² if it is satisfied, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, that it is just to make such an order³ and either an enactment permits the court to require security for costs⁴ or one or more of the following conditions applies⁵. Such conditions are:

- 803 (1) the claimant⁶ is resident out of the jurisdiction⁷ but not resident in a Brussels Contracting State, a Lugano Contracting State or a Regulation State⁸;
- 804 (2) the claimant is a company or other body (whether incorporated inside or outside Great Britain) and there is reason to believe that it will be unable to pay the defendant's⁹ costs if ordered to do so¹⁰;
- 805 (3) the claimant has changed his address since the claim was commenced with a view to evading the consequences of the litigation¹¹;
- 806 (4) the claimant failed to give his address in the claim form, or gave an incorrect address in that form¹²;
- 807 (5) the claimant is acting as a nominal claimant, other than as a representative claimant¹³, and there is reason to believe that he will be unable to pay the defendant's costs if ordered to do so¹⁴;
- 808 (6) the claimant has taken steps in relation to his assets that would make it difficult to enforce an order for costs against him¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 See under CPR 25.12: see PARA 745. A court may order a non-compliant party to pay money into court akin to an order for security for costs, taking into account costs incurred or to be incurred: Olatawura v Abiloye [2002] EWCA Civ 998, [2002] 4 All ER 903, [2003] 1 WLR 275.

3 CPR 25.13(1)(a). In deciding whether it is just to order the provision of security for costs, the court will have regard to all the relevant circumstances of the case and, in particular, whether: (1) it appears that the application is made in order to stifle a genuine claim; (2) the order will have the effect of stifling a genuine claim, even if that is not the motive for the defendant's application; (3) the application is made at a late stage, by which time the claimant will have already incurred substantial costs which might be thrown away if security were ordered and the claimant were unable to provide it; (4) any impecuniosity on the part of the claimant has been caused by the defendant as a result of the matters in issue in the claim or otherwise: see Sir Lindsay Parkinson & Co Ltd v Triplan Ltd [1973] QB 609, [1973] 2 All ER 273, CA. If the relative strengths of the parties' cases can be discerned without prolonged examination of voluminous evidence, the court will also have regard to the likely outcome of the case: see Porzelack KG v Porzelack (UK) Ltd [1987] 1 All ER 1074, [1987] 1 WLR 420, CA. As to the use of cases decided under the old rules as an aid to interpreting the Civil Procedure Rules see PARA 33 text and note 2. Relevant consideration should be given to the effect of requiring payment: CIBC Mellon Trust Co v Mora Hotel Corp NV [2002] EWCA Civ 1688, [2003] 1 All ER 564. Where the parties have explicitly agreed that the court should not exercise its discretion to vary the amount of security for costs, the court nevertheless retains a residual discretion, which it should exercise only in wholly exceptional circumstances, to vary that agreed security: Republic of Kazakhstan v Istil Group Inc [2005] EWCA Civ 1468, [2006] 2 All ER (Comm) 26, [2006] 1 WLR 596. See also Calltell Telecom Ltd v Revenue and Customs Comrs [2008] EWHC 2107 (Ch), [2008] All ER (D) 89 (Jun) (argument that order would stifle appeal rejected). As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

4 CPR 25.13(1)(b)(ii). As to such enactments see eg the Companies Act 1985 s 726(1), which provides that the court may order security for costs to be given by a claimant company registered under the Act if it appears, by credible testimony, that the company will be unable to pay the costs of a successful defendant; and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 308; and see CPR 25.13(2)(c); and the text and note 12. See also the Arbitration Act 1996 s 38(3); and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1248.

5 CPR 25.13(1)(b)(i).

6 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

7 CPR 25.13(2)(a)(i). As to the meaning of 'jurisdiction' see PARA 117 note 6. The court must not order security for costs against an individual who is ordinarily resident outside the jurisdiction except on grounds relating to the difficulties of enforcement: Nasser v United Bank of Kuwait [2001] EWCA Civ 556, [2002] 1 All ER 401, [2002] 1 WLR 1868. There is no general principle that, where a claimant residing outside the jurisdiction in a country where the Brussels Conventions and the Lugano Convention do not apply does not disclose where his assets are located, security for costs will be ordered: Somerset-Leeke v Kay Trustees [2003] EWHC 1243 (Ch), [2004] 3 All ER 406.

8 As defined in the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1982 s 1(3): CPR 25.13(2)(a)(ii); see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 65. See eg De Beer v Kanaar & Co (a firm) [2001] EWCA Civ 1318, [2002] 3 All ER 1020, [2003] 1 WLR 38 (CPR 25.13(2)(a) does not preclude the court from making an order for security for costs against an individual claimant who is not ordinarily resident in the jurisdiction or in that of a convention state, but has assets in such a state).

9 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

10 CPR 25.13(2)(c). See eg Classic Catering Ltd v Donnington Park Leisure Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 537. There is a critical difference between a conclusion that there is 'reason to believe' that a company will not be able to pay costs and a conclusion that this has been proved to be the case: Jirehouse Capital v Beller [2008] EWCA Civ 908, [2008] All ER (D) 397 (Jul).

11 CPR 25.13(2)(d). The sale of a house is a step taken in relation to assets making it difficult to enforce an order for costs: Aoun v Bahri [2002] EWHC 29 (Comm), [2002] 3 All ER 182.

12 CPR 25.13(2)(e). As the requirement to give an address in the claim form see PARA 585 note 6.

13 As under CPR Pt 19: see PARA 210 et seq.

14 CPR 25.13(2)(f). See eg Farmer v Moseley (Holdings) Ltd [2001] 2 BCLC 572, [2001] All ER (D) 16 (Jul) (no order made as claimant entitled to fruits of action).

15 CPR 25.13(2)(g). The court must be cautious in making an order for security for costs if such an order might effectively shut out a claimant from his claim being properly considered: Chandler v Brown [2001] All ER (D) 302 (Jul) per Park J. The claimant's intention is irrelevant for the purposes of CPR 25.13(2)(g): Harris v Wallis [2006] All ER (D) 158 (Mar).

UPDATE

746 Conditions to be satisfied

NOTE 10--Jirehouse, cited, reported at [2009] 1 WLR 751.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/19. SECURITY FOR COSTS/747. Security for costs other than from the claimant.

747. Security for costs other than from the claimant.

The defendant¹ may seek an order against someone other than the claimant², and the court³ may make an order for security for costs against that person, if it is satisfied, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, that it is just to make such an order⁴ and one or more of the following conditions applies⁵. The conditions are that the person:

- 809 (1) has assigned the right to the claim to the claimant with a view to avoiding the possibility of a costs order being made against him; or
- 810 (2) has contributed or agreed to contribute to the claimant's costs in return for a share of any money or property which the claimant may recover in the proceedings, and is a person against whom a costs order may be made⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 25.14(1)(a).

5 CPR 25.14(1)(b).

6 CPR 25.14(2). Under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 51(3), persons who are not parties to the action may be liable to an order for costs against them in certain circumstances, which are wider than those prescribed by this rule: see Aiden Shipping Co Ltd v Interbulk Ltd, The Vimeira [1986] AC 965, [1986] 2 All ER 409, HL; Symphony Group plc v Hodgson [1994] QB 179, [1993] 4 All ER 143, CA. See also CPR 48.2, which makes provision for costs orders against non-parties and provides that a person against whom such an order is sought should be made a party to the action for such purposes; and PARA 217. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. A judge should give relevant consideration to the effect of a costs order, especially where it may in practice require that a third party make payment: CIBC Mellon Trust Co v Mora Hotel Corpn NV [2002] EWCA Civ 1688, [2003] 1 All ER 564. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/19. SECURITY FOR COSTS/748. Security for costs of an appeal.

748. Security for costs of an appeal.

The court¹ may order security for costs of an appeal against an appellant or a respondent who also appeals, on the same grounds as it may order security for costs² against a claimant³. The court may also make an order under this provision where the appellant, or the respondent who also appeals, is a limited company and there is reason to believe it will be unable to pay the costs of the other parties to the appeal should its appeal be unsuccessful⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Ie under CPR Pt 25: see PARAS 745-747.

3 CPR 25.15(1). For guidance as to the exercise of this discretion see Nasser v United Bank of Kuwait [2001] EWCA Civ 556, [2002] 1 All ER 401. See also Dar International FEF Co v Aon Ltd [2004] EWCA Civ 1833, [2004] 3 All ER 986, [2004] 1 WLR 1395.

4 CPR 25.15(2). As to security for the costs of a company see also PARA 746 note 4. As to appeals see PARA 1657 et seq. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(i) In general/749. Scope of this section of the title.

20. EVIDENCE

(1) INTRODUCTION

(i) In general

749. Scope of this section of the title.

This part of the title is concerned with the general law of evidence applying in civil cases¹. There are some civil proceedings to which the strict rules of evidence do not apply² and also some proceedings which cannot be categorised as either civil or criminal and to which those rules do not apply³.

Although there are principles common to both civil and criminal evidence, there are many important distinctions between them⁴. The law of criminal evidence is dealt with elsewhere in this work⁵ but the authorities cited in this title to illustrate general principles of the law of evidence are sometimes drawn from the criminal law.

1 As to the distinction between civil and criminal proceedings see generally PARA 2.

2 Eg proceedings allocated to the small claims track (see PARAS 267, 274 et seq) and proceedings under the Children Act 1989 (see the Children Act 1989 s 96; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 228).

3 Eg proceedings in coroners' courts: see CORONERS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1020-1026.

4 For a discussion of the different ways in which rules of evidence may be applied in civil and criminal proceedings see R v Christie[1914] AC 545, HL.

5 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1359 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(i) In general/750. Evidence of witnesses; in general.

750. Evidence of witnesses; in general.

The general rule is that any fact which needs to be proved by the evidence of witnesses is to be proved, at trial, by their oral evidence given in public¹ and at any other hearing, by their evidence in writing². This is subject to any provision to the contrary contained in the Civil Procedure Rules or elsewhere³ or to any order of the court⁴.

As a specific example of the court's case management power to make use of technology⁵, a witness may be allowed to give evidence through a video link or by other means⁶.

1 CPR 32.2(1)(a).

2 CPR 32.2(1)(b) As to the ways in which evidence may be given in writing see PARA 751 et seq.

3 CPR 32.2(2)(a).

4 CPR 32.2(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 See CPR 1.4(2)(k); and PARA 246.

6 CPR 32.3. See Rowland v Bock [2002] EWHC 692 (QB), [2002] 4 All ER 370; Polanski v Condé Nast Publications Ltd [2005] UKHL 10, [2005] 1 All ER 945, [2005] 1 WLR 637; and PARA 1032. As to the use of video conferencing in relation to evidence given at trial or other hearings see Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 29.1, Annex 3; and PARAS 1033-1035.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(i) In general/751. Evidence in proceedings other than at trial.

751. Evidence in proceedings other than at trial.

Subject as follows, the general rule is that evidence at hearings other than the trial is to be by witness statement¹ unless the court², a practice direction or any other enactment requires otherwise³. At hearings other than the trial, a party may, however, in support of his application, rely on the matters set out in his statement of case⁴ or his application notice⁵, if the statement of case or application notice is verified by a statement of truth⁶, which is a statement that the party putting the document forward believes that the facts stated in it are true⁷.

The court may give directions requiring the parties to use their best endeavours to agree a bundle or bundles of documents for use at any hearing⁸. All documents contained in bundles which have been agreed for use at a hearing are admissible at that hearing as evidence of their contents, unless (1) the court orders otherwise; or (2) a party gives written notice of objection to the admissibility of particular documents⁹.

1 A witness statement is a written statement signed by a person which contains the evidence which that person would be allowed to give orally: see CPR 32.4(1); and PARA 981 et seq. For a document to be a witness statement it must be verified by a statement of truth (see CPR 22.1(1)(c); and PARA 613) which is signed by the witness who makes the statement (see CPR 22.1(6)(b); and PARA 613). The statement of truth to be signed is: 'I believe that the facts stated in this witness statement are true': see CPR 22.1(4)(b); Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 20.2; and PARA 613. As to the additional statement of truth required to be made on a report by an expert witness see CPR 35.10; and PARA 839. As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 32.6(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584.

5 See Forms N244, PF244 (the latter for use in the Royal Courts of Justice) in The Civil Court Practice and, in particular, Pt C of those forms providing for evidence to be set out or reference to be made to other material (such as affidavits, witness statements, or statements of case) which it is intended to rely upon at the hearing of the application to which the notice relates. As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5.

6 CPR 32.6(2). As to the requirement that statements of case must be verified by a statement of truth see CPR 22.1(1)(a); and PARA 613. To verify a statement of case the statement of truth should be set out as follows: '[I believe][the (party on whose behalf the statement of case is being signed) believes] that the facts stated in the statement of case are true': Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 26.2. As to parties who may sign a statement of truth see PARA 613. A statement of case which is not verified by a statement of truth may not be relied on as evidence of the matters set out in it: see CPR 22.2(1)(b); and PARA 614. See also CPR 22.1(3) (if an applicant wishes to rely upon the matters set out in an application notice as evidence, it must be verified by a statement of truth); Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 1.3; and PARA 613. See also see Forms N244, PF244 in The Civil Court Practice for the form of a statement of truth verifying an application notice.

7 See CPR 22.1(4); and PARA 613. If a party is conducting proceedings with a litigation friend (ie the party is a child or a protected party: see CPR Pt 21; PARA 222; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1411 et seq) then the statement of truth is a statement that the litigation friend believes the facts stated in the document are true: see CPR 22.1(5); and PARA 613. As to who may sign the statement of truth verifying a statement of case or an application notice see CPR 22.1(6); Practice Direction--Statements of Truth PD 22 para 3; and PARA 613.

8 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 27.1.

9 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 27.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/752. Proof of facts.

(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence

752. Proof of facts.

Evidence is the usual means of proving or disproving a fact or matter in issue. The law of evidence indicates what may properly be introduced by a party (that is, what is admissible), and also what standard of proof is necessary (that is, the degree of conviction or persuasion that the evidence needs to produce). In short, the law of evidence governs the means and manner in which a party may substantiate his own case, or refute that of his opponent.

To some extent, modern evidential principles still reflect the now obsolete assumption that all cases are tried by judge and jury, the former deciding on matters of admissibility, the latter deciding questions of fact by drawing the appropriate inferences from the evidence that has been admitted. While this is largely untrue in civil cases, with which this title is solely concerned¹, the distinction between admissibility of evidence and the conclusions to be drawn from it (or weight) is still fundamental to a proper understanding of the English law of evidence².

Two further principles are important. First, cases are tried solely on the evidence adduced by the parties, which may be limited as a matter of agreement or tactics³; the judge does not pursue⁴ any independent inquiry⁵. Secondly, in a minority of cases evidence may not be necessary to enable a party to establish a particular fact; there may be formal or deemed admissions⁶, what is contended for may be a matter of which judicial notice⁷ may be taken, or a presumption of sufficient strength may operate⁸.

1 See PARA 749. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 As to the functions of the judge and of the tribunal of fact see PARA 795 et seq. The law of civil evidence has been the subject of significant statutory revision by the Civil Evidence Acts 1968, 1972 and 1995 (see PARAS 1088, 1208-1209, 808 et seq, 970, 974 et seq); nevertheless, many of its principles are those of nineteenth and twentieth century case law.

3 See Henderson v Henry E Jenkins & Sons and Evans[1970] AC 282, [1969] 3 All ER 756, HL.

4 In most civil proceedings the court has no power to call witnesses without the consent of the parties: see Re Enoch and Zaretsky, Bock & Co's Arbitration[1910] 1 KB 327, CA. In certain matrimonial causes the court may, if it thinks fit, make arrangements for any question to be fully argued. As to evidence in matrimonial causes see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 825 et seq.

See Air Canada v Secretary of State for Trade (No 2)[1983] 2 AC 394 at 438, [1983] 1 All ER 910 at 919, HL, per Lord Wilberforce ('In a contest purely between one litigant and another . . . the task of the court is to do, and be seen to be doing, justice between the parties . . . There is no higher or additional duty to ascertain some independent truth. It often happens, from the imperfection of evidence, or the withholding of it, sometimes by the party in whose favour it would tell if presented, that an adjudication has to be made which is not, and is known not to be, the whole truth of the matter; yet, if the decision has been in accordance with the available evidence and with the law, justice will have been fairly done').

5 The judge has no discretion to include any item of legally inadmissible evidence: Myers v DPP[1965] AC 1001, [1964] 2 All ER 881, HL. See also PARA 755 note 2. The court has, however, a general discretion under the Civil Procedure Rules to exclude legally admissible evidence: see CPR 32.1(2); and PARA 791. Note that there are now virtually no inadmissibility rules remaining for civil proceedings.

6 As to formal admissions see PARAS 776-778. As to informal admissions which may be admitted as hearsay evidence see PARA 819.

7 As to judicial notice see PARA 779 et seq.

8 Eg of legitimacy, or death, innocence or sanity. However, in these cases it will be necessary to adduce sufficient evidence for the presumption to operate. See PARA 1096 et seq.

UPDATE

752 Proof of facts

TEXT AND NOTES--See Markel International Insurance Co Ltd v Higgins; QBE Insurance (Europe) Ltd v Higgins[2009] EWCA Civ 790, [2009] All ER (D) 240 (Jul).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/753. Application of the law of evidence.

753. Application of the law of evidence.

Subject to a number of exceptions and modifications, the rules of evidence¹ are binding upon all courts², and upon some tribunals of other kinds. Among the exceptions are prize courts³, coroners' courts⁴, election courts⁵, and, to some extent, ecclesiastical courts⁶. Additionally, a court may be bound by rules of evidence when sitting in one capacity, but not in another⁷; for example the strict rules of evidence do not apply to proceedings allocated to the small claims track⁸. Arbitrators are not necessarily bound by the strict rules of evidence⁹.

Justices are bound when sitting in a judicial capacity, but not when in an administrative capacity¹⁰.

1 'The rules of evidence' comprise the statutory and common law principles of the law of evidence and should be distinguished from the procedural rules relating to evidence contained in CPR Pts 32-35. As to the application of CPR Pts 32-35 see PARA 32. As to the rules of evidence in magistrates' courts see MAGISTRATES. As to modifications to the rules in the case of specialist proceedings see PARA 757.

2 As to what constitutes a court see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 301 et seq.

3 The Kim, The Alfred Nobel, The Björnsternje Björnson, The Fridland [1915] P 215; affd (1917) 116 LT 577, PC; The Dirigo (1919) 35 TLR 533; and see PRIZE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 806.

4 See CORONERS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) para 1020.

5 See ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS.

6 Chesney v Newsholme [1908] P 301; Conway v Breazley (1831) 3 Hag Ecc 639; and see Re St Luke's, Chelsea [1976] Fam 295, [1976] 1 All ER 609. As to the procedure in ecclesiastical courts see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW.

7 The Crown Court hearing an appeal from a refusal to grant a firearms dealer's certificate is not bound by strict rules of evidence because it is then exercising its administrative function: see Kavanagh v Chief Constable of Devon and Cornwall [1974] QB 624, [1973] 3 All ER 657, DC; affd [1974] QB 624 at 631, [1974] 2 All ER 697, CA. See also R v Crown Court at Aylesbury, ex p Farrer (1988) Times, 9 March, CA.

8 See CPR 27.8(3); and PARA 279. As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

9 As to the rules governing arbitration see ARBITRATION. The Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879 applies to arbitrations: see s 10; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARAS 908, 911. See also PARA 939.

10 Boulter v Kent Justices [1897] AC 556, HL; and see MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/754. Other tribunals.

754. Other tribunals.

There are a wide variety of tribunals. Whether a particular tribunal is bound by the rules of evidence¹ depends upon the interpretation of the provisions which constitute or regulate it². Tribunals which are to a great extent bound by the rules include the Commissioners of Income Tax³, the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal⁴, electoral registration officers hearing claims and objections to registrations in lists of electors⁵, an investigation committee, a fitness to practise panel or an interim orders panel of the General Medical Council⁶ (to some extent) and, normally, the Lands Tribunal⁷. A tribunal may have only some of these powers, such as the right to summon witnesses or to take evidence on oath, and the exercise of a power may be discretionary⁸. Some tribunals, such as appeal tribunals under the social security legislation⁹, are not bound by the rules of evidence, and any tribunal acting under statutory authority is entitled to act on any material which is logically probative unless the statute indicates to the contrary¹⁰. There are cases where there is express provision to allow evidence otherwise inadmissible, such as in relation to Pensions Appeal Tribunals¹¹ and Agricultural Land Tribunals¹². Many statutory tribunals have their own rules of evidence as part of the statutory rules or regulations governing their practice and procedure¹³.

1 See PARA 753 note 1.

2 Consideration of the legislation may show that proceedings were intended to be informal and that the tribunal can proceed without evidence according to law (and may lack the power to summon witnesses or administer an oath, as is the case with rent tribunals): see R v Brighton and Area Rent Tribunal, ex p Marine Parade Estates (1936) Ltd [1950] 2 KB 410, [1950] 1 All ER 946, DC; R v Fulham, Hammersmith and Kensington Rent Tribunal, ex p Zerek [1951] 2 KB 1, [1951] 1 All ER 482, DC; R v Paddington North and St Marylebone Rent Tribunal, ex p Perry [1956] 1 QB 229, [1955] 3 All ER 391, DC.

3 As to evidence on appeals before the general and special commissioners see the Taxes Management Act 1970 s 50; and INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 1763. Special commissioners hearing appeals have the same powers as general commissioners: see Pt I (ss 1-6) and Pt V (ss 44-58); and INCOME TAXATION.

4 Proceedings before this body are legal proceedings within the meaning of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879 s 10: see PARA 939; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARAS 908, 911. The Civil Evidence Act 1968 and the Civil Evidence Act 1995 apply in relation to proceedings before the tribunal as they apply in relation to civil proceedings: Solicitors (Disciplinary Proceedings) Rules 2007, SI 2007/3588, r 13. Whether the proceedings can properly be described as quasi-criminal or not, there is nothing in the statutes or rules which binds the tribunal to the rules of criminal law: see Re A Solicitor [1945] KB 368, [1945] 1 All ER 445, CA. See further LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 913.

5 As to the application of the rules of evidence in election courts see ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS.

6 See eg the General Medical Council (Fitness to Practise) Rules 2004 r 34 (set out in the General Medical Council (Fitness to Practise) Rules Order of Council 2004, SI 2004/2608, Schedule). See further MEDICAL PROFESSIONS.

7 The transfer of jurisdiction to the tribunal does not affect any provision relating to evidence: Lands Tribunal Act 1949 s 7(1) (amended by the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 40(3), Sch 5). As to evidence before the Lands Tribunal see generally the Lands Tribunal Rules 1996, SI 1996/1022, r 33. Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1972, or in rules of court made under it, prevents expert evidence from being given before the tribunal by any party even if no application has been made to the tribunal for a direction as to the disclosure of that evidence to any other party to the proceedings: Lands Tribunal Rules 1996, SI 1996/1022, r 33(4). See further COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. As to expert evidence see PARA 835 et seq.

8 Eg the giving of evidence on oath before disciplinary committees of agricultural marketing boards: see AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND MARKETING vol 1 (2008) PARA 1099. Similar powers and discretions exist in respect of tribunals holding inquiries to which the Local Government Act 1972 s 250 is applied: see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARAS 600, 777; LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 105. Tribunals having no statutory powers are unable to summon witnesses or administer oaths, and their proceedings are not bound by rules of evidence, unless their rules or usage indicate to the contrary. As to the observance of the rules of natural justice in their proceedings see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 13; JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 629 et seq.

9 For the procedural rules regarding these tribunals which are not explicit with regard to evidence see SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS.

10 TA Miller Ltd v Ministry of Housing and Local Government [1968] 2 All ER 633, [1968] 1 WLR 992, CA.

11 See the Pensions Appeals Tribunals (England and Wales) Rules 1980, SI 1980/1120, r 12(5).

12 See the Agricultural Land Tribunals (Rules) Order 2007, SI 2007/3105, art 2, Schedule r 23(6). Questions of law may be referred to the High Court under r 37. See further AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 670 et seq.

13 See eg the Employment Tribunals (Constitution and Rules of Procedure) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/1861, reg 16, Sch 1 r 14(2); and EMPLOYMENT. The practice and procedure of specialist tribunals, and the rules of evidence therein, are discussed elsewhere in this work in the titles dealing with the substantive law relevant to such tribunals.

UPDATE

754 Other tribunals

TEXT AND NOTE 7--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Lands Tribunal Act 1949 s 7(1); SI 1996/1022 r 33 (amended by SI 2009/1307).

NOTE 11--SI 1980/1120 revoked: SI 2008/2683.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/755. Law of the forum.

755. Law of the forum.

In courts in England and Wales, domestic rules of evidence are applied¹ and the courts have no power to depart from this principle² except to the extent that statute so provides³.

¹ See Bain v Whitehaven and Furness Junction Rly Co and Forbes (1850) 3 HL Cas 1; Hamlyn & Co v Talisker Distillery [1894] AC 202, HL.

² Baerlein v Chartered Mercantile Bank [1895] 2 Ch 488, CA. Thus, if it is wished to prove a foreign document in an English court, even if by the law of its country of origin the document could be proved by the production of a copy, it cannot be so proved in England unless the circumstances are such that it is admissible under English law: Brown v Thornton (1837) 6 Ad & El 185; Clark v Mullick (1840) 3 Moo PCC 252. As to documents and their admissibility under English law see PARA 864 et seq. See also the Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995 s 14(3)(b); and CONFLICT OF LAWS.

³ See eg the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 ss 2, 3(1)(b); PARAS 1058, 1061; and Desilla v Fells & Co (1879) 40 LT 423; the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(5); England v Smith [2001] Ch 419, [2000] 2 BCLC 21, CA; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/756. Content and application of Parts 32 to 35 of the Civil Procedure Rules.

756. Content and application of Parts 32 to 35 of the Civil Procedure Rules.

Parts 32 to 35 of the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR') contain rules about evidence. Part 32 contains rules about the court's general power to control evidence¹ and general rules about witness evidence² and is supplemented by a practice direction about written evidence³. Part 33 contains miscellaneous rules about evidence, including rules about the introduction of hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁴ and is supplemented by a brief practice direction⁵. Part 34 and its supplementary practice directions contain rules about witnesses, depositions and evidence for foreign courts⁶; and Part 35 and its supplementary practice direction contain rules about expert witnesses and assessors⁷.

The general application of the CPR is discussed elsewhere in this title⁸. Although they do not apply to most proceedings in the Family Division of the High Court or in family courts⁹, Part 35 applies to proceedings for ancillary relief¹⁰ and the CPR apply generally to committal applications¹¹, to proceedings in the Family Division which invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court to grant declarations as to the best interests of incapacitated adults¹² and to appeals to the Court of Appeal in family cases¹³. Evidence in family proceedings is discussed in detail elsewhere in this work¹⁴.

Except for the court's general power to control evidence¹⁵, Part 32 of the CPR does not apply to cases allocated to the small claims track¹⁶. Part 33 does not apply to such cases¹⁷ and the application to them of Part 35 is limited¹⁸. Part 34 does, however, apply to such cases, except to the extent that a rule limits such application¹⁹.

1 See CPR 32.1; and PARA 791.

2 See CPR 32.2-32.19; and PARAS 777-778, 981 et seq.

3 See Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32; and PARA 981 et seq.

4 See CPR 33.1-33.9; and PARA 808 et seq.

5 See Practice Direction--Civil Evidence Act 1995 PD 33; and PARA 806.

6 See CPR 34.1-34.24; Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendances by Witnesses PD 34A; Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B; and PARA 992 et seq.

7 See CPR 35.1-35.15; Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35; and PARA 838 et seq.

8 See PARA 32.

9 See PARA 32 heads (5)-(6) in the text.

10 See CPR 35.1-CPR 35.14 (with appropriate modifications), except CPR 35.5(2) and CPR 35.8(4)(b): see the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.61C (added by SI 1999/3491); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 932.

11 See Practice Direction [2001] 2 All ER 704, sub nom Practice Direction (Family Proceedings: Committal) [2001] 1 WLR 1253.

12 See Practice Direction (declaratory proceedings: incapacitated adults) [2002] 1 All ER 794, [2002] 1 WLR 325, Fam D.

13 See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 737. For the purpose only of appeals to the Court of Appeal from cases in family proceedings, Practice Direction--Appeals PD 52 will apply with such modifications as may be required: para 2.2. As to civil appeals to the Court of Appeal generally see PARA 1701 et seq.

14 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 228-229; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

15 Ie CPR 32.1: see PARA 791.

16 CPR 27.2(1)(c). As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

17 CPR 27.2(1)(d).

18 See CPR 27.2(1)(e). Only the following rules contained in CPR Pt 35 apply: CPR 35.1 (duty to restrict expert evidence: see PARA 791); CPR 35.3 (experts--overriding duty to the court: see PARA 848); CPR 35.7 (court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by single joint expert: see PARA 840); and CPR 35.8 (instructions to a single joint expert: see PARA 847): CPR 27.2(1)(e).

19 CPR 27.2(2). The court of its own initiative may order a party to provide further information if it considers it appropriate to do so: CPR 27.2(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(ii) Purpose and Application of the Law of Evidence/757. Evidence in specialist proceedings.

757. Evidence in specialist proceedings.

Where the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR') do not apply in particular categories of proceedings, for example in most family proceedings¹, rules of court will make provision for the manner in which evidence may be adduced and for the extent to which the strict rules of evidence will apply². In other categories of proceedings, for example Admiralty, commercial and mercantile proceedings, the provisions in the CPR may be supplemented by additional rules of court and practice directions³ and by the guides to proceedings in particular civil courts⁴.

These particular provisions are discussed elsewhere in this work in the titles dealing with the relevant substantive law⁵.

¹ See PARA 32 text and note 13.

² See eg the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

³ See eg CPR 58.14 (disclosure of ship's papers in commercial proceedings relating to a marine insurance policy); Practice Direction--Commercial Court PD 58 paras 13.1-13.4 (evidence for applications in the commercial court); Practice Direction--Mercantile Courts PD 59 paras 9.1-9.4 (evidence for applications in mercantile courts); CPR 61.13 (assessors in certain Admiralty claims); CPR 62.15(7) (filing of evidence in certain arbitration claims); Practice Direction--Arbitration PD 62 paras 7.1-7.3 (securing attendance of witnesses in arbitral proceedings).

⁴ See eg The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H1.1 (witness statements in Admiralty and commercial proceedings). Court guides are published giving guidance for proceedings in the Admiralty and Commercial Courts, the Chancery Division, the Queen's Bench Division, mercantile courts, the Patents Court and the Supreme Court Costs Office. At the date at which this title states the law, these guides were available at www.hmcourts-service.gov.uk. As to the status of such court guides see PARA 16. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

⁵ See eg SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW; ARBITRATION; BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY; CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; COMPANIES; CONTRACT; INSURANCE; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW; PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS.

UPDATE

757 Evidence in specialist proceedings

NOTE 4--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H1.1-H1.3. Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/758. In general.

(iii) Relevance and Admissibility

758. In general.

The prime requirement of anything sought to be admitted in evidence is that it is of sufficient relevance¹. What is relevant (namely what goes to the proof or disproof of a matter in issue) will be decided by logic and human experience, and facts may be proved directly or circumstantially². Exclusionary rules³ may, however, provide that certain kinds of evidence are inadmissible notwithstanding that they may be logically relevant⁴. Admissible evidence is thus that which is (1) relevant; and (2) not excluded by any rule of law or practice. It may be that an item of evidence is admissible on one ground and inadmissible on others; if so, it will be admitted⁵. Evidence may also be admissible for one purpose and not for another⁶.

The court has a general discretionary power to control evidence⁷ and this includes the power to exclude evidence even if it is admissible⁸. Disputes about the admissibility of evidence in civil proceedings should be dealt at the substantive hearing rather than at a preliminary hearing⁹.

1 See Hollington v F Hewthorn & Co Ltd[1943] KB 587, [1943] 2 All ER 35, CA; and R v Turner[1975] QB 834, [1975] 1 All ER 70, CA; Computer Machinery Co Ltd v Drescher[1983] 3 All ER 153, [1983] 1 WLR 1379; and see Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence (12th Edn) art 1. A fact may be relevant to an issue, or to the weight to be afforded to evidence, or to the admissibility of other evidence. Evidence of a settled personal injury claim following one accident is admissible in a subsequent personal injury claim following another accident as it is relevant to the inquiry as to what injury was suffered in the accident concerned: Murrell v Healy[2001] EWCA Civ 486, [2001] 4 All ER 345. See Raja v Hoogstraten[2005] EWHC 2890 (Ch), [2005] All ER (D) 264 (Dec) (significance of criminal proceedings).

The test of relevance applies to hearsay evidence admitted under the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

2 See Caswell v Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries Ltd[1940] AC 152, [1939] 3 All ER 722, HL. There is also an important distinction between admissibility and weight; evidence may be admissible but of little cogency and value, and therefore of little use.

3 Exclusionary rules render types or classes of evidence (eg hearsay) inadmissible: see further PARA 760. In addition, the court may hold, in a particular case, that a specific piece of evidence is inadmissible on grounds of eg lack of sufficient relevance, or unfairness.

4 See R v Bond[1906] 2 KB 389, CCR.

5 R v Bond[1906] 2 KB 389, CCR; R v Gebree(1974) Times, 8 June, CA. Items of evidence otherwise inadmissible may sometimes be admitted as part of the res gestae: see PARAS 759, 1066.

6 Berry v St Marylebone Borough Council[1958] Ch 406, [1957] 3 All ER 677, CA (evidence of an organisation's activities admissible to show which object in its constitution was the main one, but not to construe constitution itself); see also North of England Zoological Society v Chester RDC[1959] 3 All ER 116, [1959] 1 WLR 773, CA; and BOC Ltd v Instrument Technology Ltd[2001] EWCA Civ 854, [2002] QB 537, [2001] All ER (D) 53 (Jun) (evidence obtained by letter of request from prosecuting authority restricted to criminal proceedings).

7 See CPR 32.1; and PARA 791. Relevant evidence obtained by unlawful means can be included, although the court's disapproval of such means can be reflected in any order for costs it makes: Jones v University of Warwick[2003] EWCA Civ 151, [2003] 3 All ER 760, [2003] 1 WLR 954 (secret video recordings admissible).

8 See eg Grobelaar v Sun Newspapers Ltd(1999) Times, 12 August, CA.

9 Stroude v Beazer Homes Ltd[2005] EWCA Civ 265, [2005] All ER (D) 298 (Mar)

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/759. The res gestae.

759. The res gestae.

Items of evidence are sometimes said to be part of the *res gestae*¹, owing to the nature and strength of their connection with the matters in issue, and as such are admissible. 'Res gestae' is an expression mainly of utility in the criminal law concerning the contemporaneity of statements to incidents² but, in so far as contemporaneous statements are relevant and accompany and explain matters in issue, they will be admissible³. Such statements are now admissible as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁴.

1 The expression 'res gestae' was used by Lord Denman in Rouch v Great Western Rly Co (1841) 1 QB 51 at 60; see PARA 1066. See further Ratten v R [1972] AC 378, [1971] 3 All ER 801, PC.

2 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1530.

3 See PARA 1066. Facts which are not sufficiently connected to matters in issue are sometimes described as res inter alios acta: see Hyde v Palmer (1863) 32 LJB 126; Wright v Tatham (1838) 5 Cl & Fin 670, HL; Agassiz v London Tramway Co Ltd (1872) 21 WR 199. Any fact forming part of a transaction being inquired into is sufficiently connected with it to be provable, even though it is not itself in issue: R v Ellis (1826) 6 B & C 145; Carmarthen and Cardigan Rly Co v Manchester and Milford Rly Co (1873) LR 8 CP 685.

4 See PARA 808 et seq. See also PARA 825.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/760. Exclusionary rules.

760. Exclusionary rules.

There are a number of exclusionary rules of evidence which may be said to be based substantially on two grounds. First, there are situations in which public policy requires that evidence be inadmissible¹. Secondly, there are situations in which the admission of evidence is subject to specified conditions or safeguards², or where the leave of the judge is required and is not forthcoming³.

1 See PARA 574 et seq. Illegally obtained evidence is not necessarily inadmissible: see PARA 765.

2 As to the statutory safeguards with regard to hearsay evidence see PARAS 811-815.

3 Eg the permission of the court is required where a party who has failed to disclose an expert's report wishes to rely on it: see CPR 35.13; and PARA 856.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/761. The residue of the best evidence rule.

761. The residue of the best evidence rule.

That evidence should be the best that the nature of the case will allow¹ is, besides being a matter of obvious prudence, a principle with a considerable pedigree². However, any strict interpretation of this principle has long been obsolete, and the rule is now only of importance in regard to the primary evidence of private documents³. The logic of requiring the production of an original document where it is available rather than relying on possibly unsatisfactory copies, or the recollections of witnesses, is clear⁴, although modern techniques make objections to the first alternative less strong. When a deed has superseded a written agreement it must be produced⁵. The best evidence rule does not apply to cases in which the issue concerns the state of a chattel, such as the correspondence of the bulk of goods to a sample, and the chattel need not be produced⁶.

Where a party has served⁷ a witness statement and wishes to rely at trial on the evidence of the witness who made the statement, he must generally call the witness to give oral evidence⁸.

1 See Omychund v Barker (1745) 1 Atk 21 at 49 per Lord Hardwicke.

2 MacDonnell v Evans (1852) 11 CB 930; Twyman v Knowles (1853) 22 LJCP 143; R v Francis (1874) LR 2 CCR 128; Lucas v Williams & Sons [1892] 2 QB 113, CA; Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296; Strother v Barr (1828) 5 Bing 136; Jones v Tarleton (1842) 9 M & W 675.

3 Garton v Hunter [1969] 2 QB 37, [1969] 1 All ER 451, CA; but see R v Osbourne, R v Virtue [1973] QB 678, [1973] 1 All ER 649, CA; R v Quinn, R v Bloom [1962] 2 QB 245, [1961] 3 All ER 88, CCA; and see PARA 878. As to proof of statements contained in a document see the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8; and PARA 816.

4 Permanent Trustee Co of New South Wales v Fels [1918] AC 879, PC.

5 Williams v Morgan (1850) 15 QB 782.

6 R v Francis (1874) LR 2 CCR 128 (non-production of the article may afford ground for observation more or less weighty, according to circumstances, but this only goes to weight, not to admissibility, of the evidence); Hocking v Ahlquist Bros Ltd [1944] KB 120, [1943] 2 All ER 722, DC; applied in Miller v Howe [1969] 3 All ER 451, [1969] 1 WLR 1510, DC. See also R v Orrell [1972] RTR 14, CA.

7 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. As to service see generally PARA 138 et seq.

8 See CPR 32.5(1); and PARA 983.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/762. Secondary evidence.

762. Secondary evidence.

In the unavoidable absence of the best or primary evidence of documents, the court will accept secondary evidence. This is evidence which suggests, on the face of it, that other and better evidence exists¹. Public and judicial documents² are usually proved by copies, without accounting for the absence of the originals³; and a statement contained in any document may now be proved by the production of an authenticated copy of the document⁴.

1 It has been said that a party tendering secondary evidence ought to show that he is unable to obtain the best evidence: Lucas v Williams & Sons [1892] 2 QB 113 at 116, CA, per Lord Esher MR. However, this doctrine is now of limited application: see PARA 761 the text and note 3. Secondary evidence may well have less weight than primary evidence.

2 See PARAS 884-885. As to private documents see PARA 878 et seq.

3 The admission of documentary copies is subject to the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

4 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8; and PARA 816.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/763. How secondary evidence may be given.

763. How secondary evidence may be given.

There are no degrees¹ of secondary evidence, and once it has been shown that, for example, a private document cannot be produced for reasons which admit the giving of secondary evidence², the contents may be proved by any type of secondary evidence, for example by the production of a copy which can be proved to have been correctly made from the original³, a counterpart⁴ or a draft⁵, by sworn oral testimony as to the contents of the document⁶, or as authorised by statute⁷. Statements of a deceased person as to the contents of documents may also be admissible⁸.

1 Brown v Woodman (1834) 6 C & P 206; Doe d Gilbert v Ross (1840) 7 M & W 102; Hall v Ball (1841) 3 Man & G 242; Waldy v Gray (1875) LR 20 Eq 238.

2 As to secondary evidence of private documents see PARA 878 et seq.

3 Waldy v Gray (1875) LR 20 Eq 238; Permanent Trustee Co of New South Wales v Fels [1918] AC 879, PC; Clark v Capp (1824) 1 C & P 199 (copy of card); Johnson v Hudson and Morgan (1836) 7 Ad & El 233n (copy of song); Sturge v Buchanan (1839) 10 Ad & El 598 (copy of letter in letter book); R v Robinson [1917] 2 KB 108, CCA (copy made by prison authorities of letter written by prisoner admissible, where original had been destroyed by recipient, on proof of that destruction); R v Haines (1695) Skin 584; Everingham v Roundell (1838) 2 Mood & R 138; Waldy v Gray (1875) LR 20 Eq 238 (copy of a copy inadmissible). But Lafone v Griffin (1909) 25 TLR 308 is authority for the proposition that a copy of a copy can be admissible; and see R v Collins (1960) 44 Cr App Rep 170, CCA, where the court found it unnecessary to come to any final conclusion on the matter but could see no objection to a copy of a copy being produced, provided a witness could verify not only that the copy produced was a true copy of the original, but also that it was in the same terms as the original. A copy examined with a draft, but with the draft itself not having been examined with the original, is inadmissible: Re Halifax Commercial Banking Co Ltd and Wood (1898) 79 LT 183; affd 79 LT 536, CA. A written statement containing extracts from original notes was admitted in R v Cheng (1976) 63 Cr App Rep 20, CA.

4 Ludlam d Hunt (1774) Lofft 362; Doe d Earl of Egremont v Pulman (1842) 3 QB 622; Houghton v Koenig (1856) 18 CB 235; R v Hinckley Overseers (1863) 3 B & S 885; Barber v Rowe [1948] 2 All ER 1050, CA.

5 Waldy v Gray (1875) LR 20 Eq 238.

6 Leyfield's Case (1611) 10 Co Rep 88a; Ludlam d Hunt (1774) Lofft 362; Read v Price [1909] 2 KB 724, CA.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8; and PARA 816.

8 I.e. the statements may be within the terms of the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/764. Hearsay.

764. Hearsay.

Hearsay evidence is evidence given by a witness in court of a statement made by some other person out of court, when such evidence is tendered to prove the truth of the statement¹. Under the common law hearsay evidence was generally inadmissible²; but in civil proceedings this rule has been abolished by the Civil Evidence Act 1995³, which provides for the admissibility of hearsay evidence subject to statutory safeguards⁴, and preserves a number of common law exceptions to the rule against hearsay⁵.

1 See PARA 806. Evidence is not hearsay when only tendered for other reasons, eg to show that a statement was made.

2 See eg R v Sharp [1988] 1 All ER 65, [1988] 1 WLR 7, HL; R v Kearley [1992] 2 AC 228, [1992] 2 All ER 345, HL.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-7; and PARA 808 et seq.

4 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 2-4; CPR Pt 33; and PARAS 811-815.

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7; and PARA 819 et seq. As to hearsay in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1519 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iii) Relevance and Admissibility/765. Evidence wrongfully obtained.

765. Evidence wrongfully obtained.

The court has a duty to reject evidence which is not relevant and admissible¹. In civil proceedings, the fact that relevant evidence has been improperly or illegally obtained does not necessarily render it inadmissible² but the authorities must now be read in the light of the Convention rights given greater weight in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998³ and in the light of the court's general discretionary power to exclude evidence⁴. The person who has wrongfully obtained such evidence may be restrained from using it by proceedings promoted by the owner of the evidence so obtained⁵.

1 Shaw v Roberts (1818) 2 Stark 455.

2 Kuruma Son of Kaniu v R [1955] AC 197, [1955] 1 All ER 236, PC (unlawful search); applied in R v Fox [1986] AC 281, sub nom Fox v Chief Constable of Gwent [1985] 3 All ER 392, HL. See also Jeffrey v Black [1978] QB 490, [1978] 1 All ER 555, DC (evidence obtained by police without proper authority admissible); King v R [1969] 1 AC 304, [1968] 2 All ER 610, PC (warrant not authorising search of appellant); Ghani v Jones [1970] 1 QB 693, [1969] 3 All ER 1700, CA; Stockfleth v De Tastet (1814) 4 Camp 10 (improper examination in bankruptcy proceedings); see also Robson v Alexander (1828) 1 Moo & P 448. As to the examination of debtors in bankruptcy proceedings see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 291 et seq. In criminal cases the court has a discretion to exclude such evidence under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1365. As to the irrelevance of how a plaintiff (now known as a 'claimant': see PARA 18) came into possession of an indictment in cases of malicious prosecution (see TORT) see Jordan v Lewis (1740) 2 Stra 1122; Legatt v Tollervey (1811) 14 East 302; Caddy v Barlow (1827) 1 Man & Ry KB 275; Doe d Earl of Egremont v Date (1842) 3 QB 609; and see R v Leatham (1861) 3 E & E 658. See also Jones v Owens (1870) 34 JP 759; Elias v Pasmore [1934] 2 KB 164 (unauthorised search); King v R [1969] 1 AC 304, [1968] 2 All ER 610, PC (unauthorised search); International Electronics Ltd v Weigh Data Ltd [1980] FSR 423; ITC Film Distributors v Video Exchange Ltd [1982] Ch 431, [1982] 2 All ER 241 (party to litigation improperly obtaining documents brought into court by other party; copies of documents not admissible except where exhibited to affidavit seen by judge).

3 See generally PARA 792. See also Jones v University of Warwick [2003] EWCA Civ 151, [2003] 3 All ER 760.

4 See PARA 791.

5 Lord Ashburton v Pape [1913] 2 Ch 469, CA. This case is also authority for the proposition that a copy of a document may be given in evidence as secondary evidence of an original document which cannot be tendered by reason of private privilege, even though the copy was improperly obtained; see Lloyd v Mostyn (1842) 10 M & W 478; Calcraft v Guest [1898] 1 QB 759, CA. However, the intention to use copies is no answer to a claim for delivery up of copies or restraint from disclosure: Goddard v Nationwide Building Society [1987] QB 670, [1986] 3 All ER 264, CA; see also English and American Insurance Co Ltd v Herbert Smith & Co [1988] FSR 232; Derby & Co Ltd v Weldon (No 8) [1990] 3 All ER 762, [1991] 1 WLR 73, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iv) Weight of Evidence/766. Weight of evidence; in general.

(iv) Weight of Evidence

766. Weight of evidence; in general.

The weight to be given to a particular item of evidence is a matter of fact which will be decided, largely on the basis of common sense¹, in the light of the circumstances of the case² and of the views formed by the jury (or judge where there is no jury) on the reliability and credibility of the witnesses and exhibits. Frequently, a conclusion on the facts will decide a case one way or another, and the burden of proof has no part to play in the resolution of evidential conflict³, although it may be the determining factor if evidence is non-existent or evenly balanced⁴.

¹ Lord Advocate v Lord Blantyre(1879) 4 App Cas 770, HL. Unchallenged evidence need not necessarily be accepted: O'Connell v Adams [1973] RTR 150, DC.

² A variety of considerations pertinent to the weight of evidence are set out in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2), in relation to admissible hearsay evidence: see PARA 815.

³ Robins v National Trust Co Ltd[1927] AC 515, PC; North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board v David MacBrayne Ltd [1954] 1 Lloyd's Rep 171; Huyton-with-Roby UDC v Hunter[1955] 2 All ER 398, [1955] 1 WLR 603, CA. As to whether conclusions or inferences of fact are themselves facts see Lord Luke of Pavenham v Minister of Housing and Local Government[1968] 1 QB 172, [1967] 2 All ER 1066, CA (a case on the inspector's conclusions in town and country planning appeals), and Re Barrell Enterprises[1972] 3 All ER 631, [1973] 1 WLR 19, CA (no room for a distinction between what is found by inference and what is found as a positive fact).

⁴ See PARA 769. It would be rarely that a road traffic accident case will fall into the exceptional category where a judge is unable to make a decision on the evidence as to the liability of the parties: Cooper v Floor Cleaning Machines Ltd[2003] EWCA Civ 1649, [2004] RTR 254, (2003) Times, 24 October. There is no principle of law that expert evidence in an unusual field has to be dispositive of liability in a case and that a judge is compelled to accept it over the evidence of honest witnesses of fact: Armstrong v First York Ltd [2005] EWCA Civ 277, [2005] 1 WLR 2751. See also Stephens v Cannon[2005] EWCA Civ 222, [2006] RVR 126 (judge ought to have been able arrive at probable value of hypothetical property).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iv) Weight of Evidence/767. Prima facie, sufficient and conclusive evidence.

767. Prima facie, sufficient and conclusive evidence.

Some statutes provide that a fact or document or procedure is to be prima facie, sufficient or conclusive evidence of some other fact or matter¹; and it is open to parties to a contract to insert similar terms².

'Prima facie evidence' means evidence which, if not balanced or outweighed by other evidence, would suffice to establish a particular contention³. 'Sufficient evidence' usually means no more than prima facie evidence⁴, but the matter is always one of interpretation of the particular statute or document. 'Conclusive evidence'⁵ means that no contrary evidence will be effective to displace it⁶, unless the so-called conclusive evidence is inaccurate on its face, or fraud can be shown⁷. Conclusive evidence does not mean exclusive evidence⁸.

1 See eg the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 103(5), Sch 6 para 2 in respect of disablement; and SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS vol 44(2) (Reissue) PARA 142. See also R v National Insurance Comr, ex p Viscusi [1974] 2 All ER 724, [1974] 1 WLR 646, CA. Where a subsisting conviction is admissible as evidence in civil proceedings to prove, where relevant, that a person has committed an offence, he is taken to have committed the offence unless the contrary is proved: see the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 11(1), (2)(a); and PARA 1208. This has the effect of shifting the legal burden of proof (see PARA 769) onto the person seeking to upset the effect of that evidence; and the civil burden, ie the balance of probabilities, must be discharged: Wauchope v Mordecai [1970] 1 All ER 417, [1970] 1 WLR 317, CA; Stupple v Royal Insurance Co Ltd [1971] 1 QB 50, [1970] 3 All ER 230, CA; Taylor v Taylor (Taylor intervening, Holmes cited) [1970] 2 All ER 609, [1970] 1 WLR 1148, CA.

2 In the absence of fraud or inaccuracy this is not contrary to public policy as tending to oust the court's jurisdiction: Bache & Co (London) Ltd v Banque Vernes et Commerciale de Paris SA [1973] 2 Lloyd's Rep 437, CA.

3 An example is an authorised analyst's certificate under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16; and see Smithwick v National Coal Board [1950] 2 KB 335, CA; Ajum Goolam Hossen & Co v Union Marine Insurance Co [1901] AC 362, PC.

4 See Barracrough v Greenhough (1867) LR 2 QB 612, Ex Ch.

5 See eg the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 13(1) (conclusiveness of convictions for purposes of defamation); and PARA 1209. As to certificates admissible by statute see PARA 897.

6 Re Barned's Banking Co, Peel's Case (1867) 2 Ch App 674; Oakes v Turquand and Harding, Peek v Turquand and Harding, Re Overend, Gurney & Co (1867) LR 2 HL 325 (distinguished in Re National Debenture and Assets Corpn [1891] 2 Ch 505, CA); Re Foulds, ex p Learoyd (1878) 10 ChD 3, CA; Ladies' Dress Association Ltd v Polbrook [1900] 2 QB 376, CA; Hammond v Prentice Bros Ltd [1920] 1 Ch 201; Kerr v John Mottram Ltd [1940] Ch 657, [1940] 2 All ER 629.

7 See Re Caratal (New) Mines Ltd [1902] 2 Ch 498; Wall v London and Northern Assets Corpn [1899] 1 Ch 550; Lazarus Estates Ltd v Beasley [1956] 1 QB 702, [1956] 1 All ER 341, CA.

8 It may, eg, be necessary or desirable to call other evidence to the same effect as whatever evidence would be conclusive: R v Thomas (1870) 22 LT 138; A-G v Bournemouth Corpn [1902] 2 Ch 714, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(iv) Weight of Evidence/768. Evidence of witnesses.

768. Evidence of witnesses.

Proper evaluation of the weight of evidence given by different witnesses is a matter for the common sense and impression of judge or jury¹; and although it has been said that the testimony of a witness who swears positively to a fact should be preferred to that of one who testifies to a negative², and that an independent witness will normally be preferred to an interested one in cases of conflict³, matters of motive, prejudice, partiality, accuracy, incentive and reliability all have to be weighed in each case⁴. Questions of fact are not to be determined by counting the number of witnesses on each side⁵.

Oral evidence given in open court by witnesses whose demeanour and deportment have been observed is preferable to evidence given by witnesses out of court⁶, especially in matrimonial cases⁷, and consequently appellate tribunals are slow to interfere with the decisions of inferior courts on questions of fact or oral testimony⁸.

The authorities suggest that expert witnesses present certain difficulties⁹, their evidence possibly being of a partisan character¹⁰, usually evidence of opinion¹¹, and sometimes presented as fact although based on hearsay¹². However, the court now has power to direct that a single joint expert is to be instructed¹³ and expert evidence is usually given in a written report¹⁴. More weight should be given to facts which are proved than to conclusions drawn from scientific investigations¹⁵. An appellate court should not generally interfere with a trial judge's finding of fact based on conflicting expert evidence¹⁶; and where the expert medical evidence is all one way, the trial judge is entitled not to accept it if he has contrary evidence he can rely upon but he is obliged to give reasons why he should set that medical evidence aside¹⁷. However, expert evidence should be disregarded only in very rare cases¹⁸.

1 See PARA 766. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 The Glenalbyn (1849) 6 LT 581; The Batavier (1854) 1 Ecc & Ad 378; affd 9 Moo PCC 286; Lane v Jackson (1855) 20 Beav 535; The Vivid (1856) 10 Moo PCC 472 (evidence as to what had not been seen of less weight than evidence as to what had been seen); Lefeunteum v Beaudoin (1897) 28 SCR 89; Charlton v R (1912) 11 ELR 284; Hallett v Bank of Montreal (1918) 46 NBR 62.

3 Ridgway v Wharton (1857) 6 HL Cas 238; Re Direct Exeter, Plymouth and Devonport Rly Co, Hall's Case (1850) 3 De G & Sm 214.

4 The Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(1) permits the court to draw any reasonable inference from surrounding circumstances in estimating the weight, if any, to be given to hearsay evidence in civil proceedings: see PARA 815. See Coopers Payen Ltd v Southampton Container Terminal Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 1223, [2004] 1 Lloyd's Rep 331 (finding of fact based on credibility of witness not to be reversed unless plainly wrong).

5 Bates v Graves (1793) 2 Ves 287; The Wega [1895] P 156; Collector of Revenue for Quebec v Lepinay (1916) QR 50 SC 433; Tucker v Ayre (1821) 3 Phillim 539.

6 The Apollo (1824) 1 Hag Adm 306; Johnston v Todd (1843) 5 Beav 597; Ridgway v Wharton (1857) 6 HL Cas 238; Hay v Gordon (1872) 9 Moo PCCNS 102; cf R v Bertrand (1867) LR 1 PC 520. The obvious construction of documents may be preferred to contrary oral evidence: Cooper v Cooper (1888) 13 App Cas 88, HL.

7 Ammar v Ammar [1954] P 468, [1954] 2 All ER 365.

8 See eg Metropolitan Rly Co v Wright (1886) 11 App Cas 152, HL; Bigsby v Dickinson (1876) 4 ChD 24, CA; Khoo Sit Hoh v Lim Thean Tong [1912] AC 323, PC; Strathlorne Steamship Co v Baird & Sons 1916 SC 134, HL; Clarke v Edinburgh and District Tramways Co 1919 SC 35, HL; SS Hontestroom v SS Sagaporak, SS Hontestroom

v SS Durham Castle [1927] AC 37, HL; Powell v Streatham Manor Nursing Home [1935] AC 243, HL; Watt v Thomas [1947] AC 484, [1947] 1 All ER 582, HL. This principle applies to appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Commonwealth cases (see eg Archambault v Archambault [1902] AC 575, PC; Whitney v Joyce (1906) 75 LJPC 89, PC; Tshingumuzi v A-G of Natal [1908] AC 248, PC; Baldwin v Baldwin (1922) 91 LJPC 208; Official Liquidator of ME Moolla Sons Ltd v Burjorjee (1932) 48 TLR 279, PC) and in prize cases (see eg The Ophelia [1916] 2 AC 206, PC). In the case of inferences from facts the appellate court will more readily form an independent opinion, subject only to the weight which should be given to the opinion of the trial judge: Benmax v Austin Motor Co Ltd [1955] AC 370, [1955] 1 All ER 326, HL. See also Jewo Ferrous BV v Lewis Moore (a firm) [2001] Lloyd's Rep PN 6, [2000] All ER (D) 1464, CA. As to an appeal court's power to receive fresh evidence see PARA 1676; and PARA 1672; and as to the circumstances in which the House of Lords and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council will receive fresh evidence see PARAS 1677-1678; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 363, 384, 459. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

9 As to expert evidence generally see PARA 835 et seq.

10 Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL; Cresswell v Jackson (1864) 4 F & F 1; Thorn v Worthing Skating Rink Co (1876) 6 ChD 415n; Aitken v McMeckan [1895] AC 310, PC; Perera v Perera [1901] AC 354, PC; Fleet v Metropolitan Asylum's Board, Darenth Smallpox Camp Case (1886) 2 TLR 361, CA; British Celanese Ltd v Courtaulds Ltd [1935] WN 31, HL.

11 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3; and PARA 835.

12 English Exporters (London) Ltd v Eldonwall Ltd [1973] Ch 415, [1973] 1 All ER 726.

13 See CPR 35.7; and PARA 840.

14 See CPR 35.5; and PARA 839.

15 Goldsmid v Tunbridge Wells Improvement Comrs (1866) 1 Ch App 349; Liverpool Corpn v H Coghill & Son [1918] 1 Ch 307.

16 Joyce v Yeomans [1981] 2 All ER 21, [1981] 1 WLR 549, CA; Maynard v West Midlands Regional Health Authority [1985] 1 All ER 635, [1984] 1 WLR 634, HL; cf The Saudi Prince (No 2) [1988] 1 Lloyd's Rep 1, CA (experts on foreign law).

17 Re B (children: non-accidental injury) [2002] EWCA Civ 902, [2002] 2 FCR 654. See also Re N-B (children) (residence: expert evidence) [2002] EWCA Civ 1052, [2002] 3 FCR 259. Even the most experienced and insightful family judge does not have the specialised training and skills of consultant psychiatrists and paediatricians who spend their lives working with damaged adults and children: Re N-B (children) (residence: expert evidence) [2002] EWCA Civ 1052 at [65], [2002] 3 FCR 259 at [65] per Robert Walker LJ (not sufficient for the judge in that case to say or imply that he took account of the views of the guardian and the experts but that he took a different view).

18 Coopers Payen Ltd v Southampton Container Terminal Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 1223, [2004] 1 Lloyd's Rep 331.

UPDATE

768 Evidence of witnesses

NOTE 8--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

NOTE 17--See also Re G (children) (fact-finding hearing) [2009] EWCA Civ 10, [2010] 1 FCR 73.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/769. Meaning and general incidence of the burden of proof.

(v) Burden and Standard of Proof

769. Meaning and general incidence of the burden of proof.

There are at least two distinct senses in which burden of proof is used¹, and clarity over which sense is relevant at any given time is essential².

The legal burden³ (or the burden of persuasion) is a burden of proof which remains constant throughout a trial⁴; it is the burden of establishing the facts and contentions which will support a party's case, or persuading the tribunal of the correctness of a party's allegations. If at the conclusion of the trial he has failed to establish these to the appropriate standard, he will lose⁵. The incidence of this burden is usually clear from the statements of case⁶, it usually being incumbent upon the claimant to prove what he contends⁷.

The evidential burden⁸ (or the burden of adducing evidence) requires the party bearing the burden to produce evidence capable of supporting but not necessarily proving a fact in issue; the burden rests upon the party who would fail if no evidence at all, or no further evidence, as the case may be, was adduced by either side⁹. It has been said that the evidential burden shifts from one party to another as the trial progresses according to the balance of evidence given at any particular stage, but it may be more accurate to say that it is the need to respond to the other party's case that changes¹⁰.

1 See Wakelin v London and South Western Rly Co(1886) 12 App Cas 41, HL; Hill v Baxter[1958] 1 QB 277, [1958] 1 All ER 193, DC; Brown v Rolls Royce Ltd[1960] 1 All ER 577, [1960] 1 WLR 210, HL; Bratty v A-G for Northern Ireland[1963] AC 386, [1961] 3 All ER 523, HL.

2 An example of a case in which the position was not at all clear is Redpath v Redpath and Milligan[1950] 1 All ER 600, CA.

3 See the cases cited in note 1. As to the legal burden see further PARA 770.

4 This is the preferable view. The incidence of the burden on different issues may lie in different places (see PARA 770), and issues may rise or fall according to the facts proved (cf Emanuel v Emanuel[1946] P 115, [1945] 2 All ER 494; and Southport Corp v Esso Petroleum Co Ltd[1954] 2 QB 182, [1954] 2 All ER 561, CA), but on the analysis of issues the legal burden will not change (see The Merchant Prince[1892] P 179, CA).

5 Pickup v Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Co Ltd(1878) 3 QBD 594, CA; Wakelin v London and South Western Rly Co(1886) 12 App Cas 41, HL. As to submissions of no case to answer see Alexander v Rayson[1936] 1 KB 169, CA; Young v Rank[1950] 2 KB 510, [1950] 2 All ER 166; and PARA 798.

6 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1; and PARA 584 et seq.

7 The golden rule is that the onus of proof is on the claimant: Chapman v Oakleigh Animal Products Ltd (1970) 8 KIR 1063 at 1072, CA, per Davies LJ.

8 As to the evidential burden see further PARA 771.

9 See Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corp Ltd[1942] AC 154, [1941] 2 All ER 165, HL; Huyton-with-Roby UDC v Hunter[1955] 2 All ER 398, [1955] 1 WLR 603, CA; Brown v Rolls Royce Ltd[1960] 1 All ER 577, [1960] 1 WLR 210, HL.

10 See eg the cases cited in note 9.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/770. Incidence of the legal burden.

770. Incidence of the legal burden.

The legal burden (or the burden of persuasion) of proof normally rests upon the party desiring the court to take action; thus a claimant must satisfy the court or tribunal that the conditions which entitle him to an award have been satisfied¹. In respect of a particular allegation, the burden lies upon the party for whom the substantiation of that particular allegation is an essential of his case². There may therefore be cases where different parties bear the burden on different issues.

Thus, in a negligence claim the legal burden of proof in respect of duty, breach of duty and damage is upon the claimant, and in respect of contributory negligence is upon the defendant³. In a claim against an innkeeper for loss of a customer's luggage, where the loss is admitted but the defence raises contributory negligence and exemption beyond the statutory value limit⁴, the burden is upon the defendant as to the first point, and upon the claimant, in reply, to show wilful act, default or neglect to the defendant so as to disentitle him to the statutory exemption⁵. In a claim on a charterparty where the defence is frustration and the reply asserts that frustration was due to the defendant's default the claimant, in the absence of admissions, must prove the contract and the breach, the defendant must prove facts amounting to frustration, and the claimant must prove that frustration was caused by the defendant's default⁶. When damage to goods shipped under a charterparty containing the usual exemptions is alleged, the burden (in the absence of admissions) is upon the claimant to prove the contract and damage or non-delivery, upon the defendant to prove that the damage arose by the perils excepted, and upon the claimant in reply to prove negligence by the defendant disentitling him to the benefit of the exemption⁷. In a claim against a common carrier for loss of goods in transit the onus of proving protection by statutory exemption is on the carrier⁸; and in a claim on an insurance contract the burden of proving a breach of condition which would relieve the insurer of liability is on the insurer⁹. In a claim on a contract in restraint of trade the onus of establishing that a covenant is reasonable is on the party seeking to rely on it; but if that is established, the onus of proving that the covenant is contrary to public policy lies on the party attacking it¹⁰; and in a claim for false imprisonment proof of the existence of a reasonable cause is upon the defendant¹¹. The onus of proving that a sale is not a consumer sale is upon the party making the contention¹². If in a claim for trespass to land the claimant's title is proved or admitted, the burden is on the defendant to prove a right to possession consistent with that title¹³. Where a defendant is seeking to strike out a claimant's personal injury claim on the ground that the medical certificate and the claim specify different conditions, the burden of proof is on the defendant to show that the certificate relates to different matters and conditions¹⁴.

1 See Dickinson v Minister of Pensions [1953] 1 QB 228, [1952] 2 All ER 1031. As to the importance of a correct determination of the incidence of the legal burden see The Glendarroch [1894] P 226, CA.

2 Mills v Barber (1836) 1 M & W 425; Abrath v North Eastern Rly Co (1883) 11 QBD 440, CA; affd (1886) 11 App Cas 247, HL (malicious prosecution: see TORT); Talbot v Von Beris [1911] 1 KB 854, CA. Formulations of the incidence of the legal burden of proof are sometimes made on the basis that it rests upon the party asserting the affirmative of an issue: see eg Robins v National Trust Co Ltd [1927] AC 515, PC; Huyton-with-Roby UDC v Hunter [1955] 2 All ER 398, [1955] 1 WLR 603, CA.

It has been said that the terms 'negative' and 'affirmative' are relative and not absolute: see Abrath v North Eastern Rly Co (1883) 11 QBD 440 at 457, CA, per Bowen LJ. Most statements can be made positive or negative by suitable choice of language, and allegations in the negative usually mean that something positive ought to have been done, eg in a claim against a tenant for non-repair (Soward v Leggatt (1835) 7 C & P 613; see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 438); or in a claim to charge frontagers with the cost of making up a road (Rishton v Haslingden Corpn [1898] 1 QB 294, DC; Vyner v Wirral RDC (1909) 73 JP 242, DC; Huyton-with-Roby UDC v Hunter [1955] 2 All ER 398, [1955] 1 WLR 603, CA: see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES); or where it is contended that goods were not supplied in time (Calder v Rutherford (1822) 3 Brod & Bing 302), that houses were not up to specification (Smith v Davies (1836) 7 C & P 307), that a transaction is not what it appears on its face to be (Nicol v Vaughan (1832) 6 Bli NS 104), that a will should not be admitted to proof (Bremer v Freeman (1857) 10 Moo PCC 306), that a contract, unlimited on its face, is not perpetual (Llanelly Rly and Dock Co v London and North Western Rly Co (1875) LR 7 HL 550), that premises are not insured (Doe d Bridger v Whitehead (1838) 8 Ad & El 571; Price v Worwood (1859) 4 H & N 512), that premises have been assigned without consent (Wedgwood v Hart (1856) 2 Jur NS 288), or that there has been a sale on premises without the lessor's written consent (Toleman v Portbury (1870) LR 5 QB 288).

3 Dublin, Wicklow and Wexford Rly Co v Slattery (1878) 3 App Cas 1155, HL; Wakelin v London and South Western Rly Co (1886) 12 App Cas 41, HL; Heranger (Owners) v Diamond (Owners) [1939] AC 94, HL. The Law Reform (Contributory Negligence) Act 1945 does not affect the burden of proof: see further NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 75 et seq.

4 The limit is £50 for one article, or £100 in the aggregate: Hotel Proprietors Act 1956 s 2(3); and see LICENSING AND GAMBLING vol 67 (2008) PARA 203.

5 Medawar v Grand Hotel Co [1891] 2 QB 11, CA: see LICENSING AND GAMBLING; NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARAS 62 et seq, 75 et seq.

6 Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corpn Ltd [1942] AC 154, [1941] 2 All ER 165, HL. As to the doctrine of frustration see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 888 et seq; and as to charterparties see CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS; SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

7 The Glendarroch [1894] P 226, CA: see CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 267. In such a claim when the loss of goods is the act of negligence alleged, and the loss is in consequence of a criminal act, it is not necessary to give such evidence as would convict the person charged with the criminal act: Vaughton v London and North Western Rly Co (1874) LR 9 Exch 93. Where a conviction is admissible under the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 11 (see PARA 1208), the burden is on the defendant to prove that he has not done the act for which he has been convicted: Wauchope v Mordecai [1970] 1 All ER 417, [1970] 1 WLR 317, CA.

8 Hunt and Winterbotham (West of England) Ltd v BRS (Parcels) Ltd [1962] 1 QB 617, [1962] 1 All ER 111, CA; Ashton & Co v London and North Western Rly Co [1918] 2 KB 488, CA; affd sub nom London and North Western Rly Co v JP Ashton & Co [1920] AC 84, HL; and see CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARA 28. See also Asiatic Petroleum Co Ltd v Lennard's Carrying Co Ltd [1914] 1 KB 419, CA; affd sub nom Lennard's Carrying Co Ltd v Asiatic Petroleum Co Ltd [1915] AC 705, HL. In bailment the bailee has to prove that goods were lost without his fault: Coldman v Hill [1919] 1 KB 443, CA; Houghland v RR Low (Luxury Coaches) Ltd [1962] 1 QB 694, [1962] 2 All ER 159, CA. See further BAILMENT.

9 Bond Air Services Ltd v Hill [1955] 2 QB 417, [1955] 2 All ER 476; following Stebbing v Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Co Ltd [1917] 2 KB 433. Very clear words are necessary for an insurer to prove an exception to the rule: see Bond Air Services Ltd v Hill [1955] 2 QB 417, [1955] 2 All ER 476; and INSURANCE.

10 Herbert Morris Ltd v Saxelby [1916] 1 AC 688, HL.

11 Hicks v Faulkner (1881) 8 QBD 167; affd (1882) 46 LT 127, CA.

12 See the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 s 12(3); and CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 832.

13 Portland Managements Ltd v Harte [1977] QB 306, [1976] 1 All ER 225, CA. See also TORT.

14 Edwards v Peter Black Healthcare (Southern) Ltd [2000] ICR 120, CA (decided with reference to the county court procedure prior to the introduction of the CPR). As to striking out a statement of case under the CPR see PARAS 520-523.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/771. Incidence of the evidential burden.

771. Incidence of the evidential burden.

The evidential burden (or the burden of adducing evidence) will rest initially upon the party bearing the legal burden¹ but, as the weight of evidence given by either side during the trial varies, the evidential burden may be said to shift to the party who would fail without further evidence². However, rather than referring to a shifting burden, it may be more accurate to say that it is the need to respond to the other party's case that changes as the trial progresses according to the balance of evidence given by each party at any particular stage³. If the party bearing the legal burden fails to adduce evidence, he has failed to discharge his burden and there will be no need for the other party to respond; however, if the party bearing the legal burden brings evidence tending to prove his claim, the other party may in response wish to raise an issue such as causation and must then adduce evidence capable of supporting though not necessarily proving his point, and once he has done so then the party bearing the legal burden will have to bring evidence to disprove that point. If a party fails to adduce evidence when he bears the evidential burden, he risks losing his case.

1 As to the legal burden see PARA 770.

2 Abrath v North Eastern Rly Co (1883) 11 QBD 440, CA (affd (1886) 11 App Cas 247, HL); Pickup v Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Co Ltd (1878) 3 QBD 594, 600, CA; Wakelin v London and South Western Rly Co (1884) as reported in [1896] 1 QB 189n at 196n, CA (affd (1886) 12 App Cas 41, HL); R v Stoddart (1909) 73 JP 348, CCA; Talbot v Von Boris [1911] 1 KB 854, CA; Jayasena v R [1970] AC 618, [1970] 1 All ER 219, PC; and see Beard v London General Omnibus Co [1900] 2 QB 530, CA, where it was held that where a claimant in a claim for negligent driving of a bus proved that the person driving was the conductor, the burden was upon the claimant to show that the conductor was acting within the scope of his employment. See generally NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 62 et seq.

There are situations in which conditions necessary for the reception of a given piece of evidence have to be established which illustrate the principle described in the text; for example, where a party is tendering an ambiguous document he has to show that his interpretation of it is correct: Falck v Williams [1900] AC 176, PC; and see MISREPRESENTATION AND FRAUD; MISTAKE.

3 See also PARA 769.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/772. Exceptions to the normal rules regarding incidence of a burden of proof.

772. Exceptions to the normal rules regarding incidence of a burden of proof.

Where there is a rebuttable presumption¹ of law in favour of one party, the burden of rebutting it lies upon the other. Therefore a party suing on a bill of exchange need not initially give any evidence of consideration, or that he is a holder in due course, since there are presumptions to this effect in his favour². Similarly a presumption of death may assist a party³. Where a question of gifts to public officers arises, consideration is deemed to be given corruptly unless the contrary is proved⁴. In negligence claims a claimant may be able to rely upon the doctrine of *res ipsa loquitur*⁵, or in claims where it is relevant to any issue that a person did or did not commit a criminal offence previous convictions may be pleaded⁶.

Where the truth of a party's allegation lies peculiarly within the knowledge of his opponent, the burden of disproving it often lies upon the latter⁷, but there is no general rule of law to this effect⁸. There is authority contrary to this exception⁹, but it certainly exists and has frequently been applied by the courts¹⁰. This is particularly the case in magistrates' courts and in criminal proceedings based on statute¹¹, and in some employers' liability situations¹². In civil cases the incidence of the burden of proof may be determined by agreement between the parties¹³, so far as not prohibited by statute¹⁴.

1 As to presumptions see PARA 1096 et seq. Note that presumptions that allocate the burden of persuasion should be distinguished from those that allocate the burden of adducing evidence. As to the legal burden (or the burden of persuasion) see PARAS 769-770; and as to the evidential burden (or the burden of adducing evidence) see PARAS 769, 771.

2 See the Bills of Exchange Act 1882 s 30(2); and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 1478. See also Talbot v Von Boris [1911] 1 KB 854, CA.

3 See PARA 1100.

4 Prevention of Corruption Act 1916 s 2. As to the standard of proof see R v Carr-Briant [1943] KB 607, [1943] 2 All ER 156, CCA; followed in Public Prosecutor v Yuvaraj [1970] AC 913, PC. The Prevention of Corruption Act 1916 s 2 does not, however, apply to the offence of conspiring to corrupt because that is a statutory offence solely provided for by the Criminal Law Act 1977 s 1(1): R v A-G, ex p Rockall [1999] 4 All ER 312, [2000] 1 WLR 882. See further CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) para 530.

5 See NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 64 et seq.

6 See PARAS 1208-1209; but see also PARA 1210.

7 R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] 2 All ER 1085, CA (what rests on the defendant is the legal or, as it is sometimes called, the persuasive burden of proof; it is not the evidential burden: see R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] 2 All ER 1085, CA; and see further CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1370); R v Turner (1816) 5 M & S 206; McGowan v Carville [1960] IR 330.

8 R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] 2 All ER 1085, CA.

9 Doe d Bridger v Whitehead (1838) 8 Ad & El 571; Elkin v Janson (1845) 13 M & W 655; Abrath v North Eastern Rly Co (1883) 11 QBD 440, CA; affd (1886) 11 App Cas 247, HL; John v Humphreys [1955] 1 All ER 793, [1955] 1 WLR 325, DC; R v Spurge [1961] 2 QB 205, [1961] 2 All ER 688, CCA (defendant does not bear onus of proof on a charge of driving a mechanically defective vehicle); R v Mandry, R v Wooster [1973] 3 All ER 996, [1973] 1 WLR 1232, CA.

10 Apothecaries' Co v Bentley (1824) 1 C & P 538; Hibbs v Ross (1866) LR 1 QB 534; Governors of Magdalen Hospital v Knotts (1878) 8 ChD 709, CA; Mahoney v Waterford, Limerick and Western Rly Co [1900] 2 IR 273;

Powell v M'Glynn and Bradlaw [1902] 2 IR 154; General Accident Fire and Life Assurance Corp'n v Robertson [1909] AC 404, HL; R v Scott (1921) 86 JP 69; R v Kakeo [1923] 2 KB 793, CCA; Williams v Russell (1933) 149 LT 190, DC; and see Designers and Decorators (Scotland) Ltd v Ellis 1957 SC (HL) 69; R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] 2 All ER 1085, CA.

11 See R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] All ER 1085, CA; R v Ewens [1967] 1 QB 322, [1966] 2 All ER 470, CCA; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1370. The Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 101 places the burden of proof of any exception, exemption, proviso, excuse or qualification upon the defendant who relies on it; and see R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] All ER 1085, CA (decided under earlier legislation); and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 731.

12 Callaghan v Fred Kidd & Son (Engineers) Ltd [1944] 1 KB 560, [1944] 1 All ER 525, CA; Taylor v R and H Green and Silley Weir Ltd [1951] 1 Lloyd's Rep 345, CA; McCarthy v Coldair Ltd [1951] 2 TLR 1226, CA; McDonald v British Transport Commission [1955] 3 All ER 789, [1955] 1 WLR 1323, Nimmo v Alexander Cowan & Sons Ltd [1968] AC 107, [1967] 3 All ER 187, HL.

13 Levy v Assicurazioni Generali [1940] AC 791, [1940] 3 All ER 427, PC; Bond Air Services Ltd v Hill [1955] 2 QB 417, [1955] 2 All ER 476; Re Hooley Hill Rubber and Chemical Co Ltd and Royal Insurance Co Ltd [1920] 1 KB 257, CA. Cf Thomas v HS Alper & Sons (1953) Times, 26 June, CA.

14 See eg the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 s 13(1)(c); and CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 833.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/773. The right to begin.

773. The right to begin.

Associated with the onus of proof is the right to begin calling evidence¹. The claimant normally has this right² if he bears, as he usually will, the legal burden of proof on any issue³, including the quantum of damages⁴. It has been said that the right to begin depends more upon what justice to the parties requires than upon any strict rule⁵. If damages are not in dispute or are nominal and if the affirmative of the issues is on the defendant then there is authority to the effect that he is entitled to begin⁶. The claimant cannot usually be deprived of his right to begin by an admission of his claim at the hearing⁷, but the court will consider what is the substantial matter requiring determination⁸. As the onus of proof can generally be varied by agreement, so the right to begin may be affected by any appropriate contractual term⁹. Where both parties allege affirmative issues, or where the onus of proof on some issue or issues is on one party and on another issue on the other party, then if the claimant undertakes to adduce evidence upon any issue, the onus of proving which is upon him, he is entitled to begin¹⁰.

However, the court has wide powers of case management and the above principles are subject to the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence¹¹.

1 This should be distinguished from opening the case, ie explaining the issues.

2 In Grunther Industrial Developments and Gid Ltd v Federated Employers Insurance Association Ltd (1972) 117 Sol Jo 13, CA, it was held that the plaintiffs (now known as the 'claimants': see PARA 18) must begin, for, even though an allegation of fraud might prove to be the main issue in the case, it did not in the least determine the question on whom lay the obligation to open the case.

3 Tyrell v Holt and Hopley (1727) 1 Barn KB 12; Fowler v Coster (1826) Mood & M 241; Wootton v Barton (1835) 1 Mood & R 518; Scott v Lewis (1836) 7 C & P 347; R v London and Birmingham Rly Co (1839) 1 Ry & Can Cas 317; Ashby v Bates (1846) 15 M & W 589; Midland Rly Co v Great Western Rly Co (No 2) (1876) 2 Ry & Can Tr Cas 298; Saqui v Lazarus (1895) 73 LT 194; L v L (otherwise M) (1908) 25 TLR 43.

4 Carter v Jones (1833) 1 Mood & R 281; Wood v Pringle (1933) 1 Mood & R 277; Doe d Worcester Trustees v Rowlands (1841) 9 C & P 734; Mercer v Whall (1845) 5 QB 447; Chapman v Rawson (1846) 8 QB 673. Cf Bastard v Smith (1837) 2 Mood & R 129.

5 Scott v Lewis (1836) 7 C & P 347. When dealing with the question of onus and the right to begin, it is not so much the form of the issue that has to be considered as its substance and effect: Soward v Leggatt (1835) 7 C & P 613.

6 Fowler v Coster (1826) Mood & M 241; Silk v Humphrey (1835) 7 C & P 14.

7 Pontifex v Jolly (1839) 9 C & P 202; Price v Seaward (1841) Car & M 23. As to partial admissions see Doe d Corbett v Corbett (1813) 3 Camp 368; Doe d Lewis v Lewis (1843) 1 Car & Kir 122; Doe d Bather v Brayne (1848) 5 CB 655.

8 Thomson v South Eastern Rly Co (1882) 9 QBD 320, CA; Lewis Falk Ltd v Jacobwitz [1944] Ch 64; W Lusty & Sons Ltd v Morris Wilkinson & Co (Nottingham) Ltd [1954] 2 All ER 347, [1954] 1 WLR 911.

9 See the cases cited in PARA 772 note 13.

10 Curtis v Wheeler (1830) Mood & M 493; Williams v Thomas (1830) 4 C & P 234; James v Salter (1835) 1 Mood & R 501; Rawlins v Desborough (1837) 2 Mood & R 70; Craig v Fenn (1841) Car & M 43; Cripps v Wells (1843) Car & M 489; Mercer v Whall (1845) 5 QB 447; Booth v Millns (1846) 15 M & W 669.

11 See CPR 32.1; and PARA 791.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/774. Evidence in rebuttal.

774. Evidence in rebuttal.

When the onus of proof on all issues is on one party, that party must ordinarily, when presenting his case, adduce all his evidence, and may not, after the close of his opponent's case, seek to adduce additional evidence to strengthen his own case¹. In theory, when the onus is partly upon the claimant and partly upon the defendant, the claimant may in the first instance limit his evidence to proving those issues in respect of which the onus is upon him, and then, after the close of the defendant's case, adduce evidence in rebuttal upon those issues where the burden was upon the defendant². Such evidence in rebuttal must be confined solely to rebuttal and not merely be evidence in confirmation of evidence-in-chief³.

There is a judicial discretion to allow further evidence to be called, even when it should have been adduced in the first place, where the judge considers it necessary in the interests of justice⁴. Such evidence in rebuttal will generally be allowed when the party wishing to adduce it has been taken by surprise and for that reason did not call the evidence earlier⁵.

The above principles are subject to the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁶.

¹ Jacobs v Tarleton (1848) 11 QB 421. The passage in the text was cited with approval in Ernest Scragg & Sons Ltd's Application [1972] RPC 679 per Graham J. This is said to be a principle of practice although not a rule of law in criminal cases: R v Rice [1963] 1 QB 857, [1963] 1 All ER 832, CCA. The subject is one of greater importance in criminal law: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1316.

² Penn v Jack (1866) LR 2 Eq 314; Shaw v Beck (1853) 8 Exch 392; cf Vernon v St James, Westminster, Vestry (1880) 49 LJ Ch 130, CA.

³ R v Hilditch (1832) 5 C & P 299; Rowlandson v Fenton and Rogers (1853) 1 CLR 344; R v Sullivan [1923] 1 KB 47, CCA. Where a claim and counterclaim raise identical issues, a claimant cannot rebut the defendant's evidence after the latter's case, as such evidence would necessarily confirm the evidence previously adduced by him: Green v Sevin (1879) 13 ChD 589.

⁴ Doe d Nicoll v Bower (1851) 16 QB 805; Rogers v Manley (1880) 42 LT 584; Budd v Davison (1880) 29 WR 192; Wright v Willcox (1850) 9 CB 650; and see Noble v Noble and Ellis [1963] 3 All ER 887n, [1963] 1 WLR 1395.

⁵ Crewe v Crewe (1800) 3 Hag Ecc 123; Bigsby v Dickinson (1876) 4 ChD 24, CA. There is a statutory right to call evidence in rebuttal in a magistrates' court: see the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1981, SI 1981/552, rr 13, 14; the Criminal Procedure Rules 2005, SI 2005/384, rr 37.1, 37.7; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 728.

⁶ See CPR 32.1; and PARA 791.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(v) Burden and Standard of Proof/775. Standard of proof.

775. Standard of proof.

To succeed on any issue the party bearing the legal burden of proof must (1) satisfy a judge or jury of the likelihood of the truth of his case by adducing a greater weight of evidence than his opponent; and (2) adduce evidence sufficient to satisfy them to the required standard or degree of proof. The standard differs in criminal and civil cases.

In civil cases the standard of proof is satisfied on a balance of probabilities¹. It has been said that, even within this formula variations in subject matter or in allegations may affect the standard required²; it has commonly been said that the more serious the allegation, for example fraud, crime or professional misconduct or the sexual abuse of children, the higher will be the required degree of proof³. A high standard of proof has also been stated to be required in child abduction cases where the parent who has wrongfully removed the child from the relevant jurisdiction is seeking to establish the defence that the child would be exposed to a grave risk of harm if subsequently returned⁴. However, it is not so much that a different standard of proof is required in different circumstances varying according to the gravity of the issue, but that the gravity of the issue becomes part of the circumstances which the court has to take into consideration in deciding whether or not the burden of proof has been discharged: the more serious the allegation, the more cogent is the evidence required to overcome the unlikelihood of what is alleged and thus to prove it⁵.

In criminal cases the standard required of the prosecution is proof beyond reasonable doubt⁶. This standard is also requisite in cases of committal for contempt⁷ or committal under the Debtors Act 1869⁸, and in certain pension claims cases⁹.

In matrimonial causes it seems that proof on the balance of probabilities is normally sufficient¹⁰, although proof beyond reasonable doubt is required to rebut the presumption of the formal validity of a marriage¹¹.

Once a matter is established beyond reasonable doubt it must be taken for all purposes of law to be a fact, as there is no room¹² for a distinction between what is found by inference from the evidence and what is found as a positive fact¹³.

1 See the formulation of Denning J in Miller v Minister of Pensions [1947] 2 All ER 372 at 373-374; and see Newis v Lark (1571) 2 Plowd 408; Cooper v Slade (1858) 6 HL Cas 746; Lancaster v Blackwell Colliery Co Ltd (1919) 89 LJBK 609, HL; Bonnington Castings Ltd v Wardlaw [1956] AC 613, [1956] 1 All ER 615, HL. See also Dingwall v J Wharton (Shipping) Ltd [1961] 2 Lloyd's Rep 213, HL. Where the civil standard of proof applies it is not necessary for every piece of the 'evidential jigsaw' to fit: Whalley v Montracon Ltd [2005] EWCA Civ 1383, [2005] All ER (D) 269 (Nov).

2 See the observation of Denning LJ in Bater v Bater [1951] P 35 at 36-37, [1950] 2 All ER 458 at 459, CA; Blyth v Blyth [1966] AC 643, [1966] 1 All ER 524, HL. See also R (McCann) v Crown Court at Manchester, Clingham v Kensington and Chelsea Royal London Borough Council [2002] UKHL 39, [2003] 1 AC 787, [2002] 4 All ER 593 (although proceedings to obtain an anti-social behaviour order are civil proceedings under domestic law, and in principle the standard of proof ordinarily applicable in civil proceedings, namely the balance of probabilities, should apply, pragmatism dictates that in all cases under the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 s 1 magistrates should apply the criminal standard since, given the seriousness of the matters involved in proceedings for an anti-social behaviour order, at least some reference to the heightened civil standard (which is virtually indistinguishable from the criminal standard) will usually be necessary).

3 See Re H and R (minors) (sexual abuse: standard of proof) [1996] AC 563, [1996] 1 All ER 1, HL. See also eg Hornal v Neuberger Products Ltd [1957] 1 QB 247, [1956] 3 All ER 970, CA (fraud alleged in civil proceedings); followed in Nishina Trading Co Ltd v Chiyoda Fire and Marine Insurance Co Ltd [1969] 2 QB 449, [1969] 2 All ER 776, CA; Re Dellow's Will Trusts, Lloyds Bank Ltd v Institute of Cancer Research [1964] 1 All ER 771, [1964] 1 WLR 451 (unlawful killing); Chalmers v Shackell (1834) 6 C & P 475 (forgery); Willmet v Harmer (1839) 8 C & P 695 (bigamy); Statham v Statham [1929] P 131, CA (sodomy in a divorce case); Herbert v Poland (1932) 44 Ll L Rep 139 (arson and conspiracy); Miles v Cain (1989) Times, 15 December, CA (civil proceedings for rape).

Professional tribunals should not condemn on a balance of probabilities: see Bhandari v Advocates Committee [1956] 3 All ER 742, [1956] 1 WLR 1442, PC; Moore v General Dental Council (1964) 108 Sol Jo 1011, PC. For the situation in which an injunction is sought on facts constituting an offence see Post Office v Estuary Radio Ltd [1968] 2 QB 740, [1967] 3 All ER 663, CA.

4 See eg Re S (a child) (abduction: grave risk of harm) [2002] EWCA Civ 908, [2002] 3 FCR 43.

5 Re H and R (minors) (sexual abuse: standard of proof) [1996] AC 563, [1996] 1 All ER 1, HL (considered in A Local Authority v H [2005] EWHC 2885 (Fam), [2005] All ER (D) 185 (Dec)); and see Re Dellow's Will Trusts, Lloyds Bank Ltd v Institute of Cancer Research [1964] 1 All ER 771, [1964] 1 WLR 451; Hornal v Neuberger Products Ltd [1957] 1 QB 247, [1956] 3 All ER 970, CA; R (on the application of D) v Life Sentence Review Comrs (Northern Ireland) [2008] UKHL 33, [2008] 4 All ER 992, [2008] 1 WLR 1499.

6 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1372.

7 See Practice Direction--Committal Applications PD RSC O 52 para 1.4; PARAS 1235, 1514; and CONTEMPT OF COURT.

8 See Quinn v Cuff [2001] EWCA Civ 36, [2001] All ER (D) 49 (Jan); and PARAS 1235, 1514.

9 Judd v Minister of Pensions and National Insurance [1966] 2 QB 580, [1965] 3 All ER 642; and see ARMED FORCES.

10 Blyth v Blyth [1966] AC 643, [1966] 1 All ER 524, HL; Bastable v Bastable and Sanders [1968] 3 All ER 701, [1968] 1 WLR 1684, CA. As to the standard of proof required in certain matrimonial causes see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARAS 352, 369.

11 Mahadervan v Mahadervan [1964] P 233, [1962] 3 All ER 1108, DC; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARAS 6, 7.

12 There had been introduced into the matrimonial law such a differentiation: see Chatwynd-Talbot v Chatwynd-Talbot [1963] P 436, [1963] 2 All ER 561; approved in Howarth v Howarth [1964] P 6, [1963] 3 All ER 164, CA; and see Bull v Bull [1968] P 618, [1965] 1 All ER 1057. See also the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 12; and PARA 1211.

13 Re Barrell Enterprises [1972] 3 All ER 631, [1973] 1 WLR 19, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vi) Formal Admissions/776. Formal admissions; in general.

(vi) Formal Admissions

776. Formal admissions; in general.

Admissions for the purposes of civil proceedings¹ may be made by actual or implied admissions in the statements of case², or in answer to a request or court order to give further information³, or in writing⁴, or at the trial⁵. A fact may also be admitted by default⁶ or in response to a notice to admit facts⁷.

A party may admit the truth of the whole or any part of another party's case⁸ and may do so by giving notice in writing (such as in a statement of case or by letter)⁹. Where the only remedy which the claimant¹⁰ is seeking is the payment of money, the defendant¹¹ may also make an admission in accordance with the relevant rules¹². When particulars of claim are served¹³ on a defendant the forms for responding to the claim that will accompany them will include a form for making an admission¹⁴.

The court¹⁵ may allow a party to amend or withdraw an admission¹⁶.

In his defence, the defendant must state which allegations he admits¹⁷. Subject to certain exceptions¹⁸, a defendant who fails to deal with an allegation is to be taken to admit that allegation¹⁹.

1 As to formal admissions in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1538.

2 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1.

3 As to requests for further information see CPR Pt 18; and PARAS 611-612. As to the court's power to order a party to provide further information about his case before allocating it to a track for trial see CPR 26.5(3); and PARA 266.

4 Eg formal admissions may be made before trial in a letter written by a legal adviser acting on behalf of a party: see Ellis v Allen[1914] 1 Ch 904.

5 An admission made by counsel in interim proceedings may be withdrawn if the other party has not acted on it so as to give rise to an estoppel: H Clark (Doncaster) Ltd v Wilkinson[1965] Ch 694, [1965] 1 All ER 934, CA. At the trial an admission of facts by a party or his legal adviser will render any evidence on the matter inadmissible: Urquhart v Butterfield(1887) 37 ChD 357, CA; and see also The Hardwick (1884) 9 PD 32; The Rothbury (1893) 10 TLR 60; The Buteshire[1909] P 170; The Woodarra (1921) 38 TLR 160; The Cornish Rose[1936] P 174, [1936] 2 All ER 805; The Sandefjord [1953] 2 Lloyd's Rep 789; Pioneer Plastic Containers Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs[1967] Ch 597, [1967] 1 All ER 1053. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

6 See the text and notes 18-19; and PARA 778.

7 See PARA 777.

8 CPR 14.1(1).

9 CPR 14.1(2).Where a party makes an admission by notice in writing any other party may apply for judgment based on that admission: see CPR 14.3; and PARA 190.

10 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

11 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

12 See CPR 14.1(3). The rules referred to in the text are: (1) CPR 14.4 (admission of whole claim for specified amount of money); (2) CPR 14.5 (admission of part of claim for specified amount of money); (3) CPR 14.6 (admission of liability to pay whole of claim for unspecified amount of money); (4) CPR 14.7 (admission of liability to pay claim for unspecified amount of money where defendant offers a sum in satisfaction of the claim): CPR 14.1(3); and see PARAS 191-194.

13 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

14 See Practice Direction--Admissions PD 14 para 2.1; and PARA 187.

15 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

16 CPR14.1(5). This rule does not apply to pre-action admission: Sowerby v Charlton[2005] EWCA Civ 1610, [2005] All ER (D) 343 (Dec), [2006] 1 WLR 568. See also Walley v Stoke on Trent City Council[2006] EWCA Civ 1137, [2006] 4 All ER 1230; White v Greensand Homes Ltd[2007] EWCA Civ 643, [2007] All ER (D) 371 (Jun).

17 CPR 16.5(1)(c).

18 A defendant who fails to deal with an allegation but has set out in his defence the nature of his case in relation to the issue to which that allegation is relevant is to be taken to require that allegation to be proved: CPR 16.5(3). Further, where the claim includes a money claim, a defendant is to be taken to require that any allegation relating to the amount of money claimed be proved unless he expressly admits the allegation: CPR 16.5(4).

19 CPR 16.5(5). See further PARA 599.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vi) Formal Admissions/777. Notice to admit facts.

777. Notice to admit facts.

A party may serve¹ notice on another party requiring him to admit the facts, or the part of the case of the serving party, specified in the notice². A notice to admit facts must be served no later than 21 days before the trial³.

Where the other party makes any admission in response to the notice, the admission may be used against him only in the proceedings in which the notice to admit is served⁴ and by the party who served the notice⁵.

The court⁶ may allow a party to amend or withdraw any admission made by him on such terms as it thinks just⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 CPR 32.18(1). See Form N266 in The Civil Court Practice, which includes provision for the party receiving it to admit the facts or part of the case under this rule.

3 CPR 32.18(2). As to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq. Subject to the 21-day time limit, it is for any party to decide when to serve a notice to admit facts and there is no reason why the service of notices to admit facts and the responses to them have to be simultaneous: MMR and MR Vaccine Litigation (No 5), Sayers v Smithkline Beecham Ltd [2002] EWHC 1280 (QB), [2002] All ER (D) 230 (Jun).

4 CPR 32.18(3)(a).

5 CPR 32.18(3)(b).

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 CPR 32.18(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vi) Formal Admissions/778. Notice to admit or produce documents.

778. Notice to admit or produce documents.

A party will be deemed to admit the authenticity of a document disclosed¹ to him² unless he serves³ notice that he wishes the document to be proved at trial⁴. A notice to prove a document must be served by the latest date for serving witness statements⁵ or within seven days of disclosure of the document, whichever is later⁶.

A notarial act or instrument may be received in evidence without further proof as duly authenticated in accordance with the requirements of law unless the contrary is proved⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'disclosure' see PARA 538.

2 Ie under CPR Pt 31 (disclosure and inspection of documents): see PARAS 112, 963, 538 et seq.

3 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

4 CPR 32.19(1). See Form N268 in The Civil Court Practice.

5 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

6 CPR 32.19(2). As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

7 CPR 32.20.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/779. Meaning of 'judicial notice'.

(vii) Judicial Notice

779. Meaning of 'judicial notice'.

Judicial notice refers to facts, which a judge can be called upon to receive and to act upon, either from his general knowledge of them, or from inquiries to be made by himself for his own information from sources to which it is proper for him to refer¹.

¹ Commonwealth Shipping Representative v P & O Branch Service[1923] AC 191 at 212, HL, per Lord Summer. Judicial notice is thus a means of establishing, rather than proving, a fact.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/780. English law.

780. English law.

The judges are bound to recognise and give effect to all equitable estates, titles, rights, reliefs, defences and counterclaims, and to all equitable duties and liabilities; and subject thereto, to all legal claims and demands, and all estates, titles, rights, duties, obligations and liabilities existing by the common law or by any custom, or created by any statute¹. They are also bound to take notice of all public Acts of Parliament, and of all Acts of Parliament whatever passed since the year 1850, unless the contrary is expressly provided in the Act in question². Government orders and statutory instruments are not judicially noticed³ unless provision is made for them to be so noticed⁴.

The courts also take notice of every branch of English law. Thus they take judicial notice of the principles of international law and must have regard to European human rights law⁵. Specific statutory provision is made with regard to judicial notice of:

- 1 (1) the Madrid Protocol on the international registration of trade marks⁶ and the Common Regulations⁷, copies issued by the International Bureau of the World Intellectual Property Organisation ('WIPO') of entries in the International Register of trade marks maintained by the International Bureau for the purposes of the Madrid Protocol and copies of the periodical gazette published by the International Bureau⁸;
- 2 (2) certain provisions of the Convention concerning International Carriage by Rail⁹; and
- 3 (3) the Statute and Rules of each of the International Tribunals relating to Rwanda¹⁰ and the former Yugoslavia¹¹.

The courts take judicial notice of European Community law. The general statutory provisions in this regard are discussed elsewhere in this title¹². Specific statutory provision is made with regard to judicial notice of:

- 4 (a) the Brussels Conventions¹³ and any decision of, or expression of opinion by, the Court of Justice of the European Communities ('ECJ') on any question as to their meaning¹⁴;
- 5 (b) the Lugano Convention¹⁵;
- 6 (c) the European Patent Convention, the Community Patent Convention and the Patent Co-operation Treaty, any bulletin, journal or gazette published under the relevant convention and the register of European patents kept under the European Patent Convention¹⁶ and any decision of, or expression of opinion by, the relevant Convention court¹⁷ on any question arising under or in connection with the relevant Convention¹⁸; and
- 7 (d) any decision of, or expression of opinion by, the ECJ on any question as to the meaning or effect of certain other¹⁹ Conventions²⁰.

The courts will also take judicial notice of ecclesiastical and maritime law²¹, the law and customs of Parliament, the existence and extent of the privileges of each House of Parliament²², and the clearly established privileges of the Crown, for example the privileges in relation to the royal palaces²³.

1 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 49(2). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to the equity jurisdiction of county courts see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 719. As to judicial notice of custom see PARA 781.

2 See PARA 889. Judicial notice may be taken of reports of parliamentary commissions or official committees to see the mischief at which an Act was directed, and the background against which the legislation was enacted: see Letang v Cooper [1965] 1 QB 232, [1964] 2 All ER 929, CA; Pillai v Mudanayake [1953] AC 514, [1955] 2 All ER 833, PC. The courts may also refer to the legislative history of a statute as an aid to its construction: see Pepper (Inspector of Taxes) v Hart [1993] AC 593, [1993] 1 All ER 42, HL. See further STATUTES.

The Irish Supreme Court has held that judicial notice should be taken of the fact that an Act is in force after it has been in force for some time, even though the order required to bring it into force has not been proved: State (Taylor) v Wicklow Circuit Court Judge [1951] IR 311.

Every Act of the Scottish Parliament must be judicially noticed: Scotland Act 1998 s 28(6).

3 R v Governor of Brixton Prison, ex p Servini [1914] 1 KB 77, DC; Duffin v Markham (1918) 88 LJB 581, DC; Tyrrell v Cole (1918) 120 LT 156, DC; R v Clarke [1969] 2 QB 91, [1969] 1 All ER 924, CA; Todd v Anderson 1912 SC (J) 105. The Interpretation Act 1978 s 23(1), which applies most provisions of that Act to subordinate legislation, expressly excepts s 3 (judicial notice): see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1352. But see Palastanga v Solman [1962] Crim LR 334, 106 Sol Jo 176, DC (defendant in criminal case should not insist upon formal proof of a widely-known order); R v Jones (Reginald) [1969] 3 All ER 1559, [1970] 1 WLR 16, CA (court entitled to take judicial notice of order by Secretary of State approving breath-test device, where the order had previously been proved in a large number of cases). See also PARA 892 note 9. At one time emanations from the Crown pursuant to statute were judicially noticed: see Bradley v Arthur (1825) 4 B & C 292.

As to the proof, where necessary, of statutory instruments and government orders see PARA 892. As to the making of statutory instruments and their publication see the Statutory Instruments Act 1946; R v Sheer Metalcraft Ltd [1954] 1 QB 586, [1954] 1 All ER 542; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1506 et seq.

4 Provision in respect of judicial notice may be made in the enabling statute itself: see eg the Bankruptcy Act 1914 s 132(2) (repealed). Alternatively, the statutory instrument may itself provide that the Interpretation Act 1978 should apply to it as if it were an Act of Parliament: see eg the Trading with the Enemy (Custodian No 5) Order 1951, SI 1951/1526, art 9 (applying the Interpretation Act 1889 (repealed)). Formal proof of a well-known instrument should not be insisted upon: see Palastanga v Solman [1962] Crim LR 334, 106 Sol Jo 176, DC, cited in note 3.

5 As to the extent to which the rules of public international law are part of the municipal law of England see CONFLICT OF LAWS; INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW. As to decisions of the European Court of Human Rights see PARA 1086.

6 See the Protocol relating to the Madrid Agreement Concerning the International Registration of Marks (Cm 1601) adopted at Madrid on 27 June 1989: see TRADE MARKS AND TRADE NAMES vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 8.

7 'Common Regulations' means the regulations adopted under the Madrid Protocol art 10 with effect from 1 April 1996 as amended with effect from 1 April 2002: Trade Marks (International Registration) Order 2008, SI 2006/2206, art 2.

8 See the Trade Marks (International Registration) Order 2008, SI 2008/2206, art 6, Sch 5 para 3(1). Any document mentioned in the text to this note is admissible as evidence of any instrument or other act of the International Bureau thereby communicated: Sch 5 para 3(2).

9 See the Railways (Convention on International Carriage by Rail) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/2092, reg 3; and CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS vol 7 (2008) PARAS 683; RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 27. The text of the convention is published as Convention Concerning International Carriage by Rail (COTIF) (Cm 41) (1987).

10 See the United Nations (International Tribunal) (Rwanda) Order 1996, SI 1996/1296, art 27(3).

11 See the United Nations (International Tribunal) (Former Yugoslavia) Order 1996, SI 1996/716, art 27(3). Similar provision is made with regard to both tribunals in the orders enabling Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man to co-operate with those tribunals: see the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Jersey) Order 1997, SI 1997/283, art 25(3); the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Isle of Man) Order 1997, SI 1997/282, art 24(3); and the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Guernsey) Order 1997, SI 1997/281, art 25(3).

- 12 See the European Communities Act 1972 s 3(1), (2); and PARA 1087.
- 13 See the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1982 s 2(1); and CONFLICT OF LAWS.
- 14 See the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1982 s 3(2); and CONFLICT OF LAWS.
- 15 See the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1982 s 3A(1); and CONFLICT OF LAWS.
- 16 Any such document is admissible as evidence of any instrument or other act thereby communicated of any Convention institution: Patents Act 1977 s 91(2).
- 17 'Relevant Convention court' does not include a court of the United Kingdom or of any other country which is a party to the relevant Convention: Patents Act 1977 s 91(6).
- 18 Patents Act 1977 s 91(1) (amended by the Patents Act 2004 s 16(1), Sch 2 paras 1(1), 20); and see PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 541. Decisions of the European Patent Office may now be considered by the English courts: see eg Bristol-Myers Squibb Co v Baker Norton Pharmaceuticals Inc [2000] All ER (D) 713, [2000] IP & T 908, CA; and PARA 105.
- 19 Ie (1) the Rome Convention (the Convention on the law applicable to contractual obligations opened for signature in Rome on 19 June 1980 and signed by the United Kingdom on 7 December 1981); (2) the Luxembourg Convention (the Convention on the accession of the Hellenic Republic to the Rome Convention signed by the United Kingdom in Luxembourg on 10 April 1984); (3) the Brussels Protocol (the first Protocol on the interpretation of the Rome Convention by the European Court signed by the United Kingdom in Brussels on 19 December 1988); (4) the Funchal Convention (the Convention on the accession of the Kingdom of Spain and the Portuguese Republic to the Rome Convention and the Brussels Protocol, with adjustments made to the Rome Convention by the Luxembourg Convention, signed by the United Kingdom in Funchal on 18 May 1992); (5) the 1996 Accession Convention (the Convention on the accession of the Republic of Austria, the Republic of Finland and the Kingdom of Sweden to the Rome Convention and the Brussels Protocol, with the adjustments made to the Rome Convention by the Luxembourg Convention and the Funchal Convention, signed by the United Kingdom in Brussels on 29 November 1996): see the Contracts (Applicable Law) Act 1990 s 1 (amended by SI 1994/1900 and SI 2000/1825); and CONFLICT OF LAWS; CONTRACT.
- 20 See the Contracts (Applicable Law) Act 1990 s 3(2).
- 21 Chandler v Grieves (1792) 2 Hy Bl 606n; Sims v Marryat (1851) 17 QB 281.
- 22 See Stockdale v Hansard (1839) 9 Ad & El 1; Burdett v Abbot (1811) 14 East 1; affd (1817) 5 Dow 165, HL; Wason v Walter (1868) LR 4 QB 73; Bradlaugh v Gossett (1884) 12 QBD 271, DC; Earl of Shaftesbury's Case (1677) 1 Mod Rep 144; and PARLIAMENT vol 78 (2010) PARAS 801 et seq, 1076 et seq.
- 23 As to privileges in relation to the royal palaces see CROWN AND ROYAL FAMILY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 53.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/781. Custom and usage.

781. Custom and usage.

The court will take judicial notice of the customs which formerly governed the descent of land in certain parts of England¹, as opposed to manorial customs in contravention of the common law, which must be proved². Judicial notice will be taken of the customs of the City of London which have been certified by the Recorder of London³.

The court will also take judicial notice of usages which are embodied in the law merchant⁴, and of commercial or other usages which have been proved sufficiently often in the courts of law⁵.

1 All these were abolished, subject to rare exceptions, in relation to the estates of persons dying after 1925: see the Administration of Estates Act 1925 s 45; and CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 643; REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 31 et seq.

2 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 641-643, 695 et seq.

3 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 628.

4 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 685.

5 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) PARA 686. See also PARA 788.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/782. Practice.

782. Practice.

The Supreme Court of England and Wales takes judicial notice of the several branches into which it is divided by the statute under which it is constituted¹ and of the statutory rules which govern its practice and procedure². The rules governing the practice and procedure of inferior courts, if made under statutory authority, are judicially noticed by all courts³; further, the Civil Procedure Rules and their supplementary practice directions now apply to most civil proceedings in the county courts, the High Court and the Court of Appeal⁴.

The court is entitled to look at its own records and proceedings in any matter and take notice of their contents even though they may not have been formally brought before the court by the parties⁵. It will also take notice of the privileges and obligations of solicitors as officers of the court⁶ and of the practice of costs judges (formerly known as 'taxing masters')⁷.

Judicial notice is also taken of any illegality⁸ appearing in proceedings, on the part of any party, by reason of which the court considers that its assistance should be refused to that party, even though the illegality is not pleaded or relied upon by the opposite party⁹.

1 As to the constitution of the Supreme Court of England and Wales see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 601 et seq. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

2 Longman v East (1877) 3 CPD 142, CA; and see Schneider v Batt & Co (1881) 8 QBD 701, CA; Re Mills Estate, ex p Works and Public Buildings Comrs (1886) 34 ChD 24, CA; Re Fisher [1894] 1 Ch 450, CA.

Before the Judicature Acts (see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 601) the superior courts took notice of the 'customs and courses of every of the King's Courts': Lane's Case (1586) 2 Co Rep 16b; cf Dobson v Bell (1676) 2 Lev 176; Pugh v Robinson (1786) 1 Term Rep 116. In Dance v Robson (1829) Mood & M 294 printed copies of the rules circulated among the court's officers for their guidance were accepted as evidence of the rules.

3 Dance v Robson (1829) Mood & M 294; Van Sandau v Turner (1845) 6 QB 773; and see PARA 780.

4 See PARA 32.

5 Craven v Smith (1869) LR 4 Exch 146; cf Robinson v Robinson (1877) 2 PD 75 (judicial notice not taken of the fact that an issue in the case is res judicata).

6 Stokes v Mason (1808) 9 East 424; Ex p Hore (1835) 3 Dowl 600; Day v Ward (1886) 17 QBD 703; Re A Solicitor, ex p Hales [1907] 2 KB 539. The court will not take judicial notice of the names of the officers of the court: Frost v Hayward (1842) 10 M & W 673. See also the Solicitors Act 1974 s 50; and LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 745.

7 Cobbett v Wood [1908] 2 KB 420, CA; Harbin v Gordon [1914] 2 KB 577, CA. This practice is now governed by the CPR: see generally PARA 1729 et seq.

8 As to the court's duty to reject unstamped documents tendered in evidence see PARA 959.

9 The illegality must be directly connected with the proceedings: North Western Salt Co Ltd v Electrolytic Alkali Co Ltd [1914] AC 461, HL; Feret v Hill (1854) 15 CB 207; Gordon v Metropolitan Police Chief Comr [1910] 2 KB 1080, CA; cf Scott v Brown, Doering, McNab & Co [1892] 2 QB 724, CA; and see Snell v Unity Finance Co Ltd [1964] 2 QB 203, [1963] 3 All ER 50, CA. See further CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 838. As to the court's power to exclude the production of documents where the public interest would be injured by their production see PARAS 555 et seq, 574 et seq.

UPDATE

782 Practice

NOTE 1--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/783. Scots, Irish and foreign law.

783. Scots, Irish and foreign law.

The House of Lords takes judicial notice of the law of Scotland and Northern Ireland so far as it is material to the issues raised by the record in all cases that come before it¹; and, similarly, the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council takes judicial notice of the law of the country from which appeal is made to it². The courts in England and Wales take notice of the prevalence in Ireland³ of the common law of England⁴. With these exceptions the courts in this jurisdiction⁵ cannot take judicial notice of foreign law⁶, which in this connection includes the law of Scotland, Commonwealth countries, British colonies and possessions; for foreign laws require proof as questions of fact⁷. However, the citation of decisions of foreign courts, even though such decisions are not binding authority in courts in England and Wales, may be useful for the purposes of interpretation of English law⁸. Further, it is desirable that the great common law jurisdictions should not differ lightly⁹.

Every Act of the Scottish Parliament must be judicially noticed¹⁰.

1 Cooper v Cooper (1888) 13 App Cas 88, HL; Lyell v Kennedy, Kennedy v Lyell (1889) 14 App Cas 437, HL; Elliot v Lord Joicey [1935] AC 209, HL. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

2 Sumboochunder Chowdry v Naraini Dibeh and Ramkishor (1835) 3 Knapp 55, PC; Cameron v Kyte (1835) 3 Knapp 332.

3 The Republic of Ireland, although no longer a part of Her Majesty's dominions, is not a foreign country for the purposes of any law in force in any part of the United Kingdom or in any colony, protectorate or United Kingdom trust territory: Ireland Act 1949 s 2(1).

4 Re Nesbitt (1844) 14 LJM 30; cf R v Sunderland (1837) 2 Lew CC 109.

5 A consular court acting in a foreign country where the Crown has jurisdiction is bound to take judicial notice of the law of that country: see Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs v Charlesworth, Pilling & Co [1901] AC 373, PC.

6 The canon law of the Roman Catholic Church has been held to be foreign law by the Irish courts: see O'Callaghan v O'Sullivan [1925] 1 IR 90. As to European Union law see PARA 1087; and as to decisions of the European Court of Human Rights see PARA 1086.

7 See Guaranty Trust Co of New York v Hannay & Co [1918] 2 KB 623, CA; Beatty v Beatty [1924] 1 KB 807, CA; Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd [1933] AC 289, HL. As to the modes of proving foreign law see PARAS 1085-1093.

8 See Liddle v North Riding of Yorkshire County Council [1934] 2 KB 101, CA; Re Hartland, Banks v Hartland [1911] 1 Ch 459; Palmer v R [1971] AC 814, [1971] 1 All ER 1077, PC; R v McInnes [1971] 3 All ER 295, [1971] 1 WLR 1600, CA. See further PARA 105.

9 See PARA 105 and the authorities there cited.

10 Scotland Act 1998 s 28(6). As to Welsh Assembly and Northern Ireland Assembly legislation see PARA 889.

UPDATE

783 Scots, Irish and foreign law

NOTE 1--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/784. The calendar; time.

784. The calendar; time.

The almanac is established by statute¹, and was previously recognised by the common law². The court will take judicial notice of the succession of years, months and days³, of the years of each sovereign's reign and the years in the calendar to which they correspond⁴, and of the days of the week upon which the days in the calendar fall⁵.

An expression of time of day in any Act of Parliament, statutory instrument, deed or other legal instrument or document means Greenwich mean time, unless otherwise specifically stated⁶; but judicial notice is taken, if necessary, of the fact that a place lies east or west of Greenwich, and therefore has a time different from Greenwich time⁷, although not of the times at which the sun rises and sets⁸.

1 See the Calendar (New Style) Act 1750 (repealed in part); the Calendar Act 1751; and TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 301.

2 R v Dyer (1703) 6 Mod Rep 41; Brough v Parkings (1703) 2 Ld Raym 992.

3 R v Brown (1828) Mood & M 163; Harvy v Broad (1704) 2 Salk 626.

4 Holman v Burrow (1702) 2 Ld Raym 791; Henry v Cole (1702) 2 Ld Raym 811. As to reference by the court to appropriate sources in order to take judicial notice of historical facts see PARA 788 note 6.

5 Hoyle v Lord Cornwallis (1720) 1 Stra 387; Hanson v Shackelton (1835) 4 Dowl 48; Pearson v Shaw (1844) 7 ILR 1.

6 Interpretation Act 1978 ss 9, 23(1), (3), Sch 2 paras 1, 6. There is a limited contrary provision in relation to summer time in the Summer Time Act 1972 ss 1, 3 (amended by SI 2002/262): see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARAS 317-318.

7 Curtis v March (1858) 3 H & N 866.

8 Collier v Nokes (1849) 2 Car & Kir 1012; Tutton v Darke, Nixon v Freeman (1860) 5 H & N 647. An almanac may, however, be prima facie evidence of the time of the moon's rising: see R v Hillier and Harnham (1840) 4 JP 155.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/785. Governments and Parliament.

785. Governments and Parliament.

The courts take judicial notice of the government of the United Kingdom and of the great officers of state by whom it is carried on¹, of the order and course of proceedings in Parliament², of the reports of parliamentary commissions³, and of the commencement, prorogation and sessions of Parliament⁴.

Judicial notice will be taken of the existence and titles of foreign states which are recognised by the British government⁵, and also the territorial limits of their dominions⁶, but not of their internal constitutions⁷. The status of a foreign ruler will be noticed by the court in accordance with the recognition afforded to him by the British government⁸, as also will the status of persons claiming certain privileges and immunities⁹.

The court will, in any case of uncertainty, seek information from a Secretary of State as to the status of a foreign government or sovereign¹⁰. A statement by the Secretary of State, or by the Attorney General on behalf of the Secretary of State¹¹, as to the status of a foreign power is accepted by the court as conclusive¹², but is not always conclusive for the purpose of construing a commercial document¹³.

¹ In Whaley v Carlisle (1866) 17 ICLR 792 the court took notice that Lord Hawkesbury was Foreign Minister in 1803; and see R v Jones (1809) 2 Camp 131.

² Lake v King (1668-70) 1 Wms Saund 131b. As to the admissibility in evidence of the Journals of either House of Parliament, and other official parliamentary documents see PARA 890.

³ See PARA 780 note 2.

⁴ R v Wilde (1670) 1 Lev 296; Birt v Rothwell (1697) 1 Ld Raym 210.

⁵ Taylor v Barclay (1828) 2 Sim 213; United States of America v Wagner (1867) 2 Ch App 582; Duff Development Co Ltd v Kelantan Government [1924] AC 797, HL; Aksionairnoye Obschestvo AM Luther v James Sagor & Co [1921] 3 KB 532, CA. When a question arises as to the validity of the laws of a foreign country, it is the duty of the court itself to take notice of it: Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd [1965] Ch 525, [1964] 3 All ER 326, CA.

⁶ Foster v Globe Venture Syndicate Ltd [1900] 1 Ch 811; and see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 33.

⁷ Rendal AS v Arcos Ltd [1936] 1 All ER 623, CA; revsd on other grounds [1937] 3 All ER 577, HL.

⁸ Mighell v Sultan of Johore [1894] 1 QB 149, CA; Statham v Statham and Gaekwar of Baroda [1912] P 92; Sultan of Johore v Abubakar Tunku Aris Bendahar [1952] AC 318, [1952] 1 All ER 1261, PC; Sayce v Ameer Ruler Sadig Mohammad Abbasi Bahawalpur State [1952] 2 QB 390, [1952] 2 All ER 64, CA; Rahimtoola v Nizam of Hyderabad [1958] AC 379, [1957] 3 All ER 441, HL. See also Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd (No 2) [1967] 1 AC 853, [1966] 2 All ER 536, HL. The immunity of a foreign sovereign from proceedings in this country is discussed elsewhere in this work: see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 242 et seq; and see especially The Parlement Belge (1880) 5 PD 197, CA; Cia Naviera Vascongado v SS Cristina [1938] AC 485, [1938] 1 All ER 719, HL.

⁹ See the Diplomatic Privileges Act 1964 s 4; the International Organisations Act 1968 s 8; the Consular Relations Act 1968 s 11 (certificate issued by or under the authority of the Secretary of State to be conclusive evidence of any fact stated in it relating to the question whether or not a person is entitled to any privilege or immunity under the respective Acts). See also Engelke v Musmann [1928] AC 433, HL. Cf Zoernsch v Waldock [1964] 2 All ER 256, [1964] 1 WLR 675, CA. See further INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARAS 282, 297, 323.

10 Duff Development Co Ltd v Kelantan Government [1924] AC 797, HL; Cremidi v Powell, The Gerasimo (1857) 11 Moo PCC 88; The Annette, The Dora [1919] P 105; Aksionairnoye Obschestvo AM Luther v James Sagor & Co [1921] 1 KB 456; on appeal [1921] 3 KB 532, CA; White, Child and Beney Ltd v Simmons, White, Child and Beney Ltd v Eagle Star and British Dominions Insurance Co (1922) 127 LT 571, CA; The Jupiter [1924] P 236, CA; The Arantzazu Mendi [1939] AC 256, [1939] 1 All ER 719, HL; Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd [1965] Ch 525, [1964] 3 All ER 326, CA. See also the statutory provisions cited in note 9.

11 The Gagara [1919] P 95, CA (statement by Attorney General on behalf of Foreign Office); and see Engelke v Musmann [1928] AC 433, HL.

12 See note 9; and see Mighell v Sultan of Johore [1894] 1 QB 149, CA (disapproving The Charkieh (1873) LR 4 A & E 59); Statham v Statham and Gaekwar of Baroda [1912] P 92; The Gagara [1919] P 95, CA; The Jupiter [1924] P 236, CA; Duff Development Co Ltd v Kelantan Government [1924] AC 797, HL; The Arantzazu Mendi [1939] AC 256, [1939] 1 All ER 719, HL; Haile Selassie v Cable and Wireless Ltd (No 2) [1939] Ch 182, CA; Kahan v Pakistan Federation [1951] 2 KB 1003, CA; Boguslawski v Gdynia-Ameryka Linie [1951] 1 KB 162, [1950] 2 All ER 355, CA; Sayce v Ameer Ruler Sadig Mohammad Abbasi Bahawalpur State [1952] 2 QB 390, [1952] 2 All ER 64, CA; Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd (No 2) [1967] 1 AC 853, [1966] 2 All ER 536, HL. See also City of Berne v Bank of England (1804) 9 Ves 347 (a court may not take notice of a foreign government which has not been recognised by the British government); The Annette, The Dora [1919] P 105 (courts should not recognise a foreign government as independent until the British government has so recognised it). See also Yrisarri v Clement (1825) 2 C & P 223, in which Best CJ held that when recognition had not been given, independence was a matter of proof, and which may no longer be regarded as a statement of the law. Where a foreign power is recognised by the British government, the recognition has a retroactive effect: see Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd [1933] AC 289 at 297, HL, per Lord Wright; and see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 52.

13 Luigi Monta of Genoa v Cechofracht Co Ltd [1956] 2 QB 552, [1956] 2 All ER 769 (Foreign Office statement not conclusive for the purposes of interpreting the word 'government' in the war risks clause). The word 'war' in a charterparty must be construed, having regard to the general tenor and purpose of the document, in a common sense way: Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha of Kobe v Bantham Steamship Co Ltd (No 2) [1939] 2 KB 544, [1939] 1 All ER 819, CA. As to the question whether a state of war exists see PARA 786.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/786. State of war.

786. State of war.

Judicial notice will be taken of a state of war that exists¹ or has existed² between the United Kingdom and any other country³; and, possibly, of a state of war existing between two foreign countries, where the fact is recognised by the British government⁴.

Judicial notice may also be taken of the circumstances in which a war involving the United Kingdom is or was carried on⁵, but not of the date of any particular operation or engagement⁶.

1 R v De Berenger (1814) 3 M & S 67; Alcinous v Nigreu (1854) 4 E & B 217; Re a Petition of Right [1915] 3 KB 649, CA; R v Trainor [1917] 1 WWR 415.

2 R v Bottrill, ex p Kuechenmeister [1947] KB 41, [1946] 2 All ER 434, CA; Re Grotrian, Cox v Grotrian [1955] Ch 501, [1955] 1 All ER 788.

3 A certificate of the Secretary of State to the effect that the United Kingdom is at war is conclusive: R v Bottrill, ex p Kuechenmeister [1947] KB 41, [1946] 2 All ER 434, CA; see also Blackburne v Thompson (1812) 15 East 81; Esposito v Bowden (1857) 7 E & B 763, ExCh; Driefontein Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd v Janson, West Rand Central Gold Mines Co Ltd v De Rougemont [1900] 2 QB 339; affd sub nom Janson v Driefontein Consolidated Mines Ltd [1902] AC 484, HL; and see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 15.

4 See Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha of Kobe v Bantham Steamship Co Ltd (No 2) [1938] 3 All ER 80; on appeal [1939] 2 KB 544, [1939] 1 All ER 819, CA; cf Dolder v Lord Huntingfield (1805) 11 Ves 283; Thelluson v Cosling (1803) 4 Esp 266.

5 Re a Petition of Right [1915] 3 KB 649, CA (certain parts of England had been attacked by aircraft); R v Vine Street Police Station Superintendent, ex p Liebmann [1916] 1 KB 268 (foreign civilians in this country communicating information to the enemy); The Pacific and The San Francisco (1917) 33 TLR 529 (Swedish firms engaged in shipping contraband goods to the enemy); Atlantic Mutual Insurance Co v King [1919] 1 KB 307 (unrestricted submarine warfare carried on); J Wharton (Shipping) Ltd v Mortleman [1941] 1 KB 340, [1941] 1 All ER 175, DC (Brest a war base).

6 Commonwealth Shipping Representative v P & O Branch Service [1923] AC 191, HL; Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139; cf Ward v Murray (1900) Times, 5 March (notice taken of dates relating to siege of Kimberley); Cornelius v Banque Franco-Serbe [1942] 1 KB 29, [1941] 2 All ER 728 (notice taken that German invasion of Holland was taking place on 10 May 1940).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/787. State and county divisions.

787. State and county divisions.

The court takes judicial notice of the existence, extent and geographical position of British areas of jurisdiction¹, including those abroad². The territory of foreign states is also noticed³.

Judicial notice is taken of the counties into which England and Wales are divided⁴, but not of the distance of one county from another, nor of the particular places situated within each county⁵, unless such situation is recognised by statute⁶.

The court does not take judicial notice of the particular diocese in which any town is situated⁷.

1 See The Fagernes [1927] P 311, CA, in which it was held that a statement by or on behalf of the Secretary of State as to the extent of British territorial sovereignty was conclusive; and see R v Kent Justices, ex p Lye [1967] 2 QB 153, [1967] 1 All ER 560, DC.

2 If in any proceeding, civil or criminal, any question arises as to the existence or extent of any jurisdiction of Her Majesty in a foreign country, a Secretary of State must, on the application of the court, send to the court within a reasonable time his decision on the question, and his decision is final for the purposes of the proceeding: Foreign Jurisdiction Act 1890 s 4(1). The court must send to the Secretary of State, in a document under the seal of the court, or signed by a judge of the court, questions framed so as properly to raise the question, and sufficient answers to those questions must be returned by the Secretary of State to the court, and those answers are, on production thereof, conclusive evidence of the matters therein contained: s 4(2). The effect of this provision is that no evidence may be led to contradict such a statement: see Kerr v John Mottram Ltd [1940] Ch 657, [1940] 2 All ER 629. Apart from this limitation, other evidence is admissible, for 'conclusive' does not mean 'exclusive': see A-G v Bournemouth Corpn [1902] 2 Ch 714, CA; Ibrahim v R [1914] AC 599, PC. See also Cooke v Wilson (1856) 1 CBNS 153 (notice taken of existence of colony of Victoria, and that it was out of England).

3 In Foster v Globe Venture Syndicate Ltd [1900] 1 Ch 811, Farwell J felt himself bound to take judicial notice of whether a tract of land in North Africa was the territory of the tribes of Suss or of the Sultan of Morocco, and applied to the Foreign Office whose reply was accepted as conclusive for information upon the question. But see Duff Development Co Ltd v Kelantan Government [1924] AC 797, HL, per Lord Summer. It may be that judicial notice of the territory of foreign states will only be taken where a particular tract of land is recognised by the British government as being under the sovereignty of a particular foreign state. As to judicial notice of foreign governments see PARA 785. In Birrell v Dryer (1884) 9 App Cas 345 at 352, HL, Lord Blackburn said that the court should take judicial notice of the geographical position and the general names applied to districts of the sea, 'in short, of all that we see on the Admiralty chart'. However, the better view may be that a map is no more than evidence of what it depicts. As to the admissibility of maps and plans see PARA 943.

4 R v Sharpe and Vaul (1838) 8 C & P 436 (county of Stafford in England); R v St Maurice Inhabitants (1851) 16 QB 908 (city of York was also a county, the county and the city having, by statute, the same limits); R v Isle of Ely Inhabitants (1850) 15 QB 827 (by statute, the Isle of Ely was a division of a county). In R v Whittles (1849) 13 QB 248 at 253, Lord Denman CJ said that a court of quarter sessions for a county could take notice of the petty sessional divisions of the county. The jurisdiction of the former courts of quarter sessions is now exercised by the Crown Court: see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 601.

For lists and descriptions of English metropolitan counties and districts and non-metropolitan counties and counties in Wales see the Local Government Act 1972 Schs 1, 4 (Sch 4 substituted by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 1(2), Sch 1 para 1); and see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq.

5 Deybel's Case (1821) 4 B & Ald 243. The court refused to take notice that Ivelchester was in the county of Somerset (R v Burrige (1735) 3 P Wms 439); that the whole of the Tower of London was in the City of London (Brune v Thompson (1842) 2 QB 789); that Bedford Row was in the county of Middlesex (Thorne v Jackson (1846) 3 CB 661); that the board room of the Holborn Union Workhouse was in Middlesex (R v St George's, Bloomsbury, Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 520); that Holborn might not be in Surrey (Humphreys v Budd (1841) 9 Dowl 1000); or that Park Street, Grosvenor Square, was within 20 miles of Russell Square (Kirby v Hickson (1850) 1 LM & P 364); cf Kearney v King (1819) 2 B & Ald 301, where the court declined to take judicial notice that a bill drawn in Dublin meant Dublin in Ireland.

6 R v Holborn Union Guardians (1856) 6 E & B 715. Thus the court will take judicial notice of the descriptions of the counties listed in the Local Government Act 1972 Schs 1, 4.

7 R v Simpson (1724) 2 Ld Raym 1379.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/788. Notorious facts.

788. Notorious facts.

The court takes judicial notice of matters with which persons of ordinary intelligence are acquainted¹, whether in human affairs², including the way in which business is carried on³, or human nature⁴, or in relation to natural phenomena⁵.

In order to equip himself to take judicial notice of a fact, the judge may consult appropriate sources⁶, or he may hear evidence⁷. He may also act upon his general knowledge of local affairs⁸, but it has generally been held that he may not import into a case his own private knowledge of particular facts⁹, even if those facts have been proved in previous proceedings¹⁰. There is, however, authority to the effect that a judge hearing proceedings in a county court against a local housing authority for compensation for breach of a repairing covenant and for a mandatory order to carry out remedial work is entitled to take judicial notice of how the authority has conducted itself in relation to undertakings given in similar cases, since that conduct, even if not notorious or clearly established, is clearly susceptible of demonstration by reference to the court records of those occasions where the authority gave undertakings and was brought back to court at the behest of an aggrieved claimant¹¹.

1 Byrne v Londonderry Tramway Co [1902] 2 IR 457; see also Hoare v Silverlock (1848) 12 QB 624; Lumley v Gye (1853) 2 E & B 216; R v Aspinall (1876) 2 QBD 48, CA; Morgan v London General Omnibus Co (1884) 13 QBD 832, CA; Loughney v Caledonian Rly Co 1902 39 Sc LR 289.

2 See eg Peters v Fleming (1840) 6 M & W 42 (not unreasonable that an undergraduate should require a watch); Re Oxford Poor Rate (1857) 8 E & B 184 (University of Oxford created for advancement of education and learning); Tynte v Hodge, Tynte v Beavan (1864) 2 Hem & M 287 (dearness of money in 1847); Bryant v Foot (1868) LR 3 QB 497, Ex Ch (great difference in the value of money in the years 1189 and 1868); Penny v Hanson (1887) 18 QBD 478, DC (impossibility of predicting fortunes by reference to the aspect of the stars); Dennis v AJ White & Co [1916] 2 KB 1, CA (streets of London crowded and dangerous); Preston-Jones v Preston-Jones [1951] AC 391, [1951] 1 All ER 124, HL (normal period of human gestation); Williamson v Freer (1874) LR 9 CP 393 (practice of the office); Robinson v Jones (1879) 4 LR Ir 391 (postcard an unenclosed document); Chapman v Kirke [1948] 2 KB 450, [1948] 2 All ER 556, DC (ordinary meaning of English words); Davey v Harrow Corp [1958] 1 QB 60, [1957] 2 All ER 305, CA (practice of the compilers of ordnance survey maps); Burns v Edman [1970] 2 QB 541, [1970] 1 All ER 886 (criminals do not live happy lives); R v Yap Chuan Ching (1976) 63 Cr App Rep 7, CA (reconstructed trials are a popular form of television entertainment). In Northern Ireland, the court has taken judicial notice of the fact that petrol bomb attacks on houses, while always containing an element of potential danger to the occupants, only rarely cause serious injury, the majority appearing to cause only minor fires: see R v Gilmour [2000] NI 367, NI CA.

3 Notice will be taken of the normal hours of banking (Parker v Gordon (1806) 7 East 385; Elford v Teed (1813) 1 M & S 28; Wilkins v Jadis (1831) 2 B & Ad 188); of the nature and incidents of the employment of a stockbroker (Johnson v Kearley [1908] 2 KB 514, CA); of the practice of conveyancers (Re Rosher, Rosher v Rosher (1884) 26 ChD 801); of the peculiar risks inherent in the nature of particular trades (Dennis v AJ White & Co [1917] AC 479, HL); of the way in which the market in second-hand cars is carried on (Poole v Smith's Car Sales (Balham) Ltd [1962] 2 All ER 482, [1962] 1 WLR 744, CA); and that a costermonger's barrow moves (Kahn v Newberry [1959] 2 QB 1, [1959] 2 All ER 202, DC).

4 The mischievous nature of children, making them vulnerable to danger, has often formed the subject of judicial notice: see eg Lynch v Nurdin (1841) 1 QB 29; Williams v Eady (1893) 10 TLR 41, CA; Sullivan v Creed [1904] 2 IR 317, CA; Cooke v Midland Great Western Rly Co of Ireland [1909] AC 229, HL; Clayton v Hardwick Colliery Co Ltd (1915) 85 LJB 292, HL; Glasgow Corp v Taylor [1922] 1 AC 44, HL, per Lord Atkinson; Yachuk v Oliver Blais Co Ltd [1949] AC 386, [1949] 2 All ER 150, PC; Williams v Cardiff Corp [1950] 1 KB 514, [1950] 1 All ER 250, CA; Jones v Lawrence [1969] 3 All ER 267; British Railways Board v Herrington [1972] AC 877, [1972] 1 All ER 749, HL; cf the Occupiers' Liability Act 1957 s 2(3)(a); and see NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARAS 32, 40.

5 R v Woodward (1831) 1 Mood CC 323 (beans are a species of pulse); Fay v Prentice (1845) 1 CB 828 (rainfalls); Clinton v Lyons & Co Ltd [1912] 3 KB 198 (hostility between cat and dog); Nye v Niblett [1918] 1 KB 23, DC (cats are domestic animals); R v Nelson [1922] 2 WWR 381 (whisky is intoxicating); McQuaker v Goddard [1940] 1 KB 687, [1940] 1 All ER 471, CA (the camel is a domestic and not a wild animal in England).

6 See Commonwealth Shipping Representative v P & O Branch Service [1923] AC 191, HL; McQuaker v Goddard [1940] 1 KB 687, [1940] 1 All ER 471, CA. Historical works, for example, may be referred to: Read v Bishop of Lincoln [1892] AC 644, PC. As to evidence to explain the meaning of words see Marquis Camden v IRC [1914] 1 KB 641, CA; on appeal sub nom IRC v Marquess Camden [1915] AC 241, HL; Chapman v Kirke [1948] 2 KB 450, [1948] 2 All ER 556, DC (court taken to know the meaning of any ordinary expression in the English language); and see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 198-205; STATUTES. In some cases the court may, and perhaps should, consult the Secretary of State: see PARAS 785-786.

7 There is a distinction between the use of evidence for the purpose of proving a fact, and its use for the purpose of assisting a judge in forming a clear view of a fact of which he is entitled to take judicial notice: see McQuaker v Goddard [1940] 1 KB 687, [1940] 1 All ER 471, CA. The court may require the appropriate works of reference to be produced to it: see Van Omeron v Dowick (1809) 2 Camp 42. As to the admissibility of books and works of reference in evidence generally see PARAS 941-944.

8 Roberts and Ruthven Ltd v Hall (1912) 5 BWCC 331, CA; Peart v Bolckow, Vaughan & Co [1925] 1 KB 399, CA; Keane v Mount Vernon Colliery Co [1933] AC 309, HL; Youngmin v Heath [1974] 1 All ER 461, [1974] 1 WLR 135, CA. As to justices see Ingram v Percival [1969] 1 QB 548, [1968] 3 All ER 657, DC (justices may make use of their knowledge of local conditions); Borthwick v Vickers [1973] RTR 390, DC (justices entitled to supplement evidence by their knowledge of local geography to infer that a certain journey involved travelling on public roads).

9 R v Sutton (1816) 4 M & S 532; Van Breda v Silberbauer (1869) LR 3 PC 84; Hurpurshad v Sheo Dyal (1876) LR 3 Ind App 259, PC; R (Giant's Causeway etc Tramway Co) v Antrim County Justices [1895] 2 IR 603; Palmer v Crone [1927] 1 KB 804; Reynolds v Llanelly Associated Tinplate Co Ltd [1948] 1 All ER 140, CA.

It is not improper, however, for a justice with specialised knowledge of the circumstances forming the background of a particular case to draw on that knowledge for the purpose of interpreting the evidence which he has heard: Wetherall v Harrison [1976] QB 773, [1976] 1 All ER 241, DC. See further MAGISTRATES.

10 Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd [1933] AC 289, HL; Roper v Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter) Ltd [1951] 2 TLR 284, DC. Justices in a matrimonial case are not entitled to take into consideration their previous experience of dealing with the parties without having referred in open court to the previous proceedings and giving the parties an opportunity to deal with those previous proceedings and any inference to be drawn from them: Thomas v Thomas [1961] 1 All ER 19, [1961] 1 WLR 1, DC. As to judges and jurors giving evidence see PARAS 968, 971.

11 Mullen v Hackney London Borough Council [1997] 2 All ER 906, [1997] 1 WLR 1103, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/789. Official seals.

789. Official seals.

The courts in England and Wales will take judicial notice of the following seals: the Great Seals of the United Kingdom and of England, Ireland and Scotland¹; the privy seal²; the wafer seals (Great and privy)³; the seals of the duchies of Cornwall⁴ and Lancaster⁵; the seal of the Corporation of the City of London⁶; the seals of the old superior courts of justice⁷, the old Admiralty court⁸, the prerogative court of Canterbury⁹, and any other court authorised by statute to use a seal¹⁰. However, every document purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal or stamp of the Supreme Court or of any office of the Supreme Court is now to be received in evidence in the United Kingdom without further proof¹¹. Every county court is a court of record and has a seal¹² and a document purporting to bear the court's seal is likewise admissible in evidence without further proof¹³.

Judicial notice must be taken of the seal of an implementation body established by the 1999 Dublin agreement on north/south co-operation between the United Kingdom Government and the Irish Government¹⁴; and of the seals of each of the International Tribunals relating to Rwanda¹⁵ and the former Yugoslavia¹⁶.

Many public offices and bodies are authorised by statute to use distinctive seals, which are directed either to be noticed judicially, or to be received in evidence without proof of authenticity, for example the seals of the Patent¹⁷ and Record¹⁸ Offices, of various Secretaries of State¹⁹ and of the Forestry Commissioners²⁰.

There are particular provisions requiring judicial notice to be taken in connection with documents or affidavits made or used under the companies winding-up provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986²¹, of seals on affidavits sworn abroad²², and of seals on certain official and public documents²³.

However, courts will not generally take judicial notice of the seals of corporations²⁴, other than that of the City of London²⁵.

1 Viscount Melville's Case (1806) 29 State Tr 549. As to such seals see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 909-911.

2 Lane's Case (1586) 2 Co Rep 16b.

3 Crown Office Act 1877 ss 4, 5(3) proviso (a): see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 914.

4 As to the seal of the Duchy of Cornwall see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 327.

5 As to the seals of the Duchy of Lancaster see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 303. Any document purporting to be sealed with the official seal of the Duchy solicitor is receivable in evidence of the particulars stated in that document: Duchy of Lancaster Act 1920 s 3(2).

6 Doe d Woodmass v Mason (1793) 1 Esp 52.

7 Tooker v Duke of Beaufort (1757) Say 297.

8 Green v Waller (1703) 2 Ld Raym 891.

9 Kempton d Boyfield v Cross (1735) Lee temp Hard 108.

10 Doe d Duncan v Edwards (1839) 9 Ad & El 554. The seal of the Aircraft and Shipbuilding Industries Arbitration Tribunal must be judicially noticed (Aircraft and Shipbuilding Industries Act 1977 s 42(2)); as must that of the Employment Appeal Tribunal (Employment Tribunals Act 1996 s 20(3)).

11 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 132. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

12 County Courts Act 1984 s 1(2).

13 See CPR 2.6(3) (which also applies in relation to the High Court and the Civil Division of the Court of Appeal); and PARA 81. As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

14 See the North/South Co-operation (Implementation Bodies) (Northern Ireland) Order 1999, SI 1999/859, Sch 2 para 4(1). A document purporting to be duly executed under the seal of an implementation body must, unless the contrary is shown, be received in evidence and be deemed to be such a document without further proof: para 4(2).

15 See the United Nations (International Tribunal) (Rwanda) Order 1996, SI 1996/1296, art 27(3).

16 See the United Nations (International Tribunal) (Former Yugoslavia) Order 1996, SI 1996/716, art 27(3). Similar provision is made with regard to both tribunals in the orders enabling Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man to co-operate with those tribunals: see the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Jersey) Order 1997, SI 1997/283, art 25(3); the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Isle of Man) Order 1997, SI 1997/282, art 24(3); and the United Nations (International Tribunals) (Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda) (Guernsey) Order 1997, SI 1997/281, art 25(3).

17 Patents and Designs Act 1907 s 64: see PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 579.

18 Public Records Act 1958 s 9(2).

19 See eg the Secretaries of State for Education and Skills and for Work and Pensions Order 2002, SI 2002/1397, art 3(2)(b) (corporate seal of Secretary of State for Education and Skills must be judicially noticed). As to the use of seals by Secretaries of State see generally CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 357.

20 See the Forestry Act 1967 s 2, Sch 1 para 4; and FORESTRY vol 52 (2009) PARA 34. Other examples are the seals of (1) the Official Custodian for Charities (see the Charities Act 1993 s 2(1)); (2) the Social Security, Child Support and Pensions Joint Authority for the purposes of the legislation to which the Northern Ireland Act 1998 s 87 applies (see s 88(4)(b)).

21 In such proceedings all courts, judges and persons judicially acting, and all officers, judicial or ministerial, of any court, or employed in enforcing the process of any court must take judicial notice of the official seal or stamp of the several offices of the High Court in England and Wales or Northern Ireland, or of the Court of Session, appended to or impressed on any document made, issued or signed under the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Companies Act 1985, or any official copy of such a document: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 196(b). Further, all courts, judges, justices, commissioners and persons acting judicially must take judicial notice of the seal or stamp or signature (as the case may be) of any court, judge, person, consul or vice-consul lawfully authorised to take and receive affidavits attached, appended or subscribed to any affidavit sworn for the purposes of those provisions whether in the United Kingdom or overseas, or to any other document to be used for those purposes: see s 200; and COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 1079. As to affidavits generally see PARA 989 et seq.

22 See PARA 1027.

23 Evidence Act 1845 s 1.

24 Doe d Bank of England v Chambers (1836) 4 Ad & El 410. As to proof of a corporation's seal see PARA 865.

25 See the text to note 6.

UPDATE

789 Official seals

NOTE 11--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

NOTE 21--Insolvency Act 1986 s 196(b) amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(vii) Judicial Notice/790. Official signatures and appointments.

790. Official signatures and appointments.

Courts will take judicial notice of the following signatures: the royal sign manual, and the signatures of the principal Secretaries of State¹; those of the judges of the superior courts to any judicial or official document² and of persons before whom depositions are taken³. However, the normal way of authenticating a court document, whether in the High Court and Civil Division of the Court of Appeal or in a county court, is by sealing it, and certain documents are required to be sealed⁴.

Notice will also be taken of the signatures of certain persons in respect of the winding up of companies⁵, of the signatures of persons empowered to administer oaths or do notarial acts abroad⁶, and of signatures on various public and official documents⁷. In addition, many particular documents are admissible in evidence without proof of the authenticity of the signatures they bear⁸. For example, for the purposes of the Extradition Act 2003, foreign documents may be authenticated by the oath or affirmation of a witness, but are deemed in any case to be duly authenticated if they purport to be signed by a judge, magistrate or officer of the territory where they were issued or if they purport to be certified, whether by seal or otherwise, by the ministry or department of the territory responsible for justice or for foreign affairs, and duly authenticated documents may be received in evidence without further proof⁹.

Judicial notice must be taken of the appointment¹⁰ of official receivers and deputy official receivers¹¹.

1 Mighell v Sultan of Johore [1894] 1 QB 149, CA.

2 Evidence Act 1845 s 2 (amended by the Statute Law Revision Act 1891); and see Blades v Lawrence (1874) LR 9 QB 374.

3 As to depositions see PARA 992 et seq.

4 See PARA 81.

5 In all proceedings under the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt IV (ss 73-219), all courts, judges and persons judicially acting, and all officers, judicial or ministerial, of any court, or employed in enforcing the process of any court must take judicial notice of the signature of any officer of the High Court or of a county court in England and Wales, or of the Court of Session or a sheriff court in Scotland, or of the High Court in Northern Ireland: s 196(a).

6 See PARA 1027. The signature of a foreign notary to a protest abroad of a foreign bill has been judicially noticed: Chesmer v Noyes (1815) 4 Camp 129.

7 Evidence Act 1845 s 1; Evidence Act 1851 s 14.

8 See eg PARA 887 (certified copies of public documents).

9 See the Extradition Act 2003 s 202 (amended by the Police and Justice Act 2006 s 42, Sch 13 Pt 1 para 26); and EXTRADITION.

10 Ie under the Insolvency Act 1986 ss 399-401: see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 31 et seq.

11 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 10.1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/A. CONTROL OF EVIDENCE AT HEARINGS AND TRIAL/791. Court's general power to control evidence.

(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence

A. CONTROL OF EVIDENCE AT HEARINGS AND TRIAL

791. Court's general power to control evidence.

In proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR') apply¹, the court² may control the evidence by giving directions as to (1) the issues on which it requires evidence³; (2) the nature of the evidence which it requires to decide those issues⁴; and (3) the way in which the evidence is to be placed before the court⁵. The court may use this power to exclude evidence that would otherwise be admissible⁶.

Except for the above provisions relating to the control of evidence, neither the general rules relating to evidence in the CPR⁷ nor the strict rules of evidence apply to cases which have been allocated to the small claims track⁸.

The court may limit cross-examination⁹.

Expert¹⁰ evidence must be restricted to that which is reasonably required to resolve the proceedings¹¹ and no party may call an expert or put in evidence an expert's report without the court's permission¹².

In exercising these powers the court must seek to give effect to the overriding objective of enabling the court to deal with cases justly¹³. Dealing with a case justly includes, so far as is practicable, ensuring that the parties are on an equal footing¹⁴ in accordance with the principle of 'equality of arms' which forms part of the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, now given greater effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998¹⁵.

The court must actively manage cases in order to further the overriding objective¹⁶. Active case management includes identifying the issues at an early stage¹⁷ and deciding the order in which they are to be resolved¹⁸.

In family proceedings¹⁹, nothing in the rules relating to evidence therein²⁰ affects the power of the judge at the trial to refuse to admit any evidence if in the interest of justice he thinks fit to do so²¹.

1 As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 32.1(1)(a). As to identifying the issues see the text and notes 19-20.

4 CPR 32.1(1)(b).

5 CPR 32.1(1)(c). As to the principles governing the use of video evidence for the purposes of cross-examination in personal injury cases see Rall v Hume[2001] EWCA Civ 146, [2001] 3 All ER 248, [2001] CPLR 239. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4. In proceedings for judicial review, the court may rely on its general and unfettered powers under CPR 32.1 to hear oral evidence and order the cross-examination of witnesses on their witness statements: see CPR 54.16(1), which was amended with effect from 2 December 2002 to confirm this position in the light of R (on the application of PG) v Ealing London Borough Council[2002] EWHC 250 (Admin), [2002] All ER (D) 61 (Mar). As to the exercise of the discretion under CPR

32.1 see eg GKR Karate (UK) Ltd v Yorkshire Newspapers Ltd [2000] 2 All ER 931, [2000] 1 WLR 2571, CA. A court should afford anonymity to a professional social worker witness in care proceedings only in exceptional cases: Re W (Care Proceedings: Witness Anonymity) [2002] EWCA Civ 1626, [2003] 1 FLR 329.

6 CPR 32.1(2). See Silversafe Ltd (in liquidation) v Hood [2006] EWHC 1849 (Ch), [2007] STC 871. As to admissibility generally see PARA 758 et seq; and as to the admissibility of specific types of evidence see PARA 806 et seq.

7 le CPR Pts 32, 33: see PARA 750 et seq.

8 See CPR 27.2(1)(c), (d); CPR 27.8(3), (4); and PARAS 275, 279. As to allocation to track see CPR 26.5; and PARA 266; as to claims normally allocated to the small claims track see PARA 267; and as to case management of such cases see CPR Pt 27; and PARA 274 et seq.

9 CPR 32.1(3). As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4. As to witness evidence see PARA 966 et seq.

10 A reference to an 'expert' in CPR Pt 35 (see PARA 838 et seq) is a reference to an expert who has been instructed to give or prepare evidence for the purpose of court proceedings: CPR 35.2.

11 CPR 35.1. This rule applies to claims allocated to the small claims track (see PARA 756 note 18), as do CPR 35.3 (experts; overriding duty to the court: see PARA 848); CPR 35.7 (court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by a single joint expert: see PARA 840); and CPR 35.8 (instructions to a single joint expert: see PARA 847); but the remainder of CPR Pt 35 (see PARA 838 et seq) does not apply to small claims: see CPR 27.2(e); and PARA 275.

12 See CPR 35.4(1); and PARA 838.

13 CPR 1.1(1), 1.2. As to the overriding objective see PARA 33.

14 CPR 1.1(2)(a).

15 As to the right to a fair trial see the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6; and PARAS 5, 792; and see further CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 135 et seq.

16 See CPR 1.4(1); and PARA 246.

17 CPR 1.4(2)(b). The court must also decide promptly which issues need full investigation and trial and accordingly dispose summarily of the others: see CPR 1.4(2)(c); and PARA 246. In a jury trial it is for the judge to identify the issues: see PARA 796. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

18 CPR 1.4(2)(d). As to the order in which evidence is usually presented see PARA 773.

19 The CPR do not generally apply to family proceedings: see PARA 32.

20 le nothing in the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 10.14 (evidence of marriage outside England and Wales: see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 835), r 2.28 (evidence at trial of cause: see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 837) and r 2.29 (evidence by deposition: see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 838): r 2.28(2).

21 Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.28(2).

UPDATE

791 Court's general power to control evidence

NOTE 10--CPR 35.2 substituted: SI 2009/2092.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/A. CONTROL OF EVIDENCE AT HEARINGS AND TRIAL/792. Court's powers are to be exercised in accordance with Convention rights.

792. Court's powers are to be exercised in accordance with Convention rights.

Under the Human Rights Act 1998, it is unlawful for a court or tribunal to act in a way which is incompatible with a Convention right¹. The following Convention rights are particularly relevant in the context of the law of civil evidence:

- 8 (1) in the determination² of his civil rights and obligations³ or of any criminal charge against him, everyone is entitled to a fair⁴ and public hearing⁵ within a reasonable time by an independent and impartial tribunal established by law⁶;
- 9 (2) everyone charged with a criminal offence⁷ must be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law⁸ and has certain minimum rights including the right to examine or have examined witnesses against him and to obtain the attendance and examination of witnesses on his behalf under the same conditions as witnesses against him⁹ and the right to the free assistance of an interpreter if he cannot understand or speak the language used in court¹⁰;
- 10 (3) everyone has the right to freedom of expression¹¹ but this right may be subject to such formalities, conditions, restrictions or penalties as are prescribed by law and are necessary in a democratic society in the interests of national security, public safety or the economic well-being of the country, for the prevention of disorder or crime, for the protection of health or morals or for preventing the disclosure of information received in confidence¹².

1 See the Human Rights Act 1998 s 6(1), (3)(a); and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. As to Convention rights see s 1(3), Sch 1. See also PARA 1235; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 316.

2 If there is no adjudication, the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6(1) is not engaged: see eg R v Hertfordshire County Council, ex p Green Environmental Industries Ltd [2000] 2 AC 412, [2000] 1 All ER 773, HL.

3 For this purpose, 'civil rights and obligations' does not include matters of public law, eg tax: Application 44759/98 Ferrazzini v Italy [2001] STC 1314, 34 EHRR 1068, ECtHR.

4 In addition to the rights that are expressly mentioned in the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)), it has been held that certain other rights are implicit in the concept of a fair trial; these are the right of access to court, the right to an adversarial hearing, the right to equality of arms between the parties, the right to fair presentation of the evidence, the right to cross-examine and the right to a reasoned judgment: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 135 et seq.

The right to a fair trial is not confined to the purely judicial part of the proceedings; thus in family proceedings, where a jointly instructed or sole expert's report is likely to have a preponderant influence on the court's assessment of the facts, there may be a breach of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6 if a litigant is denied the opportunity, before that report is produced, to examine and comment on the documents being considered by the expert and cross-examine witnesses interviewed by the expert and on whose evidence the report is based: Re C (care proceedings: disclosure of local authority's decision-making process) [2002] EWHC 1379 (Fam), [2002] 2 FCR 673. As to experts' reports see PARA 852 et seq.

5 As to public hearings and the circumstances in which the press and public may be excluded see generally COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 312-313.

6 Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 6(1), given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6(1). For a discussion of the interaction between the rights under the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6 and art 8 (right to respect for private and family life) see Re C (care proceedings: disclosure of local authority's decision-making process) [2002] EWHC 1379 (Fam), [2002] 2 FCR 673.

7 It is now settled law that both imprisonment for contempt of court and imprisonment under the Debtors Act 1869 fall under head (2) in the text so that the standard of proof required is proof beyond reasonable doubt: see PARA 775.

8 Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 6(2), now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6(2).

9 Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 6(3)(d), now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6(3)(d).

10 Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 6(3)(e), now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 6(3)(e). As to the use of interpreters in Welsh courts see PARA 1031.

11 Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 10(1), now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 10(1). As to the confidentiality of journalists' sources see the Contempt of Court Act 1981 s 10; and PARA 576.

12 Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 10(2), now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 10(2). As to the exclusion of evidence on grounds of public policy see PARA 574 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/A. CONTROL OF EVIDENCE AT HEARINGS AND TRIAL/793. Orders for the inspection or preservation etc of property.

793. Orders for the inspection or preservation etc of property.

On the application of any person in accordance with rules of court¹, the High Court or a county court may make an order, on the application of any party, for the inspection, photographing, preservation, custody and detention of any property² which appears to the court to be property which may become the subject matter of subsequent proceedings in that court, or as to which any question may arise in any such proceedings, and for the taking of any samples of, and the carrying on of any experiment on or with, any such property³.

The court also has power to order the inspection, photographing, preservation, custody and detention of any property, and the taking of any samples of, and the carrying on of any experiment on or with, any property, which is not the property of, or in the possession of, any party to the proceedings but which is the subject matter of the proceedings or as to which any question arises in the proceedings⁴.

The procedure on such applications is discussed elsewhere in this title⁵. The court may not make such an order if it considers that compliance with the order, if made, would be likely to be injurious to the public interest⁶.

1 As to the procedure on such applications see CPR 25.5; and PARA 323.

2 As to the meaning of 'property' for these purposes see PARA 114 note 2.

3 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 33(1); the County Courts Act 1984 s 52(1); and PARA 114. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

4 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 34(3); the County Courts Act 1984 s 53(3); and PARA 317.

5 See PARAS 114, 317, 323.

6 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 35(1); County Courts Act 1984 s 54(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/A. CONTROL OF EVIDENCE AT HEARINGS AND TRIAL/794. Orders for a person to submit to inspection out of court.

794. Orders for a person to submit to inspection out of court.

In a few cases there is statutory power to order a person to submit to inspection out of court; for example in any civil proceedings in which the parentage of any person falls to be determined, the court may give a direction for the use of scientific tests to ascertain whether such tests show that a party to the proceedings is or is not the father or mother of that person, and for the taking, within a period specified in the direction, of bodily samples from all or any of the following: (1) that person; (2) any party who is alleged to be the father or mother of that person; and (3) any other party to the proceedings¹. The procedure for taking such samples and the consents required are discussed elsewhere in this work². Where a court gives such a direction and any person fails to take any step required of him for the purpose of giving effect to the direction, the court may draw such inferences, if any, from that fact as appear proper in the circumstances³.

A court has the power in an appropriate case to stay proceedings if the claimant refuses to co-operate in a medical examination which the judge reasonably requires⁴.

1 See the Family Law Reform Act 1969 s 20(1) (substituted by the Family Law Reform Act 1987 s 23(1)); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 113.

2 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 113 et seq.

3 See the Family Law Reform Act 1969 s 23(1); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 116.

As to orders for inspection etc in other circumstances see eg Agnew v Jobson (1877) 47 LJMC 67 (medical examination of female charged with concealment of birth illegal, unless by consent); Re Betts and Block, ex p Board of Trade (1887) 19 QBD 39, CA; affd sub nom Board of Trade v Block (1888) 13 App Cas 570, HL (bankrupt not compellable to submit to medical examination for the purpose of having an insurance on his life effected); Mitchell v Stephens (1894) 29 LJo 389 (refusal by county court to order inspection of patient's mouth, in action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) by dentist for professional charges). As to medical inspection in nullity suits see eg S v B (falsely called S) (1905) 21 TLR 219 (where a wife refused to submit herself for medical examination in a nullity suit, the court drew an inference of incapacity); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 338. As to failure to undergo a breath test or to provide a specimen of blood or urine in a road traffic case see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 985, 988. As to the taking of bodily samples from accused persons generally see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1027-1030.

4 See James v Baily Gibson & Co (a firm) [2002] EWCA Civ 1690, [2002] All ER (D) 454 (Oct), where, however, it was held that the judge's order staying proceedings when the claimant refused to attend for a psychiatric examination was disproportionate because the claimant could establish a viable lost chance and her case could proceed on the issues not affected by the psychiatric evidence.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/795. Functions of judge and jury; in general.

B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY

795. Functions of judge and jury; in general.

Although almost all civil proceedings are now tried by judge alone¹, the judge thus deciding both questions of law and of fact, the distinction between the functions of judge and jury is important². In a jury trial, once the judge has decided that there is sufficient evidence to go to the jury, all matters of fact are for the jury to decide, while all matters of law are for the judge³.

It is the judge's duty to give the jury a proper and complete direction on the law applicable⁴ and on the incidence of the burden of proof, and it is for the jury to accept this direction. The judge should sum up the evidence to the jury and may properly comment on the relative values of classes of testimony, and of the evidence given⁵. The credibility of testimony is a matter for the jury⁶, as may be general damages⁷.

Both the High Court and a judge in the county court have statutory power to appoint expert assessors to assist the court in hearing and disposing of a claim or other matter⁸.

1 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132. In trials before a judge alone, the judge acts also as the tribunal of fact; but the term 'jury' is used in this and the following paragraphs for convenience. As to the allocation of proceedings to different levels of the judiciary, including masters, registrars and district judges, see PARAS 50, 62.

2 A judge may sit with assessors: see the text and note 8.

3 In cases of malicious prosecution it is for the judge to decide whether the defendant had reasonable and probable cause for instituting proceedings: Herniman v Smith[1938] AC 305, [1938] 1 All ER 1, HL; see further TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARA 471.

4 Prudential Assurance Co v Edmonds(1877) 2 App Cas 487, HL. As to the judge's direction to the jury in criminal trials see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1319 et seq.

5 Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL; Heslop v Chapman (1853) 23 LJQB 49, Ex Ch; A-G v Good (1825) M'Cle & Yo 286; R v Bliss Hill(1918) 82 JP 194, CCA; R v Feigenbaum[1919] 1 KB 431, CCA; Stamps Minister v Townend[1909] AC 633, PC.

6 See eg Dublin, Wicklow and Wexford Rly Co v Slattery(1878) 3 App Cas 1155, HL; Watt v Watt (1909) 10 WLR 699.

7 Mechanical and General Inventions Co Ltd and Lehwess v Austin and Austin Motor Co Ltd[1935] AC 346, HL. As to the assessment of damages see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 826 et seq.

8 As to the appointment of assessors and trial by a judge with assessors to assist him see PARA 863; and PARA 1133.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/796. Ascertainment of the issues.

796. Ascertainment of the issues.

It is the judge's duty to ascertain the issues and so to determine what evidence is or is not relevant¹. The issues will generally be ascertained from the statements of case², since only the issues raised by the statements of case are decided at the trial³. The normal rules with regard to statements of case do not, however, apply to some trials⁴. In such cases the issues may be established by the claim form⁵ or by some other means⁶.

In proceedings under the Children Act 1989, the judge has a quasi-inquisitorial role⁷. Such proceedings are discussed elsewhere in this work⁸.

1 R v Gebreel (1974) Times, 8 June, CA. As to the court's general power to control evidence and the duty to identify the issues at an early stage see CPR 32.1, CPR 1.4(2)(b) respectively; and PARA 791. As to whether the viewing of prejudicial irrelevant information by the judge compels him to recuse himself see Berg v IML London [2002] 4 All ER 87, [2002] All ER (D) 46 (Aug), cited in PARA 792 note 4.

2 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1; and PARA 584 et seq.

3 It has been held that evidence at variance with the particulars of claim should be excluded: Roberts v Dorman Long & Co Ltd [1953] 2 All ER 428, [1953] 1 WLR 942, CA. However, amendment of the statement of case is permitted at any time before service and after service with the court's permission: see PARA 607 et seq. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2. As to the court's general discretion to exclude evidence see PARA 791.

4 See PARA 584.

5 In where the procedure under CPR Pt 8 is used: see CPR 8.2(b); and PARA 128.

6 Eg by affidavits of property and income in respect of applications for financial provision orders (see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 941); by the application notice or the evidence contained or referred to in it where an application is made for ruling on meaning in a defamation case (see Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 4.2; and LIBEL AND SLANDER).

7 See Re H (a child: residence) [2002] 3 FCR 277, CA.

8 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/797. Admissibility a question of law.

797. Admissibility a question of law.

Questions relating to the admissibility of evidence are questions of law and must be determined by the judge¹. If such questions depend upon the determination of some preliminary question of fact, the judge may decide that question by himself after hearing any necessary evidence upon it². This is so even though the decision of the preliminary question involves the determination by the judge of the same fact which the jury has ultimately to decide³, but he may ask the jury to determine the fact⁴.

Upon this principle it is for the judge to decide whether deeds or documents more than 20 years old are produced from proper custody⁵, whether a witness can claim privilege⁶, whether documents required to be stamped are stamped sufficiently in accordance with their true character⁷, and whether a witness sufficiently understands the nature of an oath⁸. So also, where it is sought, in the absence of an original document, to adduce secondary evidence of its contents, the judge decides whether reasonable exertion or search has been made to procure the original⁹, whether the original is in the possession of the party to whom notice has been given to produce it¹⁰, whether a witness required to produce documents has a reasonable excuse for withholding them from production¹¹, and any questions that may be raised as to the existence¹² or identity¹³ of the document alleged to be the original.

In cases of disputed ownership of land, where evidence is tendered of acts of ownership done in places not in dispute, it is for the judge to decide whether there is such a unity of character in the land in dispute and the places where the acts of ownership were done as to render the evidence admissible¹⁴.

1 Lewis v Marshall (1844) 7 Man & G 729.

2 Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 11 Exch 360; Welstead v Levy (1831) 1 Mood & R 138; Lewis v Marshall (1844) 7 Man & G 729; Duke of Beaufort v Crawshay (1866) LR 1 CP 699; Minter v Priest [1930] AC 558, HL. In Froude v Hobbs (1859) 1 F & F 612 the preliminary question was, by consent, decided by the jury. Even when the objection is to evidence prima facie admissible, the judge should, before admitting it, allow evidence to be interposed to show its inadmissibility: Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 11 Exch 360, overruling Jones v Fort (1828) Mood & M 196; Bartlett v Smith (1843) 11 M & W 483; State v Treanor [1924] 2 IR 193; A-G v O'Leary [1926] IR 445. A party in contempt of court, who is permitted by a judge to call evidence, should call that evidence himself if he is acting in person or by an advocate instructed on his behalf: Grupo Torras SA v Sheikh Fahad Mohammed Al Sabah (1999) Times, 30 March, Independent, 25 February, CA.

3 Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314; see contra Stowe v Querner (1870) LR 5 Exch 155. In Hitchins v Eardley (1871) LR 2 P & D 248, as a practical means of meeting the difficulty, Lord Penzance decided, when a strong prima facie case had been made out, to admit the evidence the admissibility of which was disputed, and to leave the whole case to the jury.

4 Stowe v Querner (1870) LR 5 Exch 155.

5 Rees v Walters (1838) 3 M & W 527; Doe d Earl of Shrewsbury v Keeling (1848) 11 QB 884; Doe d Jacobs v Phillips (1845) 8 QB 158; and see PARA 871.

6 Cleave v Jones (1852) 7 Exch 421; Stace v Griffith (1869) LR 2 PC 420.

7 Bartlett v Smith (1843) 11 M & W 483; Bennison v Jewison (1848) 12 Jur 485; Dunsford v Curlew (1859) 1 F & F 702; and see PARAS 959-960.

8 R v Williams (1835) 7 C & P 320 (child); R v Whitehead (1866) LR 1 CCR 33 (deaf mute); R v Hill (1851) 2 Den 254 (person of unsound mind). As to the competence of a person to give evidence in criminal proceedings see the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 53; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1401. Any proceedings held for the determination of the question must take place in the absence of the jury (if there is one): s 54(4). Expert evidence may be received on the question: s 54(5). Any questioning of the witness (where the court considers that necessary) must be conducted by the court in the presence of the parties: s 54(6). As to the competence of witnesses in civil proceedings see PARA 966 et seq.

9 Quilter v Jorss (1863) 14 CBNS 747.

10 Harvey v Mitchell (1841) 2 Mood & R 366.

11 Amey v Long (1808) 9 East 473; Eccles & Co v Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co [1912] 1 KB 135, CA; and see PARA 1011.

12 Froude v Hobbs (1859) 1 F & F 612; Cox v Couveless (1860) 2 F & F 139.

13 Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 11 Exch 360.

14 Doe d Barrett v Kemp (1831) 7 Bing 332. As to such evidence see PARA 1082; and BOUNDARIES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/798. Prima facie case to answer.

798. Prima facie case to answer.

Before the evidence is left to the jury, the judge has to decide whether there is sufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case¹. He must consider whether there is any evidence upon which a jury can properly proceed to find a verdict for the party producing it, upon whom the onus of proof rests². If there is no evidence either the case will be withdrawn or the jury will be directed to find in favour of the other party³. Similarly it is for the judge to determine whether it is open to the jury to draw an inference from facts proved, leaving it to the jury to say whether or not it does⁴. If there is a conflict of evidence, it is the jury's province to decide which evidence it prefers to accept⁵.

This rule, in a civil case tried before a judge alone, has the effect of enabling a party at the conclusion of his opponent's case to submit that there is no case to answer. In such a situation the judge will not normally rule upon the submission unless the party making it elects to call no evidence⁶. There is a discretion, even where a civil case is tried without a jury, to rule without requiring an election⁷ but this must be exercised with caution⁸ since the trial is now in progress, and although the test (no real prospect) differs from that applicable after hearing all possible evidence (balance of probability), the submission interrupts the ordinary trial process, and it is not desirable that, during that process, the judge of fact should be put in a position where he may find himself having to express first an initial view on the basis of the claimant's evidence alone and then (if he allows the claim to proceed) a further final view after taking into account further evidence, even though he does so by reference to different tests. There may be cases where this consideration is of less force, because nothing in the defendant's evidence could affect the view taken of the claimant's evidence or case. But there is also the second and very important consideration that, if the judge rules that the claimant's evidence does not show a real prospect of success (whether this is for reasons of fact or law), he may prove wrong on appeal. In that event, the procedure adopted will prove to have caused much unnecessary cost, involving a re-trial which will probably be before a different judge⁹.

The judge may refuse so to rule at the end of the claimant's case, but may review his opinion at the close of the evidence or after the verdict of the jury¹⁰. It is not, however, open to a judge, at the close of a claimant's case and without requiring any election by the defendant to call no evidence, to determine whether or not the claimant has on his own evidence made out his case on the balance of probability¹¹.

Submissions of no case to answer may also be made before magistrates¹².

1 Ryder v Wombwell (1868) LR 4 Exch 32; Giblin v McMullen (1868) LR 2 PC 317; Hiddle v National Fire and Marine Insurance Co of New Zealand [1896] AC 372, PC.

2 See Giblin v McMullen (1869) LR 2 PC 317.

3 Daniel v Metropolitan Rly Co (1871) LR 5 HL 45. If a judge is prepared to decide in favour of the other party without hearing his evidence, that party is entitled to insist that his evidence is heard before the decision is given: see Re Pincoffs, ex p Jacobson (1882) 22 ChD 312, CA.

4 Parfitt v Lawless (1862) LR 2 P & D 462; Metropolitan Rly Co v Jackson (1877) 3 App Cas 193, HL; Toal v North British Rly Co [1908] AC 352, HL.

5 Dublin, Wicklow and Wexford Rly Co v Slattery (1878) 3 App Cas 1155, HL.

6 Alexander v Rayson [1936] 1 KB 169, CA; Laurie v Raglan Building Co Ltd [1942] 1 KB 152, [1941] 3 All ER 332, CA. As to the submission of no case in criminal trials see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1313; and as to the submission of no case in matrimonial causes see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 851.

7 Bentley v Jones Harris & Co [2001] EWCA Civ 1724, [2001] All ER (D) 37 (Nov); Boyce v Wyatt Engineering [2001] EWCA Civ 692, [2001] All ER (D) 16 (May); and see Young v Rank [1950] 2 KB 510, [1950] 2 All ER 166. Some flaw of fact or law may, eg, have emerged for the first time, of such a nature as to make it entirely obvious that the claimant's case must fail, and it may save significant costs if a determination is made at that stage: Miller (t/a Waterloo Plant) v Cawley [2002] EWCA Civ 1100, [2002] All ER (D) 452 (Jul).

8 Boyce v Wyatt Engineering [2001] EWCA Civ 692, [2001] All ER (D) 16 (May); Miller (t/a Waterloo Plant) v Cawley [2002] EWCA Civ 1100, [2002] All ER (D) 452 (Jul); Benham Ltd v Kythira Investments Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 1794, [2003] All ER (D) 252 (Dec). See also Graham v Chorley Borough Council [2005] EWCA Civ 92, [2006] All ER (D) 288 (Feb).

9 Miller (t/a Waterloo Plant) v Cawley [2002] EWCA Civ 1100, [2002] All ER (D) 452 (Jul); Benham Ltd v Kythira Investments Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 1794, [2003] All ER (D) 252 (Dec). See also Graham v Chorley Borough Council [2005] EWCA Civ 92, [2006] All ER (D) 288 (Feb).

10 Peters v Perry & Co (1894) 10 TLR 366; Skeate v Slaters Ltd [1914] 2 KB 429, CA; Shears v Mendeloff (1914) 30 TLR 342; Grinsted v Hadrill [1953] 1 All ER 1188, [1953] 1 WLR 696, CA.

11 Miller (t/a Waterloo Plant) v Cawley [2002] EWCA Civ 1100, [2002] All ER (D) 452 (Jul); Benham Ltd v Kythira Investments Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 1794, [2003] All ER (D) 252 (Dec). See also Graham v Chorley Borough Council [2005] EWCA Civ 92, [2006] All ER (D) 288 (Feb).

12 See eg Disher v Disher [1965] P 31, [1963] 3 All ER 933, DC; De Filippo v De Filippo (1963) 108 Sol Jo 56, DC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/799. Admitted facts.

799. Admitted facts.

Facts are sometimes admitted¹, and different views may be possible as to their significance. The jury must be allowed to decide which it prefers².

¹ As to formal admissions see PARAS 776-778; and as to informal admissions see PARA 819.

² See Davey v London and South Western Rly Co (1883) 12 QBD 70, CA. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/800. Construction of documents a question of law.

800. Construction of documents a question of law.

Except in libel cases¹ the construction, meaning and effect of all written and printed documents are matters of law for the judge². Where there is a jury, it may determine as facts any surrounding circumstances which affect the construction of words which have peculiar meanings in particular localities or trades³, and then it is for the judge to say what is the meaning and effect of the document in question⁴. It must also find as a fact the meaning of technical or commercial terms used in a written contract⁵. It is a question of law for the judge to decide, from the existence of facts found by any jury, whether a written contract is subject to any implied term or condition⁶. When the legal effect of any transaction is to be ascertained from a number of documents which do not involve the consideration of any technical expressions, the construction, meaning and effect of the documents are matters entirely for the judge to decide; but where it also is necessary to take into consideration the conduct, course of business or oral communications of the parties, it is for any jury to weigh the oral evidence and to decide what was the real intention and meaning of the parties⁷.

In the case of a document in a foreign language, the meaning of the words must first be determined as a question of fact, upon the evidence of persons competent to translate them, and to explain any technical, legal or scientific expressions which the document may contain; the construction of the document so translated then becomes a question of law for the judge to decide⁸.

The inspection of a record is peculiarly within the province of the court⁹, and if there is any dispute as to what are the actual words written in a document, it is for the judge on inspection of the document to decide and not for a jury¹⁰.

When the contents of a lost document are proved by secondary evidence it is for the judge to say what is its proper meaning and effect¹¹.

1 'Libel or no libel' is for the jury: see LIBEL AND SLANDER. However, at any time after the service of particulars of claim, either party may apply to the court for a ruling on meaning (ie whether a statement complained of is capable of having any meaning attributed to it in a statement of case, whether the statement is capable of being defamatory of the claimant and whether the statement is capable of bearing any other meaning defamatory of the claimant): see Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 paras 4.1-4.4; and LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 224. As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 22.

2 Woodhouse AC Israel Cocoa Ltd SA v Nigerian Produce Marketing Co Ltd [1972] AC 741, [1972] 2 All ER 271, HL; Macbeath v Haldimand (1786) 1 Term Rep 172; Lovell and Christmas Ltd v Wall (1911) 104 LT 85, CA; Neilson v Harford (1841) 8 M & W 806; Hill v Evans (1862) 4 De GF & J 288; Bowes v Shand (1877) 2 App Cas 455, HL. See also R v Spens [1991] 4 All ER 421, [1991] 1 WLR 624, CA (construction of City Code on Take-overs and Mergers a matter of law). Accordingly, the construction of statutes is a matter of law for the judge: A-G v Cast-Plate Glass Co (1792) 1 Anst 39; Planché v Braham (1837) 8 C & P 68 (subsequent proceedings, 4 Bing NC 17); Elliott v South Devon Rly Co (1848) 2 Exch 725. As to construction generally see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 164 et seq; STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1369 et seq.

3 Neilson v Harford (1841) 8 M & W 806; Bowes v Shand (1877) 2 App Cas 455, HL; Ashforth v Redford (1873) LR 9 CP 20; Alexander v Vanderzee (1872) LR 7 CP 530, Ex Ch. See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 669; DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 167. Where the document is plain and unambiguous there is no question for the jury: Hitchin v Groom (1848) 5 CB 515.

4 Hutchison v Bowker (1839) 5 M & W 535; Neilson v Harford (1841) 8 M & W 806.

5 See DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 167.

6 Re Comptoir Commercial Anversois and Power, Son & Co [1920] 1 KB 868, CA; and see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 778 et seq.

7 Smith v Thompson (1849) 8 CB 44; Hordern v Commercial Union Insurance Co (1887) 56 LT 240, PC; and see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 209. As to the admissibility of such evidence see PARA 1070.

8 See DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 201.

9 R v Hucks (1816) 1 Stark 521. A shorthand report of a judgment, although not appearing in any recognised series of law reports, may be referred to as a record of what a judge had said on a former occasion as to the meaning of an Act of Parliament: Renshaw v Dixon [1911] WN 40. As to reference to Hansard as an aid to statutory construction see Pepper (Inspector of Taxes) v Hart [1993] AC 593, [1993] 1 All ER 42, HL; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1421.

10 Remon v Hayward (1835) 2 Ad & El 666.

11 Berwick v Horsfall (1858) 4 CBNS 450; and see Read v Price [1909] 2 KB 724, CA. Where the evidence is oral and the veracity of the witness is not impeached, it is solely a question of law for the judge (Berwick v Horsfall (1858) 4 CBNS 450), but where there is a conflict of evidence it becomes a question of fact for the jury.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/B. FUNCTIONS OF JUDGE AND JURY/801. Particular proceedings.

801. Particular proceedings.

The respective functions of judge and jury¹ are more particularly defined in relation to certain questions arising in particular classes of proceedings. These proceedings, which are dealt with elsewhere in this work, include claims for libel and slander², for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment³, and for the price of necessities⁴. So, too, the functions of judge and jury have been particularly defined in relation to questions of boundaries⁵, liquidated damages⁶, acknowledgments extending a period of limitation⁷, restraint of trade⁸, the reasonableness of custom and usage⁹, and foreign law¹⁰.

1 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 This applies, in particular, with regard to the questions whether words are capable of bearing a defamatory meaning, whether a document or occasion was privileged, or whether, if the defence of fair comment is raised, the matter was of public interest: see LIBEL AND SLANDER. See also PARA 800 note 1.

3 Eg with regard to the question whether there was reasonable and probable cause: see TORT.

4 Eg with regard to the questions whether the goods in question can be necessities and whether they are necessities in a particular case: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 18-19.

5 Whether a particular parcel of land is contained or not in the description of land conveyed by deed is a question of fact: see BOUNDARIES.

6 The question whether a sum specified in a written contract is a penalty or liquidated damages is a question of law for the judge: see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 1066.

7 As to the determination of what constitutes an acknowledgment for the purposes of preventing the barring of a claim by lapse of time see LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 946.

8 Eg with regard to the determination of the questions whether or not a contract is in restraint of trade and whether or not the restraint is reasonable: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 377 et seq.

9 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 609 et seq.

10 See PARA 1088.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/C. EXCLUSION OF EVIDENCE ON GROUNDS OF PUBLIC POLICY/802. Public interest immunity.

C. EXCLUSION OF EVIDENCE ON GROUNDS OF PUBLIC POLICY

802. Public interest immunity.

The general rule of law that any documentary evidence may be withheld or an answer to any question may be refused on the ground that the disclosure of the document or the answering of the question would be injurious to the public interest is discussed elsewhere in this title¹.

¹ See PARAS 574-579.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(1) INTRODUCTION/(viii) The Court's Power to Control Evidence/D. ADMISSION OF FRESH EVIDENCE ON APPEAL/803. Admission of fresh evidence in civil appeals.

D. ADMISSION OF FRESH EVIDENCE ON APPEAL

803. Admission of fresh evidence in civil appeals.

Oral evidence, or evidence which was not before the lower court will not generally be received by an appellate court. If the appellate court does allow evidence to be given, the evidence must meet defined criteria, applied subject to the overriding objective¹ of dealing with cases justly².

1 As to the overriding objective see PARA 33.

2 See PARAS 1676-1678.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(2) 'WITHOUT PREJUDICE' COMMUNICATIONS/804. Communications 'without prejudice'.

(2) 'WITHOUT PREJUDICE' COMMUNICATIONS

804. Communications 'without prejudice'.

Letters written and oral communications made¹ during a dispute² between the parties, which are written or made for the purpose of settling the dispute³, and which are expressed or otherwise proved to have been made 'without prejudice'⁴, cannot generally⁵ be admitted in evidence⁶. The rule does not apply to communications which have a purpose other than settlement of the dispute⁷; thus it does not apply in respect of a document which, from its character, may prejudice the person to whom it is addressed⁸.

The privilege, where it exists, covers not only the particular letter itself but also all subsequent parts of the same correspondence on both sides, even if they are not expressed to be 'without prejudice'⁹, unless there is a clear break in the chain of correspondence to show that the ensuing letters are open¹⁰. Moreover, it has been held to cover an open letter, followed by another from the same party to the effect that their communications were intended to be 'without prejudice'¹¹.

It has been said that the privilege attaches only for the purposes of the proceedings in which the letter was written¹², but this now seems doubtful¹³.

The privilege applies for the protection of the solicitor who writes the letter, as well as for his client¹⁴.

Offers under Part 36 of the Civil Procedure Rules are treated as without prejudice except as to costs¹⁵. An offer to settle the costs of proceedings which gave rise to detailed assessment proceedings in respect of costs may be made without prejudice save as to the costs of the detailed assessment proceedings¹⁶.

1 Privilege attaches to the contents of a 'without prejudice' conversation between the parties which takes place in the presence of the judge or arbitrator: Stotesbury v Turner [1943] KB 370. For general guidance on the nature of the privilege see Rush & Tompkins Ltd v Greater London Council [1989] AC 1280, [1988] 3 All ER 737, HL. As to the extent of the privilege see also Dixons Stores Group Ltd v Thames Television plc [1993] 1 All ER 349; Gnitrow Ltd v Cape plc [2000] 3 All ER 763, [2000] 1 WLR 2327, CA.

2 If there is no dispute as yet, there can be no 'without prejudice' privilege: Standrin v Yenton Minster Homes Ltd (1991) Times, 22 July, CA.

3 Grace v Baynton (1877) 21 Sol Jo 631; Kitcat v Sharp (1882) 48 LT 64; Re Daintrey, ex p Holt [1893] 2 QB 116. See also E Hulton & Co Ltd v Chadwick, Taylor & Co (1919) 122 LT 66, HL; South Shropshire District Council v Amos [1987] 1 All ER 340, [1986] 1 WLR 1271, CA; Norwich Union Life Insurance Society v Tony Waller Ltd [1984] 1 EGLR 126, 270 Estates Gazette 42. See also Schering Corp'n v Cipla Ltd [2004] EWHC 2587 (Ch), [2005] FSR 575; and Brown v Rice [2007] EWHC 625 (Ch), [2008] FSR 61.

4 Negotiations with a view to a settlement are usually conducted 'without prejudice', which means that the circumstances in which the content of those negotiations may be revealed to the court are very restricted: CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31. As to the meaning of 'without prejudice' see also Woodard v Eastern Counties and London and Blackwall Rly Co (1855) 1 Jur NS 899; Kurtz & Co v Spence & Sons (1887) 57 LJ Ch 238; Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335, CA; Re River Steamer Co, Mitchell's Claim (1871) 6 Ch App 822. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

5 For exceptions to the 'without prejudice' rule see PARA 805.

6 Waldridge v Kennison (1794) 1 Esp 143; Paddock v Forrester (1842) 3 Scott NR 715; Whiffen v Hartwright (1848) 11 Beav 111; Hoghton v Hoghton (1852) 15 Beav 278; Re Daintrey, ex p Holt [1893] 2 QB 116. See also Cory v Bretton (1830) 4 C & P 462; Re River Steamer Co, Mitchell's Claim (1871) 6 Ch App 822. The 'without prejudice' rule ought to be applied with restraint and only in cases to which public interests underlying the rule are plainly applicable: Prudential Assurance Co Ltd v Prudential Insurance Co of America [2002] EWHC 2809 (Ch), [2002] All ER (D) 337 (Dec). The test to be applied is whether unambiguous impropriety will arise where the 'without prejudice' communications are not admitted in evidence: Berry Trade Ltd v Moussavi [2003] EWCA Civ 715, [2003] All ER (D) 315 (May); BNP Paribas v Mezzotero [2004] IRLR 508, EAT. The public interest in favour of the protection of 'without prejudice' negotiations will usually outweigh the public interest in discouraging perjury: Savings and Investment Bank Ltd (in liquidation) v Fincken [2003] EWCA Civ 1630, [2004] 1 All ER 1125, [2004] 1 WLR 667. See also Stax Claimants v Bank of Nova Scotia Channel Islands [2007] EWHC 1153 (Ch), [2007] All ER (D) 215 (May), where the court refused to extend the protection for 'without prejudice' communications to discussions not falling strictly within the scope of genuine negotiations to settle.

In Vaseghi v Brunel University [2007] EWCA Civ 482, [2007] IRLR 592, there was said to be a bilateral waiver of privilege in respect of the 'without prejudice' negotiations.

As to the relationship between the 'without prejudice' rule and pre-action protocol communications see Zuckerman Civil Procedure: Principles of Practice (2nd Edn, 2006) para 16.15-16.17; but see Belt v Basildon and Thurrock NHS Trust [2004] EWHC 783 (QB) at [18], [2004] All ER (D) 445 (Feb).

7 There is danger in using the words 'without prejudice' in communications intended to have a binding effect: see Re Weston and Thomas' Contract [1907] 1 Ch 244 (notice of rescission, marked 'without prejudice', void).

8 Re Daintrey, ex p Holt [1893] 2 QB 116 ('without prejudice' letter admitted to prove act of bankruptcy contained in it); Kurtz & Co v Spence & Sons (1887) 57 LJ Ch 238 (letter containing threat which infringed patent legislation); and see Grace v Baynton (1877) 21 Sol Jo 631; Kitcat v Sharp (1882) 48 LT 64.

9 Paddock v Forrester (1842) 3 Scott NR 715; Re Harris, ex p Harris (1875) 44 LJ Bcy 33; Peacock v Harper (1877) 26 WR 109; cf Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335, CA; Oliver v Nautilus Steam Shipping Co [1903] 2 KB 639, CA; India Rubber, Gutta Percha, and Telegraph Works Co Ltd v Chapman (1926) 20 BWCC 184, CA.

10 India Rubber, Gutta Percha, and Telegraph Works Co Ltd v Chapman (1926) 20 BWCC 184, CA. If one party to negotiations on a without prejudice basis wishes to change the basis to an open one, the burden is on him to bring the change to the attention of the other party: Cheddar Valley Engineering Ltd v Chaddlewood Homes Ltd [1992] 4 All ER 942, [1992] 1 WLR 820.

11 Peacock v Harper (1877), as reported at 26 WR 109, where Hall V-C is reported as saying that the second letter must be taken as a postscript to the former. The proper view may be that if a communication is intended to be 'without prejudice', and is accepted by the other party as such, then the privilege attaches. See also Oliver v Nautilus Steam Shipping Co [1903] 2 KB 639, CA.

12 Stretton v Stubbs (1905) Times, 28 February. Cf Instance v Denny Bros Printing Ltd [2000] FSR 869 (privilege attached for purpose of subsequent litigation connected with same subject matter).

13 See eg Unilever plc v Procter and Gamble Co [2001] 1 All ER 783, [2000] 1 WLR 2436, CA ('without prejudice' statements made by the parties could not be used as admissions either in those proceedings or in other proceedings).

14 La Roche v Armstrong [1922] 1 KB 485. The rule does not otherwise apply in relation to third persons (Teign Valley Co v Woodcock (1899) Times, 22 July), although discovery (now known as 'disclosure': see PARA 963) of a surveyor's report and correspondence following discussions 'without prejudice' was refused in Rabin v Mendoza & Co [1954] 1 All ER 247, [1954] 1 WLR 271, CA. As to the privilege which arises between spouses and a third party when discussions have taken place for the purpose of reconciliation see PARA 972 note 5; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 833.

15 See CPR 36.13(1); and PARA 739. As to Part 36 offers see PARA 729 et seq.

16 See CPR 47.19(1), (2); and PARA 1799.

UPDATE

804 Communications 'without prejudice'

NOTE 6--Policy of protecting without prejudice communications is stronger than policy of providing judge with every conceivable help to arrive at just solution: Oceanbulk

Shipping and Trading SA v TMT Asia Ltd [2010] EWCA Civ 79, [2010] All ER (D) 163 (Feb) (reversing: [2009] EWHC 1946 (Comm), [2009] 2 All ER (Comm) 1021).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(2) 'WITHOUT PREJUDICE' COMMUNICATIONS/805. Limits of the rule.

805. Limits of the rule.

The contents of a communication made 'without prejudice' are admissible when there has been a binding agreement between the parties arising out of it¹, or for the purpose of deciding whether such an agreement has been reached², and the fact that such communications have been made (though not their contents) is admissible to show that negotiations have taken place³, or that an act of bankruptcy⁴, or a severance of a joint tenancy⁵, or a trigger for a rent review clause⁶, has occurred, but generally speaking they are not otherwise admissible. Thus they cannot be used as admissions, or as acknowledgments to prevent a debt from becoming statute-barred⁷, or, normally, for the purpose of deciding the question of costs⁸, or to show malice⁹, although it has been held that they may be admitted to prove matters not connected with the merits of the dispute¹⁰.

The consent of both parties to the dispute is required for the privilege to be waived¹¹, even if there has been only one communication¹²; but a party deploying the substance of 'without prejudice' communications in support of its case may no longer object to the use by its opponents of any admissions in those communications¹³. The critical question for the court as to admissibility is where to draw the line between the public policy of encouraging parties to resolve disputes without litigation, and wrongly preventing one or other party from putting their case at its best in litigation¹⁴.

1 See Rush & Tompkins Ltd v Greater London Council [1989] AC 1280, [1988] 3 All ER 737, HL. The agreement which has been reached may thus be construed: Holdsworth v Dimsdale (1871) 19 WR 798; Re River Steamer Co, Mitchell's Claim (1871) 6 Ch App 822; Re Leite, Leite v Ferreira (1881) 72 LT Jo 97; cf Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335, CA.

2 Tomlin v Standard Telephones and Cables Ltd [1969] 3 All ER 201, [1969] 1 WLR 1378, CA. Such a communication may also be looked at by the judge (though not by the jury) to decide the question of its admissibility: Re Daintrey, ex p Holt [1893] 2 QB 116; applied in South Shropshire District Council v Amos [1987] 1 All ER 340, [1986] 1 WLR 1271, CA. The question of admissibility is decided at the hearing: Re Jessopp (a Solicitor) (1910) 54 Sol Jo 543, CA. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

3 Eg when there is an allegation of laches: see Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335. See also Jones v Foxall (1852) 15 Beav 388.

4 Re Daintrey, ex p Holt [1893] 2 QB 116.

5 McDowall v Hirschfield Lipson & Rumney [1992] 2 FLR 126, (1992) Times, 13 February.

6 Norwich Union Life Insurance Society v Tony Waller Ltd [1984] 1 EGLR 126, 270 Estates Gazette 42.

7 Cory v Bretton (1830) 4 C & P 462; and see Re River Steamer Co, Mitchell's Claim (1871) 6 Ch App 822. Cf Froyssell v Lewelyn (1821) 9 Price 122. See also LIMITATION PERIODS.

8 Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335, CA; Stotesbury v Turner [1943] KB 370. Dicta to the contrary in Woodard v Eastern Counties and London and Blackwall Rly Co (1855) 1 Jur NS 899, must be regarded as wrong. However, in matrimonial proceedings relating to finance a party may make a compromise offer in respect of financial provision or property without prejudice to that issue at the hearing, but reserving the right of the party making the offer to refer to it on the issue of costs: see Calderbank v Calderbank [1976] Fam 93, [1975] 3 All ER 333, CA.

9 Watt v Watt [1905] AC 115, HL. An offer to settle the costs of proceedings which gave rise to the detailed assessment of costs without prejudice to the costs of the detailed assessment proceedings will be taken into account by the court in deciding who should pay the costs of those proceedings: see CPR 47.19; and PARA 1799.

10 Waldrige v Kennison (1794) 1 Esp 143 (admission by defendant during 'without prejudice' discussion that a document was in his handwriting). The contents of 'without prejudice' correspondence may be disclosed in an application to strike out for want of prosecution: Family Housing Association (Manchester) Ltd v Michael Hyde & Partners (a firm) [1993] 2 All ER 567, [1993] 1 WLR 354, CA. Caution should be exercised when allowing one party to argue that without prejudice negotiations reveal that a fact relied upon at trial is not true: UYB Ltd v British Railways Board [2000] All ER (D) 1477, CA.

11 See McTaggart v McTaggart [1949] P 94, [1948] 2 All ER 754, CA; and Blow v Norfolk County Council [1966] 3 All ER 579, [1967] 1 WLR 1280, CA. As to waiver of privilege generally see PARA 970.

12 Walker v Wilsher (1889) 23 QBD 335, CA, disapproving the contrary opinion expressed in Williams v Thomas (1862) 2 Drew & Sm 29.

13 Somatra Ltd v Sinclair Roche & Temperley (a firm) [2000] 1 WLR 2453, [2000] All ER (D) 1055, CA.

14 Barnetson v Framlington Group Ltd [2007] EWCA Civ 502, [2007] 3 All ER 1054, [2007] 1 WLR 2443.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(i) Introduction/806. The former common law rule against hearsay; admissibility under the legislation.

(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE

(i) Introduction

806. The former common law rule against hearsay; admissibility under the legislation.

Hearsay evidence in its legal sense is evidence given by a testifying witness of a statement made on some other occasion, when it is intended as evidence of the truth of what was asserted¹. It is essential to appreciate that evidence is only hearsay when tendered to prove the truth of the facts asserted, not when tendered simply to show that the statement was made². Hearsay may be first hand, when a witness says what he heard someone else say, or second hand (or even more distant) when he relates what he was told that someone else said. It may be oral or documentary³, of fact or of opinion.

With certain very significant exceptions, hearsay evidence was not admissible at common law⁴. By virtue of Part I of the Civil Evidence Act 1968, first hand hearsay became admissible in civil proceedings to the extent provided by that Part or by any other statutory provision, or by agreement of the parties⁵, while the Civil Evidence Act 1972 made hearsay statements of opinion evidence admissible in civil proceedings to substantially the same extent as hearsay statements of fact were admissible under Part I of the 1968 Act⁶. The Civil Evidence Act 1995 finally abolished the rule against the admission of hearsay in civil proceedings⁷ subject to statutory safeguards where such evidence is admitted⁸. Certain common law exceptions to the former exclusionary rule continue to have effect⁹.

In civil proceedings before the High Court or a county court and family proceedings and civil proceedings under the Child Support Act 1991 in a magistrates' court, evidence given in connection with the upbringing, maintenance or welfare of a child is admissible notwithstanding any rule of law relating to hearsay¹⁰.

1 It is not hearsay when it is proposed to establish by the evidence, not the truth of the statement, but the fact that it was made: see Subramaniam v Public Prosecutor [1956] 1 WLR 965, PC. For an example of a case where the distinction was not made by the trial judge see R v Willis [1960] 1 All ER 331, [1960] 1 WLR 55, CCA. See also Perkins v Vaughan (1842) 4 Man & G 988; Wright and Webb v Annandale (1930) 46 TLR 239; on appeal [1930] 2 KB 8, CA; Myers v DPP [1965] AC 1001, [1964] 2 All ER 881, HL; R v Chapman [1969] 2 QB 436, [1969] 2 All ER 321, CA. All the pre-1995 authorities cited in this paragraph must now be read in the light of the Civil Evidence Act 1995.

2 This kind of evidence is sometimes called 'original': see Subramaniam v Public Prosecutor [1956] 1 WLR 965, PC; R v Chapman [1969] 2 QB 436, [1969] 2 All ER 321, CA; and see The Statue of Liberty [1968] 2 All ER 195, [1968] 1 WLR 739, in which a record on film of radar observations was held to be real, not hearsay, evidence. See further PARA 958.

3 Thus, if a party had taken counsel's opinion, the contents of that opinion would be hearsay if related to prove the truth of what was contained in it: Ravenga v Mackintosh (1824) 2 B & C 693.

4 Berkeley Peerage (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Healy v Jacobs (1827) 5 LJOSKB 180.

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 Pt I (ss 1-10) (repealed).

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 1 (repealed), s 2 (as originally enacted).

7 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for the statutory purposes see PARA 808 note 1. As to hearsay in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1519 et seq.

8 See PARA 808 et seq. The Civil Evidence Act 1995 implements the principal recommendations of the Law Commission contained in its Report The Hearsay Rule in Civil Proceedings (1993; Law Com No 216). The Commission had observed in its earlier consultation paper The Hearsay Rule in Civil Proceedings (1991; Law Com No 117) para 5.1 that 'there can be little doubt that the rule excluding hearsay is the most confusing of the rules of evidence, posing difficulties for courts, practitioners and witnesses alike . . . any reform of the hearsay rule which succeeds in improving the clarity of understanding of its purpose and the manner in which it is to be applied would do much to improve evidence law as a whole'. In formulating its recommendations, the Law Commission had regard to two guiding principles: (1) that the law should be simplified to the greatest degree consistent with the proper functioning of a law of evidence; and (2) that as a general rule all evidence should be admissible unless there is a good reason for it to be treated as inadmissible: see The Hearsay Rule in Civil Proceedings (1993; Law Com No 216) para 4.2.

With the exception of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 10 (Ogden Tables: see PARA 818), the Civil Evidence Act 1995 came into force on 31 January 1997: s 16(2); Civil Evidence Act 1995 (Commencement) Order 1996, SI 1996/3217. Transitional provisions for its application to proceedings begun before that date may be made by rules of court or practice directions, but subject thereto the Act was not to apply to such proceedings: see the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 16(3), (3A) (respectively substituted and added by SI 1999/1217). The provisions of the 1995 Act apply to claims commenced before 31 January 1997 unless, before 26 April 1999, either directions were given, or orders were made, as to the evidence to be given at the trial or hearing, or the trial or hearing had begun: Practice Direction--Civil Evidence Act 1995 PD 33 paras 2, 3.

9 See PARAS 819-823.

10 See the Children (Admissibility of Hearsay Evidence) Order 1993, SI 1993/621, art 2; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 228, 317.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(i) Introduction/807. The quality of hearsay.

807. The quality of hearsay.

Hearsay evidence may very well not be of the same value as direct testimony¹; lack of opportunity for cross-examination², or of an oath, depreciation of the truth by repetition or embellishment, incentive to conceal or misrepresent and absence of contemporaneity may all diminish its probative effect. Regard must be had to any circumstances from which any inference can reasonably be drawn as to the reliability or otherwise of the evidence in estimating the weight, if any, to be given to hearsay evidence³.

1 A transparently honest and careful witness cannot make information reliable if, instead of speaking of what he has seen and heard for himself, he is merely retailing what others have told him: English Exports (London) Ltd v Eldonwall Ltd [1973] Ch 415 at 421, [1973] 1 All ER 726 at 731; and see also at 420-423 and at 730-733 for a discussion on the relationship of expert evidence and hearsay.

2 As to cross-examination on a hearsay statement see PARA 814.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(1); and PARA 815. For a comment on a statement taken as proof nine months after the event to which it related see Morris v Stratford-on-Avon RDC [1973] 3 All ER 263 at 266-267, [1973] 1 WLR 1059 at 1064-1065, CA, per Megaw LJ.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/A. CONDITIONS OF ADMISSIBILITY/808. Admissibility of hearsay evidence.

(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995

A. CONDITIONS OF ADMISSIBILITY

808. Admissibility of hearsay evidence.

In civil proceedings¹ evidence must not be excluded on the ground that it is hearsay². For these purposes, 'hearsay' means a statement³ made otherwise than by a person while giving oral evidence⁴ in the proceedings which is tendered as evidence of the matters stated⁵ and references to hearsay include hearsay of whatever degree⁶.

Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 affects the admissibility of evidence admissible apart from the provisions set out above⁷. Further, nothing in that Act affects the exclusion of evidence on grounds other than that it is hearsay⁸, and this applies whether the evidence falls to be excluded in pursuance of any enactment⁹ or rule of law¹⁰, for failure to comply with rules of court¹¹ or an order of the court¹² or otherwise¹³.

1 For these purposes, 'civil proceedings' means civil proceedings, before any tribunal, in relation to which the strict rules of evidence apply, whether as a matter of law or by agreement of the parties; and references to the 'court' and 'rules of court' are to be construed accordingly: Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 11, 13. As to the application of the strict rules of evidence see PARA 753 et seq. Under the equivalent provision in the Civil Evidence Act 1968 (ie s 18(1): see PARA 1208 note 1) it has been held that an application to commit for contempt founded on the breach of an order made in civil proceedings is itself a civil proceeding, notwithstanding the criminal standard of proof appropriate to such an application (see PARA 775) and its possible penal consequences: Savings and Investment Bank Ltd v Gasco Investments (Netherlands) BV (No 2) [1988] Ch 422, [1988] 1 All ER 975, CA. See also R (McCann) v Crown Court at Manchester, Clingham v Kensington and Chelsea Royal London Borough Council [2002] UKHL 39, [2003] 1 AC 787, [2002] 4 All ER 593 (proceedings for an anti-social behaviour order under the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 s 1 are civil proceedings in which hearsay evidence is admissible pursuant to the Civil Evidence Act 1995 and the Magistrates' Courts (Hearsay Evidence in Civil Proceedings) Rules 1999, SI 1999/681, notwithstanding the higher standard of proof required). For guidance on serving and adducing hearsay evidence in proceedings for an anti-social behaviour order under the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 s 1C see R v W [2006] EWCA Crim 686, [2006] 3 All ER 562, [2007] 1 WLR 339.

Any power to make rules of court regulating the practice or procedure of the court in relation to civil proceedings includes power to make such provision as may be necessary or expedient for carrying into effect the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995: s 12(1). Any rules of court made for the purposes of that Act as it applies in relation to proceedings in the High Court apply, except in so far as their operation is excluded by agreement, to arbitration proceedings to which that Act applies, subject to such modifications as may be appropriate; and any question arising as to what modifications are appropriate must be determined, in default of agreement, by the arbitrator or umpire, as the case may be: s 12(2).

2 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(1).

3 'Statement' means any representation of fact or opinion, however made: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13. Quaere whether a written statement in an affidavit is included in this definition: cf Rover International Ltd v Cannon Film Sales Ltd (No 2) [1987] 3 All ER 986, [1987] 1 WLR 1597 (revsd on other grounds (1988) Financial Times, 10 June, CA).

4 'Oral evidence' includes evidence which, by reason of a defect of speech or hearing, a person called as a witness gives in writing or by signs: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13. As to witness evidence generally see PARA 966 et seq.

5 Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1(2)(a), 13. See also CPR 33.1(a), which contains an identical definition.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1(2)(b), 13. See also CPR 33.1(b), which contains an identical definition. As to first-hand hearsay and second-hand hearsay see PARA 806.

7 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(3). The provisions of ss 2-6 (safeguards and supplementary provisions relating to hearsay evidence: see PARA 809 et seq) do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4). As to hearsay evidence otherwise admissible see eg the Children (Admissibility of Hearsay Evidence) Order 1993, SI 1993/621, art 2; PARA 806 text and note 10; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 228. See also PARAS 824-825.

8 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(1).

9 Eg expert opinion evidence on an irrelevant matter is not admissible under the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3: see PARA 835.

10 Eg evidence may be excluded on grounds of public policy: see PARA 574 et seq.

11 See eg CPR 35.13; and PARA 856.

12 As to the court's general discretionary power to control evidence see PARA 791.

13 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/A. CONDITIONS OF ADMISSIBILITY/809. Competence and credibility.

809. Competence and credibility.

Hearsay evidence¹ must not be admitted in civil proceedings² if or to the extent that it is shown to consist of, or to be proved by means of, a statement³ made by a person who at the time he made the statement was not competent as a witness⁴.

Where in civil proceedings hearsay evidence is adduced and the maker of the original statement⁵, or of any statement relied upon to prove another statement, is not called as a witness, evidence which if he had been so called would be admissible for the purpose of attacking or supporting his credibility as a witness is admissible for that purpose in the proceedings⁶; and evidence tending to prove that, whether before or after he made the statement, he made any other statement inconsistent with it is admissible for the purpose of showing that he had contradicted himself⁷. Evidence may not, however, be given of any matter of which, if he had been called as a witness and had denied that matter in cross-examination⁸, evidence could not have been adduced by the cross-examining party⁹.

Where a party proposes to rely on hearsay evidence but does not propose to call the person who made the original statement to give oral evidence and another party wishes to call evidence to attack the credibility of the person who made the statement, the party who so wishes must give notice of his intention to the party who proposes to give the hearsay statement in evidence¹⁰. A party must give such notice not more than 14 days¹¹ after the day on which a hearsay notice¹² relating to the hearsay evidence was served¹³ on him¹⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'statement' see PARA 808 note 3.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(1). For this purpose 'not competent as a witness' means suffering from such mental or physical infirmity, or lack of understanding, as would render a person incompetent as a witness in civil proceedings; but a child must be treated as competent as a witness if he satisfies the requirements of the Children Act 1989 s 96(2)(a), (b) (conditions for reception of unsworn evidence of child: see PARA 1029; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 228); Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(1).

5 'Original statement', in relation to hearsay evidence, means the underlying statement (if any) by (1) in the case of evidence of fact, a person having personal knowledge of that fact; or (2) in the case of evidence of opinion, the person whose opinion it is: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(2)(a).

7 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(2)(b).

8 As to cross-examination see PARA 1042 et seq.

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(2) proviso. The provisions of s 5 do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4).

10 CPR 33.5(1).

11 As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

12 As to hearsay notices see PARAS 811-813.

13 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

14 CPR 33.5(2). CPR Pt 33 does not apply to small claims hearings: see PARA 756. See also the Magistrates' Courts (Hearsay Evidence in Civil Proceedings) Rules 1999, SI 1999/681, r 5; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 729.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/A. CONDITIONS OF ADMISSIBILITY/810. Previous statements of witnesses.

810. Previous statements of witnesses.

Subject as follows, the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 as to hearsay¹ evidence in civil proceedings² apply equally (but with any necessary modifications) in relation to a previous statement³ made by a person called as a witness in the proceedings⁴.

A party who has called or intends to call a person as a witness in civil proceedings may not in those proceedings adduce evidence of a previous statement made by that person, except with the leave of the court⁵ or for the purpose of rebutting a suggestion that his evidence has been fabricated⁶. This is not, however, to be construed as preventing a witness statement⁷ from being adopted by a witness in giving evidence or treated as his evidence⁸.

Where, in the case of civil proceedings, the provisions made by the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 with regard to how far a witness may be discredited by the party producing him, the proof of contradictory statements made by a witness and cross-examination as to previous statements in writing⁹ apply¹⁰, the Civil Evidence Act 1995 does not authorise the adducing of evidence of a previous inconsistent or contradictory statement otherwise than in accordance with those provisions¹¹; but this is without prejudice to any provision made by rules of court¹² under the power¹³ to call a witness for cross-examination on a hearsay statement¹⁴.

Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 affects any of the rules of law as to the circumstances in which, where a person called as a witness in civil proceedings is cross-examined on a document¹⁵ used by him to refresh his memory, that document may be made evidence in the proceedings¹⁶; and nothing in the provisions set out above is to be construed as preventing a statement of any description referred to above from being admissible¹⁷ as evidence of the matters stated¹⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1. As to the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 as to hearsay evidence see PARAS 808-809; the text and notes 3-18; and PARA 811 et seq.

3 As to the meaning of 'statement' see PARA 808 note 3.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(1). As to witnesses see generally PARA 966 et seq.

5 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2)(a).

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2)(b).

7 I.e a written statement of oral evidence which a party to the proceedings intends to lead: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2). As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1. As to the meaning of 'oral evidence' see PARA 808 note 4.

8 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2) proviso.

9 I.e the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3, 4 or 5: see PARAS 1047-1048, 1050.

10 As to the application of the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 ss 3-5 to civil proceedings see s 1. See further PARAS 1047-1048, 1050.

11 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(3).

12 As to the meaning of 'rules of court' see PARA 808 note 1.

13 le under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 3: see PARA 814.

14 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(3) proviso.

15 'Document' means anything in which information of any description is recorded: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13.

16 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(4). As to refreshing a witness's memory see PARA 1039.

17 le by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1: see PARA 808.

18 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(5). The provisions of s 6 do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/B. SAFEGUARDS/811. Notice of proposal to adduce hearsay evidence.

B. SAFEGUARDS

811. Notice of proposal to adduce hearsay evidence.

A party proposing to adduce hearsay¹ evidence in civil proceedings² must, subject to the following provisions, give to the other party or parties to the proceedings (1) such notice (if any) of that fact; and (2) on request, such particulars of or relating to the evidence, as is reasonable and practicable in the circumstances for the purpose of enabling him or them to deal with any matters arising from its being hearsay³. Provision may be made by rules of court⁴ specifying classes of proceedings or evidence in relation to which these requirements do not apply⁵ and as to the manner in which, including the time within which, the duties imposed by heads (1) and (2) above are to be complied with in the cases where they do apply⁶. The notice requirements do not apply:

- 11 (a) to evidence at hearings other than trials⁷;
- 12 (b) to an affidavit⁸ or witness statement⁹ which is to be used at trial but which does not contain hearsay evidence¹⁰;
- 13 (c) to a statement which a party to probate proceedings wishes to put in evidence and which is alleged to have been made by the person whose estate is the subject of the proceedings¹¹; or
- 14 (d) where the requirement is excluded by a practice direction¹².

Where a party intends to rely on hearsay evidence at trial and either that evidence is to be given by a witness giving oral evidence or that evidence is contained in a witness statement of a person who is not being called to give oral evidence, that party complies with head (1) above by serving¹³ a witness statement on the other parties in accordance with the court's¹⁴ order¹⁵. Where the evidence is contained in a witness statement of a person who is not being called to give oral evidence, the party intending to rely on the hearsay evidence must, when he serves the witness statement, inform the other parties that the witness is not being called to give oral evidence and give the reason why the witness will not be called¹⁶. In all other cases where a party intends to rely on hearsay evidence at trial, that party complies with head (1) above by serving a notice on the other parties which identifies the hearsay evidence, states that the party serving the notice proposes to rely on the hearsay evidence at trial and gives the reason why the witness will not be called¹⁷.

The party proposing to rely on the hearsay evidence must serve the notice no later than the latest date for serving witness statements¹⁸ and, if the hearsay evidence is to be in a document, supply a copy to any party who requests him to do so¹⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'rules of court' see PARA 808 note 1.

5 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(2)(a). See the text and notes 7-12.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(2)(b). See the text and notes 13-19. See also the Magistrates' Courts (Hearsay Evidence in Civil Proceedings) Rules 1999, SI 1999/681, r 3; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 729. The provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2 do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4).

7 CPR 33.3(a).

8 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5.

9 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

10 CPR 33.3(aa).

11 CPR 33.3(b).

12 CPR 33.3(c).

13 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

14 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

15 CPR 33.2(1).

16 CPR 33.2(2). As to the power to call such a witness for cross-examination see PARA 814.

17 CPR 33.2(3); and see note 16.

18 CPR 33.2(4)(a). As to the date for serving witness statements see PARA 982. As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

19 CPR 33.2(4)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/B. SAFEGUARDS/812. Exclusion of notice requirements by agreement.

812. Exclusion of notice requirements by agreement.

The statutory requirements to give notice of a proposal to adduce hearsay¹ evidence and, on request, particulars of or relating to it², may be excluded by agreement of the parties³. Compliance with the duty to give notice may in any case be waived by the person to whom notice is required to be given⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 Ie the requirements contained in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(1): see PARA 811.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(3).

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(3). As to the persons to whom notice is required to be given see PARA 811. As to the application of s 2 see PARA 811 note 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/B. SAFEGUARDS/813. Effect of failure to comply with notice requirements.

813. Effect of failure to comply with notice requirements.

A failure to comply with the statutory requirements to give notice of a proposal to adduce hearsay¹ evidence and, on request, particulars of or relating to it², or with rules as to the manner and time in which the duties imposed by those requirements are to be complied with³, does not affect the admissibility of the evidence⁴. Such a failure may, however, be taken into account by the court⁵ (1) in considering the exercise of its powers with respect to the course of proceedings⁶ and costs⁷; and (2) as a matter adversely affecting the weight to be given⁸ to the evidence⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 Ie the requirements contained in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(1): see PARA 811.

3 Ie rules under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(2)(b): see PARA 811 text and notes 1-6. See also the Magistrates' Courts (Hearsay Evidence in Civil Proceedings) Rules 1999, SI 1999/681, r 3; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 729.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(4).

5 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

6 As to the court's general case management powers see PARA 246 et seq.

7 Costs are in the discretion of the court: see generally PARA 1729 et seq.

8 Ie in accordance with the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4: see PARA 815.

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(4). As to the application of s 2 see PARA 811 note 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/B. SAFEGUARDS/814. Power to call witness for cross-examination on hearsay statement.

814. Power to call witness for cross-examination on hearsay statement.

Rules of court¹ may provide that where a party to civil proceedings² adduces hearsay³ evidence of a statement⁴ made by a person and does not call that person as a witness, any other party to the proceedings may, with the leave of the court⁵, call that person as a witness and cross-examine⁶ him on the statement as if he had been called by the first-mentioned party and as if the hearsay statement were his evidence in chief⁷.

Such leave may be given on the application of the party wishing to call the maker of the statement⁸. An application for permission to cross-examine must be made not more than 14 days⁹ after the day on which a notice of intention to rely on the hearsay evidence was served¹⁰ on the applicant¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'rules of court' see PARA 808 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

4 As to the meaning of 'statement' see PARA 808 note 3.

5 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

6 As to cross-examination see PARA 1042 et seq.

7 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 3. The provisions of s 3 do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4). As to evidence in chief see PARA 1037 et seq.

8 See CPR 33.4(1).

9 As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

10 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

11 CPR 33.4(2). See also the Magistrates' Courts (Hearsay Evidence in Civil Proceedings) Rules 1999, SI 1999/681, r 4; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 729.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/B. SAFEGUARDS/815. Considerations relevant to weighing of hearsay evidence.

815. Considerations relevant to weighing of hearsay evidence.

In estimating the weight, if any, to be given to hearsay¹ evidence in civil proceedings² the court³ must have regard to any circumstances from which any inference can reasonably be drawn as to the reliability or otherwise of the evidence⁴. Regard may be had, in particular, to the following:

- 15 (1) whether it would have been reasonable and practicable for the party by whom the evidence was adduced to have produced the maker of the original statement⁵ as a witness⁶;
- 16 (2) whether the original statement was made contemporaneously with the occurrence or existence of the matters stated⁷;
- 17 (3) whether the evidence involves multiple hearsay⁸;
- 18 (4) whether any person involved had any motive to conceal or misrepresent matters⁹;
- 19 (5) whether the original statement was an edited account, or was made in collaboration with another or for a particular purpose¹⁰;
- 20 (6) whether the circumstances in which the evidence is adduced as hearsay are such as to suggest an attempt to prevent proper evaluation of its weight¹¹.

Failure to comply with the notice requirements¹² may be taken into account by the court as a matter adversely affecting the weight to be given to hearsay evidence¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(1).

5 As to the meaning of 'original statement' see PARA 809 note 5.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(a).

7 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(b).

8 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(c). As to degrees of hearsay see PARA 806.

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(d).

10 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(e).

11 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4(2)(f). The provisions of s 4 do not apply in relation to hearsay evidence admissible apart from s 1, notwithstanding that it may also be admissible by virtue of s 1: s 1(4). The guidelines set out in s 4(2) 'do little more than set out matters which courts already consider when assessing evidence' but are particularly useful for magistrates' courts: see 564 HL Official Report (5th series), 25 May 1995, col 1051 per Lord Mackay of Clashfern LC. As to hearsay evidence in civil proceedings in magistrates' courts see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 729.

12 See PARA 811.

13 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(4); and PARA 813.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/C. PROOF OF STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN DOCUMENTS/816. Proof of statements contained in documents; in general.

C. PROOF OF STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN DOCUMENTS

816. Proof of statements contained in documents; in general.

Where a statement¹ contained in a document² is admissible as evidence in civil proceedings³, it may be proved (1) by the production of that document⁴; or (2) whether or not that document is still in existence, by the production of a copy⁵ of that document or of the material part of it⁶, authenticated in such manner as the court⁷ may approve⁸. It is immaterial for this purpose how many removes there are between a copy and the original⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'statement' see PARA 808 note 3.

2 As to the meaning of 'document' see PARA 810 note 15.

3 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(1)(a). In this context, 'production' refers not to counsel handing the document to the court, but to a witness who is qualified to do so in accordance with the rules of evidence producing the document and saying what it is: Ventouris v Mountain (No 2), The Italia Express[1992] 3 All ER 414 at 427, [1992] 1 WLR 887 at 901, CA, per Staughton LJ (decided under the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 6(1) (repealed)).

5 'Copy', in relation to a document, means anything onto which information recorded in the document has been copied, by whatever means and whether directly or indirectly: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(1)(b).

7 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

8 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(1). The 'authentication' required relates to the authentication of copies as true copies of the document and not to proof of the original: Ventouris v Mountain (No 2), The Italia Express[1992] 3 All ER 414, [1992] 1 WLR 887, CA (decided under the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 6(1) (repealed)).

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(2). For similar provisions with regard to criminal proceedings see the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 133; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1464.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/C. PROOF OF STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN DOCUMENTS/817. Proof of records of business or public authority.

817. Proof of records of business or public authority.

A document¹ which is shown to form part of the records² of a business³ or public authority⁴ may be received in evidence in civil proceedings⁵ without further proof⁶.

A document is to be taken to form part of the records of a business or public authority if there is produced to the court⁷ a certificate to that effect signed by an officer⁸ of the business or authority to which the records belong⁹; and for this purpose a document purporting to be a certificate signed by an officer of a business or public authority is to be deemed to have been duly given by such an officer and signed by him¹⁰ and a certificate is to be treated as signed by a person if it purports to bear a facsimile of his signature¹¹.

The absence of an entry in the records of a business or public authority may be proved in civil proceedings by affidavit¹² of an officer of the business or authority to which the records belong¹³.

The court may, having regard to the circumstances of the case, direct that all or any of the above provisions do not apply in relation to a particular document or record, or description of documents or records¹⁴.

Unless the court¹⁵ orders otherwise, evidence such as a plan, photograph or model which is admissible without further proof under the above provisions¹⁶ but which is not either (1) contained in a witness statement¹⁷, affidavit or expert's report¹⁸; (2) to be given orally at trial; or (3) evidence of which prior notice must be given under the general rule relating to notice of hearsay evidence¹⁹, is not receivable at a trial unless the party intending to put it in evidence has given notice to the other parties²⁰. Where the party intends to use the evidence as evidence of any fact then, except where it forms part of expert evidence²¹, he must give notice not later than the latest date for serving²² witness statements²³. If there are not to be witness statements, or he intends to put in the evidence solely in order to disprove an allegation made in a witness statement, he must give notice at least 21 days before the hearing at which he proposes to put in the evidence²⁴. Where the evidence forms part of expert evidence, he must give notice when the expert's report is served on the other party²⁵. Where the evidence is being produced to the court for any reason other than as part of factual or expert evidence, he must give notice at least 21 days before the hearing at which he proposes to put in the evidence²⁶. Where a party has given notice that he intends to put in the evidence, he must give every other party an opportunity to inspect it and to agree to its admission without further proof²⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'document' see PARA 810 note 15.

2 For these purposes, 'records' means records in whatever form: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(4).

3 For these purposes, 'business' includes any activity regularly carried on over a period of time, whether for profit or not, by any body (whether corporate or not) or by an individual: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(4).

4 For these purposes, 'public authority' includes any public or statutory undertaking, any government department and any person holding office under Her Majesty: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(4).

5 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(1).

7 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

8 For these purposes, 'officer' includes any person occupying a responsible position in relation to the relevant activities of the business or public authority or in relation to its records: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(4).

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(2).

10 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(2)(a).

11 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(2)(b).

12 As to affidavits see PARA 989 et seq.

13 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(3).

14 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9(5).

15 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 22.

16 See CPR 33.6(2).

17 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 981.

18 As to experts' reports see PARA 852 et seq.

19 Ie under CPR 33.2: see PARA 811.

20 CPR 33.6(1), (3).

21 Ie except where CPR 33.6(6) applies: see the text and note 25. As to expert evidence see PARA 835 et seq.

22 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

23 CPR 33.6(4). As to the time for serving witness statements see PARA 982. As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

24 CPR 33.6(5).

25 CPR 33.6(6).

26 CPR 33.6(7).

27 CPR 33.6(8). He may do so by serving a notice to admit facts: see CPR 32.18; and PARA 777.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/C. PROOF OF STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN DOCUMENTS/818. Admissibility and proof of Ogden Tables.

818. Admissibility and proof of Ogden Tables.

Provision is prospectively made under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 whereby the actuarial tables, together with explanatory notes, for use in personal injury¹ and fatal accident cases issued from time to time by the Government Actuary's Department² are admissible in evidence for the purpose of assessing, in a claim for personal injury³, the sum to be awarded as general damages for future pecuniary loss⁴. At the date at which this title states the law, this provision had not been brought into force⁵; but reference is frequently made to the tables (known as the 'Ogden Tables') when the court is assessing damages⁶.

1 For these purposes, 'personal injury' includes any disease and any impairment of a person's physical or mental condition: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 10(3)(a) (s 10 in force as from a day to be appointed: see note 5).

2 As to the Government Actuary see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

3 'Claim for personal injury' includes a claim brought by virtue of the Law Reform (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1934 or the Fatal Accidents Act 1976: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 10(3)(b). The statutory wording is 'action' but in civil proceedings in England and Wales actions are now known as 'claims': see PARA 18.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 10(1). They are to be proved by the production of a copy published by Her Majesty's Stationery Office: s 10(2).

5 The Civil Evidence Act 1995 (Commencement) Order 1996, SI 1996/3217, which brought the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 into force as from 31 January 1997, excluded s 10; and at the date at which this title states the law no further commencement order had been made under s 16(2). Further, s 10 is repealed in relation to Northern Ireland, as from a day to be appointed, by the Civil Evidence (Northern Ireland) Order 1997, SI 1997/2983, art 13(2), Sch 2; for savings see art 12.

6 See eg Worrall v Powergen plc [1999] Lloyd's Rep Med 177, (1999) Times, 10 February (the starting point for determining a multiplier based on life expectancy should be tables 11 to 20 of the Actuarial Tables with Explanatory notes for use in Personal Injury and Fatal Accident cases, published by the Government Actuary's Department); and see generally DAMAGES. For a general discussion of the Ogden Tables see Wells v Wells, Thomas v Brighton Health Authority, Page v Sheerness Steel Co plc [1999] 1 AC 345 at 369-370, [1998] 3 All ER 481 at 489-490, HL, per Lord Lloyd of Berwick.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW/819. Adverse admissions.

D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW

819. Adverse admissions.

Under the common law, an informal admission¹ adverse to a party to the proceedings, whether made by that party or by another person², might be given in evidence against that party for the purpose of proving any fact stated in the admission; and that rule was effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968³. The justification for the rule was that there was clearly a likelihood of truth⁴ in a statement adverse to the interests of its maker, which was not the case with statements made in his own favour⁵.

The common law rule preserved by the 1968 Act is, however, superseded by the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁶. Adverse admissions are thus admissible as hearsay⁷ evidence subject to the safeguards contained in the 1995 Act⁸.

Such admissions are to be distinguished from formal admissions which are discussed elsewhere in this title⁹.

Informal admissions may be by conduct as well as by statement¹⁰. Thus payment of money by one party to another would be an admission by the former that the money was due to the latter¹¹; and an admission of a debt due under a written agreement may be inferred from conduct in order to support a claim upon an account stated¹².

As the value of an admission depends on the circumstances in which it was made, evidence of such circumstances will affect the weight of the admission¹³. Thus, the party against whom it is tendered may show that it was made under an erroneous view of the law¹⁴, or in ignorance of the facts¹⁵, or when his mind was in an abnormal condition¹⁶, or he may be otherwise able to explain it away.

Admissions or representations made by a partner concerning partnership affairs, and in the ordinary course of its business, are evidence against the firm¹⁷.

Where a statement contains both informal admissions adverse to the party making it and exculpatory qualifications, explanations and excuses, and any part of it is admitted in evidence, the whole statement is admissible¹⁸. Such statements, which are known as 'mixed statements', are normally considered in the context of criminal proceedings¹⁹.

1 'Admission' included any representation of fact, whether made in words or otherwise: see the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(2) (repealed).

2 Admissions made by a minor before proceedings were begun might be admitted in evidence in matrimonial causes and might be given whatever weight the court considered it proper to attribute to them: Alderman v Alderman and Dunn[1958] 1 All ER 391, [1958] 1 WLR 177.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(1), (2)(a) (repealed).

4 Slattey v Pooley (1840) 6 M & W 664. The authorities cited in this paragraph must now be read in the light of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(1): see the text and note 6.

5 Smyth v Anderson (1849) 7 CB 21; and see R v Hardy (1794) 24 State Tr 199; Heane v Rogers (1829) 9 B & C 577; R v Petcherini (1855) 7 Cox CC 79; Darby v Ouseley (1856) 1 H & N 1; R v Haines (1858) 1 F & F 86; R v Erdheim[1896] 2 QB 260, CCR; Corke v Corke and Cook[1958] P 93, [1958] 1 All ER 224, CA.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(1).

7 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

8 See PARA 811 et seq.

9 See PARAS 776-778.

10 See eg Moriarty v London, Chatham and Dover Rly Co(1870) LR 5 QB 314 (evidence of party's conduct in suborning witnesses admitted against him as evidence of the weakness and falsity of his claim). See also PARA 1074.

11 James v Biou, Owen v Flack (1826) 2 Sim & St 600; but it would not be an admission against the payee that the payer was the person bound to pay it: see James v Biou, Owen v Flack (1826) 2 Sim & St 600.

12 Although the account stated may only take the form of a mere acknowledgment of a debt, which amounts to a promise and the inference that a debt exists, such evidence may be rebutted: see Camillo Tank Steamship Co Ltd v Alexandria Engineering Works (1921) 38 TLR 134, HL; Siqueira v Noronha[1934] AC 332, PC; and CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 1049.

13 Rouse v Redwood (1794) 1 Esp 155; Newton v Belcher(1848) 12 QB 921. As to general considerations relevant to the weighing of informal admissions see now the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 4; and PARA 815.

14 Newton v Liddiard(1848) 12 QB 925; Barker v Whitworth (1850) 14 LTOS 550.

15 Thus, if a person admits something of which he knows nothing, it is of no real evidential value: Customs Comptroller v Western Electric Co Ltd[1966] AC 367 at 371, [1965] 3 All ER 599, PC; and see Bird v Adams [1972] Crim LR 174, DC.

16 Heane v Rogers (1829) 9 B & C 577; cf Robson v Alexander (1828) 1 Moo & P 448; Tucker v Barrow (1828) 7 B & C 623; Skinners' Co v Irish Society (1838) 7 Beav 593 (cases of admissions made under compulsion). An admission made by a person when drunk is not so weighty as one made when he is sober: R v Hedges(1909) 3 Cr App Rep 262, CCA. As to admissions or confessions of guilt see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1540 et seq.

17 Partnership Act 1890 s 15. As to the effect of an acknowledgment by one of several partners see LIMITATION PERIODS; PARTNERSHIP.

18 See eg R v Duncan(1981) 73 Cr App Rep 359, CA; R v Sharp [1988] 1 All ER 65, [1988] 1 WLR 7, HL; R v Aziz[1996] AC 41, [1995] 3 All ER 149, HL.

19 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1540 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW/820. Published works.

820. Published works.

In civil proceedings¹ published works dealing with matters of a public nature, for example histories, scientific works, dictionaries and maps, are admissible as evidence of facts of a public nature stated in them². This was a rule of the common law³ which continues to have effect⁴. Such evidence is admissible without the statutory safeguards applying to hearsay⁵ evidence admitted under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(a). As to such works see PARAS 941-944.

3 Ie a rule effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(1), (2)(b) (repealed).

4 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2). The words in which a rule of law mentioned in s 7 is described are intended only to identify the rule and must not be construed as altering it in any way: s 7(4).

5 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(4); and PARA 811.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW/821. Public documents.

821. Public documents.

In civil proceedings¹ public documents², for example public registers, and returns made under public authority with respect to matters of public interest, are admissible as evidence of facts stated in them³. This was a rule of the common law⁴ which continues to have effect⁵. Such evidence is admissible without the statutory safeguards applying to hearsay⁶ evidence admitted under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁷.

The following categories of documents are, subject to public availability, treated as public documents: public statutes, parliamentary journals and government gazettes⁸; public registers⁹; public surveys, assessments and reports¹⁰; official certificates¹¹; books of corporations¹²; histories¹³, scientific works¹⁴ and works of reference¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'document' see PARA 810 note 15.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b).

4 The rule effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(1), (2)(c) (repealed). The original basis for the admissibility of public documents was that they were made in the course of official duty by persons with a duty to inquire into the truth (see Doe d France v Andrews (1850) 15 QB 756) of the statement, to record facts of public interest (Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; R v Halpin [1975] QB 907, [1975] 2 All ER 1124, CA) for retention for the public's benefit, and so as to be available for consultation by members of the public (Heyne v Fischel & Co (1913) 30 TLR 190; Mercer v Denne [1904] 2 Ch 534; affd [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA; Irish Society v Bishop of Derry (1846) 12 Cl & Fin 641, HL; A-G v Horner (No 2) [1913] 2 Ch 140, CA; Ioannou v Demetriou [1952] AC 84, [1952] 1 All ER 179, PC; White v Taylor [1969] 1 Ch 150, [1967] 3 All ER 349).

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2). As to the description of a rule of law in s 7 see s 7(4), cited in PARA 820 note 4.

6 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(4); and PARA 811.

8 See PARA 890.

9 See PARA 907.

10 See PARA 902.

11 See PARA 896.

12 See PARA 940.

13 See PARA 941.

14 See PARA 942.

15 See PARA 944.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW/822. Records.

822. Records.

In civil proceedings¹ records, for example the records of certain courts², treaties³, Crown grants⁴, pardons⁵ and commissions⁶, are admissible as evidence of facts stated in them⁷. This was a rule of the common law⁸ which continues to have effect⁹. Such evidence is admissible without the statutory safeguards applying to hearsay¹⁰ evidence admitted under the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' see PARA 808 note 1.

2 As to the proof of proceedings in superior courts see PARA 936.

3 See PARA 899.

4 See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 849 et seq.

5 See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 823 et seq.

6 See PARA 785.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(c).

8 Ie a rule effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(1), (2)(d) (repealed).

9 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2). As to the description of a rule of law in s 7 see s 7(4), cited in PARA 820 note 4.

10 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

11 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(4); and PARA 808.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(ii) Admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/D. EVIDENCE FORMERLY ADMISSIBLE AT COMMON LAW/823. Reputation and family tradition.

823. Reputation and family tradition.

Certain common law rules as to the admissibility of evidence of reputation and family tradition continue to apply¹. These are discussed elsewhere in this title².

¹ See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b).

² See PARA 827 et seq. See also the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(a) (evidence of reputation as a means of proving good or bad character); and PARA 1083.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(iii) Admissibility Otherwise than under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/824. Admissibility under other statutes.

(iii) Admissibility Otherwise than under the Civil Evidence Act 1995

824. Admissibility under other statutes.

Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹ affects the proof of documents² by means other than those specified in the relevant provisions³ of that Act⁴ or affects the operation of the enactments regarding:

- 21 (1) the mode of proving certain official documents⁵;
- 22 (2) documents printed under the superintendence of Her Majesty's Stationery Office⁶;
- 23 (3) the proof of statutes of certain colonial legislatures⁷;
- 24 (4) the proof and effect of registers and official certificates of certain foreign countries, dominions and colonies⁸;
- 25 (5) provision in respect of the public registers of other countries⁹.

Further, nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 affects the admissibility of evidence admissible otherwise than as hearsay¹⁰ under its provisions¹¹.

In addition to the enactments referred to in heads (1) to (5) above, there are many other statutory provisions regarding documentary evidence; for example under the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953, a certified copy of an entry in the register is admissible as evidence of the facts contained in it¹². Documentary evidence is discussed in more detail elsewhere in this title¹³.

Under the Children Act 1989, the Lord Chancellor may by order make provision for the admissibility of evidence which would otherwise be inadmissible under any rule of law relating to hearsay¹⁴.

1 le the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-16: see PARA 808 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'document' see PARA 810 note 15.

3 le specified in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 8, 9: see PARAS 816-817.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(1).

5 le the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2: see PARAS 892-893.

6 le the Documentary Evidence Act 1882 s 2: see PARA 889.

7 le the Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1: see PARA 898.

8 le the Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1: see PARA 923.

9 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(2). The provision referred to in head (5) in the text is the provision made in the Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5: see PARA 922.

10 As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808.

11 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 1(3); and PARA 808.

12 See the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(6); and PARA 1094.

13 See PARA 864 et seq.

14 See the Children Act 1989 s 96(3)-(6) (s 96(3) amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 15(1), Sch 4 Pt 1 paras 203, 207); the Children (Admissibility of Hearsay Evidence) Order 1993, SI 1993/621, art 2; PARA 806 text and note 10; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 228.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(3) HEARSAY EVIDENCE/(iii) Admissibility Otherwise than under the Civil Evidence Act 1995/825. Admissibility at common law.

825. Admissibility at common law.

At common law, there were a number of exceptions to the general rule excluding hearsay evidence in civil proceedings¹. The exceptions with regard to published works, published documents, records, and certain evidence of reputation or family tradition have been expressly preserved by statute².

The common law rule allowing the admissibility of informal adverse admissions has been expressly stated to be superseded by the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995³. Other exceptions to the general common law rule excluding hearsay evidence in civil proceedings were res gestae statements⁴ and evidence given in former proceedings; neither of these common law exceptions is preserved by statute. Although these exceptions are not expressly stated to be superseded, it is apprehended that evidence falling under these former common law exceptions is now admissible in civil proceedings subject to the statutory safeguards⁵.

1 As to the general rule at common law see PARA 806.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)-(4); and PARAS 820-823.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(1); and PARA 819.

4 As to the res gestae see PARAS 759, 1066.

5 See PARA 811 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(i) Introduction/826. Evidence of opinion and belief.

(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL

(i) Introduction

826. Evidence of opinion and belief.

The judge's task is first to establish the facts (if there is no jury)¹ relevant to the issue before him, and secondly to decide whether these facts are such as to entitle a party to a particular legal remedy². For both these tasks it may be necessary to draw conclusions from evidence deposed to by witnesses³. Thus the task of drawing conclusions is primarily a judicial one⁴. Where, however, the opinion or belief of a witness is relevant to an issue⁵ or is a way of conveying facts personally perceived by him⁶ he may give evidence of it. Reputation evidence⁷, expert evidence⁸ and lay evidence with regard to handwriting⁹ provide examples of admissible opinion evidence. Expert evidence is considered in a subsequent section of this title¹⁰.

1 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 See the Law Reform Committee (17th Report) Evidence of Opinion and Expert Evidence 1970 (Cmnd 4489) paras 1-2.

3 As to witnesses see PARA 966 et seq.

4 North Cheshire and Manchester Brewery Co Ltd v Manchester Brewery Co Ltd [1899] AC 83, HL; and see Carter v Boehm (1766) 3 Burr 1905; Rigg v Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire Rly Co (1866) 12 Jur NS 525; The Solway (1885) 10 PD 137; Joseph Crosfield & Sons Ltd v Techno-Chemical Laboratories Ltd (1913) 29 TLR 378; Sherrard v Jacob [1965] NI 151, CA. Evidence of a witness's opinion or belief was sometimes said to be irrelevant: see eg Hollington v F Hewthorn & Co Ltd [1943] KB 587, [1943] 2 All ER 35, CA.

5 See eg Mansell v Clements (1874) LR 9 CP 139, where a witness was allowed to state, in reply to a question by the judge, that he would not have taken a house but for an agent's card to view; R v King [1897] 1 QB 214, CCR (witness's opinion on the meaning of an alleged false pretence made to him). A witness will not always be able to give evidence of his own sanity: Bootle v Blundell (1815) 19 Ves 494; but see also Hunter v Edney (otherwise Hunter) (1881) 10 PD 93; Harnett v Bond [1925] AC 669, HL.

6 See PARA 831.

7 See PARA 827 et seq.

8 See PARA 835 et seq.

9 See PARA 832.

10 See note 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(ii) General Reputation/827. Reputation generally.

(ii) General Reputation

827. Reputation generally.

Evidence of reputation or family tradition¹ is admissible in any civil proceedings for the purpose of proving or disproving the existence of any public or general right², or of identifying any person or thing³, and in any such proceedings involving a question of pedigree or the existence of a marriage for the purpose of proving or disproving pedigree or the existence of the marriage⁴.

1 Where any rule of the common law effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(3), (4) (repealed) authorising the court to treat evidence of reputation or family tradition as proving or disproving the matters mentioned in the text applies, reputation or family tradition is to be treated, for the purposes of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 (see PARA 808 et seq) as a fact and not as a statement or multiplicity of statements about the matter in question: s 7(3). As to the construction of a description contained in s 7(3) see PARA 820 note 4. As to the common law rules relating to evidence of reputation see PARA 1083.

2 See PARA 828.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b)(ii): see PARA 829. See also note 4.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b)(i): see PARA 830. The rules set out in the text are common law rules effectively preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(3), (4) (repealed) and continuing to have effect by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3). The common law principle retained by s 7(3)(b) will not often be of importance as evidence of reputation may also be tendered as hearsay evidence under s 1 (see PARA 808) subject to the statutory safeguards (see ss 2-4; and PARAS 811-815). However, where the evidence is admissible by virtue of s 7(3)(b), the statutory safeguards do not apply: see s 1(3), (4); and PARA 808.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(ii) General Reputation/828. Reputation to prove or disprove public or general right.

828. Reputation to prove or disprove public or general right.

Evidence of reputation or family tradition¹ is admissible² to prove or disprove the existence of any public or general right³. 'Public right' imports a right exercisable by every member of the community, for example a right of highway⁴ or of fishery in tidal rivers⁵, or a right of way⁶. A general right is one which affects some considerable section of the community, for example a right of common⁷, or the right to elect the churchwardens of a parish⁸.

In order for such evidence to be admissible⁹ the declarant must be dead, the declaration must have been made before the dispute in which it is tendered had arisen¹⁰, and it must in general¹¹ directly assert or deny the right in question¹² and not relate merely to particular facts which support or deny it¹³.

1 As to reputation as a fact see PARA 827 note 1.

2 As to admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3) see PARA 827.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b)(ii); and see Barraclough v Johnson (1838) 8 Ad & El 99; Crease v Barrett (1835) 1 Cr M & R 919. It does not affect private rights: R v Antrobus (1835) 2 Ad & El 788. Reputation does not mean evidence of particular acts, which ought not to be permitted: Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA.

4 Crease v Barrett (1835) 1 Cr M & R 919; Vyner v Wirral RDC (1909) 73 JP 242, DC; A-G v Horner (No 2) [1913] 2 Ch 140, CA.

5 Neill v Duke of Devonshire (1882) 8 App Cas 135, HL.

6 St Edmundsbury and Ipswich Diocesan Board of Finance v Clark (No 2) [1973] 3 All ER 902, [1973] 1 WLR 1572; affd [1975] 1 All ER 772, [1975] 1 WLR 468, CA. As to whether a landing place is public see Drinkwater v Porter (1835) 7 C & P 181.

7 Lord Dunraven v Llewellyn (1850) 15 QB 791, Ex Ch; Nicholls v Parker (1805) 14 East 331n.

8 Berry v Banner (1792) Peake 156.

9 See also BOUNDARIES; HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES.

10 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Davies v Lowndes (1843) 6 Man & G 471, Ex Ch; Butler v Viscount Mountgarret (1859) 7 HL Cas 633; Lovat Peerage (1885) 10 App Cas 763, HL. Cf Gee v Ward (1857) 7 E & B 509 (declarations in previous litigation on different issue admissible). This requirement is strictly enforced: Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Shedden v A-G (1860) 30 LJP & A 217; affd sub nom Shedden v Patrick and A-G (1869) LR 1 Sc & Div 470, HL. Declarations made before a dispute has arisen for the purpose of preventing controversy have been held admissible: Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; affd sub nom Robson v A-G (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 471, HL; Shedden v A-G (1860) 30 LJP & A 217.

11 Declarations made in the obvious interests of the declarant will generally be rejected (Brocklebank v Thompson [1903] 2 Ch 344), but the mere fact that a declaration may tend to support the declarant's title will be insufficient by itself to exclude the declaration (Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314).

12 Crease v Barrett (1835) 1 Cr M & R 919; R v Bliss (1837) 7 Ad & El 550; Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA; Radcliffe v Marsden UDC (1908) 72 JP 475; Fowke v Berington [1914] 2 Ch 308; and see Read v Bishop of Lincoln [1892] AC 644, PC.

13 R v Lordsmere District Inhabitants (1886) 16 Cox CC 65, CCR. However, omissions in documents may be evidence of non-existence of rights in question: Marquis of Anglesey v Lord Hatherton (1842) 10 M & W 218; Duke of Portland v Hill (1866) LR 2 Eq 765. As to documents see PARA 864 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(ii) General Reputation/829. Reputation to identify a person or thing.

829. Reputation to identify a person or thing.

Evidence of reputation¹ or family tradition is admissible² to identify any person or thing³. Such evidence has been admitted to identify a legatee⁴, the subject of a libel⁵, or a devise⁶, and to identify a picture⁷.

1 As to reputation as a fact see PARA 827 note 1.

2 As to admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3) see PARA 827.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b)(ii). As to identity generally see PARA 1076.

4 Re Gregory's Settlement and Will (1865) 34 Beav 600.

5 Jozwiak v Sadek [1954] 1 All ER 3, [1954] 1 WLR 275.

6 Anstee v Nelms (1856) 1 H & N 225; cf Re Steel, Wappett v Robinson [1903] 1 Ch 135.

7 Burton v Agnew (1913) Times, 4 February.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(ii) General Reputation/830. Reputation in questions of pedigree or the existence of a marriage.

830. Reputation in questions of pedigree or the existence of a marriage.

Reputation¹ or family tradition is admissible² in certain circumstances for the purpose of proving or disproving pedigree or the existence of a marriage³.

In matters of pedigree there must be a genealogical question in issue in the proceedings; the rule does not apply to proof of the facts which constitute a pedigree when they have to be proved for other purposes⁴. The reputation must relate either directly⁵ or to some incident of family history required for the proof of such an issue⁶. The declaration must have been made before the onset of the dispute⁷ by a person who has since died⁸, and the declarant must have been related to the person whose pedigree is in question⁹. A person related must be either a blood relative, or the spouse of one¹⁰.

Where the existence of a marriage is in question, evidence of reputation is receivable, not only from blood relatives but also from friends and neighbours¹¹, to prove the existence of the marriage¹². The evidence must remain general and not merely be founded on particular assertions¹³.

1 As to reputation as a fact see PARA 827 note 1.

2 As to admissibility under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3) see PARA 827.

3 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(b)(i).

4 Haines v Guthrie (1884) 13 QBD 818, CA; Re Davy [1935] P 1 at 8.

5 Kidney v Cockburn (1831) 1 Russ & M 167 (age); Haines v Guthrie (1884) 13 QBD 818, CA (relationship); R v St Mildred's, Canterbury (1838) 2 Jur 46 (identity); Eggleton v Eggleton (1843) 1 LTOS 529 (circumstances of births, marriages and deaths); Shields v Boucher (1847) 1 De G & Sm 40 (provenance, trade).

6 See eg Doe, Lessee of Banning v Griffin (1812) 15 East 293; Re Thompson (1887) 12 PD 100. Similar evidence is admissible on issues of legitimacy: Re Perton, Pearson v A-G (1885) 53 LT 707.

7 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL. As to when a dispute begins see Lovat Peerage (1885) 10 App Cas 763, HL. See also Shedden v A-G (1860) 30 LJP & A 217.

8 Butler v Viscount Mountgarret (1859) 7 HL Cas 633; Smith v Tebbitt (1867) LR 1 P & D 354.

9 Johnson v Lawson (1824) 2 Bing 86; Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314; Plant v Taylor (1861) 7 H & N 211; A-G v Köhler (1861) 9 HL Cas 654; Smith v Tebbitt (1867) LR 1 P & D 354. This issue is one for the judge: Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314.

10 Johnson v Lawson (1824) 2 Bing 86; Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1. Illegitimate relations were not usually admissible at common law (Doe d Bamford v Barton (1837) 2 Mood & R 28; Crispin v Doglioni (1863) 3 Sw & Tr 44), but this rule was relaxed in cases of legitimacy declarations (Re Davy [1935] P 1; Battle v A-G [1949] P 358; Scappaticci v A-G [1955] P 47, [1955] 1 All ER 193n (domicile)).

11 Elliott v Totnes Union (1892) 57 JP 151. Discordant reputation will naturally affect the weight given to the evidence: Andrewes v Uthwatt (1886) 2 TLR 895; Re Haynes, Haynes v Carter (1906) 94 LT 431.

12 See Sastry Velaidar Aronegary v Sembecutty Vaigalie (1881) 6 App Cas 364, PC; and see Porteous v Dorn (1974) 45 DLR (3d) 596 (Can SC). As to the normal means of proving marriages see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 21 et seq.

13 The more strict requirements of pedigree must be complied with: Shedden v A-G (1860) 30 LJPM & A 217. But cf Porteous v Dorn (1974) 45 DLR (3d) 596 (Can SC), where a statement of claim for wages as a housekeeper was held admissible as a declaration made before the dispute bearing directly on the pedigree of the plaintiff, in that it went to negative marriage between her mother and the defendant in the action for wages.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(iii) Opinions of Ordinary Witnesses/831. Opinions of non-expert witnesses conveying facts personally perceived.

(iii) Opinions of Ordinary Witnesses

831. Opinions of non-expert witnesses conveying facts personally perceived.

Where a person is called as a witness¹ in any civil proceedings², a statement of opinion by him on any relevant matter³ on which he is not qualified to give expert evidence⁴, if made as a way of conveying relevant facts personally perceived by him, is admissible as evidence of what he perceived⁵. Nothing in these provisions, however, prejudices any power of a court⁶, in any civil proceedings, to exclude evidence, whether by preventing questions from being put or otherwise, at its discretion⁷ or the operation of any agreement, whenever made, between the parties to any civil proceedings as to the evidence which is to be admissible, whether generally or for any particular purpose, in those proceedings⁸.

1 As to witnesses see PARA 966 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4.

3 'Relevant matter' includes an issue in the proceedings in question: Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(3). As to the distinction between evidence as to fact and a mere opinion see R v Davies[1962] 3 All ER 97, [1962] 1 WLR 1111, C-MAC; Sherrard v Jacob[1965] NI 151.

4 As to expert evidence see PARA 835 et seq.

5 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(2); and cf Sherrard v Jacob[1965] NI 151. Witnesses have long given evidence of quasi-opinion on such matters as identity (see PARA 1076), age (see PARA 1077), affection between two people (Greenslade v Dare (1855) 20 Beav 284; Wright v Tatham (1838) 5 Cl & Fin 670, HL; R v Loake(1911) 7 Cr App Rep 71, CCA) and speed. In road traffic cases, a person prosecuted for a speeding offence is not liable to be convicted solely on the evidence of one witness to the effect that, in the opinion of the witness, the person prosecuted was driving the vehicle at a speed exceeding a specified limit: see the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 89(2); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 856. In a case where copyright infringement is alleged, evidence of infringement has been given by the person who knew the original picture, without it being produced: Lucas v Williams & Sons[1892] 2 QB 113, CA. A witness may give his opinion as to whom expressions were understood by him to refer: Bourke v Warren (1826) 2 C & P 307; Broome v Gosden (1845) 1 CB 728; R v Barnard, ex p Lord Gower(1879) 43 JP 127; E Hulton & Co v Jones[1910] AC 20, HL; R v Hendry (1850) 4 Cox CC 243 (threat). As to what evidence may be given where words are alleged to be used other than with their ordinary meaning see LIBEL AND SLANDER.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4.

7 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 5(3)(a). As to the court's general power to control evidence see PARA 791.

8 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 5(3)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(iii) Opinions of Ordinary Witnesses/832. Handwriting; in general.

832. Handwriting; in general.

The proof of handwriting may¹ require either lay or expert evidence², or both, depending upon the point at issue. A person's handwriting may be proved by the opinion of witnesses who are acquainted with it³. The knowledge necessary for this purpose may have been acquired by the witness at any time⁴ having (1) seen the party write; or (2) received communications purporting to come from him⁵ in answer to those addressed to him by the witness; or (3) observed documents purporting to be in the party's handwriting in the ordinary course of business⁶. Knowledge, however, acquired before or during the trial by a non-expert witness for the express purpose of qualifying him to prove the party's handwriting at the trial will not suffice to make the evidence admissible⁷. Testimony thus admitted is considered to be primary and not secondary in its nature⁸. While evidence of opinion or belief is admitted for the purpose of proving handwriting where direct evidence of one who was present when the document was written is not available⁹, and familiarity with the handwriting in question may be slight¹⁰, an opinion based on mere inference is insufficient¹¹.

The opinions of handwriting experts¹² are admissible to decipher words beneath obliterations, erasures or alterations¹³, although it is for the court to determine what the words are. Experts may also give their opinions as to whether handwriting is natural or imitated¹⁴, and whether it shows points of comparison¹⁵, but it is for the court to determine whether a particular piece of writing is to be assigned to a particular person¹⁶, and documents may be submitted to the court for comparisons to be made¹⁷. The weight to be attached to any expert evidence depends upon the skill of the expert¹⁸ and the evidence of a lay witness may be preferred to that of a handwriting expert¹⁹.

1 The name, in a signature, may be itself sufficient proof of the identity of the signatory: Roden v Ryde (1843) 4 QB 626. As to proof of handwriting generally see PARA 864.

2 As to expert evidence generally see PARA 835 et seq.

3 As to proof of handwriting in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1488. As to proof of the writing of a justice of the peace or of the writing in documents relating to magistrates' court proceedings see the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1981, SI 1981/552, r 67(1).

4 There must have been sufficient opportunity to acquire a knowledge of the handwriting to make the evidence admissible: R v O'Brien (1911) 7 Cr App Rep 29, CCA; Pitre v R [1933] 1 DLR 417. See also Burr v Harper (1816) Holt NP 420, and Warren v Anderson (1839) 8 Scott 384.

5 Harrington v Fry (1824) 1 C & P 289; and see Gould v Jones (1762) 1 Wm Bl 384.

6 Doe d Mudd v Suckermore (1837) 5 Ad & El 703; Re Clarence Hotel, Ilfracombe, Ltd (1909) 54 Sol Jo 117; R v O'Brien (1911) 7 Cr App Rep 29, CCA.

7 R v Crouch (1850) 4 Cox CC 163; Stranger v Searle (1793) 1 Esp 13; R v Rickard (1918) 119 LT 192, CCA.

8 Lucas v Williams & Sons [1892] 2 QB 113, CA.

9 See Sayer v Glossop (1848) 2 Exch 409; Wright v Cobb (1885) 1 TLR 555, DC; Carey v Pitt (1797) Peake Add Cas 130; Batchelor v Honeywood (1799) 2 Esp 715; Greaves v Hunter (1826) 2 C & P 477; Drew v Prior (1843) 5 Man & G 264; Chant v Brown (1852) 9 Hare 790; Smith v Sainsbury (1832) 5 C & P 196; Doe d Mudd v Suckermore (1837) 5 Ad & El 703.

10 It is sufficient if the witness has acted on letters received from the person whose handwriting is in dispute: Harrington v Fry (1824) 1 C & P 289; Tharpe v Gisburne (1825) 2 C & P 21; R v Slaney (1832) 5 C & P 213; Murieta v Wolfhagen (1849) 2 Car & Kir 744; Ovenston v Wilson (1845) 2 Car & Kir 1. A signature may be proved by a witness who has only seen the surname written on some other occasion: Lewis v Sapio (1827) Mood & M 39, disapproving Powell v Ford (1817) 2 Stark 164; Willman v Worrall (1838) 8 C & P 380; cf Eagleton and Coventry v Kingston (1803) 8 Ves 438; R v Crouch (1850) 4 Cox CC 163 (constable and prisoner).

11 Mendes da Costa v Pym (1797) Peake Add Cas 144. A witness who bases his belief as to handwriting on the contents of a paper and on other circumstances may be asked what those circumstances are: R v Murphy and Douglas (1837) 8 C & P 297.

12 A police officer is not as such a handwriting expert: R v Crouch (1850) 4 Cox CC 163; R v Rickard (1918) 119 LT 192, CCA.

13 R v Williams (1838) 8 C & P 434; Ffinch v Combe [1894] P 191; Re Brasier [1899] P 36.

14 Goodtitle d Revett v Braham (1792) 4 Term Rep 497; R v Cator (1802) 4 Esp 117; R v Shepherd (1845) 1 Cox CC 237.

15 For observations on the dangers of comparisons of handwriting by persons unqualified to do so see R v O'Sullivan [1969] 2 All ER 237, [1969] 1 WLR 497, CA; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1488.

16 Wakeford v Bishop of Lincoln (1921) 90 LJPC 174; Cresswell v Jackson (1864) 4 F & F 1. As to handwriting in forgery cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1488; and see Dass (an infant) v Masih [1968] 2 All ER 226, [1968] 1 WLR 756, CA (expert's opinion admissible that postscript to a letter admittedly written by defendant was a forgery).

17 See the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 8, which applies to civil as well as criminal cases; and PARA 834. As to the standard of proof see R v Ewing [1983] QB 1039, [1983] 2 All ER 645, CA.

18 R v Silverlock [1894] 2 QB 766, CCR. It may not be great: Robson v Rocke (1824) 2 Add 53.

19 See eg Fuller v Strum [2000] All ER (D) 2392; revsd on other grounds [2001] EWCA Civ 1879, [2002] 2 All ER 87, [2002] 1 WLR 1097.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(iii) Opinions of Ordinary Witnesses/833. Handwriting in ancient documents.

833. Handwriting in ancient documents.

When necessary¹, the handwriting in ancient documents may be proved in the same way as in other documents², or by comparison with other documents the authenticity of which is not disputed³, or even (where by reason of lapse of time no witness acquainted with the handwriting can be found, and no strict proof can be given of the genuineness of other documents with which comparison might be made) by a witness who, in the course of his business, has acquired a knowledge of the character of the handwriting and the person whose handwriting is in dispute, from his acquaintance with a number of documents purporting to have been written or signed by that person⁴; but it is otherwise when the knowledge is acquired not in the course of business but from a study of such other documents for the purpose of giving evidence⁵.

1 As to ancient documents proving themselves see PARA 869.

2 See PARA 832; and Morewood v Wood (1791) 14 East 327; Taylor v Cook (1820) 8 Price 650; Doe d Mudd v Suckermore (1837) 5 Ad & El 703; Fitzwalter Peerage (1844) 10 Cl & Fin 193, HL. As to proof of documents more than 20 years old see PARA 869; and see Fenwick v Reed (1821) 6 Madd 7; Camoy's Peerage (1839) 6 Cl & Fin 789, HL; Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314.

3 As to proof by comparison with other handwriting see PARA 834.

4 See PARA 832; and Fitzwalter Peerage (1844) 10 Cl & Fin 193, HL; Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314.

5 See PARA 832.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(4) EVIDENCE OF OPINION AND BELIEF; IN GENERAL/(iii) Opinions of Ordinary Witnesses/834. Comparison of handwriting.

834. Comparison of handwriting.

Comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the judge's satisfaction to be genuine may be permitted to be made by witnesses¹; and such writings, and the evidence of witnesses respecting them, may be submitted to the court as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing in dispute². It is wrong for a jury³ to be invited to compare handwriting without the assistance of an expert⁴. It is immaterial that the writing with which the comparison is made is not and cannot be made evidence in the case⁵.

1 As to witnesses generally see PARA 966 et seq.

2 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 8. This applies in both civil and criminal courts: s 1. The recurrence in different writings of an identical misspelling tends to prove the identity of the writers: Brookes v Tichborne (1850) 5 Exch 929; and see R v Voisin [1918] 1 KB 531, CCA. As to the evidence required on a charge of forgery to show that the part of a document which is forged is in the handwriting of the accused see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1488. As to the standard of proof see R v Ewing [1983] QB 1039, [1983] 2 All ER 645, CA. The opinion of a handwriting expert based on comparison with a photocopy of the document is admissible under the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 8: Lockheed-Arabia Corp v Owen [1993] QB 806, [1993] 3 All ER 641, CA.

3 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

4 R v Tilley [1961] 3 All ER 406, [1961] 1 WLR 1309, CCA; R v Harden [1963] 1 QB 8, [1963] 1 All ER 286, CCA; R v O'Sullivan [1969] 2 All ER 237, [1969] 1 WLR 497, CA.

5 Birch v Ridgway (1858) 1 F & F 270; Cresswell v Jackson (1860) 2 F & F 24. The comparison may be made by the jury (Cobbett v Kilminster (1865) 4 F & F 490; Scard v Jackson (1875) 24 WR 159) or, when there is no jury, by the judge (R v Smith (1909) 3 Cr App Rep 87, CCA); and may be made with a document written in court for this purpose (Doe d Devine v Wilson (1855) 10 Moo PCC 502; Cobbett v Kilminster (1865) 4 F & F 490). There is old authority to the effect that proof of genuineness must be given at the trial itself, and cannot be ordered during preliminary proceedings: see Wilson v Thornbury (1874) LR 17 Eq 517; however, it is doubtful that this would now be followed. As to the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence see PARA 791.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(i) Introduction/835. Subjects of expert evidence; in general.

(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE

(i) Introduction

835. Subjects of expert evidence; in general.

Courts frequently have to decide upon matters requiring specialised knowledge¹ and, in appropriate cases, the court will admit expert evidence². Where a person is called as a witness³ in any civil proceedings⁴ his opinion⁵ is admissible⁶ on any relevant matter⁷, including an issue in the proceedings⁸, on which he is qualified⁹ to give expert evidence, but subject to important procedural limitations¹⁰. If the subject under investigation does not require specialist knowledge, expert evidence will generally be excluded¹¹, although a specialist witness may be both an expert witness and a witness of fact¹².

Expert medical evidence¹³ is particularly significant in personal injury cases¹⁴ and cases involving children¹⁵. Expert evidence is admitted on questions of foreign law¹⁶. Other subjects on which expert evidence has been admitted include matters of science, art and trade¹⁷, handwriting¹⁸, forestry¹⁹, alterations in wills²⁰, military usage²¹, engineering²², shipbuilding²³, accountancy and actuarial matters²⁴, patent specifications²⁵, banking management issues²⁶ and underwriting²⁷. The court may also accept evidence of canons of taste, it having no judicial knowledge of such matters itself²⁸. These examples do not purport to be a comprehensive list.

The court also has power to appoint one or more assessors to assist it in dealing with a matter in which the assessor has skill or experience²⁹.

1 A court does not have to act in accordance with an expert's approach to a subject; eg on a claim for damages for the loss of expectation of life, actuarial principles may be eschewed (see Fletcher v Autocar Transporters Ltd[1968] 2 QB 322, [1968] 1 All ER 726, CA) although the use of the Ogden Tables is encouraged (see PARA 818). Where there is a conflict in the expert evidence, a judge is entitled to exercise his judgment in resolving it, although, in rejecting a coherent and reasoned opinion, he is required to give a coherent and reasoned explanation for doing so and for accepting the opposing evidence: Lowe v Haverling NHS Trust (2001) 62 BMLR 69, [2001] All ER (D) 253 (Jun); Glicksman v Redbridge Healthcare NHS Trust[2001] EWCA Civ 1097, 63 BMLR 109, [2001] All ER (D) 149 (Jul); and see Re B (children: non-accidental injury)[2002] EWCA Civ 902, [2002] 2 FCR 654, [2002] All ER (D) 452 (May); Re N-B (children) (residence: expert evidence) [2002] EWCA Civ 1052, [2002] 3 FCR 259, [2002] All ER (D) 51 (Jul) (in a child care case, a judge is entitled to depart from the experts in relation to issues of management, placement and welfare, but he must explain fully his departure). Cf Abada v Gray (1997) 40 BMLR 116, CA (a judge does not have to give reasons for his conclusion, particularly where it may have depended upon his assessment of the skill, knowledge and experience of expert witnesses, nor does he have to state why he prefers one expert's evidence to that of another); Lahey v Merton, Sutton and Wandsworth Health Authority (1999) 48 BMLR 18, CA (a judge does not necessarily have to explain why he found the contributions of expert witnesses partisan and unhelpful); and see Fuller v Strum[2000] All ER (D) 2392 (no obligation on judge to prefer evidence of handwriting expert over that of lay witness; revsd on other grounds [2001] EWCA Civ 1879, [2002] 2 All ER 87, [2002] 1 WLR 1097); JD Williams & Co Ltd v Michael Hyde & Associates Ltd [2000] All ER (D) 930, CA (judge was entitled to come to the conclusion that the exercise of deciding whether further investigation of the risk of discoloration of the defendant's stock was or was not required was not something which required any special architectural skills, and made no error of law in doing so). As to the power of a judge to prefer one body of evidence to another on the ground that the other is not capable of withstanding logical analysis see Calver v Westwood Veterinary Group (2000) 58 BMLR 194, [2000] All ER (D) 1973, CA; and NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 23.

See also Youssif v Jordan[2003] EWCA Civ 1852, (2004) Times, 22 January; and Coopers Payen Ltd v Southampton Container Terminal Ltd[2003] EWCA Civ 1223, [2004] 1 Lloyd's Rep 331. The judge should consider the expert evidence before reaching any conclusions on the facts: Hall v Jakto Transport Ltd[2005] EWCA Civ 1327, [2005] All ER (D) 123 (Nov), (2005) Times, 28 November.

2 The weight to be attached to expert evidence is a matter for the court: R v Rivett(1950) 34 Cr App Rep 87, CCA. Courts have heard expert evidence since at least the sixteenth century: Buckley v Rice Thomas (1554) 1 Plowd 118. They do not always accept the view of the proffered expert: see *Davie v Edinburgh Magistrates*1953 SC 34; and see the cases cited in note 1.

3 As to expert witnesses see PARA 836 et seq; and as to witnesses generally see PARA 966 et seq.

4 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4.

5 See, however, R v Deputy Industrial Injuries Comr, ex p Moore[1965] 1 QB 456, [1965] 1 All ER 81, CA (expert's adoption of previous expert testimony as his own). See also R v Abadom[1983] 1 All ER 364, CA. An expert should not give hearsay evidence of facts of transactions of which he has no personal knowledge: English Exporters (London) Ltd v Eldonwall Ltd[1973] Ch 415, [1973] 1 All ER 726 (expert valuer allowed to give his opinion on values, although a substantial contribution to the formation of those opinions had been made by hearsay). An expert may refresh his memory by reference to works on the subject of his skill: Sussex Peerage Case (1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85, HL; Collier v Simpson (1831) 5 C & P 73; Clark v Adie (No 2) (1877) 2 App Cas 423, HL.

6 le subject to any rules of court made in pursuance of the Civil Evidence Act 1972: s 3(1) (amended by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 15(2), Sch 2).

7 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(1) (as amended: see note 6).

8 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(3); and see Re M and R (minors) (expert opinion: evidence)[1996] 4 All ER 239, [1996] 2 FCR 617, CA. See also DPP v A and BC Chewing Gum Ltd[1968] 1 QB 159, [1967] 2 All ER 504, DC. For the possible dangers of admitting expert opinion see Joseph Crosfield & Sons Ltd v Techno-Chemical Laboratories Ltd (1913) 29 TLR 378. As to the limits of admissibility of expert evidence in criminal proceedings see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

9 It is for the judge to decide whether a witness has sufficient knowledge or expertise to qualify as an expert; there is no need for it to have been acquired professionally: R v Silverlock[1894] 2 QB 766, CCR, where a solicitor gave expert evidence as an amateur handwriting expert. In each case the decision will be one of fact and degree: R v Somers[1963] 3 All ER 808, [1963] 1 WLR 1306, CCA. Evidence of foreign law does not now have to be given by persons who have practised in it: see the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(1); and PARA 1088. The grounds of an expert's opinion may always be investigated by examination, fact and experiment: Birrell v Dryer(1884) 9 App Cas 345, HL; R v Heseltine (1873) 12 Cox CC 404. The court should be slow to find that a professional person has breached his duty of skill and care without evidence from those within the same profession; where the case is not 'open and shut' the evidence of a structural engineer is not expert evidence on the issue of the surveyor's negligence within the meaning of the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3: Sansom v Metcalfe Hambleton & Co [1998] 26 EG 154, CA. See also Field v Leeds County Council (1999) 32 HLR 618, [2000] 1 EGLR 54, CA (employee who was properly qualified to give evidence allowed to be an expert witness for his employer); Southwark London Borough Council v Simpson [2000] EHLR 43, DC (surveyor not qualified to give expert evidence on connection between dampness and mould growth, and adverse effects on health); Liverpool Roman Catholic Archdiocese Trustees Incorporated v Goldberg (No 2)[2001] 4 All ER 950, sub nom Liverpool Roman Catholic Archdiocese Trustees Incorporated v Goldberg (No 3) [2001] 1 WLR 2337 (evidence of expert witness, who had close personal and professional relationship with defendant, inadmissible on ground of public policy); Clarke v Marlborough Fine Art (London) Ltd (No 3) [2002] All ER (D) 105 (Jan) (evidence of art lawyer without personal experience of relevant negotiations not admitted as expert report). In child care cases, judges should be cautious in receiving supportive testimony from adult psychiatrists called on behalf of a vulnerable patient and with little experience of child care and child placement: Re D (simultaneous applications for care and freeing orders)[1999] 3 FCR 65, CA.

10 As to the restrictions on adducing expert evidence see PARAS 838-840. The High Court has an inherent jurisdiction to determine the admissibility of expert evidence at a pre-trial review: Woodford & Ackroyd (a firm) v Burgess(1999) Times, 1 February, CA. A private pre-trial review between expert witnesses does not infringe a party's right to a fair trial: Hubbard v Lambeth, Southwark and Lewisham Health Authority [2001] EWCA Civ 1455, [2001] All ER (D) 11 (Sep), (2001) Times, 8 October. A single joint expert should not, however, meet with one party only: see PARA 849. Furthermore, there may be a breach of the right to a fair trial if a litigant is denied the opportunity to examine and comment on evidence being considered by a single expert before he produces his report: see PARA 840 text and notes 17-18.

11 United States Shipping Board v The St Albans[1931] AC 632, PC; and see Process Church of the Final Judgment v Rupert Hart-Davis Ltd(1975) Times, 29 January, CA; M O'Donnell & Sons (Huddersfield) Ltd v HSBC Bank plc (formerly Midland Bank plc) [2001] EWCA Civ 2108, [2001] All ER (D) 439 (Nov) (judge correct not to allow expert evidence to be admitted when construing the phrase 'other debts').

12 Seyfang v GD Searle & Co[1973] QB 148, [1973] 1 All ER 290.

13 For examples of cases where expert medical evidence has been admitted see R v Wright (1821) Russ & Ry 456; Richmond v Richmond (1914) 111 LT 273; Yorke v Yorkshire Insurance Co [1918] 1 KB 662; R v Somers [1963] 3 All ER 808, [1963] 1 WLR 1306, CCA; DPP v A and BC Chewing Gum Ltd [1968] 1 QB 159, [1967] 2 All ER 504, DC.

14 As to obtaining medical opinions before the commencement of proceedings see PARA 841.

15 The essence of case management in proceedings relating to children is that the process should be transparent and that each party should know the case it has to meet. It is for the court to decide what expert evidence ought to be obtained in any case, and it is quite contrary to the spirit and letter of the approach to expert evidence developed since the Children Act 1989 that one party, without notice to the other or the court, should commission a report from an expert which neither the court nor the other party knows anything about: Re A (children) (contact: expert evidence) [2001] 1 FLR 723, [2001] All ER (D) 56 (Feb). See also Re M (Minors) (Care Proceedings: Conflict of Children's Wishes: Instruction of Expert Witnesses) [1994] 1 FCR 866, [1994] 1 FLR 749; Re G (Minors) (Expert Witnesses) [1994] 2 FCR 106, [1994] 2 FLR 291; Re S and B (Minors) (Child Abuse: Evidence) [1991] FCR 175, [1990] 2 FLR 489, CA (whether evidence of specialist social worker as to patient's credibility should be accepted as expert evidence); and see PARA 768 note 17. A clear boundary must be drawn between a medical decision for doctors to determine what is clinically required for the treatment of a child, and a forensic decision, which is a case management decision for the judge, as to what is necessary to ensure the proper determination of an issue: Re M (A Child) (Injured Child: Evidence) [2007] EWCA Civ 589, [2007] 2 FCR 797, [2007] 2 FLR 1006. As to the use of experts and the instruction of experts in family proceedings see Practice Direction (experts in family proceedings relating to children) [2008] All ER (D) 18 (May).

16 See PARA 1088.

17 Carter v Boehm (1766) 3 Burr 1905; Jameson v Drinkald (1826) 12 Moore CP 148; Ramadge v Ryan (1832) 9 Bing 333; Rich v Pierpont (1862) 3 F & F 35.

18 See PARAS 832-834.

19 Weld-Blundell v Wolseley [1903] 2 Ch 664.

20 Ffinch v Combe [1894] P 191.

21 Bradley v Arthur (1825) 4 B & C 292.

22 Folkes v Chadd (1782) 3 Doug KB 157.

23 Thornton v Royal Exchange Assurance Co (1790) Peake 25; Beckwith v Sydebotham (1807) 1 Camp 116; The Robin [1892] P 95.

24 Bond v Barrow Haematite Steel Co [1902] 1 Ch 353.

25 As to the correct scope of expert evidence in construing patent specifications see American Cyanamid Co v Ethicon Ltd [1979] RPC 215.

26 Barings plc (in liquidation) v Coopers & Lybrand (a firm), Barings Futures (Singapore) Pte Ltd (in liquidation) v Mattar [2001] Lloyd's Rep Bank 85, [2001] All ER (D) 110 (Feb).

27 Ionides v Pender (1874) LR 9 QB 531.

28 See Re Pinion, Westminster Bank Ltd v Pinion [1965] Ch 85, [1964] 1 All ER 890, CA. The meaning of 'technical terms' can often be decided by means other than the calling of expert evidence: Baldwin and Francis Ltd v Patents Appeal Tribunal [1959] AC 663, [1959] 2 All ER 433, HL. The opinions of nautical witnesses as to proper navigation will be admissible provided that the court is not sitting with assessors (Sills v Brown (1840) 9 C & P 601; Fenwick v Bell (1844) 1 Car & Kir 313; The Kestrel (1881) 6 PD 182; The Assyrian (1890) 63 LT 91, CA); and cf Lewis v Port of London Authority (1914) 111 LT 776, CA, where such evidence was admitted where a judge was assisted by a medical assessor.

29 See PARA 863.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(i) Introduction/836. Membership organisations for expert witnesses.

836. Membership organisations for expert witnesses.

It is for the judge to decide whether a witness has sufficient knowledge or expertise to qualify as an expert¹. However, there are various membership organisations for expert witnesses which offer accreditation and training. Among these are the Expert Witness Institute ('EWI')², the Academy of Experts³ and the Society of Expert Witnesses⁴. All these organisations maintain internet sites on the World Wide Web where details of their aims and objectives, rules and membership may be found, but none has a statutory basis and there is no statutory requirement that an expert witness be a member of such an organisation.

The Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners is a professional regulatory body which prepares and manages a register of currently competent forensic practitioners in certain specialties⁵. The council maintains an internet site on the World Wide Web which gives details of its organisation, aims and objectives and provides a searchable register⁶. At the date at which this title states the law, the majority of practitioners registered were concerned mainly with work in the criminal courts and coroners' courts; however, the council was in consultation with interested bodies on the possibility of extending registration to cover specialities mainly relevant to civil proceedings⁷.

1 See PARA 835 note 9.

2 The Expert Witness Institute is located at 7 Warwick Court, London WC1R 5DJ. At the date at which this title states the law, the EWI maintained an internet site at www.ewi.org.uk.

3 The Academy of Experts is located at 3 Gray's Inn Square, London WC1R 5AH. At the date at which this title states the law, the Academy maintained an internet site at www.academy-experts.org.

4 The Society of Expert Witnesses can be contacted at PO Box 345, Newmarket Suffolk CB8 7TU. At the date at which this title states the law, the society maintained an internet site at www.sew.org.uk.

5 The council is located at Tavistock House, Tavistock Square WC1H 9HX. At present, the register is open to forensic practitioners in science, scene examination, fingerprint examination and odontology but it is envisaged that it will be extended to physicians (police surgeons), paediatricians and specialists in traffic accident investigation, fire investigation, information and communications technology, imaging and human identification.

6 At the date at which this title states the law, the council maintained an internet site at www.crfp.org.uk.

7 Information available at www.crfp.org.uk. For a discussion of this proposal see Simon Carne 'Registering the Experts' [2002] NLJ 365.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(i) Introduction/837. The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims and civil court guides.

837. The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims and civil court guides.

The Civil Justice Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims, published in June 2005 and approved by the Master of the Rolls¹, offers guidance to experts and to those instructing them in the interpretation of and compliance with Part 35 of the Civil Procedure Rules and its associated practice direction and to further the objectives of the Civil Procedure Rules in general². The protocol is intended to assist in the interpretation of those provisions in the interests of good practice but it does not replace them. It sets out standards for the use of experts and the conduct of experts and those who instruct them³.

Some courts have published their own guides which supplement the Civil Procedure Rules for proceedings in those courts⁴. These contain provisions affecting expert evidence⁵ and an expert witness must be familiar with them when they are relevant to his evidence⁶.

Certain other bodies have also produced expert witness protocols⁷.

¹ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 1. The protocol is annexed to Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 and replaces the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims (2001). The protocol applies to any steps taken for the purpose of civil proceedings by experts or those who instruct them on or after 5 September 2005: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 3.1.

² Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 2.1.

³ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 2.1. The protocol applies to all experts who are, or who may be, governed by CPR Pt 35 and to those who instruct them: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 3.2. Courts may take into account any failure to comply with the protocol when making orders in relation to costs, interest, time limits, the stay of proceedings and whether to order a party to pay a sum of money into court: para 3.4. Relevant provisions of the protocol are set out in PARA 838 et seq.

⁴ See PARA 757 note 4. As to the status of such court guides see PARA 16.

⁵ See eg The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.7 cited in PARA 852.

⁶ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims paras 2, 3.1.

⁷ See eg the Technology and Construction Solicitors Association's Expert Witness Protocol, available at the date at which this title states the law at www.tecsa.org.uk.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(ii) Restrictions on Expert Evidence/838. In general.

(ii) Restrictions on Expert Evidence

838. In general.

Provision may be made by rules of court as to the conditions subject to which oral expert evidence may be given in civil proceedings¹.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, expert² evidence must be restricted to that which is reasonably required to resolve the proceedings³ and no party may call an expert or put in evidence an expert's report without the court's permission⁴.

When a party applies for such permission he must identify the field in which he wishes to rely on expert evidence and, where practicable, the expert in that field on whose evidence he wishes to rely⁵. If such permission is granted it will be in relation only to the expert so named or the field so identified⁶.

The court may limit the amount of the expert's fees and expenses that the party who wishes to rely on the expert may recover from any other party⁷.

These restrictions apply to all ancillary relief proceedings⁸. At the trial of a matrimonial cause, the court may order that not more than a specified number of expert witnesses may be called⁹. In proceedings under the Children Act 1989, no person may, without the leave of the court, cause the child to be medically or psychiatrically examined, or otherwise assessed, for the purpose of the preparation of expert evidence for use in the proceedings¹⁰. Where the leave of the court has not been given, no evidence arising out of an examination or assessment to which this restriction applies may be adduced without the leave of the court¹¹. In such proceedings where there is a serious allegation against a parent it is wrong in principle to refuse parents the opportunity to go to an expert; moreover the instruction of an expert on behalf of a party does not necessarily either elaborate or elongate litigation¹².

1 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 2(4). As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4. Without prejudice to the generality of s 2(4), rules of court made in pursuance thereof may make provision for prohibiting a party who fails to comply with a direction given as mentioned in s 2(3)(b) (disclosure of experts' reports: see PARA 856) from adducing, except with the leave of the court, any oral expert evidence whatsoever with respect to matters of any class specified in the direction: s 2(5). Any rules of court made in pursuance of s 2 may make different provision for different classes of cases, for expert reports dealing with matters of different classes, and for other different circumstances: s 2(6). References in s 2 to an expert report are references to a written report by a person dealing wholly or mainly with matters on which he is (or would if living be) qualified to give expert evidence: s 2(7). As to expert evidence in magistrates' courts see the Criminal Procedure Rules 2005, SI 2005/384, Pt 33; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 727.

2 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10. If an expert is properly qualified to give evidence, the fact that he is employed by a local authority does not disqualify him from giving evidence on the authority's behalf: Field v Leeds City Council (1999) 32 HLR 618, [2000] 1 EGLR 54, CA.

3 CPR 35.1. This rule applies to claims allocated to the small claims track, as do CPR 35.3 (experts; overriding duty to the court: see PARA 848); CPR 35.7 (court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by a single joint expert: see PARA 840); and CPR 35.8 (instructions to a single joint expert: see PARA 847); but the remainder of CPR Pt 35 (see PARA 838 et seq) does not apply to small claims: see CPR 27.2(1)(e). As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq. As to the application of the CPR see generally PARA 32.

The spirit and effect of the CPR require the court to look even more closely at the need for expert evidence: see eg Thermos Ltd v Aladdin Sales & Marketing Ltd [2000] IP & T 41, [2000] FSR 402 per Jacob J; affd [2001] EWCA

Civ 667, [2001] IP & T 1085, [2001] All ER (D) 129 (May). See also JP Morgan Chase Bank v Springwell Navigation Corp[2006] EWHC 2755 (Comm), [2007] 1 All ER (Comm) 549 (expert evidence strayed outside relevant issue).

4 CPR 35.4(1). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As to the exercise of this discretion see eg Re a Company (No 24 of 2000) [2000] All ER (D) 2370; Mann v Chetty and Patel [2001] Lloyd's Rep PN 38, [2000] All ER (D) 1531, CA; Nessa v Walsall Metropolitan Borough Council [2000] All ER (D) 2351, CA; Ahmed v Stanley A Coleman and Hill[2002] EWCA Civ 935, [2002] All ER (D) 117 (Jun). As to expert evidence in asylum claims see eg Budak v Secretary of State for the Home Department [2000] All ER (D) 1662, CA; and see BRITISH NATIONALITY, IMMIGRATION AND ASYLUM. As to expert evidence in employment tribunal cases see De Keyser Ltd v Wilson [2001] IRLR 324, [2001] All ER (D) 237 (Mar), EAT; and EMPLOYMENT vol 41 (2009) PARA 1429. See also Heyward v Plymouth Hospital NHS Trust[2005] EWCA Civ 939, [2005] All ER (D) 212 (Jun), (2005) Times, 1 August (occupational stress).

5 CPR 35.4(2).

6 CPR 35.4(3).

7 CPR 35.4(4). See also CPR 1.1(2)(a), which requires the court, so far as practicable, to ensure that the parties are on an equal footing; and PARA 791.

8 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.61C (added by SI 1999/3491); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 932.

9 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.28(3)(c); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 837. 'Matrimonial cause' has the meaning assigned to it by the Matrimonial and Family Proceedings Act 1984 s 32 (see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 317); Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, SI 1991/1247 r 1.2(1) (definition added by SI 2005/2922).

10 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 4.18(1); the Family Proceedings Courts (Children Act 1989) Rules 1991, SI 1991/1395, r 18(1); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 207. As to the exercise of this discretion see eg Re M (judge's discretion) [2001] EWCA Civ 1428, [2002] 1 FLR 730, [2001] All ER (D) 16 (Sep) (judge in error in refusing leave to instruct a clinical psychologist at an early stage and with limited knowledge of the case, and in the face of agreement that an expert opinion was required). Any instructions for a forensic report must be impartial and, wherever possible, be joint and agreed with the other side: Re B (sexual abuse: expert's report) [2000] 2 FCR 8, CA.

11 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 4.18(3); the Family Proceedings Courts (Children Act 1989) Rules 1991, SI 1991/1395, r 18(3); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 207.

12 See Re S (children) (contact order)[2000] All ER (D) 2517, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(ii) Restrictions on Expert Evidence/839. Expert evidence generally to be given in a written report.

839. Expert evidence generally to be given in a written report.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, expert¹ evidence is to be given in a written report, unless the court² directs otherwise³. If a claim is on the fast track⁴, the court will not direct an expert to attend a hearing unless it is necessary to do so in the interests of justice⁵.

An expert's report must comply with the requirements set out in the relevant practice direction⁶ and, in addition, with the requirements of the approved protocol⁷. At the end of an expert's report there must be a statement that the expert understands his duty to the court and that he has complied with that duty⁸.

The expert's report must state the substance of all material instructions, whether written or oral, on the basis of which the report was written⁹. Such instructions will not be privileged¹⁰ against disclosure¹¹ but the court will not, in relation to those instructions:

- 26 (1) order disclosure of any specific document; or
- 27 (2) permit any questioning in court, other than by the party who instructed the expert,

unless it is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to consider the statement of instructions given¹² to be inaccurate or incomplete¹³. If the court is so satisfied, it will allow cross-examination of the expert on the contents of his instructions where it appears to be in the interests of justice to do so¹⁴.

An expert's report must be verified by a statement of truth¹⁵.

In nullity proceedings, where the evidence of a medical inspector or medical inspectors is not given at the trial, his or their report is treated as information furnished to the court by a court expert and is given such weight as the court thinks fit¹⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 35.5(1). This applies to ancillary relief proceedings: see the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.61C (added by SI 1999/3491); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 932. As to the application of the CPR see generally PARA 32. As to late service of an expert's report see Baron v Lovell [1999] CPLR 630, CA.

4 As to claims allocated to the fact track see PARAS 268, 286 et seq.

5 CPR 35.5(2).

6 CPR 35.10(1). As to the form of the report see PARA 852.

7 See the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims annexed to Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

8 CPR 35.10(2).

9 CPR 35.10(3).

10 As to the meaning of 'privilege' see PARA 551 note 1.

11 As to the meaning of 'disclosure' see PARA 538.

12 le under CPR 35.10(3): see the text and note 9.

13 CPR 35.10(4).

14 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 4.

15 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.3. As to the form of the statement of truth see PARA 852 note 25. As to statements of truth see generally CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613. As to the consequences of verifying a document containing a false statement without an honest belief in its truth see CPR 32.14; and PARA 988.

16 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.23(6); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 808.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(ii) Restrictions on Expert Evidence/840. Court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by a single joint expert.

840. Court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by a single joint expert.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR'), where two or more parties wish to submit expert¹ evidence on a particular issue, the court² may direct that the evidence on that issue is to be given by one expert only³. This is encouraged, and wherever possible a joint report should be obtained⁴.

The parties wishing to submit the expert evidence are called the 'instructing parties'⁵. Where the instructing parties cannot agree who should be the expert, the court may select the expert from a list prepared or identified by the instructing parties⁶ or direct that the expert be selected in such other manner as the court may direct⁷.

Where the court has directed that the evidence on a particular issue is to be given by one expert only but there are a number of disciplines relevant to that issue, a leading expert in the dominant discipline should be identified as the single expert. He should prepare the general part of the report and be responsible for annexing or incorporating the contents of any reports from experts in other disciplines⁸.

In many Admiralty and commercial cases, the use of a single joint expert is not appropriate and each party will generally be given permission to call one expert in each field requiring expert evidence⁹. When the use of a single joint expert is contemplated, the court will expect the parties to co-operate in developing, and agreeing to the greatest possible extent, terms of reference for that expert¹⁰.

In very many cases in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court¹¹ it is possible for the question of expert evidence to be dealt with by a single expert. Single experts are, for example, often appropriate to deal with questions of quantum in cases where the primary issues are as to liability. Likewise, where expert evidence is required in order to acquaint the court with matters of expert fact, as opposed to opinion, a single expert will usually be appropriate. There remains, however, a body of cases where liability will turn upon expert opinion evidence and where it will be appropriate for the parties to instruct their own experts; for example, in cases where the issue for determination is as to whether a party acted in accordance with proper professional standards, it will often be of value to the court to hear the opinions of more than one expert as to the proper standard in order that the court becomes acquainted with the range of views existing upon the question and in order that the evidence can be tested in cross-examination¹². It is not necessarily a sufficient objection to the making by the court of an order for a single joint expert that the parties have already appointed their own experts¹³.

In ancillary relief proceedings in the Family Division¹⁴, the introduction of expert evidence is likely to increase costs substantially and consequently the court will use its powers to restrict the unnecessary use of experts. Accordingly, where expert evidence is sought to be relied upon, parties should if possible agree upon a single expert whom they can jointly instruct. Where parties are unable to agree upon the expert to be instructed, the court will consider using the powers set out above to direct that evidence be given by one expert only. In such cases parties must be in a position at the first appointment or when the matter comes to be considered by the court to provide the court with a list of suitable experts or to make submissions as to the method by which the expert is to be selected¹⁵.

Where a single expert has been appointed, there is generally no need for that expert's evidence to be amplified by oral evidence or tested in cross-examination¹⁶. However, it has been held in the context of care proceedings in the Family Division, to which the CPR do not apply, that where a jointly instructed or other sole expert's report, although not binding on the court, is likely to have a preponderant influence on the court's assessment of fact, there may be a breach of the right to a fair trial¹⁷ if a litigant is denied the opportunity, before the expert report is produced, to examine and comment on the documents being considered by the expert and cross-examine witnesses interviewed by the expert and on whose evidence the report is based¹⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 35.7(1). This applies to small claims: see PARA 838 note 3. As to the application of the CPR see generally PARA 32. The appointment of a single joint expert does not prevent parties from instructing their own experts to advise (but the costs of such expert advisers may not be recoverable in the case): Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.6. Experts who have previously advised a party (whether in the same case or otherwise) should only be proposed as single joint experts if other parties are given all relevant information about the previous involvement: para 17.5. As to disclosure of experts' reports see PARA 856. As to circumstances in which a party, who has agreed to the appointment of a single joint expert and who does not accept his opinion, may be given permission to instruct, and even rely upon, a report from a further expert and, where permission is given, as to the procedure to be followed see Daniels v Walker [2000] 1 WLR 1382, [2000] CPLR 462, CA; Cosgrove v Pattison [2000] All ER (D) 2007, [2001] CPLR 177; Layland v Fairview New Homes plc [2002] EWHC 1350 (Ch), [2002] All ER (D) 102 (Jul); and PARA 847 note 5. There is no presumption in favour of the appointment of a single joint expert: Oxley v Penwarden [2001] CPLR 1, CA.

Where the single joint expert is unable to complete his report in accordance with the instructions given, an alternative expert may be appointed: see Kranidiotes v Paschali [2001] EWCA Civ 357, [2001] All ER (D) 342 (Mar). See also Re W (A Child) (Non-Accidental Injury: Expert Evidence) [2005] EWCA Civ 1247, [2005] 3 FCR 513.

4 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.2. Consideration should therefore be given by all parties to the appointment of single joint experts in all cases where a court might direct such an appointment. Single joint experts are the norm in cases allocated to the small claims track and the fast track: para 17.2. Where, in the early stages of a dispute, examinations, investigations, tests, site inspections, experiments, preparation of photographs, plans or other similar preliminary expert tasks are necessary, consideration should be given to the instruction of a single joint expert, especially where such matters are not, at that stage, expected to be contentious as between the parties. The objective of such an appointment should be to agree or to narrow issues: para 17.3.

5 CPR 35.7(2).

6 CPR 35.7(3)(a).

7 CPR 35.7(3)(b).

8 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 6.

9 The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.2; and see Voaden v Champion and the Owners of the Ship Timbuktu [2001] 1 Lloyd's Rep 739.

10 The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.3.

11 As to the Queen's Bench Division see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 613.

12 See The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) para 7.9.5.

13 See The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) para 7.9.6. An order for a single joint expert does not prevent a party from having his or her own expert to advise him or her, but he or she may well be unable to recover the cost of employing his or her own expert from the other party: para 4.13. The duty of an expert who is called to give evidence is to help the court: para 4.13; and see PARA 848.

14 As to the Family Division see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 617.

15 Practice Direction (ancillary relief) [2000] 3 All ER 379, [2000] 2 FCR 216 para 4.1.

16 Nevertheless, the court may permit amplification or cross-examination, to be carried out with restraint, where the need arises: see Austen v Oxfordshire County Council [2002] All ER (D) 97 (Apr).

17 As to the right to a fair trial see the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6; and PARAS 5, 792.

18 See Re C (care proceedings: disclosure of local authority's decision-making process) [2002] EWHC 1379 (Fam), [2002] 2 FCR 673, [2002] All ER (D) 226 (Jul).

UPDATE

840 Court's power to direct that evidence is to be given by a single joint expert

TEXT AND NOTES 1-7--CPR 35.7 substituted: SI 2009/2092.

NOTES 9, 10--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H2.2-H2.3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/A. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS BEFORE COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS/841. Expert opinions in clinical negligence or personal injury cases.

(iii) Instructions and Reports

A. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS BEFORE COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS

841. Expert opinions in clinical negligence or personal injury cases.

In clinical negligence disputes expert opinions may be needed (1) on breach of duty and causation; (2) on the patient's condition and prognosis; and (3) to assist in valuing aspects of the claim¹. Obtaining expert evidence will often be an expensive step and may take time, especially in specialised areas of medicine where there are limited numbers of suitable experts. Patients and healthcare providers, and their advisers, will therefore need to consider carefully how best to obtain any necessary expert help quickly and cost-effectively. Assistance with locating a suitable expert is available from a number of sources².

In personal injury claims joint selection of, and access to, experts is encouraged by the relevant pre-action protocol³. The protocol promotes the practice of the claimant obtaining a medical report and disclosing it to the defendant who then asks questions and/or agrees it and does not obtain his own report⁴. The protocol provides for nomination of the expert by the claimant in personal injury claims because of the early stage of the proceedings and the particular nature of such claims. If proceedings have to be issued, a medical report must be attached to those proceedings. However, if necessary after proceedings have commenced and with the permission of the court, the parties may obtain further expert reports. It would be for the court to decide whether the costs of more than one expert's report should be recoverable⁵. Some solicitors choose to obtain medical reports through medical agencies, rather than directly from a specific doctor or hospital. The defendant's prior consent to the action must be sought and, if the defendant so requests, the agency should be asked to provide in advance the names of the doctor or doctors whom they are considering instructing⁶.

Once a claimant and his solicitors consent to an examination by a doctor chosen by the other party, there is no requirement for any further consent by them before disclosure to the other party of the medical report prepared consequent to that examination⁷.

A pre-action protocol now sets out a code of good practice which parties should follow in all personal injury claims where the injury is not as a result of an accident but takes the form of an illness or disease⁸. The protocol covers disease claims which are likely to be complex and frequently not suitable for fast track procedures, even though they may fall within fast track limits⁹. The protocol is not limited to diseases occurring in the workplace but will embrace diseases occurring in other situations for example through occupation of premises or the use of products. It is not intended to cover those cases, which are dealt with as a 'group' or 'class' action¹⁰. In disease claims expert opinions will usually be needed (a) on knowledge, fault and causation; (b) on condition and prognosis; and (c) to assist in valuing aspects of the claim¹¹. Although the civil justice reforms and the Civil Procedure Rules encourage economy in the use of experts and a less adversarial expert culture, the protocol recognises that in disease claims, the parties and their advisers will require flexibility in their approach to expert evidence. Decisions on whether experts might be instructed jointly, and on whether reports might be disclosed sequentially or by exchange, should rest with the parties and their advisers. Sharing expert evidence may be appropriate on various issues including those relating to the value of the claim. However, the protocol does not attempt to be prescriptive on issues in relation to expert evidence¹². Obtaining expert evidence will often be an expensive step and may take time, especially in specialised areas where there are limited numbers of suitable experts. Claimants, defendants and their advisers, will therefore need to consider carefully how best to obtain any necessary expert help quickly and cost-effectively¹³. A flexible approach must be adopted in the obtaining of medical reports in disease claims. There will be very many occasions where the claimant will need to obtain a medical report before writing the letter of claim. In such cases the defendant will be entitled to obtain his own medical report. In some other instances it may be more appropriate to send the letter of claim before the medical report is obtained. Defendants will usually need to see a medical report before they can reach a view on causation¹⁴.

1 Pre-action Protocol for the Resolution of Clinical Disputes (Clinical Disputes Forum) para 4.1. As to the pre-action protocols see generally PARA 107 et seq. The role of a clinical case manager is that of witness of fact rather than expert witness: Wright v Sullivan [2005] EWCA Civ 656, [2006] RTR 116.

2 Pre-action Protocol for the Resolution of Clinical Disputes (Clinical Disputes Forum) para 4.3. As to membership organisations for expert witnesses see PARA 836. The civil justice reforms and the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR') will encourage economy in the use of experts and a less adversarial expert culture. It is recognised that in clinical negligence disputes, the parties and their advisers will require flexibility in their approach to expert evidence. Decisions on whether experts might be instructed jointly, and on whether reports might be disclosed sequentially or by exchange, should rest with the parties and their advisers. Sharing expert evidence may be appropriate on issues relating to the value of the claim. However, the protocol does not attempt to be prescriptive on issues in relation to expert evidence: para 4.2. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. As to the civil justice reforms see PARA 24 et seq.

3 Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims, Notes of Guidance para 2.14. Most frequently this will apply to the medical expert, but on occasions also to liability experts, eg engineers: Notes of Guidance para 2.14. Before any party instructs an expert he should give the other party a list of the name(s) of one or more experts in the relevant speciality whom he considers are suitable to instruct: Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims para 3.15. Where a medical expert is to be instructed the claimant's solicitor will organise access to relevant medical records: para 3.16. See also the specimen letter of instruction at Annex C to the protocol. Within 14 days the other party may indicate an objection to one or more of the named experts. The first party should then instruct a mutually acceptable expert. It must be emphasised that if the claimant nominates an expert in the original letter of claim, the defendant has 14 days to object to one or more of the named experts after expiration of the period of 21 days within which he has to reply to the letter of claim: para 3.17. If the second party objects to all the listed experts, the parties may then instruct experts of their own choice. It would be for the court to decide subsequently, if proceedings are issued, whether either party had acted unreasonably: para 3.17. If the second party does not object to an expert nominated, he is not entitled to rely on his own expert evidence within that particular speciality unless (1) the first party agrees; (2) the court so directs; or (3) the first party's expert report has been amended and the first party is not prepared to disclose the original report: para 3.19. Either party may send to an agreed expert written questions on the report, relevant to the issues, via the first party's solicitors. The expert should send answers to the questions separately and directly to each party: para 3.20. The cost of a report from an agreed expert will usually be paid by the instructing first party: the costs of the expert replying to questions will usually be borne by the party which asks the questions: para 3.21.

4 However, on a true understanding of the protocol, a defendant's non-objection to a nominated expert cannot of itself transform that expert, once instructed, into a single joint expert whose report is accordingly available to both parties. Although the protocol clearly encourages and promotes the voluntary disclosure of medical reports, it does not specifically require that. Accordingly, withholding a medical report does not constitute non-compliance with the protocol, although the instruction of another consultant without first giving a defendant an opportunity to object plainly does: Carlson v Townsend [2001] EWCA Civ 511, [2001] 3 All ER 663, [2001] 1 WLR 2415. As to the disclosure of experts' reports see further PARA 856.

5 Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims, Notes for Guidance para 2.14. Where the defendant admits liability in whole or in part, before proceedings are issued, any medical report obtained by agreement under the Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims must be disclosed to the other party. The claimant must delay issuing proceedings for 21 days from disclosure of the report, to enable the parties to consider whether the claim is capable of settlement. CPR Pt 36 permits claimants and defendants to make offers to settle pre-proceedings: see PARA 729 et seq. Parties should always consider before issuing proceedings if it is appropriate to make an offer under CPR Pt 36. If such an offer is made, the party making the offer must always supply sufficient evidence and/or information to enable the offer to be properly considered: Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims para 5.2.

6 Pre-action Protocol for Personal Injury Claims, Notes for Guidance para 2.15.

7 Kapadia v Lambeth London Borough Council [2000] IRLR 699, 57 BMLR 170, CA (to allow a medical practitioner a veto on disclosure on the ground that the claimant has not consented to it would constitute an impediment to the fair and expeditious conduct of the litigation as good practice requires disclosure of such reports for use in court); and see Department of Health v Bird [2001] All ER (D) 478 (Jul), EAT; cf Cornelius v De Taranto [2001] EWCA Civ 1511, 66 BMLR 62, [2001] All ER (D) 227 (Oct) (claimant not consenting to dissemination of medico-legal report by expert instructed by her to other health officials).

8 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims paras 2.1, 4.

9 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 2.2. Disease for the purpose of the protocol primarily covers any illness physical or psychological, any disorder, ailment, affliction, complaint, malady, or derangement other than a physical or psychological injury solely caused by an accident or other similar single event: para 2.2.

10 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 2.3.

11 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 9.1.

12 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 9.2.

13 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 9.3.

14 Pre-action Protocol for Disease and Illness Claims para 9.4. Where the parties agree the nomination of a single expert is appropriate, before any party instructs an expert he should give the other party a list of the name(s) of one or more experts in the relevant speciality whom he considers are suitable to instruct. The parties are encouraged to agree the instruction of a single expert to deal with discrete areas such as cost of care: para 9.5. Within 14 days the other party may indicate an objection to one or more of the named experts. The first party should then instruct a mutually acceptable expert. If the claimant nominates an expert in the original letter of claim, the 14 days is in addition to the 21 days within which the defendant must reply to the letter of claim: see para 9.6. If the second party objects to all the listed experts, the parties may then instruct experts of their own choice. It would be for the court to decide subsequently, if proceedings are issued, whether either party had acted unreasonably: para 9.7. If the second party does not object to an expert nominated, he will not be entitled to rely on his own expert evidence within that particular speciality unless the first party agrees, or the court so directs, or the first party's expert report has been amended and the first party is not prepared to disclose the original report: para 9.8. Either party may send to an agreed expert written questions on the report, relevant to the issues, via the first party's solicitors. The expert should send answers to the questions separately and directly to each party: para 9.9. The cost of a report from an agreed expert will usually be paid by the instructing first party: the costs of the expert replying to questions will usually be borne by the party which asks the questions: para 9.10. Where the defendant admits liability in whole or in part, before proceedings are issued, any medical report obtained under the protocol which the claimant relies upon, should be disclosed to the other party: para 9.11. Where the defendant admits liability in whole or in part before proceedings are issued, any medical report obtained under the protocol which the defendant relies upon, should be disclosed to the claimant: para 9.12.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/A. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS BEFORE COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS/842. Expert opinions in a construction or engineering dispute.

842. Expert opinions in a construction or engineering dispute.

Prior to commencing proceedings in a construction or engineering dispute, the claimant or his solicitor must send to each proposed defendant a copy of a letter of claim which must contain, among other specified information, the names of any experts already instructed by the claimant on whose evidence he intends to rely, identifying the issues to which that evidence will be directed¹. The defendant's letter of response to the claimant must similarly contain the names of any experts already instructed on whose evidence it is intended to rely, identifying the issues to which that evidence will be directed². If the parties are unable to agree on a means of resolving the dispute other than by litigation they should use their best endeavours to agree whether, if there is any area where expert evidence is likely to be required, a joint expert may be appointed, and if so, who that should be³.

1 Pre-action Protocol for Construction and Engineering Disputes para 3(vii). As to the pre-action protocols see generally PARA 107 et seq.

2 Pre-action Protocol for Construction and Engineering Disputes para 4.3.1(vi)

3 Pre-action Protocol for Construction and Engineering Disputes para 5.5(i). As to joint experts see PARA 840.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/A. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS BEFORE COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS/843. Expert opinions in professional negligence claims.

843. Expert opinions in professional negligence claims.

In professional negligence claims, as soon as the claimant decides that there are grounds for a claim against the professional, he must write a detailed letter of claim to the professional which must give, among other specified information, confirmation whether or not an expert has been appointed and if so, provide the identity and discipline of the expert, together with the date upon which the expert was appointed¹. Where the claim raises an issue of professional expertise whose resolution requires expert evidence, then if the claimant has obtained expert evidence prior to sending the letter of claim, the professional will have an equal right to obtain expert evidence prior to sending his letter of response or letter of settlement². If the claimant has not obtained expert evidence prior to sending the letter of claim, the parties are encouraged to appoint a joint expert. If they agree to do so, they should seek to agree the identity of the expert and the terms of the expert's appointment³. If agreement about a joint expert cannot be reached, all parties are free to appoint their own experts⁴.

Expert evidence is not always needed, although the use and role of experts in professional negligence claims is often crucial⁵.

1 Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol paras B2.1, B2.2(f). As to the pre-action protocols see generally PARA 107 et seq.

2 Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol para B7.1.

3 Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol para B7.2. If a joint expert is used the parties are left to decide issues such as the payment of the expert, whether joint or separate instructions are used, how and to whom the expert is to report, how questions may be addressed to the expert and how the expert should respond, whether an agreed statement of facts is required, and so on: Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol, Guidance Notes para C6.2. Even if a joint expert is appointed, it is possible that parties will still want to instruct their own experts. The protocol does not prohibit this: Guidance Notes para C6.4. As to joint experts see PARA 840.

4 Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol para B7.3. If separate experts are used, the parties are left to decide issues such as: whether the experts' reports should be exchanged, whether there should be an experts' meeting, and so on: Guidance Notes para C6.3.

5 Professional Negligence Pre-action Protocol, Guidance Notes para C6.1. However, the way in which expert evidence is used in an insurance brokers' negligence case is not necessarily the same as in an accountants' case. Similarly, the approach to be adopted in a £10,000 case does not necessarily compare with the approach in a £10m case. The protocol therefore is designed to be flexible and does not dictate a standard approach. On the contrary it envisages that the parties will bear the responsibility for agreeing how best to use experts: Guidance Notes para C6.1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/844. Appointment of expert.

B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS

844. Appointment of expert.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims¹ recommends that those intending to instruct an expert to give or prepare evidence for the purpose of civil proceedings should consider whether expert evidence is appropriate, taking account of the principles set out in Parts 1 and 35 of the Civil Procedure Rules², and in particular whether:

- 28 (1) the evidence is relevant to a matter which is in dispute between the parties;
- 29 (2) the evidence is reasonably required to resolve the proceedings³;
- 30 (3) the expert has expertise relevant to the issue on which an opinion is sought;
- 31 (4) the expert has the experience, expertise and training appropriate to the value, complexity and importance of the case;
- 32 (5) the relevant objects referred to under heads (1) to (4) above can be achieved by the appointment of a single joint expert⁴.

Those instructing experts are also reminded that although the court's permission is not generally required to instruct an expert, the court's permission is required⁵ before experts can be called to give evidence or their evidence can be put in⁶.

1 The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

2 As to CPR Pt 1 (the overriding objective) see PARA 791; and as to CPR Pt 35 (expert evidence) see PARA 838 et seq, PARA 852 et seq. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

3 See CPR 35.1; and PARA 838.

4 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 6.1(a)-(e). See eg Rollinson v Kimberly Clark Ltd [1999] CPLR 581, [1999] All ER (D) 617, CA (not acceptable when a trial date was fairly imminent for a solicitor to seek to instruct an expert without checking the availability of that expert for the trial). As to single joint experts see PARA 840.

5 See CPR 35.4(1); and PARA 838.

6 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 6.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/845. Terms of appointment and payment.

845. Terms of appointment and payment.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that terms of appointment are agreed at the outset¹ and should include:

- 33 (1) the capacity in which the expert is to be appointed (for example, party appointed expert, single joint expert or expert adviser);
- 34 (2) the services required of the expert (for example, provision of expert's report, answering questions in writing, attendance at meetings and attendance at court);
- 35 (3) time for delivery of the report;
- 36 (4) the basis of the expert's charges (either daily or hourly rates and an estimate of the time likely to be required, or a total fee for the services);
- 37 (5) travelling expenses and disbursements;
- 38 (6) cancellation charges;
- 39 (7) any fees for attending court;
- 40 (8) time for making the payment;
- 41 (9) whether fees are to be paid by a third party; and
- 42 (10) if a party is publicly funded, whether or not the expert's charges will be subject to assessment by a costs officer².

The protocol further recommends that, when necessary, arrangements should be made for dealing with questions to experts³ and discussions between experts⁴, including any directions given by the court, and provision should be made for the cost of this work⁵. The protocol states that payments contingent upon the nature of the expert evidence given in legal proceedings, or upon the outcome of a case, must not be offered or accepted; to do so would contravene the expert's overriding duty⁶ to the court and compromise his duty of independence⁷. Agreement to delay payment of an expert's fee until after the conclusion of the case is, however, permissible as long as the amount of the fee does not depend on the outcome of the case⁸.

1 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.2. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

2 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.2(a)-(j).

3 As to questions to experts see PARA 857.

4 As to discussions between experts see PARAS 859-861.

5 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.4.

6 As to the expert's overriding duty see PARA 848.

7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.6.

8 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.7.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/846. Instructions.

846. Instructions.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that those instructing experts ensure that they give clear instructions¹, including the following:

- 43 (1) basic information, such as names, addresses, telephone numbers, dates of birth and dates of incidents;
- 44 (2) the nature and extent of the expertise which is called for;
- 45 (3) the purpose of requesting the advice or report, a description of the matter(s) to be investigated, the principal known issues and the identity of all parties;
- 46 (4) the statement or statements of case² (if any), those documents which form part of standard disclosure³ and witness statements⁴ which are relevant to the advice or report;
- 47 (5) where proceedings have not been started⁵, whether proceedings are being contemplated and, if so, whether the expert is asked only for advice;
- 48 (6) an outline programme, consistent with good case management and the expert's availability, for the completion and delivery of each stage of the expert's work; and
- 49 (7) where proceedings have been started, the dates of any hearings (including any case management conferences and/or pre-trial reviews⁶), the name of the court, the claim number and the track to which the claim has been allocated⁷.

Experts who do not receive clear instructions should request clarification and may indicate that they are not prepared to act unless and until such clear instructions are received⁸.

The protocol states that experts must neither express an opinion outside the scope of their field of expertise, nor accept any instructions to do so⁹. Experts should confirm without delay whether or not they accept instructions¹⁰. They should also inform those instructing them (whether on initial instruction or at any later stage) without delay if:

- 50 (a) instructions are not acceptable because, for example, they require work that falls outside their expertise, impose unrealistic deadlines, or are insufficiently clear;
- 51 (b) they consider that instructions are or have become insufficient to complete the work;
- 52 (c) they become aware that they may not be able to fulfil any of the terms of appointment;
- 53 (d) the instructions and/or work have, for any reason, placed them in conflict with their duties as an expert; or
- 54 (e) they are not satisfied that they can comply with any orders that have been made¹¹.

An expert's instructions are not privileged from disclosure when given for the purposes of court proceedings¹².

In cases under the Children Act 1989, it is essential for the proper working relationship between solicitors and expert witnesses that experts are told explicitly both that the court has given permission for them to be instructed and what the terms of their instructions are. It is contrary to good practice to seek to avoid the need for permission from the court to instruct an expert by providing information anonymously, and bad practice for expert witnesses who understand that their opinion is required for court proceedings to accept anonymous instructions¹³. Any instructions for a forensic report must be impartial and, wherever possible, be joint and agreed with the other side¹⁴.

1 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 8.1. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

2 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1.

3 As to standard disclosure see PARA 963; and PARA 542.

4 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

5 As to instructions before the commencement of proceedings see further PARAS 841-843.

6 As to case management conferences and pre-trial reviews see PARA 295.

7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 8.1(a)-(g). As to allocation to track see PARA 260 et seq.

8 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 8.2.

9 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 9.2.

10 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 9.1.

11 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 9.1(a)-(e).

12 See PARA 852.

13 Re A (Family Proceedings: Expert Witnesses) [2001] 1 FLR 723, [2001] All ER (D) 56 (Feb). The Civil Procedure Rules do not apply: see PARA 32. Practice Direction (experts in family proceedings relating to children) [2008] All ER (D) 18 (May) sets out guidance that deals with the use of expert evidence and the instructions of experts in family proceedings.

14 Re B (sexual abuse: expert's report) [2000] 2 FCR 8, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/847. Instructions to a single joint expert.

847. Instructions to a single joint expert.

Where the court¹ gives a direction² for a single joint expert³ to be used, each instructing party⁴ may give instructions to the expert⁵. When an instructing party gives instructions to the expert he must, at the same time, send a copy of the instructions to the other instructing parties⁶. The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that the parties should try to agree joint instructions to single joint experts, but, in default of agreement, each party may give instructions⁷.

The court may give directions about the payment of the expert's fees and expenses⁸ and any inspection, examination or experiments which the expert wishes to carry out⁹ and may, before an expert is instructed, limit the amount that can be paid by way of fees and expenses to the expert¹⁰ and, except in ancillary relief proceedings¹¹, direct that the instructing parties pay that amount into court¹². Unless the court otherwise directs, the instructing parties are jointly and severally liable¹³ for the payment of the expert's fees and expenses¹⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 le under CPR 35.7: see PARA 840.

3 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

4 As to the meaning of 'instructing parties' see CPR 35.7(2); and para 840.

5 CPR 35.8(1). As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32. The correct approach is to regard a joint instruction as the first step in obtaining expert evidence on a particular issue; if, having obtained the report of the joint expert, one of the parties wishes, for reasons which are not fanciful, to obtain further information before making a decision whether he wishes to challenge a particular part of, or the whole of, that report, he should be allowed to obtain such further information subject to the court's discretion: see Daniels v Walker [2000] 1 WLR 1382, [2000] CPLR 462, CA. In determining whether to allow the evidence of a second expert, in addition to the evidence of an expert instructed jointly under CPR Pt 35, the factors to be considered are (1) the nature of the dispute; (2) the number of disputes on which the expert evidence is relevant; (3) the reason for requiring the second report; (4) the amount at stake or the nature of the issues at stake; (5) the effect of permitting a second expert report on the conduct of the trial; (6) the delay that might be caused in the conduct of proceedings; (7) any other special features; and (8) the overall justice to the parties in the context of the litigation: see Cosgrove v Pattison [2000] All ER (D) 2007, [2001] CPLR 177 per Neuberger J. See also eg Alderson v Stillorgan Sales Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 1060, [2001] All ER (D) 104 (Jun).

6 CPR 35.8(2).

7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.7. In particular, all parties should try to agree what documents should be included with instructions and what assumptions single joint experts should make: para 17.7. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

8 CPR 35.8(3)(a).

9 CPR 35.8(3)(b).

10 CPR 35.8(4)(a).

11 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.61C (added by SI 1999/3491); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 932.

12 CPR 35.8(4)(b).

13 Parties who are jointly liable share a single liability and each party can be held liable for the whole of it, whilst a person who is severally liable with others may remain liable for the whole claim even where judgment has been obtained against the others: see CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31.

14 CPR 35.8(5).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/848. Experts' duties; in general.

848. Experts' duties; in general.

It is the duty of an expert¹ to help the court² on the matters within his expertise³. This duty overrides any obligation to the person from whom he has received instructions or by whom he is paid⁴.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims points out that assistance from an expert may be needed at various stages of a dispute and for different purposes. The expert always owes a duty to exercise reasonable skill and care to the person instructing him, and to comply with any relevant professional code of ethics⁵.

Expert evidence should be the independent product of the expert uninfluenced by the pressures of litigation⁶. An expert must assist the court by providing objective, unbiased opinion on matters within his expertise, and should not assume the role of an advocate⁷. He must consider all material facts, including those which might detract from his opinion⁸ and should make it clear when a question or issue falls outside his expertise and when he is not able to reach a definite opinion, for example because he has insufficient information⁹. If, after producing a report¹⁰, an expert changes his view on any material matter, such change of view must be communicated to all the parties without delay, and when appropriate to the court¹¹.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims warns that the expert should be aware that any failure by him to comply with the Civil Procedure Rules or court orders or any excessive delay for which the expert is responsible may result in the party who instructed him being penalised in costs and even in extreme cases being debarred from placing the expert's evidence before the court¹².

It is settled law that where an expert witness makes a statement preliminary to his report, he is protected by immunity from suit¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 35.3(1). An expert's report should be addressed to the court and not to the party from whom the expert has received his instructions: see Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.1; and PARA 852. The report must contain a statement that he understands his duty to the court and has complied and will continue to comply with it: see CPR 35.10(2); Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(9); and PARA 852. This applies to small claims: see PARA 756. As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq. As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see generally PARA 32.

For a pre-CPR analysis of the role of the expert witness see National Justice Cia Naviera SA v Prudential Assurance Co Ltd, The Ikarian Reefer [1993] 2 Lloyd's Rep 68 (revsd on other grounds [1995] 1 Lloyd's Rep 455, CA). CPR Pt 35 underlines a pre-existing duty which an expert owes to the court as well as to the party which he represents: see Stevens v Gullis (Pile, third party) [2000] 1 All ER 527, [1999] BLR 394, CA; Anglo Group plc v Winther Brown & Co Ltd (2000) 72 Con LR 118, [2000] All ER (D) 294.

4 CPR 35.3(2); Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.1. See also CPR 35.12(5) (an agreement between experts during their discussions does not bind the parties, unless the parties agree) and PARA 860; this is because of the experts' overriding obligation to the court. Cf the position where an advisory expert is consulted privately: see Department of Health v Bird [2001] All ER (D) 478 (Jul), EAT. See also Toth v Jarman [2006] EWCA Civ 1520, [2006] 4 All ER 1276.

5 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 4.1. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837. As to the duty of experts when expressing opinions in child abuse cases see Re J (child abuse: expert evidence) [1991] FCR 193, sub nom Re R (a minor) (expert's evidence) [1991] 1 FLR 291n.

6 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.2.

7 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.3.

8 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.4.

9 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.5.

10 As to experts' reports see PARAS 852-857.

11 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 1.6.

12 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 4.7. For a case where an expert witness was debarred from giving evidence see Stevens v Gullis (Pile, third party) [2000] 1 All ER 527, [1999] BLR 394, CA. Courts may also make orders for costs (under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 51: see PARAS 721, 1732) directly against expert witnesses who by their evidence cause significant expense to be incurred, and do so in flagrant and reckless disregard of their duties to the court: see Phillips v Symes [2004] EWHC 2330 (Ch), [2005] 4 All ER 519, [2005] 1 WLR 2043. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

13 See Raiss v Palmano [2001] Lloyd's Rep PN 341, [2000] All ER (D) 1266. As to witness immunity see PARA 978.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/849. Duties of single joint expert; in general.

849. Duties of single joint expert; in general.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims states that single joint experts¹ also have an overriding duty to the court². They are the parties' appointed experts and therefore owe an equal duty³ to all parties: they should maintain independence, impartiality and transparency at all times⁴. They should not attend any meeting or conference which is not a joint one, unless all the parties have agreed in writing or the court has directed that such a meeting may be held and who is to pay the experts' fees for the meeting⁵.

1 As to single joint experts see PARA 840.

2 As to the expert's overriding obligation to the court see PARA 848.

3 As to the expert's duty of professional competence see PARA 848.

4 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.12. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837. Single joint experts should keep all instructing parties informed of any material steps that they may be taking by, for example, copying all correspondence to those instructing them: para 17.11.

5 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.13. See also Peet v Mid-Kent Healthcare NHS Trust [2001] EWCA Civ 1703, [2002] 3 All ER 688, [2002] 1 WLR 210 (organisation of conference by one party with single joint expert; inconsistent with procedure requiring such evidence to be in a written report).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/850. Expert's right to ask court for directions.

850. Expert's right to ask court for directions.

An expert¹ may file² a written request for directions to assist him in carrying out his function as an expert³. Unless the court⁴ orders otherwise, he must provide a copy of any proposed request for such directions to the party instructing him, at least seven days before he files the request⁵. He must provide a copy of the request to all other parties at least four days before he files it⁶.

The court, when it gives directions, may also direct that a party be served⁷ with a copy of the directions⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

3 CPR 35.14(1). As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32. Single joint experts may request directions from the court: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.14. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 35.14(2)(a). As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

6 CPR 15.14(2)(b).

7 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

8 CPR 35.14(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/B. INSTRUCTIONS TO EXPERTS FOR PURPOSES OF CIVIL PROCEEDINGS/851. Court's power to direct a party to provide information.

851. Court's power to direct a party to provide information.

Where a party has access to information which is not reasonably available to the other party, the court¹ may direct the party who has access to the information to prepare and file² a document recording the information and serve³ a copy of that document on the other party⁴.

The document served must include sufficient details of all the facts, tests, experiments and assumptions which underlie any part of the information to enable the party on whom it is served to make, or to obtain, a proper interpretation of the information and an assessment of its significance⁵.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that if experts require such information which has not been disclosed, they should discuss the position with those instructing them without delay, so that a request for the information can be made, and, if not forthcoming, an application can be made to the court⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

3 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

4 CPR 35.9. As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32.

5 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 3.

6 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 12.2. Unless a document appears to be essential, experts should assess the cost and time involved in the production of a document and whether its provision would be proportionate in the context of the case: para 12.2. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/852. Form and contents of expert's report.

C. EXPERTS' REPORTS

852. Form and contents of expert's report.

An expert's¹ report must comply with the requirements set out in the relevant practice direction². The report should be addressed to the court³ and not to the party from whom the expert has received his instructions⁴.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims requires that in preparing their reports, experts should maintain professional objectivity and impartiality at all times⁵. When addressing questions of fact and opinion, experts should keep the two separate and discrete⁶. Where there are material facts in dispute, experts should express separate opinions on each hypothesis put forward⁷. They should not express a view in favour of one or other disputed version of the facts unless, as a result of particular expertise and experience, they consider one set of facts as being improbable or less probable, in which case they may express that view, and should give reasons for holding it⁸.

An expert's report must:

- 55 (1) give details of the expert's qualifications⁹;
- 56 (2) give details of any literature or other material which the expert has relied on in making the report¹⁰;
- 57 (3) contain a statement setting out the substance of all facts and instructions given to the expert which are material to the opinions expressed in the report or upon which those opinions are based¹¹;
- 58 (4) make clear which of the facts stated in the report are within the expert's own knowledge¹²;
- 59 (5) say who carried out any examination, measurement, test or experiment which the expert has used for the report, give the qualifications of that person, and say whether or not the test or experiment has been carried out under the expert's supervision¹³;
- 60 (6) where there is a range of opinion on the matters dealt with in the report, summarise the range of opinion and give reasons for his own opinion¹⁴;
- 61 (7) contain a summary of the conclusions reached¹⁵;
- 62 (8) if the expert is not able to give his opinion without qualification, state the qualification¹⁶; and
- 63 (9) contain a statement that the expert understands his duty to the court¹⁷ and has complied and will continue to comply with that duty¹⁸.

The expert's report must state the substance of all material instructions, whether written or oral, on the basis of which the report was written¹⁹. Such instructions will not be privileged²⁰ against disclosure²¹ but the court will not, in relation to those instructions:

- 64 (a) order disclosure of any specific document; or
- 65 (b) permit any questioning in court, other than by the party who instructed the expert,

unless it is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to consider the statement of instructions given²² to be inaccurate or incomplete²³. If the court is so satisfied, it will allow cross-examination of the expert on the contents of his instructions where it appears to be in the interests of justice to do so²⁴.

An expert's report must be verified by a statement of truth²⁵ as well as containing the statements required by heads (8) and (9) above²⁶.

In complex matters it is useful if the report contains a glossary of technical terms²⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 CPR 35.10(1). See Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2; and Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims paras 13.1, 13.3. Model forms of experts' reports are available from bodies such as the Academy of Experts or the Expert Witness Institute: see para 13.4. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837. As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 22.

4 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.1.

5 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.2.

6 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.9. Experts must state those facts (whether assumed or otherwise) upon which their opinions are based. They must distinguish clearly between those facts which experts know to be true and those facts which they assume: para 13.10.

7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.11.

8 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.11.

9 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(1).

10 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(2).

11 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(3).

12 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(4).

13 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(5).

14 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(6).

15 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(7).

16 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(8).

17 As to the expert's duty to the court see PARA 848.

18 See CPR 35.10(2); Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.2(9). A summary of conclusions is mandatory. The summary should be at the end of the report after all the reasoning, although there may be cases where the benefit to the court is heightened by placing a short summary at the beginning of the report whilst giving the full conclusions at the end: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.14.

19 CPR 35.10(3); and see head (3) in the text.

20 As to the meaning of 'privilege' see PARA 551 note 1.

21 As to disclosure see PARA 963; and PARA 538 et seq.

22 Ie under CPR 35.10(3): see the text and note 20.

23 CPR 35.10(4); and see the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 3. The power to order disclosure may in certain circumstances extend to instructions or advice that were privileged when they were given: see para 4. As to the exercise of this discretion see eg Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA [2001] All ER (D) 227 (Nov).

24 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 4.

25 The form of the statement of truth is as follows: 'I confirm that insofar as the facts stated in my report are within my own knowledge I have made clear which they are and I believe them to be true, and that the opinions I have expressed represent my true and complete professional opinion': Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.4. This wording is mandatory and must not be modified: see Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 13.5. As to statements of truth see generally CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613. As to the consequences of verifying a document containing a false statement without an honest belief in its truth see CPR 32.14; and PARA 988.

26 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 2.3. As to statements of truth see generally CPR Pt 22; and PARA 613; and as to the consequences of verifying a document containing a false statement without an honest belief in its truth see CPR 32.14; and PARA 988.

27 See The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.7.

UPDATE

852 Form and contents of expert's report

NOTE 27--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H2.7.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/853. Single joint expert's report.

853. Single joint expert's report.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims requires that single joint experts¹ should serve their reports simultaneously on all instructing parties. They should provide a single report even though they may have received instructions which contain areas of conflicting fact or allegation². The expert may be questioned and must provide answers in the same manner as a party's expert³. The single joint expert may also seek further information and directions⁴ from the court⁵.

1 As to single joint experts see PARA 840.

2 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.15. If conflicting instructions lead to different opinions (for example, because the instructions require experts to make different assumptions of fact), reports may need to contain more than one set of opinions on any issue. It is for the court to determine the facts: para 17.15. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837. As to the form and contents of experts' reports see PARA 852.

3 See the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 17.16. As to questions to experts see PARA 857.

4 As to an expert's right to ask the court for directions see PARA 850.

5 See Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/854. Amendment of expert's report.

854. Amendment of expert's report.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims states that experts should not be asked to, and should not, amend, expand or alter any part of the report in a manner which distorts the expert's true opinion, but may be invited to amend or expand a report to ensure accuracy and internal consistency, completeness, relevance to the issues and clarity¹. When experts intend to amend their reports, they should inform those instructing them without delay and give reasons. They should provide the amended version (or an addendum or memorandum) clearly marked as such as quickly as possible². If those instructing experts become aware of material changes in circumstances or that relevant information within their control was not previously provided to experts, they should without delay instruct experts to review, and if necessary, update the contents of their reports³.

Where experts significantly alter their opinion, as a result of new evidence or because evidence on which they relied has become unreliable, or for any other reason, they should amend their reports to reflect that fact. Amended reports should include reasons for amendments. In such circumstances those instructing experts should inform other parties as soon as possible of any change of opinion⁴.

¹ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 15.2. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

² Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 15.5.

³ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 14.4.

⁴ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 15.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/855. Procedure after completion of report; in general.

855. Procedure after completion of report; in general.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims¹ recommends that experts should be informed regularly about deadlines for all matters concerning them and that those instructing experts should promptly send them copies of all court orders and directions which may affect the preparation of their reports or any other matters concerning their obligations². It also recommends that following the receipt of experts' reports, those instructing them should advise the experts as soon as reasonably practicable whether, and if so when, the report will be disclosed to other parties; and, if so disclosed, the date of actual disclosure³. If experts' reports are to be relied upon, and if experts are to give oral evidence, those instructing them should give the experts the opportunity to consider and comment upon other reports within their area of expertise and which deal with relevant issues at the earliest opportunity⁴, and that those instructing experts should keep experts informed of the progress of cases, including amendments to statements of case⁵ relevant to experts' opinion⁶. Where experts significantly alter their opinion and amend their reports, those instructing experts should inform other parties as soon as possible of any change of opinion⁷.

Counsel and solicitors have a duty, particularly in public law proceedings involving children, to ensure that expert witnesses are kept up to date with the events of the case, and in particular, that before expert witnesses are called to give oral evidence, they have been sent and have read all relevant documents, especially those which have emerged since their reports were written⁸.

1 I.e. the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

2 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.5.

3 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 14.1. As to disclosure of experts' reports see PARA 856.

4 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 14.2.

5 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1.

6 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 14.3.

7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 15.4.

8 See Re G (children) (care proceedings: wasted costs) [2000] Fam 104, [1999] 4 All ER 371. The Civil Procedure Rules do not apply to such proceedings: see PARA 32.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/856. Disclosure of experts' reports.

856. Disclosure of experts' reports.

Notwithstanding any enactment or rule of law by virtue of which documents prepared for the purpose of pending or contemplated civil proceedings¹ or in connection with the obtaining or giving of legal advice are in certain circumstances privileged from disclosure², provision may be made by rules of court:

- 66 (1) for enabling the court³ in any civil proceedings to direct, with respect to medical matters or matters of any other class which may be specified in the direction, that the parties or some of them shall each by such date as may be so specified, or such later date as may be permitted or agreed in accordance with the rules, disclose to the other or others in the form of one or more expert reports the expert evidence on matters of that class which he proposes to adduce as part of his case at the trial⁴; and
- 67 (2) for prohibiting a party who fails to comply with a direction given in any such proceedings under rules of court made by virtue of head (1) above from adducing in evidence, except with the leave of the court, any statement, whether of fact or opinion, contained in any expert report whatsoever in so far as that statement deals with matters of any class specified in the direction⁵.

The Civil Procedure Rules provide that a party who fails to disclose an expert's report⁶ may not use the report at the trial or call the expert to give evidence orally unless the court gives permission⁷. Where a party has disclosed an expert's report, any party may use that expert's report as evidence at the trial⁸.

In appropriate cases the court may direct that experts' reports are disclosed sequentially rather than simultaneously⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4.

2 As to legal professional privilege see PARA 972; and PARA 558 et seq.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 1088 note 4.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 2(3)(a).

5 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 2(3)(b) (amended by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 15(2), Sch 2). As to the application of the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 2 and the making of rules thereunder see further PARA 838.

6 As to experts' reports see PARAS 852-854; and as to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

7 CPR 35.13. As to the meaning of 'court' for these purposes see PARA 22. As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32.

8 CPR 35.11. Once a claimant and his solicitors consent to an examination by a doctor chosen by the other party, there is no requirement for any further consent by them before disclosure to the other party of the medical report prepared consequent to that examination: see Kapadia v Lambeth London Borough Council [2000] IRLR 699, 57 BMLR 170, CA.

9 See The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) para 4.14; The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.11.

UPDATE

856 Disclosure of experts' reports

NOTE 9--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H2.11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/ (iii) Instructions and Reports/C. EXPERTS' REPORTS/857. Written questions to experts.

857. Written questions to experts.

A party may put to an expert¹ instructed by another party, or a single joint expert², written questions about his report³. Such written questions may be put once only, must be put within 28 days of service⁴ of the expert's report and must be for the purpose only of clarification of the report⁵, unless in any case the court gives permission or the other party agrees⁶. An expert's answers to questions so put will be treated as part of the expert's report⁷.

The party or parties instructing the expert must pay any fees charged by that expert for answering questions so put; but this does not affect any decision of the court as to the party who is ultimately to bear the expert's costs⁸.

Where a party has put a written question to an expert instructed by another party in accordance with these provisions and the expert does not answer that question, the court may make one or both of the following orders in relation to the party who instructed the expert⁹:

- 68 (1) that the party may not rely on the evidence of that expert¹⁰; or
- 69 (2) that the party may not recover the fees and expenses of that expert from any other party¹¹.

The procedure of putting written questions to experts is not intended to interfere with the procedure for an exchange of professional opinion in discussions between experts¹² or to inhibit that exchange of professional opinion. If questions that are oppressive in number or content are put or questions are put without permission for any purpose other than clarification of an expert's report, the court will not hesitate to disallow the questions and to make an appropriate order for costs against the party putting them¹³. Nor is the procedure intended to permit reports prepared for interim applications which have been determined to be the basis of questions for use at trial, when the reports themselves are not to be relied on at trial, either because the experts will be serving new reports, or because the experts who prepared the reports are not the experts whose reports will be relied on at trial¹⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

2 I.e a single joint expert appointed under CPR 35.7: see PARA 840.

3 CPR 35.6(1). As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32. Where a party sends a written question or questions direct to an expert, a copy of the questions must, at the same time, be sent to the other party or parties: Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 5.2. As to experts' reports and their contents see PARAS 852-854. As to the admission of such written questions in evidence at the trial see eg Mutch v Allen [2001] EWCA Civ 76, [2001] All ER (D) 121 (Jan), [2001] CPLR 200; and see the text and note 14.

4 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

5 CPR 35.6(2)(a)-(c). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

6 CPR 35.6(2)(i), (ii).

7 CPR 35.6(3).

8 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 5.3.

9 CPR 35.6(4).

10 CPR 35.6(4)(i).

11 CPR 35.6(4)(ii). See also the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 16.1. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

12 As to discussions between experts see PARAS 859-861.

13 See The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) para 4.18; The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.19.

14 Re MMR and MR Vaccine Litigation (No 4) [2002] EWHC 1213 (QB), [2002] All ER (D) 143 (Jun).

UPDATE

857 Written questions to experts

NOTE 13--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H2.19.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(iv) Expert's Liability in Negligence/858. Liability of experts in negligence.

(iv) Expert's Liability in Negligence

858. Liability of experts in negligence.

Witnesses in legal proceedings have immunity both in relation to evidence given in court and to the work principally and proximately leading to it¹. An expert, however, is not only a witness but a professional adviser and owes a duty of care to the person who pays for his services. It has been held that a person retained as an expert in relation to court proceedings is not entitled to complete immunity for the advice he gives; he will only be immune in respect of statements that are closely connected with the proceedings². The public interest in facilitating full and frank discussion between experts before trial requires that each should be free to make proper concessions without fear that any departure from advice previously given to the party who had retained him would be seen as evidence of negligence, and it is needed in order to avoid the tension between a desire to assist the court and fear of the consequences of a departure from previous advice³.

However, an expert may be made liable for wasted costs caused by flagrant disregard of his duty to the court⁴, and an expert is not immune from professional disciplinary procedures in relation to evidence given at trial⁵.

1 See Meadow v General Medical Council[2006] EWCA Civ 1390, [2007] QB 462, [2007] 1 All ER 1.

2 See Stanton v Callaghan[2000] QB 75, [1998] 4 All ER 961, CA. See also Palmer v Durnford Ford (a firm) [1992] QB 483, [1992] 2 All ER 122.

3 Stanton v Callaghan[2000] QB 75, [1998] 4 All ER 961, CA. Therefore, the immunity extends not only to evidence given in court, but also to the preparation of reports and joint statements which are adopted as evidence.

4 Phillips v Symes (No 2)[2004] EWHC 2330 (Ch), [2005] 4 All ER 519, [2005] 1 WLR 2043.

5 Meadow v General Medical Council[2006] EWCA Civ 1390, [2007] QB 462, [2007] 1 All ER 1.

UPDATE

858 Liability of experts in negligence

NOTE 2--See Jones v Kaney[2010] EWHC 61 (QB), [2010] All ER (D) 131 (Jan).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters/A. CONFERENCES AND DISCUSSIONS/859. Conferences and discussions with or between experts; in general.

(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters

A. CONFERENCES AND DISCUSSIONS

859. Conferences and discussions with or between experts; in general.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that before experts are formally instructed or the court's permission to appoint named experts is sought, it should be established that they can produce a report, deal with questions and have discussions with other experts within a reasonable time and at a cost proportionate to the matters in issue¹. When necessary, arrangements should be made for dealing with questions to experts and discussions between experts, including any directions given by the court, and provision should be made for the cost of this work².

The purpose of discussions between experts should be, wherever possible, to:

- 70 (1) identify and discuss the expert issues in the proceedings;
- 71 (2) reach agreed opinions on those issues, and, if that is not possible, to narrow the issues in the case;
- 72 (3) identify those issues on which they agree and disagree and summarise their reasons for disagreement on any issue; and
- 73 (4) identify what action, if any, may be taken to resolve any of the outstanding issues between the parties³.

Arrangements for discussions between experts should be proportionate to the value of cases⁴.

¹ See the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.1(c). As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

² Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 7.4. As to the court's power to direct discussions between experts see PARA 860.

³ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.3.

⁴ Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.4. Guidelines for the arrangements are given in paras 18.4-18.12: see PARA 861.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters/A. CONFERENCES AND DISCUSSIONS/860. Court's power to direct discussion between experts.

860. Court's power to direct discussion between experts.

The court¹ may, at any stage, direct a discussion between experts² for the purpose of requiring the experts to identify and discuss the expert issues in the proceedings³ and, where possible, reach an agreed opinion on those issues⁴. The court may specify the issues which the experts must discuss⁵ and may direct that, following a discussion between the experts, they must prepare a statement for the court showing those issues on which they agree⁶, those issues on which they disagree and a summary of their reasons for disagreeing⁷.

The content of the discussion between the experts must not be referred to at the trial unless the parties agree⁸.

Where experts reach agreement on an issue during their discussions, the agreement will not bind the parties unless the parties expressly agree to be bound by the agreement⁹.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims requires that those instructing experts must not instruct experts to avoid reaching agreement (or to defer doing so) on any matter within the experts' competence and provides that experts are not permitted to accept such instructions¹⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'expert' see PARA 791 note 10.

3 CPR 35.12(1)(a). As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32.

4 CPR 35.12(1)(b). An objection by one party to a meeting of experts is not sufficient in itself to prevent a direction that such a meeting take place; further, it is in the interests of justice for any concessions by experts to be made before rather than during a trial: Hubbard v Lambeth Southwark and Lewisham Health Authority [2001] EWCA Civ 1455, [2001] All ER (D) 11 (Sep), (2001) Times, 8 October.

5 CPR 35.12(2).

6 CPR 35.12(3)(a).

7 CPR 35.12(3)(b); and see the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837. As to whether a joint statement by experts expressed to be an 'interim' statement is admissible see Robin Ellis Ltd v Malwright Ltd [1999] All ER (D) 100, [1999] CPLR 286 (a case decided before the CPR came into force). As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2. As to immunity from suit when a party's expert prepares a joint statement in conjunction with the expert instructed by the other party for the purpose of indicating what matters are or are not at issue between them see Stanton v Callaghan [2000] QB 75, [1998] 4 All ER 961, CA. As to whether it is an abuse of process for a party to withdraw instructions from an expert and instruct a new expert after a draft interim joint statement has been prepared by the other party see Stephen Hill Partnership Ltd v Supaglazing Ltd [2002] All ER (D) 229 (Oct).

8 CPR 35.12(4). It is good practice for any such agreement to be in writing: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.9.

9 CPR 35.12(5). This is because the expert's duty to the court overrides any obligation to the person from whom he has received instructions or by whom he is paid: see CPR 35.3; and PARA 848. However, in view of the overriding objective, parties should give careful consideration before refusing to be bound by such an agreement and be able to explain their refusal should it become relevant to the issue of costs: Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.12. As to whether such agreement has been reached see eg Britannia Zinc Ltd v Southern Electric Contracting Ltd [2002] EWHC 606 (TCC), [2002] All ER (D) 68 (Apr). As to the overriding objective see PARA 791.

10 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.7.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters/A. CONFERENCES AND DISCUSSIONS/861. Recommended procedure for discussion between experts.

861. Recommended procedure for discussion between experts.

The Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims recommends that the parties, their lawyers and experts should co-operate to produce the agenda for any discussion between experts, although primary responsibility for preparation of the agenda should normally lie with the parties' solicitors¹. The agenda should indicate what matters have been agreed and summarise concisely those which are in issue. It is often helpful for it to include questions to be answered by the experts. If agreement cannot be reached promptly or a party is unrepresented, the court may give directions for the drawing up of the agenda. The agenda should be circulated to experts and those instructing them to allow sufficient time for the experts to prepare for the discussion².

In small claims and fast track cases³ there should not normally be meetings between experts and where discussion is justified in such cases, telephone discussion or an exchange of letters should, in the interests of proportionality⁴, usually suffice⁵. In multi-track cases, discussion may be face to face, but the practicalities or the proportionality principle may require discussions to be by telephone or video conference⁶. The parties' lawyers may only be present at discussions between experts if all the parties agree or the court so orders. If lawyers do attend, they should not normally intervene except to answer questions put to them by the experts or to advise about the law⁷.

At the conclusion of any discussion between experts, a statement should be prepared setting out:

- 74 (1) a list of issues that have been agreed, including, in each instance, the basis of agreement;
- 75 (2) a list of issues that have not been agreed, including, in each instance, the basis of disagreement;
- 76 (3) a list of any further issues that have arisen that were not included in the original agenda for discussion;
- 77 (4) a record of further action, if any, to be taken or recommended, including as appropriate the holding of further discussions between experts⁸.

The statement should be agreed and signed by all the parties to the discussion as soon as may be practicable⁹.

1. See the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.5. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

2. Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.6.

3. As to allocation to track see PARA 260 et seq.

4. As to the proportionality principle see CPR 1.1(2)(c); and PARA 33.

5. Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.4.

6. Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.4.

- 7 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.8.
- 8 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.10.
- 9 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 18.11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters/B. ATTENDANCE AT TRIAL/862. Attendance of experts at trial; in general.

B. ATTENDANCE AT TRIAL

862. Attendance of experts at trial; in general.

Expert evidence is to be given in a written report unless the court directs otherwise¹. However, the Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims notes that experts instructed in cases have an obligation to attend court if called upon to do so and recommends that accordingly they should ensure that those instructing them are always aware of their dates to be avoided and take all reasonable steps to be available². It recommends that those instructing experts should:

- 78 (1) ascertain the availability of experts before trial dates are fixed;
- 79 (2) keep experts updated with timetables (including the dates and times experts are to attend) and the location of the court;
- 80 (3) give consideration, where appropriate, to experts giving evidence via a video-link.
- 81 (4) inform experts immediately if trial dates are vacated³.

Experts should normally attend court without the need for the service of witness summonses⁴, but on occasion they may be served to require attendance⁵. The use of witness summonses does not affect the contractual or other obligations of the parties to pay experts' fees⁶.

In Admiralty and commercial cases, the evidence of expert witnesses at trial is usually taken as a block, after the evidence of witnesses of fact has been given⁷.

1 See CPR 35.5(1); and PARA 839.

2 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 19.1. As to the protocol and its status see PARA 837.

3 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 19.2. As to the use of audio-visual facilities see PARAS 1032-1035.

4 As to the service of witness summonses see PARA 1007.

5 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 19.3.

6 Protocol for the Instruction of Experts to give evidence in civil claims para 19.3.

7 See The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (7th Edn, 2006) para H2.22.

UPDATE

862 Attendance of experts at trial; in general

NOTE 7--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para H2.22.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(5) EXPERT EVIDENCE/(v) Miscellaneous Procedural Matters/C. ASSESSORS/863. Assessors; in general.

C. ASSESSORS

863. Assessors; in general.

Both the High Court and a judge in the county court have statutory power to appoint assessors with special qualifications to assist the court in hearing and disposing of a claim or other matter¹. Where the court² appoints one or more persons to be an assessor, the assessor is required to assist the court in dealing with a matter in which the assessor has skill and experience³. Not less than 21 days before making any such appointment, the court will notify each party in writing of the name of the proposed assessor, of the matter in respect of which the assistance of the assessor will be sought and of the qualifications of the assessor to give that assistance⁴. Where any person has been proposed for appointment as an assessor, objection to him, either personally or in respect of his qualification, may be taken by any party⁵.

An assessor will take such part in the proceedings as the court may direct and in particular the court may direct the assessor (1) to prepare a report for the court on any matter at issue in the proceedings⁶; and (2) to attend the whole or any part of the trial to advise the court on any such matter⁷.

If the assessor prepares a report for the court before the trial has begun the court will send a copy to each of the parties⁸ and the parties may use it at trial⁹. The assessor will not, however, give oral evidence or be open to cross-examination¹⁰ or questioning¹¹.

The remuneration to be paid to the assessor for his services must be determined by the court and forms part of the costs of the proceedings¹². The court may order any party to deposit in the court office a specified sum in respect of the assessor's fees and, where it does so, the assessor will not be asked to act until the sum has been deposited¹³. These provisions concerning remuneration and fees do not, however, apply where the remuneration of the assessor is to be paid out of money provided by Parliament¹⁴.

In Admiralty proceedings, the court may sit with assessors when hearing collision claims or other claims involving issues of navigation or seamanship, and the parties will not be permitted to call expert witnesses unless the court orders otherwise¹⁵.

An assessor may be appointed to assist the court in determining the amount of a receiver's remuneration¹⁶.

1 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70; the County Courts Act 1984 s 63 (amended by SI 1998/2940; prospectively amended by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 14 as from a day to be appointed; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

As to the functions of judge and jury in a civil trial see PARA 795 et seq; and as to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 35.15(1), (2). As from a day to be appointed, CPR 35.15(1) is amended by virtue of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 1 para 1(2) to substitute a reference to the Senior Courts Act 1981 for the reference to the Supreme Court Act 1981. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed. As to the application of CPR Pt 35 see PARA 32.

4 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 7.1.

5 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 7.2. Any such objection must be made in writing and filed with the court within seven days of receipt of the notification referred to in para 7.1 (see the text to note 4) and will be taken into account by the court in deciding whether or not to make the appointment: para 7.3; and see the County Courts Act 1984 s 63(5). As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

6 CPR 35.15(3)(a).

7 CPR 35.15(3)(b). See further PARA 1133.

8 CPR 35.15(4)(a).

9 CPR 35.15(4)(b).

10 As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

11 Practice Direction--Experts and Assessors PD 35 para 7.4.

12 CPR 35.15(5).

13 CPR 35.15(6).

14 CPR 35.15(7). See eg the County Courts Act 1984 s 63(4) (assessors assisting in hearings relating to the assessment of costs) (s 63(4) is, however, prospectively substituted: see note 1); the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70(3), (4) (advisers assisting the Patents Court).

15 CPR 61.13. See further SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 205.

16 See Practice Direction--Court's Power to Appoint a Receiver PD 69 para 9.5(2); and PARA 1506; RECEIVERS.

UPDATE

863 Assessors; in general

TEXT AND NOTES 1-14--CPR 35.15 substituted: SI 2009/2092.

NOTE 3--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/A. MODERN DOCUMENTS/864. Proof of handwriting.

(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE

(i) Proof of Execution of Documents

A. MODERN DOCUMENTS

864. Proof of handwriting.

Except when judicial notice is taken of official signatures¹, or where an apparent or purported signature is deemed by statute to be the actual signature², the handwriting³ or signature⁴ of unattested documents may be proved in the following ways: (1) by calling the writer; or (2) by a witness who saw the document written or signed; or (3) by a witness who has a general knowledge of the writing, acquired in any of the ways mentioned earlier⁵; or (4) by comparison of the disputed document with other documents proved to the judge's satisfaction to be genuine⁶; or (5) by the admissions of the party against whom the document is tendered⁷; or (6) in particular cases, by a document purporting to be a solemn declaration in a prescribed form made before a prescribed person⁸.

1 See PARA 790.

2 See eg the Army Act 1955 s 223; the Dentists Act 1984 s 52(3). As to electronic signatures see PARA 948.

3 As to the admissibility of opinions of expert and ordinary witnesses as to handwriting see PARA 832.

4 Where proof is required of the signing by the means of a rubber stamp bearing a facsimile of a signature, the affixing of this stamp must be proved either by the person who affixed it or by a witness who saw it being affixed: see State (A-G) v Judge Roe[1951] IR 172.

5 See PARA 832.

6 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 8: see PARA 834.

7 As to formal admissions see PARAS 776-778.

8 See eg the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1981, SI 1981/552, r 67 (amended by SI 2003/1236); and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 691.

UPDATE

864 Proof of handwriting

NOTE 2--Army Act 1955 repealed: Armed Forces Act 2006 Sch 17.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/A. MODERN DOCUMENTS/865. Proof of sealing.

865. Proof of sealing.

The sealing¹ of a document may be the subject of judicial notice², proof³ or presumption. Any rule of law which requires a seal for the valid execution of an instrument as a deed by an individual⁴ was abolished by the Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 in relation to instruments delivered as deeds on or after 31 July 1990⁵. The reference to the execution of a deed by an individual does not, however, include execution by a corporation sole⁶ or a body corporate, to which the common law rule continues to apply⁷. Where an instrument under seal that constitutes a deed is required for the purposes of an Act passed before 31 July 1990, the provisions relating to deeds and their execution⁸ have effect as to signing, sealing or delivery of an instrument by an individual⁹ in place of any provision of that Act as to signing, sealing or delivery¹⁰. There is in general a presumption in favour of a purchaser that a seal was affixed with due regard to all requisite preliminary formalities or, when there are no special formalities required, with sufficient authority¹¹. In general, a corporation seal may be proved by anyone familiar with it, without calling a witness who saw it affixed¹²; but where attestation is required by law, the signature of an independent witness is probably necessary, since those of the directors and secretary when affixing the common seal of a company merely form part of the execution of the document¹³.

1 As to the sealing of documents see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 27.

2 See PARA 789.

3 See eg the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1968, SI 1981/552, r 67 (amended by SI 2003/1326); and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 691.

4 For modes of execution see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 27 et seq; and see also EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 303. As to the conditional delivery of a document as an escrow see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 37-39; and Kingston v Ambrian Investments Co Ltd [1975] 1 All ER 120, [1975] 1 WLR 161, CA; Vincent v Premo Enterprises (Voucher Sales) Ltd [1969] 2 QB 609, [1969] 2 All ER 941, CA; Longman v Viscount Chelsea (1989) 58 P & CR 189, CA.

5 Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(1)(b).

6 Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(10).

7 As to the execution of deeds by or on behalf of corporations see the Law of Property Act 1925 s 74; and DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 40-42. As to execution by a corporation aggregate see also s 74A (added by SI 2005/1906); and CORPORATIONS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1265.

8 Ie the Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1 (see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 7-8): see s 1(7).

9 The reference to signing, sealing or delivery by an individual does not include signing, sealing or delivery by a corporation sole: Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(10).

10 Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(7). As to the application of s 1(7) see s 1(9); and DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 7.

11 See CORPORATIONS; COMPANIES. As to estoppel against a corporation in respect of documents to which its seal is affixed see PARA 964 note 2; and CORPORATIONS. Where a solicitor, duly certificated notary public or licensed conveyancer, or an agent or employee of a solicitor, duly certificated notary public or licensed conveyancer, in the course of or in connection with a transaction, purports to deliver an instrument as a deed on behalf of a party to the instrument, it must be conclusively presumed in favour of a purchaser that he is authorised so to deliver the instrument: see the Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(5) (amended by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 125(2), Sch 17 para 20; by SI 2005/1906; and, as from a day to be appointed, by the Legal Services Act 2007 s 208(1), Sch 21 para 81; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed); and DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 34.

12 Moises v Thornton (1799) 8 Term Rep 303; but cf Doe d Bank of England v Chambers (1836) 4 Ad & El 410; Deffell v White (1866) LR 2 CP 144 (bill of sale given by company).

13 See PARA 866.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/A. MODERN DOCUMENTS/866. Proof of attestation.

866. Proof of attestation.

Wills and other testamentary documents¹ must, if necessary², be proved by evidence from one of the attesting witnesses³ or, if no attesting witness is conveniently available, from any other person who was present when the will was executed⁴. Instruments which are required by law to be attested⁵, except wills and other testamentary documents⁶, may, instead of being proved by an attesting witness, be proved as if no attesting witness were alive⁷.

It is not necessary to prove by an attesting witness any instrument for the validity of which attestation is not required, and such an instrument may be proved as if there had been no attesting witness⁸.

1 The word 'will' extends to a testament, and to a codicil, and to an appointment by will or by writing in the nature of a will in exercise of a power, and also to an appointment by will of a guardian of a child and to any other testamentary disposition: see the Wills Act 1837 s 1; and WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 301.

2 In practice, such proof is only required where the authenticity of the document is disputed or uncertain: see the Non-Contentious Probate Rules 1987, SI 1987/2024, rr 12, 13 (amended by SI 1991/1876); and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; WILLS. A district judge or registrar may accept a will for proof without the evidence of an attesting witness or other person present when the will was executed if he is satisfied that the distribution of the estate is not thereby affected: Non-Contentious Probate Rules 1987, SI 1987/2024, r 12(3) (as so amended).

3 It is not necessary to call more than one of several attesting witnesses: Holdfast d Anstey v Dowsing (1746) 2 Stra 1253; Forster v Forster (1864) 33 LJP & A 113. Where an attesting witness must be called, the rule applies even if the document is lost, cancelled or destroyed, provided the names of the witnesses are known: Breton v Cope (1791) Peake 29; Gillies v Smither (1819) 2 Stark 528. It is otherwise where the names or handwriting of the attesting witnesses are unknown: see Keeling v Ball (1796) Peake Add Cas 88; R v St Giles, Camberwell, Inhabitants (1853) 1 E & B 642; R v Fordingbridge Inhabitants (1858) 27 LJMC 290. An attesting witness who has become blind may still provide evidence of attestation: Cronk v Frith (1839) 9 C & P 197; Rees v Williams (1847) 1 De G & Sm 314; but cf Wood v Drury (1699) 1 Ld Raym 734; Pedler v Paige (1833) 1 Mood & R 258. As to persons blind at the time the document is executed see note 5.

4 Non-Contentious Probate Rules 1987, SI 1987/2024, r 12(1) (as amended: see note 2). If no affidavit evidence can be obtained in accordance with r 12(1), the district judge or registrar may accept evidence on affidavit from any person he may think fit to show that the signature on the will is in the handwriting of the deceased, or of any other matter which may raise a presumption in favour of due execution of the will, and may if he thinks fit require that notice of the application be given to any person who may be prejudiced by the will: r 12(2) (as so amended).

5 See FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 1753; DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 36. In general, a person who is competent to testify (see PARA 966) is competent to attest. Exceptions include parties to a deed (see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 36) or a bill of sale (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 1753), a proxy with regard to the instrument appointing him (Re Parrot, ex p Cullen [1891] 2 QB 151, DC), and a blind person (Re Gibson [1949] P 434, [1949] 2 All ER 90). Attestation means that the witness is present and sees the instrument signed: Shamu Patter v Abdul Kadir Ravuthan (1912) 28 TLR 583, PC. But the mere presence of a person at the execution of a deed does not necessarily make him an attesting witness: Cussons v Skinner (1843) 11 M & W 161; and see M'Craw v Gentry (1812) 3 Camp 232. It is a question of fact whether a person who signed a document signed as an attesting witness, and extrinsic evidence is admissible: Kitcat v King [1930] P 266; Re Bravda [1967] 2 All ER 1233, [1967] 1 WLR 1080; revsd [1968] 2 All ER 217, [1968] 1 WLR 479, CA. Where a corporation affixes its seal, the officer who affixes it and verifies it with his signature is not an attesting witness: Doe d Bank of England v Chambers (1836) 4 Ad & El 410; and see PARA 865; and CORPORATIONS.

6 See the Evidence Act 1938 s 3 proviso.

7 Evidence Act 1938 s 3. This does not prejudice the admissibility of any evidence which would otherwise be admissible: s 6(2)(a). As to the mode of proof where no attesting witness is alive see PARA 867.

8 See the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 7, which applies to both criminal and civil proceedings (see s 1). But if the proceedings are without notice, and all the parties are not before the court, it may be necessary to call the attesting witness or to prove his handwriting: Re Rice (1886) 32 ChD 35, CA; and see Re Reay's Estate (1855) 3 WR 312; Re Mair's Estate (1873) 42 LJ Ch 882; Worthington v Moore (1891) 64 LT 338.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/A. MODERN DOCUMENTS/867. Strict proof.

867. Strict proof.

When an attesting witness must be called, the party against whom the instrument is tendered may demand strict proof of it¹. It has been said that he cannot himself be called as a witness by his opponent for the purpose of obtaining admission of its due execution². An attesting witness who denies attestation or execution may be contradicted by other evidence³, and an attesting witness to a will may be cross-examined⁴ by the party calling him⁵. Other evidence of attestation⁶ is admissible in any civil or criminal proceedings in which proof of due attestation of a document is required, when it is impossible to call an attesting witness at the trial⁷ owing to death⁸, insanity⁹, absence¹⁰ or, possibly, illness¹¹.

1 Abbot v Plumbe (1779) 1 Doug KB 216; Breton v Cope (1791) Peake 29; Johnson v Mason (1794) 1 Esp 89; Call v Dunning (1803) 4 East 53; R v Harringworth Inhabitants (1815) 4 M & S 350; Gillies v Smither (1819) 2 Stark 528; Mounsey v Burnham (1841) 1 Hare 15.

2 Whyman v Garth (1853) 8 Exch 803. As to when an admission of execution dispenses with the necessity for proof see PARA 868.

3 Lemon v Dean (1810) 2 Camp 636n; Fitzgerald v Elsee (1811) 2 Camp 635; Talbot v Hodson (1816) 7 Taunt 251; Coles v Coles and Brown (1866) LR 1 P & D 70; Bowman v Hodgson (1867) LR 1 P & D 362; Re Ovens (1892) 29 LR Ir 451; Dayman v Dayman (1894) 71 LT 699; Pilkington v Gray [1899] AC 401, PC; Re Vere-Wardale, Vere-Wardale v Johnson [1949] P 395, [1949] 2 All ER 250.

4 As to cross-examination generally see PARA 1042 et seq.

5 This is because the witness is not the witness of either party but of the court: Re Brock, Jones v Jones (1908) 24 TLR 839; Oakes v Uzzell [1932] P 19; and see Coles v Coles and Brown (1866) LR 1 P & D 70. The witness may be cross-examined by the party calling him even on issues collateral to that of due execution: Re Webster, Webster v Webster [1974] 3 All ER 822n, [1974] 1 WLR 1641.

6 Other evidence of attestation would normally be evidence of an attester's handwriting, supplemented by evidence to identify the maker of the instrument, but other secondary evidence of due execution is admissible: see the cases cited in notes 8-11. See also the Non-Contentious Probate Rules 1987, SI 1987/2024, r 12, cited in PARA 866.

7 See Palin v Ponting [1930] P 185.

8 Anon (1701) 12 Mod Rep 607; Adam v Kerr (1798) 1 Bos & P 360; Nelson v Whittall (1817) 1 B & Ald 19; Doe d Wheeldon v Paul (1829) 3 C & P 613; Whitelocke v Musgrove (1833) 1 Cr & M 511; Jones v Jones (1841) 9 M & W 75; R v St Giles, Camberwell, Inhabitants (1853) 1 E & B 642; Clarke v Clarke (1879) 5 LR Ir 47, CA; Byles v Cox (1896) 74 LT 222; Re Peverett [1902] P 205; Keohane v Byrne [1935] NI 63, CA. As to presumptive evidence of execution see Stobart v Dryden (1836) 1 M & W 615; and as to ancient documents see PARA 869.

9 Currie v Child (1812) 3 Camp 283.

10 If either abroad (Barnes v Trompowsky (1797) 7 Term Rep 265; Prince v Blackburn (1802) 2 East 250; Ward v Wells (1809) 1 Taunt 461; Glubb v Edwards (1840) 2 Mood & R 300; Davidson v Carr (1843) 2 Dowl NS 1034), or when he cannot be found (Cunliffe v Sefton (1802) 2 East 183; Crosby v Percy (1808) 1 Taunt 364; Wardell v Fermor (1809) 2 Camp 282; Parker v Hoskins (1810) 2 Taunt 223; Burt v Walker (1821) 4 B & Ald 697; Kay v Brookman (1828) 3 C & P 555; Morgan v Morgan (1832) 9 Bing 359; Willman v Worral (1838) 8 C & P 380; Earl of Falmouth v Roberts (1842) 9 M & W 469; Spooner v Payne (1847) 4 CB 328; Austin v Rumsey (1849) 2 Car & Kir 736; Baxendale v De Valmer (1887) 57 LT 556; Palin v Ponting [1930] P 185).

11 Jones v Brewer (1811) 4 Taunt 46; Harrison v Blades (1813) 3 Camp 457.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/A. MODERN DOCUMENTS/868. Exceptions to strict proof.

868. Exceptions to strict proof.

There are general exceptions to the rule¹ requiring strict proof in cases where the instrument is more than 20 years old and is produced from proper custody²; where the other party refuses to produce the instrument after notice to do so³; where, although the other party produces it, even though he refuses to relinquish possession of it⁴, he claims under it a subsisting⁵ interest in the subject matter of the claim⁶; where the attestation was required merely by reason of a rule of court, and the court has subsequently acted upon the instrument so attested, thereby recognising its validity⁷; where the instrument is tendered against a public officer whose duty it was to procure its execution and who has treated it as duly executed⁸; or where it is tendered against a party who has admitted its execution in the course of proceedings for the purposes of the trial⁹, or who is estopped from denying its validity¹⁰. It is said also that instruments which have been enrolled under a statute may be proved merely by proof of enrolment¹¹.

1 The rule is now largely abrogated, and applies only to testamentary documents: see PARA 866.

2 See PARA 869 et seq.

3 Cooke v Tanswell (1818) 8 Taunt 450; Poole v Warren (1838) 8 Ad & El 582.

4 Vacher v Cocks (1830) 1 B & Ad 145; Carr v Burdiss (1835) 4 LJ Ex 60. The older rule was that the production of an instrument after notice by the adverse party superseded in all cases the necessity of calling attesting witnesses: R v Middlezoy Inhabitants (1787) 2 Term Rep 41; Bowles v Langworthy (1793) 5 Term Rep 366, overruled by Gordon v Secretan (1807) 8 East 548.

5 Collins v Bayntun (1841) 1 QB 117; Fuller v Patrick (1849) 18 LJQB 236. It may be that his interest in the suit must be the same as that claimed by his opponent: Knight v Martin (1818) Gow 26.

6 The validity of an instrument is necessarily admitted where an interest is claimed under it: Pearce v Hooper (1810) 3 Taunt 60. See also Orr v Morice (1821) 3 Brod & Bing 139; Doe d Tyndale v Heming (1826) 9 Dow & Ry KB 15; Doe d Wilkins v Marquis of Cleveland (1829) 9 B & C 864; Bradshaw v Bennett (1831) 1 Mood & R 143; Carr v Burdiss (1835) 4 LJ Ex 60; Doe d Rowlandson v Wainwright (1836) 5 Ad & El 520; Bell v Chaytor (1843) 1 Car & Kir 162.

7 See Bailey v Bidwell (1844) 13 M & W 73.

8 Bailey v Bidwell (1844) 13 M & W 73; Plumer v Brisco (1847) 11 QB 46.

9 Whyman v Garth (1853) 8 Exch 803.

10 See PARA 1168; Laing v Kaine (1800) 2 Bos & P 85; Randall v Lynch (1809) 2 Camp 352; Bringloe v Goodson (1839) 5 Bing NC 738; Freeman v Steggall (1849) 14 QB 202; Fishmongers' Co v Dimsdale (1852) 12 CB 557. An admission in a former action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) does not estop a party from denying execution of an instrument tendered in evidence against him: Call v Dunning (1803) 4 East 53; Whyman v Garth (1853) 8 Exch 803.

11 See Thurle v Madison (1655) Sty 462; Smart v Williams (1694) 3 Lev 387; Holcroft v Smith (1702) Freem Ch 259; Doe d Williams v Lloyd (1839) 5 Bing NC 741.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/869. Ancient documents which prove themselves.

B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS

869. Ancient documents which prove themselves.

Written documents proved or purporting to be not less than 20 years old¹, which are produced from proper custody², are presumed, in the absence of circumstances of suspicion, to have been duly signed, sealed, attested, delivered or published according to their purport³. The period of 20 years is reckoned from the time of their signature or execution to the time of their production in court, whether they are wills or other instruments⁴. Such documents, in other words, are said to prove themselves⁵.

1 The period after which this presumption is raised in respect of documents was reduced to not less than 20 years by the Evidence Act 1938 s 4, in the case of documents of like character to those for which, before the commencement of that Act (ie 1 September 1938), the applicable period was not less than 30 years. Pedigrees appear to be an exception to the presumption; the handwriting must be proved, even if they purport to be 90 years old; and, if they are admitted, they are not proof that all the statements contained in them are true: see Fitzwalter Peerage (1844) 10 Cl & Fin 193, HL; Fort v Clarke (1826) 1 Russ 601.

2 As to what constitutes proper custody see PARA 871.

3 R v Farringdon Inhabitants (1788) 2 Term Rep 466; Wynne v Tyrwhitt (1821) 4 B & Ald 376 (entries in steward's book over 30 years old); Doe d Oldham v Wolley (1828) 8 B & C 22; M'Kenire v Fraser (1803) 9 Ves 5 (will); Doe d Spilsbury v Burdett (1835) 4 Ad & El 1 (will); Doe d Thomas v Beynon (1840) 12 Ad & El 431 (letters); Man v Ricketts (1844) 7 Beav 93 (will); Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314 (curate's signature to copy of marriage certificate); Exeter Corp'n v Warren (1844) 5 QB 773 (accounts); Doe d Lord Ashburnham v Michael (1851) 17 QB 276 (accounts); Foster v Plumbers' Co (1900) 44 Sol Jo 211 (accounts); A-G v Stephens (1855) 6 De GM & G 111; R v Bathwick Inhabitants (1831) 2 B & Ad 639 (certificate of ordination).

4 Doe d Oldham v Wolley (1828) 8 B & C 22; Man v Ricketts (1844) 7 Beav 93.

5 The rule applies notwithstanding the fact that one of the subscribing witnesses is alive (Doe d Oldham v Wolley (1828) 8 B & C 22) or in court (Marsh v Collnett (1798) 2 Esp 665).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/870. Presumption of regularity.

870. Presumption of regularity.

There is a general presumption in favour of the regularity and validity of ancient documents. No evidence need be given that they were made on the date they bear¹. Upon proof of the signature of a deed, sealing (where required) and delivery are presumed; similarly delivery is presumed on proof of sealing and signature². The rule applies to private documents of every kind³.

1 Re Adamson (1875) LR 3 P & D 253: a date attached to an alteration is not in itself sufficient to establish that the alteration was made at that time.

2 Hall v Bainbridge (1848) 12 QB 699; Re Sandilands (1871) LR 6 CP 411. As to seals see PARA 865.

3 Wynne v Tyrwhitt (1821) 4 B & Ald 376. A copy of a document produced from proper custody may after the lapse of time be admitted, but not if the original is in existence and a copy can be obtained and proved by the person making it: Permanent Trustee Co of New South Wales v Fels [1918] AC 879, PC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/871. Proper custody of ancient documents.

871. Proper custody of ancient documents.

Documents are said to be produced from proper custody when they have been in the keeping of some person who might reasonably and naturally be expected to have possession of them¹, although he need not necessarily be the most appropriate person².

For documents the custody of which is imposed on a certain person, proper custody has been held to be the custody of that person³; for court rolls, the custody of the lord of the manor or of the steward⁴; for a case for counsel's opinion, the family papers of a descendant of the person who submitted it⁵; for ancient grants, the custody of some person connected with the estate to which they relate⁶; for a deed creating a term to attend the inheritance, the custody of the solicitor for the administrator of the trustee of the term⁷; for an expired lease, the custody of the lessor⁸ or lessee⁹; for a settlement, the custody of the trustees or even the settlor himself¹⁰; for a bond, the custody of the person in whose favour it was made¹¹; for a schedule setting out payment of tithes, the custody of the solicitor for the last purchaser of the tithes¹²; for a receipt by a rector for money payments in lieu of tithes, the custody of the solicitor for the lord of the manor by whose predecessor in the title the payments had been made¹³; for diocesan documents, the diocesan registry¹⁴ or the bishop's private papers¹⁵; for an ordination certificate, the clergyman's private papers¹⁶; for a parish certificate, the parish chest¹⁷ or the custody of the local authority¹⁸; for the endowment of a vicarage, the registry of the diocese in which it is kept¹⁹ or the augmentation office²⁰; for a family Bible, the custody of a member of the family²¹; for books relating to the estate of an ancient monastery, the custody of a person owning part of its estates²²; for steward's books, the custody of the steward²³; and for an expired apprenticeship indenture, the custody of the apprentice or master²⁴.

1 See R v Ryton Inhabitants (1793) 5 Term Rep 259; R v Netherthong Inhabitants (1814) 2 M & S 337; Brett v Beales (1829) Mood & M 416; Evans v Rees (1839) 10 Ad & El 151; Doe d Jacobs v Phillips (1845) 8 QB 158; Doe d Earl of Shrewsbury v Keeling (1848) 11 QB 884. Cf Bidder v Bridges (1885) 34 WR 514. A grant of property is not in proper custody for this purpose if it is in the keeping of a person who has no direct or indirect connection with the property: Lygon v Strutt (1795) 2 Anst 601; Swinnerton v Marquis of Stafford (1810) 3 Taunt 91; Bidder v Bridges (1885) 34 WR 514.

2 Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL.

3 Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700.

4 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 701 et seq.

5 Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL.

6 Swinnerton v Marquis of Stafford (1810) 3 Taunt 91.

7 Doe d Jacobs v Phillips (1845) 8 QB 158.

8 Plaxton v Dare (1829) 10 B & C 17; Rees v Walters (1838) 3 M & W 527; Hall v Ball (1841) 3 Man & G 242; Doe d Earl of Shrewsbury v Keeling (1848) 11 QB 884.

9 Hall v Ball (1841) 3 Man & G 242.

10 Doe d Neale v Samples (1838) 8 Ad & El 151.

11 Governor & Co of Chelsea Waterworks Co v Cowper (1795) 1 Esp 275.

- 12 Foster v Plumbers' Co (1900) 44 Sol Jo 211. See also Fox v Pett [1918] 2 KB 196.
- 13 Bertie v Beaumont (1816) 2 Price 303.
- 14 See Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700.
- 15 Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL. But it seems that this only applies where the document is dated prior to the establishment of the registry: see Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700 (parish clerk's house not the proper place for parish registers). See also the text and note 17.
- 16 R v Bathwick Inhabitants (1831) 2 B & Ad 639.
- 17 R v Ryton Inhabitants (1793) 5 Term Rep 259. For statutory provisions relating to the custody of parish registers and records by ministers or in diocesan record offices see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW. See also PARA 909.
- 18 R v Netherthong Inhabitants (1814) 2 M & S 337 (certificate in custody of overseers of the poor). As to the transfer of poor law functions to local authorities see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 3.
- 19 Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL, explained in Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183 at 201-202, HL.
- 20 This was apparently the more regular mode: see Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL.
- 21 Hubbard v Lees and Purden (1866) LR 1 Exch 255.
- 22 Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL.
- 23 Wynne v Tyrwhitt (1821) 4 B & Ald 376.
- 24 Cf Hall v Ball (1841) 3 Man & G 242.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/872. Nature of custody required.

872. Nature of custody required.

It will be seen that the custody required for an ancient document to prove itself¹ is not necessarily that which is most strictly proper; the custody, however, should be one in which the document may reasonably be expected to be found, and this must depend on the facts of each particular case². In the case of documents of which the custody is by statute imposed on a particular person the rule is perhaps more strict, and any unusual custody must be properly accounted for³. The custody of parish books is provided for by statute⁴. The fact of custody must be properly established by evidence; it is not enough that the document be produced in court⁵, but when the fact of proper custody is established there is no need to inquire what happened to the document between execution and production⁶.

1 See PARA 869.

2 Bertie v Beaumont (1816) 2 Price 303; Doe d Neale v Samples (1838) 8 Ad & El 151; Doe d Jacobs v Phillips (1845) 8 QB 158; Doe d Earl of Shrewsbury v Keeling (1848) 11 QB 884; and see Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL; Bishop of Meath v Marquess of Winchester (1836) 3 Bing NC 183, HL; Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700. For a case very near the line see Croughton v Blake (1843) 12 M & W 205. See also R v Norfolk County Council (1910) 26 TLR 269.

3 See Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700, where the document in question was a parish register. For modern statutory provisions see ECCELSIASTICAL LAW.

4 As to secular parish books see the Local Government Act 1972 s 226; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 537. See also Lewis v Poole [1898] 1 QB 164, DC; R v Powell, ex p Williams [1899] 1 QB 396; Fox v Pett [1918] 2 KB 196. As to parish registers and other church records see PARA 909.

5 Evans v Rees (1839) 10 Ad & El 151.

6 See Doe d Jacobs v Phillips (1845) 8 QB 158; Slater v Hodgson (1846) 9 QB 727.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/873. Custody which is not regarded as proper.

873. Custody which is not regarded as proper.

The British Museum has not been regarded as proper custody¹ for the purpose of the rule regarding ancient documents proving themselves² in respect of private maps³, ancient grants⁴, notes of a case tried at the time of Henry III or for a priory register⁵.

An ancient grant contained in a manuscript preserved in the Bodleian Library at Oxford has been rejected as not coming from a proper custody⁶; an ancient manuscript, found in the Herald's Office, purporting to be an account of the possessions of a monastery, was not admissible evidence of that fact⁷; and an old grant of common, given to one of the parties by a person unconnected with the estate, was not admissible⁸.

1 It may be presumed that if it could be shown that the possession of a document had come to the possessor from a person who had the proper custody, this would be sufficient: see Randolph v Gordon (1818) 5 Price 312.

2 See PARA 869.

3 Bidder v Bridges (1885) 34 WR 514; Mercer v Denne [1904] 2 Ch 534.

4 Swinnerton v Marquis of Stafford (1810) 3 Taunt 91.

5 Bidder v Bridges (1885) 34 WR 514.

6 Michell v Rabbetts (1810) cited in 3 Taunt 91.

7 Lygon v Strutt (1795) 2 Anst 601.

8 Swinnerton v Marquis of Stafford (1810) 3 Taunt 91.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/874. Documents executed under power of attorney.

874. Documents executed under power of attorney.

Although the rule in respect of ancient documents proving themselves applies to all documents which are 20 years old or more¹, where such a document purports to have been executed under a power of attorney, while the actual execution is presumed to have been regular, it must be shown that the attorney was duly authorised², unless perhaps execution was a merely ministerial act³.

1 See PARA 869.

2 Re Airey, Airey v Stapleton [1897] 1 Ch 164, where the deed produced purported to be an exercise by attorney of a special power of appointment. As to the construction of powers of attorney see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 31 et seq.

3 Re Airey, Airey v Stapleton [1897] 1 Ch 164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(i) Proof of Execution of Documents/B. ANCIENT DOCUMENTS/875. Ancient documents as acts of ownership.

875. Ancient documents as acts of ownership.

An ancient document, such as a lease or licence, coming from proper custody, and purporting upon its face to show exercise of ownership, was at common law admissible without proof of possession or payment of rent as being in itself an ownership¹. Ancient leases may be admissible as evidence of value².

1 Malcomson v O'Dea (1863) 10 HL Cas 593; Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641, HL; also Rogers v Allen (1808) 1 Camp 309; cf Blandy-Jenkins v Earl of Dunraven [1899] 2 Ch 121, CA, where a document compromising an action for trespass was admitted on similar grounds. See also PARA 1071.

2 See Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/A. PRIMARY EVIDENCE/876. Production of documents at trial.

(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents

A. PRIMARY EVIDENCE

876. Production of documents at trial.

When the authenticity of a document which is in the possession of one of the parties is not in dispute, it is usual to take steps to secure the production and admission of it, or evidence of its contents, at the trial through the processes of disclosure and inspection which are discussed elsewhere in this title¹. A party is deemed to admit the authenticity of a document disclosed to him unless he serves notice that he wishes the document to be proved at trial².

Correspondence is frequently agreed between the parties³.

The court⁴ may give directions requiring the parties to use their best endeavours to agree a bundle or bundles of documents for use at any hearing⁵. All documents contained in bundles which have been agreed for use at a hearing are admissible at that hearing as evidence of their contents, unless either the court orders otherwise or a party gives written notice of objection to the admissibility of particular documents⁶.

1 See PARA 538 et seq.

2 See CPR 32.19(1); and PARA 778. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. See also eg Bentley v Jones Harris & Co [2001] EWCA Civ 1724, [2001] All ER (D) 37 (Nov) (claimant contending for first time during the course of his cross-examination on the second day of the trial that attendance notes disclosed to him had been manufactured by the defendant to fit the circumstances of the case; judge entitled to find that attendance notes were a contemporaneous record of what had taken place and that their authenticity had been deemed to be admitted as there had been no objection to them earlier).

3 If agreed translations are used, care must be taken when pleading to raise any rule of construction peculiar to the law involved: Ascherberg Hopwood and Crew Ltd v Casa Musicale Sonzogno Di Piero, Ostali Societa in Nome Collettivo [1971] 1 All ER 577, [1971] 1 WLR 173; affd [1971] 3 All ER 38, [1971] 1 WLR 1128, CA.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 27.1.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 27.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/A. PRIMARY EVIDENCE/877. Proof of authenticity.

877. Proof of authenticity.

Where a document is not in the possession of either of the parties, or because its authenticity is in dispute or for some other reason it is not possible to secure the admission of it or of an agreed copy of it at the trial, it may become necessary not only to secure its production, but also to give evidence that it is what it purports to be, or is tendered as being¹. The methods by which such evidence may in general be given have already been considered², but in respect of some classes of documents these methods may be replaced by some other method which, on grounds of public policy, is established either as the best and therefore the only method, or as an alternative method, of proving the contents³.

1 Where the document is a deed or record, this involves the production of the original document, except in cases where this is dispensed with. The signature of a surveyor to an estimate under the Metropolis Management Act 1855 (repealed) is some evidence that the document is authentic and that the sum named in it has been duly determined: Hobman v Greenwich District Board of Works (1894) 58 JP 703, CA. As to the production of documents filed in or in the custody of a court office see PARA 1010. As to documents improperly obtained see PARA 765.

2 See PARA 864 et seq.

3 See PARA 884 et seq. As to the proof of wills see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; WILLS. As to statements proposed to be given in evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 see PARA 879.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/878. General rule at common law.

B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS

878. General rule at common law.

At common law, secondary evidence¹ of the contents of private² documents is inadmissible³ if primary evidence is available⁴. Before secondary evidence is tendered it is, therefore, usually necessary to account for the absence of the original⁵, and for this purpose proof that primary evidence is not available may be required.

1 As to the nature of secondary evidence see PARA 762; and as to the admissibility of such evidence see PARA 879 et seq.

2 As to particular private documents see PARA 945 et seq. As to copies of public documents see PARA 884 et seq.

3 Garton v Hunter[1969] 2 QB 37, [1969] 1 All ER 451, CA; Bowskill v Dawson[1954] 1 QB 288, [1953] 2 All ER 1393; on appeal on another point [1955] 1 QB 13, [1954] 2 All ER 649, CA.

4 Jones v Tarleton (1842) 9 M & W 675; R v Frankland (1863) Le & Ca 276; R v Francis(1874) LR 2 CCR 128. Thus, where lands or premises are occupied under a written agreement, the agreement itself must be produced, and oral evidence is not receivable to prove the terms of the tenancy or the amount of rent (R v Holy Trinity, Kingston-upon-Hull, Inhabitants (1827) 1 Man & Ry KB 444), or to show by whom the tenant was let into possession (Doe v Harvey (1832) 8 Bing 239), or to whom the premises were in fact let (R v Rawden Inhabitants (1828) 8 B & C 708). As to the admissibility of extrinsic evidence in relation to written documents generally see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS; and in relation to commercial documents on matters of usage see CUSTOM AND USAGE. As to proof by oral evidence of a partnership without production of the partnership deed see PARTNERSHIP.

5 The admission of the contents of a document may make it unnecessary to account for the absence of the original: see PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/879. Proof of statements contained in documents.

879. Proof of statements contained in documents.

Under the Civil Evidence Act 1995, a statement contained in a document may be proved by the production of that document or, whether or not that document is still in existence, by the production of a copy of that document, or the material part of it, authenticated in such manner as the court may approve¹. These provisions are discussed elsewhere in this title².

1 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(1).

2 See PARA 816.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/880. Proof of lost or destroyed document.

880. Proof of lost or destroyed document.

Where a document has been lost¹ or destroyed², and cannot be found after due search³, secondary evidence of its contents⁴ is admissible⁵. The court must be satisfied that the document existed⁶, that the loss or destruction has in fact taken place⁷, and that a reasonable explanation of this has been given⁸. Thus, a diligent search must have been made in good faith in the place where the instrument would most properly be found⁹, but not necessarily in every possible place¹⁰; nor need the search have been made recently or for the purpose of the cause¹¹. Objections as to the sufficiency of the search must be taken at the trial and cannot be raised afterwards¹².

The question of the sufficiency of the search is for the judge¹³, and must vary with the circumstances of each case¹⁴. Thus, if the document is of considerable value¹⁵ or is of recent date¹⁶, or if the party who ought to produce it appears to have some interest in withholding it, greater diligence must have been shown before secondary evidence can be admitted; whereas if the document is valueless¹⁷, very little search will suffice¹⁸; and no search is required where direct proof of the destruction or irretrievable loss of the instrument is given¹⁹.

1 Goodier v Lake (1737) 1 Atk 446; Saltern v Melhuish (1754) Amb 247; Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL; Hall v Dawson (1862) 7 LT 519; Sugden v Lord St Leonards (1876) 1 PD 154, CA. As to obtaining probate of the contents of a lost will see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 110.

2 Delany v Tenison (1758) 3 Bro Parl Cas 659, HL; Brandon v Barlow (1865) 13 LT 6; R v Robinson [1917] 2 KB 108, CCA. If part of a document is lost or destroyed by accident, the part which is preserved is admissible, on the mutilation being properly accounted for, and secondary evidence may be given of the remainder: Doe d Godsoe v Jack (1849) 1 All ER 476.

3 It is very difficult to lay down any general rule as to the degree of diligence necessary to be used in searching for an original document, to entitle the party to give secondary evidence of its contents. That must depend, in great measure, upon the circumstances of each particular case: see Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296; and the text and notes 10-19.

4 Where secondary evidence of the material trusts of a lost settlement was sufficient, the court ordered the payment of the fund in court to the applicant: Hansell v Spink [1943] Ch 396. In the case of a settlement deed and trust documents destroyed by enemy action, the court, not being satisfied as to the trusts, refused to declare them but ordered that until further order the trustees were entitled to hold the investments on trusts specified: Perch v Robertson (1943) 87 Sol Jo 66. See also Re Knapp's Settlement, Cowan v Knapp [1952] 1 All ER 458n.

5 Thus secondary evidence, either by parol or written memorandum, has been admitted where a contract was contained in documents which had been lost (Jameson v Stein (1855) 21 Beav 5; Prole v Soady (1859) 2 Giff 1; Gilchrist v Herbert (1872) 26 LT 381; see Peyton v M'Dermott (1837) 1 Dr & Wal 198); and secondary evidence will be admitted even though the contents are required by statute to have been in writing (Read v Price [1909] 2 KB 724, CA; Barber v Rowe [1948] 2 All ER 1050, CA). See also Springsteen v Masquerade Music Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 563, [2001] EMLR 654 (admissibility depended on weight to be attached to secondary evidence).

6 Whitfield v Fausset (1750) 1 Ves Sen 387; Askew v Poulterers Co (1750) 2 Ves Sen 89.

7 Saltern v Melhuish (1754) Amb 247; Doe d Johnson v Johnson (1818) 2 Chit 196; Fitz v Rabbits (1837) 2 Mood & R 60; cf Gilchrist v Herbert (1872) 20 WR 348. See also Parkins v Cobbet (1824) 1 C & P 282; R v Hall (1872) 12 Cox CC 159.

8 Saltern v Melhuish (1754) Amb 247; Gilchrist v Herbert (1872) 20 WR 348.

9 R v Denio Inhabitants (1827) 7 B & C 620; Hart v Hart (1841) 1 Hare 1; Green v Bailey (1847) 15 Sim 542; R v St Mary, Islington Overseers (1852) 1 WR 34; R v Hinckley Overseers (1863) 3 B & S 885; R v Saffron Hill Inhabitants (1852) 1 E & B 93. Where the document belonged to a deceased person, inquiry of his personal representatives is in general necessary (R v Rawden Inhabitants (1834) 2 Ad & El 156); but where the management of his affairs and the custody of his papers have been taken over by his solicitor, inquiry of the solicitor is sufficient, and it is not necessary to inquire of the widow (R v Piddlehinton Inhabitants (1832) 3 B & Ad 460). Where the document is a settlement, inquiry should be made of all the trustees: Doe d Richards v Lewis (1851) 11 CB 1035. For other cases in relation to search see R v Stourbridge Inhabitants (1828) 8 B & C 96; Minshall v Lloyd (1837) 2 M & W 450; Pardoe v Price (1844) 13 M & W 267; R v Kenilworth Inhabitants (1845) 7 QB 642; Gathercole v Miall (1846) 15 M & W 319.

10 M'Gahey v Alston (1836) 2 M & W 286; cf Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296; Hart v Hart (1841) 1 Hare 1. In Bligh v Wellesley (1826) 2 C & P 400, and R v Rastrick (1846) 2 Cox CC 39, secondary evidence was not admitted where the search had been made only in one place.

11 Fitz v Rabbits (1837) 2 Mood & R 60.

12 Williams v Wilcox (1838) 8 Ad & El 314.

13 Waldy v Gray (1875) LR 20 Eq 238; R v Kenilworth Inhabitants (1845) 7 QB 642; and see Fernley v Worthington (1840) 1 Man & G 491; R v Braintree Inhabitants (1858) 1 E & E 51; R v Hinckley Overseers (1863) 3 B & S 885.

14 See note 3.

15 Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296; cf Freeman v Arkell (1824) 2 B & C 494; Quilter v Jorss (1863) 14 CBNS 747; Gully v Bishop of Exeter (1827) 4 Bing 290.

16 R v Hinckley Overseers (1863) 3 B & S 885.

17 Eg an insurance policy on which a claim has been paid: see Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296.

18 Brewster v Sewell (1820) 3 B & Ald 296; cf Freeman v Arkell (1824) 2 B & C 494.

19 Ex p Raine (1816) 19 Ves 589; Quilter v Jorss (1863) 14 CBNS 747; Blackie v Pidding (1848) 6 CB 196; Atkins v Owen (1834) 2 Ad & El 35.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/881. Proof of document impossible or difficult to produce.

881. Proof of document impossible or difficult to produce.

Secondary evidence is admissible where it is impossible or highly inconvenient to produce the original document. This occurs where the original is a fixed inscription, such as that on a tombstone¹, or a placard posted on a wall², or (it seems) an inscription or device on a banner or flag displayed at a public meeting³.

Where the document is abroad in the hands of a foreign functionary who is forbidden to produce it, secondary evidence may be given⁴, but it seems that an application should first have been made to the person having the legal, even though not the actual, custody of the document, and must be shown to have been unsuccessful⁵. Similarly, where the document is abroad in private hands, application must be made to the person in possession of it, and the purpose for which it is required should be disclosed⁶.

Where a party is entitled to put a document in evidence and the original document is in the possession of a person who, by virtue of privilege⁷ or otherwise, is not compellable to produce it⁸, secondary evidence is admissible provided that person has been served with a notice to produce or witness summons and expressly claims his privilege⁹. If the document is filed in a court in England and Wales, secondary evidence is inadmissible¹⁰. The procedure for producing documents filed, lodged or held in a court office is discussed elsewhere in this title¹¹.

1 Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL; Mortimer v M'Callan (1840) 6 M & W 58.

2 Bruce v Nicolopulo (1855) 11 Exch 129 (foreign proclamations); Owner v Bee Hive Spinning Co Ltd [1914] 1 KB 105 (placard on factory wall, affixed under statute); and see Bartholomew v Stephens (1839) 8 C & P 728 (notice board fixed on pole). If, however, the notice is a portable one, the notice itself must be produced: Jones v Tarleton (1842) 9 M & W 675.

3 R v Hunt (1820) 3 B & Ald 566. As to this case see R v Hinley (1843) 1 Cox CC 12 at 13 per Maule J; and see Doe d Coyle v Cole (1834) 6 C & P 359; Jones v Tarleton (1842) 9 M & W 675; Mortimer v M'Callan (1840) 6 M & W 58.

4 Re Lemme [1892] P 89; Re Von Linden [1896] P 148 (cases of wills deposited abroad); cf Burnaby v Baillie (1889) 42 ChD 282 (foreign registers of birth, as to which see PARA 917 et seq); Permanent Trustee Co of New South Wales v Fels [1918] AC 879, PC.

5 Crispin v Doglioni (1863) 32 LJPM & A 109, where the document was filed in a foreign court, but it is apprehended that the principle is of general application.

6 Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 10 Exch 647; cf Crispin v Doglioni (1863) 32 LJPM & A 109. In Hunt v Alewyn (1828) 1 Moo & P 433 secondary evidence was admitted of a bill of exchange in possession of the acceptors (who had paid it) abroad, it being treated as lost.

7 See PARA 970 et seq.

8 Hibberd v Knight (1848) 2 Exch 11; Newton v Chaplin (1850) 10 CB 356. As to objections to production see PARA 555 et seq. As to bankers' books see PARA 939.

9 Lloyd v Mostyn (1842) 10 M & W 478. This is so even where the secondary evidence was obtained by improper means, but the use of secondary evidence so obtained may be restrained by injunction: see PARA 765.

10 Williams v Munnings (1824) Ry & M 18; but not if a foreign court has custody and the legal system there does not permit a deposited document to be removed: Alivon v Furnival (1834) 1 Cr M & R 277.

11 See PARA 85. See also PARA 1010.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/882. Proof of document not produced after notice.

882. Proof of document not produced after notice.

Secondary evidence is admissible in the case of documents in the hands of an adversary who fails to produce them after being served with a notice to produce at the trial¹.

A notice to produce documents for proof at the trial² must be served³ by the latest date for serving witness statements⁴ or within seven days of disclosure⁵ of the document, whichever is the later⁶.

1 R v Watson (1788) 2 Term Rep 199; Sharpe v Lamb (1840) 11 Ad & El 805; Robb v Starkey (1845) 2 Car & Kir 143; R v Boucher (1859) 1 F & F 486. An adversary who fails to produce a document after being served with a notice to produce will not normally be allowed to put it in evidence: Doe d Thompson v Hodgson (1840) 12 Ad & El 135; Collins v Gashon (1860) 2 F & F 47; Roupell v Waite (1862) 3 F & F 511; Cyr v De Rosier (1910) 40 NBR 373; but see Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 11 Exch 360. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

2 Unless such a notice is served, a party is deemed to admit the authenticity of a document disclosed to him: see PARA 778.

3 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

4 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1; and as to serving witness statements see PARA 982. As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

5 As to disclosure see PARA 963; and PARA 538 et seq.

6 See CPR 32.19(2); and PARA 778. An adversary should generally be served with a notice to produce; if this is not done, secondary evidence of the contents of the documents in the adversary's control is inadmissible: R v Doran (1791) 1 Esp 127; Dwyer v Collins (1852) 7 Exch 639; Goodered v Armour (1842) 3 QB 956; Bate v Kinsey (1834) 1 Cr M & R 38; R v Recorder of Lichfield (1849) 13 LTOS 255; R v Morgan [1925] 1 KB 752, CCA. Moreover, where a document is proved to have come into the adversary's hands, the opposite party cannot give evidence of its loss or destruction until he has served a notice to produce: Doe d Phillips v Morris (1835) 3 Ad & El 46. A party who has served a notice to produce a document will not be entitled to give secondary evidence of it unless he establishes at the trial that it was, at the time of the service of the notice, in the possession of the person on whom the notice was served, or of some agent or other person over whom the person served had some authority and from whom he could have obtained the document: Sharpe v Lamb (1840) 11 Ad & El 805; Lloyd v Mostyn (1842) 10 M & W 478; Partridge v Coates (1824) Ry & M 153; Burton v Payne (1827) 2 C & P 520; Baldney v Ritchie (1816) 1 Stark 338; Sinclair v Stevenson (1824) 1 C & P 582; Taplin v Atty (1825) 3 Bing 164; Suter v Burrell (1858) 2 H & N 867; Martin v Bell (1816) 1 Stark 413; Parry v May and Morrit (1833) 1 Mood & R 279; Evans v Sweet (1824) Ry & M 83; Knight v Martin (1819) Gow 103; Henry v Leigh (1813) 3 Camp 499. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

Notice to produce is not necessary where the document is itself a notice which has been served upon the adversary: Robinson v Brown (1846) 3 CB 754 at 762 per Maule J, where the ground on which the exception is based is stated to be that it is not necessary to give any other notice to the defendant than that which is given by the proceedings, the defendant being sufficiently warned by the issue that the plaintiff means to give secondary evidence of the contents of the notice unless the defendant produces it himself. See also R v Turner [1910] 1 KB 346, CCA; Andrews v Wirral RDC [1916] 1 KB 863, CA; and see Kine v Beaumont (1822) 3 Brod & Bing 288; Swain v Lewis (1835) 4 LJ Ex 249; Lanauze v Palmer (1827) Mood & M 31; Robinson v Brown (1846) 3 CB 754; cf Colling v Treweek (1827) 6 B & C 394 (notice of dishonour in an action on a bill); Doe d Fleming v Somerton (1845) 7 QB 58; cf Philipson v Chase (1809) 2 Camp 110; Colling v Treweek (1827) 6 B & C 394 (a notice to quit in an action for possession); Surtees v Hubbard (1802) 4 Esp 203 (a notice of assignment in an action by an assignee of a debt). Such notice has also been held to be unnecessary when the document is an instrument in the nature of a notice (Colling v Treweek (1827) 6 B & C 394; Anderson v May (1800) 2 Bos & P 237; Gotlieb v Danvers (1796) 1 Esp 455; but cf Grove v Ware (1817) 2 Stark 174) or where the defendant's possession of the document forms the basis of the action so that the action itself acts as a notice (How v Hall (1811) 14 East 274; cf R v Elworthy (1867) LR 1 CCR 103; Marshall v Ford (1908) 99 LT 796; Machin v Ash (1950) 49 LGR 87, DC); or where the document is not a mere document, but is a chattel as well as a document, eg a driving licence or a certificate of insurance (see Marshall v Ford (1908) 99 LT 796; Martin v White [1910] 1 KB 665; Williams v Russell (1933) 149 LT 190, DC). Notice to produce the original is also unnecessary where the document sought to be put in is a counterpart original (Philipson v Chase (1809) 2 Camp 110; Surtees v Hubbard (1802) 4 Esp 203; R v Watson (1817) 2 Stark 116; Burleigh v Stibbs (1793) 5 Term Rep 465; Roe d West v Davis (1806) 7 East 363; cf Kine v Beaumont (1822) 3 Brod & Bing 288; Colling v Treweek (1827) 6 B & C 394; Houghton v Koenig (1856) 18 CB 235) or perhaps even a copy made contemporaneously (see Kine v Beaumont (1822) 3 Brod & Bing 288; Philipson v Chase (1809) 2 Camp 110; Gotlieb v Danvers (1796) 1 Esp 455; cf Andrews v Wirral RDC [1916] 1 KB 863, CA). Where a proper notice to produce has been served and a new trial is subsequently ordered, a fresh notice is unnecessary: Hope v Beadon (1851) 17 QB 509. All these authorities must, however, now be treated with caution: see PARA 33 text and note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/B. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PRIVATE DOCUMENTS/883. Statute or order.

883. Statute or order.

Secondary evidence is admissible in particular cases by statutory provisions. For example, copies are admissible in certain circumstances¹, photographic copies of documents in the custody of a local authority or parish meeting are admissible although the court may require the production of the original if it is still in existence², while in proceedings relating to children a copy of an entry in a wages book is admissible to prove the payment of wages³. The High Court and county courts have a general discretionary power to give directions as to the nature of the evidence which they require and the way in which it is to be placed before the court⁴.

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 8(1); and PARA 816.

2 See the Local Government Act 1972 s 229(4), (6), (8) (s 229(8) amended by the Local Government Act 1985 s 84, Sch 14 para 25; the Education Reform Act 1988 s 237, Sch 13 Pt I; the Police and Magistrates' Courts Act 1994 s 43, Sch 4 Pt I para 14(a); the Police Act 1996 s 103, Sch 7 para 1(2)(h); the Police Act 1997 s 88, Sch 6 para 9; the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 325, Sch 27 para 31; the Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001 ss 128(1), 137, Sch 6 Pt 2 paras 22, 31(a), Sch 7 Pt 5(1); and the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 s 209(2), Sch 13 Pt 1 paras 1, 17); and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 540.

3 See the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 s 100; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS.

4 See CPR 32.1(1); and PARA 791.

UPDATE

883 Statute or order

NOTE 2--Local Government Act 1972 s 229(8) further amended: Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 Sch 6 para 28.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS/884. Copies of public documents.

C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

884. Copies of public documents.

At common law, documents admissible in evidence as public documents¹ could be proved by the production of properly authenticated copies². By statute, where any book or other document is of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence on its mere production from proper custody, and no statute exists rendering its contents provable by means of a copy, any copy or extract from such book or other document is admissible in evidence in any court of justice, or before any person having by law or by consent of the parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, provided the copy or extract is proved to be an examined copy or extract³ or provided it purports to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract⁴ by the officer to whose custody the original is entrusted⁵. In addition, many public documents may be proved by means of copies⁶ by virtue of particular statutory provisions⁷.

Copies of public documents which are admissible in evidence fall under one or other of the following five heads: (1) official copies⁸; (2) examined copies⁹; (3) certified copies¹⁰; (4) copies printed by authority¹¹; (5) copies admitted in evidence under certain provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹².

1 See the various categories of document discussed in PARA 889 et seq. Such documents are now admissible (where no other statute provides for their admissibility) by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b): see PARA 821.

2 Lynch v Clerke (1697) 3 Salk 154; Mortimer v M'Callan (1840) 6 M & W 58; Sayer v Glossop (1848) 2 Exch 409; and see PARA 909 note 7.

Proof of the contents of a public or judicial record by production of an exemplification (a copy either under the Great Seal or under the seal of the court where the record is kept) is now no longer known. Judicial records are now proved by production of official copies or certified copies: see PARAS 885, 887. As to exemplifications see Bull NP 226; Beverley Corpn v Craven (1838) 2 Mood & R 140; Whitehead v Thompson (1861) 23 Durl (Ct of Sess) 772.

3 See PARA 886.

4 See PARA 887.

5 Evidence Act 1851 s 14; R v Weaver (1873) LR 2 CCR 85.

6 The statute usually specifies the means of proof. For a general provision relating to the proof of copies see the Evidence Act 1845 s 1: and PARA 887.

7 See eg the provisions mentioned in PARAS 887, 892-893, 906, 913, 915-916, 919-923.

8 See PARA 885.

9 See PARA 886.

10 See PARA 887.

11 See PARA 888.

12 See PARA 879.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS/885. Official copies.

885. Official copies.

Official copies are copies of documents in the custody of a superior court made and authenticated by an officer of the court who has the authority to supply copies¹. Official copies of court documents must not be exhibited in evidence because they prove themselves².

Every document purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal or stamp of the Supreme Court or of any office of the Supreme Court³ must be received in evidence in all parts of the United Kingdom without further proof⁴ as must a document purporting to bear the seal of a county court⁵. A party to proceedings may generally obtain from the records of the court⁶ a copy of any document relating to the proceedings⁷ and a non-party may obtain certain documents from the court records⁸, in either case subject to particular rules⁹.

An office copy¹⁰ of an entry in a local land charges register is admissible in evidence to the same extent as the original would be admissible¹¹. Similarly, an official copy of, or of a part of, the register of title, any document which is referred to in the register of title and kept by the registrar, any other document kept by the registrar which relates to an application to him, or the register of cautions against first registration, is admissible in evidence to the same extent as the original¹². Statutory provision is also made, for example, for the admission of office copies of instruments creating or verifying the execution of a power of attorney deposited in the Central Office of the Supreme Court before 1 October 1971¹³. Where copies are required of original wills or other documents, such copies may be facsimile copies sealed with the seal of the court and issued either as office copies or certified under the hand of a district judge or registrar to be true copies¹⁴.

1 Before the Supreme Court of Judicature Acts 1873 to 1875 (repealed), office copies were admitted as evidence in the same court and the same cause without proof that they had been examined: see Denn v Lucas v Fulford (1761) 2 Burr 1177; Jack v Boyle v Kiernan (1840) 2 Jebb & S 231; Davenport v Townsend (1867) 15 LT 528.

2 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 13.2. As to exhibits see PARA 990 note 16.

3 As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

4 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 132 (amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 4 para 26(1), (2), to refer to the Senior Courts; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

5 See CPR 2.6(3), cited in PARA 789. As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 See CPR 5.4B.

8 See CPR 5.4C.

9 As to the supply of documents from court records see PARA 82.

10 In more recent statutes, the term 'official copy' rather than 'office copy' is used: see eg note 12.

11 See the Local Land Charges Act 1975 s 12; and LAND CHARGES vol 26 (Reissue) PARA 707.

12 Land Registration Act 2002 s 67(1). A person who relies on an official copy in which there is a mistake is not liable for loss suffered by another by reason of the mistake: s 67(2). Rules may make provision for the issue of official copies and may, in particular, make provision about the form of official copies, who may issue official copies, applications for official copies and the conditions to be met by applicants for official copies, including conditions requiring the payment of fees: s 67(3). See the Land Registration Rules 2003, SI 2003/1417; and LAND REGISTRATION vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 1096.

13 A document purporting to be an office copy of any such instrument is sufficient evidence, without further proof, of the contents of the instrument and as having been deposited as mentioned in the text: see the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 134(3); and AGENCY.

14 See the Non-Contentious Probate Rules 1987, SI 1987/2024, r 59; and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 132.

UPDATE

885 Official copies

NOTES 3, 4--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS/886. Examined copies.

886. Examined copies.

An examined copy is a copy of a document which a witness swears he has compared with the original (or with what the officer of the court having custody of the original or any other person read as the contents of the original) and swears is a correct copy¹. Examined copies are admissible in evidence in all cases where the original is a public document², and in many other cases where such copies are made admissible by statute³. Before such a copy can be read in evidence it must be proved that the original came from the proper place of deposit or out of the hands of the officer in whose custody it was kept⁴.

1 Reid v Margison (1808) 1 Camp 469; Gyles v Hill (1809) 1 Camp 471n; Rolf v Dart (1809) 2 Taunt 52; R v M'Donald (1841) Arm M & O 112; R v Hughes (1839) 1 Craw & D 13; but see Slane Peerage (1835) 5 Cl & Fin 23, HL. An examined copy must not contain abbreviations which are not in the original: R v Christian (1842) Car & M 388. Cf Anderdon v Lord Foley (1833) 2 LJKB 214 (office copies containing abbreviations admitted). Where the document is ancient the witness should be able to read and understand it: Crawford and Lindsay Peerages (1848) 2 HL Cas 534.

2 See the Evidence Act 1851 s 14; and PARA 884. It is now more usual to prove copies of public documents by means of certified copies: see PARA 887.

3 See eg PARA 939 (examined copies of entries in bankers' books).

4 Adamthwaite v Synge (1816) 1 Stark 183; Bannister v Lambert (1832) 1 LJKB 179; Doe d Lord Arundel v Fowler (1850) 14 QB 700.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS/887. Certified copies.

887. Certified copies.

A copy of a public document or an extract from it is admissible in evidence, provided it purports to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract by the officer to whose custody the original is entrusted¹. A copy of or extract from a public record in the Public Record Office (now known as the National Archives)² purporting to be examined and certified as true and authentic by the proper officer³ and to be sealed with the seal of the Public Record Office is admissible as evidence in any proceedings without any further or other proof if the original record would have been admissible as evidence in those proceedings⁴. Similarly, an electronic copy of or extract from a public record in the Public Record Office which purports to have been examined and certified as true and authentic by the proper officer and appears on a website purporting to be one maintained by or on behalf of the Public Record Office is, when viewed on that website, admissible as evidence in any proceedings without further or other proof if the original record would have been admissible as evidence in those proceedings⁵.

In addition numerous statutes make admissible in evidence copies of particular documents certified by officials who have the custody of the originals⁶. Where any statute makes a certified copy of any document admissible in evidence, the copy is to be admitted, provided it purports to be sealed or impressed with a stamp, or sealed and signed, or signed alone, as required, or impressed with a stamp and signed as directed by any such statute, without any proof of the seal or stamp or of the signature or of the official character of the person appearing to have signed it, in every case in which the original record could have been received in evidence⁷.

1 See the Evidence Act 1851 s 14; and PARA 884. If such a copy is not properly certified it may be proved by oral evidence to be an examined copy: R v Manwaring (1856) Dears & B 132, CCR.

2 In 2003 the Public Records Office and the Historical Manuscripts Commission merged to form the National Archives. The Public Records Act 1958 has not been amended to reflect this change.

3 For these purposes, any reference to the proper officer is a reference to the Keeper of Public Records or any other officer of the Public Record Office authorised in that behalf by the Keeper of Public Records, and, in the case of copies and extracts made before 1 January 1959, the deputy keeper of the records or any assistant record keeper appointed under the Public Record Office Act 1838 (repealed): Public Records Act 1958 s 9(4) (renumbered as such and amended by SI 2001/4058).

4 Public Records Act 1958 s 9(2). It is the duty of the Keeper of Public Records to arrange that reasonable facilities are available to the public for inspecting and obtaining copies of public records in the Public Record Office which fall to be disclosed in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000: Public Records Act 1958 s 5(3) (substituted by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 s 67, Sch 5 para 2(1), (3)). As to public records see further CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 835 et seq. For provisions relating to manorial documents see PARA 924. As to Welsh public records see the Government of Wales Act 2006 ss 146-148; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. The copy of the Commonwealth of Australia Constitution Act 1900 which on 29 June 1990 was on loan to the Commonwealth of Australia is no longer included in the public records to which the Public Records Act 1958 applies: Australian Constitution (Public Record Copy) Act 1990 s 1.

5 Public Records Act 1958 s 9(3) (added by SI 2001/4058).

6 See eg the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 56(4) (copy of definitive map or statement: see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (Reissue) PARA 592); the Army Act 1955 s 198(2), (5) (attestation papers and records in service books: see ARMED FORCES).

7 Evidence Act 1845 s 1. See R v Parsons (1866) LR 1 CCR 24; State (A-G) v Judge Roe [1951] IR 172.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ii) Proof of Contents of Documents/C. SECONDARY EVIDENCE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS/888. Copies printed by authority.

888. Copies printed by authority.

Certain Acts of Parliament and various official documents may be proved by copies purporting to be printed by the Queen's Printer, the Government Printer, or under the superintendence or authority of Her Majesty's Stationery Office¹, or, in the case of parliamentary journals, by the printer to either House of Parliament².

1 See PARAS 889, 892.

2 See PARA 890.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/889. Acts of Parliament etc.

(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents

A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS

889. Acts of Parliament etc.

Public statutes are judicially noticed¹ and no proof of them is required². By statute, every Act passed after 1850 is a public Act and is to be judicially noticed as such unless the Act itself provides expressly to the contrary³. Acts of the Scottish Parliament are likewise judicially noticed⁴. Similarly, the validity of any proceedings leading to the enactment of an Act of the Northern Ireland Assembly must not be called into question in any legal proceedings⁵. A document purporting to be duly executed under the seal of the Welsh Ministers, or signed on behalf of the Welsh Ministers, is to be received in evidence and, unless the contrary is proved, is to be taken to be so executed or signed⁶.

Local, personal and private Acts passed before 1 January 1851, unless they contain provisions that they are to be deemed public Acts and judicially noticed as such⁷, or that they are to be printed by the Queen's Printer, in which case a copy purporting to be so printed is to be admitted as evidence⁸, must be pleaded and proved⁹ by an exemplification under the Great Seal or by a copy sworn to have been compared with the Parliament roll¹⁰. Copies of local, personal and private Acts, not being public Acts, if purporting to be printed¹¹ by the Queen's Printer, are to be admitted as evidence without proof that they were so printed¹², and when directed by any enactment to be evidence or conclusive evidence or to have any other effect, when purporting to be printed by the government printer, the Queen's Printer or the Queen's Printer for Scotland or a printer authorised by Her Majesty or otherwise under Her Majesty's authority, are to be evidence or conclusive evidence or to have that other effect if purporting to be printed under the superintendence or authority of Her Majesty's Stationery Office¹³.

1 See PARA 779 et seq.

2 Co Litt 98b; Co Inst 98a; Lord Cromwell's Case (1581) 4 Co Rep 12b; Holland's Case (1597) 4 Co Rep 75a; Lovell v Plomer (1812) 15 East 320; R v Sutton (1816) 4 M & S 532; Forman v Dawes (1841) Car & M 127; Aiton v Stephen (1876) 1 App Cas 456, HL; Chilton v London Corp (1878) 7 ChD 735. The Parliament roll may be inspected to test the accuracy of any print produced: see R v Jefferies (1721) 1 Stra 446; Price v Hollis (1813) 1 M & S 105.

3 Interpretation Act 1978 s 3, Sch 2 para 2.

4 See the Scotland Act 1998 s 28(6); and PARA 783.

5 Northern Ireland Act 1998 s 5(5). Devolved government was suspended on 14 October 2002.

6 Government of Wales Act 2006 s 90(3). Welsh Assembly legislation is made by Assembly measures (see s 93(1)), which are to be judicially noted (see s 93(3)).

7 See as in Woodward v Cotton (1834) 6 C & P 491; Baumont v Mountain (1834) 10 Bing 404; Hargreaves v Lancaster and Preston Junction Rly Co (1838) 1 Ry & Can Cas 416. Such a clause in a private Act did not fix strangers with notice of it: Brett v Beales (1829) Mood & M 416; Ballard v Way (1836) 1 M & W 520; A-G v Marrett (1846) 10 I Eq R 167.

8 See the Evidence Act 1845 s 3; and the text to note 10.

9 Kirk v Nowill (1786) 1 Term Rep 118; Samuel v Evans (1788) 2 Term Rep 569; and see R v Nott(1843) 4 QB 768.

10 The Prince's Case (1606) 8 Co Rep 1a. After the royal assent was given the Clerk of the Parliaments transcribed every public Act on to a roll, which was delivered into Chancery and was considered the only record: Wiltes' Claim of Peerage(1869) LR 4 HL 126. Private Acts were not enrolled without the suit of the party (Thomas's note to The Prince's Case in 4 Coke's Reports 180, published 1826 by Butterworth & Son), and the difficulties of proof which might arise if the private Act has not been enrolled and was lost may be seen from the evidence offered and rejected in Doe d Bacon v Lady Brydges (1843) 6 Man & G 282. The practice of engrossing Acts, whether public or private, upon rolls of Parliament was discontinued soon after the passing of the Evidence Act 1845, since when the recognised record is the copy printed by the Queen's Printer (Claydon v Green(1868) LR 3 CP 511); but there are still two prints on vellum made, signed by the Clerk of the Parliaments or his deputy, one of which is preserved in the House of Lords Record Office, and the other in the Public Record Office (now known as the National Archives): see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 836.

11 In R v Wallace (1866) 14 WR 462, CCR (Ir), a gazette made admissible if purporting to be printed 'by the Queen's Printers' or 'by the Queen's authority' was held inadmissible if it did not give the style of the printer as the Queen's Printer or state that it was printed by the Queen's authority.

12 Evidence Act 1845 s 3 (amended by the Statute Law Revision Act 1891). The court may, however, still refer to the Parliament roll: Barrow v Wadkin (No 2) (1857) 24 Beav 327; R v Haslingfield(1874) LR 9 QB 203; and see note 2. As to Commonwealth statutes see PARA 898.

13 Documentary Evidence Act 1882 s 2 (amended by SI 1999/1042); cf Re Yarmouth and Ventnor Rly Co [1871] WN 236. The operation of the Documentary Evidence Act 1882 s 2 is not affected by the enactment of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 (for the provisions of which see PARA 808 et seq): s 14(3)(b). Examined copies are also admissible. As to these see PARA 886. Her Majesty's Stationery Office is now part of the Office of Public Sector Information, which itself is part of the National Archives.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/890. Admissibility of statements in statutes and other public documents.

890. Admissibility of statements in statutes and other public documents.

Statements contained in any public statute, speech from the throne¹, royal proclamation², parliamentary journal³, government gazette⁴ or state paper⁵ are admissible in evidence⁶ to prove facts of a public nature⁷. On the other hand, private Acts of Parliament are of no greater evidential value, for the purpose of proving facts recited in them, than recitals in private deeds⁸.

The journals of either House of Parliament are proved by copies purporting to be printed by the printer to either House⁹, and are admissible as evidence of the facts relating to parliamentary procedure recorded in them¹⁰.

1 R v Francklin (1731) 17 State Tr 625.

2 R v Sutton (1816) 4 M & S 532; R v De Berenger (1814) 3 M & S 67.

3 A-G v Bradlaugh (1885) 14 QBD 667, CA; Forbes v Samuel [1913] 3 KB 706.

4 R v Holt (1793) 5 Term Rep 436; A-G v Theakstone (1820) 8 Price 89.

5 Eg an official dispatch: see Thelluson v Cosling (1803) 4 Esp 266.

6 Such statements are not conclusive evidence: see R v Greene (1837) 6 Ad & El 548; R v Francklin (1731) 17 State Tr 625.

7 At common law such statements were admissible as being statements in public documents. They are now admissible in civil cases by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b): see PARA 821.

8 Ballard v Way (1836) 1 M & W 520; Duke of Beaufort v Smith (1849) 4 Exch 450; Polini v Gray, Sturla v Freccia (1879) 12 ChD 411, CA; affd sub nom Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL. See further DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS; STATUTES.

9 Evidence Act 1845 s 3. No proof is required that such copies were in fact so printed: s 3.

10 A-G v Bradlaugh (1885) 14 QBD 667, CA. When a cause is being tried in London, and a journal of the House is required in evidence, it is usual for an officer of the House to attend with the necessary volume; in other cases a certified copy of the required entry in the journals can be obtained from the Journal Office of the House; see Erskine May's Parliamentary Practice (23rd Edn, 2004) pp 253, 258. The test roll of the House of Commons and the official copy of the division lists are admissible in evidence: Forbes v Samuel [1913] 3 KB 706. As to judicial notice of Parliamentary proceedings see PARA 785.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/891. Documents relating to the European Union.

891. Documents relating to the European Union.

The matters relating to the European Union of which judicial notice¹ is to be taken, and the proof of relevant instruments and documents, are discussed elsewhere in this title².

1 As to judicial notice see PARA 779 et seq.

2 See PARAS 1087, 780.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/892. Proclamations, orders and regulations.

892. Proclamations, orders and regulations.

In addition to any other powers of proving documents given by statute or existing at common law¹, prima facie evidence of any proclamation, order² or regulation issued at any time by Her Majesty or by the Privy Council³ or by or under the authority of a government department or officer or office-holder in the Scottish Administration⁴, and also of certain documents of various public bodies⁵, may be given (1) by production of a copy of the Gazette⁶ purporting to contain the proclamation, order or regulation; or (2) by production of such a copy purporting to be printed by the government printer⁷, or under the superintendence or authority of Her Majesty's Stationery Office⁸; or (3) by a certified copy or extract⁹.

Statutory instruments, if they come within the categories of document referred to, are provable in any of the ways described¹⁰. With certain exceptions¹¹, all statutory instruments are required to be printed by or under the authority of the Queen's Printer¹². A copy of a list published by Her Majesty's Stationery Office, purporting to bear the imprint of the Queen's Printer, and showing the date of issue of statutory instruments, is receivable in evidence as a true copy, and an entry in such a list is conclusive evidence of the date on which any statutory instrument was first issued by that office¹³.

1 See the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 6. Emanations from the Crown pursuant to statute were judicially noticed at common law: see PARA 780 text and note 2. As to statutory instruments see the text and notes 10-13.

2 The word 'order' in the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 should be given a wide meaning covering at any rate any executive act of government performed by the bringing into existence of a public document for the purpose of giving effect to an Act of Parliament; it is not restricted to a document which amounts to subordinate or delegated legislation: R v Clarke [1969] 2 QB 91 at 97, [1969] 1 All ER 924 at 927, CA.

3 As to the meaning of 'Privy Council' see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 521.

4 'Office-holder in the Scottish Administration' has the same meaning as in the Scotland Act 1998: Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 5(1) (numbered as such by SR & O 1937/230; definition added by SI 1999/1042). The government departments and officers to whom the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 originally applied and the departments to which the operation of that section has been extended are named in PARA 894.

5 See PARA 894.

6 'Gazette' includes the London Gazette, the Edinburgh Gazette and the Belfast Gazette or any of those gazettes (Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 5(1) (as renumbered: see note 4); General Adaptation of Enactments (Northern Ireland) Order 1921, SR & O 1921/1804, art 7.

7 'Government printer' means and includes the printer to Her Majesty, the Queen's Printer for Scotland and any printer purporting to be the printer authorised to print the statutes, ordinances, acts of state or other public acts of any British colony or possession, or otherwise to be the government printer of the colony or possession; and 'British colony and possession' includes the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man and all other of Her Majesty's dominions: Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 5(1) (as renumbered (see note 4); and amended by SI 1999/1042). In the application of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 to Ireland, 'government printer' includes the officer appointed to print the Acts of the former Parliament of Northern Ireland or the Acts of the Northern Ireland Assembly: Documentary Evidence Act 1882 s 4; Government of Ireland (Adaptation of Enactments) (No 3) Order 1922, SR & O 1922/183, art 39; Northern Ireland Act 1998 s 5.

8 See the Documentary Evidence Act 1882 s 2; and PARA 889. Her Majesty's Stationery Office is now part of the Office of Public Sector Information, which itself is part of the National Archives.

9 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 (amended by SI 1999/1042). Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 (see PARA 808 et seq) affects the operation of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 (as so amended): Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(3)(a).

As to the form of copies and extracts under the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 see PARA 893. The courts will not act on such proclamations, orders or regulations unless they are proved in one of the ways set out or in some other legitimate way: Duffin v Markham (1918) 88 LJB 581, DC; Tyrrell v Cole (1918) 120 LT 156; Todd v Anderson 1912 SC (J) 105; and cf Snell v Unity Finance Co Ltd [1964] 2 QB 203, [1963] 3 All ER 50, CA. However, formal proof of a well known instrument should not be insisted upon (Palastanga v Solman [1962] Crim LR 334, DC), and it may often be right to grant an adjournment to afford a prosecutor an opportunity of providing such proof (see Royal v Prescott-Clarke [1966] 2 All ER 366, [1966] 1 WLR 788, DC).

10 As to the meaning of 'statutory instruments' see the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 s 1; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1503. Some statutory instruments are to be judicially noticed: see PARA 780 text and notes 3-4. Proof of some others is provided for in a particular way: see eg the Emergency Laws (Re-enactments and Repeals) Act 1964 s 8(4); and WAR AND ARMED CONFLICT. Statutory instruments may also be proved as public documents by means of certified copies under the Evidence Act 1851 s 14 (see PARA 884) and the Evidence Act 1845 s 1 (see PARA 887).

As to bringing statutory instruments to the notice of persons affected see the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 s 3(2); R v Sheer Metalcraft Ltd [1954] 1 QB 586, [1954] 1 All ER 542; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1511.

The English and Welsh texts of (1) any Assembly Measure or Act of the Assembly which is in both English and Welsh when it is enacted; or (2) any subordinate legislation which is in both English and Welsh when it is made, are to be treated for all purposes as being of equal standing: Government of Wales Act 2006 s 156(1). As to the admissibility of Welsh Assembly documents see PARA 889.

11 See the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 s 2(1); the Statutory Instruments Regulations 1947, SI 1948/1, regs 5-8; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1506.

12 Statutory Instruments Act 1946 s 2(1) (ss 2, 3 amended by the Statutory Instruments (Production and Sale) Act 1996 s 1(1)).

13 See the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 s 3(1) (as amended: see note 12); the Statutory Instruments Regulations 1947, SI 1948/1, reg 10(2) (annual lists); and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1507.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/893. Form and certification of copies or extracts.

893. Form and certification of copies or extracts.

Any copy of or extract from any proclamation, order or regulation issued by Her Majesty or the Privy Council¹ or by or under the authority of certain government departments, officers or office-holders² may be in print or in writing or partly in print and partly in writing. No proof is required of the handwriting or official position of any person certifying to the truth of any copy of or extract from any proclamation, order or regulation³. Certification of a copy or extract must be made by the designated officer⁴. Copies of royal proclamations and those issued by the Privy Council must be certified by the clerk to the council or one of the members of the council⁵.

¹ As to the meaning of 'Privy Council' see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 521.

² See the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule; and PARAS 892, 894.

³ Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 (amended by SI 1999/1042). Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 (see PARA 808 et seq) affects the operation of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2 (as so amended): Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 14(3)(a).

⁴ See the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2(3), Schedule; and PARA 894.

⁵ Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2(3) (as amended: see note 3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/894. Departments and offices affected.

894. Departments and offices affected.

The departments to whose proclamations, orders, regulations and documents the provisions as to proof¹ apply are as follows:

- 82 (1) the Treasury²;
- 83 (2) the Admiralty, the Army Council and the Air Council³;
- 84 (3) Secretaries of State⁴;
- 85 (4) the Board of Trade⁵;
- 86 (5) the Charity Commission for England and Wales⁶;
- 87 (6) the Chief Inspector of Education and Training in Wales⁷;
- 88 (7) the Chief Inspector of Education, Children's Services and Skills⁸;
- 89 (8) the Chief Land Registrar⁹;
- 90 (9) the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹⁰;
- 91 (10) the Crown Estate Commissioners¹¹;
- 92 (11) the Defence Council¹²;
- 93 (12) the First Minister and deputy First Minister of Northern Ireland¹³;
- 94 (13) the Forestry Commissioners¹⁴;
- 95 (14) the Gas and Electricity Markets Authority¹⁵;
- 96 (15) the Lord President of the Council¹⁶;
- 97 (16) The Lord Privy Seal¹⁷;
- 98 (17) the Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills¹⁸;
- 99 (18) the Office of Communications¹⁹;
- 100 (19) the Postal Services Commission²⁰;
- 101 (20) the Registrar of Public Lending Right²¹;
- 102 (21) the Social Security, Child Support and Pensions Joint Authority²²;
- 103 (22) any office holder in the Scottish Administration²³;
- 104 (23) the Statistics Board (formerly the Office for National Statistics)²⁴; and
- 105 (24) the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister, a Welsh Minister and the Counsel General²⁵.

In addition, the provisions have been specifically applied to certain Secretaries of State and ministers²⁶.

The provisions have also been extended to facilitate the proof of certain byelaws²⁷, maps²⁸ and authorisations²⁹.

1 le the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2: see PARAS 892-893.

2 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule col 1 (amended by the Statute Law Revision Act 1893; the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 1989; and SI 1999/1042). The certifying officers for these purposes are any commissioner, secretary or assistant secretary of the Treasury: Documentary Evidence Act 1868 Schedule col 2 (as so amended).

3 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 Schedule col 1 (as amended: see note 2); modified by the Defence (Transfer of Functions) (No 1) Order 1964, SI 1964/488, art 2(1), (3), Sch 1 Pt I, providing that the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule (as so amended) (1) continues to have effect in relation to instruments issued by or under the authority of the Minister of Defence or the Admiralty, but as if a Secretary or Under-Secretary of State were mentioned as the certifying officer in relation to the Admiralty and to the Minister of Defence; (2) continues to have effect in relation to instruments issued by or under the authority of the Army Council or the Air Council but as if a member of or Secretary to the Defence Council were mentioned as the certifying officer in relation to the Army Council and to the Air Council; (3) has effect as if the Defence Council, Admiralty Board, Army Board and Air Force Board were included and as if a member of or Secretary to the council or board were mentioned as the certifying officer in relation to the council or board; (4) has effect in relation to the Secretary of State for Defence and in relation to the Defence Council or any of those Boards as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by him or them.

4 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 Schedule col 1 (as amended: see note 2). Any Secretary or Under-Secretary of State is mentioned as the certifying officer: Schedule col 2 (as so amended). See also note 3; and the text and note 26.

5 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 Schedule col 1 (as amended: see note 2). Any member of the Board or any secretary or assistant secretary is mentioned as the certifying officer: see Schedule col 2 (as so amended). As to the construction of references to the Board of Trade see TRADE AND INDUSTRY vol 97 (2010) PARA 802.

6 See the Charities Act 1993 s 1, Sch 1A para 9, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Commission and providing that they have effect as if any member or member of staff of the Commission authorised to act on behalf of the Commission were mentioned as the certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in that Act included any document issued by or under the authority of the Commission; and CHARITIES vol 8 (2010) PARA 544.

7 See the Education Act 2005 s 19, Sch 2 para 6, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the chief inspector providing that they have effect as if as if the chief inspector and any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned in the list of certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in that Act included any document issued by him or any such person. See EDUCATION vol 15(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 966.

8 See the Education and Inspections Act 2006 s 115, Sch 12 para 5, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Chief Inspector and providing that they have effect as if he and any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in that Act included any document issued by him or any such person. See EDUCATION vol 15(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1346.

9 See the Land Registration Act 2002 s 99(4), Sch 7 para 6, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the registrar and providing that they have effect as if the registrar and any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in that Act included any form or direction issued by the registrar or by any such person. See LAND REGISTRATION vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 1066.

10 See the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 24(5), (6), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Commissioners in respect of a Revenue and Customs document and providing that they have effect as if a Commissioner and a person acting on his authority were mentioned as certifying officers; and see CUSTOMS AND EXCISE vol 12(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1203.

11 See the Crown Estate Act 1961 s 1(7), Sch 1 para 6, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the commissioners and providing that they have effect as if any person authorised under para 2 to sign documents on behalf of the commissioners were mentioned as certifying officers; and CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 282.

12 See note 3.

13 See the Northern Ireland (Modification of Enactments) (No 1) Order 1999, SI 1999/663, art 4, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the First Minister and deputy First Minister and providing that they have effect as if those ministers or a person authorised by them to act on their behalf were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by them; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. However, devolved government was suspended on 14 October 2002.

14 See the Forestry Act 1967 s 2(4), Sch 1 para 5(2), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the commissioners and providing that they have effect as if the chairman or any other commissioner, or the secretary, or any person authorised to act on behalf of the secretary, were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by the commissioners; and FORESTRY vol 52 (2009) PARA 34.

15 See the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007 s 60(8), (10), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the authority and providing that they have effect as if the authority and persons authorised to act on the authority's behalf were mentioned as certifying officers. See FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 708 et seq.

16 See the Transfer of Functions (Arts, Libraries and National Heritage) Order 1986, SI 1986/600, art 4, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Lord President and providing that they have effect as if he or any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned as a certifying officer and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by the Lord President; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

17 See the Transfer of Functions (Equality) Order 2007, SI 2007/2914, art 4(5), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Lord Privy Seal and providing that they have effect as if any person authorised to act on behalf of the Lord Privy Seal were mentioned as a certifying officer and as if references to any regulation issued by or under the authority of an officer included references to any document issued by or under the authority of the Lord Privy Seal. See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 527.

18 See the Education and Inspections Act 2006 s 112(4), Sch 11 para 11, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Office and providing that they have effect as if any member or other person authorised to act on behalf of the Office were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in that Act included any document issued by or under the authority of the Office. See EDUCATION.

19 See the Communications Act 2003 s 403(8), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to OFCOM and providing that they have effect as if OFCOM and persons authorised to act on its behalf were mentioned as certifying officers; and TELECOMMUNICATIONS vol 97 (2010) PARA 45.

20 See the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007 s 60(8), (10), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the commission and providing that they have effect as if the commission and persons authorised to act on the commission's behalf were mentioned as certifying officers. See POST OFFICE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 10.

21 See the Public Lending Right Act 1979 s 1(3), Schedule para 6, extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the registrar and providing that they have effect as if the registrar and any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any documents issued by the registrar or by any such person; and LIBRARIES AND OTHER SCIENTIFIC AND CULTURAL INSTITUTIONS vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 444.

22 See the Northern Ireland Act 1998 s 88(6), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the joint authority and providing that they have effect as if any member or the secretary, or any person authorised to act on behalf of the secretary, of the joint authority were mentioned as certifying officers and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by the joint authority; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS; SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS. See also note 13.

23 Documentary Evidence Act 1868 Schedule col 1 (as amended: see note 2). A member of the staff of the Scottish Administration is a certifying officer: see Schedule col 2 (as so amended).

24 See the Transfer of Functions (Economic Statistics) Order 1989, SI 1989/992, art 6(1) (extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Central Statistical Office and providing that they apply as if the Chancellor or any person authorised to act on his behalf were mentioned in relation to that office as the certifying officer and as if the regulations referred to in the 1868 Act included any document issued by that office); the Transfer of Functions (Registration and Statistics) Order 1996, SI 1996/273, art 5(3); the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 605.

25 See the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 90(7), extending the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 s 2, Schedule to the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister, a Welsh Minister appointed under s 48 and the Counsel General and providing that they have effect as if a member of the staff of the Welsh Assembly Government were mentioned as a certifying officer and as if the reference to regulations issued by or under the authority of an officer included a reference to any document issued by or under the authority of the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister, a Welsh Minister or the Counsel General. See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

26 See note 3; and see eg the Secretaries of State for Education and Skills and Work and Pensions Order 2002, SI 2002/1397, arts 3(5), 4(5); the Secretaries of State for Children, Schools and Families, for Innovation, Universities and Skills and for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform Order 2007, SI 2007/3224, arts 3(5)(b), 4(5)(b), 5(5)(b); the Secretary of State for Justice Order 2007, SI 2007/2128, art 4(5).

27 See the Military Lands Act 1892 s 17(3); and ARMED FORCES vol 2(2) (Reissue) PARA 124. As to proof of byelaws generally see PARA 895.

28 Eg main river maps: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 193(3)(b); and WATER AND WATERWAYS vol 101 (2009) PARA 574.

29 Eg authorisations given in writing by the Secretary of State for the purposes of the Terrorism Act 2000: see the Terrorism Act 2000 s 120(4); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 453.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/A. STATUTES, PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, ORDERS AND BYELAWS/895. Byelaws.

895. Byelaws.

Byelaws may generally be proved in some particular manner by the statute under which they are made¹. Where no statutory provision exists, proof must usually be given of the fulfilment of the conditions precedent to the validity of the byelaws², or such fulfilment may be presumed in appropriate circumstances, including perhaps sufficiently long use³.

1 As to proof of local authority byelaws see eg the Local Government Act 1972 s 238; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 568. As to the byelaws of other corporations see COMPANIES; CORPORATIONS. As to byelaws relating to parks, open spaces and historic buildings see NATIONAL CULTURAL HERITAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 1068 et seq; OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 501 et seq. As to byelaws by harbour authorities see SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW. As to byelaws made by the Channel Tunnel concessionaires see the Channel Tunnel Act 1987 s 20. As to byelaws under the Military Lands Act 1892 see PARA 894 note 27.

2 See Motteram v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1859) 7 CBNS 58, where byelaws of a railway company, duly made and confirmed, were treated as public documents.

3 See R v Powell (1854) 3 E & B 377; and CORPORATIONS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1198.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/B. OFFICIAL CERTIFICATES/896. Admissibility of certificates.

B. OFFICIAL CERTIFICATES

896. Admissibility of certificates.

At common law the general rule was that certificates were not admissible in evidence to prove the facts stated in them¹. Some certificates, however, were admissible at common law, and are now admissible in civil cases by statute², as being public documents³. Certain other certificates were admissible at common law as exceptions to the rule against hearsay⁴; they are now only admissible in civil cases to prove the facts stated in them if they comply with the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁵.

Where the court acts upon a certificate by the Secretary of State as to the existence or non-existence of a state of war, or as to the sovereign status of a foreign power or individual, the proper view is that it is not receiving evidence, but is taking judicial notice⁶.

1 Omichund v Barker (1745) Willes 538 at 549, 550.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b), (c); and PARAS 821-822.

3 For the principles which determine whether a document is admissible as a public document made for the public benefit see PARAS 902-905. Visitations of heralds for the purposes of the Court of Chivalry fall into this category: Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; but cf the observations made in the Court of Appeal in that case: see (1879) 12 ChD 411, CA, and PARA 905 notes 13-14. Justices' certificates as to encroachments on, or repairs to, highways are admissible as evidence of those facts: see R v Randall (1662) 1 Keb 256; R v Mawbey (1796) 6 Term Rep 619.

4 See London Corpn v Cox (1867) LR 2 HL 239 (Recorder of London's certificate as to customs of London); Ilderton v Ilderton (1793) 2 Hy BI 145 (bishop's certificate as to marriage or excommunication); Ferguson v Benyon (1867) IR 1 Eq 475 (certificate of Secretary of State for India to prove local official's competence to administer oaths); Whaley v Carlisle (1866) 17 ICLR 792 (passport signed by Secretary of State used to prove that the person described was abroad on a certain date); Re Klingemann (1862) 32 LJPM & A 16; Re Prince Peter Oldenburg (1884) 9 PD 234 (ambassador's certificate to prove foreign law); cf Rothschild v Austrian Property Administrator [1923] 2 Ch 542 (certificate issued by Austrian Federal Chancery as to nationality law rejected).

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 2-4; and PARAS 811-815.

6 See PARA 786. Cf Krajina v Tass Agency [1949] 2 All ER 274, CA, where an ambassador's certificate was admitted to prove the status of the Tass agency as an organ of the former Soviet state. If the court had not been taking judicial notice but had been receiving evidence, then such a certificate would now be admissible only in the same way as those mentioned in the text and notes 4-5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/B. OFFICIAL CERTIFICATES/897. Certificates admissible by statute.

897. Certificates admissible by statute.

Various statutes have provided for certain facts to be proved by certificate¹ or notice. The evidential effect of a certificate or notice given in accordance with a particular statute depends on the wording of the statute. Thus a certificate or notice may be declared to be conclusive evidence², sufficient evidence³, or merely evidence⁴ of the facts certified. Where a certificate is said to be conclusive, no evidence may be given in contradiction of it⁵; a certificate said to be sufficient evidence has in certain contexts been held to be conclusive⁶, but it is more usual for it to be conclusive only if there is no evidence to the contrary⁷.

1 Certified copies of public documents are received as secondary evidence of the originals. As to such certified copies see PARA 887.

2 See eg the Diplomatic Privileges Act 1964 s 4 (Secretary of State's certificate relating to diplomatic privilege or immunity); and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 282; the Animal Health Act 1981 s 17(3) (notice served in pursuance of directions of the minister or of a local authority by virtue of an order made under s 17); and ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARA 1072; the British Nationality Act 1981 s 45(4) (certificate given by or on behalf of the Secretary of State that a person was at any time in Crown service under the government of the United Kingdom or that a person's recruitment for such service took place in the United Kingdom); and BRITISH NATIONALITY, IMMIGRATION AND ASYLUM vol 4(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 39; the Companies Act 1985 s 13(7) (certificate of incorporation); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 119.

3 See eg the Air Force Act 1955 s 2(4) (recruiting officer's certificate that he is satisfied person offering to enlist has or has not attained appropriate minimum age); and ARMED FORCES; the Civil Aviation Act 1982 s 95(3) (certificate that person charged with offence was present at making of deposition); and AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 618; the Food Safety Act 1990 s 30(8) (certificate of food analyst or examiner); and FOOD; the Finance Act 1993 s 35(1) (certificate of Commissioners for Revenue and Customs given for certain purposes); and INCOME TAXATION; the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 s 17 (justices' certificate of subscription of capital); the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 180A (certificate of electoral registration); and ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS vol 15(4) (2007 Reissue) PARA 884.

4 See eg the Architects Act 1997 s 3(6) (certificate of registration); the Army Act 1955 s 187(4A) (certificate stating that a person is a member of, and illegally absent from, the regular forces, and purporting to be signed by an officer who, if that person were charged with an offence, would be either his commanding officer or authorised to act as his appropriate superior authority); and ARMED FORCES; the Channel Tunnel Act 1987 s 20(8) (certificate relating to byelaws made by the concessionaires); the Companies Act 2006 s 768(1) (certificate under the common seal of the company specifying any shares held by a member is prima facie evidence of his title to them); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 381; the Freedom of Information Act 2000 s 25(2) (document purporting to be certified by or on behalf of a Minister of the Crown as a true copy of a certificate issued by that minister under s 23(2) or s 24(3)); the Highways Act 1980 s 14C (certificate by or on behalf of Transport for London that any highway or proposed highway is, or is not, for the time being a GLA road); and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES. As to certificates of convictions for certain purposes of the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 see s 113; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

5 Hammond v Prentice Bros Ltd [1920] 1 Ch 201; Kerr v John Mottram Ltd [1940] Ch 657, [1940] 2 All ER 629; and see A-G v Bournemouth Corpn [1902] 2 Ch 714, CA. See PARA 767.

6 Ystalyfera Iron Co v Neath and Brecon Rly Co (1873) LR 17 Eq 142; Lewis v Leonard (1880) 5 ExD 165, CA.

7 See Barracrough v Greenhough (1867) LR 2 QB 612, Ex Ch; R v Fordham (1873) LR 8 QB 501; Board of Trade v Sailing Ship Glenpark [1904] 1 KB 682, CA; Garbutt v Durham Joint Committee [1906] AC 291, HL; Re Duce and Boots Cash Chemists (Southern) Ltd's Contract [1937] Ch 642, [1937] 3 All ER 788; Preston v Fennell [1951] 1 KB 16, [1950] 1 All ER 1099, DC (decided under the Food and Drugs Act 1938 (repealed)).

Where a certificate is said merely to be evidence, it is thought that a court would not be obliged as a matter of law to accept the facts certified, even if there were no evidence to the contrary; cf Société Generale de Paris v

Walker (1855) 11 App Cas 20 at 42, HL, per Lord Fitzgerald ('prima facie evidence' in the Companies Act 1862 s 31 (repealed), means evidence that is to be taken as correct until the contrary is made to appear); and see the authorities cited in PARA 767, PARA 908 note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/C. COMMONWEALTH AND FOREIGN ACTS OF STATE, STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS/898. Commonwealth enactments.

C. COMMONWEALTH AND FOREIGN ACTS OF STATE, STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS

898. Commonwealth enactments.

Copies of colonial laws or reserved bills, certified by the clerk or other proper officer of the legislative body of the colony¹ as true copies, are prima facie evidence that the copies are true copies and that the laws have been duly and properly passed and assented to, or that the bills have been duly and properly passed and presented to the Governor for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure; and a proclamation purporting to be published by the authority of the Governor in any newspaper in the relevant colony and signifying disallowance of the law or assent to a reserved bill is prima facie evidence of the disallowance or assent².

Copies of Acts, ordinances and statutes passed by the legislature of any British possession³, or any prescribed British protectorate⁴, and of such orders, regulations and of orders, regulations and other instruments issued or made under the authority of any such Act, ordinance or statute, are to be received in evidence by all courts of justice in the United Kingdom, if purporting to be printed by the government printer⁵, without any proof being given that the copies were so printed⁶.

Without prejudice to the above provisions⁷, any Act of Tynwald or other instrument forming part of the law of the Isle of Man may, in any proceedings in the United Kingdom relating to a common duty or to importation or exportation into or from the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man, be proved by producing a copy of the Act or instrument authenticated by a certificate purporting to be signed by or on behalf of the Attorney General for the Island⁸. Any provision contained in or having effect under an Act of Tynwald which (1) prescribes the mode or burden of proof with respect to any matter in proceedings relating to a common duty chargeable under the law of the Isle of Man; and (2) corresponds to a provision of United Kingdom law for similar purposes, applies to any proceedings in the United Kingdom relating to that duty⁹.

1 In the Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 'colony' includes all Her Majesty's possessions abroad in which a legislature exists, except the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man: Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 s 1 (amended by the Burma Independence Act 1947 s 5, Sch 2; and the Statute Law (Revision) Act 1976). The Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 does not apply to any law made after 11 December 1931 by the parliament of a dominion (Statute of Westminster 1931 s 2(1)), nor does it apply to laws of any former colony made after independence (see COMMONWEALTH). As to the proving of certain Acts of Tynwald or other instruments forming part of the law of the Isle of Man see the Isle of Man Act 1979 s 12; and the text and notes 7-9. 'Legislature' in the Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 means the authority, other than the Imperial Parliament of Her Majesty in Council, competent to make laws for any colony: s 1. As to the disapplication of the 1865 Act for certain purposes see also the Australia Act 1985 s 3.

2 Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 s 6. As to the means of proving legislative acts of foreign powers see Re Amand[1941] 2 KB 239, DC. As to the proof of foreign law generally see PARAS 1085-1093.

3 'British possession' means any part of Her Majesty's dominions exclusive of the United Kingdom, and, where parts of those dominions are under both a central and a local legislature, it includes both all parts under the central legislature and each part under a local legislature: Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1(3). As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

4 The Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 may be extended by Order in Council to Cyprus and any British protectorate: s 1(5). It was extended to a number of protectorates and to Cyprus by Order in Council dated 18 October 1909, SR & O 1909/1230 (amended by SR & O 1922/418). The protectorates to which the 1907 Act was applied by those orders are now no longer protectorates and Cyprus is now an independent republic but the Order in Council may still be relevant to the application of the 1907 Act to the sovereign base areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia which were retained when Cyprus became independent. See further COMMONWEALTH.

5 'Government printer' means, as respects any British possession, the printer purporting to be the printer authorised to print the Acts, ordinances or statutes of the legislature of that possession or otherwise to be the government printer of that possession: Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1(3). Where the imprint of the government printer was omitted, a colonial statute was received in evidence on proof that a copy of the statute had been supplied by the Colonial Office to the Bar library at the Royal Courts of Justice: Taylor v Taylor and Hooper (1923) 129 LT 30.

6 Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1(1). Nothing in the 1907 Act affects the Colonial Laws Validity Act 1865 (see the text and notes 1-2) (Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1(4)); and its operation is not affected by the enactment of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 (see s 14(3)(c)). As to the Civil Evidence Act 1995 see PARA 808 et seq. For examples of the use of the Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1(1) see Gibson v Gibson (1920) 37 TLR 124; Waterfield v Waterfield and Pretorius (1929) 73 Sol Jo 300; and see Jasiewicz v Jasiewicz [1962] 3 All ER 1017, [1962] 1 WLR 1426 (court entitled to construe statute once it has been proved). As to the admissibility in evidence of documents relating to the European Union see PARAS 1087, 780, 891.

7 le without prejudice to the Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907: see the text and notes 3-6.

8 Isle of Man Act 1979 s 12(1).

9 Isle of Man Act 1979 s 12(2). For the purposes of any proceedings in the United Kingdom relating to a common duty, an order may be made under the Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879 (see PARA 939) in respect of books and persons in the Isle of Man: Isle of Man Act 1979 s 12(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/C. COMMONWEALTH AND FOREIGN ACTS OF STATE, STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS/899. Colonial and foreign acts of state and judicial documents.

899. Colonial and foreign acts of state and judicial documents.

Proclamations, treaties and other acts of state¹ of any foreign state or British colony², all judgments, decrees, orders, and other judicial proceedings of any colonial³ or foreign⁴ court, and all affidavits, pleadings, and other legal documents filed or deposited in any such court, may be proved in any court of justice, or before any person having by law or by consent of the parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, either by examined⁵ or by authenticated copies⁶.

The authenticated copy of a proclamation, treaty or other act of state must purport to be sealed with the seal of the state or colony to which the original document belongs; and the authenticated copy of a judgment, decree, order, or other judicial proceeding, or an affidavit, pleading or other legal document filed or deposited in the court of any foreign state or British colony must purport either to be sealed with the seal of the court to which the original document belongs, or, if the court has no seal, to be signed by the judge or one of the judges of the court, who must attach to his signature a statement on the copy that the court has no seal⁷.

For the purposes of the Extradition Act 2003, certain legal documents are provable by authenticated copies⁸.

1 'Act of state' has been construed so as to include a Belgian patent: see Re Bett's Patent (1862) 1 Moo PCCNS 49. As to acts of state see further INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 22 et seq.

2 'British colony' in the Evidence Act 1851 includes the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark and Man, and all other possessions of the British Crown wheresoever and whatsoever: s 19 (amended by the Statute Law Revision Act 1875; and the Statute Law Revision Act 1892). The Evidence Act 1851 does not extend to Scotland: s 18. Sections 7, 11 and the British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 (see PARAS 1092-1093) may be extended by Order in Council to any foreign country in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction for the time being: see the Foreign Jurisdiction Act 1890 s 5, Sch 1. These Acts were in the past extended to a number of territories which have now become independent countries; whether they remain in force in those countries depends on the law of those countries. As to facilities for the ascertainment in England of the law of countries which are members of the Commonwealth see COMMONWEALTH.

3 As to proof of Commonwealth enactments see PARA 898; and as to proof of foreign law generally see PARAS 1085-1093.

4 As to recognition and enforcement in this jurisdiction of foreign judgments see generally CONFLICT OF LAWS.

5 As to examined copies see Motteram v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1859) 7 CBNS 58; and see PARA 886.

6 Evidence Act 1851 s 7. The methods of proving foreign acts of state provided by s 7 are not exhaustive, and where it is not possible to obtain from the proper source examined copies or the form of proof required by the Act, the best secondary evidence of an act of state may be given: see Finska Angfartygs AB v Baring Bros & Co Ltd (1937) 157 LT 585. Certified copies of resolutions and certificates extracted from nationality proceedings in Czechoslovakia were not admitted in evidence in Rothschild v Austrian Property Administrator [1923] 2 Ch 542. As to proof of foreign and Commonwealth registers see PARAS 917-923.

7 Evidence Act 1851 s 7. If an authenticated copy purports to be sealed or signed as directed, it is to be admitted in evidence in every case in which the original could have been received, without proof of the seal where a seal is necessary, or of the signature, or of the truth of the statement attached to it, where such a signature and statement are necessary, or of the judicial character of the person appearing to have made such signature and statement: s 7. See also Leishman v Cochrane (1863) 1 Moo PCCNS 315 (copies of orders of the Supreme Court of Calcutta); Loibl v Strampfer (1867) 16 LT 720 (seal of Austrian court used for purpose of cancelling stamps and authentication); Cavan v Stewart (1816) 1 Stark 525 (worn out court seal to be used although no longer capable of making an impression). In R v Beadon (1933) 24 Cr App Rep 59, CCA, a photostatic copy of an American certificate of nationalisation was not admitted in evidence, as it was authenticated by the seal of the United States of America and not by the seal of the court or the signature of the judge.

8 See the Extradition Act 2003 s 202; PARA 790; and EXTRADITION.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/C. COMMONWEALTH AND FOREIGN ACTS OF STATE, STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS/900. Northern Ireland judicial documents.

900. Northern Ireland judicial documents.

Documents which by law are admissible in any court of justice in Northern Ireland without proof of the seal or stamp or signature authenticating them or of the judicial or official character of the persons appearing to have signed them, are admissible similarly in evidence to the same extent and for the same purposes in any court of justice in England or Wales, or before any person having there by law or by consent of the parties authority to receive evidence¹.

¹ Evidence Act 1851 s 10 (modified by the Irish Free State (Consequential Adaptation of Enactments) Order 1923, SR & O 1923/405, art 2); and see Re Mahon's Trust (1852) 9 Hare 459 (affidavit sworn before a master in Ireland admissible).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/C. COMMONWEALTH AND FOREIGN ACTS OF STATE, STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS/901. Depositions taken abroad.

901. Depositions taken abroad.

Statutory provisions have been made as to the admissibility and proof of depositions and other documents¹ taken abroad².

1 Many foreign documents, formerly inadmissible, are now admissible, subject to certain requirements, by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 2-4: see PARAS 811-815.

2 As to evidence taken before an examiner or furnished pursuant to letters of request see PARAS 992 et seq, 1055 et seq. As to the admissibility of duly authenticated documents in proceedings under the Extradition Act 2003 see s 202; PARA 790; and EXTRADITION. See also the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 286 (admissibility of deposition when witness cannot be produced); and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 1108.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/D. PUBLIC SURVEYS, INQUIRIES, ASSESSMENTS AND REPORTS/902. Admissibility of contents.

D. PUBLIC SURVEYS, INQUIRIES, ASSESSMENTS AND REPORTS

902. Admissibility of contents.

Surveys, assessments, inquiries and reports are evidence of the truth of the matters stated if made under public authority and concerning matters of public interest¹. To render such a document admissible there must have been a judicial² or quasi-judicial duty to inquire, undertaken by a public officer, the matter must have been required to be ascertained for a public purpose, and the document must have been made for the purpose of the public³ making use of it and being able to refer to it⁴.

Although the document may be properly of a public nature, it is not admissible as such to prove any facts stated in it which do not fall within the scope of the writer's authority⁵. Moreover, a document made under public authority and concerning matters of public interest is not necessarily admissible to prove the facts stated in it for every purpose; whether or not this is so must depend upon the nature of the document and the objects for which it was drawn up⁶.

1 As to public documents, orders etc as evidence of boundaries see BOUNDARIES. As to definitive maps or statements as conclusive evidence of the existence of footpaths, bridleways or roads used as public paths see the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 56; PARA 955; and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 592.

2 At common law judges' notes were not admissible as evidence of what occurred at the trial: Griffin's Divorce Bill[1896] AC 133, HL; cf Houston v Marquis of Sligo(1885) 29 ChD 448, CA, where the court admitted an official report made by the judge for the use of a higher court. Such documents may now be admissible to prove what took place at the trial by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq. Law reports are not admissible as evidence of the facts of cases reported in them: Shepherd v Bray[1906] 2 Ch 235; on appeal [1907] 2 Ch 571, CA.

3 'The public' in this context does not mean the whole world, but all persons concerned, for instance all persons interested in a manor in the case of an entry in the books of a manor: Sturla v Freccia(1880) 5 App Cas 623 at 643, HL, per Lord Blackburn.

4 The limits within which such documents are admissible are laid down by Lord Blackburn in Sturla v Freccia(1880) 5 App Cas 623 at 643, HL. See also Ioannou v Demetriou[1952] AC 84, [1952] 1 All ER 179, PC; Mercer v Denne[1905] 2 Ch 538, CA; North Staffordshire Rly Co v Hanley Corpn(1909) 73 JP 477, CA; Daniel v Wilkin(1852) 7 Exch 429. The document must be brought into existence for the purpose of its being retained indefinitely as a document of record available for inspection by the public: White v Taylor[1969] 1 Ch 150, [1967] 3 All ER 349. See also the cases cited in PARA 908 notes 3-4.

5 Nothard v Pepper (1864) 17 CBNS 39. See also A-G v Antrobus[1905] 2 Ch 188; Glossop v Pole (1814) 3 M & S 175; cf Leighton v Leighton (1720) 1 Stra 308; Latkow v Eamer (1795) 2 Hy Bl 437.

6 Wilberforce v Hearfield(1877) 5 ChD 709 (tithe commutation map rejected in case of disputed ownership). See also Copstake v West Sussex County Council[1911] 2 Ch 331; Stoney v Eastbourne RDC [1927] 1 Ch 367, CA; distinguish Giffard v Williams(1869) LR 8 Eq 494. For other instances of inadmissibility see The Little Lizzie(1870) LR 3 A & E 56 (Board of Trade inquiry as to negligence of master under Merchant Shipping Act 1854 (repealed) not admissible against the owners); The Solway (1885) 10 PD 137 (letter of master admissible against owners as evidence of facts stated but not of opinion); cf *Admiralty v Aberdeen Steam Trawling and Fishing Co*1909 SC 335; Coleman v Kirkaldy [1882] WN 103 (ordnance map inadmissible in case of disputed title; as to ordnance survey maps see PARA 943); The Princess Juliana, as reported in [1936] P 139 (report by Trinity House pilot not admissible against owners of vessel piloted). As to maps attached to enclosure awards see Collis v Amphlett[1918] 1 Ch 232, CA, revsd on other grounds [1920] AC 271, HL (enclosure award map not conclusive as to boundaries of common, it being no part of the valuer's duty to adjust any boundaries); cf Frost

v Richardson (1910) 103 LT 22; affd 103 LT 416, CA (tithe maps not evidence, but map annexed to enclosure award may be evidence against owner of land comprised in award).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/D. PUBLIC SURVEYS, INQUIRIES, ASSESSMENTS AND REPORTS/903. Documents made on behalf of the Crown.

903. Documents made on behalf of the Crown.

Records relating to Crown property or directly affecting the revenues of the Crown¹, and surveys of Crown property made for public purposes², are public documents for the purpose of the rule as to admissibility³. The same applies to records in the Exchequer of acts done by officers of the Crown in assertion or derogation of the royal title⁴, returns to a commission directing an inquiry as to Crown land⁵, ancient extents of Crown land⁶, and accounts of receivers general and other Crown officers⁷, but not to documents made on behalf of the Crown for merely temporary or private purposes⁸, such as a survey of Walmer Castle taken by direction of the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, or an estimate made by the royal engineer for the repair of Walmer Castle, or depositions taken in an information by the Attorney General against persons claiming to be entitled to the manor of Walmer⁹. Surveys of land which only devolved on the Crown after, and not before, the survey are not admissible under this head¹⁰.

1 Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA; cf Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; Duke of Beaufort v Smith (1849) 4 Exch 450; Daniel v Wilkin (1852) 7 Exch 429; Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737 cited in note 2; Duke of Newcastle v Broxtowe Hundred (1832) 4 B & Ad 273. A vehicle registration book does not directly affect the revenues of the Crown within the principle enunciated by these cases: R v Sealby [1965] 1 All ER 701. As to vehicle registration documents see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 529-541.

2 See Smith v Earl Brownlow (1870) LR 9 Eq 241; cf Duke of Beaufort v Smith (1849) 4 Exch 450; Daniel v Wilkin (1852) 7 Exch 429; Manchester Corp'n v Lyons (1882) 22 ChD 287, CA. Generally, all documents coming under this head which relate to the possessions or revenues of the Duchies of Cornwall and Lancaster are admissible as public documents owing to the special interest which the Crown has in the duchies: Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737; cf Brisco v Lomax (1838) 8 Ad & El 198; Blandy-Jenkins v Earl of Dunraven (1898) 62 JP 661.

3 Such documents are distinguishable from admissions by the Crown: see eg Irish Society v Bishop of Derry (1846) 12 Cl & Fin 641, HL. For the rule as to the admissibility of documents made under public authority and concerning matters of public interest see PARA 902.

4 Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA.

5 Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737.

6 Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737; Doe d William IV v Roberts (1844) 13 M & W 520.

7 Doe d William IV v Roberts (1844) 13 M & W 520; A-G v Lord Hotham (1823) Turn & R 209.

8 Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA; and see Duke of Beaufort v Smith (1849) 4 Exch 450; Phillips v Hudson (1867) 2 Ch App 243.

9 Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA.

10 Daniel v Wilkin (1852) 7 Exch 429.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/D. PUBLIC SURVEYS, INQUIRIES, ASSESSMENTS AND REPORTS/904. Documents prepared by public officials.

904. Documents prepared by public officials.

There are numerous instances of documents which have been regarded as admissible as public documents made under public authority and concerning matters of public interest¹. Some examples are:

- 106 (1) documents drawn up by public commissioners², surveyors³, valuers⁴ or customs house searchers⁵ appointed under statute or otherwise⁶;
- 107 (2) the Domesday Book⁷;
- 108 (3) returns made by a bishop in obedience to Exchequer writs⁸;
- 109 (4) entries made by a bishop on his visitation, if he had a right to make them⁹;
- 110 (5) the report of a committee of the General Medical Council acting under statutory authority, which was held to be admissible, though not conclusive evidence of professional misconduct on the part of a dentist¹⁰;
- 111 (6) public surveys taken under an order of the Crown¹¹ or the Commonwealth Parliament¹²;
- 112 (7) the taxation of Pope Nicholas made in 1291¹³;
- 113 (8) an inquisition on the writ of ad quod damnum made in 1363¹⁴;
- 114 (9) extracts from hundred rolls taken by special commissioners in 1275¹⁵; and
- 115 (10) presentments in a manor court setting forth the bounds of the manor¹⁶.

In the case of a return to a royal commission, the document is not admissible as a public document unless signed and sealed by the commissioners¹⁷.

Additional examples are provided by statements and reports made by persons in a public position, or having competent means of knowledge¹⁸ as to matters in which the public are interested, such as memoranda entered by a former vicar in an ancient parochial register¹⁹; papers handed over to an incumbent by the representatives of his predecessor as papers belonging to the parish²⁰; answers by a clergyman to questions addressed by the bishop on the occasion of an augmentation by the governors of Queen Anne's Bounty²¹; the schedules of the temporal possessions of parochial churches and chapels known as ecclesiastical terriers²²; and plans deposited by a railway undertaking with a local authority in connection with a proposal to make a light railway²³.

The confidential report of a committee appointed by a public department of a foreign state to ascertain the fitness of a candidate for a public office in that state has been rejected as evidence of the candidate's age and family history, the authority not being a legal one for a public purpose, and the facts stated not being of a public nature²⁴; nor may a coroner's inquisition be received as evidence of the cause of death, because of the preliminary nature and limited scope of a coroner's inquest²⁵.

1 For such documents to be admissible, the question must be one relating to public and general rights as opposed to private rights, and must be one within the duty of the person who made the document: Knight v David [1971] 3 All ER 1066, [1971] 1 WLR 1671. See also the cases cited in PARA 902 notes 5-6.

2 Eg (1) the commissioners acting under the Tithe Commutation Acts (see now the Tithe Act 1936) (Giffard v Williams (1869) 38 LJ Ch 597; A-G v Antrobus [1905] 2 Ch 188; A-G and Croydon RDC v Moorsom-Roberts (1907) 72 JP 123; Stoney v Eastbourne Rural Council [1927] 1 Ch 367, CA; Kent County Council v Loughlin (1975) 119 Sol Jo 528, CA; but the admissibility of such documents will depend upon the purpose for which they are to be adduced: see PARA 902 note 6); (2) the Commissioners of Sewers (R v Leigh (1839) 10 Ad & El 398; New Romney Corp v New Romney Sewers Comrs [1892] 1 QB 840, CA). In Doe d Strode v Seaton (1834) 2 Ad & El 171, assessments by Commissioners of Land Tax showing that at a certain date property was assessed in a certain name were admitted to show that the property at that date belonged to a person of that name; cf Duke of Newcastle v Broxtowe Hundred (1832) 4 B & Ad 273; Doe d Smith v Cartwright (1824) 1 C & P 218; Johnson v Thompson (1850) 15 LTOS 437. Such assessments, if irregularly kept, are not evidence as to the seisin of land: Doe d Stansbury v Arkwright (1833) 2 Ad & El 182n.

3 Evans v Merthyr Tydfil UDC [1899] 1 Ch 241, CA, distinguishing Phillips v Hudson (1867) 2 Ch App 243; cf R v Norfolk County Council (1910) 26 TLR 269, cited in PARA 905 note 4. See also BOUNDARIES.

4 Valuation lists were conclusive evidence of the value of the hereditaments included in the lists for the purpose of rates under the General Rate Act 1967 s 67(6) (repealed). As to valuation lists for the purposes of non-domestic rates and council tax see RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARAS 118 et seq, 268 et seq.

5 Johnson v Ward (1806) 6 Esp 47.

6 Other examples are an inquisition under an order of the House of Commons as to fees payable in certain offices (Green v Hewett (1793) Peake 182), and an inquisition under the Exchequer seal as to seisin of land (Tooker v Duke of Beaufort (1757) 1 Burr 146).

7 AB v -- (1617) Hob 188; Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737; Duke of Newcastle v Broxtowe Hundred (1832) 4 B & Ad 273. Extracts from Domesday Book were given in evidence in Alcock v Cooke (1829) 5 Bing 340, and in Duke of Beaufort v John Aird & Co (1904) 20 TLR 602. See also BOUNDARIES.

8 Irish Society v Bishop of Derry (1846) 12 Cl & Fin 641, HL.

9 Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL.

10 Hill v Clifford [1907] 2 Ch 236, CA; affd on other grounds sub nom Clifford v Timms [1908] AC 12, HL.

11 Eg the survey of 26 Hen 8 (1534); Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL; Lord Graves v Fisher (1834) 3 Cl & Fin 1, HL; Armstrong v Hewitt (1817) 4 Price 216; cf Drake v Smyth (1818) 5 Price 369. See also BOUNDARIES.

12 Freeman v Read (1863) 4 B & S 174, where the de facto authority of the Commonwealth Parliament appears to have been the ground on which the document was received; distinguish Duke of Beaufort v Smith (1849) 4 Exch 450, where the document was rejected not because it was made under order of the Commonwealth Parliament, but because it was a private document being a survey of a manor and seignory granted by Parliament to Oliver Cromwell.

13 Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL, where this survey was held admissible as to the rate and value at which the persons employed on it thought fit to estimate the living; cf Drake v Smyth (1818) 5 Price 369.

14 Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL, where the inquisition was only held admissible to prove contemporary reputation as to the value of the land in question.

15 Duke of Newcastle v Broxtowe Hundred (1832) 4 B & Ad 273.

16 Evans v Rees (1839) 10 Ad & El 151.

17 Slane Peerage (1835) 5 Cl & Fin 23, HL.

18 Vyner v Wirral RDC (1909) 73 JP 242, DC. Important considerations as to admissibility are the public nature of the fact in issue, the purpose for which the document was made and the duty of its maker: see PARA 902 notes 4-6, note 1, and PARA 908 notes 3-4.

19 Drake v Smyth (1818) 5 Price 369.

20 Earl v Lewis (1801) 4 Esp 1, where the boundary of the parish was the question in issue.

21 Carr v Mostyn (1850) 5 Exch 69. The functions of Queen Anne's Bounty have been transferred to the Church Commissioners: see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW.

22 Drake v Smyth (1818) 5 Price 369; R v Hall (1866) LR 1 QB 632. The terrier must be signed by parishioners or parish officers: Earl v Lewis (1801) 4 Esp 1. As to terriers see BOUNDARIES.

23 A-G v Antrobus [1905] 2 Ch 188, where the question was whether a certain track was a public way; plans were admitted to show that the undertaking proposed to carry its line upon an embankment across it without making provision for continuing the alleged way.

24 Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL.

25 Grime v Fletcher [1915] 1 KB 734, CA; Bird v Keep [1918] 2 KB 692, CA; Calmenson v Merchants' Warehousing Co (1921) 90 LJPC 134, HL; Barnett v Cohen [1921] 2 KB 461; Re Sigsworth, Bedford v Bedford [1935] Ch 89; Re Pollock, Pollock v Pollock [1941] Ch 219, [1941] 1 All ER 360. The rule was at one time different: see R v Eriswell Inhabitants (1790) 3 Term Rep 707. See further CORONERS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 949 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/D. PUBLIC SURVEYS, INQUIRIES, ASSESSMENTS AND REPORTS/905. Private documents excluded.

905. Private documents excluded.

Where the document is of a private nature it is not admissible under the common law rule as being made under public authority and concerning matters of public interest¹. For the purpose of this rule private documents include books and pedigrees drawn up by the College of Heralds otherwise than in the discharge of an official duty², a certificate by a customs house officer certifying the measurement and tonnage of a vessel or a report by the master of a foreign vessel made to customs house officers as to the burthen of his ship and the number of the crew³, maps and plans prepared in the seventeenth century by direction of the Board of Ordnance⁴, an old chart in possession of the Admiralty but not shown to be an Admiralty chart⁵, ancient private maps⁶, a confidential report by a magistrate or other public person made under the direction of the Crown or the executive⁷, a private survey of land⁸, and an old collection of monumental inscriptions in country churches⁹. The report of a public analyst is not admissible as a public document to prove the facts stated in the report¹⁰, nor are the returns of the Meteorological Office which are based upon information supplied by volunteer observers in different districts¹¹. In peerage cases before the Committee of Privileges¹², however, numerous documents are admissible as public documents which are in the nature of certificates¹³, and would not be admitted as public documents in other cases¹⁴.

1 It may be admissible under some other head; eg under the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

2 Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1.

3 Huntley v Donovan (1850) 15 QB 96.

4 Mercer v Denne [1904] 2 Ch 534; affd [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA. In R v Norfolk County Council (1910) 26 TLR 269, Jelf J admitted ancient maps purporting to have been made by 'The King's Geographer'; see also Trafford v St Faith's RDC (1910) 74 JP 297, which was disapproved in A-G v Horner (No 2) [1913] 2 Ch 140, CA, and Meacher v Blair-Oliphant 1913 SC 417. As to maps see PARAS 943, 954.

5 Mercer v Denne [1904] 2 Ch 534; affd [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA.

6 Hammond v Bradstreet (1854) 10 Exch 390. As to private maps see PARA 954.

7 Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; see also the report of that case in the Court of Appeal sub nom Polini v Gray, Sturla v Freccia (1879) 12 ChD 411.

8 Daniel v Wilkin (1852) 7 Exch 429.

9 Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1 (inadmissible to show what had been the inscription on a partly defaced tomb). As to inscriptions see further PARA 956.

10 Shortt v Robinson (1899) 63 JP 295; but see PARA 897 note 3.

11 Burrows v Bedford School Board (1902) 18 TLR 292. Cf The Catherina Maria (1866) LR 1 A & E 53.

12 See COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 357-358.

13 See Polini v Gray, Sturla v Freccia (1879) 12 ChD 411, CA; Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1; Slane Peerage (1835) 5 Cl & Fin 23, HL; and as to certificates see PARA 896.

14 Polini v Gray, Sturla v Freccia (1879) 12 ChD 411, CA; but see that case on appeal sub nom Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/E. REGISTERS OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS/906. In general.

E. REGISTERS OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS

906. In general.

A certified copy of an entry in a register purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office, relating to births, deaths and marriages in England and Wales¹, is to be received as evidence of the birth, death or marriage to which it relates, without any further or other proof of the entry². Subject to certain exceptions³, an entry or a certified copy of an entry of a birth or death in a register, or in a certified copy of a register, is not evidence of the birth or death unless the entry purports to be signed by some person professing to be the informant and to be such a person as might be required or permitted by law at the date of the entry to give to the registrar information concerning that birth or death⁴.

In order that an entry or a certified copy of the entry of a birth of a child in the register, or in a certified copy of the register, may be evidence of the birth, where the original entry was made after 1874 and more than three but less than 12 months have intervened between the date of the birth or the date when any living new-born child or still-born child was found exposed and the date of registration, the entry must purport either to be signed by the superintendent registrar as well as by the registrar or to have been made with the authority of the Registrar General⁵. Where more than 12 months have intervened the entry must purport to have been made with the authority of the Registrar General⁶.

In order that an entry of a death, a certified copy of it, or a certified copy of a register may be evidence of a death, where the original entry was made after 1874 and more than 12 months have intervened between the date of the death or the finding of the dead body and the date of registration, the entry must purport to have been made with the authority of the Registrar General⁷.

Certified copies of entries in registers of births and deaths and certified copies of the registers are deemed to be true copies notwithstanding differences in form between the original entries and the copies, provided there are no differences of substance⁸.

1 As to foreign and Commonwealth registers see PARA 917 et seq. As to parish and non-parochial registers see PARA 909 et seq.

2 Marriage Act 1949 s 65(3); Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(6); R v Weaver(1873) LR 2 CCR 85; Hubbard v Lees and Purden(1866) LR 1 Exch 255. See also CREMATION AND BURIAL; ECCLESIASTICAL LAW; REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. As to births, deaths and marriages outside England and Wales see PARA 918.

3 The signature by the informant is not required (1) in relation to an entry of a birth which, not being an entry signed by a person professing to be a superintendent registrar, purports to have been made with the authority of the Registrar General; or (2) in relation to an entry of a death which purports to have been made upon a certificate from a coroner; or (3) in relation to an entry of a birth or death which purports to have been made in pursuance of the enactments with respect to the registration of births and deaths at sea; or (4) in relation to the re-registration of a birth under the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 9(5): s 34(2) (s 34(2), (3) amended by the Children Act 1975 s 108(1), Sch 3 para 13; the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(2) also amended by the Family Law Reform Act 1987 s 33(1), Sch 2 para 17, Sch 3 para 1).

4 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(1), (2) (as amended: see note 3). As to the persons who are required or permitted to give information to the registrar in respect of a birth or a death see REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

5 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(3)(a) (as amended: see note 3).

6 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(3)(b) (as amended: see note 3).

7 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(4).

8 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(5). See further REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/E. REGISTERS OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS/907. Facts of which entries and certified copies are evidence.

907. Facts of which entries and certified copies are evidence.

Entries in registers of births, marriages or deaths, certified copies of those entries and certified copies of the registers are prima facie, although not conclusive, proof of the particulars of all matters required by statute to be entered in them¹, except the cause of death². Thus a certificate of the Registrar General of a birth is prima facie evidence of the fact³, place and date of birth, the names and sex of the person born, the parents' names, usual addresses and dates of birth and the parents' occupations⁴. A certificate of the Registrar General of a death proves the fact⁵, place and date of death, and the sex, age and occupation of the dead person⁶, but is not admissible as evidence of the cause of death⁷. A certificate of the Registrar General of a marriage proves the fact⁸, place and date of the celebration of the marriage, the name, age, occupation and residence of each of the parties, and the name and occupation of the father of each of the parties⁹.

1 See Brierley v Brierley and Williams [1918] P 257; Re Stollery, Weir v Treasury Solicitor [1926] Ch 284, CA; Jackson v Jackson and Pavan [1964] P 25, [1960] 3 All ER 621.

2 See note 7.

3 Brierley v Brierley and Williams [1918] P 257; Wilton & Co v Phillips (1903) 19 TLR 390; Re Goodrich, Payne v Bennett [1904] P 138; Re Stollery, Weir v Treasury Solicitor [1926] Ch 284, CA. For similar provisions as to the date of birth entered in the Adopted Children Register see the Adoption and Children Act 2002 s 77(5); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 383. Birth or death certificates of children may, in conjunction with other evidence, be evidence of a lawful marriage of the parents: Re Stollery, Weir v Treasury Solicitor [1926] Ch 284, CA; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

4 See the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(6); the Registration of Births and Deaths Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2088, regs 7-14, Sch 2, Form 1; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. In relation to a birth occurring in Wales see the Registration of Births and Deaths (Welsh Language) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2089; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

5 Parkinson v Francis (1846) 15 Sim 160; Trail v Kibblewhite (1846) 10 Jur 107; Riseley v Shepherd (1873) 21 WR 783; Re Valter's Trust [1887] WN 128. Cf Re Butler's Settlement Trusts [1942] Ch 403, [1942] 2 All ER 191.

6 See the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(6); the Registration of Births and Deaths Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2088, regs 39-47, Sch 2, Forms 13-16; and CREMATION AND BURIAL; REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. In relation to a death occurring in Wales see the Registration of Births and Deaths (Welsh Language) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2089; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

7 Bird v Keep [1918] 2 KB 692, CA. This exception to the admissibility of particulars stated in entries in registers and in certificates was explained in Re Stollery, Weir v Treasury Solicitor [1926] Ch 284 at 321-322, CA, per Scrutton LJ, on the ground of the distinction of the registrar's duty in relation to receiving information for registration. Whereas, in general, he must make inquiry and is entitled to reject information which he thinks to be untrue, in the case of coroners' certificates or medical certificates giving the cause of death, the registrar must enter the cause of death as stated in the certificate: see the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 ss 22, 23; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

8 R v Hawes (1847) 1 Den 270. As to the presumption of validity of a marriage see Re Peete, Peete v Crompton [1952] 2 All ER 599; PARA 1102; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 7.

9 See the Marriage Act 1949 s 65(3); the Registration of Marriages Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1442, regs 10-13, Sch 1, Form 13; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. For the equivalent provisions where the entries are made in the Welsh language see the Registration of Marriages (Welsh Language) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1621; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

UPDATE

907 Facts of which entries and certified copies are evidence

NOTES 4, 6--SI 1987/2088 regs 7-13, 42, Sch 2 Form 1 amended: SI 2009/2165.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/908. Entries in public registers generally.

F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS

908. Entries in public registers generally.

Entries in public registers¹ are evidence² of the facts recorded, provided the register was required by law to be kept for public reference and the entries were made promptly and by the proper officer³. There must be a public duty to keep the register, and the information must be required to be preserved for the public use and benefit; registers kept under private authority, or for the benefit or information merely of private individuals, are inadmissible⁴. Such public registers, formerly admissible at common law, are now admissible in civil cases by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁵.

1 As to the admissibility of copies of entries in public registers see PARA 884.

2 In some cases evidence contradicting an entry has been received: see The Recepta (1889) 14 PD 131; Kemp v Elisha[1918] 1 KB 228, CA; Re Peete, Peete v Crompton[1952] 2 All ER 599.

3 Doe d France v Andrews(1850) 15 QB 756; Doe d Warren v Bray (1828) 8 B & C 813; Sturla v Freccia(1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL. It is sufficient if the function of making the record has been fulfilled by two different officials, the first having knowledge of the facts and being under a statutory duty to record that knowledge and forward it to the second, who, in his turn, is under a duty to preserve the document for public inspection: R v Halpin[1975] QB 907, [1975] 2 All ER 1124, CA.

4 Heyne v Fischel & Co (1913) 110 LT 264; Henry v Leigh (1813) 3 Camp 499; Huntley v Donovan(1850) 15 QB 96; Irish Society v Bishop of Derry (1846) 12 Cl & Fin 641, HL; Sturla v Freccia(1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; Lilley v Pettit[1946] KB 401, sub nom Pettit v Lilley[1946] 1 All ER 593, DC; Andrews v Cordiner[1947] KB 655, [1947] 1 All ER 777, DC; Ioannou v Demetriou[1952] AC 84, [1952] 1 All ER 179, PC.

5 Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b); see PARA 821.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/909. Entries in parish registers.

909. Entries in parish registers.

Parish registers of baptisms, marriages and burials¹, being public documents², are admissible in evidence to prove the facts stated in them³. The registers must be kept in proper custody⁴, and the facts stated in them must have been properly and regularly recorded with reasonable promptness by the person whose duty it was to make such entries, or his deputy⁵. Errors, irregularities and erasures of a trifling character will not, in general, exclude the entries, but will merely affect their weight⁶.

Duly authenticated copies of entries in such registers are admissible as proof of the contents of the entries⁷. A short certificate of baptism in the prescribed form⁸ is valid for all purposes for which a certificate of baptism of any person compiled from a register of baptisms would have been valid⁹.

1 For the duty to keep parochial registers of baptisms and burials see the Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978. As to parochial registers of marriages before 2 March 1837 see the Parochial Registers Act 1812 (repealed). As to the duty of the officiating clergyman to register a marriage in the case of a marriage according to the rites of the Church of England see the Marriage Act 1949 s 53(a). As to parochial registers generally see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW. As to registers of births, marriages and deaths in Ireland see PARA 918.

2 Sturla v Freccia (1880) 5 App Cas 623, HL; and see Doe d Wollaston v Barnes (1834) 1 Mood & R 386. See further PARA 908.

3 I.e. the facts that the person keeping the register has a duty to record. Cf Doe d France v Andrews (1850) 15 QB 756. As to the matters which must be recorded see PARA 910.

4 As to proper custody see PARA 871 et seq; and ECCLESIASTICAL LAW. The better view is that the official copy of the parish register deposited in the diocesan registry under the Canons Ecclesiastical (1603) canon 70 (repealed) is an original public document, and thus admissible without proof of the loss or destruction of the original parish register; cf Walker v Countess of Beauchamp (1834) 6 C & P 552; and see Doe d Wood v Wilkins (1846) 2 Car & Kir 328. For the modern law as to the deposit of registers in diocesan record offices see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW.

5 Walker v Wingfield (1812) 18 Ves 443; Doe d Warren v Bray (1828) 8 B & C 813; Lyell v Kennedy (1887) 56 LT 647, CA; cf Bidder v Bridges (1885) 54 LT 529.

6 Lyell v Kennedy (1889) 14 App Cas 437, HL.

7 Evidence Act 1851 s 14; see PARA 884. See also Re Hall's Estate (1852) 22 LJ Ch 177 (wrongly reported in 2 De GM & G 748) (extracts from parish registers of baptisms, marriages and deaths purporting to be signed severally by the incumbent, rector, vicar or curate admissible); followed in Re Porter's Trusts (1856) 25 LJ Ch 688 (extract signed by curate admissible).

8 Baptismal Registers Measure 1961 s 2(1), Schedule. The particulars to be inserted in the numbered spaces of the prescribed form are (1) the name of the parish or other place of which the register of baptisms in question is or was the register; (2) the Christian names of the baptised person as recorded in the entry followed by the surname of his father as recorded in the entry or if more than one such surname is so recorded or if his mother appears from the entry to have borne a different surname at the date of his baptism, such one of those surnames of his father or mother as the applicant may request: see Schedule Pt II paras (1), (2).

9 Baptismal Registers Measure 1961 s 2(2). All such short certificates which purport to be signed by the custodian of the register from which the certificate is compiled must be received as evidence of the baptism without further or other proof of the entry: s 2(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/910. Facts proved by parochial registers of baptisms, marriages and burials.

910. Facts proved by parochial registers of baptisms, marriages and burials.

A register of baptisms proves a baptism according to the rites of the Church of England, its date, the child's Christian name¹, and the parents' names². In the case of baptisms since 1812, it is evidence of the parents' abode and quality, trade or profession (now expressed as the parents' address and occupation)³. It is not evidence of the date of birth⁴, even when a date purporting to be the date of birth appears in the register⁵, or of connected matters⁶. Although not itself evidence of the place of birth⁷, an entry in a baptismal register may assist in proving the place of birth where, for example, it is shown by other evidence that the child was extremely young when baptised⁸.

An entry in a parochial register of burials is evidence of the death of the person named in it⁹, and probably of his abode, but not, it seems, of the age of that person¹⁰.

A parochial register of marriages proves the fact and date of the celebration of a marriage in a parish or chapel according to the rites of the Church of England before 2 March 1837¹¹, and the names of the parties married¹². An entry of marriage is receivable as evidence of the marriage, even if the entry is only attested by one witness¹³.

1 Webb v Haycock (1854) 19 Beav 342.

2 Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978 s 2, Sch 1 Form 1 (s 2, Sch 1 amended by the Church of England (Miscellaneous Provisions) Measure 1992 s 4, Sch 1 paras 2-4, 11); but as to the short form of certificate of baptism see PARA 909 note 8.

Provision has been made for the annotation of parochial registers when a person has been legitimated after baptism and the birth has been reregistered: see the Baptismal Registers Measure 1961 s 1, Schedule Pt I (s 1 amended by the Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978 s 26(1), Sch 3 para 5); and ECCLESIASTICAL LAW. As to reregistration see REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 552 et seq.

3 Parochial Registers Act 1812 ss 1-3, Sch (A) (repealed); Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978 s 2, Sch 1 Form 1 (as amended: see note 2).

4 Robinson v Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry (1887) 3 TLR 472, CA; Wiher v Law (1821) 3 Stark 63; R v Clapham (1829) 4 C & P 29; Burghart v Angerstein (1834) 6 C & P 690; and see Huet v Le Mesurier (1786) 1 Cox Eq Cas 275. A baptismal certificate verified by a person interested in settled funds has been admitted as evidence that he had attained 21 years: Re Bulley's Settlement [1886] WN 80.

5 The date of birth must also now be entered in the register: see the Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978 s 2, Sch 1 Form 1 (as amended: see note 2). Such an entry might, however, be admissible as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

6 See Morris v Davies (1828) 1 Mood & R 271, note (b); Cope v Cope (1833) 1 Mood & R 269; Thrussell v Barker (1868) 17 LT 665; Re Turner, Glenister v Harding (1885) 29 ChD 985; but cf Robinson v Duke of Buccleugh and Queensberry (1887) 3 TLR 472, CA. See also Ryan v Ring (1889) 25 LR Ir 184.

7 R v Creech St Michael's Inhabitants (1774) Burr SC 765; R v North Petherton (1826) 5 B & C 508.

8 R v North Petherton (1826) 5 B & C 508; R v Birmingham Inhabitants, called also R v Aston Inhabitants (1829) 8 LJOSMC 41; R v Parish or Precinct of St Katherine (1831) 5 B & Ad 970n; R v Lubbenham Inhabitants (1834) 5 B & Ad 968; R v Crediton Inhabitants (1858) EB & E 231.

9 Doe d France v Andrews (1850) 15 QB 756.

10 The particulars required to be entered in the register are the name of the deceased, his abode, date of burial and age, and the name of the person by whom the ceremony of burial was performed: Parochial Registers and Records Measure 1978 s 3, Sch 1, Form 2 (as amended: see note 2). See further CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 1109 et seq. In Robinson v Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry (1887) 3 TLR 472, CA, the court held that neither a certificate of baptism nor of burial was evidence of the age of the person named in it. However, the date of birth was not then required to be entered in a baptismal register, although it was required to be entered in a register of burials. As to non-parochial registers of burials see PARA 914.

11 See PARA 909 note 1.

12 Parochial Registers Act 1812 ss 1-3, Sch (B) (repealed); Births and Deaths Registration Act 1836 s 1 (repealed); Doe d Wollaston v Barnes (1834) 1 Mood & R 386; Doe d Jenkins v Davies (1847) 10 QB 314. An entry in a marriage register is not conclusive evidence of the facts stated in it: Draycott v Talbot (1718) 3 Bro Parl Cas 564, HL. As to public registers of marriages see PARA 906.

13 Doe d Blayney v Savage (1844) 1 Car & Kir 487. Entries in marriage registers must be attested by two witnesses: see the Marriage Act 1949 s 55(2).

Where a marriage has been celebrated under special licence, the licence need not be produced in addition to an extract from the register in order to prove the marriage: Doe d Earl of Egremont v Grazebrook (1843) 4 QB 406.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/911. Non-parochial registers formerly admissible at common law.

911. Non-parochial registers formerly admissible at common law.

At common law certain non-parochial registers, or duly certified extracts from them, were admissible in evidence if they came within the description of public documents¹; for example a bishop's register was admissible as evidence of the facts properly and regularly recorded in it². Where, however, the register was not one required to be kept for the public benefit, it was not admissible in evidence³; for example, registers kept at dissenting chapels⁴, or the registers of marriages kept at the Fleet and King's Bench prisons, and at the May Fair, Mint and Savoy chapels⁵.

The common law rule is preserved by the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁶.

1 Lynch v Clerke (1697) 3 Salk 154; Birt v Barlow (1779) 1 Doug KB 171. As to the requisites of a public register see PARA 908.

2 Humble v Hunt (1817) Holt NP 601 (register of leases admitted to prove lease where original and counterpart lost); Arnold v Bishop of Bath and Wells (1829) 5 Bing 316 (bishop's register evidence of business transacted at visitation); Hartley v Cook (1832) 5 C & P 441 (register admitted to prove right to appoint parish clerk). See also R v Martin (1809) 2 Camp 100 (vestry books admitted to prove due election of treasurer); Bullen v Michel (1816) 2 Price 399, HL (ancient entries made by monks in a register kept at an abbey admitted as evidence of facts stated).

3 R v Debenham Inhabitants (1818) 2 B & Ald 185 (entry in parish book made by parish officer purporting to relieve parish of its liability to support a pauper, rejected as concerning merely a dispute between two parishes); Merrick v Wakley (1838) 8 Ad & El 170 (register of attendances of medical officer of a union, kept under the Poor Law Commissioners' Orders, inadmissible for the same reason).

4 Newham v Raithby (1811) 1 Phillim 315; Ex p Taylor (1820) 1 Jac & W 483; Whittuck v Waters (1830) 4 C & P 375; Re Woodward, Kenway v Kidd [1913] 1 Ch 392; and see Davis v Lloyd (1844) 1 Car & Kir 275 (entry, in the handwriting of the chief rabbi, in a register of circumcision); D'Aglié v Fryer (1844) 13 LJ Ch 398 (certified copy of baptismal register kept at the chapel of the Sardinian ambassador in London). Registers of many religious bodies have long been admissible by statute: see PARA 912.

5 See Morris v Miller (1767) 4 Burr 2057; Reed v Passer (1794) Peake 231; Lloyd v Passingham (1809) 16 Ves 59; Doe d Davies v Gatacre (1838) 8 C & P 578. Cf Lawrance v Dixon (1792) Peake 185; Doe d Orrel v Madox (1794) 1 Esp 197.

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b); and PARA 821.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/912. Non-parochial registers admissible by statute.

912. Non-parochial registers admissible by statute.

Certain non-parochial registers of births, baptisms, deaths, burials or marriages, inadmissible at common law, have been made admissible by statute to prove the facts stated in them¹. These registers are receivable in evidence upon proof of deposit with the Registrar General, entry in his list, and due notice to the opposite party of an intention to produce them². Those registers which were deposited in the registry of the Bishop of London in 1821, for example those of the Fleet and King's Bench prisons, although transferred to the custody of the Registrar General, are not made receivable in evidence by the statutory provisions referred to above³ although evidence of their contents may now be admissible as hearsay under the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁴.

1 See the Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 ss 6, 9-17 (s 11 amended by the Courts Act 1971 s 56(4), Sch 11 Pt IV); see also the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1858 ss 1-3 (repealed). A full account of these registers will be found in the reports dated 18 June 1838 and 31 December 1857 by commissions appointed to inquire into non-parochial registers. For a list of registers made evidence under the former Act see 9 C & P 793. See also REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 605.

2 See the Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 ss 6, 9-17 (as amended: see note 1); and see Re Woodward, Kenway v Kidd [1913] 1 Ch 392.

3 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 ss 6, 20.

4 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/913. Production of non-parochial register or extract.

913. Production of non-parochial register or extract.

Any non-parochial register or record which is admissible in evidence under the relevant statutory provisions¹ must be produced by the Registrar General on subpoena or order of any competent court or tribunal, on payment of a reasonable sum for the loss of time and travelling and other expenses of the officer producing it². The production of any such register or record which is in the custody of the proper officer of the Registrar General is sufficient proof that the register or record is one deposited with the Registrar General in pursuance of the statutory provisions³.

A certified extract from any such register or record is also admissible without further proof in all civil cases, provided it purports to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office⁴, and provided the extract contains a description of the register or record from which it is taken and expresses that it is one of the registers or records deposited with the Registrar General in pursuance of the statutory provisions⁵; but in criminal cases the original register or record must be produced⁶.

The party intending to use in evidence on the hearing of any matter which is not a criminal case any such certified extract must give written notice of his intention to the opposite party and at the same time deliver a copy of the extract and certificate, in sufficient time before the hearing to enable the opposite party to inspect the original register or record⁷; but if he intends to use the original register or record he must simply give notice and deliver a copy of a certified extract of the entry he intends to use in evidence⁸.

1 See PARA 912.

2 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 6. As to witness summonses and writs of subpoena see PARA 1003 et seq.

3 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 10.

4 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 9.

5 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 10.

6 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 17.

7 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 ss 11, 13 (s 11 amended by the Courts Act 1971 s 56(4), Sch 11 Pt IV).

8 Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 ss 12, 14. As to interlocutory proceedings (referred to in the Civil Procedure Rules as 'interim proceedings') see the Non-parochial Registers Act 1840 s 15 (certified extract accompanied by affidavit required).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/914. Non-parochial registers of burials.

914. Non-parochial registers of burials.

Registers of burials are required to be kept under various Acts¹ relating to cemeteries and burial grounds². These registers, or copies or extracts from them, are to be received in all courts as evidence of the burials entered in them³.

1 The Local Government Act 1972, and regulations made under it, provide for burial authorities with powers to provide and maintain public cemeteries: see CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 908 et seq. The Cemeteries Clauses Act 1847 provides a separate statutory code applicable in certain circumstances: see CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 910.

2 See CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 1115 et seq. The registration of cremations is separately provided for: see CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 977 et seq.

3 See CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 1116.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/915. Particular public registers.

915. Particular public registers.

Other registers¹ which are kept pursuant to statute are usually receivable as evidence (and sometimes as conclusive evidence) of the facts recorded. These registers, which are dealt with elsewhere in this work, include the registers relating to business names and companies², copyright and designs³, friendly societies⁴, title to land⁵, licensing⁶, motor vehicles and driving licences⁷, newspapers⁸, patents⁹, ships¹⁰, trade marks¹¹ and voters¹².

1 As to colonial and foreign registers see PARA 917 et seq. Certain military documents are admissible as evidence of the facts stated in them: see the Army Act 1955 s 198(5); the Air Force Act 1955 s 198(5); and ARMED FORCES.

2 See COMPANIES.

3 See COPYRIGHT, DESIGN RIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS; PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 699 et seq.

4 See FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 2149 et seq.

5 See LAND REGISTRATION.

6 See INTOXICATING LIQUOR.

7 See ROAD TRAFFIC.

8 See PRESS, PRINTING AND PUBLISHING.

9 See PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 585 et seq.

10 See SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

11 See TRADE MARKS AND TRADE NAMES vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 19 et seq.

12 See ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS.

UPDATE

915 Particular public registers

NOTE 1--Army Act 1955 and Air Force Act 1955 repealed: Armed Forces Act 2006 Sch 17.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/F. OTHER PUBLIC REGISTERS/916. Registers of professional persons.

916. Registers of professional persons.

Authorised copies of registers kept pursuant to statute relating to persons qualified to practise in various professional capacities¹ are usually receivable as evidence of the registration or non-registration of any person. Some examples of such registers are those relating to architects², dentists³, doctors⁴, opticians⁵, solicitors holding practising certificates⁶ and veterinary surgeons⁷.

1 In some cases certificates by the persons appointed to keep the registers are admissible as to the facts stated in them.

2 See the Architects Act 1997 s 3.

3 See the Dentists Act 1984 s 14; and MEDICAL PROFESSIONS vol 30(1) (Reissue) PARA 417 et seq.

4 See the Medical Act 1983 s 34; and MEDICAL PROFESSIONS vol 30(1) (Reissue) PARA 34 et seq.

5 See the Opticians Act 1989 s 11; and MEDICAL PROFESSIONS vol 30(1) (Reissue) PARA 837 et seq.

6 See the Solicitors Act 1974 s 18; and LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 672. As to solicitors in Scotland see s 30.

7 See the Veterinary Surgeons Act 1966 s 9; and ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARA 1133 et seq.

UPDATE

916 Registers of professional persons

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733. Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in this paragraph are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions), see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/917. Admissibility at common law.

G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS

917. Admissibility at common law.

At common law, colonial and foreign registers (including those of Scotland, Ireland and the Channel Islands) were admissible in courts in England and Wales to prove the facts stated in them, provided they were required to be kept by the law of the country to which they belonged, or by English law¹. When such registers themselves were admissible in evidence, certified and examined copies² of entries in them were also admissible³, but the court required to be satisfied⁴ that a certificate or other official document was in the form required by the law⁵ of the colony or foreign country⁶.

Such registers, formerly admissible at common law, are now admissible by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁷, although specific statutory provisions have made entries in the public registers of many countries admissible as evidence in English and Welsh courts⁸.

1 Alsop v Bowtrell (1619) Cro Jac 541 (Utrecht); Earl of Roscommon's Claim (1828) 6 Cl & Fin 97, HL (Ireland); Milligan v Mitchell (1837) 3 My & Cr 72 (Scotland); Coode v Coode (1838) 1 Curt 755 (Barbados); O'Connor v Malone (1839) 6 Cl & Fin 572, HL; Malone v L'Estrange (1839) 2 I Eq R 16 (Ireland); Earldom of Perth (1848) 2 HL Cas 865 (France); Re Forbes (1852) 1 WR 32 (Madeira); Ratcliffe v Ratcliffe and Anderson (1859) 1 Sw & Tr 467 (India); Abbott v Abbott and Godoy (1860) 29 LJP & A 57 (Chile); Evans v Ball (1878) 38 LT 141; on appeal (1882) 47 LT 165, HL (Novia Scotia); Lauderdale Peerage (1885) 10 App Cas 692, HL (New York); Burnaby v Baillie (1889) 42 ChD 282 (France); Wallace v Wallace (1896) 74 LT 253 (Ireland).

2 As to certified and examined copies of public documents see PARA 884.

3 Lyell v Kennedy, Kennedy v Lyell (1889) 14 App Cas 437, HL; Burnaby v Baillie (1889) 42 ChD 282; and see Evans v Ball (1878) 38 LT 141.

4 See Brown v Brown (1917) 116 LT 702; Mondschein v Mondschein (1921) 37 TLR 665.

5 Eg a local statute: see Bonhote v Bonhote (1920) 89 LJP 140. See also Coode v Coode (1838) 1 Curt 755; L (otherwise B) v L (1919) 36 TLR 148; Taylor v Taylor and Hooper (1923) 129 LT 30.

6 Waterfield v Waterfield and Pretorius (1929) 73 Sol Jo 300. See also Smith v Smith (1913) 109 LT 744; Roe v Roe (1916) 115 LT 792; Higgs v Higgs (1920) 124 LT 382; Wright v Wright and Boothman (1923) 129 LT 832; Matthews v Matthews (1930) 99 LJP 142; cf Finlay v Finlay and Rudall (1862) 31 LJP & A 149.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b); and PARA 821. Such registers may also be admissible as hearsay under ss 1-4: see PARA 808 et seq.

8 See PARAS 922-923.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/918. Registers of births, marriages and deaths outside England and Wales.

918. Registers of births, marriages and deaths outside England and Wales.

Provision is made by the British Nationality Act 1981 and regulations made under that Act for the registration of the births and deaths (1) of British citizens, British overseas territories citizens, British Nationals (Overseas), British Overseas citizens, British subjects and British protected persons born or dying in a Commonwealth country to be registered there by the High Commissioner for Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom or by members of his official staff¹; (2) of such persons born or dying in a foreign country to be registered there by consular officers or other officers in the service of Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom² or, in the case of births and deaths in any country in which Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom has for the time being no diplomatic or consular representation, to be registered either by persons serving in the diplomatic, consular or other foreign service of a country which, by arrangement with Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom, has undertaken to represent that government's interest in that country or by a person authorised in that behalf by the Secretary of State³. Any entry in a register made under these provisions or under any of the former nationality Acts is to be received as evidence of the matters stated in the entry⁴ and may be proved by the production of a certified copy⁵.

In the case of births, marriages and deaths in Scotland, certified copies purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office in Edinburgh of entries in certified copies of register books kept in that office are admissible in evidence to prove the facts stated in those entries⁶.

Entries in registers of births, marriages and deaths in Northern Ireland⁷ may be proved by certified copies⁸.

The master of a ship registered in the United Kingdom⁹ is required to make returns of births and deaths occurring in his ship, and the master of a ship not registered in the United Kingdom which calls at a port in the United Kingdom is required to make returns of any birth or death of any British citizen, British overseas territories citizen or British Overseas citizen which has occurred in his ship during the voyage¹⁰. Certified copies of such returns are sent to the appropriate Registrar General to be recorded in the marine register¹¹; and the enactments relating to the registration of births and deaths in England have effect as if the marine register were a register of births and deaths or certified copies of entries in such a register, and had been transmitted to the Registrar General in accordance with those enactments¹². Similar provision has been made with respect to births and deaths occurring in any aircraft or hovercraft registered in Great Britain and Northern Ireland¹³.

Particular statutory provision was made with regard to the proof of marriages in certain former colonies and protectorates¹⁴.

1 See the British Nationality Act 1981 s 41(1)(g); the Registration of Overseas Births and Deaths Regulations 1982, SI 1982/1123, reg 4(1), (2); and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 591-592. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

2 See the British Nationality Act 1981 s 41(1)(h); the Registration of Overseas Births and Deaths Regulations 1982, SI 1982/1123, reg 4(1), (2); and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 591-592.

3 See the British Nationality Act 1981 s 41(1)(i) (amended by the British Overseas Territories Act 2002 s 2(2) (b); and by SI 1986/948); the Registration of Overseas Births and Deaths Regulations 1982, SI 1982/1123, reg 4(3) (amended by SI 1985/1574); and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 591-592. The Secretary of State may also make provision by regulation as to the consequences of failure to comply with provision made under any of the British Nationality Act 1981 s 41(g)-(i): s 41(1)(j) (added by the Immigration, Asylum and Nationality Act 2006 s 50(4)). As to the births and deaths that may be registered see further the Registration of Overseas Births and Deaths Regulations 1982, SI 1982/1123, regs 5-11; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 593 et seq.

4 See the British Nationality Act 1981 s 45(3). 'Former nationality Acts' means (1) the British Nationality Acts 1948 to 1965 (repealed); (2) the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Acts 1914 to 1943 (repealed); and (3) any Act repealed by those Acts of 1914 to 1943 or by the Naturalisation Act 1870 (repealed): British Nationality Act 1981 s 50(1).

5 See the British Nationality Act 1981 s 45(1), (2); the Registration of Overseas Births and Deaths Regulations 1982, SI 1982/1123, reg 16; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 599.

6 Lyell v Kennedy, Kennedy v Lyell (1889) 14 App Cas 437, HL; Wigley v Treasury Solicitor [1902] P 233; Evidence Act 1851 s 14 (see PARA 884). See also Drew v Drew [1912] P 175; Daniels v Daniels (1916) 33 TLR 149, which are instances of irregular marriages. Another such instance is Winterbottom v Winterbottom (otherwise Appleton) (1922) 38 TLR 813, where the validity of the marriage was disputed on the ground of non-residence, and it was held that prima facie evidence of validity and term of residence was not displaced; cf Bain v Mason (1824) 1 C & P 202; Nokes v Milward (1824) 2 Add 386; Patrickson v Patrickson (1865) LR 1 P & D 86 (Gretna Green marriages registers not admissible, save perhaps as evidence of declarations); and see Hewitt v A-G (1910) Times, 22 October; Curry v Curry [1958] CLY 1066, (1958) Times, 13 December.

7 Since the creation of the Irish Free State, now the Republic of Ireland, the enactments relating to the proof of Irish documents apply only to Northern Ireland, and documents from the republic must be proved like any other foreign documents: see the Irish Free State (Consequential Adaptation of Enactments) Order 1923, SR & O 1923/405; Todd v Todd [1961] 2 All ER 881, [1961] 1 WLR 951. As to proof of colonial and foreign registers see PARA 917.

8 Evidence Act 1851 ss 10, 14. As to the operation of s 14 see PARA 884. See Wallace v Wallace (1896) 74 LT 253; Whitton v Whitton [1900] P 178; Guillet v Guillet (1911) 27 TLR 416; Lemon v Lemon (1920) 123 LT 585.

9 As to births and deaths occurring aboard Her Majesty's ships and aircraft see PARA 920 text and note 4; and as to the registration of ships see SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

10 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 108 (amended by virtue of the British Overseas Territories Act 2002 s 2(3)); the Merchant Shipping (Returns of Births and Deaths) Regulations 1979, SI 1979/1577; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 578 et seq; SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 29.

11 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 108(4), (8)(a). Particulars of births or deaths on offshore installations outside the United Kingdom may also be recorded in the marine register: see REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 581.

12 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 108(8). The main enactment referred to is the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953: see PARAS 906-907; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. The effect of the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 108(8) is that entries in the marine register may be proved by certified copies: see PARAS 906-907.

13 See REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 582-583.

14 See the Indian Christian Marriage Act 1872 (No XV of 1872) (India) (marriages of Christians in India and Pakistan before 15 August 1947 might be proved by certified copies of registers); Regan v Regan (1892) 67 LT 720; Westmacott v Westmacott [1899] P 183; De Gruyther v De Gruyther (1900) Times, 2 November; Braid v Braid (1909) 25 TLR 646; Pawson v Pawson (1930) 99 LJ 142; cf Ratcliffe v Ratcliffe and Anderson (1859) 1 Sw & Tr 467 (a case under previous legislation). See also 27 & 28 Vict c 77 (Ionian States Act of Parliament) (1864) (a marriage solemnised in the Ionian Islands before the relinquishment of Her Majesty's protectorate over those islands might be proved by a certified copy of an entry in the register book transmitted to the Registrar General in pursuance of that Act: see ss 7-10).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/919. Evidence of marriages under the Foreign Marriage Acts.

919. Evidence of marriages under the Foreign Marriage Acts.

Marriages of British subjects solemnised in foreign countries by marriage officers under the Foreign Marriage Act 1892¹ are required to be registered in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions². Any register of such marriages in the custody of a marriage officer or sent by a marriage officer to a Secretary of State for transmission to the Registrar General for England and Wales is admissible in evidence on its mere production from the custody of the marriage officer or Registrar General³; and any copy or extract from such a register is admissible if it purports to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract by the marriage officer, or stamped or sealed with the seal of the General Register Office, as the case may be⁴.

1 The Foreign Marriage Act 1892 has been amended by the Foreign Marriage Act 1947 and the Foreign Marriage (Amendment) Act 1988. As to marriages under those Acts see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

2 As to registration of marriages by chaplains of Her Majesty's forces see CONFLICT OF LAWS; REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL.

3 See the Foreign Marriage Act 1892 ss 10, 16(1); and CONFLICT OF LAWS.

4 See the Foreign Marriage Act 1892 ss 10, 16(1), 17; the Evidence Act 1851 s 14.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/920. Births, marriages and deaths in Her Majesty's forces.

920. Births, marriages and deaths in Her Majesty's forces.

Records maintained in accordance with the Queen's Regulations for the registration of births, marriages and deaths¹ are evidence of the facts stated in them, and a copy of such a record, purporting to be certified as a true copy by a person stated in the certificate to have custody of the book or other document containing the record, is evidence of the record².

In addition, statutory provision has been made for the keeping of records of births and deaths occurring, and of marriages solemnised and civil partnerships formed, outside the United Kingdom among, or among the families of, members of Her Majesty's naval, military or air forces³, and of births and deaths occurring in any part of the world on board Her Majesty's ships and service aircraft⁴, and for the transmission of certified copies of such records to the Registrar General for England and Wales⁵. All such registers and copies of entries in registers or records as have been duly transmitted to the Registrar General for England and Wales⁶ are known as the 'Service Departments Registers'⁷, and the enactments relating to the registration of births, marriages and deaths in England and Wales have effect as if the Service Departments Registers were certified copies or duplicate registers transmitted to the Registrar General in accordance with those enactments⁸.

1 See Adams v Adams [1900] WN 32; Gleen v Gleen (1900) 17 TLR 62.

2 See the Army Act 1955 s 198(5); the Air Force Act 1955 s 198(5); and ARMED FORCES. As to certified copies of documents generally see PARA 887.

3 See the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 1 (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 261(1), Sch 27 para 21); the Service Departments Registers Order 1959, SI 1959/406; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 584 et seq. Provision may be made also for the records to include persons serving Her Majesty in or otherwise employed in any capacity connected with Her Majesty's naval, military or air forces, or persons belonging to or employed by any organisation concerned with the welfare of members of those forces: see the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 1(1)(b) (substituted, as from a day to be appointed, by the Armed Forces Act 2006 s 378(1), Sch 16 para 39(1), (2)(b), to apply instead to civilians subject to service discipline); the Service Departments Registers Order 1959, SI 1959/406; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. For provisions relating to the registration of marriages solemnised by chaplains of Her Majesty's Forces see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

4 See the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 2; the Service Departments Registers Order 1959, SI 1959/406; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 584.

5 See the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 ss 1(2)(a), 2(2)(a); the Service Departments Registers Order 1959, SI 1959/406; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 589.

6 Ie in pursuance of the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 or of the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Army) Act 1879 s 2 (repealed), or of the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1874 s 37 (repealed): Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 3(1).

7 Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 3(1).

8 Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 3(2). As to the registration of births, deaths and marriages in England and Wales see the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953; the Marriage Act 1949 ss 53-67; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL. As to the admissibility of a certified copy of an entry in a register, purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office, relating to births, deaths and marriages, see PARAS 906-907. The effect of the provisions mentioned in this paragraph is that entries in the 'Service Departments Registers' may be proved by certified copies.

UPDATE

920 Births, marriages and deaths in Her Majesty's forces

NOTE 2--Army Act 1955 and Air Force Act 1955 repealed: Armed Forces Act 2006 Sch 17.

NOTE 3--Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Special Provisions) Act 1957 s 1 further amended: Armed Forces Act 2006 Sch 16 para 39.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/921. Other foreign marriages and relationships.

921. Other foreign marriages and relationships.

The general rule is that in order to prove a foreign marriage where no statutory provisions facilitating proof apply¹, evidence is required of the validity of the marriage according to local law².

However, Anglican marriages in British territory may usually be proved by the certificate of the officiating clergyman, together with evidence of identity³. It has also been provided by rules of court that, in matrimonial causes where the validity of the marriage is not disputed, its validity under the law of the country where it was celebrated may be proved by the evidence of one of the parties to the marriage and the production of a document purporting to be a marriage certificate or similar document or a certified copy of an entry in a register of marriages⁴. Further, the formation of an overseas relationship other than a marriage, outside England and Wales and its validity under the law of the country where it was formed may, in any family proceedings in which the existence and validity of that relationship is not disputed, be proved by the evidence of one of the parties to it and the production of either a document purporting to be a certificate or similar document issued under the law in force in that country evidencing its formation or a certified copy of an entry in a register of such relationships kept under the law in force in that country⁵.

In addition, a marriage certificate or a certified copy of an entry in a register may be admitted as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 as evidence of the validity of the marriage⁶.

1 For such provisions see PARAS 918-920, 922-923. In respect of countries to which the Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 applies (see PARA 898), production of the relevant local statute proved in accordance with that Act, together with a marriage certificate, normally suffices to prove the validity of the marriage: see eg Gibson v Gibson (1920) 37 TLR 124; Bonhote v Bonhote (1920) 89 LJP 140; Pawson v Pawson (1930) 99 LJP 142. See also Jasiewicz v Jasiewicz [1962] 3 All ER 1017, [1962] 1 WLR 1426, where the authorities are reviewed.

2 See eg Wilson v Wilson [1903] P 157 (Malta); Brice v Brice (1919) 35 TLR 486 (Germany); Westlake v Westlake (otherwise Williams) [1910] P 167 (Channel Islands); Rohmann v Rohmann (1908) 25 TLR 78; Roberts v Brennan [1902] P 143 (Isle of Man); Todd v Todd [1961] 2 All ER 881, [1961] 1 WLR 951 (Republic of Ireland).

If a foreign marriage has been proved to be valid in matrimonial proceedings in England and Wales in the High Court or a county court, it is not necessary to adduce evidence of its validity in subsequent proceedings: Cowley v Cowley [1913] P 154; Verney v Verney (1920) 36 TLR 203; cf Bater v Bater [1907] P 333.

3 See Ward v Dey (1846) 1 Rob Eccl 759; Eden v Eden and Batterick (1908) 24 TLR 602; Boughey v Boughey and Foan (1917) 86 LJP 89; Browning v Browning (1918) 35 TLR 159; Pritchard v Pritchard (1920) 37 TLR 104 (Channel Islands in diocese of Winchester); Perry v Perry [1920] P 361; De Mowbray v De Mowbray (1921) 37 TLR 830; cf Westlake v Westlake (otherwise Williams) [1910] P 167.

4 Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 10.14(1). Where a document so produced is not in English it must, unless otherwise directed, be accompanied by a translation certified by a notary public or authenticated by affidavit: r 10.14(2) (amended by SI 2005/2922).

5 Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 10.14(1A) (added by SI 2005/2922). As to translation of the document see note 4.

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq. Before the passing of the Civil Evidence Act 1968 Pt I (repealed and replaced by the Civil Evidence Act 1995) use was made of the Evidence Act 1938 s 1(2)

(repealed) to facilitate the proof of marriages: see Markes v Markes (1955) 106 LJo 75; Van Wyk v Van Wyk and Holmes (1965) 109 Sol Jo 154; Henaff v Henaff [1966] 1 WLR 598.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/922. Admissibility by statute generally.

922. Admissibility by statute generally.

If Her Majesty in Council is satisfied as respects any country¹ that there exist in that country public registers kept under the authority of the law of that country and recognised by the courts of that country as authentic records, and that the registers are regularly and properly kept, such provision may be made by Order in Council² in respect of that country and all or any of those registers as is specified in the Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933³.

1 'Country' means a dominion, the Isle of Man, any of the Channel Islands, a British colony or protectorate, a foreign country, a colony or protectorate of a foreign country, or any mandated territory: Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(4). Where, however, part of a country is under both a local and a central legislature, an order under s 1 may be made as well with respect to that part, as with respect to all parts under that central legislature: s 1(4) proviso. After 31 July 1963 s 1(4) applies for the interpretation of the Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5(1): see s 5(2); and note 3.

2 For the orders which have been made see PARA 923 note 1.

3 Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5(1), which has effect as from 31 July 1963 in substitution for the Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(1) (repealed); but any Order in Council made before that date continues in force until revoked, or as varied, by an Order in Council under the Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5(2). The operation of s 5 is not affected by anything in the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see s 14(3)(e). As to the provision that may be made by such an Order in Council see PARA 923.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/G. REGISTERS IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/923. Orders as to public registers abroad.

923. Orders as to public registers abroad.

Provision may be made by Order in Council¹ that in all parts of the United Kingdom²:

- 116 (1) a specified register of the country to which the order relates is to be deemed to be a public register kept under the authority of the law of that country and recognised by that country's courts as an authentic record, and to be a document of such a public nature as to be admissible as evidence of the matters regularly recorded in it³;
- 117 (2) specified matters, if recorded in such a register, are to be deemed to be regularly recorded in it until the contrary is proved⁴;
- 118 (3) subject to conditions specified in the order and to rules of court, a document purporting to be issued in the country to which the order relates as an official copy of an entry in a register so specified, and purporting to be authenticated in the specified manner, is to be received as evidence that the register contains such entry, without evidence as to the custody of the register or of inability to produce it and without any further or other proof⁵;
- 119 (4) subject as set out above, a certificate purporting to be given in the country to which the order relates as an official certificate of any class specified in the order, and purporting to be signed by the officer and authenticated in the manner specified, is to be received as evidence of the facts stated in the certificate⁶;
- 120 (5) no official document issued in the country to which the order relates as proof of any matters for the proof of which provision is made by the order, if otherwise admissible in evidence, is to be inadmissible by reason only that it is not authenticated by the process known as legalisation⁷.

Official books of record preserved in a central registry and containing entries copied from original registers may, if those entries were copied by officials in the course of their duty, themselves be treated, for the above purposes, as registers⁸.

¹ Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2) (amended by the Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5(1)). Orders were made before 1963 under the Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1, and thereafter under the Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 5: see PARA 922. At the date at which this title states the law the following orders had been made: the Evidence (Aden) Order 1965, SI 1965/1527; the Evidence (Antigua) Order 1965, SI 1965/312; the Evidence (Bahamas) Order 1961, SI 1961/2041; the Evidence (Barbados) Order 1962, SI 1962/641; the Evidence (Basutoland) Order 1965, SI 1965/1719; the Evidence (Bechuanaland Protectorate) Order 1965, SI 1965/1720; the Evidence (Belgium) Order 1933, SR & O 1933/383; the Evidence (Bermuda) Order 1961, SI 1961/2042; the Evidence (British Antarctic Territory) Order 1962, SI 1962/2605; the Evidence (British Guiana) Order 1961, SI 1961/2043; the Evidence (British Honduras) Order 1961, SI 1961/2044; the Evidence (British Indian Ocean Territory) Order 1984, SI 1984/857; the Evidence (Cayman Islands) Order 1965, SI 1965/313; the Evidence (Certain Provinces of Canada) Order 1962, SI 1962/2606; the Evidence (Commonwealth of Australia) Order 1938, SR & O 1938/739; the Evidence (Denmark) Order 1969, SI 1969/144; the Evidence (Dominica) Order 1961, SI 1961/2045; the Evidence (Falkland Islands) Order 1962, SI 1962/2607; the Evidence (Federal Republic of Germany) Order 1970, SI 1970/819; the Evidence (Fiji) Order 1961, SI 1961/2046; the Evidence (France) Order in Council 1937, SR & O 1937/515; the Evidence (Gibraltar) Order 1961, SI 1961/2047; the Evidence (Grenada) Order 1966, SI 1966/82; the Evidence (Hong Kong) Order 1962, SI 1962/642; the Evidence (Jamaica) Order 1962, SI 1962/643; the Evidence (Italy) Order 1969, SI 1969/145; the Evidence (Kenya) Order 1965, SI 1965/1712; the Evidence (Luxembourg) Order 1972, SI 1972/116; the Evidence (Mauritius) Order 1961, SI 1961/2048; the Evidence (Montserrat) Order 1962, SI

1962/644; the Evidence (the Netherlands) Order 1970, SI 1970/284; the Evidence (New Zealand) Order 1959, SI 1959/1306; the Evidence (Republic of Ireland) Order 1969, SI 1969/1059; the Evidence (St Helena) Order 1961, SI 1961/2049; the Evidence (St Lucia) Order 1965, SI 1965/1721; the Evidence (Sarawak) Order 1961, SI 1961/2050; the Evidence (Seychelles) Order 1962, SI 1962/2608; the Evidence (Sierra Leone) Order 1962, SI 1962/2609; the Evidence (Swaziland) Order 1965, SI 1965/1865; the Evidence (Tanganyika) Order 1961, SI 1961/2051; the Evidence (Turks and Caicos Islands) Order 1966, SI 1966/83; the Evidence (Uganda) Order 1961, SI 1961/2052; the Evidence (United States of America) Order 1969, SI 1969/146; and the Evidence (Zanzibar) Order 1961, SI 1961/2053.

2 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

3 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2)(a). In matrimonial proceedings, one of the effects of these orders is that expert evidence is not normally required to establish the validity of marriages in the countries to which they apply: see North v North and Ogden (1936) 105 LJP 56. Expert evidence may still be necessary, however, if the particular certificate is excluded from the terms of the particular order: Motture v Motture [1955] 3 All ER 242n, [1955] 1 WLR 1066 (certificate of marriage issued more than 12 months before it was sought to be put in evidence outside the terms of the order, and expert evidence required).

As to the need to adduce expert evidence in proving a foreign marriage see PARA 921.

4 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2)(b).

5 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2)(c).

6 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2)(d).

7 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(2)(e). 'Legalisation' is a term used to describe the sequence of signatures of certain officials, eg notaries, magistrates or consuls, authenticating each other.

8 Evidence (Foreign, Dominion and Colonial Documents) Act 1933 s 1(3). The operation of s 1 is not affected by anything in the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see s 14(3)(d).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/H. COURT ROLLS/924. Manorial documents.

H. COURT ROLLS

924. Manorial documents.

Court rolls¹ were admissible at common law in proceedings between the lord and tenants of a manor², for example to prove a custom³, or the non-existence of a custom⁴, or as evidence of reputation⁵, or acts of ownership⁶, or other facts concerning the manor⁷. Such court rolls may now be admitted, in civil cases, as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁸, as may other manorial documents⁹ formerly admissible at common law¹⁰.

1 As to court rolls see CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 700 et seq.

2 A-G v Lord Hotham (1823) Turn & R 209; Duke of Portland v Hill (1866) LR 2 Eq 765; Heath v Deane [1905] 2 Ch 86; cf Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737.

3 Roe d Beebee v Parker (1792) 5 Term Rep 26. Cf Denn v Spray (1786) 1 Term Rep 466; Rogers v Allen (1808) 1 Camp 309; Doe d Askew v Askew (1809) 10 East 520.

4 Duke of Portland v Hill (1866) LR 2 Eq 765 (customary of manor compiled since the beginning of legal memory is conclusive evidence against existence of custom not mentioned therein).

5 Chapman v Cowlan (1810) 13 East 10; Coote v Ford (1900) 17 TLR 58. Cf Johnstone v Earl Spencer (1885) 30 ChD 581; Re Walton-cum-Trimley Manor, ex p Tomline (1873) 21 WR 475. However, an entry is not admissible as evidence of reputation if it was made after the dispute arose: Richards v Bassett (1830) 10 B & C 657. Evidence of reputation is in some cases admissible by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3): see PARAS 827-830.

6 A-G v Emerson [1891] AC 649, HL; Woolway v Rowe (1834) 1 Ad & El 114; Rogers v Allen (1808) 1 Camp 309. As to ancient documents as acts of ownership see PARA 875.

7 Eg descriptions of tenants' holdings, and statements of amount of rent paid: see Foljambe v Smith's Tadcaster Brewery Co (1904) 73 LJ Ch 722.

8 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 2-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

9 Eg 'call books' of a manor (Foljambe v Smith's Tadcaster Brewery Co (1904) 73 LJ Ch 722); customaries of a manor (Denn v Spray (1786) 1 Term Rep 466; Duke of Portland v Hill (1866) LR 2 Eq 765); a copy of an admittance (Dean and Chapter of Ely v Stewart (1740) 2 Atk 44); parchment writings and draft documents produced from the manor muniments (Chapman v Cowlan (1810) 13 East 10; Doe d Priestley v Calloway (1827) 6 B & C 484). Certain other documents, not formerly admissible, may now be admitted by virtue of the same provisions, if the requirements of those provisions are satisfied; eg books kept by the steward of a manor (Dean and Chapter of Ely v Caldecott (1831) 7 Bing 433); or a private survey of manor land purporting to record the lord's rights (Talbot v Lewis (1834) 4 LJ Ex 9).

10 See note 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/H. COURT ROLLS/925. Proving court rolls.

925. Proving court rolls.

Court rolls, whether before or after the extinguishment of manorial incidents¹, are deemed for certain purposes of the Evidence Act 1851² to be documents of such a public nature as to be admissible on their mere production from proper custody³. Thus their contents may be proved by an examined or certified copy⁴. Copies of the court rolls under the hand of the steward have been accepted as good secondary evidence of the former copyhold estate⁵, as have sworn copies⁶.

A copy of a court roll of a surrender or grant made out of court, or the entry on the court roll itself of any surrender or grant, whether made in or out of court, is admissible in evidence irrespective of whether or not the principal instrument was stamped⁷.

1 le under the Law of Property Act 1922 s 128 (repealed): see REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 31 et seq.

2 le for the purposes of the Evidence Act 1851 s 14: see PARA 884.

3 Law of Property Act 1922 s 144. At common law they could be proved by the deputy steward, even if not signed by the steward: Bridger v Huett (1860) 2 F & F 35.

4 See PARA 884. As to the care and preservation of manorial documents and the right of certain persons to inspect them see CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 701-702.

5 Snow v Cutler and Stanly (1663) 1 Keb 567; Doe d Cawthorn v Mee (1833) 4 B & Ad 617. Cf Duke of Somerset v France (1725) Fortes Rep 41. As to copyhold enfranchisement see REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 31 et seq.

6 Breeze v Hawker (1844) 14 Sim 350. Where secondary evidence of court rolls was given, the court used to require evidence of enjoyment of the estate shown by the copy: see Pilkington v Bagshaw (1655) Sty 450. As to secondary evidence of documents generally see PARA 878 et seq.

7 See CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 704.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/I. RECORD BOOKS/926. Excise survey books.

I. RECORD BOOKS

926. Excise survey books.

Survey books in which surveying officers of revenue and customs record particulars of accounts of stock taken by them on visits to traders' premises are documents of a public nature, and as such are admissible in proof of the facts stated in them by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹. Documents purporting to be original excise entries produced to the court by an officer of revenue and customs are sufficient evidence of the making of the entries until the contrary is proved², and as regards the Crown are conclusive against the persons making the entries³.

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b); and PARA 821; and see R v Grimwood (1815) 1 Price 369 (excise books); Dunbar v Harvie (1820) 2 Bligh 351 (excise books).

2 See the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 110; and CUSTOMS AND EXCISE vol 12(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 629.

3 Ellis v Watson (1819) 2 Stark 478 (customs house books).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/I. RECORD BOOKS/927. Log books of ships and of aircraft.

927. Log books of ships and of aircraft.

The log book of a warship is admissible to prove the facts stated in it¹. Entries made in official log books of merchant vessels in the manner provided by statute² are admissible in evidence; so also is any document purporting to be a copy of any such entry, and to be certified as a true copy by the master of the ship³. The other log books of a merchant vessel may be admissible⁴ as evidence for the owner of the vessel, and they may be used as evidence against him by the opposing party in litigation⁵. A witness, however, is allowed to look at a log book to refresh his memory, even though it was not written by himself, provided he was in the habit of regularly examining it⁶.

Any record made by, or by a person acting under the control of, a designated person or authority and purporting to show the position of an aircraft at any material time or the terms or contents of any message transmitted to or received from the aircraft is, if produced from the custody of the designated person or authority, evidence in any legal proceedings of the matters appearing from the record⁷.

1 D'Israeli v Jowett (1795) 1 Esp 427, where the log book of a man-of-war was admitted to prove the time of sailing of a ship convoyed by her. See also Watson v King (1815) 4 Camp 272, where, besides the log book, the captain's official letter to the Admiralty at the end of the ship's voyage was admitted. See SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

2 For the requirement to keep log books see the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 77(1); and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 531.

3 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 287(1)(b); and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 94 (2008) PARA 1109.

4 Rundle v Beaumont (1828) 4 Bing 537; The Singapore and The Hebe (1866) LR 1 PC 378; cf The Sociedade Feliz (1843) 7 Jur 956.

5 The Singapore and The Hebe (1866) LR 1 PC 378; The Earl of Dumfries (1885) 10 PD 31; The Henry Coxon (1878) 3 PD 156; The Sandefjord [1953] 2 Lloyd's Rep 789.

6 The Sociedade Feliz (1843) 7 Jur 956; The Singapore and The Hebe (1866) LR 1 PC 378. See also SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

7 See the Civil Aviation Act 1982 s 96(2); and AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 617.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/I. RECORD BOOKS/928. Vehicle registration documents.

928. Vehicle registration documents.

Although the registration document or log book of a vehicle is not a document of title¹, it is very good evidence of it².

1 Central Newbury Car Auctions v Unity Finance Ltd [1957] 1 QB 371, [1956] 3 All ER 905, CA; Beverley Acceptances Ltd v Oakley [1982] RTR 417, CA; Woodard v Woodard [1995] 3 All ER 980, CA.

2 See Bentworth Finance Ltd v Lubert [1968] 1 QB 680, [1967] 2 All ER 810, CA; Bishopsgate Motor Finance Corp'n Ltd v Transport Brakes Ltd [1949] 1 KB 322, [1949] 1 All ER 37, CA; see also Pearson v Rose and Young Ltd [1951] 1 KB 275, [1950] 2 All ER 1027, CA. However, it is not admissible as a public document to prove the facts stated in it: R v Sealby [1965] 1 All ER 701. As to the vehicle registration document see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 531.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/929. Judgments and convictions; in general.

J. JUDICIAL RECORDS

929. Judgments and convictions; in general.

The conclusiveness of previous judgments, and the proof of convictions and of previous findings of adultery and paternity, are discussed elsewhere in this title¹.

¹ See PARA 1154 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/930. Claim forms and pleadings.

930. Claim forms and pleadings.

The statement on a claim form of the time of issue is conclusive evidence of the time of its issue¹. A claim form is issued on the date entered on the form by the court².

A writ of execution is prima facie evidence of the judgment as between parties and privies³, but not against strangers⁴.

Under the former civil procedure, pleadings recorded in one cause were admissible in evidence in subsequent proceedings to prove the institution and subject matter of that cause⁵, but were generally inadmissible⁶, even as against parties or privies, as proof of the truth of the facts stated in them⁷ and it is apprehended that the same common law principle applies to statements of case⁸ verified by a statement of truth under the Civil Procedure Rules⁹, although they may be admissible as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹⁰. Answers and decrees in Chancery, however, are admitted in peerage cases as evidence of matters of pedigree only incidentally stated in them, and statements made in the course of proceedings by a party upon oath may be admissible in other proceedings as admissions by the party making them¹¹, subject to the statutory safeguards relating to hearsay evidence¹².

1 Whipple v Manley (1836) 1 M & W 432.

2 See CPR 7.2(2); and PARA 118.

3 Doe d Batten v Murless (1817) 6 M & S 110; but see Doe d Bland v Smith (1817) 2 Stark 199. As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

4 White v Morris (1852) 11 CB 1015, disapproving Bessey v Windham (1844) 6 QB 166; and see Lake v Billers (1698) 1 Ld Raym 733; Martyn v Podger (1770) 5 Burr 2631; Ackworth v Kempe (1778) 1 Doug KB 40. As to writs of execution see PARA 1265 et seq.

5 Roe d Lord Trimlestown v Kemmis (1843) 9 Cl & Fin 749, HL; Boileau v Rutlin (1848) 2 Exch 665; Malcomson v O'Dea (1863) 10 HL Cas 593.

6 Formerly, it would seem, the law was different (Bull NP (7th Edn) 235); see Medcalfe and Ives v Medcalfe and Johnson (1737) 1 Atk 63; and Viscount Lorton v Earl of Kingston (1838) 5 Cl & Fin 269, HL.

7 Woollet v Roberts (1665) 1 Cas in Ch 64; Eccleston v Petty (alias Speke) (1689) Carth 79; Lord Ferres v Shirley (1731) Fitz-G 195; Doe d Bowerman v Sybourn (1796) 7 Term Rep 2; Miller v Johnson (1797) 2 Esp 602; Tomkins v Ashby (1827) Mood & M 32; Kilbee v Sneyd (1828) 2 Mol 186; R v Walker (1844) 1 Cox CC 99; Burkitt v Blanshard (1848) 3 Exch 89; Boileau v Rutlin (1848) 2 Exch 665; R v Simmonds (1850) 4 Cox CC 277; Re Foster, ex p Basan (1885) 2 Morr 29, CA; Re Walters, Neison v Walters (1889) 61 LT 872; Re Park, Park v Park [1954] P 89, [1953] 2 All ER 408; affd [1954] P 112, [1953] 2 All ER 1411, CA.

8 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1; and PARA 584 et seq.

9 As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32; and as to statements of truth see PARA 613.

10 See PARA 808 et seq.

11 Snow v Phillips (1664) 1 Sid 220; Mildmay v Mildmay (1682) 1 Vern 53; Grant v Jackson (1793) Peake 203; Beasley v McGrath (1804) 2 Sch & Lef 31; Doe d Digby v Steel (1811) 3 Camp 115; Wharton Peerage Case (1845) 12 Cl & Fin 295, HL; Marianski v Cairns (1852) 1 Macq 212, HL; Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1; Fleet v Perrins (1868) LR 3 QB 536; and see Taylor v Cole (1799) 7 Term Rep 3, note (a); Lyell v Kennedy (1889) 14 App Cas 437, HL.

12 The Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 9(2)(a) (repealed) preserved the common law rule whereby adverse admissions (as opposed to formal admissions: see PARAS 776-778) were admissible as an exception to the rule against hearsay; but this exception is not retained by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 so that such admissions are only admissible subject to the safeguards contained in ss 2-4 (see PARAS 811-815).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/931. Affidavits and witness statements.

931. Affidavits and witness statements.

At common law, an affidavit¹ made in one proceeding was admissible in evidence in a subsequent proceeding as proof of the facts stated in it, against the party who made the affidavit², or against the party on whose behalf it was made, on its being shown that he knowingly made use of it³.

A witness statement⁴ may generally be used only for the purpose of the proceedings in which it is served⁵, unless the witness gives consent in writing to some other use of it, the court⁶ gives permission for some other use or the witness statement has been put in evidence at a hearing held in public⁷.

Affidavits and witness statements are, subject to the above restrictions, now admissible as hearsay evidence in other proceedings under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 and subject to the statutory safeguards⁸.

1 As to evidence by affidavit see PARA 989 et seq.

2 R v Jolliffe (1791) 4 Term Rep 285; Brickell v Hulse (1837) 7 Ad & El 454; Pritchard v Bagshawe (1851) 11 CB 459.

3 Johnson v Ward (1806) 6 Esp 47; Gardner v Moul (1839) 10 Ad & El 464; White v Dowling (1845) 8 ILR 128; Richards v Morgan (1863) 4 B & S 641; Campbell v Rothwell (1877) 38 LT 33; Simmons v London Joint Stock Bank (1890) 62 LT 427. The same principle of admissibility did not, however, apply to oral testimony given on behalf of a party in other proceedings: see British Thomson-Houston Co Ltd v British Insulated and Helsby Cables Ltd [1924] 1 Ch 203; affd [1924] 2 Ch 160, CA. As to the use of an affidavit in family proceedings see eg C v C (evidence: privilege) [2001] EWCA Civ 469, [2002] Fam 42, [2001] 1 FCR 756 (in proceedings relating to a child's welfare, the mother could make use of affidavit evidence by her husband's former solicitors in support of their application to be removed from the record because it showed that he had used grossly indecent, obscene and menacing language to them).

4 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1

5 CPR 32.12(1). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 CPR 32.12(2).

8 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/932. Statements of affairs prepared for the purposes of insolvency proceedings.

932. Statements of affairs prepared for the purposes of insolvency proceedings.

In any proceedings, whether or not under the Insolvency Act 1986, a statement of affairs prepared for certain purposes of the 1986 Act¹ and any other statement made in pursuance of certain statutory requirements² may be used in evidence against any person making or concurring in making the statement³. This is subject to safeguards in the case of criminal proceedings⁴.

1 le for the purposes of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 which is derived from the Insolvency Act 1985 (repealed): Insolvency Act 1986 s 433(1) (numbered as such by the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 59, Sch 3 para 7(1), (2)). See the Insolvency Act 1986 ss 272, 288, 291(4), 333(1); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARAS 252, 244, 243, 345 respectively. See also ss 2(3)(b), 22(1), 47(1), 66(1), 95(3), 131(3); and COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

2 le requirements imposed by or under any such provision as is mentioned in note 1 or by or under rules made under the Insolvency Act 1986: s 433(1) (as renumbered: see note 1). See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 6.41, 6.66, 6.72; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARAS 159, 251, 255 respectively. See also COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 433(1) (as renumbered: see note 1).

4 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 433(2), (3); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 786; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/933. Reports.

933. Reports.

In some cases a report is admissible as evidence of the facts stated in it, when it is a public document¹ made by a public officer on an inquiry of a judicial or quasi-judicial nature². Thus certain early reports of the Charity Commissioners³, reports of the official receiver⁴, and reports of British consular officers, who are not available in the United Kingdom, as to the employment of young persons abroad⁵, are expressly made admissible by statute.

The report of inspectors appointed by the Department of Trade and Industry to investigate the affairs of a company is not the result of an inquiry in the nature of a judicial inquiry, but a copy of the report, certified by the Secretary of State to be a true copy, is admissible in any legal proceedings as evidence of the opinion of the inspectors in relation to any matter contained in the report, and, in proceedings on an application for a disqualification order under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986⁶, as evidence of any fact stated in the report⁷.

1 As to public documents and the principles governing admissibility see PARA 821.

2 For examples of inquiries of a judicial or quasi-judicial nature made by public officers see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW.

3 See the Charities Act 1993 s 93(2); and CHARITIES vol 8 (2010) PARA 595.

4 See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.9(3); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 794.

5 See the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 s 26(4); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 779.

6 In an application under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 8: see COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARAS 1113, 1299.

7 See the Companies Act 1985 s 441 (amended by the Insolvency Act 1985 ss 109, 235, Sch 6 para 3, Sch 9 Pt II; the Insolvency Act 1986 s 439(1), Sch 13 Pt I; and the Companies Act 1989 s 61); and COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1555. See also Re David M Aaron (Personal Financial Planners), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Aaron [2007] All ER (D) 32 (Jun).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/934. Previous proceedings.

934. Previous proceedings.

Evidence given in previous proceedings is admissible in subsequent proceedings as hearsay evidence subject to the statutory safeguards contained in the Civil Evidence Act 1995¹. Affidavits and witness statements in previous proceedings are discussed elsewhere in this title².

A party to whom a document has been disclosed³ may use the document only for the purpose of the proceedings in which it is disclosed, except where (1) the document has been read to or by the court⁴, or referred to, at a hearing which has been held in public⁵; (2) the court gives permission⁶; or (3) the party who disclosed the document and the person to whom the document belongs agree⁷.

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

2 See PARA 931.

3 As to disclosure see generally PARA 963; and see further PARA 538 et seq.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 31.22(1)(a). As to when a hearing may be held in private see generally COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; PARA 6.

6 CPR 31.22(1)(b); and see eg Chase v News Group Newspapers [2002] EWHC 1101 (QB), [2002] All ER (D) 522 (May).

7 CPR 31.22(1)(c). See further PARA 553.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/935. Depositions.

935. Depositions.

A deposition is evidence obtained from a person who is examined on oath by order of the court before a hearing takes place¹. Various enactments have made depositions admissible in evidence. For example, there are provisions as to the use of depositions taken under legislation relating to matrimonial causes², merchant shipping³ and offences committed on aircraft⁴.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, a party may apply for an order for a person to be examined before the hearing takes place⁵. The procedure on such an application and the conduct of such examinations is discussed elsewhere in this title⁶. A deposition may be given in evidence at a hearing unless the court⁷ orders otherwise⁸ but there are restrictions on the subsequent use of a deposition taken for the purpose of any hearing except the trial⁹.

1 See CPR 34.8(2); and PARA 992.

2 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.29; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 838.

3 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 286; and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 94 (2008) PARA 1108.

4 See the Civil Aviation Act 1982 s 95; and AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 618.

5 CPR 34.8(1). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

6 See PARA 992 et seq.

7 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

8 CPR 34.11(1). As to the use of a deposition at a hearing see further PARA 998.

9 See CPR 34.12; and PARA 999.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/936. Proof of proceedings in superior courts.

936. Proof of proceedings in superior courts.

Judgments of the House of Lords are proved by an examined copy of the minutes¹ or by a printed copy of the Lords Journals².

Records and other judicial documents³ of the old Superior Courts of Law and Equity are proved in the same way as records of the Supreme Court⁴. Judicial proceedings in the Supreme Court may be proved by production of the original record⁵ or by office or other copies⁶. To prove that an action was pending and was tried as alleged in an indictment for perjury, a copy of the writ and pleadings properly filed and the original order dismissing the action have been admitted on their production by the officer of the court⁷.

1 Jones v Randall (1774) 1 Cowp 17.

2 See PARA 890. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

3 This includes answers in Chancery (Ewer v Ambrose (1825) 4 B & C 25; Highfield v Peake (1827) Mood & M 109); depositions (Duncan v Scott (1807) 1 Camp 100); rules of court (Selby v Harris (1698) 1 Ld Raym 745). In some cases ancient judicial proceedings have been admitted without being strictly proved: see Beverley Corpn v Craven (1838) 2 Mood & R 140; Byam v Booth (1816) 2 Price 231; Bayley v Wylie (1806) 6 Esp 85.

4 See the text and notes 5-7. In the case of other old courts, such as the old Court of Admiralty, the ecclesiastical courts, and the Court of Stannaries, judicial documents may, it seems, be proved by exemplifications or by examined copies, but not now by office copies: see R v Haines (1695) Comb 337. Such common law categories of appropriately proved judicial records are now admissible under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(c): see PARA 822. The Lord Chancellor is responsible for public records: see the Public Records Act 1958 s 1(1). As to proof of documents in his custody see PARA 887. Where the record is lost a certified copy of the entry in the judgment book will be admitted: Re Tollemache, ex p Anderson (1885) 14 QBD 606, CA. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

5 The permission of the court is required before any document filed, lodged or held in any office of the Supreme Court may be taken out unless the document is to be sent to the office of another court, except in accordance with CPR 39.7 (impounded documents), or after an application in accordance with the prescribed procedure: see Practice Direction--Court Documents PD 5A para 5.5; and PARA 85. In the case of a judgment it is necessary to produce the complete record or a copy of it, not merely the minutes: Godefroy v Jay (1827) 3 C & P 192. Cf King v Birch (1842) 3 QB 425; R v Smith (1828) 8 B & C 341. See also White v Cox (1876) 2 ChD 387. As to the caution to be used in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

6 See PARAS 885-888. It seems that the original must be produced if issue has been joined on an allegation that there is no such record: see 2 Taylor's Law of Evidence (12th Edn) 974.

7 R v Scott (1877) 2 QBD 415. The fact of a trial on indictment may be proved by certificate: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE. As to the proof of convictions and of findings of adultery and paternity see PARAS 1208-1211.

UPDATE

936 Proof of proceedings in superior courts

NOTES 2, 4--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/937. Proof of other proceedings.

937. Proof of other proceedings.

The proceedings of a county court are proved either by the district judge's records or by a certified copy of an entry in them¹. At the hearing of any proceedings in a county court in which there is a right of appeal or from which an appeal may be brought with leave, the judge must, at the request of any party, make a note of any question of law raised at the hearing, of the facts in evidence in relation to any such question and of his decision on any such question and of his determination of the proceedings².

The trial and conviction or acquittal of any person charged with an indictable offence may be proved by various methods which are discussed elsewhere in this work³. There are special provisions relating to the proof of proceedings in magistrates' courts⁴ and a certificate of dismissal of a complaint of assault and battery given by justices is evidence of such dismissal⁵.

The original proceedings of a court-martial purporting to be signed by the president of the court and being in the custody of the Judge Advocate General or of any person having lawful custody of it are admissible in evidence on production from that custody⁶.

In bankruptcy proceedings, where notice of a court order is required⁷ to be gazetted, a copy of the London Gazette containing the notice may in any proceedings be produced as conclusive evidence that the order was made on the date specified in the notice⁸.

Judgments of inferior courts⁹ are proved by the production of the minute book containing an entry of the judgment¹⁰ or by the notes or parol evidence of an officer of the court when no such entry exists¹¹.

The proof of orders of statutory tribunals is generally provided for in the legislation constituting the tribunal. For example, the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988 provides that a document purporting to be a copy of an order of the Copyright Tribunal and to be certified by the chairman to be a true copy is, in any proceedings, to be sufficient evidence of the order unless the contrary is proved¹².

1 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 12(2) (amended by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 125(3), Sch 18 para 42); PARA 60; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 729. The permission of the court is required before any document filed, lodged in or held in any county court office may be taken out unless the document is to be sent to the office of another court, except in accordance with CPR 39.7 (impounded documents), or after an application in accordance with the prescribed procedure: see Practice Direction--Court Documents PD 5 para 5.5; and PARA 85.

2 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 80(1); and PARAS 279, 1679. On appeal the judge's note cannot be impeached by affidavit, shorthand note or otherwise, but the court may, it seems, use extraneous evidence to supplement it or to explain any ambiguity: Huddleston v Furness Rly Co (1899) 15 TLR 238, CA. If there is no note its absence must be explained (Lumb v Teal & Co (1889) 22 QBD 675, DC), and may be a ground for a new trial (Re Chertsey RDC and Binns (1905) 49 Sol Jo 223, DC). As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

3 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES; ROAD TRAFFIC; SENTENCING. As to the proof of the outcome of the trial of a person subject to military or air force law by a civil court see the Army Act 1955 s 199; the Air Force Act 1955 s 199; and ARMED FORCES.

4 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

5 See the Offences against the Person Act 1861 s 44 (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 170(1), (2), (11), Sch 15 paras 2, 3, Sch 16 note 1; and the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), (3), Sch 8 paras 41, 43, Sch 10); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES. Dismissal may be proved otherwise than by certificate: R v Hutchins (1880) 5 QBD 353.

6 See the Army Act 1955 s 200; the Air Force Act 1955 s 200; and ARMED FORCES. See also PARA 920.

7 See under the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925: see generally BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY.

8 See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.20(2); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 787.

9 Eg a former sheriff's court (Arundell v White (1811) 14 East 216); a court baron (Dyson v Wood (1824) 3 B & C 449); the former Mayor's Court (Fisher v Lane (1772) 2 Wm Bl 834); a manor court (Dawson v Gregory (1845) 7 QB 756). As to the abolition of many of the former local courts and the removal of jurisdiction from most of those remaining see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 853-854.

10 See the cases cited in note 9.

11 See Dyson v Wood (1824) 3 B & C 449; Manning v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1843) 12 M & W 237.

12 See the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988 s 151(2); and COPYRIGHT, DESIGN RIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 222.

UPDATE

937 Proof of other proceedings

NOTES 3, 6--Army Act 1955 and Air Force Act 1955 replaced: Armed Forces Act 2006.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iii) Particular Public or Official Documents/J. JUDICIAL RECORDS/938. Proof of arbitrator's award.

938. Proof of arbitrator's award.

An award is proved by the production and proof of execution of the award, which should be signed by all the arbitrators (when there is more than one)¹, and by the production of the arbitration agreement itself²; and, where the award is made by an umpire, of the appointment of the umpire³. Where the award is made in a reference under a court order, production of the award and the order is prima facie evidence of the validity of the award⁴. In the case of an award made under statute by a public officer, the validity of the award is presumed⁵ unless it is proved that subsequent usage has not been in accordance with the award⁶, or that the award was made without jurisdiction. In the latter case, even though the relevant Act provides that the award is to be conclusive evidence that all the relevant statutory directions have been complied with, the award will not be conclusive as to matters which the public officer had no jurisdiction to determine⁷.

In the case of an arbitration award to which the Arbitration Act 1996 applies, and unless otherwise agreed by the parties, where the seat of the arbitration is in England and Wales or Northern Ireland, any award in the proceedings is treated as made there, regardless of where it was signed, despatched or delivered to any of the parties⁸. A New York Convention award must be recognised as binding on the persons as between whom it was made, and may accordingly be relied on by those persons by way of defence, set-off or otherwise in any legal proceedings in England and Wales or Northern Ireland⁹.

1 See the Arbitration Act 1996 s 52(3). It is not apparently essential for the award to be so signed: Hammond and Grantham's Arbitration [1964] NZLR 976. See further ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1263. If the arbitration agreement empowers less than the full number to make the award, execution by all is unnecessary, provided all were given the opportunity of executing: White v Sharp (1844) 12 M & W 712; Wright v Graham (1848) 3 Exch 131; Re Beck and Jackson (1857) 1 CBNS 695; but cf Berney v Read (1845) 7 QB 79 and Re Beck and Jackson (1857) 1 CBNS 695.

2 The arbitration agreement need not, it seems, be signed by the parties; it is sufficient if it is acted upon, and thereby adopted: see ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARAS 1213, 1263. A claim for enforcement of the award must, where the application is made under the Arbitration Act 1996 s 66 or under the Arbitration Act 1950 s 26 (repealed), be supported by written evidence exhibiting the arbitration agreement and the original award (or copies): see CPR 62.18(6)(a), (c); and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1275.

3 Still v Halford (1814) 4 Camp 17. Enlargement of time, if any, must be proved by affidavit, for on an application to enforce an award a statement in the award that the time was enlarged is not sufficient: see Davis v Vass (1812) 15 East 97. As to the time for making an award and the mode of enlarging time see ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARAS 1220-1221.

4 Gisborne v Hart (1839) 5 M & W 50; see Dresser v Stansfield (1845) 14 M & W 822.

5 Doe d Roberts v Mostyn (1852) 12 CB 268; Williams v Eyton (1859) 4 H & N 357; cf Doe d Nanney v Gore (1837) 2 M & W 320.

6 R v Haslingfield Inhabitants (1814) 2 M & S 558; cf Manning v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1843) 12 M & W 237.

7 Jacomb v Turner [1892] 1 QB 47.

8 See the Arbitration Act 1996 s 53; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1264.

9 See the Arbitration Act 1996 s 101(1); and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1290.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iv) Books and Records of Banks, Companies and Corporations/939. Examined copies of entries in bankers' books.

(iv) Books and Records of Banks, Companies and Corporations

939. Examined copies of entries in bankers' books.

As a general rule a bank cannot be compelled to produce its books without an order of the court in any case to which it is not a party, but may instead allow examined copies of entries in those books to be made¹. 'Bankers' books' for these purposes include ledgers, day books, cash books, account books and other records used in the ordinary business of the bank, whether those records are in written form or are kept on microfilm, magnetic tape or any other form of mechanical or electronic data retrieval mechanism².

1 See the Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 907 et seq, where the subject of production, inspection and admissibility of bankers' books is discussed.

2 Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879 s 9(2) (substituted by the Banking Act 1979 s 51(1), Sch 6 paras 1, 13).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(iv) Books and Records of Banks, Companies and Corporations/940. Books and records of companies and corporations.

940. Books and records of companies and corporations.

The official books of a corporation are admissible to prove the public acts of a corporation, provided that they were kept publicly as the corporation books¹, and that the entries were made by the proper officer².

Particular statutes provide for the admissibility in evidence of the books of companies³, the minutes of meetings of local authorities⁴, extracts from the minutes of meetings of the managers or governors of certain schools, and documents issued by local education authorities⁵. A document which purports to be a copy of a resolution, order or report of a local authority or a precursor of a local authority or the minutes of the proceedings at a meeting of such an authority and which bears a certificate purporting to be signed by the proper officer of the authority and stating that the resolution was passed or the order or report was made by the authority on the date specified in the certificate, or that the minutes were signed in accordance with the statutory requirements⁶, is to be evidence in any proceedings of the matters stated in the certificate and of the terms of the resolution, order, report or minutes in question⁷.

1 Warden etc of Mercers etc of Shrewsbury v Hart (1823) 1 C & P 113.

2 R v Mothersell (1718) 1 Stra 93; and see CORPORATIONS. Such documents, formerly admissible at common law, are now admissible in civil cases by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(b): see PARA 821. Statements in such documents relating to private matters may be receivable as hearsay evidence subject to the provisions of ss 1-4: see PARA 808 et seq; and see eg Hill v Manchester and Salford Water Works Co (1833) 5 B & Ad 866; Rennie v Clarke (1850) 5 Exch 292 (statements admitted under the former common law exception with regard to admissions, not preserved by the 1995 Act).

3 See generally COMPANIES.

4 See the text and notes 6-7. A photographic copy of a document in the custody of a local authority is generally admissible in evidence to the like extent as the original: see the Local Government Act 1972 s 229; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 540.

5 See generally EDUCATION.

6 Ie in accordance with the requirements of the Local Government Act 1972 s 99, Sch 12 para 41 or the corresponding provision specified in the certificate of the enactments relating to local government which were in force when the minutes were signed: Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 41(1).

7 Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 41(1). A document which purports to be a copy of an instrument by which the proper officer of a local authority appointed a person to be an officer of the authority or authorised a person to perform functions specified in the instrument and which bears the appropriate certificate is to be evidence in any proceedings of the fact that the instrument was made by that officer and of the terms of the instrument: see s 41(3). Corresponding provision is made in relation to an authority in England which is operating executive arrangements, as regards a document purporting to be a copy of a record of any decision made by the executive or a member of that executive or by any person acting on behalf of that executive: see s 41(2A) (added, in relation to England, by SI 2001/2237 and, in relation to Wales by SI 2002/808; and amended by the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 s 237(3)). See further LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 575.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(v) Histories, Scientific Works, Maps and Dictionaries/941. Histories.

(v) Histories, Scientific Works, Maps and Dictionaries

941. Histories.

Accredited public histories are admissible¹ in evidence to prove ancient facts of a public, but not of a private or local, nature²; and standard authors may be referred to as showing the opinions of eminent persons upon particular subjects, but not to prove facts³. Speed's Chronicle has been admitted to prove the date of decease of an English queen⁴, and Collier's Ecclesiastical History, Hooker's Polity, and other authoritative historical and theological works, to prove matters of church doctrine and usage⁵; while the Chronicles of Stowe and Dugdale have been rejected in proof of the creation of a peerage⁶, Camden's Britannia in proof of a local custom to sink salt pits⁷, and a county history in proof of a county boundary⁸.

1 The works mentioned in this paragraph, and in PARAS 942-944, were admissible at common law as an exception to the rule against hearsay; in civil cases they are now admissible by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(2)(a): see PARA 820.

2 See St Katherine's Hospital Case (1671) 1 Vent 149, where a chronicle was admitted to prove a particular point in the history of Edward III's reign; Neal v Fry (1684) cited in 1 Salk 281, where histories were referred to for the date at which Philip of Spain assumed his titles; Evans v Getting (1834) 6 C & P 586, where the old authorities are collected; and see Fowke v Berington[1914] 2 Ch 308.

3 Darby v Ouseley (1856) 1 H & N 1.

4 Lord Brounker v Atkyns (1681) Skin 14; and see Lord Bridgwater's Case (prior to 1681) cited in Skin 15, HL.

5 Read v Bishop of Lincoln[1892] AC 644, PC; Ridsdale v Clifton (1877) 2 PD 276, PC; A-G v Gould (1860) 28 Beav 485.

6 Vaux Peerage (1837) 5 Cl & Fin 526.

7 Stainer v Burgesses of Droitwich (1695) 1 Salk 281.

8 See Evans v Getting (1834) 6 C & P 586 ('This is a history of Brecknockshire. The writer of that history probably had the same interest in enlarging the boundaries of the county as any other inhabitant of it. It is not like a general history of Wales').

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(v) Histories, Scientific Works, Maps and Dictionaries/942. Scientific works.

942. Scientific works.

Scientific books and records are admissible as evidence of facts of a public nature stated in them¹. Thus, actuarial tables were admitted to show the average duration of life at a particular age, proof having been given that they were generally accepted as authoritative by insurance companies²; the British Pharmacopoeia³ as evidence of the recognised standard for drugs⁴; the Almanac annexed to the Book of Common Prayer as evidence of the matters contained in it⁵; an engineer's reports as to a past state of facts not within living memory, accepted by engineers as accurate, have been admitted on the same principle as historical works⁶; and for some purposes specifications of patents from the records of the Patent Office have been admitted⁷.

1 Eg maps and surveys made by persons of repute in that connection on questions of public rights: R v Norfolk County Council (1910) 26 TLR 269. See also PARA 941 note 1.

2 Rowley v London and North Western Rly Co (1873) LR 8 Exch 221 (Carlisle Tables). As to the admissibility of the Ogden Tables see PARA 818.

3 As to the British Pharmacopoeia see MEDICINAL PRODUCTS AND DRUGS vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 149.

4 Dickins v Randerson [1901] 1 KB 437, DC.

5 Tutton v Darke (1860) 5 H & N 647.

6 East London Rly Co v Thames Conservators (1904) 90 LT 347. The reports in question were those of Brunel as to the making of the Thames Tunnel in 1824.

7 Clark v Adie (No 2) (1877) 2 App Cas 423, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(v) Histories, Scientific Works, Maps and Dictionaries/943. Maps.

943. Maps.

Public maps, generally offered for public sale, have been admitted to show matters of general geographical notoriety, such as the relative situations of towns or counties¹. Ordnance Survey maps are admissible to show what physical features the persons employed to make the survey did or did not see at the time of the survey², but not as evidence of title or right³.

1 R v Orton (1873) and R v Jameson (1896) cited in Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence (12th Edn) 56; see also North Staffordshire Rly Co v Hanley Corpn (1909) 73 JP 477, CA; and see PARAS 902, 942 note 1, 954 (private maps). As to the admissibility of maps and plans as evidence of a highway or footpath see PARA 955.

2 A-G v Antrobus [1905] 2 Ch 188; A-G and Croydon RDC v Moorsom-Roberts (1907) 72 JP 123; A-G v Meyrick and Jones (1915) 79 JP 515. The court may take notice of the practice of the Ordnance Survey as at least prima facie evidence of what a line on a map indicates: see Davey v Harrow Corpn [1958] 1 QB 60, [1957] 2 All ER 305, CA.

3 See BOUNDARIES; and see Bidder v Bridges (1885) 34 WR 514; Meacher v Blair-Oliphant 1913 SC 417. For a similar rule in respect of the Irish Survey see Swift v M'Tiernan (1848) 11 I Eq R 602; Tisdall v Parnell (1863) 14 ICLR 1. See also Caton v Hamilton (1889) 53 JP 504, which, however, seems of doubtful authority.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(v) Histories, Scientific Works, Maps and Dictionaries/944. Dictionaries.

944. Dictionaries.

Dictionaries of good reputation¹, whether of a general² or technical³ character, are receivable in order to inform the court's mind in ascertaining the ordinary meaning of words used in Acts of Parliament⁴, wills⁵ and other instruments⁶, but the court is not bound by any definitions or illustrations to be found in dictionaries⁷, nor is a dictionary authority on the meaning of a word peculiar to mercantile usage⁸.

1 Re Rayner, Rayner v Rayner [1904] 1 Ch 176, CA. The dictionary must be well known and authoritative: Marquis of Camden v IRC [1914] 1 KB 641, CA.

2 Eg Johnson (Taylor v Smetten (1883) 11 QBD 207; Barclay v Pearson [1893] 2 Ch 154), the Oxford English Dictionary (Willis v Young and Stembridge [1907] 1 KB 448; Yangtze Insurance Association v Indemnity Mutual Marine Assurance Co [1908] 2 KB 504, CA), Richardson (Homer v Homer (1878) 8 ChD 758, CA; R v Tomlinson [1895] 1 QB 706, CCR), Webster (Taylor v Smetten (1883) 11 QBD 207; Barclay v Pearson [1893] 2 Ch 154).

3 Eg Blount's Law Dictionary (Marchioness of Blandford v Dowager Duchess of Marlborough (1743) 2 Atk 542); Stroud's Judicial Dictionary (Lake v Simmons [1926] 1 KB 366); Wharton's Law Lexicon (Re Bright-Smith, Bright-Smith v Bright-Smith (1886) 31 ChD 314).

4 See Taylor v Smetten (1883) 11 QBD 207; R v Peters (1886) 16 QBD 636; Midland Rly Co and Kettering, Thrapston and Huntingdon Rly Co v Robinson (1889) 15 App Cas 19, HL; R v Tomlinson [1895] 1 QB 706; Wills v Young and Stembridge [1907] 1 KB 448; Marquis of Camden v IRC [1914] 1 KB 641, CA; and see generally STATUTES.

5 See Homer v Homer (1878) 8 ChD 758, CA; Re Bright-Smith, Bright-Smith v Bright-Smith (1886) 31 ChD 314; Re Rayner, Rayner v Rayner [1904] 1 Ch 176, CA; and see generally WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 488 et seq.

6 See Matthew v Purchins (1608) Cro Jac 203 (bond); Marchioness of Blandford v Dowager Duchess of Marlborough (1743) 2 Atk 542 (marriage settlement); Yangtze Insurance Association v Indemnity Mutual Marine Assurance Co [1908] 2 KB 504, CA, and Lake v Simmons [1926] 1 KB 366 (insurance policies).

7 Grieves v Rawley (1852) 10 Hare 63; Re Feeney, Inglis v Birmingham Corpn (1908) 24 TLR 314. On the question as to the meaning of a word in a statute, the court may consider that the opinions of illustrious judges are a safer guide: Midland Rly Co and Kettering, Thrapston and Huntingdon Rly Co v Robinson (1889) 15 App Cas 19, HL; and see PARA 788 note 6.

8 Houghton v Gilbert (1836) 7 C & P 701.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/A. LETTERS AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS/(A) Letters/945. Proof of posting.

(vi) Particular Private Documents

A. LETTERS AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS

(A) LETTERS

945. Proof of posting.

The posting of a letter may be proved by the person who posted it, or by showing facts from which posting may be presumed. Thus, evidence of posting may be given by proving that a letter was delivered to an employee who in the ordinary course of business would have posted it¹, or that it was put into a box which was cleared every day by the postman². The fact that a letter has been copied into a letter book is evidence against the person keeping the book that the letter was posted³.

The postmark on an envelope is prima facie evidence of the time and place of posting⁴, and the date which a letter bears is prima facie evidence of the date on which it was written⁵.

1 Trotter v Maclean(1879) 13 ChD 574; cf Pritt v Fairclough (1812) 3 Camp 305; and see Hetherington v Kemp (1815) 4 Camp 193. It is not sufficient to prove delivery to a clerk who might not post it unless instructed to do so: Toosey v Williams (1827) Mood & M 129; Rowlands v De Vecchi (1882) 9 Cab & El 10; Copin v Adamson(1874) LR 9 Exch 345; affd (1875) 1 ExD 17, CA. In a contested case it may be necessary to call the employee concerned, to prove his custom and its reliability: see eg Holwell Securities Ltd v Hughes[1973] 2 All ER 476, [1973] 1 WLR 757; on appeal [1974] 1 All ER 161, [1974] 1 WLR 155, CA.

2 Skilbeck v Garbett(1845) 7 QB 846. It does not suffice to prove delivery to a postman who has no authority to receive it: Re London and Northern Bank, ex p Jones[1900] 1 Ch 220.

3 Sturge v Buchanan (1839) 10 Ad & El 598.

4 Stocken v Collin (1841) 7 M & W 515; R v Johnson (1805) 7 East 65; R v Plumer (1814) Russ & Ry 264, CCR; Re London and Northern Bank, ex p Jones[1900] 1 Ch 220. In cases of dispute it may be necessary to call the person who made the postmark to prove its authenticity: Abbey v Lill (1829) 5 Bing 299; cf Woodcock v Houldsworth (1846) 16 M & W 124. As to postmarks see POST OFFICE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 103. Payment of compensation under the inland letter and parcel post schemes operated by the Post Office or the successor postal services company is dependent on the sender having obtained a certificate of posting from the appropriate Post Office officer or company employee: see POST OFFICE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 96.

5 Goodtitle d Baker v Milburn (1837) 2 M & W 853; cf Malpas v Clements (1850) 19 LJB 435; Morgan v Whitmore(1851) 6 Exch 716. A doubt as to this was expressed in Butler v Viscount Mountgarret (1859) 7 HL Cas 633. See also DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 193.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/A. LETTERS AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS/(A) Letters/946. Proof of delivery.

946. Proof of delivery.

Proof that a letter has been posted¹, and that it was prepaid², properly addressed, and not returned undelivered³, is evidence of its delivery⁴ in the ordinary course of post⁵.

In many cases provision is made by statute⁶ that the posting of a notice is sufficient⁷ or conclusive evidence of service of the notice⁸. In other cases, delivery of a document to a particular person may be inferred from proof that it was delivered to his employee⁹.

Part 6 of the Civil Procedure Rules makes provision regarding the service of documents in civil proceedings¹⁰. A document served by first class post or by document exchange is deemed to be served on the second day after it was posted or left with, delivered to or collected by the relevant service provider, as the case may be, provided that day is a business day or, if not, the next business day after that day¹¹.

¹ See PARA 945. As to the rule that a contract is accepted when the letter of acceptance is posted see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 676 et seq.

² Some statutory provisions require service of documents to be by prepaid letter: see Walthamstow UDC v Henwood [1897] 1 Ch 41.

³ See eg the Law of Property Act 1925 s 196(4) (amended by SI 2001/1149) which also requires the use of registered post.

⁴ The presumption thus raised may normally be rebutted: see eg Re Constantinople and Alexandria Hotel Co, Reidpath's Case (1870) LR 11 Eq 86; Holwell Securities Ltd v Hughes [1973] 2 All ER 476, [1973] 1 WLR 757; on appeal [1974] 1 All ER 161, [1974] 1 WLR 155, CA.

⁵ Kufh v Weston (1799) 3 Esp 54; Warren v Warren (1834) 1 Cr M & R 250; Dunlop v Higgins (1848) 1 HL Cas 381; Household Fire and Carriage Accident Insurance Co Ltd v Grant (1879) 4 Ex D 216, CA; Watts v Vickers Ltd (1916) 86 LJB 177, CA.

'Ordinary course of post' means the general course of post with regard to the delivery of letters to persons resident in the district: Kemp v Wanklyn [1894] 1 QB 583, CA. As to the publication of a libel addressed by post see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 65.

⁶ Where an Act passed after the year 1889 authorises or requires any document to be served by post (whether the expression 'serve' or the expression 'give' or 'send' or any other expression is used) then, unless the contrary intention appears, the service is deemed to be effected by properly addressing, pre-paying and posting a letter containing the document and, unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post: Interpretation Act 1978 s 7, Sch 2 para 3. Section 7 is in two parts, the first part dealing with what has to be done in order for service to be deemed to have been effected, and the second part, which may be rebutted by proof, dealing with the time when service is deemed to be effected: see R v London County Quarter Sessions Appeal Committee, ex p Rossi [1956] 1 QB 682 at 700, [1956] 1 All ER 670 at 681, CA; AS Cathrineholm v Norequipment Trading Ltd [1972] 2 QB 314, [1972] 2 All ER 538, CA (decided under earlier legislation). Thus, a notice is not deemed to be served at a particular time when the fact is known that it was not delivered at all: R v London County Quarter Sessions Appeal Committee, ex p Rossi [1956] 1 QB 682, [1956] 1 All ER 670, CA; Hewitt v Leicester Corp [1969] 2 All ER 802, [1969] 1 WLR 855, CA (letter returned marked 'gone away'). Cf Moody v Godstone RDC [1966] 2 All ER 696, [1966] 1 WLR 1085, DC (no reason to believe that letter had gone astray); Saga of Bond Street Ltd v Avalon Promotions Ltd [1972] 2 QB 325n, [1972] 2 All ER 545n, CA (letter returned marked 'not known' after judgment in default of appearance); Chiswell v Griffon Land and Estates Ltd [1975] 2 All ER 665, [1975] 1 WLR 1181, CA (letter lost in the post). See further STATUTES.

⁷ As to the effect of sufficient evidence see PARA 767. The Interpretation Act 1978 s 7 (see note 6) will usually apply in such cases.

8 R v Westminster Unions Assessment Committee, ex p Woodward & Sons [1917] 1 KB 832; and see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(c), (2), (3); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1028. As to the effect of conclusive evidence see PARA 767.

9 The inference may be made even though the employee was not specially authorised to accept the document: MacGregor v Keily (1849) 3 Exch 794; cf Tanham v Nicholson (1872) LR 5 HL 561.

10 See CPR Pt 6; and PARA 138 et seq.

11 See CPR 6.26; and PARA 151. A claim form served in accordance with CPR Pt 6 is deemed to be served on the second business day after completion of the relevant step after it has been issued: CPR 6.14. On the natural and ordinary meaning of the language of what is now CPR 6.26, Saturday and Sunday are not excluded from the calculation of the day of deemed service by first class post: Anderton v Clwyd County Council [2002] EWCA Civ 933, [2002] 3 All ER 813, [2002] 1 WLR 3174. The deemed day of service of a claim form is not rebuttable by evidence of actual receipt of the claim form by the defendant: Anderton v Clwyd County Council [2002] EWCA Civ 933, [2002] 3 All ER 813, [2002] 1 WLR 3174.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/A. LETTERS AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS/(B) Other Communications/947. Proof of faxes, emails and other electronic communications.

(B) OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

947. Proof of faxes, emails and other electronic communications.

Faxes and emails may be admitted as evidence in civil proceedings either as hearsay subject to the statutory safeguards¹ or as part of the records of a business or public authority².

Part 6 of the Civil Procedure Rules makes provision regarding the service of documents in civil proceedings³. A document served by facsimile ('fax'), if the transmission of the fax is completed on a business day before 4.30 pm, is deemed to be served on that day or, in any other case, on the next business day after the day on which it was transmitted. A document served by e-mail or any other electronic method, if the e-mail or other electronic transmission is sent on a business day before 4.30 pm, is deemed to be served on that day or, in any other case, on the next business day after the day on which it was sent⁴. Additionally, a practice direction may make provision for documents to be filed⁵ or sent to the court⁶ by fax or other electronic means⁷. Any such practice direction may (1) provide that only particular categories of documents may be filed or sent to the court by such means; (2) provide that particular provisions only apply in specific courts; and (3) specify the requirements that must be fulfilled for any document filed or sent to the court by such means⁸.

In many cases specific statutory provision is made for the service of notices by fax or email⁹.

Subject to the restrictions set out below¹⁰, the appropriate minister¹¹ may by order made by statutory instrument¹² modify the provisions of any enactment¹³ or subordinate legislation¹⁴, or any scheme, licence, authorisation or approval issued, granted or given by or under any enactment or subordinate legislation, in such manner as he may think fit for the purpose of authorising or facilitating the use of electronic communications¹⁵ or electronic storage, instead of other forms of communication or storage, for any of the following purposes¹⁶:

- 121 (a) the doing of anything¹⁷ which under any such provisions is required to be or may be done or evidenced in writing or otherwise using a document, notice or instrument;
- 122 (b) the doing of anything which under any such provisions is required to be or may be done by post or other specified means of delivery;
- 123 (c) the doing of anything which under any such provisions is required to be or may be authorised by a person's signature or seal, or is required to be delivered as a deed or witnessed;
- 124 (d) the making of any statement or declaration which under any such provisions is required to be made under oath or to be contained in a statutory declaration;
- 125 (e) the keeping, maintenance or preservation, for the purposes or in pursuance of any such provisions, of any account, record¹⁸, notice, instrument or other document;
- 126 (f) the provision, production or publication under any such provisions of any information or other matter;
- 127 (g) the making of any payment that is required to be or may be made under any such provisions¹⁹.

The appropriate minister must not, however, make such an order authorising the use of electronic communications or electronic storage for any purpose, unless he considers that the authorisation is such that the extent, if any, to which records of things done for that purpose will be available will be no less satisfactory in cases where use is made of electronic communications or electronic storage than in other cases²⁰. Furthermore, the matters in relation to which provision may be made by such an order do not include any matter under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs²¹.

The provision that may be made by such an order includes provision, in relation to cases in which the use of electronic communications or electronic storage is so authorised, for the determination of any of the following matters or as to the manner in which they may be proved in legal proceedings:

- 128 (i) whether a thing has been done using an electronic communication or electronic storage;
- 129 (ii) the time at which, or date on which, a thing done using any such communication or storage was done;
- 130 (iii) the place where a thing done using such communication or storage was done;
- 131 (iv) the person by whom such a thing was done; and
- 132 (v) the contents, authenticity²² or integrity²³ of any electronic data²⁴.

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9; and PARA 817.

3 See CPR Pt 6; and PARA 138 et seq.

4 See CPR 6.26; and PARA 151 heads (4)-(5) in the text.

5 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 2.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 CPR 5.5(1).

8 CPR 5.5(2). For the provision that has been made see Practice Direction--Electronic Communication and Filing of Documents PD 5B; and PARA 84.

9 See eg the Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/659, reg 40(1)(b); and RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 129; the Civil Aviation Authority Regulations 1991, SI 1991/1672, reg 31A(5)(d); and AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 94.

As to the publication of a libel by fax, e-mail or on the internet see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 65; and as to the offer and acceptance of a contract made by such means see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 683.

10 In subject to the Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(3): see the text and note 20.

11 For these purposes, 'appropriate minister' means (subject to the Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 9(2), (7), 10(1)): (1) in relation to any matter with which a department of the Secretary of State is concerned, the Secretary of State; (2) in relation to any matter with which the Treasury is concerned, the Treasury; and (3) in relation to any matter with which any government department other than a department of the Secretary of State or the Treasury is concerned, the minister in charge of the other department: s 9(1). Where in the case of any matter, that matter falls within more than one of heads (1)-(3), there is more than one such department as is mentioned in head (3) that is concerned with that matter, or both heads (1) and (2) apply, references, in relation to that matter, to the appropriate minister are references to any one or more of the appropriate ministers acting (in the case of more than one) jointly: s 9(2). In the case of any matter which is not one of the reserved matters within the meaning of the Scotland Act 1998 or in respect of which functions are, by virtue of s 63, exercisable by the Scottish ministers instead of by or concurrently with a minister of the Crown, the Electronic Communications Act 2000 ss 8, 9 apply to Scotland subject to the following modifications: (a) s 9(1), (2) are omitted; (b) any reference to the appropriate minister is to be read as a reference to the Secretary of State; (c) any power of the Secretary of State, by virtue of head (b), to make an order under s 8 may also be exercised by the Scottish ministers with the consent of the Secretary of State; and (d) where the Scottish ministers make an order under s 8, any reference to the Secretary of State (other than a reference in s 9(7)) is to be construed as a reference to the Scottish ministers and any reference to Parliament or to a House of Parliament is to be construed as a reference to the Scottish Parliament: s 9(7).

For the purposes of the exercise of the powers conferred by s 8 in relation to any matter the functions in respect of which are exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, the appropriate minister is the Secretary of State: s 10(1); Government of Wales Act 2006. Subject to the following provisions, the powers conferred by s 8, so far as they fall within s 10(3), are exercisable by the Welsh Ministers as well as by the appropriate minister: s 10(2). The powers conferred by s 8 fall within s 10(3) to the extent that they are exercisable in relation to (i) the provisions of any subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers; (ii) so much of any other subordinate legislation as makes provision the power to make which is exercisable by those ministers; (iii) any power under any enactment to make provision the power to make which is so exercisable; (iv) the giving, sending or production of any notice, account, record or other document or of any information to or by a body mentioned in s 10(4); or (v) the publication of anything by a body mentioned in s 10(4): s 10(3). Those bodies are (A) the National Assembly for Wales; (B) any body specified in the Government of Wales Act 1998 Sch 4 (Welsh public bodies subject to reform by that Assembly); and (C) any other such body as may be specified for these purposes by an order made by the Secretary of State with the consent of the Welsh Ministers: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 10(4). The Welsh Ministers may not make an order under s 8 except with the consent of the Secretary of State: s 10(5). Nothing in s 10 confers any power on the Welsh Ministers to modify any provision of the Government of Wales Act 1998: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 10(7). The power of the Secretary of State to make an order under s 10(4)(c) (see head (c)) includes power to make any such incidental, supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as he may think fit and is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 10(8).

12 Subject to the Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 9(4) and to s 10(6), a statutory instrument containing an order under s 8 is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament (s 9(3)); but this does not apply in the case of an order a draft of which has been laid before Parliament and approved by a resolution of each House (s 9(4)). Section 9(3) does not apply to any order made under s 8 by the Welsh Ministers: s 10(6). An order under s 8 may (1) provide for any conditions or requirements imposed by such an order to be framed by reference to the directions of such persons as may be specified in or determined in accordance with the order; (2) provide that any such condition or requirement is to be satisfied only where a person so specified or determined is satisfied as to specified matters: s 9(5). The provision made by such an order may include (a) different provision for different cases; (b) such exceptions and exclusions as the person making the order may think fit; and (c) any such incidental, supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as he may think fit; and the provision that may be made by virtue of head (c) includes provision modifying any enactment or subordinate legislation or any scheme, licence, authorisation or approval issued, granted or given by or under any enactment or subordinate legislation: s 9(6).

13 For these purposes, 'enactment' includes an enactment passed after the passing of the Electronic Communications Act 2000 (ie 25 July 2000), an enactment comprised in an Act of the Scottish Parliament and an enactment contained in Northern Ireland legislation but does not include an enactment contained in Pt I (ss 1-6) (provisions relating to encryption not in force at the date at which this title states the law and prospectively repealed, if no order for bringing that Part into force has been made before 25 May 2005, as from that date by virtue of s 16(4)) or Pt II (ss 7-10): s 15(1).

14 For these purposes, 'subordinate legislation' means any subordinate legislation (within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1381), any instrument made under an Act of the Scottish Parliament or any statutory rules of Northern Ireland: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(1).

15 'Electronic communication' means a communication transmitted (whether from one person to another, from one device to another or from a person to a device or vice versa) (1) by means of an electronic communications network; or (2) by other means but while in an electronic form; and 'communication' includes a communication comprising sounds or images or both and a communication effecting a payment: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(1) (amended by the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 158).

16 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(1).

17 For these purposes, references to doing anything under the provisions of any enactment include references to doing it under the provisions of any subordinate legislation the power to make which is conferred by that enactment: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(8).

18 For these purposes, 'record' includes an electronic record: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(1).

19 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(2). Without prejudice to the generality of s 8(1), the power to make an order under s 8 includes power to make an order containing any of the following provisions: (1) provision as to the electronic form to be taken by any electronic communications or electronic storage the use of which is authorised by such an order; (2) provision imposing conditions subject to which the use of electronic communications or electronic storage is so authorised; (3) provision, in relation to cases in which any such conditions are not satisfied, for treating anything for the purposes of which the use of such communications or storage is so authorised as not having been done; (4) provision, in connection with anything so authorised, for a person to be able to refuse to accept receipt of something in electronic form except in such circumstances as may be specified in or determined under the order; (5) provision, in connection with any use of electronic communications so authorised, for intermediaries to be used, or to be capable of being used, for the transmission of any data or for establishing the authenticity or integrity of any data; (6) provision, in connection with any use of electronic storage so authorised, for persons satisfying such conditions as may be specified in or determined under the regulations to carry out functions in relation to the storage; (7) provision, in relation to cases in which the use of electronic communications or electronic storage is so authorised, for the determination of any of the matters mentioned in s 8(5) (see heads (a)-(e) in the text), or as to the manner in which they may be proved in legal proceedings; (8) provision, in relation to cases in which fees or charges are or may be imposed in connection with anything for the purposes of which the use of electronic communications or electronic storage is so authorised, for different fees or charges to apply where use is made of such communications or storage; (9) provision, in relation to any criminal or other liabilities that may arise (in respect of the making of false or misleading statements or otherwise) in connection with anything for the purposes of which the use of electronic communications or electronic storage is so authorised, for corresponding liabilities to arise in corresponding circumstances where use is made of such communications or storage; (10) provision requiring persons to prepare and keep records in connection with any use of electronic communications or electronic storage which is so authorised; (11) provision requiring the production of the contents of any records kept in accordance with such an order; (12) provision for a requirement imposed by virtue of head (10) or head (11) to be enforceable at the suit or instance of such person as may be specified in or determined in accordance with the order; (13) any such provision, in relation to electronic communications or electronic storage the use of which is authorised otherwise than by such an order, as corresponds to any provision falling within any of the preceding heads that may be made where it is such an order that authorises the use of the communications or storage: s 8(4). An order under s 8 must not, subject to the following, require the use of electronic communications or electronic storage for any purpose; but may make provision that a period of notice specified in the order must expire before effect is given to a variation or withdrawal of an election or other decision which has been made for the purposes of such an order and is an election or decision to make use of electronic communications or electronic storage: s 8(6).

20 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(3).

21 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(7) (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1), (7)).

22 For these purposes, references to the authenticity of any communication or data are references to any one or more of the following: (1) whether the communication or data comes from a particular person or other source; (2) whether it is accurately timed and dated; (3) whether it is intended to have legal effect: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(2)(a).

23 For these purposes, references to the integrity of any communication or data are references to whether there has been any tampering with or other modification of the communication or data: Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(2)(b). 'Modification' includes any alteration, addition or omission, and cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: s 15(1).

24 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 8(5). At the date at which this title states the law, the following orders had been made under s 8: the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2000, SI 2000/3056; the Companies Act 1985 (Electronic Communications) Order 2000, SI 2000/3373; the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 (Electronic Communications) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/605; the Unsolicited Goods and Services Act 1971 (Electronic Communications) Order 2001, SI 2001/2778; the National Health Service (Charges for Drugs and Appliances) (Electronic Communications) Order 2001, SI 2001/2887; the National Health Service (Pharmaceutical Services) and (Misuse of Drugs) (Electronic Communications) Order 2001, SI 2001/2888; the Prescription Only Medicines (Human Use) (Electronic Communications) Order 2001, SI 2001/2889; the National Health Service (General Medical Services) (Electronic Communications) Order 2001, SI 2001/2890; the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2001, SI 2001/3257; and the Public Records Act 1958 (Admissibility of Electronic Copies of Public Records) Order 2001, SI 2001/4058; the Building Societies Act 1986 (Electronic Communications) Order 2003, SI 2003/404; the Patents Act 1977 (Electronic Communications) Order 2003, SI 2003/512; the Town and Country Planning (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2003, SI 2003/956; the Council Tax and Non-Domestic Rating (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2003, SI 2003/2604; the Social Security (Electronic Communications) (Carer's Allowance) Order 2003, SI 2003/2800; the Council Tax and Non-Domestic Rating (Electronic Communications) (England) (No 2) Order 2003, SI 2003/3052; the Education Act 1996 (Electronic Communications) Order 2004, SI 2004/2521; the Town and Country Planning (Electronic Communications) (Wales) (No 1) Order 2004, SI 2004/3156; the Town and Country Planning (Electronic Communications) (Wales) (No 2) Order 2004, SI 2004/3157; the Town and Country Planning (Electronic Communications) (Wales) (No 3) Order 2004, SI 2004/3172; the Consumer Credit Act 1974 (Electronic Communications) Order 2004, SI 2004/3236; the Social Security (Electronic Communications) (Miscellaneous Benefits) Order 2005, SI 2005/3321; the Non-Domestic Rating and Council Tax (Electronic Communications)

(England) Order 2006, SI 2006/237; the Registered Designs Act 1949 and Patents Act 1977 (Electronic Communications) Order 2006, SI 2006/1229; the Transport Security (Electronic Communications) Order 2006, SI 2006/2190; the Registration of Births and Deaths (Electronic Communications and Electronic Storage) Order 2006, SI 2006/2809; the Housing Benefit and Council Tax Benefit (Electronic Communications) Order 2006, SI 2006/2968; the Income-related Benefits (Subsidy to Authorities) (Miscellaneous Amendments and Electronic Communications) Order 2007, SI 2007/26; and the Council Tax (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2008, SI 2008/316.

UPDATE

947 Proof of faxes, emails and other electronic communications

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

NOTE 9--SI 2005/659 now Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (England) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/2268; reg 22(1)(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/A. LETTERS AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS/(B) Other Communications/948. Electronic signatures and related certificates.

948. Electronic signatures and related certificates.

In any legal proceedings (1) an electronic signature incorporated into or logically associated with a particular electronic communication¹ or particular electronic data; and (2) the certification by any person of such a signature, are each admissible in evidence in relation to any question as to the authenticity of the communication or data² or as to the integrity³ of the communication or data⁴. For these purposes, an electronic signature is so much of anything in electronic form as is incorporated into or otherwise logically associated with any electronic communication or electronic data⁵ and purports to be so incorporated or associated for the purpose of being used in establishing the authenticity of the communication or data, the integrity of the communication or data, or both⁶; and an electronic signature incorporated into or associated with a particular electronic communication or particular electronic data is certified by any person if that person, whether before or after the making of the communication has made a statement confirming that:

- 133 (a) the signature;
- 134 (b) a means of producing, communicating or verifying the signature; or
- 135 (c) a procedure applied to the signature, is (either alone or in combination with other factors) a valid means of establishing the authenticity of the communication or data, the integrity of the communication or data, or both⁷.

It is the duty of the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry to keep under review the carrying on of activities of certification-service-providers⁸ who are established in the United Kingdom⁹ and who issue qualified certificates¹⁰ to the public and the persons by whom they are carried on with a view to her becoming aware of the identity of those persons and the circumstances relating to the carrying on of those activities¹¹. It is also the duty of the Secretary of State to establish and maintain a register of certification-service-providers who are established in the United Kingdom and who issue qualified certificates to the public¹². There is a duty of care between a certification-service-provider who either issues a certificate as a qualified certificate to the public or guarantees a qualified certificate to the public and a person who reasonably relies on that certificate for any of certain specified matters¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'electronic communication' see PARA 947 note 15.

2 As to the meaning of references to the authenticity of any communication or data see PARA 947 note 22.

3 As to the meaning of references to the integrity of any communication or data see PARA 947 note 23.

4 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 7(1).

5 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 7(2)(a).

6 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 7(2)(b).

7 Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 7(3). The provisions set out in this paragraph implement certain provisions of the European Parliament and EC Council Directive 1999/93 (OJ L13, 19.1.2000, p 12) on a Community framework for electronic signatures.

8 'Certification-service-provider' means a person who issues certificates or provides other services related to electronic signatures; 'certificate' means an electronic attestation which links signature-verification data to a person and confirms the identity of that person; and 'electronic signature' means data in electronic form which are attached to or logically associated with other electronic data and which serve as a method of authentication: Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, reg 2.

9 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

10 'Qualified certificate' means a certificate which meets the requirements in the Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, reg 2, Sch 1 and is provided by a certification-service-provider who fulfils the requirements in Sch 2: reg 2. Qualified certificates must contain (1) an indication that the certificate is issued as a qualified certificate; (2) the identification of the certification-service-provider and the State in which it is established; (3) the name of the signatory or a pseudonym, which must be identified as such; (4) provision for a specific attribute of the signatory to be included if relevant, depending on the purpose for which the certificate is intended; (5) signature-verification data which correspond to signature-creation data under the control of the signatory; (6) an indication of the beginning and end of the period of validity of the certificate; (7) the identity code of the certificate; (8) the advanced electronic signature of the certification-service-provider issuing it; (9) limitations on the scope of use of the certificate, if applicable; and (10) limits on the value of transactions for which the certificate can be used, if applicable: Sch 1. 'Signatory' means a person who holds a signature-creation device and acts either on his own behalf or on behalf of the person he represents; 'signature-creation data' means unique data (including, but not limited to, codes or private cryptographic keys) which are used by the signatory to create an electronic signature; 'signature-creation device' means configured software or hardware used to implement the signature-creation data; 'signature-verification data' means data (including, but not limited to, codes or public cryptographic keys) which are used for the purpose of verifying an electronic signature; and 'signature-verification device' means configured software or hardware used to implement the signature-verification data: reg 2. 'Advanced electronic signature' means an electronic signature which is uniquely linked to the signatory, which is capable of identifying the signatory, which is created using means that the signatory can maintain under his sole control and which is linked to the data to which it relates in such a manner that any subsequent change of the data is detectable: reg 2.

Certification-service-providers must (a) demonstrate the reliability necessary for providing certification services; (b) ensure the operation of a prompt and secure directory and a secure and immediate revocation service; (c) ensure that the date and time when a certificate is issued or revoked can be determined precisely; (d) verify, by appropriate means in accordance with national law, the identity and, if applicable, any specific attributes of the person to which a qualified certificate is issued; (e) employ personnel who possess the expert knowledge, experience, and qualifications necessary for the services provided, in particular competence at managerial level, expertise in electronic signature technology and familiarity with proper security procedures; they must also apply administrative and management procedures which are adequate and correspond to recognised standards; (f) use trustworthy systems and products which are protected against modification and ensure the technical and cryptographic security of the process supported by them; (g) take measures against forgery of certificates, and, in cases where the certification-service-provider generates signature-creation data, guarantee confidentiality during the process of generating such data; (h) maintain sufficient financial resources to operate in conformity with the requirements laid down in the Directive cited in note 7, in particular to bear the risk of liability for damages, eg, by obtaining appropriate insurance; (i) record all relevant information concerning a qualified certificate for an appropriate period of time, in particular for the purpose of providing evidence of certification for the purposes of legal proceedings (such recording may be done electronically); (j) not store or copy signature-creation data of the person to whom the certification-service-provider provided key management services; (k) before entering into a contractual relationship with a person seeking a certificate to support his electronic signature inform that person by a durable means of communication of the precise terms and conditions regarding the use of the certificate, including any limitations on its use, the existence of a voluntary accreditation scheme and procedures for complaints and dispute settlement (such information, which may be transmitted electronically, must be in writing and in readily understandable language; relevant parts of this information must also be made available on request to third parties relying on the certificate); (l) use trustworthy systems to store certificates in a verifiable form so that (i) only authorised persons can make entries and changes; (ii) information can be checked for authenticity; (iii) certificates are publicly available for retrieval in only those cases for which the certificate-holder's consent has been obtained; and (iv) any technical changes compromising these security requirements are apparent to the operator: Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, Sch 2. 'Voluntary accreditation' means any permission, setting out rights and obligations specific to the provision of certification services, to be granted upon request by the certification-service-provider concerned by the person charged with the elaboration of, and supervision of compliance with, such rights and obligations, where the certification-service-provider is not entitled to exercise the rights stemming from the permission until he has received the decision of that person: reg 2.

11 Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, reg 3(1).

12 Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, reg 3(2). The Secretary of State must record in the register the names and addresses of those certification-service-providers of whom she is aware who are established in the United Kingdom and who issue qualified certificates to the public: reg 3(3). The Secretary of State must publish the register in such manner as she considers appropriate: reg 3(4). The Secretary of State must have regard to evidence becoming available to her with respect to any course of conduct of a certification-service-provider who is established in the United Kingdom and who issues qualified certificates to the public and which appears to her to be conduct detrimental to the interests of those persons who use or rely on those certificates with a view to making any of this evidence as she considers expedient available to the public in such manner as she considers appropriate: reg 3(5).

13 See the Electronic Signatures Regulations 2002, SI 2002/318, reg 4(1), (2). The specified matters are (1) the accuracy of any of the information contained in the qualified certificate at the time of issue; (2) the inclusion in the qualified certificate of all the details referred to in Sch 1; (3) the holding by the signatory identified in the qualified certificate at the time of its issue of the signature-creation data corresponding to the signature-verification data given or identified in the certificate; or (4) the ability of the signature-creation data and the signature-verification data to be used in a complementary manner in cases where the certification-service-provider generates them both: reg 4(1)(b). As to the liability of the certification-service-provider where a person relying on a certificate suffers loss see reg 4(1)(c), (d), (3), (4). As to restrictions on the use of personal data see reg 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/B. DEEDS, WILLS AND FAMILY PAPERS/949. Deeds and wills.

B. DEEDS, WILLS AND FAMILY PAPERS

949. Deeds and wills.

Proof of the attestation of deeds and other documents, the admission of extrinsic evidence to vary or add to documents or to interpret the contents of documents, and presumptions as to the time when alterations have been made to deeds and wills are discussed elsewhere in this work¹.

Although the probate copy of a will is admissible in evidence, the court may require to look at the original will when construing its terms². An unproved will may be admitted as evidence of the appointment of an executor³.

1 As to proof of attestation see PARA 866; as to the admission of extrinsic evidence see CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 665 et seq; DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 185 et seq; WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 481 et seq; and as to alterations see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 81 et seq; WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 374 et seq.

2 See Re Harrison, Turner v Hellard(1885) 30 ChD 390, CA; and WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 488.

3 See Whitmore v Lambert[1955] 2 All ER 147, [1955] 1 WLR 495, CA; and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 29.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/B. DEEDS, WILLS AND FAMILY PAPERS/950. Family papers.

950. Family papers.

Family papers produced from proper custody¹ are in general admissible in cases of pedigree². It is no objection to their admissibility that they were drawn up, or that entries were made in them, for the purpose of preventing disputes in the family³. Under this rule entries in family Bibles⁴ or other books⁵ are admitted to prove facts concerned with family relationship. In the case of family Bibles, which were the ordinary registers in families⁶, and other writings which are public in the family⁷, no evidence is required that the writer was related to the family⁸, but in all other cases the declaration is only admissible if made by a member of the family⁹.

Other examples of family papers admissible in pedigree cases are family correspondence¹⁰, wills¹¹, deeds¹² executed by a member of the family¹³, pedigrees¹⁴ or genealogical accounts of the family¹⁵, and, generally, any writing by a member of the family¹⁶; while an old will, by which the testator purports to leave all his property to collaterals or friends, is admissible to prove that he died without children¹⁷. Descriptions in a will, or even in the draft of a will¹⁸, relating to the family of the testator are admissible in pedigree cases as statements by deceased persons¹⁹.

1 Such papers, if 20 years old and produced from proper custody, prove themselves, and no proof of execution is necessary: see PARA 869.

2 See PARA 830. In addition, as with any private documents, they may be admitted as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 subject to the statutory safeguards: see ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

3 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL. The weight, not the admissibility, of the evidence is affected: Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; affd sub nom Robson v A-G (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 471, HL.

4 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Re Goodrich, Payne v Bennett (1904) 20 TLR 203.

5 Bibles do not stand on any special footing: see the judges' opinion in Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL. For further instances see Slane Peerage (1835) 5 Cl & Fin 23 (missal); Herbert v Tuckal (1663) T Raym 84 (almanac); cf Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; affd sub nom Robson v A-G (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 471, HL; Sussex Peerage Case (1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85, HL (prayer book); Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL; Hood v Beauchamp (1836) 8 Sim 26 (religious book).

6 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL.

7 The family Bible, the public wearing of a ring, the public exposure of an inscription on a tombstone, and the public hanging up of the family pedigree in the mansion are all relied upon because, in all those cases, the publicity supplies the want of connection between the pedigree, the tombstone, the ring or the Bible, with particular individuals, members of the family: Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147 at 163 per Lord Brougham LC.

8 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL; Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; Hubbard v Lees and Purden (1866) LR 1 Exch 255. The document must be produced from proper custody before this rule can apply: Hubbard v Lees and Purden (1866) LR 1 Exch 255. As to what is proper custody see PARA 871. In Hood v Beauchamp (1836) 8 Sim 26 a religious book containing entries of births etc of members of the family was admitted, and one entry was admitted without proof of authorship by a member of the family, the authorship of the others having been proved.

9 As to the necessity for proof of relationship of the declarant see PARA 830.

- 10 Kidney v Cockburn (1831) 2 Russ & M 167; cf Butler v Viscount Mountgarret (1859) 7 HL Cas 633. In Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1 letters addressed to a lady who had married into a certain family were admitted to prove the character in which she was addressed by members of that family.
- 11 See Vulliamy v Huskisson (1838) 3 Y & C Ex 80; Hungate v Gascoigne (1846) 2 Ph 25.
- 12 Neal d Duke of Athol v Wilding (1741) 2 Stra 1151.
- 13 Slaney v Wade (1836) 1 My & Cr 338; Fort v Clarke (1826) 1 Russ 601.
- 14 Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147.
- 15 Robson v A-G (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 471, HL.
- 16 Berkeley Peerage Case (1811) 4 Camp 401, HL.
- 17 Hungate v Gascoigne (1846) 2 Ph 25; Robson v A-G (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 471, HL; Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL.
- 18 Re Lambert (1886) 56 LT 15.
- 19 See PARA 830.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/C. COMMERCIAL DOCUMENTS/951. Entries in account books.

C. COMMERCIAL DOCUMENTS

951. Entries in account books.

Account books are admissible as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 subject to the statutory safeguards¹ and require no further proof if they are part of the records of a business, in whatever form they are kept². If an account book was kept by an agent, and it is sought to produce the book against the principal, evidence should be produced of the agent's authority³.

Entries in a bank statement to the credit of a customer, when delivered to him, are prima facie evidence against the bank; and, if not objected to by the customer, entries in it to his debit are prima facie evidence against him⁴.

Accounts 20 years old prove themselves if produced from proper custody⁵. Where the court⁶ orders any account to be taken or any inquiry to be made, it may, by the same or a subsequent order, give directions as to the manner in which the account is to be taken and verified or the inquiry is to be conducted and may, in particular, direct that in taking an account the relevant books of account are to be evidence of their contents but that any party may take such objections to the contents as he may think fit⁷.

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9; and PARA 817.

3 Baron De Rutzen v Farr (1835) 4 Ad & El 53.

4 As to the effect of a balance struck in a bank statement see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 873.

5 Doe d Lord Ashburnham v Michael (1851) 17 QB 276; and see PARA 869.

6 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

7 See Practice Direction--Accounts, Inquiries etc PD 40 paras 1.1, 1.2; and PARA 1526. As to the application of the CPR and accompanying practice directions see PARA 32.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/C. COMMERCIAL DOCUMENTS/952. Negotiable instruments.

952. Negotiable instruments.

A bill, cheque or promissory note may be evidence of the payment of a debt¹ where it appears to have been received by the creditor², but payment of money by means of such an instrument is not by itself evidence of the existence of a debt³. Where the cheque in question has been lost, the counterfoil is, it seems, admissible to prove the giving of the cheque⁴. An undorsed cheque which appears to have been paid by the banker on whom it is drawn is evidence of the receipt by the payee of the sum payable by the cheque⁵, and a certified copy made by the banker having possession of the cheque after presentment is evidence of the original⁶. A microfilmed record of a customer's cheques (but not the individual cheques) is within the meaning of the phrase 'banker's books'⁷ and so admissible under the statutory provisions applicable to such books⁸.

1 Boswell v Smith (1833) 6 C & P 60; Nash v Gray (1861) 2 F & F 391; and see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 942 et seq.

2 Mountford v Harper (1847) 16 LJ Ex 184; Egg v Barnett (1800) 3 Esp 196; and see Gadderer v Dawes (1847) 10 LTOS 109; Pfiel v Vanbatenberg (1810) 2 Camp 439.

3 Egg v Barnett (1800) 3 Esp 196; but see Aubert v Walsh (1812) 4 Taunt 293; Pearce v Davis (1834) 1 Mood & R 365; Cary v Gerrish (1801) 4 Esp 9.

4 R v Wilkinson (1867) 10 Cox CC 537.

5 Cheques Act 1957 s 3(1) (s 3(1) numbered as such, and s 3(2) added, by SI 1996/2993).

6 See the Cheques Act 1957 s 3(2) (as added: see note 5).

7 Barker v Wilson [1980] 2 All ER 81, [1980] 1 WLR 884.

8 See the Bankers' Books Evidence Act 1879; PARA 939; and FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 907 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/C. COMMERCIAL DOCUMENTS/953. Receipts and bills of lading.

953. Receipts and bills of lading.

Receipts are in general only prima facie evidence of payment¹, and can be contradicted by proof that the money was not in fact paid², that the transaction was fraudulent³, that the terms of the receipt do not accurately state the transaction⁴, that the money was in fact paid by another person⁵, or that the receipt was given 'without prejudice'⁶. In some cases, however, a receipt may amount to a contract, the terms of which are embodied in it⁷, and, apart from any question of contract, a receipt will be conclusive in cases where it operates as an estoppel⁸. Receipts 20 years old prove themselves if produced from proper custody⁹.

A bill of lading which represents goods to have been shipped on board a vessel or to have been received for shipment on board a vessel and has been signed by the master of the vessel or by a person who was not the master but had the express, implied or apparent authority of the carrier to sign bills of lading, is conclusive evidence in favour of a person who has become the lawful holder of the bill, against the carrier, of the shipment of the goods or, as the case may be, of their receipt for shipment¹⁰. A sea waybill or straight bill of lading is, however, only prima facie evidence of the receipt of the goods by the carrier¹¹.

1 Skaife v Jackson (1824) 3 B & C 421; Graves v Key (1832) 3 B & Ad 313; Farrar v Hutchinson (1839) 9 Ad & El 641; Bowes v Foster (1858) 2 H & N 779; Huckle v LCC (1910) 27 TLR 112, CA. See also CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 947.

2 Skaife v Jackson (1824) 3 B & C 421; cf Straton v Rastall (1788) 2 Term Rep 366; Lampon v Corke (1822) 5 B & Ald 606; Alner v George (1808) 1 Camp 392 must now be considered as bad law.

3 Farrar v Hutchinson (1839) 9 Ad & El 641; Wallace v Kelsall (1840) 7 M & W 264.

4 Nathan v Ogdens Ltd (1905) 94 LT 126, CA; and see Lee v Lancashire and Yorkshire Rly Co (1871) 6 Ch App 527; distinguish Stewart v Great Western Rly Co and Saunders (1865) 2 De GJ & Sm 319 (a case of fraud). Receipts, being as a rule informal documents, may be varied or contradicted by oral evidence: see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 947; DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS.

5 Graves v Key (1832) 3 B & Ad 313.

6 Oliver v Nautilus Steam Shipping Co Ltd [1903] 2 KB 639. As to 'without prejudice' communications see PARAS 804-805.

7 Roberts v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1859) 1 F & F 460; Rideal v Great Western Rly Co (1859) 1 F & F 706; and distinguish Lee v Lancashire and Yorkshire Rly Co (1871) 6 Ch App 527. The only question arising in these cases is really one of construction of a contract, the documents in question being something more than mere receipts. See Prosser v Lancashire and Yorkshire Accident Insurance Co Ltd (1890) 6 TLR 285, CA; Ellen v Great Northern Rly Co (1901) 17 TLR 453, CA.

8 See ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 1025. As to receipts in deeds see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 224-225.

9 Bertie v Beaumont (1816) 2 Price 303. As to this rule see PARA 869.

10 See the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act 1924 s 4; and SHIPPING AND NAVIGATION vol 43(2) (Reissue) PARA 1536. As to the effect of conclusive evidence see PARA 767.

11 See SHIPPING AND NAVIGATION vol 43(2) (Reissue) PARA 1536. As to the effect of prima facie evidence see PARA 767. In so far as they are merely receipts for the goods shipped, bills of exchange are governed mutatis mutandis by the same rules as receipts for money: Cox v Bruce (1886) 18 QBD 147, CA; Bennett and Young v

John Bacon Ltd (1897) 2 Com Cas 102, CA; Hine Bros v Free, Rodwell & Co Ltd (1897) 2 Com Cas 149; Smith & Co v Bedouin Steam Navigation Co [1896] AC 70, HL; Parsons v New Zealand Shipping Co [1901] 1 KB 548, CA; and see SHIPPING AND NAVIGATION vol 43(2) (Reissue) PARA 1535.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/D. MAPS AND PLANS/954. Private maps and plans.

D. MAPS AND PLANS

954. Private maps and plans.

Private, as distinct from public¹, maps and plans² are admissible in civil proceedings³ as evidence of reputation for the purpose of proving or disproving the existence of any public or general right⁴, or to prove the existence or non-existence of a highway⁵, or otherwise as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 subject to the statutory safeguards⁶.

A map annexed to a deed, will or other instrument is to be construed together with it⁷.

Unless the court⁸ orders otherwise, evidence such as a plan, photograph or model which is not (1) contained in a witness statement⁹, affidavit¹⁰ or expert's report¹¹; (2) to be given orally at trial; or (3) evidence of which prior notice must be given under the general rule relating to notice of hearsay evidence¹², is not receivable at a trial unless the party intending to put it in evidence has given notice to the other parties¹³. Where a party has given such notice, he must give every other party an opportunity to inspect the evidence and to agree to its admission without further proof¹⁴.

1 As to the admissibility of public maps see PARA 943.

2 As to the meaning of 'document' see PARA 810 note 15.

3 As to their admissibility in criminal proceedings see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1462.

4 See PARA 828; and BOUNDARIES. A plan 'for purposes of identification only' can be used to determine where a boundary lies: Woolls v Powling (1999) Times, 9 March, CA.

5 See PARA 955.

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq. See also BOUNDARIES.

7 Lyle v Richards (1866) LR 1 HL 222; cf Brain v Harris (1855) 10 Exch 908; Nicholson v Rose (1859) 4 De G & J 10; and see BOUNDARIES; SALE OF LAND; WILLS.

8 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

9 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1. As to the form of a witness statement see PARA 981.

10 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5.

11 As to experts' reports see PARA 852 et seq.

12 Ie under CPR 33.2: see PARA 811.

13 CPR 33.6(1), (2). For the procedure to be followed see CPR 33.6(3)-(7); and PARA 817.

14 CPR 33.6(8).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/D. MAPS AND PLANS/955. Maps and plans as evidence of highways and footpaths.

955. Maps and plans as evidence of highways and footpaths.

A court or tribunal, before determining whether a way has been dedicated as a highway¹ or the date on which any such dedication took place, must take into consideration any map, plan or history of the locality or other relevant document which is tendered in evidence, and give such weight to it as the court or tribunal considers justified by the circumstances, including the antiquity of the tendered document, the status of the person by whom and the purposes for which it was compiled, and the custody in which it has been kept and from which it is produced². Definitive maps and statements made by surveying authorities³ are conclusive evidence of footpaths, bridleways and byways⁴.

1 As to the dedication of highways see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 107 et seq.

2 Highways Act 1980 s 32: see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) para 129.

3 'Surveying authority', in relation to any area, means the county council, county borough council, metropolitan district council or London borough council whose area includes that area: Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 66(1) (definition substituted by the Local Government Act 1985 s 7, Sch 3 para 7; amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 66(6), Sch 16 para 65(8)).

4 See the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 56; and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 592.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/E. OTHER DOCUMENTS/956. Inscriptions in pedigree cases.

E. OTHER DOCUMENTS

956. Inscriptions in pedigree cases.

In pedigree cases¹, inscriptions of various kinds are admissible if they have been made by or under the direction of a deceased² member of the family, or have been adopted expressly or tacitly by such member or by the family at large³. This rule includes inscriptions of various kinds, such as inscriptions on rings⁴ and tombstones⁵, mural inscriptions⁶, and those on portraits⁷ and possibly coffin-plates⁸. An inscription on a tombstone has been admitted to prove the death of a person with a life interest⁹. Inscriptions whose removal is impossible or highly inconvenient may be proved by secondary evidence¹⁰. Where inscriptions are removed and destroyed by a burial authority, landowner or religious body under their various statutory powers¹¹, photographic or other records of them must be made¹². Such records, if not otherwise admissible, would be admissible as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995, subject to the statutory safeguards¹³.

1 See PARA 950 note 7.

2 For the general principles governing the admissibility of statements by deceased persons as to reputation or family tradition see PARA 830.

3 Davies v Lowndes (1843) 6 Man & G 471. Statements contained in monumental inscriptions are admissible to prove the ages of the persons to whom they refer and the fact of their relationship to each other: Kidney v Cockburn (1831) 2 Russ & M 167. Foreign inscriptions are admissible if they conform to the above rule: Earldom of Perth (1848) 2 HL Cas 865; cf Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL.

4 Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; Vowles v Young (1806) 13 Ves 140.

5 Haslam v Cron, Olivant's Claim (1871) 19 WR 968; Monkton v A-G (1831) 2 Russ & M 147; cf Goodright d Stevens v Moss (1777) 2 Cowp 591; Vowles v Young (1806) 13 Ves 140; Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL; Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1.

6 Slaney v Wade (1836) 1 My & Cr 338; Earldom of Perth (1848) 2 HL Cas 865; Berkeley Peerage Case (1861) 8 HL Cas 21.

7 Camoy's Peerage (1839) 6 Cl & Fin 789, HL.

8 Cf R v Edge (1842) Wills's Circumstantial Evidence (7th Edn) 319, 353; R v Hinley (1843) 1 Cox CC 12.

9 Whittuck v Waters (1830) 4 C & P 375.

10 In Shrewsbury Peerage (1858) 7 HL Cas 1, an old 'collection of monumental inscriptions' in country churches was held inadmissible to show what had been the inscription on a partly defaced tomb. But copies made or accepted by the family, or a member of the family, are worthy of confidence: Slaney v Wade (1836) 1 My & Cr 338; Davies v Lowndes (1843) 6 Man & G 471. See also Tracy Peerage Case (1843) 10 Cl & Fin 154, HL.

11 Under the powers contained in the Local Authorities' Cemeteries Order 1977, SI 1977/204; the Pastoral Measure 1983; and the Disused Burial Grounds (Amendment) Act 1981: see CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 1049 et seq, 1130 et seq, 1149 et seq.

12 See the Local Authorities' Cemeteries Order 1977, SI 1977/204, art 16; the Pastoral Measure 1983 s 65(1), Sch 6 para 10; the Disused Burial Grounds (Amendment) Act 1981 s 2(1), Schedule para 10; and CREMATION AND BURIAL vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 1053, 1133, 1155.

13 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq. As to photographs see PARA 958.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/E. OTHER DOCUMENTS/957. Newspaper reports.

957. Newspaper reports.

A witness may refer to a newspaper report to refresh his memory, if he read the report at the time when he had a recollection of the statements contained in it and knew them to be true¹; but a newspaper report is not generally admissible as evidence of the facts recorded in it² unless admitted as hearsay evidence under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 and subject to the statutory safeguards³.

1 See PARA 1039.

2 Lord Rossmore v Mowatt (1850) 15 Jur 238.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vi) Particular Private Documents/E. OTHER DOCUMENTS/958. Photographs, films, records, tape recordings and video recordings.

958. Photographs, films, records, tape recordings and video recordings.

At common law, photographs¹ properly verified on oath by a person able to speak to their accuracy² were generally admissible to prove the identity of persons³, or the configuration of land as it existed at a particular moment⁴ (scientific deductions from them being made by a witness both skilled and experienced in such a task)⁵, or radar echoes⁶ or the contents of a lost document⁷.

For the purposes of the Civil Evidence Act 1995, 'document' means anything in which information of any description is recorded⁸ and a similarly wide definition applies for the purposes of disclosure under the Civil Procedure Rules⁹. Thus photographs, films, records, tape recordings and video recordings are all admissible in evidence, subject, if appropriate, to the statutory safeguards with regard to hearsay evidence¹⁰. Prior notice must be given of a party's intention to put photographs and certain other items in evidence¹¹.

The court has power to order the photographing of property which is, or may become, the subject matter of proceedings¹².

A witness's evidence may be given by means of a video link where such facilities are available¹³ and in appropriate cases, court hearings may be conducted by means of such a link¹⁴.

1 A photograph was held to be a document for the purposes of discovery (now known as 'disclosure': see PARA 963) in Lyell v Kennedy (No 3) as reported in (1884) 50 LT 730, CA; and a cinematograph film was held to be a 'document' in Senior v Holdsworth, ex p Independent Television News Ltd [1976] QB 23, [1975] 2 All ER 1009, CA.

2 See R v Tolson (1864) 4 F & F 103; Hindson v Ashby [1896] 2 Ch 1, CA. This would also apply to enlargements. X-ray photographs are admissible in evidence to determine the extent of a physical injury or disease, provided it is proved that the photograph is a photograph of the person injured or diseased. The person who took the photograph should be called, unless his evidence is dispensed with by consent.

3 R v Tolson (1864) 4 F & F 103. In C v C and C [1972] 3 All ER 577, [1972] 1 WLR 1335, Latey J admitted photographs as evidence of facial resemblance on a paternity issue in divorce proceedings, but referred to the perils of attaching too much weight to such evidence. As to proof of identity of persons generally see PARA 1076.

4 R v United Kingdom Electric Telegraph Co (1862) 3 F & F 73; Hindson v Ashby [1896] 2 Ch 1, CA.

5 Folkes v Chadd (1782) 3 Doug KB 157; R v Silverlock [1894] 2 QB 766; United States Shipping Board v The Ship St Albans [1931] AC 632, PC (land surveyor not qualified to produce an accurate topographical plan from a pictorial delineation of a scene).

6 The Statue of Liberty [1968] 2 All ER 195, [1968] 1 WLR 739, where Simon P described the evidence as being in the nature of real evidence, and held it to be irrelevant that, like barograph records or cards from clocking-in machines, it was mechanically produced without human effort. As to real evidence see PARA 965.

7 M'Cullough v Munn [1908] 2 IR 194, CA.

8 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 13; and PARA 810 note 15.

9 See CPR 31.4; and PARA 963.

10 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq. As to video evidence by children in child abuse cases see eg Re R (child abuse: video and expert evidence) [1995] 2 FCR 573, [1995] 1 FLR 451; Re N (a minor) (sexual abuse: video evidence) [1996] 4 All ER 225, [1997] 1 WLR 153, CA; and see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 228. As to the disclosure and use of video evidence in a personal injury claim see Rall v Hume [2001] EWCA Civ 146, [2001] 3 All ER 248. As to whether the prolonged examination of documentary evidence and video footage necessary in a libel claim render the proceedings unfit for jury trial see Elite Management Corpn v BBC [2001] All ER (D) 156 (Mar), where the judge held that there were inherent problems in considering matters brought to light by hidden cameras featuring poor quality sound and parties with foreign accents who could be difficult to understand; and that the need for the repeated viewing of video footage could constitute prolonged exposure to documentation for the purposes of the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1). See Jones v University of Warwick [2003] EWCA Civ 151, [2003] 3 All ER 760, [2003] 1 WLR 954 (video recording evidence against personal injury claimant collected by inquiry agent posing as market researcher on behalf of insurer admissible). As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

11 See CPR 33.6; and PARAS 817, 954.

12 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 ss 33(1), 34(3); the County Courts Act 1984 ss 52(1), 53(3); and PARAS 114, 317.

13 See PARAS 1032-1035.

14 See eg Re B (adult: refusal of medical treatment) [2002] EWHC 429 (Fam), [2002] 2 All ER 449, [2002] All ER (D) 362 (Mar) (Family Division hearing evidence in hospital room with video link to Royal Courts of Justice; legal argument taking place at Royal Courts of Justice with video link to hospital room). As to video conferences in family proceedings see Practice Direction [2002] 1 All ER 1024, [2002] 1 WLR 406.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vii) Documents subject to Stamp Duty/959. Exclusion of unstamped documents.

(vii) Documents subject to Stamp Duty

959. Exclusion of unstamped documents.

Except in criminal proceedings, no instrument requiring a stamp which is executed in the United Kingdom¹ or which, wherever executed, relates to property situated in or to any matter or thing done or to be done in the United Kingdom is admissible in evidence or available for any purpose whatever² in legal proceedings unless it is duly stamped in accordance with the law in force at the time when it was executed³. Upon its production as evidence in any court of civil judicature in any part of the United Kingdom, or before any arbitrator or referee, notice must be taken by the judge, arbitrator or referee of any omission or insufficiency of the stamp⁴. The instrument may, however, be received in evidence on payment to the officer of the court whose duty it is to read the instrument, or to the arbitrator or referee, of the amount of the unpaid duty, and any interest or penalty payable on stamping it, saving all just exceptions on other grounds⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

2 See PARA 960. The rule has been applied to a scheme of arrangement sanctioned by the court whereby shares were transferred: Sun Alliance Insurance Ltd v IRC [1972] Ch 133, [1971] 1 All ER 135.

3 Stamp Act 1891 s 14(4) (amended by the Finance Act 1999 s 109(3), Sch 12 para 3(1), (5)). As to stamps on various documents see STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX. As to the admissibility of documents inadmissible under foreign law for want of stamping see CONFLICT OF LAWS. As to the restamping of deeds which have been altered or cancelled and re-executed see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 84.

4 See the Stamp Act 1891 s 14(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1999 Sch 12 para 3(2)).

5 See note 4. The amendments cited in note 4 have effect in relation to instruments executed on or after 1 October 1999 but do not apply to transfers or other instruments relating to units under a unit trust scheme: see the Finance Act 1999 ss 109(4), 122(1); and for further provision in relation to the exception see s 122(2). Section 122(4), Sch 19 para 1 abolishes stamp duty on transfers or other instruments relating to a unit under a unit trust scheme, in relation to instruments executed on or after 6 February 2000. See further STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vii) Documents subject to Stamp Duty/960. Unstamped document not available for any purpose.

960. Unstamped document not available for any purpose.

An unstamped document which requires a stamp is not available for any purpose¹, to any party², and thus it cannot be used for example in cross-examination³, nor can parol evidence of such a document be received⁴.

However, a document insufficiently stamped has been shown to a witness for the purpose of refreshing his memory⁵.

1 Fengl v Fengl [1914] P 274, DC; Interleaf Publishing Co v Phillips (1884) Cab & El 315; Ashling v Boon [1891] 1 Ch 568; but see Mason v Motor Traction Co Ltd [1905] 1 Ch 419, where an injunction was asked for to restrain the defendants from carrying into effect a proposed reconstruction agreement. The agreement was unstamped, and a copy was looked at, not as an agreement, but as a document evidencing the terms upon which the defendants proposed to sell their undertaking unless restrained.

2 The defendant cannot produce an unstamped agreement to meet a case made out by the claimant without reference to it: Fielder v Ray (1829) 6 Bing 332; Magnay v Knight (1840) 1 Man & G 944.

3 Interleaf Publishing Co v Phillips (1884) Cab & El 315; and see Baker v Dale (1858) 1 F & F 271.

4 Buxton v Cornish (1844) 12 M & W 426; Hearne v James (1788) 2 Bro CC 309; R v St Pauls, Bedford, Inhabitants (1795) 6 Term Rep 452; Turner v Power (1828) 7 B & C 625; Fenn d Thomas v Griffith (1830) 6 Bing 533; Knight v Barber (1846) 16 M & W 66; Yorke v Smith (1851) 21 LJB 53; Alcock v Delay (1855) 4 E & B 660; Venkata Sveta (Rajah of Bobbili) v Inuganti Bhavayyamm Garu (1899) 15 TLR 475, PC. Secondary evidence of an unstamped document may not be given: Re Brown and Root McDermott Fabricators Ltd's Application [1996] STC 483. The Inland Revenue is nevertheless entitled to rely on unstamped documents produced in discharge of the taxpayer's obligations under the Stamp Act 1891 s 5 (see STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1007); Parinv (Hatfield) Ltd v IRC [1998] STC 305, CA.

5 Birchall v Bullough [1896] 1 QB 325, DC; cf Fengl v Fengl [1914] P 274, DC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vii) Documents subject to Stamp Duty/961. Lost documents and obliterated stamps.

961. Lost documents and obliterated stamps.

Where an instrument has been lost there is a presumption that it was properly stamped¹. The burden of proving that it was in fact unstamped is on the party objecting², and this is discharged by showing that the document was unstamped on or some time after execution³. Where, however, it is shown that a lost instrument was in fact unstamped, secondary evidence of its contents is inadmissible⁴.

Where the stamp on an instrument has been obliterated, the instrument is admissible unless it is shown that the stamp was insufficient⁵.

1 R v Long Buckby Inhabitants (1805) 7 East 45; Pooley v Goodwin (1835) 4 Ad & El 94; Hart v Hart (1841) 1 Hare 1; Marine Investment Co v Haviside (1872) LR 5 HL 624; Henty and Constable (Brewers) Ltd v IRC [1961] 3 All ER 1146, [1961] 1 WLR 1504, CA.

2 Hart v Hart (1841) 1 Hare 1; Closmadeuc v Carrel (1856) 18 CB 36; Marine Investment Co v Haviside (1872) LR 5 HL 624.

3 Crowther v Solomons (1848) 6 CB 758; Closmadeuc v Carrel (1856) 18 CB 36; Marine Investment Co v Haviside (1872) LR 5 HL 624. Further evidence may make it uncertain whether a document was afterwards stamped or not, and the presumption that it remained in the same state will not apply in such a case: Closmadeuc v Carrel (1856) 18 CB 36.

4 This applies even where the instrument was destroyed by the wrongful act of the objecting party: Rippiner v Wright (1819) 2 B & Ald 478; Smith v Henley (1844) 1 Ph 391. See R v Castle Morton Inhabitants (1820) 3 B & Ald 588; Rose v Clarke (1842) 1 Y & C Ch Cas 534; Blair v Ormond (1847) 1 De G & Sm 428; Crowther v Solomons (1848) 6 CB 758; Rankin v Hamilton (1850) 15 QB 187; and cf Andrew v Andrew (1856) 8 De GM & G 336; Arbon v Fussell (1862) 3 F & F 152.

The Stamp Act 1891 s 14(1) (see PARA 959), appears to require the production of the unstamped document before the unpaid duty and the prescribed penalty may be paid. Thus an offer to pay the duty (or an undertaking to pay it) may not make admissible secondary evidence of a missing unstamped document; and see Re Brown and Root McDermott Fabricators Ltd's Application [1996] STC 483. However, the Court of Appeal appears to have permitted a stamped copy of an unstamped destroyed document to have been received in evidence in London and County Banking Co v Ratcliffe (not reported in that court, but reported in the House of Lords (1881) 6 App Cas 722 at 730 per Lord Blackburn); cf Venkata Sveta (Rajah of Bobbili) v Inuganti Bhavayyamm Garu (1899) 15 TLR 475, PC. In Nally v Nally [1953] IR 19 the Irish High Court admitted a stamped copy of a deed as evidence of the contents of a lost original deed which was unstamped, following the apparent practice of the Court of Appeal in London and County Banking Co v Ratcliffe (1881) 6 App Cas 722, but contrary to an earlier Irish case, not cited, Connor v Cronin (1858) 7 ICLR 480.

5 Doe d Fryer v Coombs (1842) 3 QB 687.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(vii) Documents subject to Stamp Duty/962. Mode of objection.

962. Mode of objection.

An objection to the admissibility in evidence of an unstamped document should be made when the document is offered in evidence¹, or when it first becomes apparent that it is insufficiently stamped², except where extrinsic evidence is required to show the defect³.

However, on the production of an instrument requiring a stamp, it is the duty of the judge, arbitrator or referee to take notice of any omission or insufficiency of the stamp on it⁴ and unless the duty and penalties are paid⁵, the court must refuse to admit the instrument in evidence⁶, even if the parties do not object to its admission⁷, or the insufficiency or want of stamp is waived⁸; but if the admissibility of the document is doubtful, it should be admitted⁹.

A decision rejecting a document on grounds of stamping may be subject to appeal¹⁰.

1 Jones v Sandys (1753) Barnes 463; Justan v Yates (1852) 20 LTOS 71; Robinson v Lord Vernon (1860) 7 CBNS 231. This rule was applied even though the objecting party had not seen the document before it had been admitted in evidence: Foss v Wagner (1834) 7 Ad & El 116n.

2 Doe d Phillip v Benjamin (1839) 9 Ad & El 644 (agreement sufficiently stamped and admitted in evidence on trial of an ejectment, subsequently relied on as lease, thereby making stamp insufficient).

3 Field v Woods (1837) 7 Ad & El 114; see also Austin v Bunyard (1865) 6 B & S 687; Gatty v Fry (1877) 2 ExD 265.

4 See the Stamp Act 1891 s 14(1); and PARA 959. The Court of Appeal cannot assume that the court below has made a decision as to the admissibility of an unstamped document merely because it was there admitted in evidence, and must itself pay regard to the provisions of s 14(1): see Routledge v McKay [1954] 1 All ER 855 at 856, [1954] 1 WLR 615 at 617, CA, per Evershed MR; cf Symington & Co v Union Insurance Society of Canton (1927) 164 LT Jo 390 (unstamped insurance cover note could not be incorporated by arbitrator in special case). See, however, Prosser v Lancashire and Yorkshire Accident Insurance Co Ltd (1890) 6 TLR 285, CA, where the Court of Appeal rejected a stamp objection because the document had been admitted in the court below; see also Bowker v Williamson (1889) 5 TLR 382, DC, where the court expressed the view that an unstamped document should not have been admitted in the court below, but did not exclude it on appeal.

5 See PARA 959.

6 See the Stamp Act 1891 s 14(1); and PARA 959. The disfavour with which stamp objections are regarded is occasionally shown by depriving the successful party of costs: see Akt Genforsikrings (Scandinavia Reinsurance Co of Copenhagen) v Da Costa [1911] 1 KB 137, following Home Marine Insurance Co v Smith [1898] 1 QB 829; affd [1898] 2 QB 351, CA.

7 Bowker v Williamson (1889) 5 TLR 382, DC; and see Humphreys v Dudding (1861) 2 F & F 546, in which Martin B required an unstamped document, the effect of which was admitted, to be put formally in evidence before he would act on it, in order to obtain an undertaking that it would be stamped. Cf Slatterie v Pooley (1840) 6 M & W 664.

8 Nixon v Albion Marine Insurance Co (1867) LR 2 Exch 338; Bowker v Williamson (1889) 5 TLR 382, DC.

9 Reynolds v Hall (1858) 1 F & F 18; Vansittart v James (1858) 1 F & F 156; Westlake v Adams (1858) 1 F & F 183. The court is entitled to go behind the face of the document to determine whether it is duly stamped: see Maynard v Consolidated Kent Collieries Corp [1903] 2 KB 121, CA; but judges are not compelled to raise test cases or try doubtful cases, and their duty only extends to intervening to protect the revenue when there is an undoubted case of insufficient stamping or an attempted evasion of the Stamp Act 1891: Don Francesco v De Meo 1908 SC 7.

10 Hutchinson v Ferrier (1852) 19 LTOS 116, HL; Alcock v Delay (1855) 4 E & B 660; Sharples v Rickard (1857) 26 LJ Ex 302; Whitehouse v Hemmant (1858) 27 LJ Ex 295; The Belfort (1884) 9 PD 215, DC. As to appeals generally see PARA 1657 et seq. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(viii) Disclosure of Documents/963. Disclosure; in general.

(viii) Disclosure of Documents

963. Disclosure; in general.

The process formerly known as 'discovery of documents' is now known, for the purposes of proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules apply, as 'disclosure'¹. A party discloses a document² by stating that it exists or has existed³; and a party to whom a document has been disclosed normally has a right to inspect that document⁴.

A party's duty to disclose documents is limited to documents which are or have been in his control⁵ and the duty continues until the proceedings are concluded⁶.

There are two types of disclosure, standard disclosure and specific disclosure⁷. Where there is standard disclosure, a search is made for documents in the relevant categories, and then a list of them is compiled and served⁸; although the court may order a higher or lower level of disclosure in appropriate cases. Specific disclosure is specifically ordered by the court and requires disclosure of, or a search for and subsequent disclosure of, particular documents or classes of documents⁹.

The disclosure of certain documents may be withheld on grounds of public interest immunity, which is discussed elsewhere in this title¹⁰. The existence of certain other documents must be disclosed but the documents themselves may be protected from inspection by other parties on the grounds of legal professional privilege¹¹, the privilege against self-incrimination¹², a statutory obligation imposing secrecy¹³ or an express or implied agreement between the parties¹⁴, or on the ground that their production would be disproportionate to the issues in the case¹⁵.

Disclosure of documents is discussed elsewhere in this title¹⁶.

1 See CPR Pt 31; and PARA 538 et seq. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. CPR Pt 31 does not apply to a claim on the small claims track: CPR 31.1(2). As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'document' for these purposes see PARA 538.

3 CPR 31.2.

4 See CPR 31.3; and PARA 539.

5 See CPR 31.8; and PARA 538.

6 See CPR 31.11; and PARA 546.

7 See PARAS 542, 547.

8 See CPR 31.5, 31.6; and PARA 542.

9 See CPR 31.12; and PARA 547.

10 See PARA 574 et seq.

11 As to legal professional privilege see PARA 972; and PARA 558 et seq. As to the situation where a privileged document is made available for inspection by mistake see CPR 31.20; Al Fayed v Metropolitan Police Comr [2002] EWCA Civ 780, [2002] All ER (D) 450 (May); and PARA 551.

- 12 As to the privilege against self-incrimination see PARAS 580, 974.
- 13 See PARA 581.
- 14 See PARA 582.
- 15 See PARA 583.
- 16 See PARA 538 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(ix) Estoppel by Deed/964. Estoppel by deed; in general.

(ix) Estoppel by Deed

964. Estoppel by deed; in general.

Estoppel by deed was described in some nineteenth century cases as a rule of evidence but it is doubtful that it is any longer so, or is currently of much significance. Rather, the deed is simply a means of creating legal obligations. Where estoppel is relevant now is as an aspect of the principle of finality of judgments, in the form of estoppel by record¹.

An estoppel by deed is said to arise where there is a statement of fact in a deed² made between parties³. If upon the true construction of the deed the statement is that of both or all the parties, the estoppel is binding on each party; if otherwise, it is binding only on the party making it⁴. It seems that an estoppel also arises upon a deed poll, the mode of its execution being equally solemn with that of a deed made between parties⁵.

Estoppel by deed is based on the principle that, when a person has entered into a solemn engagement by deed as to certain facts, he will not be permitted to deny any matter which he has so asserted⁶. It is a rule of evidence according to which certain evidence is taken to be of so high and conclusive a nature as to admit of no contradictory proof⁷. The averment relied upon to work an estoppel must be 'certain to every intent' without any ambiguity⁸, but may be contained in the recital or in any part of the deed⁹. A mere mistake in a deed, on account of which no one has acted to his detriment, will not give rise to an estoppel but may give grounds for rectification¹⁰.

1 As to cause of action estoppel (or estoppel per rem judicatam) see PARA 1168 et seq.

2 As to the formalities of execution of a deed see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 27 et seq. Any rule of law which required a seal for the valid execution of an instrument as a deed by an individual has, except in relation to a corporation sole, been abolished: Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 1(1)(b), (10). As to proof of execution see PARA 864 et seq.

3 Rudd v Bowles[1912] 2 Ch 60.

4 As to parties bound by the estoppel see ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 1020.

5 There is no case of estoppel by deed poll, but see Right d Jefferys v Bucknell (1831) 2 B & Ad 278; Foster v Mentor Life Assurance Co (1854) 3 E & B 48; Re Ghost's Trusts (1883) 49 LT 588; Cropper v Smith(1884) 26 ChD 700, CA; and PARA 1188.

6 Greer v Kettle[1938] AC 156, [1937] 4 All ER 396, HL; Bowman v Taylor (1834) 2 Ad & El 278; Goodtitle d Edwards v Bailey (1777) 2 Cowp 597; Bonner v Wilkinson (1822) 1 Dow & Ry KB 328; Roberts v Security Co Ltd[1897] 1 QB 111, CA.

7 Simm v Anglo-American Telegraph Co, Anglo-American Telegraph Co v Spurling(1879) 5 QBD 188, CA, per Brett LJ; Low v Bouverie[1891] 3 Ch 82, CA.

8 Heath v Crealock(1874) 10 Ch App 22; Re Holland, Gregg v Holland[1902] 2 Ch 360, CA.

9 Shelley v Wright (1737) Willes 9; Lainson v Tremere (1834) 1 Ad & El 792; Bowman v Taylor (1834) 2 Ad & El 278; Crofts v Middleton (1855) 2 K & J 194; Re King's Settlement, King v King[1931] 2 Ch 294 (an estoppel set up by a definite misstatement of fact in the operative part of the deed as to the consideration); but it is not clear whether the words coming after 'in witness whereof' are part of the deed (Pearse v Morrice (1834) 2 Ad & El 84). The statement of the date is no estoppel, because a deed operates from date of delivery (Taylor v McCalmont (1855) 4 WR 59); but, if the date of a lease is altered after execution, the landlord is estopped from showing that the date inserted by him in the lease is not the date from which the demise operated so as to prevent anyone claiming under the lease from relying upon the circumstances existing at the date which the lease bears (Rudd v Bowles[1912] 2 Ch 60).

10 See ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 1023.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(6) DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE AND REAL EVIDENCE/(x) Real Evidence/965. What constitutes real evidence.

(x) Real Evidence

965. What constitutes real evidence.

Information as to the facts of a case may be given to the court or jury¹, not only by the spoken words of witnesses or the written words of documents², but also by means of the court's or jury's own observation of persons or things in court³ or of experiments made in the presence of the court⁴. Material objects inspected by the tribunal of fact as a means of proof constitute real, as opposed to documentary or witness, evidence. A person's physical appearance may constitute real evidence⁵ as may the appearance or behaviour of an animal⁶.

Tape-recordings, films and photographs are normally admitted as documentary evidence⁷ but may also constitute real evidence⁸.

Views and inspections both in and out of court are discussed elsewhere in this title⁹.

1 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 As to inspection of documents in general see PARA 538 et seq; and as to the inspection of documents by the court to determine whether they should be withheld on grounds of public interest immunity see PARA 579.

3 See PARA 1107.

4 Bigsby v Dickinson(1876) 4 ChD 24, CA; Twentyman v Barnes (1848) 2 De G & Sm 225; and see PARA 1107.

5 See C v C and C[1972] 3 All ER 577, [1972] 1 WLR 1335; and PARA 1068.

6 See Line v Taylor (1862) 3 F & F 731 (claim in respect of a dog bite; dog brought into court to be examined by the jury).

7 See PARA 958.

8 See eg R v Emmerson(1990) 92 Cr App Rep 284, CA (tape recording as evidence of tone of voice). See also The Statue of Liberty[1968] 2 All ER 195, [1968] 1 WLR 739 (film of radar echoes recorded by shore radar station).

9 See PARAS 794, 1108.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(i) Competence and Compellability/966. Competent and incompetent witnesses.

(7) WITNESSES

(i) Competence and Compellability

966. Competent and incompetent witnesses.

In civil proceedings, every person¹ is now² a competent witness³ unless he is (1) a child of such tender years that he has neither sufficient intelligence to testify nor a proper appreciation of the duty of speaking the truth⁴; (2) a person who at the time of being tendered as a witness is mentally incapable of testifying⁵; (3) deaf and dumb, and unable by writing or signs or otherwise to understand questions put to him, or to communicate his answers to others⁶; (4) a person who, from temporary causes, such as illness or drunkenness, is for the time being incapable of understanding questions and of giving a rational account of events; or (5) a person who does not appreciate the nature and obligation of an oath or affirmation⁷.

In criminal cases the rules as to the competence and incompetence of witnesses are now governed by statute⁸.

1 A limited company is not a competent witness. Evidence which binds the company may be given by a proper officer: Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt [1964] 1 QB 40, [1963] 1 All ER 258, CA.

2 At common law there were various classes of person who were incompetent as witnesses, eg parties to an action or their husbands or wives, persons interested in an action, infamous persons and persons who had no religious belief (see Starkie's Law of Evidence (4th Edn) 116) or had conscientious objections to taking an oath. It was doubtful whether a person under sentence of death could give evidence: R v Webb (1867) 11 Cox CC 133 per Lush J; cf R v Fitzgerald (1884) cited in 2 Taylor's Law of Evidence (12th Edn) 849n per Harrison J.

3 Persons interested were made competent witnesses by the Evidence Act 1843; parties to an action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) by the Evidence Act 1851 s 2 and the Evidence Further Amendment Act 1869 (repealed); the husbands and wives of parties by the Evidence Amendment Act 1853 s 1 and the Evidence Further Amendment Act 1869 (repealed); persons previously convicted of a crime or offence by the Evidence Act 1843 (repealed); and persons who had no religious belief or had conscientious objections to taking an oath by provisions re-enacted in the Oaths Act 1978 (see PARA 1023).

4 R v Brasier (1779) 1 Leach 199, where a general rule, applicable to both civil and criminal proceedings, was stated. It has been said that it is most undesirable in any circumstances to call a child as young as five years old: R v Wallwork (1958) 42 Cr App Rep 153, CCA. As to child witnesses see further PARA 1029.

5 A person suffering from mental disorder may give evidence if the judge at the trial at which he is tendered as a witness is satisfied that he is then of sufficient understanding to give rational evidence; the mere fact that such a person is then suffering from delusions does not make him incompetent if they do not make him incapable of dealing rationally with the matters about which he is to be asked: R v Hill (1851) 2 Den 254, CCR; R v Whitehead (1866) LR 1 CCR 33; R v Dunning [1965] Crim LR 372, CCA. Before a person who is known to be in such a state of mind can be received as a witness there should be a preliminary inquiry as to his fitness to give evidence: Spittle v Walton (1871) LR 11 Eq 420. As to such inquiry see PARA 967. As to mental disorder see MENTAL HEALTH vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 402.

6 Dickenson v Blisset (1754) 1 Dick 268; R v Ruston (1786) 1 Leach 408; Morrison v Lennard (1827) 3 C & P 127; Bartholomew v George (1851) cited in Best's Law of Evidence (12th Edn) 134 per Lord Campbell CJ; R v Whitehead (1868) LR 1 CCR 33; R v Imrie (1917) 12 Cr App Rep 282, CCA.

7 An adult may be incompetent from insufficient appreciation of the moral duty of speaking the truth: R v Wade (1825) 1 Mood CC 86, CCR; see further the cases cited in notes 5-6. However, no inquiry is normally conducted into an adult witness's appreciation of the duty to tell the truth.

8 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 ss 53-57; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1401-1404; MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(i) Competence and Compellability/967. Judge's duty.

967. Judge's duty.

Questions as to the competence or incompetence of a witness are decided by the court. In civil proceedings the court has a general discretionary power to control evidence¹; in criminal cases the procedure for determining competence is now governed by statute². If the incompetence of a witness is not discovered until after he is sworn and has given evidence, his evidence may nonetheless be objected to and rejected³.

A judicial officer⁴ who is sitting alone on the trial of a case cannot, because of his position, be a witness during that trial⁵.

1 See CPR 32.1; and PARA 791. The preliminary questioning of a witness to determine competence may be referred to as the 'voir dire'.

2 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 54; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1401; MAGISTRATES.

3 Jacobs v Layborn (1843) 11 M & W 685; R v Whitehead (1866) LR 1 CCR 33.

4 An arbitrator may be a witness in proceedings on his award: see PARA 971.

5 It has been held that a judge or magistrate who is sitting with others may leave the bench and give evidence, but should not return to the bench or take any further part in the trial in a judicial capacity (Hurpurshad v Sheo Dyal (1876) LR 3 Ind App 259, PC; Mitchell v Croydon Justices (1914) 111 LT 632, DC; R v Antrim County Justices [1901] 2 IR 133, CA; R v Galway Justices (1897) 31 ILT 160; Regicides' Case (1660) Kel 7); however, it is doubtful if these authorities would now be followed because such a procedure might be in breach of the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given more direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6: see PARAS 5, 792.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(i) Competence and Compellability/968. Jurors, counsel etc.

968. Jurors, counsel etc.

There seems to be no modern reported instance of a juror giving evidence¹ and such a procedure would appear to be in breach of the right to a fair trial².

A litigant who is conducting his own case may act as his own advocate and also be sworn as a witness³. Counsel or solicitors who are appearing as advocates in a case should not also act in the same case as witnesses⁴, but if they tender evidence their evidence is not inadmissible⁵.

A surveyor appointed to assist the court ought not to be called as a witness⁶ unless he has been appointed as a joint expert witness⁷; nor should a person who acts as an interpreter⁸.

An officer of the Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service ('CAFCASS')⁹ may, subject to rules of court, be cross-examined¹⁰ in any proceedings to the same extent as any witness¹¹; but he may not be cross-examined merely because he is exercising a right¹² to conduct litigation or a right of audience¹³.

1 For cases suggesting that a juror may give evidence see Manley v Shaw (1840) Car & M 361; R v Rosser (1836) 7 C & P 648; R (Giant's Causeway etc Tramway Co) v Antrim County Justices [1895] 2 IR 603. See also R v Blick (1966) 50 Cr App Rep 280, CCA (note handed to judge giving juror's personal knowledge of a matter in evidence); and JURIES vol 61 (2010) PARA 801 et seq. Cf R v Fricker [1999] 30 LS Gaz R 29, [1999] All ER (D) 673, CA (juror expert on matter in issue; after jury retired, sending note asking if they could take that juror's expert knowledge into account; judge ruling they could do so; held that jury should have been discharged). As to evidence of what took place in the jury room see PARA 971 text and notes 7-8.

2 As to the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6, see PARAS 5, 792.

3 Cobbett v Hudson (1852) 1 E & B 11.

4 R v Secretary of State for India in Council, ex p Ezekiel [1941] 2 KB 169, [1941] 2 All ER 546, DC; and see Stones v Byron (1846) 4 Dow & L 393.

5 See LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1147.

6 Broder v Saillard as reported in (1876) 24 WR 456.

7 As to joint experts see PARA 840.

8 See Singh v Singh [1971] P 226, [1971] 2 All ER 828, CA. As to interpreters see further PARA 1031.

9 As to CAFCASS see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 230 et seq.

10 As to cross-examination see PARA 1042 et seq.

11 Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 s 16(1); and see Re M (a child) (children and family reporter: disclosure) [2002] EWCA Civ 1199, [2003] Fam 26, [2002] 3 FCR 208.

12 Is a right granted in accordance with the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 s 15: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 243.

13 Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 s 16(2). See further CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 243.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(i) Competence and Compellability/969. Compellability.

969. Compellability.

A competent witness is usually compellable to give evidence¹. Some competent witnesses, however, are not compellable by reason of their special status; thus Her Majesty² and any other head of state³ is not subject to coercive process; so, too, a foreign diplomatic agent (a head of mission or member of diplomatic staff) is not obliged to attend to give evidence⁴; nor are other members of a consular post⁵. Similar diplomatic immunity is conferred on persons in the service of the governments of Commonwealth countries and to persons in the service of the government of the Republic of Ireland⁶.

The staff of various international organisations may be exempted from suit and legal process, which includes process for compelling attendance to give evidence⁷.

Members of Parliament are not compellable during a session⁸. In criminal proceedings, the spouses⁹ and civil partners of accused persons are not always compellable witnesses¹⁰.

1 As to securing the attendance of witnesses see PARA 1003 et seq.

2 As to how far the Sovereign is a competent witness see CROWN AND ROYAL FAMILY; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

3 See the State Immunity Act 1978 s 20(1); the Diplomatic Privileges Act 1964 s 2(1), Sch 1 art 31 para 2; and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARAS 265, 274.

4 See the Diplomatic Privileges Act 1964 Sch 1 art 31 para 2; and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 274.

5 See the Consular Relations Act 1968 s 1(1), Sch 1 art 44; and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARAS 296-297.

6 See the Consular Relations Act 1968 s 12 (substituted by the Diplomatic and other Privileges Act 1971 s 4, Schedule); and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 302.

7 See the International Organisations Act 1968 s 1, Sch 1, which also extends immunity to representatives at certain international conferences; and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 307 et seq.

8 See PARA 1003 note 1. As to the Parliamentary Commissioner for Administration see the Parliamentary Commissioner Act 1967 s 11(2); and ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 41.

9 For these purposes, 'spouse' does not include a cohabitee: see R v Pearce [2001] EWCA Crim 2834, [2002] 1 WLR 1553, [2002] 3 FCR 75.

10 See the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 ss 80, 80A; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1405.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/970. Privileges of witnesses.

(ii) Privilege and Immunity

A. PRIVILEGE

970. Privileges of witnesses.

Privilege¹ may in certain cases be claimed as a ground for refusing to give evidence as to matters relevant² to an issue even though the witness who would depose to such matters is generally competent and compellable to give evidence³.

Privilege may be waived by the person entitled to claim it, either expressly or by allowing evidence to be given of matters in respect of which privilege might have been claimed⁴.

The following former grounds of privilege or objection to the production of documents or to answering any question in any civil proceedings⁵ were abrogated by the Civil Evidence Act 1968:

- 136 (1) the old rule that to do so would tend to expose a party to a forfeiture⁶;
- 137 (2) the old rule whereby a person other than a party to the proceedings could not be compelled to produce any deed or other document relating to his title to any land⁷;
- 138 (3) the old rule whereby a party to the proceedings could not be compelled to produce any document relating solely to his own case and in no way tending to impeach that case or support the case of any opposing party⁸;
- 139 (4) the old rule whereby a husband or wife could not be compelled to disclose any communication made to him or her by his or her spouse during the marriage⁹;
- 140 (5) the old rule whereby a husband or wife could not be compelled to give evidence to prove that marital intercourse did or did not take place between them during any period¹⁰;
- 141 (6) the old rule that a witness, including a party, in proceedings instituted in consequence of adultery could not be compelled to answer any question by reason that it tended to show that he or she had been guilty of adultery¹¹.

1 As to privilege in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1474 et seq. As to the protection of witnesses from civil liability in respect of their testimony see PARA 978.

2 As to relevance see PARA 1067 et seq.

3 The privilege is in most cases that of the witness, and not that of a party to the proceedings, unless, as in the case of communications with a legal adviser, the privilege in fact belongs to the party. A party not himself protected by privilege cannot avail himself of it: R v Kinglake (1870) 11 Cox CC 499; Thomas v Newton (1827) Mood & M 48n; R v Adey (1831) 1 Mood & R 94; Marston v Downes (1834) 1 Ad & El 31; Doe d Earl of Egremont v Date (1842) 3 QB 609; Doe d Rowcliffe v Earl of Egremont (1841) 2 Mood & R 386; and see Procter v Smiles (1886) 55 LJQB 527, CA. See further PARA 558 et seq.

4 As to the waiver of legal professional privilege see PARA 571. Where evidence is inadmissible on grounds of public policy (see PARA 574 et seq) there is no privilege that can be waived: Rogers v Secretary of State for the Home Department [1973] AC 388, [1972] 2 All ER 1057, HL.

5 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 1208 note 1.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(1)(a).

7 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(1)(b).

8 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(2).

9 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(3). The former protection was provided by the Evidence (Amendment) Act 1853 s 3 (now repealed). As to compellability in criminal proceedings see the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 ss 80, 80A; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1405 et seq.

10 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(4), which amended the Matrimonial Causes Act 1965 s 43(1) (now repealed). As to compellability in criminal proceedings see note 9.

11 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(5) (repealing the Evidence Further Amendment Act 1869 s 3 proviso; and the Matrimonial Causes Act 1965 s 43(2) (in part) (now wholly repealed)); and see Nast v Nast and Walker[1972] Fam 142, [1972] 1 All ER 1171, CA; C v C[1973] 3 All ER 770, [1973] 1 WLR 568. See also MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 828.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/971. Judicial tribunals and jurors.

971. Judicial tribunals and jurors.

A judge is competent but not compellable¹ to give evidence of matters of which he becomes aware relating to and as a result of his performance of his judicial functions, but should be relied upon, in a case where his evidence is vital, not to allow the fact that he is not compellable to stand in the way of his giving evidence². Court officers may be compelled to give such evidence³.

An arbitrator may be called to give evidence of fact in proceedings concerning an award made by him, but his evidence is not admissible to explain, aid or contradict his award⁴. Similarly, a member of a judicial body or a tribunal cannot give evidence as to the reasons which prompted his decisions⁵.

Where a judge is not giving evidence about a case in which he has been concerned, there is no privilege, and no reason for unusual practice⁶.

The evidence of jurors as to what occurred during a trial or in the jury room is not admissible⁷ and for a juror to offer such evidence would constitute a contempt of court⁸.

1 Florence v Lawson (1851) 17 LTOS 260; Duke of Buccleuch v Metropolitan Board of Works (1872) LR 5 HL 418; R v Gizard (1838) 8 C & P 595; R v Harvey (1858) 8 Cox CC 99; see also Ramlochan v R [1956] AC 475, [1956] 2 All ER 577n, PC (defence on re-trial has no right to see judge's note taken at first trial in a case where there was no shorthand note).

2 Warren v Warren [1997] QB 488, [1996] 4 All ER 664, CA.

3 R v Harvey (1858) 8 Cox CC 99; McKinley v McKinley [1960] 1 All ER 476, [1960] 1 WLR 120 (magistrates' clerk may be compelled to produce a note of evidence in matrimonial proceedings if it is relevant and admissible).

4 See ARBITRATION.

5 Ward v Shell-Mex and BP Ltd [1952] 1 KB 280, [1951] 2 All ER 904. See eg Edwards v Cornwall County Council [2001] EWHC Admin 595, [2001] All ER (D) 395 (Jul) (courts when considering decisions of tribunals, whether by way of judicial review or appeal, should exercise considerable care before relying upon a witness statement of the chair of the tribunal which purports to clarify the basis on which the decision was made, since unlike other decision makers, tribunal members cannot be cross-examined). As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

6 See Dicas v Lord Brougham (1833) 6 C & P 249. In Appleby v Errington (1952) Times, 22 October, Hodson LJ gave evidence from the bench, unrobed and unsworn, and Karminski J gave evidence from the witness box, robed and sworn.

7 Ellis v Deheer [1922] 2 KB 113, CA; Boston v WS Bagshaw & Sons [1967] 2 All ER 87n, [1966] 1 WLR 1135n, CA. See further JURIES vol 61 (2010) PARAS 849, 851. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

8 See the Contempt of Court Act 1981 s 8; and CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 434. Cf, however, R v Young (Stephen) [1995] QB 324, [1995] 2 Cr App Rep 379, CA (Court of Appeal had jurisdiction to inquire into allegations that during an overnight hotel stay four jurors had purported to consult with the deceased victim by means of an ouija board and to have obtained messages prejudicial to the defendant, since a jury's stay in an hotel was a hiatus between sessions in the jury room and was not a period during which the jury as a whole was in the course of its deliberations; however the court had no jurisdiction to inquire into what happened thereafter in the jury room); disapproved in R v Connor, R v Mirza [2004] UKHL 2, [2004] 1 All ER 925 (juror gave evidence after verdict which, if admitted, would have provided prima facie evidence of jury partiality; demands of European Convention on Human Rights art 6 did not require the creation of an exception to admissibility rule).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/972. Confidential communications.

972. Confidential communications.

Confidential communications passing between a client and his legal adviser and made for the purpose of obtaining or giving legal advice are in general protected by legal professional privilege and privileged from disclosure¹. The privilege is available in respect of the oral testimony of witnesses, and the principles which determine whether a communication is or is not privileged are the same for both oral and written communications². The privilege is that of the client and may be waived by him³. Legal professional privilege is discussed elsewhere in this title⁴.

Confidential communications other than those passing between a client and his legal adviser are not, in general, privileged from disclosure⁵ but may be protected by statute⁶, by public interest immunity⁷ or by the privilege attaching to without prejudice communications⁸.

Privilege may also be protected as a matter of judicial discretion⁹.

1 Secondary evidence of privileged documents may be disclosed (Goddard v Nationwide Building Society [1987] QB 670, [1986] 3 All ER 264, CA); although if a copy is obtained improperly, an injunction may be granted restraining the use of that copy and if inspection of a document is given inadvertently, then it may be used only with the court's permission (see PARA 551; and see eg Derby & Co Ltd v Weldon (No 8) [1990] 3 All ER 762, [1991] 1 WLR 73, CA).

2 Nias v Northern and Eastern Rly Co (1838) 3 My & Cr 355; see PARA 561.

3 See PARA 571.

4 See PARA 558 et seq. See also LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 140; LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1146.

5 See Alfred Crompton Amusement Machines Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs (No 2) [1974] AC 405, [1973] 2 All ER 1169, HL; and PARA 556 note 14.

Thus, doctors may be compelled to disclose communications with their patients (Nuttall v Nuttall and Twyman (1964) 108 Sol Jo 605; and see Hunter v Mann [1974] QB 767 at 775, [1974] 2 All ER 414 at 420, DC, where Widgery CJ said, obiter, that a judge can, if he thinks fit, tell a doctor that he need not answer a question concerning confidential information). The better view is that a priest is not privileged from disclosing the secrets of the confessional (see Wheeler v Le Marchant (1881) 17 ChD 675, CA; and see Normanshaw v Normanshaw and Measham (1893) 69 LT 468; cf R v Hay (1860) 2 F & F 4; Broad v Pitt (1828) 3 C & P 518); but in the Republic of Ireland such a privilege has been held to exist (Cook v Carroll [1945] IR 515). See also ECCLESIASTICAL LAW. In practice, communications passing between spouses and marriage guidance counsellors are privileged because they are to be regarded as communications 'without prejudice': McTaggart v McTaggart [1949] P 94, [1948] 2 All ER 754, CA; and see PARA 804. As to the communication to other professionals of information obtained by children and family reporters in the service of the Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service ('CAFCASS') in the course of their inquiries see Re M (a child) (children and family reporter: disclosure) [2002] EWCA Civ 1199, [2002] Fam 26, [2002] 3 FCR 208; and as to welfare reports see further CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 317.

As to the implied contract of a bank not to divulge information see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 791 et seq. As regards absence of legal privilege of a bank see Lloyd v Freshfield and Kaye (1826) 2 C & P 325, cited in Tournier v National Provincial and Union Bank of England [1924] 1 KB 461 at 479, CA, per Scrutton LJ.

6 For examples of statutes forbidding the disclosure of information see PARA 581. As to the protection afforded to journalistic sources by the Contempt of Court Act 1981 s 10 see PARA 576.

7 As to public interest immunity see PARA 574 et seq.

- 8 As to without prejudice communications see PARAS 804-805.
- 9 As to judicial discretion see PARA 9.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/973. Parliamentary proceedings.

973. Parliamentary proceedings.

A witness may refuse to disclose¹ what has taken place in either House of Parliament, or what was said, or how any person voted, unless the leave of the House is obtained; it is immaterial that the witness is not a member of either House². Leave is granted in appropriate cases³.

¹ In cases other than defamation proceedings, a rule of law prevents evidence being given of proceedings in Parliament unless leave is given, but in relation to defamation proceedings the witness may waive the protection of that rule so far as concerns his conduct in relation to those proceedings: see the Defamation Act 1996 s 13; and LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARAS 102, 104.

² Plunkett v Cobbett (1804) 5 Esp 136; Chubb v Salomons (1852) 3 Car & Kir 75.

³ See 457 H of C Official Report (5th series) cols 999, 1000 (with reference to Braddock v Tillotson's Newspapers Ltd [1950] 1 KB 47, [1949] 2 All ER 306, CA).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/974. Incrimination of witnesses.

974. Incrimination of witnesses.

In any legal proceedings¹ other than criminal proceedings² a person may refuse to answer any question³ or produce any document or thing⁴ if to do so would tend to expose him to proceedings for an offence⁵ or for the recovery of a penalty⁶. The privilege applies only as regards criminal offences under the law of any part of the United Kingdom and penalties provided by such law⁷, and includes a similar right to refuse to answer any question or produce any document or thing if to do so would expose the spouse⁸ or civil partner of that person to proceedings for any such criminal offence or for the recovery of any such penalty⁹. The privilege is that of the witness to whom the question is put, and no other person may avail himself of it¹⁰.

The privilege does not apply if there is in fact no possibility of proceedings being taken against the witness¹¹; nor can a witness refuse to answer a question otherwise admissible on the ground that it might tend to degrade him¹² or establish that he owes a debt, or is otherwise subject to a civil suit¹³.

The privilege may be abrogated by statute¹⁴.

Where there are civil proceedings and related criminal proceedings, an application for the stay of the civil proceedings pending the determination of the related criminal proceedings may be made by any party to the civil proceedings or by the prosecutor or any defendant in the criminal proceedings¹⁵.

1 'Legal proceedings' includes an arbitration or reference, whether under an enactment or not: Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 18(2). In relation to a coroner's inquest see also the Coroners Rules 1984, SI 1984/552, r 22, cited in note 6.

2 In criminal proceedings the rule additionally protects a witness from having to answer a question where to do so would expose him to a forfeiture: Pye v Butterfield (1864) 5 B & S 829; Bishop of Cork v Porter (1877) IR 11 CL 94; and see the Witnesses Act 1806 s 1. The Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 16(1)(a) abrogated the privilege, so far as it relates to forfeiture, in proceedings other than criminal proceedings: see PARA 970. See also CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1476.

3 For the mode of refusal see PARA 975. For judicial statements of the rule that a witness is not bound to answer incriminating questions see R v Boyes (1861) 1 B & S 311; Lamb v Munster (1882) 10 QBD 110, DC; Triplex Safety Glass Co Ltd v Lancegaye Safety Glass (1934) Ltd [1939] 2 KB 395, [1939] 2 All ER 613, CA; Blunt v Park Lane Hotel Ltd [1942] 2 KB 253, [1942] 2 All ER 187, CA; S v E [1967] 1 QB 367, [1967] 1 All ER 593 (questions as to paternity not incriminating); Den Norske Bank ASA v Antonatos [1999] QB 271, [1998] 3 All ER 74, CA; Memory Corpn plc v Sidhu [2000] Ch 645, [2000] 1 All ER 434. For a fuller citation of authority see PARA 580. As to the position of an accused person giving evidence for himself or for a co-accused in a criminal trial see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

4 See PARA 580.

5 Maloney v Bartley (1812) 3 Camp 210; R v Pegler (1833) 5 C & P 521; Fisher v Ronalds (1852) 12 CB 762. As to offences to which the privilege has been held to apply see PARA 580 note 3.

6 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(1). As to penalties see R v Friend (1696) 13 State Tr 1; Dandridge v Corden (1827) 3 C & P 11. See also the Coroners Rules 1984, SI 1984/552, r 22 (no witness at an inquest obliged to answer any question tending to incriminate himself); and CORONERS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1021.

7 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(1)(a). The position in criminal cases may be similar: see Re Atherton [1912] 2 KB 251; cf United States of America v McRae (1867) 3 Ch App 79; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1476. A fine which may be imposed by the EU Commission is a

'penalty' provided by English law and consequently privilege applies where such a fine may be incurred: Rio Tinto Zinc Corp v Westinghouse Electric Corp [1978] AC 547, [1978] 1 All ER 434, HL. See also Garvin v Domus Publishing Ltd [1989] Ch 335, [1989] 2 All ER 344; A-G for Gibraltar v May [1999] 1 WLR 998, CA (privilege not extended to possible criminal proceedings under foreign law). As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

8 For these purposes, and in any amendment made by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 to any other enactment, references to a person's husband or wife do not include references to a person who is no longer married to that person: s 18(2). Quære whether the privilege extends to a co-habitee or civil partner; see PARA 969 note 9.

9 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(1)(b) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 261(1), Sch 27 para 30) (as regards legal proceedings other than criminal proceedings); R v All Saints, Worcester, Inhabitants (1817) 6 M & S 194; Stapleton v Crofts (1852) 18 QB 367.

In so far as any enactment passed before 25 October 1968 (ie the date of commencement of the Civil Evidence Act 1968) conferring (in whatever words) powers of inspection or investigation confers on a person (in whatever words) any right otherwise than in criminal proceedings to refuse to answer any question or give any evidence tending to incriminate him, s 14(1) applies to that right as it applies to the right described in s 14(1), and every such enactment must be construed accordingly: s 14(2). See also s 17(3), Schedule (verbal amendments to bring certain enactments into conformity with the provisions of s 14).

10 R v Kinglake (1870) 11 Cox CC 499; Thomas v Newton (1827) Mood & M 48n; R v Adey (1831) 1 Mood & R 94. A witness may not claim the privilege for the benefit of any other person save his spouse; thus an agent cannot refuse to answer on the ground that to do so would incriminate his principal, if it would not incriminate him personally: McFadzen v Liverpool Corp (1868) LR 3 Exch 279.

11 See PARA 580.

12 Cundell v Pratt (1827) Mood & M 108; and see R v Pitcher (1823) 1 C & P 85; Millman v Tucker (1803) Peake Add Cas 222, and the cases cited in the notes at 223. See also PARA 580. The court has a discretion either to permit or exclude a question which tends merely to degrade: Cooper v Curry (1846) 8 LTOS 238; and as to the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence see PARA 791.

13 Witnesses Act 1806 s 1; Doe d Earl of Egremont v Date (1842) 3 QB 609; Blunt v Park Lane Hotel Ltd [1942] 2 KB 253, [1942] 2 All ER 187, CA; cf Venables v Schweitzer (1873) LR 16 Eq 76; Re Desportes, ex p Official Receiver (1893) 68 LT 233.

14 See PARA 976.

15 See PARA 310. As to the meaning of 'stay' see PARA 233 note 11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/975. When a witness can refuse to answer.

975. When a witness can refuse to answer.

A person cannot refuse to be called as a witness on the ground that the only answer he can give will incriminate him or his spouse¹; he can only refuse to answer after he has been sworn, or has affirmed, and must then object to answering a particular question². The mere statement by a witness that he believes the answer will incriminate him does not excuse him from answering; before he may be excused the court must be satisfied that there is a reasonable ground to apprehend danger from his being compelled to answer³. The privilege protects both future and past answers; and where a witness objects to answering a question, but is improperly compelled to answer, the answer cannot usually be admitted in evidence against him in any subsequent proceedings⁴.

1 As to the privilege against incrimination see PARA 974.

2 Boyle v Wiseman (1855) 10 Exch 647; and see National Association of Operative Plasterers v Smithies [1906] AC 434, HL. See also R v Lincoln Coroner, ex p Hay [2000] Lloyd's Rep Med 264, (1999) Times, 30 March (the privilege against self-incrimination contained in the Coroners Rules 1984, SI 1984/552, r 22 (see PARA 974 note 6; and CORONERS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1021) is concerned with the giving of an answer by a witness and the procedure to be adopted when dealing with such a claim of privilege and does not give the witness complete immunity against further questioning).

3 Re Genese, ex p Gilbert (1886) 3 Morr 223, CA; Osborn v London Dock Co (1855) 10 Exch 698; R v Boyes (1861) 1 B & S 311; and see National Association of Operative Plasterers v Smithies [1906] AC 434, HL; Den Norske Bank ASA v Antonatos [1999] QB 271, [1998] 3 All ER 74, CA; Memory Corp plc v Sidhu [2000] Ch 645, [2000] 1 All ER 434; Great Future International Ltd v Sealand Housing Corp [2001] CPLR 293; and PARA 580.

4 R v Garbett (1847) 1 Den 236; R v Coote (1873) LR 4 PC 599. Cf the general rule that wrongfully obtained evidence is admissible: see PARA 765.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/A. PRIVILEGE/976. Statutory exceptions.

976. Statutory exceptions.

In some cases a witness is required by statute to answer a question¹, even though the answer may incriminate him or his spouse or civil partner². It is usual in such cases for a witness so required to answer to be given statutory protection against the use of the answer in subsequent proceedings against himself³ or his spouse or civil partner⁴.

1 There are cases where statute requires a person to provide information otherwise than in the course of proceedings, even though the information given may incriminate him: see eg the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 112 and the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2) (information about rider or driver of a vehicle); the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 171 (information for verifying requirement about compulsory insurance or security); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1026; and the Companies Act 1985 ss 434(1), 444(1), 447 (assistance with investigation into company's affairs by DTI inspectors); and COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARAS 1544, 1546, 1558.

2 See eg the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 72 (as to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1); PARA 319; and COPYRIGHT, DESIGN RIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 435; the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 141(1)-(2); and ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS vol 15(4) (2007 Reissue) PARA 828; the Theft Act 1968 s 31(1)(a) and the Criminal Damage Act 1971 s 9(a); note 3; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1477. A witness cannot object to producing a public document kept in pursuance of a statute on the ground that it might incriminate him: Bradshaw v Murphy (1836) 7 C & P 612. For the position of an accused person giving evidence in a criminal trial see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE. As to the public examination of company officers and bankrupts see the Insolvency Act 1986 ss 133, 290; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY; and as to the extent to which these provisions abrogate the privilege against self-incrimination see Bishopsgate Investment Management Ltd (in provisional liquidation) v Maxwell [1993] Ch 1, [1992] 2 All ER 856, CA.

Where any enactment passed before 25 October 1968 (ie the date of commencement of the Civil Evidence Act 1968) provides, in whatever words, that in any proceedings other than criminal proceedings a person is not to be excused from answering any question or giving any evidence on the ground that to do so may incriminate that person, that enactment must be construed as providing also that in such proceedings a person is not to be excused from answering any question or giving any evidence on the ground that to do so may incriminate that person's husband or wife: s 14(3), (5); see also s 17(3), Schedule (verbal amendments to bring certain enactments into conformity with s 14). No amendment has been made to s 14(3) in respect of civil partners.

3 Eg a person is not excused, by reason that to do so might incriminate that person, or that person's spouse or civil partner, of an offence under the Theft Act 1968, from answering any question put to that person in proceedings for the recovery or administration of any property, for the execution of any trust, or for an account of any property or dealings with property, but no statement or admission made by a person in answering such a question is, in proceedings for an offence under that Act, admissible in evidence against that person, or (unless they married or became civil partners after the making of the statement or admission) against the spouse or civil partner of that person: s 31(1)(a) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 261(1), Sch 27 para 28). The Criminal Damage Act 1971 s 9(a) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 27 para 36) makes provision in similar terms to the Theft Act 1968 s 31(1)(a) in relation to answers that might incriminate a person of an offence under the Act of 1971, and provides a similar protection against the admission in evidence in proceedings for an offence under that Act against the person obliged to answer, or his spouse or civil partner, of a statement or admission made in the answer. See further CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

4 Where any enactment, however worded, passed before 25 October 1968 provides as mentioned in the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 14(3) (see note 2), or confers powers of inspection or investigation, and further provides (in whatever words) that any answer or evidence given by a person is not to be admissible in evidence against that person in any proceedings or class of proceedings (however described, and whether criminal or not), that enactment is to be construed as providing also that any answer or evidence given by that person is not to be admissible in evidence against that person's husband or wife in the proceedings or class of proceedings in question: s 14(4), (5); see also s 17(3), Schedule (verbal amendments to bring certain enactments into conformity with s 14).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/B. IMMUNITY/977. Privilege from civil arrest.

B. IMMUNITY

977. Privilege from civil arrest.

Witnesses, parties and solicitors are privileged from arrest on civil but not criminal¹ process² while going to, attending and returning from, the place of trial³.

The rule applies in all cases where a person is attending a properly constituted tribunal⁴ for the purpose of giving evidence, or where he has some relation to or interest in the proceedings, either as a party or solicitor or agent, or for any other reason⁵. The rule has no application to a person going to obtain a summons, even though he obtains it⁶. It is immaterial that the person has been served with no process by which his presence might be compelled⁷, but he must be acting in good faith in the capacity on which he bases his claim to the privilege⁸.

The time over which the privilege extends is a question of fact and reasonableness in each case⁹; a witness is not, for example, protected as from the moment at which he is served with his witness summons or subpoena¹⁰, but only when, in good faith, he begins his journey to the place of trial¹¹. His journey must be made without unnecessary deviations¹², and any deviation must be clearly connected with the object of the journey¹³.

The time during which the privilege extends while he is actually in attendance at the place of trial will also vary according to the circumstances of each case¹⁴. When he returns he is under no obligation to go home by the shortest route, or the very moment that the trial is over, provided he acts reasonably and does not abuse the privilege for his own purposes¹⁵. The fact that he is compelled to prolong his stay for want of means to return, however, is an immaterial consideration¹⁶.

The privilege exists in the interests of public justice¹⁷, and a delay on the part of the witness in asserting the privilege for the purpose of obtaining his discharge from custody after arrest will not, therefore, prejudice him¹⁸. A witness may obtain his discharge from custody by application to the court from which the process for his arrest has issued, or, if summoned as a witness, to the court to which he has been summoned¹⁹, or by taking habeas corpus proceedings²⁰.

A witness cannot sue the officer who arrests him merely in respect of the arrest, even though the officer knew that the privilege existed²¹, or those who employed the officer²², although in the latter case a knowledge of the privilege may possibly be evidence of malice and may therefore justify a claim²³. The court could itself treat the arrest as a contempt, as being a deliberate interference with the course of justice²⁴.

1 See Re Freston(1883) 11 QBD 545, CA, where the distinction is discussed. As to privileges of solicitors generally see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 738.

2 Re Douglas(1842) 3 QB 825; Kimpton v London and North Western Rly Co(1854) 9 Exch 766. There is no privilege from arrest when a person is committed for criminal contempt of court, nor in some cases of civil contempt accompanied by circumstances of misconduct: Re Freston(1883) 11 QBD 545, CA; Re Dudley(1883) 12 QBD 44, CA; Re Gent, Gent-Davis v Harris(1889) 40 ChD 190; Re Grey[1892] 2 QB 440, CA; Re Hunt[1959] 2 QB 69, [1959] 2 All ER 252, CA; Stourton v Stourton[1963] P 302, [1963] 1 All ER 606; and see CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 519. For the distinction between criminal and civil contempt see CONTEMPT OF COURT.

3 The general principle is stated in Re Freston(1883) 11 QBD 545 at 552, CA, per Brett MR; see also Lightfoot v Cameron (1776) 2 Wm Bl 1113; Meekins v Smith (1791) 1 Hy Bl 636; Willingham v Matthews (1815) 6 Taunt 356; Magnay v Burt(1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652.

4 Ex p Cobbett (1857) 7 E & B 955. For cases of the privilege successfully claimed in proceedings before various tribunals see Arding v Flower (1800) 3 Esp 117; subsequent proceedings 8 Term Rep 534; Ex p King (1802) 7 Ves 312; Ex p Byne (1813) 1 Ves & B 316; Willingham v Matthews (1815) 6 Taunt 356; Re Sewercrop, ex p Clarke (1832) 2 Deac & Ch 99 (bankruptcy); Moore v Booth (1797) 3 Ves 350; Phillips v Pound(1852) 7 Exch 881; Re Jewitt (1864) 33 Beav 559 (judge's chambers); Sidgier v Birch (1803) 9 Ves 69; List's Case (1813) 2 Ves & B 373; Franklyn v Colqhoun (1816) 1 Madd 580 (High Court masters etc); Newton v Askew (1848) 6 Hare 319 (Chancery registrar); Spence v Stuart (1802) 3 East 89; Ex p Temple (1814) 2 Ves & B 391; Randall v Gurney (1819) 3 B & Ald 252 (arbitration by court order); Webb v Taylor (1843) 13 LJB 24 (the same under a submission agreed to be made a rule of court); Walters v Rees (1819) 4 Moore CP 34 (under-sheriff); Webb v Taylor (1843) 13 LJB 24; Mountague v Harrison (1857) 3 CBNS 292; Re Freston(1883) 11 QBD 545, CA (magistrates' courts). The privilege with regard to courts-martial is statutory: see the Army Act 1955 s 100; the Air Force Act 1955 s 100; and ARMED FORCES.

5 Walpole v Alexander (1782) 3 Doug KB 45; Meekins v Smith (1791) 1 Hy Bl 636; Arding v Flower (1800) 3 Esp 117 (bankrupt attending, on notice, meeting to declare dividend); Ex p Byne (1813) 1 Ves & B 316 (person attending, without summons, commissioners in a bankruptcy, and filing uncontradicted affidavit that he is a material witness); cf Phillips v Pound(1852) 7 Exch 881 (solicitors' clerk at judge's chambers not privileged).

6 Ex p Cobbett (1857) 7 E & B 955.

7 Walpole v Alexander (1782) 3 Doug KB 45 (witness coming from abroad to give evidence); Meekins v Smith (1791) 1 Hy Bl 636; Spence v Stuart (1802) 3 East 89; Rishton v Nisbett (1834) 1 Mood & R 347 (witness attending at request of party to arbitration proceedings). There was at one time a difference of opinion as to the necessity of a witness summons, subpoena or other like process: see Ex p Byne (1813) 1 Ves & B 316, and the cases there cited, as well as cases cited in Magnay v Burt(1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652.

8 Meekins v Smith (1791) 1 Hy Bl 636; Gibbs v Phillipson (1829) 1 Russ & M 19.

9 Walpole v Alexander (1782) 3 Doug KB 45; Strong v Dickenson (1836) 1 M & W 488.

10 Gibbs v Phillipson (1829) 1 Russ & M 19.

11 Gibbs v Phillipson (1829) 1 Russ & M 19; Ricketts v Gurney (1819) 7 Price 699; Strong v Dickenson (1836) 1 M & W 488; Persse v Persse (1856) 5 HL Cas 671.

12 Ricketts v Gurney (1819) 7 Price 699; Strong v Dickenson (1836) 1 M & W 488.

13 Ricketts v Gurney (1819) 7 Price 699 (deviation on way to place of trial to collect and arrange necessary papers). Contrast Gibbs v Phillipson (1829) 1 Russ & M 19, where the witness was held to have no privilege on going to his solicitors' office three days before his examination, for the purpose of looking at the interrogatories which he would have to answer.

14 Walpole v Alexander (1782) 3 Doug KB 45 (witness coming from abroad, and finding case postponed to following sittings, privileged from arrest while staying in London for case to be heard); Childerston v Barrett (1809) 11 East 439 (arrest of witness on day when case was not in list unjustifiable); Ex p Temple (1814) 2 Ves & B 391 (privilege during adjournment); Spencer v Newton (1837) 6 Ad & El 623 (but not where case is adjourned indefinitely, and the witness stays on in the expectation that some step will be taken by the other side).

15 Willingham v Matthews (1815) 6 Taunt 356; Strong v Dickenson (1836) 1 M & W 488; see also Lightfoot v Cameron (1776) 2 Wm Bl 1113 (arrest unjustified where a party after being present at case in the morning was dining in the afternoon with his solicitor and witnesses; sed quaere); Holiday v Pitt (1734) 2 Stra 985; Selby v Hills (1832) 1 Dowl 257 (arrest unjustified where witness was arrested a mile from the court, and two hours after leaving it, but on his direct road home); Pitt v Coomes (1834) 5 B & Ad 1078 (the same, where witness was in his tailor's shop, which he had visited on his way home). The privilege covers a witness while returning home after imprisonment for contempt of court committed during the trial: R v Wigley (1835) 7 C & P 4.

16 Spencer v Newton (1837) 6 Ad & El 623.

17 Newton v Constable(1841) 2 QB 157; Magnay v Burt(1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652; Ex p Cobbett (1857) 7 E & B 955.

18 Webb v Taylor (1843) 1 Dow & L 676; Andrews v Martin (1862) 12 CBNS 371.

19 Walker v Webb (1797) 3 Anst 941; Randall v Gurney (1819) 3 B & Ald 252; Selby v Hills (1832) 8 Bing 166; Re Sewercrop, ex p Clarke (1832) 2 Deac & Ch 99; A-G v Skinners' Co (1837) Coop Pr Cas 1; Kimpton v London and North Western Rly Co (1854) 9 Exch 766.

20 Ex p Tillotson (1816) 1 Stark 470; Towers v Newton (1841) 1 QB 319; Astbury v Belbin (1850) 3 Car & Kir 20. As to habeas corpus proceedings see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 207 et seq.

21 Tarlton v Fisher (1781) 2 Doug KB 671; Magnay v Burt (1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652.

22 Stokes v White (1834) 1 Cr M & R 223; Yearsley v Heane (1845) 14 M & W 322; Ewart v Jones (1845) 14 M & W 774.

23 Whalley v Pepper (1836) 7 C & P 506; but in view of the later decisions, such as Magnay v Burt (1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652, this seems open to question.

24 Magnay v Burt (1843) 5 QB 381, Dav & Mer 652.

UPDATE

977 Privilege from civil arrest

NOTE 4--Army Act 1955 and Air Force Act 1955 replaced: Armed Forces Act 2006.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ii) Privilege and Immunity/B. IMMUNITY/978. Protection from proceedings in respect of the evidence given.

978. Protection from proceedings in respect of the evidence given.

A witness is protected from civil proceedings¹ in respect of the evidence which he gives² in judicial proceedings³, and in respect of things said or done in the course of preparing evidence for such proceedings⁴ although not in respect of advice given as to the merits of a claim before proceedings are commenced⁵. The protection is against civil proceedings of any sort, and is not limited to claims for libel and slander⁶. The underlying rationale of the immunity is to ensure that persons who may be witnesses in future cases will not be deterred from giving evidence by fear of being sued for what they say in court⁷.

Where, however, an arrest has been secured as a result of some malicious proceeding for which there was no reasonable cause, the protection given to the witness will not necessarily exclude a claim for malicious arrest. A person giving evidence in support of a bench warrant has no privilege⁸.

The immunity of witnesses from civil proceedings does not extend to immunity in respect of the deliberate fabrication of evidence which is to be referred to in a statement of evidence⁹.

An expert is not immune from professional disciplinary procedures in relation to evidence given at trial¹⁰.

1 As to the crime of perjury and similar offences see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 712 et seq.

2 Floyd v Barker (1607) 12 Co Rep 23; Revis v Smith (1856) 18 CB 126; Astley v Younge (1759) 2 Burr 807; Henderson v Broomhead (1859) 4 H & N 569; Dawkins v Lord Rokeby (1873) LR 8 QB 255, Ex Ch; affd (1875) LR 7 HL 744; Seaman v Netherclift (1876) 2 CPD 53, CA; Bynoe v Bank of England [1902] 1 KB 467, CA; Barratt v Kearns [1905] 1 KB 504, CA; Watson v M'Ewan, Watson v Jones [1905] AC 480, HL; Marrinan v Vibart [1963] 1 QB 528, [1962] 3 All ER 380, CA; Lincoln v Daniels [1962] 1 QB 237, [1961] 3 All ER 740, CA; and see Roy v Prior [1970] 1 QB 283, [1969] 3 All ER 1153, CA; revsd [1971] AC 470, [1970] 2 All ER 729, HL.

It has been said that the rule applies even if the witness knows that the evidence is false (Henderson v Broomhead (1859) 4 H & N 569; and see Roy v Prior [1971] AC 470, [1970] 2 All ER 729, HL (where the House of Lords, reversing the Court of Appeal's decision, held that the plaintiff's action was not brought on or in respect of any evidence given but in respect of malicious abuse of process)) on the basis that the remedy against a witness who has given evidence which is false and injurious to another is to indict him for perjury (Watson v M'Ewan, Watson v Jones [1905] AC 480 at 486, HL, per Lord Halsbury LC). See, however, the text and note 9.

3 The court need not be a court of record, provided it is duly and legally constituted: Dawkins v Lord Rokeby (1873) LR 8 QB 255, Ex Ch (military court of inquiry); affd (1875) LR 7 HL 744; Barratt v Kearns [1905] 1 KB 504, CA (ecclesiastical commission); Lincoln v Daniels [1962] 1 QB 237, [1961] 3 All ER 740, CA (disciplinary proceedings against a barrister by the benchers of an Inn of Court). Matters to be considered in determining whether proceedings before a tribunal are judicial proceedings were discussed in Trapp v Mackie [1979] 1 All ER 489, [1979] 1 WLR 377, HL (proceedings before Scottish local inquiry held to be judicial proceedings).

4 Watson v M'Ewan, Watson v Jones [1905] AC 480, HL; Marrinan v Vibart [1963] 1 QB 528, [1962] 3 All ER 380, CA; Roy v Prior [1970] 1 QB 283, [1969] 3 All ER 1153, CA; revsd [1971] AC 470, [1970] 2 All ER 729, HL.

5 Palmer v Durnford Ford (a firm) [1992] QB 483, [1992] 2 All ER 122. See also Evans v London Hospital Medical College [1981] 1 All ER 715, [1981] 1 WLR 184.

6 Marrinan v Vibart [1963] 1 QB 528, [1962] 3 All ER 380, CA; Revis v Smith (1856) 18 CB 126; Henderson v Broomhead (1859) 4 H & N 569, Ex Ch; Hargreaves v Bretherton [1959] 1 QB 45, [1958] 3 All ER 122. As to the protection of witnesses from intimidation and victimisation see CONTEMPT OF COURT; and as to special measures directions for the protection of vulnerable witnesses in criminal proceedings see the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 ss 16-33; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1417 et seq; MAGISTRATES.

7 See Darker (suing as personal representative of Docker) v Chief Constable of the West Midlands Police [2001] 1 AC 435, [2000] 4 All ER 193, HL.

8 Roy v Prior [1971] AC 470, [1970] 2 All ER 729, HL.

9 See Darker (suing as personal representative of Docker) v Chief Constable of the West Midlands Police [2001] 1 AC 435, [2000] 4 All ER 193, HL (there is a distinction in principle between what a witness says in court (or what, in a proof of evidence, a prospective witness states he will say in court) and the fabrication of evidence, such as the forging of a suspect's signature to a confession, the writing down by a police officer in his notebook of words which the suspect had not in fact said or the planting of drugs on a suspect. That distinction is real, even though it may in practice appear to be a fine one; eg the immunity would apply to a police officer who, though not claiming to have made a note, falsely stated in the witness box that the suspect had made a verbal confession to him. In contrast, it would not apply to a police officer who, in order to support the evidence he would give in court, fabricated a note containing an admission which the suspect had not made).

10 Meadow v General Medical Council [2006] EWCA Civ 1390, [2007] QB 462, [2007] 1 All ER 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/A. INTRODUCTION/979. Evidence of witnesses; in general.

(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits

A. INTRODUCTION

979. Evidence of witnesses; in general.

The general rule in civil proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR') apply is that any fact which needs to be proved by the evidence of witnesses is to be proved, at trial, by their oral evidence given in public¹ and at any other hearing, by their evidence in writing². This is subject to any provision to the contrary contained in the CPR or elsewhere³ or to any order of the court⁴.

The general rule is that evidence at hearings other than the trial is to be by witness statement⁵ unless the court, a practice direction or any other enactment requires otherwise⁶. At such hearings a party may, however, rely on the matters set out in his statement of case⁷ or his application notice⁸, if the statement of case or application notice is verified by a statement of truth⁹.

The requirements with regard to expert evidence are discussed elsewhere in this title¹⁰.

1 CPR 32.2(1)(a). As to when hearings may be held in private see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; PARA 6. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

2 CPR 32.2(1)(b). As to the ways in which evidence may be given in writing see PARA 981 et seq.

3 CPR 32.2(2)(a).

4 CPR 32.2(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As a specific example of the court's case management power to make use of technology, a witness may be allowed to give evidence through a video link or by other means: see PARAS 1032-1035.

5 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

6 CPR 32.6(1).

7 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1.

8 As to application notices see PARA 306.

9 CPR 32.6(2). As to statements of truth see PARA 613. To verify a statement of case the statement of truth should be set out as follows: '[I believe][the (party on whose behalf the statement of case is being signed) believes] that the facts stated in the statement of case are true': Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 26.2. As to parties who may sign a statement of truth see PARA 613.

10 See PARA 835 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/A. INTRODUCTION/980. No notice of intention to rely on hearsay evidence required.

980. No notice of intention to rely on hearsay evidence required.

The requirement under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 to give notice of an intention to rely on hearsay evidence¹ does not apply to evidence at hearings other than trials². Accordingly, in such cases no notice of such intention³ is required and a party may rely on such evidence at such hearings, but the witness who swears the relevant affidavit or makes the affirmation or statement is required to indicate such parts of his evidence as are based upon information or belief⁴ and identify the source of such information or belief⁵.

1 Ie the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2(1): see PARA 811. For the purposes of CPR Pt 33 (see the text and notes 2-3; and PARA 808 et seq) 'hearsay' means a statement made, otherwise than by a person while giving oral evidence in proceedings, which is tendered as evidence of the matters stated; and references to hearsay include hearsay of whatever degree: CPR 33.1.

2 CPR 33.3(a).

3 Ie under CPR 33.2: see PARA 811.

4 As to affidavits and affirmations see Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 4.2(1); and PARA 990. As to witness statements see para 18.2(1); and PARA 981.

5 As to affidavits and affirmations see Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 4.2(2); and PARA 990. As to witness statements see para 18.2(2); and PARA 981.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/981. Form of witness statement.

B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES

981. Form of witness statement.

A witness statement¹ must comply with the requirements set out in the relevant practice direction². It must be headed in the prescribed manner with the title of the proceedings³ and must, if practicable, be in the intended witness's own words⁴. It must indicate which of the statements in it are made from the witness's own knowledge and which are matters of information or belief and the source for any matters of information or belief⁵. It is usually convenient for a witness statement to follow the chronological sequence of the events or matters dealt with and each paragraph of a witness statement should as far as possible be confined to a distinct portion of the subject⁶.

A witness statement must be in the prescribed format⁷ and must be verified by a statement of truth⁸.

Any alteration to a witness statement must be initialled by the person making the statement or by the authorised person where appropriate⁹. A witness statement which contains an alteration that has not been initialled may be used in evidence only with the permission of the court¹⁰.

An exhibit used in conjunction with a witness statement must be verified and identified by the witness and remain separate from the witness statement¹¹. Where a witness makes more than one witness statement to which there are exhibits, in the same proceedings, the numbering of the exhibits must run consecutively throughout and not start again with each witness statement¹². The rules relating to exhibits to affidavits¹³ apply similarly to witness statements as they do to affidavits¹⁴.

Where a witness statement, or an exhibit to a witness statement, does not comply with the relevant rules or practice direction¹⁵ in relation to its form, the court may refuse to admit it as evidence and may refuse to allow the costs arising from its preparation¹⁶. Permission to file a defective witness statement or to use a defective exhibit may be obtained from a judge¹⁷ in the court where the case is proceeding¹⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

2 CPR 32.8.

3 See Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 17.1. At the top right hand corner of the first page there must be clearly written: (1) the party on whose behalf it is made; (2) the initials and surname of the witness; (3) the number of the statement in relation to that witness; (4) the identifying initials and number of each exhibit referred to; and (5) the date the statement was made: para 17.2. As to exhibits see the text and notes 11-14.

4 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 18.1. The witness statement should be expressed in the first person and should also state (1) the full name of the witness; (2) his place of residence or, if he is making the statement in his professional, business or other occupational capacity, the address at which he works, the position he holds and the name of his firm or employer; (3) his occupation, or if he has none, his description; and (4) the fact that he is a party to the proceedings or is the employee of such a party if it be the case: para 18.1(1)-(4).

5 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 18.2. The naming of the source of hearsay evidence in a witness statement requires the source of hearsay evidence to be identified, but this is not required to be based on admissible evidence: Clarke v Marlborough Fine Art (London) Ltd [2002] 1 WLR 1731.

6 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 19.2.

7 A witness statement should (1) be produced on durable quality A4 paper with a 3.5 cm margin; (2) be fully legible and should normally be typed on one side of the paper only; (3) where possible, be bound securely in a manner which would not hamper filing, or otherwise each page should be indorsed with the case number and should bear the initials of the witness; (4) have the pages numbered consecutively as a separate statement (or as one of several statements contained in a file); (5) be divided into numbered paragraphs; (6) have all numbers, including dates, expressed in figures; and (7) give the reference to any document or documents mentioned either in the margin or in bold text in the body of the statement: Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 19.1.

8 See Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 20; and PARA 751 note 1.

9 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 22.1.

10 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 22.2.

11 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 18.3. Where a witness refers to an exhibit or exhibits, he should state 'I refer to the (description of exhibit) marked '. . .': para 18.4.

12 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 18.6.

13 le Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 paras 11.3-15.4: see PARA 990.

14 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 18.5.

15 le does not comply with CPR Pt 32 or Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32: see PARA 791 et seq, PARA 984 et seq.

16 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 25.1.

17 As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

18 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 25.2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/982. Requirement to serve witness statements for use at trial.

982. Requirement to serve witness statements for use at trial.

The court¹ will order a party to serve² on the other parties any witness statement³ of the oral evidence⁴ which the party serving the statement intends to rely on in relation to any issues of fact to be decided at the trial⁵. The court may give directions as to the order in which witness statements are to be served and whether or not the witness statements are to be filed⁶.

If the court directs that a witness statement is to be filed, it must be filed in the court or Division, or office or registry of the court or Division, where the case in which it was or is to be used is proceeding or will proceed⁷. Where the court has directed that a witness statement in a foreign language is to be filed the party wishing to rely on it must have it translated and file the foreign language witness statement with the court⁸. The translator must make and file with the court an affidavit verifying the translation and exhibiting both the translation and a copy of the foreign language witness statement⁹.

Subject to certain exceptions, a witness statement may be used only for the purpose of the proceedings in which it is served¹⁰.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1, and as to the format of witness statements, see PARA 981.

4 As to oral evidence see PARA 1036 et seq.

5 CPR 32.4(2). Such an order will be made as part of the case management directions given by the court, either when it gives directions at allocation to a track (see CPR Pt 26; and PARA 260 et seq), or at a case management conference (in the multi-track: see PARA 295) or at the hearing of an application (eg for summary judgment which is dismissed: see PARA 527). As to the consequence of failure to serve a witness statement see CPR 32.10; and PARA 987.

6 CPR 32.4(3). As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

7 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 23.1.

8 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 23.2(1).

9 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 23.2(2). Similar provisions apply if the court orders an affidavit to be filed: see paras 10.1, 10.2; and PARA 991. As to exhibits to witness statements see PARA 981 text and notes 11-14.

10 See CPR 32.12; and PARA 984.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/983. Use at trial of witness statements which have been served.

983. Use at trial of witness statements which have been served.

If a party has served¹ a witness statement² and he wishes to rely at trial on the evidence of the witness who made the statement, he must call the witness to give oral evidence, unless the court³ orders otherwise or he puts the statement in as hearsay evidence⁴. Where a witness is called to give oral evidence under this provision, his witness statement will stand as his evidence in chief⁵ unless the court orders otherwise⁶.

A witness giving oral evidence at trial may, with the permission of the court, amplify his witness statement⁷ and give evidence in relation to new matters which have arisen since the witness statement was served on the other parties⁸. The court will give such permission only if it considers that there is good reason not to confine the evidence of the witness to the contents of his witness statement⁹.

If a party who has served a witness statement does not call the witness to give evidence at trial or put the witness statement in as hearsay evidence, any other party may put the witness statement in as hearsay evidence¹⁰.

Where a witness is called to give evidence at trial, he may be cross-examined¹¹ on his witness statement whether or not the statement or any part of it was referred to during the witness's evidence in chief¹².

1 As to service of witness statements see PARA 982; and as to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 32.5(1). As to the meaning of 'hearsay' see PARA 808. As to hearsay evidence see the Civil Evidence Act 1995; CPR Pt 33; and PARA 808 et seq.

5 Evidence in chief is the evidence given by a witness for the party who called him: see CPR 2.2, Glossary. As to the effect of a description in the Glossary see PARA 31.

6 CPR 32.5(2). As to the circumstances in which the court may consider ordering otherwise see eg Mercer v Chief Constable of the Lancashire Constabulary [1991] 2 All ER 504, [1991] 1 WLR 367, CA (decided under the old rules); and as to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2. As to striking out certain portions of a witness statement see eg Akhtar v Muhammad [2002] EWHC 673 (Ch), [2002] All ER (D) 254 (Feb).

7 CPR 32.5(3)(a).

8 CPR 32.5(3)(b).

9 CPR 32.5(4).

10 CPR 32.5(5). As to hearsay evidence see PARA 806 et seq.

11 As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4; and as to cross-examination see PARAS 1042-1044.

12 CPR 32.11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/984. Use of witness statements for other purposes.

984. Use of witness statements for other purposes.

A witness statement¹ may be used only for the purpose of the proceedings in which it is served², except that this does not apply if and to the extent that the witness gives consent in writing to some other use of it³, the court⁴ gives permission for some other use⁵ or the witness statement has been put in evidence at a hearing held in public⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

2 CPR 32.12(1). As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 CPR 32.12(2)(a).

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 32.12(2)(b).

6 CPR 32.12(2)(c). As to hearings held in public and the criteria for holding a hearing in private see CPR 39.2; and PARA 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/985. Availability of witness statements for inspection.

985. Availability of witness statements for inspection.

A witness statement¹ which stands as evidence in chief² is open to inspection during the course of the trial unless the court³ otherwise directs⁴.

Any person may ask for a direction that a witness statement is not open to inspection⁵. The court will not, however, make such a direction unless it is satisfied that a witness statement should not be open to inspection because of:

- 142 (1) the interests of justice⁶;
- 143 (2) the public interest⁷;
- 144 (3) the nature of any expert medical evidence in the statement⁸;
- 145 (4) the nature of any confidential information (including information relating to personal financial matters) in the statement⁹; or
- 146 (5) the need to protect the interests of any child¹⁰ or protected party¹¹.

The court may exclude from inspection words or passages in the statement¹².

Where the court has ordered that a witness statement is not to be open to inspection by the public or that words or passages in the statement are not to be open to inspection, the court officer¹³ will so certify on the statement and make any deletions directed¹⁴ by the court¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'evidence in chief' see PARA 983 note 5.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 32.13(1). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. As to the procedure by which persons not party to proceedings may apply for permission to inspect witness statements and other documents filed at court see PARA 82.

5 CPR 32.13(2).

6 CPR 32.13(3)(a).

7 CPR 32.13(3)(b).

8 CPR 32.13(3)(c).

9 CPR 32.13(3)(d).

10 As to the meaning of 'child' see PARA 222 note 3.

11 CPR 32.13(3)(e). As to the meaning of 'protected party' see PARA 222 note 1.

12 CPR 32.13(4).

13 As to the meaning of 'court officer' see PARA 49 note 3.

14 Ie any deletions directed under CPR 32.13(4): see the text to note 12.

15 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 24.1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/986. Witness summaries.

986. Witness summaries.

A party who is required to serve¹ a witness statement² for use at trial, but is unable to obtain one³, may apply, without notice, for permission to serve a witness summary instead⁴. A witness summary is a summary of the evidence, if known, which would otherwise be included in a witness statement⁵ or, if the evidence is not known, the matters about which the party serving the witness summary proposes to question the witness⁶.

Unless the court⁷ orders otherwise, a witness summary must include the name and address of the intended witness⁸ and must be served within the period in which a witness statement would have had to be served⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

3 In these circumstances it is likely that the party will have to issue a witness summons to secure the attendance of the witness. As to such summonses see PARA 1004 et seq.

4 CPR 32.9(1). As to the consequence of failure to serve a witness summary see CPR 32.10; and PARA 987.

5 CPR 32.9(2)(a).

6 CPR 32.9(2)(b).

7 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

8 CPR 32.9(3).

9 CPR 32.9(4). Where a party serves a witness summary, so far as practicable CPR 32.4 (requirement to serve witness statements for use at trial: see PARA 982), CPR 32.5(3) (amplifying witness statements: see PARA 983), and CPR 32.8 (form of witness statement: see PARA 981) apply to the summary: CPR 32.9(5).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/987. Consequence of failure to serve witness statement or summary.

987. Consequence of failure to serve witness statement or summary.

If a witness statement¹ or a witness summary² for use at trial is not served³ in respect of an intended witness within the time specified by the court⁴, then the witness may not be called to give oral evidence unless the court gives permission⁵.

- 1 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.
- 2 As to the meaning of 'witness summary' see PARA 986 text to notes 5-6.
- 3 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.
- 4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq.
- 5 CPR 32.10.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/B. WITNESS STATEMENTS AND WITNESS SUMMARIES/988. False statements.

988. False statements.

Proceedings for contempt of court may be brought against a person if he makes, or causes to be made, a false statement in a document verified by a statement of truth¹ without an honest belief in its truth². Such proceedings may be brought only by the Attorney General³ or with the permission of the court⁴.

Where a party alleges that a statement of truth or a disclosure statement⁵ is false, the party must refer that allegation to the court dealing with the claim in which the statement of truth or disclosure statement has been made⁶. The court may:

- 147 (1) exercise any of its powers under the Civil Procedure Rules⁷;
- 148 (2) initiate steps to consider if there is a contempt of court and, where there is, to punish it⁸;
- 149 (3) direct the party making the allegation to refer the matter to the Attorney General with a request to him to consider whether he wishes to bring proceedings for contempt of court⁹.

The practice of the Attorney General is to prefer an application that comes from the court, and so has received preliminary consideration by a judge, to one made direct to him by a party to the claim in which the alleged contempt occurred without prior consideration by the court. An application to the Attorney General is not a way of appealing against, or reviewing, the decision of the judge¹⁰.

A person applying to commence such proceedings must consider whether the incident complained of does amount to contempt of court and whether such proceedings would further the overriding objective¹¹.

1 As to statements of truth see PARA 613. Witness statements and, where practicable, witness summaries, must be verified by a statement of truth: see PARAS 981, 986.

2 CPR 32.14(1). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

3 CPR 32.14(2)(a).

4 CPR 32.14(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. Where a party makes an application to the court for permission for that party to commence proceedings for contempt of court, it must be supported by written evidence containing the information specified in Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.2(1) (see note 9) and the result of the application to the Attorney General made by the applicant: para 28.3. As to the circumstances when permission will be granted see Coca Cola Co v Aytacli (No 2) [2002] All ER (D) 04 (Sep).

5 As to disclosure statements see PARA 538.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.1(1).

7 As to the court's general discretionary powers to impose sanctions see PARA 247.

8 As to committal to prison if contempt is proved see CPR Sch 1 RSC Ord 52; CPR Sch 2 CCR Ord 29; and CONTEMPT OF COURT.

9 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.1(2). An application to the Attorney General must be made to his chambers at 9 Buckingham Gate, London SW1E 6JP in writing. The Attorney General will initially require a copy of the order recording the direction of the judge referring the matter to him and information which (1) identifies the statement said to be false; and (2) explains why it is false and why the maker knew it to be false at the time he made it; and (3) explains why contempt proceedings would be appropriate in the light of the overriding objective in CPR Pt 1: Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.2(1). As to the overriding objective see PARA 791.

10 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.2(2).

11 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.4. The CPR do not change the law of contempt or introduce new categories of contempt: Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 28.4. See also Malgar Ltd v RE Leach (Engineering) Ltd [2000] FSR 393; MBNA America Bank NA v Freeman [2000] IP & T 1102. Where a settlement is reached between parties, but subsequent evidence reveals that false statements were made, consideration has to be given to whether the public interest requires committal proceedings to be brought, and whether such proceedings are proportionate and in accordance with the overriding objective: Kirk v Walton [2008] EWHC 1780 (QB), [2009] 1 All ER 257.

UPDATE

988 False statements

NOTE 11--See also Walton v Kirk [2009] EWHC 703 (QB), [2009] All ER (D) 70 (Apr).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/C. AFFIDAVITS/989. Affidavit evidence; in general.

C. AFFIDAVITS

989. Affidavit evidence; in general.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules ('CPR'), evidence must be given by affidavit¹ instead of or in addition to a witness statement² if this is required by the court³, a provision contained in any other rule⁴, a practice direction or any other enactment⁵. For example, affidavits must be used as evidence in any application for a search order, a freezing injunction, or an order requiring an occupier to permit another to enter his land⁶ and in any application for an order against anyone for alleged contempt of court⁷.

Nothing in the CPR prevents a witness from giving evidence by affidavit at a hearing other than the trial if he chooses to do so in a case where the above provision does not apply, but the party putting forward the affidavit may not recover the additional cost of making it from any other party unless the court orders otherwise⁸. The court may give a direction under this provision that evidence must be given by affidavit instead of or in addition to a witness statement or statement of case⁹ either on its own initiative or after any party has applied to the court for such a direction¹⁰. Further, if a party believes that sworn evidence is required by a court in another jurisdiction for any purpose connected with the proceedings, he may apply to the court for a direction that evidence must be given only by affidavit on any pre-trial applications¹¹.

On any application made in any family proceedings, evidence may be given by affidavit unless the Family Proceedings Rules 1991 otherwise provide or the court otherwise directs, but the court may, on the application of any party, order the attendance for cross-examination of the person making any such affidavit; and where, after such an order has been made, that person does not attend, his affidavit must not be used as evidence without the leave of the court¹². The procedure for taking such affidavits is discussed elsewhere in this work¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5. An affidavit, where referred to in the Civil Procedure Rules or in a practice direction, also means an affirmation unless the context requires otherwise: Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.7. As to the application of provisions in that or any practice direction relating to affidavits to affirmations, and the necessary exceptions and modifications, see para 16. See also the Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 11 ('affidavit' includes affirmation, statutory or other declaration, acknowledgment, examination, and attestation or protestation of honour). As to affidavits generally see the Commissioners for Oaths Acts 1889 and 1891; the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113 (administration of oaths and taking of affidavits); and PARA 1026. As to the entitlement of a person who objects to taking an oath to make a solemn affirmation, and the power to require him to so do, see the Oaths Act 1978 s 5(1), (4); and PARA 1023. Where it is not reasonably practicable without inconvenience or delay to administer an oath in the manner appropriate to a person's religious belief, he may be permitted or required to make a solemn affirmation: see s 5(2), (3); and PARA 1023.

2 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 See eg CPR 71.5 (judgment creditor's affidavit); and PARA 1255.

5 CPR 32.15(1); and see Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.4(1). For an example of an enactment requiring an affidavit see the Protection from Harassment Act 1997 s 3(5)(a) (application for the issue of a warrant for the arrest of the defendant); and TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARA 457.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.4(2). As to search orders see PARAS 315 head (8) in the text, 319, 402 et seq; and as to freezing injunctions see PARAS 315 head (6) in the text, 318, 396 et seq.

7 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.4(3). See further CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARAS 496-497.

8 CPR 32.15(2); and see Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.2.

9 As to statements of case see PARA 1065 note 1.

10 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.6.

11 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 1.5.

12 Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 10.12.

13 See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 837.

UPDATE

989 Affidavit evidence; in general

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/C. AFFIDAVITS/990. Form of affidavit; in general.

990. Form of affidavit; in general.

An affidavit¹ must comply with the requirements set out in the relevant practice direction². It must be headed in the prescribed manner with the title of the proceedings³ and must, if practicable, be in the deponent's⁴ own words⁵. It must indicate which of the statements in it are made from the deponent's own knowledge and which are matters of information or belief and the source for any matters of information or belief⁶. It is usually convenient for an affidavit to follow the chronological sequence of the events or matters dealt with and each paragraph of an affidavit should as far as possible be confined to a distinct portion of the subject⁷.

An affidavit must be in the prescribed format⁸ and must be sworn before a person independent of the parties or their representatives⁹. Where an affidavit is sworn by a person who is unable to read or sign it, the person before whom the affidavit is sworn must certify in the jurat that he read the affidavit to the deponent, that the deponent appeared to understand it and that the deponent signed or made his mark in his presence¹⁰. If that certificate is not included in the jurat, the affidavit may not be used in evidence unless the court¹¹ is satisfied that it was read to the deponent and that he appeared to understand it¹².

Any alteration to an affidavit must be initialled by both the deponent and the person before whom the affidavit was sworn¹³. An affidavit which contains an alteration that has not been initialled may be filed¹⁴ or used in evidence only with the permission of the court¹⁵.

A document used in conjunction with an affidavit should be produced to and verified by the deponent, and remain separate from the affidavit, and should be identified by a declaration of the person before whom the affidavit was sworn¹⁶.

Where an affidavit does not comply with the relevant rules or practice direction¹⁷ in relation to its form, the court may refuse to admit it as evidence and may refuse to allow the costs arising from its preparation¹⁸. Permission to file a defective affidavit may be obtained from a judge¹⁹ in the court where the case is proceeding²⁰.

A person may make an affidavit outside the jurisdiction²¹ in accordance with Part 32 of the Civil Procedure Rules²² or the law of the place where he makes the affidavit²³.

Additional requirements with regard to affidavits are contained in the guides to proceedings in particular civil courts²⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5. See also PARA 989 note 1.

2 CPR 32.16.

3 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 3.1. At the top right hand corner of the first page (and on the backsheet) there should be clearly written: (1) the party on whose behalf it is made; (2) the initials and surname of the deponent; (3) the number of the affidavit in relation to that deponent; (4) the identifying initials and number of each exhibit referred to; and (5) the date sworn: para 3.2.

4 A deponent is a person who gives evidence by affidavit or affirmation: Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 2.

5 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 4.1. The affidavit should be expressed in the first person and the deponent should (1) commence 'I (full name) of (address) state on oath'; (2) if giving evidence in his professional, business or other occupational capacity, give the address at which he works in head (1), the position he holds and the name of his firm or employer; (3) give his occupation or, if he has none, his description; and (4) state if he is a party to the proceedings or employed by a party to the proceedings, if it be the case: para 4.1(1)-(4).

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 4.2(1), (2). As to opinion evidence see generally PARA 826 et seq.

7 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 6.2.

8 An affidavit should (1) be produced on durable quality A4 paper with a 3.5 cm margin; (2) be fully legible and must normally be typed on one side of the paper only; (3) where possible, be bound securely in a manner which would not hamper filing, or otherwise each page must be indorsed with the case number and must bear the initials of the deponent and of the person before whom it was sworn; (4) have the pages numbered consecutively as a separate document (or as one of several documents contained in a file); (5) be divided into numbered paragraphs; (6) have all numbers, including dates, expressed in figures; and (7) give the reference to any document or documents mentioned either in the margin or in bold text in the body of the affidavit: Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 6.1. The jurat must (a) be signed by all deponents; (b) be completed and signed by the person before whom the affidavit was sworn, whose name and qualification must be printed beneath his signature; (c) contain the full address of the person before whom the affidavit was sworn; and (d) follow immediately on from the text and not be put on a separate page: para 5.2. The jurat of an affidavit is a statement set out at the end of the document which authenticates the affidavit: para 5.1.

9 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 9.2. As to the persons who may administer oaths and take affidavits see PARA 1026.

10 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 7.1.

11 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

12 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 7.2. Two versions of the form of jurat with the certificate are set out at para 7.2, Annex 1.

13 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 8.1.

14 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

15 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 8.2.

16 Practice Direction--Evidence PD 32 para 11.1. The declaration must be headed with the name of the proceedings in the same way as the affidavit and the first page of each exhibit must be marked as in para 3.2 (see note 3) and with the exhibit mark referred to in the affidavit: paras 11.2, 11.3. Where a deponent refers to an exhibit or exhibits, he must state 'there is now shown to me marked '. . .' the (description of exhibit)'; and where he makes more than one affidavit (to which there are exhibits) in the same proceedings, the numbering of the exhibits must run consecutively throughout and not start again with each affidavit: para 4.3. Copies of individual letters should be collected together and exhibited in a bundle or bundles and should be arranged in chronological order with the earliest at the top, and firmly secured: para 12.1. When a bundle of correspondence is exhibited, the exhibit should have a front page attached stating that the bundle consists of original letters and copies. They should be arranged and secured as above and numbered consecutively: para 12.2. Photocopies instead of original documents may be exhibited provided the originals are made available for inspection by the other parties before the hearing and by the judge at the hearing: para 13.1. Court documents must not be exhibited (official copies of such documents prove themselves): para 13.2. Where an exhibit contains more than one document, a front page must be attached setting out a list of the documents contained in the exhibit; the list must contain the dates of the documents: para 13.3. Items other than documents should be clearly marked with an exhibit number or letter in such a manner that the mark cannot become detached from the exhibit: para 14.1. Small items may be placed in a container and the container appropriately marked: para 14.2.

Where an exhibit contains more than one document, the bundle should not be stapled but should be securely fastened in a way that does not hinder the reading of the documents, and the pages should be numbered consecutively at bottom centre: para 15.1. Every page of an exhibit should be clearly legible; typed copies of illegible documents should be included, paginated with 'a' numbers: para 15.2. Where affidavits and exhibits have become numerous, they should be put into separate bundles and the pages numbered consecutively throughout: para 15.3. Finally, where on account of their bulk the service of exhibits or copies of exhibits on the other parties would be difficult or impracticable, the directions of the court should be sought as to arrangements for bringing the exhibits to the attention of the other parties and as to their custody pending trial: para 15.4. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

17 It does not comply with CPR Pt 32 or Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32: para 25.1.

- 18 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 25.1.
- 19 As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.
- 20 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 25.2.
- 21 As to the meaning of 'jurisdiction' see PARA 117 note 6.
- 22 le CPR Pt 32: see PARA 749 et seq.
- 23 CPR 32.17.
- 24 As to such court guides and their status see PARAS 16, 757.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iii) Witness Statements, Witness Summaries and Affidavits/C. AFFIDAVITS/991. Filing of affidavits.

991. Filing of affidavits.

If the court¹ directs that an affidavit² is to be filed³, it must be filed in the court or Division, or office or registry of the court or Division, where the case in which it was or is to be used is proceeding or will proceed⁴.

Where an affidavit is in a foreign language the party wishing to rely on it must have it translated and must file the foreign language affidavit with the court⁵. The translator must make and file with the court an affidavit verifying the translation and exhibiting both the translation and a copy of the foreign language affidavit⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5. See also PARA 989 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

4 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 10.1.

5 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 10.2(1).

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 10.2(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/992. Evidence by deposition.

(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions

992. Evidence by deposition.

The Civil Procedure Rules¹ provide for a party to obtain evidence before a hearing to be used at the hearing²; and 'hearing' for these purposes includes a reference to the trial³. A party may apply for an order for a person to be examined before the hearing takes place⁴. A person from whom evidence is to be obtained following such an order is referred to as a 'deponent' and the evidence is referred to as a 'deposition'⁵. Such an order will be for a deponent to be examined on oath⁶ before a judge⁷, an examiner of the court⁸ or such other person as the court appoints⁹. The order may require the production of any document which the court considers is necessary for the purposes of the examination¹⁰ and must state the date, time and place of the examination¹¹. At the time of service¹² of the order the deponent must be offered or paid a sum reasonably sufficient to cover his expenses in travelling to and from the place of examination¹³ and such sum by way of compensation for loss of time as may be specified in the relevant practice direction¹⁴.

Where the court makes an order for a deposition to be taken, it may also order the party who obtained the order to serve a witness statement¹⁵ or witness summary¹⁶ in relation to the evidence to be given by the person to be examined¹⁷.

The Family Proceedings Rules 1991 provide that evidence may be taken by deposition in matrimonial causes¹⁸. The procedure in such cases is discussed elsewhere in this work¹⁹.

1 le CPR Pt 34 s 1 (CPR 34.1-34.15): see the text and notes 2-19; and PARA 993 et seq.

2 CPR 34.1(1)(b). Part 34 applies to claims allocated to the small claims track, except to the extent that a rule limits such application: see CPR 27.2(2). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

3 CPR 34.1(2).

4 CPR 34.8(1). For the form of order see Practice Direction--Forms PD 4 para 3, Table 1, Form N21; and see The Civil Court Practice. As to the use of the forms listed in Table 1 see PARA 14.

5 CPR 34.8(2).

6 As to persons who may administer oaths see PARA 1026.

7 CPR 34.8(3)(a). As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

8 CPR 34.8(3)(b). As to the appointment of examiners of the court see CPR 34.15; and PARA 993.

9 CPR 34.8(3)(c).

10 CPR 34.8(4). Documents and exhibits must have an identifying number or letter marked on them by the examiner and must be preserved by the party or his legal representative who obtained the order for the examination, or as the court or the examiner may direct: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.6. As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

11 CPR 34.8(5).

12 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

- 13 CPR 34.8(6)(a).
- 14 CPR 34.8(6)(b); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.2(3).
As to the sum to be paid see PARA 1013.
- 15 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.
- 16 As to witness summaries see PARA 986.
- 17 CPR 34.8(7).
- 18 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.29 (amended by SI 1997/1893).
- 19 See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 838.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/993. Examiners of the court.

993. Examiners of the court.

The Lord Chancellor¹ appoints persons to be examiners of the court² who must be barristers or solicitor-advocates who have been practising for a period of not less than three years³. The Lord Chancellor may revoke an appointment at any time⁴.

A person who obtains an order for the examination of a deponent⁵ before an examiner of the court must apply to the appropriate department at the Royal Courts of Justice⁶ for the allocation of an examiner⁷. When the examiner is allocated, he must be provided with copies of all documents in the proceedings necessary to inform him of the issues⁸.

1 As to the Lord Chancellor see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 501; CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 477 et seq.

2 CPR 34.15(1). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

3 CPR 34.15(2).

4 CPR 34.15(3).

5 As to the meaning of 'deponent' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

6 As to the Foreign Process Section of the Masters' Secretary's Department: see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.2(1).

7 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.2(1). Such a person is usually unconnected with the case; but it has been held under the old rules that the mere fact that the witnesses are known to the proposed examiner may not prevent his appointment (Ongley v Hill (1874) 22 WR 817), but that a shorthand writer ought not to be appointed as examiner (Bicknell v Bicknell [1908] WN 97, CA), nor should a solicitor in the case (see Fricker v Moore (1730) Bunb 289; Selwyn's Case (1779) 2 Dick 563). See also Sayer v Wagstaff (1842) 12 LJ Ch 35 (new commission issued owing to misconduct of commissioner). As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2. For examples of cases where the examiner has been provided with an interpreter see Marquess of Bute v James (1886) 33 ChD 157; Baddeley v Bailey [1893] WN 56.

8 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.2(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/994. Examiners' fees and expenses.

994. Examiners' fees and expenses.

An examiner of the court¹ may charge a fee for the examination². He need not send the deposition³ to the court⁴ unless the fee is paid⁵.

An examiner may charge an hourly rate for each hour, or part of an hour, that he is engaged in examining the witness⁶. He is also entitled to charge a single fee of twice the hourly rate as the appointment fee when the appointment for the examination is made⁷ and is entitled to retain the appointment fee where the witness fails to attend on the date and time arranged⁸. Where the examiner fails to attend on the date and time arranged he may not charge a further appointment fee for arranging a subsequent appointment⁹.

The examiner of court is also entitled to recover the following expenses:

- 150 (1) all reasonable travelling expenses;
- 151 (2) any other expenses reasonably incurred; and
- 152 (3) any reasonable charge for the room where the examination takes place¹⁰, but no expenses may be recovered under head (3) above if the examination takes place at the examiner's usual business address¹¹.

The examiner's fees and expenses must be paid by the party who obtained the order for examination¹². If the fees and expenses due to an examiner are not paid within a reasonable time, he may report that fact to the court¹³. The court may order the party who obtained the order for examination to deposit in the court office a specified sum in respect of the examiner's fees and, where it does so, the examiner will not be asked to act until the sum has been deposited¹⁴. Such an order does not, however, affect any decision as to the party who is ultimately to bear the costs of the examination¹⁵.

1 As to the appointment of examiners of the court and their allocation see PARA 993.

2 CPR 34.14(1). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

3 As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 34.14(2).

6 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 2.1. The hourly rate is calculated by reference to the formula set out in para 3.1, and the examination fee is the hourly rate multiplied by the number of hours the examination has taken: paras 2.2, 2.3. The formula for calculating the hourly rate is as follows: divide the amount of the minimum annual salary of a post within Group 7 of the judicial salary structure as designated by the Review Body on Senior Salaries (published annually by the Stationery Office) by 220 to give 'x'; and then divide 'x' by 6 to give the hourly rate: Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 3.1.

7 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 4.1.

8 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 4.2.

9 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 4.3.

- 10 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 5.1.
- 11 Practice Direction--Fees for Examiners of the Court PD 34B para 5.2.
- 12 CPR 34.14(3).
- 13 CPR 34.14(4).
- 14 CPR 34.14(5).
- 15 CPR 34.14(6). As to costs generally see PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/995. Conduct of examination.

995. Conduct of examination.

Subject to any directions contained in the order for examination¹, the examination must be conducted in the same way as if the witness were giving evidence at a trial². If all the parties are present, the examiner³ may conduct the examination of a person not named in the order for examination if all the parties and the person to be examined consent⁴. The examiner may conduct the examination in private if he considers it appropriate to do so⁵ and may put any question to the deponent⁶ as to the meaning of any of his answers or any matter arising in the course of the examination⁷.

The examiner must ensure that the evidence given by the witness is recorded in full⁸. In ensuring that the deponent's evidence is recorded in full, the court⁹ or the examiner may permit it to be recorded on audiotape or videotape, but the deposition¹⁰ must always be recorded in writing by him or by a competent shorthand writer or stenographer¹¹. If the deposition is not recorded word for word, it must contain, as nearly as may be, the statement of the deponent; the examiner may record word for word any particular questions and answers which appear to him to have special importance¹². If a deponent objects to answering any question or where any objection is taken to any question, the examiner must (1) record in the deposition or a document attached to it the question, the nature of and grounds for the objection and any answer given; and (2) give his opinion as to the validity of the objection; and must record it in the deposition or a document attached to it¹³. The court will decide as to the validity of the objection and any question of costs arising from it¹⁴.

1 As to obtaining an order for examination out of court see PARA 992.

2 CPR 34.9(1). As to oral evidence at trial see PARA 1036 et seq.

3 As to examiners of the court see PARA 993.

4 CPR 34.9(2).

5 CPR 34.9(3). For the general rule that hearings are to be in public see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; PARA 6.

6 As to the meaning of 'deponent' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

7 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.7.

8 CPR 34.9(4).

9 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

10 As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

11 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.3.

12 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.4.

13 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.5(1), (2).

14 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/996. Enforcing attendance of witness.

996. Enforcing attendance of witness.

If a person served¹ with an order to attend before an examiner² fails to attend or refuses to be sworn³ for the purpose of the examination or to answer any lawful question⁴ or to produce any document at the examination, a certificate of his failure or refusal, signed by the examiner, must be filed⁵ by the party requiring the deposition⁶. On the certificate being filed, the party requiring the deposition may apply to the court⁷ for an order requiring that person to attend or to be sworn or to answer any question or produce any document, as the case may be⁸. An application for such an order may be made without notice⁹.

The court may order the person against whom such an order is made to pay any costs resulting from his failure or refusal¹⁰ and will make such order on the application as it thinks fit¹¹. A deponent who wilfully refuses to obey an order made against him under Part 34 of the Civil Procedure Rules¹² may be proceeded against for contempt of court¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 As to orders for examination out of court see PARA 992; and as to examiners of the court see PARA 993.

3 As to persons who may administer oaths see PARA 1026.

4 As to the making and recording of objections to answering questions at the examination see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.5; and PARA 995.

5 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

6 CPR 34.10(1). The examiner may include in his certificate any comment as to the conduct of the deponent or of any person attending the examination: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.8. As to the meaning of 'deposition' and 'deponent' see PARA 992 text to note 5.

7 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

8 CPR 34.10(2); and see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.9.

9 CPR 34.10(3).

10 CPR 34.10(4). As to costs generally see PARA 1729 et seq.

11 See Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.10.

12 Ie CPR Pt 34: see PARAS 992-995, 997 et seq.

13 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.11. See further CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/997. Procedure after conclusion of examination.

997. Procedure after conclusion of examination.

A deposition¹ must be signed by the examiner² and have any amendments to it initialled by the examiner and the deponent³. It must be indorsed by the examiner with a statement of the time occupied by the examination⁴ and a record of any refusal by the deponent to sign the deposition and of his reasons for not doing so⁵.

The examiner must send a copy of the deposition to the person who obtained the order for the examination of the witness⁶ and to the court⁷ where the case is proceeding⁸ for filing⁹ on the court file¹⁰. The party who obtained the order must send each of the other parties a copy of the deposition which he receives from the examiner¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 text to note 5.

2 As to examiners of the court see PARA 993.

3 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.12(1), (2). As to the meaning of 'deponent' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

4 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.12(3)(a). As to the examiner's hourly fee see PARA 994.

5 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.12(3)(b). As to the consequences of such refusal see PARA 996. It has been held under the old rules that it is improper for the examiner to give his opinion as to the credibility of a witness: Re Wipperman, Wissler v Wipperman [1955] P 59, [1953] 1 All ER 764. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

6 As to orders for examination out of court see PARA 992.

7 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

8 CPR 34.9(5).

9 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

10 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 4.12(4).

11 CPR 34.9(6).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/998. Use of deposition at hearing or trial.

998. Use of deposition at hearing or trial.

A deposition¹ may be given in evidence at a hearing, including a trial², unless the court³ orders otherwise⁴. A party intending to put in evidence a deposition at a hearing must serve⁵ notice of his intention to do so on every other party⁶ at least 21 days before the day fixed for the hearing⁷.

The court may require a deponent⁸ to attend the hearing and give evidence orally⁹.

Where a deposition is given in evidence at trial, it is to be treated as if it were a witness statement¹⁰ for the purposes of making it available¹¹ for inspection¹².

There are restrictions on the subsequent use of a deposition for other hearings¹³.

1 le a deposition ordered under CPR 34.8: see PARA 992. As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

2 See CPR 34.1(2) cited in PARA 992.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 34.11(1). The court will presume, in favour of the admissibility of depositions, that examiners have discharged their duties correctly; thus where it had been ordered that witnesses should be examined separately it was presumed that this had been done even though the return was silent on the point: Simms v Henderson (1848) 11 QB 1015. See also Atkins v Palmer (1821) 4 B & Ald 377; Greville v Stulz (1847) 11 QB 997; Hitchins v Hitchins (1866) LR 1 P & D 153; Grill v General Iron Screw Colliery Co (1866) LR 1 CP 600 (affd (1868) LR 3 CP 476, Ex Ch); Hodges v Cobb (1867) LR 2 QB 652; Richards, Tweedy & Co v Hough (1882) 51 LJQB 361, DC. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

5 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

6 CPR 34.11(2).

7 CPR 34.11(3). As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

8 As to the meaning of 'deponent' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

9 CPR 34.11(4). As to oral evidence see PARA 1036 et seq.

10 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

11 le for the purposes of CPR 32.13 (availability of witness statements for inspection): see PARA 985.

12 CPR 34.11(5).

13 See CPR 34.12; and PARA 999.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/999. Restrictions on subsequent use of deposition taken for the purpose of any hearing except the trial.

999. Restrictions on subsequent use of deposition taken for the purpose of any hearing except the trial.

Where the court¹ orders a party to be examined about his or any other assets for the purpose of any hearing² except the trial, the deposition³ may generally be used only for the purpose of the proceedings in which the order was made⁴. It may, however, be used for some other purpose by the party who was examined⁵ or if that party agrees⁶ or if the court gives permission⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'hearing' for these purposes see PARA 1004 text to note 6.

3 As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 text to note 5.

4 See CPR 34.12(1).

5 CPR 34.12(2)(a).

6 CPR 34.12(2)(b).

7 CPR 34.12(2)(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/1000. Examination before an examiner outside the jurisdiction.

1000. Examination before an examiner outside the jurisdiction.

If the government of a country allows a person appointed by the High Court to examine a person in that country, the High Court may make an order appointing a special examiner for that purpose¹. A special examiner so appointed may be the British Consul or the Consul-General or his deputy in the country where the evidence is to be taken if (1) there is in respect of that country a Civil Procedure Convention providing for the taking of evidence in that country for the assistance of proceedings in the High Court or other court in this country; or (2) with the consent of the Secretary of State². A person may be examined under these provisions on oath or affirmation³ or in accordance with any procedure permitted in the country in which the examination is to take place⁴.

The provisions set out in the relevant practice direction with regard to depositions taken in this jurisdiction⁵ also apply to depositions taken abroad⁶.

1 CPR 34.13(4).

2 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.8. In some countries the local courts will compel the attendance of a person for the purposes of the examination; in others there is no means of compelling the attendance of an unwilling witness. In some countries the issue of a letter of request (see PARA 1001) is the only available method. Where it is desired to obtain the examination of a person outside the jurisdiction inquiry should be made of the Masters' Secretary's Department, Room E214, Royal Courts of Justice, Strand, London WC2A 2LL, as to what is the appropriate procedure in the case of the country concerned.

3 As to persons who may administer oaths and affirmations outside the jurisdiction see PARA 1027.

4 CPR 34.13(5).

5 le Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A paras 4.1-4.12: see PARAS 992-997.

6 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.9.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/1001. Letter of request where a person to be examined is out of the jurisdiction.

1001. Letter of request where a person to be examined is out of the jurisdiction.

Where a party wishes to take a deposition¹ from a person out of the jurisdiction² and not in a regulation state³, the High Court may order the issue of a letter of request⁴ to the judicial authorities of the country in which the proposed deponent is⁵. A letter of request is a request to a judicial authority to take the evidence of that person, or arrange for it to be taken⁶.

The High Court may make an order under these provisions in relation to county court proceedings⁷. The High Court has jurisdiction to order the issue of a letter of request even if all that is sought is the production of documents⁸.

If the High Court makes an order for the issue of a letter of request, the party who sought the order must file⁹ the following documents and, unless English is one of the official languages of the country where the examination is to take place, or a practice direction has specified that country as one where no translation is necessary, a translation of them¹⁰:

- 153 (1) a draft letter of request¹¹;
- 154 (2) a statement of the issues relevant to the proceedings;
- 155 (3) a list of questions or the subject matter of questions to be put to the person to be examined¹².

That party must also file an undertaking to be responsible for the Secretary of State's expenses¹³ and a draft order¹⁴.

The application will be dealt with by the Senior Master of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court¹⁵ who will, if appropriate, sign the letter of request¹⁶.

The provisions set out in the relevant practice direction with regard to depositions taken in this jurisdiction¹⁷ also apply to depositions taken abroad¹⁸.

Where a party to existing or contemplated proceedings in the High Court or a magistrates' court under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002¹⁹ wishes to take a deposition from a person who is out of the jurisdiction, the High Court may, on the application of the party, order the issue of a letter of request to the judicial authorities of the country in which the proposed deponent is²⁰.

Requests with regard to evidence to be used in criminal proceedings are dealt with elsewhere in this work²¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'deposition' see PARA 992 the text to note 5.

2 As to the meaning of 'jurisdiction' see PARA 117 note 6.

3 ie within the meaning of CPR Pt 34 Section III: see PARA 1002 note 1. For the procedure for taking evidence in another regulation state for use in England and Wales, see PARA 1002.

4 For a draft of such a letter see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.3(1), Annex A; and see The Civil Court Practice. As to the restrictions on the use in other proceedings of a deposition obtained from a person outside the jurisdiction see Dendron GmbH v Regents of the University of California (Boston Scientific Ltd, Pt 20 claimant) [2004] EWHC 589 (Pat), [2005] 1 WLR 200.

5 CPR 34.13(1), (1A); and see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.1. As to the meaning of 'deponent' see PARA 992 text to note 5. An application for such an order must be made by application notice in accordance with CPR Pt 23 (see PARA 303 et seq): Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.2.

For a case where the court refused to authorise the issue of letters of request directed to the courts of a friendly foreign state in the interests of the comity of nations where the party seeking the letters of request wished to obtain evidence to show that the motives of the government of the foreign state in promulgating a law of that state were such that the law was unenforceable in the United Kingdom as being contrary to public policy see Settebello Ltd v Banco Totta and Acores [1985] 2 All ER 1025, [1985] 1 WLR 1050, CA.

6 CPR 34.13(2); and see note 4.

7 CPR 34.13(3); and see the County Courts Act 1984 s 56 (the High Court has the same power to issue a commission, request or order to examine witnesses abroad for the purpose of proceedings in a county court as it has for the purpose of proceedings in the High Court).

8 Panayiotou v Sony Music Entertainment (UK) Ltd [1994] Ch 142, [1994] 1 All ER 755.

9 The documents must be filed with the Masters' Secretary in Room E214, Royal Courts of Justice, Strand, London WC2A 2LL: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.4. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

10 See CPR 34.13(7). If parties are in doubt as to whether a translation is required, they should seek guidance from the Foreign Process Section of the Masters' Secretary's Department: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.7.

11 As to the draft see note 4.

12 CPR 34.13(6)(a)(i)-(iii); and see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.3(1)-(4).

13 CPR 34.13(6)(b); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.3(5). The Secretary of State here concerned is the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs.

14 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.3.

15 As to the Senior Master see PARA 176 note 17; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 654.

16 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.5.

17 Ie Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A paras 4.1-4.12: see PARAS 992-997.

18 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 5.9.

19 Ie under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 Pt 5 (ss 240-316) (civil recovery of the proceeds etc of unlawful conduct: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(4) (2006 Reissue) PARA 2147 et seq).

20 CPR 34.13A(1), (2). CPR 34.13(4)-(7) applies irrespective of where the proposed deponent is, and CPR 34.23 does not apply in cases where the proposed deponent is in a regulation state: CPR 34.13A(3).

21 See the Criminal Justice (International Co-operation) Act 2003 s 7; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 903.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(iv) Examination out of Court and Depositions/1002. Request for evidence to be taken in another regulation state for use in England and Wales.

1002. Request for evidence to be taken in another regulation state for use in England and Wales.

Where a party wishes to take a deposition from a person who is in another regulation state (that is, a member state other than Denmark)¹, the court where the proceedings are taking place may order the issue of a request to a designated court (the requested court)² in the regulation state in which the proposed deponent is³. If the court makes an order for the issue of a request, the party who sought the order must file:

- 156 (1) a draft form of request⁴;
- 157 (2) a translation of the form of request, unless English is one of the official languages of the regulation state where the examination is to take place, or the regulation state has indicated in accordance with the prescribed procedure that English is a language which it will accept⁵;
- 158 (3) an undertaking to be responsible for costs sought by the requested court in relation to fees paid to experts and interpreters, and where requested by that party, the use of special procedures or communications technology⁶; and
- 159 (4) an undertaking to be responsible for the court's expenses⁷.

If the court grants an order under the above provisions, it will send the form of request directly to the designated court⁸.

The court where proceedings are taking place may take evidence directly from a deponent in another regulation state if the evidence is to be given voluntarily, without the need for coercive measures⁹. Where evidence may be taken directly in another regulation state⁹, the court may make an order for the submission of a request¹⁰. The party who sought the order must file:

- 160 (a) a draft form of request¹¹;
- 161 (b) a translation of the form of request, unless English is one of the official languages of the regulation state where the examination is to take place, or the regulation state has indicated in accordance with the prescribed procedure that English is a language which it will accept¹²; and
- 162 (c) an undertaking to be responsible for the court's expenses¹³.

1 'Regulation state' has the same meaning as 'member state' in EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 on co-operation between the courts of the member states in the taking of evidence in civil and commercial matters (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) (ie the 'Taking of Evidence Regulation'): CPR 34.22(b), (c). The regulation states are all member states except Denmark: see CPR 34.22(b). This regulation is reproduced in Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A Annex B. In relation to Denmark, CPR 34.13 (see PARA 1001) continues to apply: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 7.3. Note that EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 prevails over other provisions contained in bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements concluded by the member states and, in particular, the Hague Convention of 1 March 1954 on Civil Procedure and the Hague Convention of 18 March 1970 on the Taking of Evidence Abroad in Civil or Commercial Matters: EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) art 21(1).

2 In accordance with EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1), each regulation state has prepared a list of courts competent to take evidence in accordance with the Council Regulation indicating the territorial and, where appropriate, special jurisdiction of those courts: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 8.1. Where CPR 34.22-34.24 refer to a 'designated court' in relation to another regulation state, the reference is to the court, referred to in the list of competent courts of that state, which is appropriate to the application in hand: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 8.2. Where the reference is to the 'designated court' in England and Wales, the reference is to the appropriate competent court in the jurisdiction: para 8.3. The designated courts for England and Wales are (1) for the London and South Eastern Circuit, the Royal Courts of Justice (Queen's Bench Division); (2) for the Midland Circuit, Birmingham Civil Justice Centre; (3) for the Western Circuit, Bristol County Court; (4) for the Wales Circuit, Cardiff Civil Justice Centre; (5) for the Northern Circuit, Manchester County Court; and (6) for the North Eastern Circuit, Leeds County Court: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 8.3, Annex C.

3 CPR 34.23(1), (2); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.1. This is subject to CPR 34.13A (see PARA 1001 text and notes 19-20): CPR 34.23(1).

An application to the court for an order under CPR 34.23(2) should be made by application notice in accordance with CPR Pt 23: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.2. The application may be made without notice: see para 10.7. A deposition cannot be used as evidence in a separate non-judicial hearing; nor can it be used in other judicial proceedings without the permission of the court: Dendron GmbH v Regents of the University of California (Boston Scientific Ltd, Pt 20 claimant) [2004] EWHC 589 (Pat), [2005] 1 WLR 200 (use as evidence in hearing before European Patent Office prohibited).

4 CPR 34.23(3)(a); and see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.3. As to the draft, see EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) Annex Form A, which is reproduced in Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A Annex B.

5 CPR 34.23(3)(b), (4). See also EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) art 5.

6 CPR 34.23(3)(c). Where the taking of evidence requires the use of an expert, the designated court may require a deposit in advance towards the costs of that expert. The party who obtained the order is responsible for the payment of any such deposit which should be deposited with the court for onward transmission. Under the provisions of EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1), the designated court is not required to execute the request until such payment is received: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.5.

7 CPR 34.23(3)(d).

8 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.4.

9 EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) art 17; Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 10.6.

10 CPR 34.23(5). See also Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A paras 10.6, 10.7.

11 CPR 34.23(6)(a). As to the draft, see EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) Annex Form I, which is reproduced in Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A Annex B.

12 CPR 34.23(6)(b), (4).

13 CPR 34.23(6)(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1003. Obligation to attend.

(v) Attendance at Court

A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE

1003. Obligation to attend.

Subject to the exceptional cases previously considered¹, all competent witnesses who are amenable to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of England and Wales and other courts² are compellable to attend³ for the purpose of giving evidence.

In appropriate cases and where the technology is available, evidence may be given by means of a video link⁴.

1 See PARAS 966-969. By the law and custom of Parliament members of both Houses of Parliament are exempted from attendance as witnesses during the session of Parliament, but the privilege may be waived and leave of absence granted. If permission has not been previously granted for the attendance of a member as a witness, the process may be set aside: see 521 H of C Official Report (5th series) cols 957-959, 961, 1287 (with reference to Lewis v Mullally (1953) Times, 2-4 December).

2 As to witnesses in criminal cases see ARMED FORCES; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES. As to the attendance of witnesses who are out of the jurisdiction see PARA 1008. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

3 As to examination of witnesses out of court see PARA 992 et seq.

4 See PARA 1032.

UPDATE

1003 Obligation to attend

NOTE 2--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1004. Witness summonses.

1004. Witness summonses.

Part 34 of the Civil Procedure Rules¹ provides for the circumstances in which a person may be required to attend court² to give evidence or to produce a document³.

A witness summons is a document issued by the court requiring a witness to attend court to give evidence or to produce documents to the court⁴, or both⁵, either on the date fixed for a hearing, which includes a trial⁶, or on such date as the court may direct⁷. The only documents that such a summons can require a person to produce before a hearing are documents which that person could be required to produce at the hearing⁸.

A witness summons must be in the relevant practice form⁹ and there must be a separate witness summons for each witness¹⁰.

The Family Proceedings Rules 1991 provide for the issue of witness summonses or writs of subpoena to enforce the attendance of witnesses in matrimonial causes¹¹; and particular provision to enforce the attendance of witnesses is made by other enactments¹². The attendance of witnesses in criminal cases is dealt with elsewhere in this work¹³.

1 Ie CPR Pt 34 Section I (CPR 34.1-34.15): see PARAS 992 et seq, 1005 et seq. Part 34 applies to claims allocated to the small claims track, except to the extent that a rule limits such application: see CPR 27.2(2). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

2 As to the duty to attend see PARA 1003.

3 CPR 34.1(1)(a). 'Document' is not defined for these purposes; but see CPR 31.4 ('document' means anything in which information of any description is recorded); and PARA 538.

4 CPR 34.2(1)(a), (b); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 1.1(1), (2). The documents must either be individually identified or identified by reference to a class of documents or things by which criterion the person to whom the summons is addressed can know what obligation the court imposes on him: Tajik Aluminium Plant v Hydro Aluminium AS [2005] EWCA Civ 1218, [2005] 4 All ER 1232, [2006] 1 WLR 767. As to the court's power to order a person not a party to the proceedings to give disclosure of documents see CPR 31.17; and PARA 550.

5 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 1.1(3).

6 See CPR 34.1(2), cited in PARA 992.

7 CPR 34.2(4)(a), (b).

8 CPR 34.2(5).

9 CPR 34.2(2). See Practice Direction--Forms PD 4 para 3, Table 1 Form N20; and see The Civil Court Practice. As to the use of the forms listed in Table 1 see PARA 14.

10 CPR 34.2(3).

11 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 2.30 (amended by SI 2005/2922); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 826.

12 See eg the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 97; and MAGISTRATES.

13 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1005. Issue of a witness summons.

1005. Issue of a witness summons.

A witness summons¹ must be issued by the court² where the case is proceeding³ or the court where the hearing or trial⁴ in question will be held⁵. Two copies of the witness summons must be filed⁶ with the court for sealing⁷, one of which will be retained on the court file⁸. A mistake in the name or address of a person named in a witness summons may be corrected if the summons has not been served⁹.

A witness summons is issued on the date entered on the summons by the court¹⁰. A party must obtain permission from the court where he wishes to:

- 163 (1) have a summons issued less than seven days before the date of the trial¹¹;
- 164 (2) have a summons issued for a witness to attend court to give evidence or to produce documents on any date except the date fixed for the trial¹²; or
- 165 (3) have a summons issued for a witness to attend court to give evidence or to produce documents at any hearing except the trial¹³.

The court may set aside¹⁴ or vary a witness summons issued under these provisions¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness summons' see PARA 1004.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 CPR 34.3(3)(a). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

4 See CPR 34.1(2), cited in PARA 992.

5 CPR 34.3(3)(b).

6 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

7 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

8 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 1.2.

9 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 1.3. The corrected summons must be re-sealed by the court and marked 'Amended and Re-Sealed': para 1.4. As to service of a witness summons see PARA 1007.

10 CPR 34.3(1).

11 CPR 34.3(2)(a).

12 CPR 34.3(2)(b).

13 CPR 34.3(2)(c).

14 As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

15 CPR 34.3(4). The witness must make an application for such an order under CPR Pt 23: see PARA 303 et seq.

UPDATE

1005 Issue of a witness summons

NOTE 11--See Desmond v Bower [2009] EWCA Civ 667, [2010] EMLR 109, [2009] All ER (D) 276 (Jul) (permission granted in libel proceedings where evidence of similar incident emerged).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1006. Issue of witness summons in aid of inferior court or tribunal.

1006. Issue of witness summons in aid of inferior court or tribunal.

The court¹ may issue a witness summons² in aid of an inferior court or of a tribunal³ which does not have the power to issue a summons in relation to the proceedings before it⁴. The court which issued the witness summons may also set it aside⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'witness summons' see PARA 1004.

3 CPR 34.4(1). For these purposes, 'inferior court or tribunal' means any court or tribunal that does not have power to issue a witness summons in relation to proceedings before it: CPR 34.4(3).

4 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 2.1; and see note 3.

5 CPR 34.4(2); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 2.2. Unless the court directs otherwise, the applicant witness must give at least two days' notice to the person who issued the summons of the application, which will normally be dealt with at a hearing: para 2.4. Such application will be heard in the High Court by a master at the Royal Courts of Justice or by a district judge in a district registry and in a county court by a district judge: para 2.3. As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1007. Serving a witness summons.

1007. Serving a witness summons.

The general rule is that a witness summons¹ is binding if it is served² at least seven days³ before the date on which the witness is required to attend before the court⁴ or tribunal⁵. The court may, however, direct that a witness summons is to be binding although it will be served less than seven days before such date⁶.

A witness summons which is served in accordance with these provisions and requires the witness to attend court to give evidence is binding until the conclusion of the hearing or trial⁷ at which the attendance of the witness is required⁸.

A witness summons must be served by the court unless the party on whose behalf it is issued indicates in writing, when he asks the court to issue the summons, that he wishes to serve it himself⁹. Where the court is to serve the witness summons, the party on whose behalf it is issued must deposit, in the court office, the money to be paid or offered to the witness¹⁰ for travelling expenses and in compensation for loss of time¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness summons' see PARA 1004.

2 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 As to the calculation of time and the court's general discretion to extend time limits see PARA 88 et seq.

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 34.5(1). As to the issue of a witness summons on behalf of a tribunal see PARA 1006.

6 CPR 34.5(2).

7 See CPR 34.1(2), cited in PARA 992.

8 CPR 34.5(3).

9 CPR 34.6(1).

10 Ie under CPR 34.7: see PARA 1013.

11 CPR 34.6(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1008. Compelling attendance of witness who is out of the jurisdiction, but within the United Kingdom.

1008. Compelling attendance of witness who is out of the jurisdiction, but within the United Kingdom.

If it appears to the High Court proper to compel the personal attendance at any trial¹ of a witness who may not be within the jurisdiction of the court, the High Court has power² to order the issue of a writ of subpoena ad testificandum³ or of subpoena duces tecum⁴ in special form⁵ commanding the witness to attend the trial wherever he is within the United Kingdom⁶.

Nothing in these provisions affects the High Court's power to issue a commission for the examination of witnesses out of the jurisdiction of the court in any case in which, notwithstanding these provisions, it thinks fit to issue such a commission, or the admissibility at any trial of any evidence which would, had these provisions not been enacted, have been admissible on the ground of a witness being outside the jurisdiction of the court⁷.

1 For these purposes, references to attendance at a trial include references to attendance before an examiner or commissioner appointed by the High Court in any cause or matter in that court, including an examiner or commissioner appointed to take evidence outside the jurisdiction of the court: Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(6). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to examiners of the court see PARA 993.

2 Ie if in its discretion it sees fit to do so: see the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(1).

3 Ie the equivalent of a witness summons to attend court to give evidence under CPR 34.2(1)(a): see PARA 1004. See also note 6.

4 Ie the equivalent of a witness summons to produce documents to the court under CPR 34.2(1)(b): see PARA 1004. See also note 6.

5 The writ will not be issued unless it has a statement that it has been issued by the special order of the High Court: see the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(2).

6 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(1). The service of any such writ in any part of the United Kingdom is as valid and effectual for all purposes as if it had been served within the jurisdiction of the High Court: s 36(1). As to the consequences of non-appearance see s 36(3), (4); and PARA 1016. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2. These provisions have not been modified following the replacement of writs of subpoena by witness summonses under the CPR.

7 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(5).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/A. ENFORCING ATTENDANCE/1009. Attendance of prisoners.

1009. Attendance of prisoners.

Subject as follows, in any proceedings pending before a county court, the judge may, if he thinks fit, upon application on affidavit by any party, issue an order under his hand for bringing up before the court any person (a 'prisoner') confined in any place under any sentence or under committal for trial or otherwise, to be examined as a witness in the proceedings¹. No such order may, however, be made with respect to a person confined under process in any civil action or matter².

The prisoner mentioned in any such order must be brought before the court under the same custody, and must be dealt with in the same manner in all respects, as a prisoner required by a writ of habeas corpus³ to be brought before the High Court and examined there as a witness⁴. The person having the custody of the prisoner is not, however, bound to obey the order unless there is tendered to him a reasonable sum for the conveyance and maintenance of a proper officer or officers and of the prisoner in going to, remaining at, and returning from, the court⁵.

The alternative methods of bringing up a prisoner to give evidence before the court (including the High Court) are considered elsewhere in this work⁶.

1 County Courts Act 1984 s 57(1).

2 County Courts Act 1984 s 57(2).

3 As to the writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum see PARA 1531 note 1; and ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 250.

4 County Courts Act 1984 s 57(3).

5 County Courts Act 1984 s 57(4).

6 See ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 250.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/B. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS/1010. Enforcing production of documents at trial.

B. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

1010. Enforcing production of documents at trial.

The production at the trial of a material document which is in the possession of any person other than the party who desires its production, which that person¹ is not willing to produce voluntarily, is enforced by a witness summons². Witness summonses are discussed elsewhere in this title³.

A special procedure exists for obtaining the production of documents filed, lodged or held in a court office⁴. Notwithstanding that procedure, which is discussed elsewhere in this title⁵, a court officer⁶ may be directed to attend the court, tribunal or arbitrator requesting such a document for the purpose of producing it⁷.

1 A separate witness summons is required for each person who is required to produce documents: see CPR 34.2(3); and PARA 1004.

2 See CPR 34.2(1)(b); and PARA 1004.

3 See PARA 1004 et seq.

4 See Practice Direction--Court Documents PD 5A para 5.6. See also the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 136, which provides that rules may be made in accordance with the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 1 Pt 1 for providing that, in any case where a document filed in, or in the custody of, any office of the Supreme Court is required to be produced to any court or tribunal (including an umpire or arbitrator) sitting elsewhere than at the Royal Courts of Justice, (1) it shall not be necessary for any officer, whether served with a subpoena in that behalf or not, to attend for the purpose of producing the document; but (2) the document may be produced to the court or tribunal by sending it to the court or tribunal, in the manner prescribed in the rules, together with a certificate, in the form so prescribed, to the effect that the document has been filed in, or is in the custody of, the office; and any such certificate is to be prima facie evidence of the facts stated in it: s 136(1) (amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 12(2), Sch 1 Pt 2 paras 11, 13(1), (2)). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. Rules under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 136 may contain provisions for securing the safe custody and return to the proper office of the Supreme Court of any document sent to a court or tribunal in pursuance of the rules and such incidental and supplementary provisions as appear to the person making the rules to be necessary or expedient: s 136(2) (amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 1 Pt 2 para 13(3)). The Supreme Court Act 1981 s 136 is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 4 para 26(1), (2), to substitute references to the Senior Courts for the references to the Supreme Court. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed. As to rules see the Supreme Court Documents (Production) Rules 1926, SR & O 1926/461, which have effect as if made under these provisions by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b) and which mirror the procedure set out in relation to the Supreme Court and county courts by Practice Direction--Court Documents PD 5.

5 See PARA 85.

6 As to the meaning of 'court officer' see PARA 49 note 3.

7 Practice Direction--Court Documents PD 5A para 5.6(7).

UPDATE

1010 Enforcing production of documents at trial

NOTE 4--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/B. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS/1011. Objection to production.

1011. Objection to production.

When a witness objects to the production of a document it is for the judge who tries the case to decide on the validity of the objection¹. A witness may object to producing a document on the ground of privilege² or public interest immunity³. A witness cannot object to producing a document on the ground that he has a lien on it⁴ except, it seems, when the party who asks for its production is the person against whom the lien is claimed⁵.

1 Amey v Long (1808) 9 East 473; R v Greenaway (1845) 7 QB 126. A person who has possession of documents only as an employee cannot be compelled to produce them if his employer refuses to allow him to bring them (Austin v Evans (1841) 2 Man & G 430; Crowther v Appleby (1873) LR 9 CP 23; Re Higgs, ex p Leicester (1892) 66 LT 296), or if production would amount to a violation of his duty to his employer (Eccles & Co v Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co [1912] 1 KB 135, CA).

2 A document is privileged from production on the same grounds as those on which a witness is privileged from giving evidence: see PARA 970 et seq; and PARA 555 et seq.

3 See PARA 574 et seq.

4 Re Toleman and England, ex p Bramble (1880) 13 ChD 885; Re South Essex Estuary and Reclamation Co, ex p Paine and Layton (1869) 4 Ch App 215; Pratt v Pratt (1882) 51 LJ Ch 838; Lockett v Cary (1864) 3 New Rep 405; Hope v Liddell (1855) 7 De GM & G 331, where Griffith v Ricketts (1849) 7 Hare 299 was disapproved; Re Cameron's Coalbrook etc Rly Co (1857) 25 Beav 1; Ley v Barlow (1848) 1 Exch 800; Thompson v Mosely (1833) 5 C & P 501; Hunter v Leathley (1830) 10 B & C 858; Brassington v Brassington (1823) 1 Sim & St 455; Furlong v Howard (1804) 2 Sch & Lef 115; Re Rapid Road Transit Co [1909] 1 Ch 96. As to solicitor's lien see Re Hawkes, Ackerman v Lockhart [1898] 2 Ch 1, CA; and LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 996 et seq.

5 Kemp v King (1842) 2 Mood & R 437. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/B. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS/1012. Production of documents before a hearing.

1012. Production of documents before a hearing.

A witness summons¹ may require a witness to produce documents to the court before a hearing, but only if they are documents which that person could be required to produce at the hearing².

The disclosure of documents is discussed elsewhere in this title³.

1 As to the meaning of 'witness summons' see PARA 1004.

2 See CPR 34.2(4)(b), (5); and PARA 1004.

3 See PARA 538 et seq. See also PARA 963.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/C. EXPENSES/1013. Witness's right to travelling expenses and compensation for loss of time.

C. EXPENSES

1013. Witness's right to travelling expenses and compensation for loss of time.

At the time of service¹ of a witness summons² the witness must be offered or paid a sum reasonably sufficient to cover his expenses in travelling to and from the court³ and such sum by way of compensation for loss of time as may be specified in the relevant practice direction⁴. The latter sum is to be based on the sums payable to witnesses attending the Crown Court⁵ and must be a sum in respect of the period during which earnings or benefit are lost, or such lesser sum as it may be proved that the witness will lose as a result of his attendance at court in answer to the witness summons⁶.

If the witness summons is to be served by the court, the party issuing the summons must deposit the sums mentioned above with the court⁷. Where the party issuing the witness summons wishes to serve it himself⁸, he must notify the court in writing that he wishes to do so and at the time of service offer the above-mentioned sums to the witness⁹.

A party requiring a prisoner to give evidence must tender reasonable expenses for him and his escort¹⁰.

Provision is made by a number of enactments for the payment of expenses and compensation to witnesses attending particular courts or tribunals¹¹. Such payments to witnesses in criminal proceedings are discussed elsewhere in this work¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'witness summons' see PARA 1004; and as to service of a witness summons see PARA 1007.

3 I.e. travelling to the court and in returning to his home or place of work: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.2(1). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 34.7(a), (b); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.1. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

5 I.e. fixed pursuant to the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 and the Costs in Criminal Cases (General) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1335: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.3. As to the sums so payable see the Costs in Criminal Cases (General) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1335, regs 15-25; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(4) (2006 Reissue) PARA 2076 et seq.

6 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.2(2).

7 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.2(1), (2).

8 See CPR 34.6(1); and PARA 1007.

9 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.4.

10 See PARA 1009.

11 See eg the Mental Health Act 1983 s 78(7) (payment of travelling expenses to witnesses before Mental Health Review Tribunals); and MENTAL HEALTH vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 589; the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 143 (reasonable expenses incurred by any person in appearing to give evidence at the trial of an election petition); and ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS vol 15(4) (2007 Reissue) PARA 877; the General Teaching Council for England (Disciplinary Functions) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1268, reg 28 (reasonable travelling, subsistence and such other allowances as the Council sees fit in respect of witnesses appearing before a committee); and EDUCATION vol 15(2) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1198, 1237; the Pathogens Access Appeal Commission (Procedure) Rules 2002, SI 2002/1845, r 20(2) (no witness required to travel more than 16 km from his place of residence unless the necessary expenses of his attendance are paid or tendered to him); the Standing Civilian Courts Order 1997, SI 1997/172, art 26; the Courts-Martial (Royal Air Force) Rules 1997, SI 1997/171, r 23 (witnesses' expenses); and ARMED FORCES.

12 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/C. EXPENSES/1014. Waiver of expenses.

1014. Waiver of expenses.

A witness may waive payment¹ of the whole or part of the expenses to which he is entitled, such as the expenses of going to the place of trial; but in the latter case he is still entitled to demand money for his return². A witness who makes no complaint that the sum tendered is insufficient, but offers to bear his own expenses, has no answer to punishment for contempt of court if he refuses to attend the trial³ on the ground that he has not been paid expenses due to him for attendance on an earlier occasion⁴.

1 It would seem that the situations described in the text may still arise where a witness summons is served under the Civil Procedure Rules, since CPR 34.7 refers to the sums to be 'offered or paid' to the witness: see PARA 1013.

2 Newton v Harland (1840) 1 Man & G 956. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

3 Goff v Mills (1844) 13 LJQB 227. For the punishment see PARA 1016.

4 Gaunt v Johnson (1848) 6 Hare 551.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/C. EXPENSES/1015. Liability for expenses.

1015. Liability for expenses.

A solicitor who causes a witness summons to be served is not personally liable to the witness for his expenses, in the absence of a contract, express or implied¹. The fact that a witness attends and gives evidence without demanding his expenses² is evidence from which a promise may be inferred by the party for whom he appears to pay the expenses subsequently³.

When the attendance of a witness has become unnecessary, and no expenses have been incurred by him under the witness summons, and he has done no act under it, the expenses paid to him may be recovered from him as money had and received⁴.

1 Robins v Bridge (1837) 3 M & W 114. The rule with regard to expert witnesses is the same: Lee v Everest (1857) 2 H & N 285. It seems that where a solicitor is conducting a speculative claim a contract to make himself personally liable to the witnesses might be implied: see Miller v Appleton (1906) 50 Sol Jo 192. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

2 It would seem that the situations described in the text may still arise where a witness summons is served under the Civil Procedure Rules, since CPR 34.7 refers to the sums to be 'offered or paid' to the witness: see PARA 1013.

3 Hallet v Mears (1810) 13 East 15; Pell v Daubeny (1850) 5 Exch 955.

4 Martin v Andrews (1856) 7 E & B 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/D. PENALTIES FOR NON-ATTENDANCE/1016. Penalty for neglecting or refusing to give evidence.

D. PENALTIES FOR NON-ATTENDANCE

1016. Penalty for neglecting or refusing to give evidence.

Subject as follows, any person who, having been summoned in pursuance of rules of court as a witness in a county court, refuses or neglects, without sufficient cause, to appear or to produce any documents required by the summons to be produced, or who, having been so summoned or being present in court and being required to give evidence, refuses to be sworn or give evidence, is to forfeit such fine as the judge¹ may direct². No person summoned in pursuance of rules of court as a witness in a county court is, however, to forfeit a fine under these provisions unless there has been paid or tendered to him at the time of the service of the summons such sum in respect of his expenses³ as may be prescribed for these purposes⁴.

The judge may at his discretion direct that the whole or any part of any such fine, after deducting the costs, is to be applicable towards indemnifying the party injured by the refusal or neglect⁵.

If a person served with a subpoena by the High Court under the provisions for compelling the attendance of a witness who is outside the jurisdiction but within the United Kingdom⁶ does not appear as required by the writ, the High Court, on proof to the satisfaction of the court of the service of the writ and of the default, may transmit a certificate of the default under its seal or under the hand of a judge to the appropriate court⁷ and the court to which it is sent must thereupon proceed against and punish the person in default in the like manner as if that person had neglected or refused to appear in obedience to process issued out of that court⁸. No court may proceed against or punish any person for such default, however, unless it is shown to the court that a reasonable and sufficient sum of money to defray the expenses of coming and attending to give evidence and of returning from giving evidence, and any other reasonable expenses which he has asked to be defrayed in connection with his evidence, was tendered to him at the time when the writ was served⁹.

Failure to attend the court may also constitute contempt of court¹⁰; but for the court to interfere a clear case of contempt must be made out¹¹. Thus, there may be reasonable excuse for absence¹²; it may be sufficient that the witness was ill¹³ or unable to travel¹⁴, that his employers (who were not parties to the case) refused to allow him to take to court a large number of books and papers belonging to them¹⁵, that he had genuine and reasonable grounds for thinking that his attendance would not be required¹⁶ or that a proper sum was not tendered to him for his expenses¹⁷.

The most stringent order of an employer not to leave business, however, is no excuse¹⁸; neither is the fact that the witness has not actually been called¹⁹, nor that the case was not called on²⁰, nor that the witness would have been in time if the case had not unexpectedly been called on²¹, nor, it seems, that his evidence was not material²².

It is a contempt of court for a witness not to attend on a witness summons issued in aid of an inferior court or tribunal²³. Such courts and tribunals may have their own powers of punishment for witnesses who fail to attend²⁴.

1 A district judge, assistant district judge or deputy district judge has the same powers under these provisions as a judge: County Courts Act 1984 s 55(4A) (added by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 74(5)).

2 County Courts Act 1984 s 55(1) (s 55(1), (3) amended by the Civil Procedure Act 1997, s 10, Sch 2 para 2). A judge does not have power under the County Courts Act 1984 s 55(1) to direct that a person is to forfeit a fine of an amount exceeding £1,000: s 55(2) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 17(3)(a), Sch 4 Pt I).

3 le including, in such cases as may be prescribed, compensation for loss of time: County Courts Act 1984 s 55(3) (as amended: see note 2). As to compensation for loss of time see PARA 1013.

4 County Courts Act 1984 s 55(3) (as amended: see note 2). As to the sum so prescribed see Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 3.3; and PARA 1013 note 5.

5 County Courts Act 1984 s 55(4). Section 55 does not apply to a debtor summoned to attend by a judgment summons: s 55(5). As to judgment summonses see PARA 1516 et seq.

6 le under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(1): see PARA 1008. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

7 le (1) if the service was in Scotland, to the Court of Session at Edinburgh; and (2) if the service was in Northern Ireland, to the High Court of Justice in Northern Ireland at Belfast: Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(3).

8 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(3). These provisions have not been modified following the replacement of writs of subpoena by witness summonses under the CPR. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

9 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 36(4) (amended by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 125(2), Sch 17 para 13).

10 See CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 476. As to the failure of a witness who does attend to give evidence see CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 407 head (6) in the text.

11 Horne v Smith (1815) 6 Taunt 9; Garden v Creswell (1837) 2 M & W 319; R v Lord Russell, R v Fox Maule (1839) 7 Dowl 693; Chapman v Davis (1841) 3 Man & G 609; Netherwood v Wilkinson (1855) 17 CB 226 (wife's failure to hand husband notice requiring attendance); Glendinning v Thomas (1862) 6 LT 251 (failure to hear call); but see R v Daye[1908] 2 KB 333, DC.

12 Malcolm v Day (1819) 3 Moore CP 579; Whiteland v Grant (1840) 4 Jur 1061.

13 Re Jacobs (1835) 1 Har & W 123; Scholes v Hilton (1842) 10 M & W 15; Dick v Piller[1943] KB 497, [1943] 1 All ER 627, CA (whether court under duty to adjourn if essential witness unable to attend owing to illness).

14 More v Woreham (1580) Cary 99; cf Humble v Malbe (1559) Cary 41 (witness impressed as a soldier).

15 Crowther v Appleby(1873) LR 9 CP 23. In ordinary circumstances a witness must bring the documents specified, even though not bound to produce them: R v Carey(1845) 7 QB 126, 2 New Sess Cas 103; but see Eccles & Co v Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co[1912] 1 KB 135, CA.

16 R v Sloman (1832) 1 Dowl 618; cf Farrah v Keat (1838) 6 Dowl 470 (case called on while witness absent with attorney's consent); and see Blandford v De Tastet (1813) 5 Taunt 260 (witness subpoenaed without notice of when case would come on, leaving on third day of his attendance on urgent business); Vaughton v Brine (1840) 9 Dowl 179 (defendant's attorney subpoenaed for a particular day, and case postponed at defendant's request).

17 As to expenses see PARAS 1013-1015.

18 Goff v Mills (1844) 13 LJQB 227 (even though there is no possibility of communicating with employer). However, this case is not consistent with Crowther v Appleby(1873) LR 9 CP 23. See also Jackson v Seager (1844) 2 Dow & L 13.

19 Dixon v Lee (1834) 3 Dowl 259; R v Fenn (1835) 3 Dowl 546; Lamont v Crook (1840) 6 M & W 615; Goff v Mills (1844) 13 LJQB 227. Cf Malcolm v Ray (1819) 3 Moore CP 222; R v Stretch (1835) 3 Ad & El 503.

20 Barrow v Humphreys (1820) 3 B & Ald 598.

21 R v Fenn (1835) 3 Dowl 546.

22 See Chapman v Davis (1841) 3 Man & G 609; cf Dicas v Lawson (1835) 1 Cr M & R 934; Taylor v Williams (1830) 4 Moo & P 59; Tinley v Porter (1837) 5 Dowl 744.

23 As to witness summonses issued in aid of an inferior court or tribunal see PARA 1006; and see Ex p Customs and Excise Comrs [1956] Crim LR 130, DC. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

24 See eg the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 97; and MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/D. PENALTIES FOR NON-ATTENDANCE/1017. Claim for damages.

1017. Claim for damages.

The party who has obtained and served a witness summons or subpoena may bring a claim for damages against an absent witness, in which proof of actual damage caused by the witness's non-attendance must be given¹. In decided cases the damages awarded have invariably been limited to costs thrown away through the witness's non-attendance². Although it must be alleged that the defendant was a material witness in the case³, and that he could and might have appeared⁴, it is unnecessary to aver that the plaintiff had a good cause of action⁵, or that the witness's absence was the sole cause of the loss of the suit⁶. The claim will lie even though the claimant himself withdrew the record at the trial, if he did so because of the absence of the defendant as a witness⁷. In some circumstances there may be a cause of action in contract⁸.

1 Couling v Coxe (1848) 6 Dow & L 399; Crewe v Field (1896) 12 TLR 405; Roberts v J and F Stone Lighting and Radio Ltd (1945) 172 LT 240; and see Chapman v Honig [1963] 2 QB 502, [1963] 2 All ER 513, CA.

2 Roberts v J and F Stone Lighting and Radio Ltd (1945) 172 LT 240.

3 Masterman v Judson (1832) 8 Bing 224. Materiality on a single issue is sufficient (Couling v Coxe (1848) 6 Dow & L 399), for the plaintiff (now known as the 'claimant': see PARA 18) may have lost his costs of that issue.

4 Maunsell v Ainsworth (1840) 8 Dowl 869. It is not necessary to aver that the original subpoena was shown to the witness (Mullett v Hunt (1833) 1 Cr & M 752), or that he was called on his subpoena at the trial, if he was not in fact present (Lamont v Crook (1840) 6 M & W 615).

5 Masterman v Judson (1832) 8 Bing 224.

6 Davis v Lovell (1839) 4 M & W 678.

7 Mullett v Hunt (1833) 1 Cr & M 752; and see Needham v Fraser (1845) 14 LJCP 256.

8 If a witness promises to attend at a trial, a claim will lie against him for breach of the promise: Yeatman v Dempsey (1860) 7 CBNS 628; affd (1861) 9 CBNS 881. As to the recovery of expenses from a witness see PARA 1015. A witness who has not been paid his expenses has a claim for them against the party who sues out the subpoena: Collins v Godefroy (1831) 1 B & Ad 950; Robins v Bridge (1837) 3 M & W 114; Hale v Bates (1858) EB & E 575.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/E. ORDERING WITNESSES OUT OF COURT/1018. Power to order witnesses out of court.

E. ORDERING WITNESSES OUT OF COURT

1018. Power to order witnesses out of court.

At any time during the course of a trial the judge may order witnesses in the case to leave the court until called¹. Application for such an order may be made by either party². Refusal to leave the court when ordered is contempt of court and punishable accordingly³, but the witness is not thereby rendered incompetent, and his evidence is not inadmissible⁴.

1 Moore v Lambeth County Court Registrar[1969] 1 All ER 782, [1969] 1 WLR 141, CA. Whether or not a witness is ordered to leave the court is purely a matter within the judge's discretion: see PARA 1019. An examiner has a similar power: Re Western of Canada Oil, Lands and Works Co(1877) 6 ChD 109. For the practice in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

2 Southey v Nash (1837) 7 C & P 632.

3 Skelton v Castle(1837) 6 JP 154n; Chandler v Horne (1842) 2 Mood & R 423; Cobbett v Hudson (1852) 1 E & B 11; and see CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 407 head (6) in the text.

4 Moore v Lambeth County Court Registrar[1969] 1 All ER 782, [1969] 1 WLR 141, CA; R v Briggs(1930) 22 Cr App Rep 68, CCA; and see R v Carefoot [1948] 2 DLR 22 (Ont). The jury may be directed that the weight to be attached to the evidence of such a witness is diminished: Cook v Nethercote (1835) 6 C & P 741; Chandler v Horne (1842) 2 Mood & R 423; and see Moore v Lambeth County Court Registrar[1969] 1 All ER 782, [1969] 1 WLR 141, CA. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132. As to the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence see PARA 791.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/E. ORDERING WITNESSES OUT OF COURT/1019. When discretion is exercised.

1019. When discretion is exercised.

The power of the judge to exclude witnesses from the court is discretionary¹, and is not a matter of right so far as the parties are concerned², although in a civil case³ the parties themselves may not be ordered to leave the court⁴.

A solicitor in the case, even if a witness, is usually permitted to remain if his presence is necessary for the purpose of instructing counsel or the like⁵; and it is the usual practice for witnesses who are called to give expert evidence or to produce documents, and not to speak to facts, to be allowed to remain, even though other witnesses are excluded⁶.

1 Moore v Lambeth County Court Registrar [1969] 1 All ER 782, [1969] 1 WLR 141, CA; and see Practice Note, Re Nightingale, Green v Nightingale [1975] 1 WLR 80.

2 R v Murphy and Douglas (1837) 8 C & P 297; Selfe v Isaacson (1858) 1 F & F 194; Penniman v Hill (1876) 24 WR 245 (witness not ordered out of court during reading of affidavit already seen by him). As to arbitrators see ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1226.

3 For the practice in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

4 Charnock v Dewings (1853) 3 Car & Kir 378; Selfe v Isaacson (1858) 1 F & F 194; and see Russell v Pilson (1893) 28 LJo 810n; cf Outram v Outram [1877] WN 75.

5 Pomeroy v Baddeley (1826) Ry & M 430; Everett v Lowdham (1831) 5 C & P 91. This is so even if the solicitor has a personal interest in the case: Re Aughtie, ex p Dugard (1835) 4 Deac & Ch 524 (petitioner in bankruptcy, also an assignee, allowed to remain as being in position of solicitor in the case).

6 As to expert witnesses see PARA 835 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(v) Attendance at Court/E. ORDERING WITNESSES OUT OF COURT/1020. Hearing in private.

1020. Hearing in private.

The general rule is that both civil and criminal cases must be heard in open court¹; but there are a number of statutory and other exceptions whereby the court may sit in private². In practice there are three categories of case: those heard in open court, those heard in private and those heard in secret where the information disclosed to the court and the proceedings remain confidential³.

Even where a hearing is in public, the court may order that the identity of any party or witness must not be disclosed⁴.

1 Scott v Scott [1913] AC 417, HL; CPR 39.2(1), (3); and see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1408; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 848. See also the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6 (right to a fair and public hearing); and PARAS 5, 791.

2 See COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; PARA 6; and see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW; SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 545.

3 See Clibbery v Allan [2002] EWCA Civ 45 at [20], [2002] 1 All ER 865 at [20], [2002] 1 FCR 385 at [20] per Dame Elizabeth Butler-Sloss P.

4 See CPR 39.2(4); PARA 1030; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 312; PARA 6. As to reporting restrictions see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 313; CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 428 et seq; CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 1271-1272; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 1015; PRESS, PRINTING AND PUBLISHING vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 434 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1021. Evidence on oath.

(vi) Oaths and Affirmations

1021. Evidence on oath.

With certain exceptions¹ no evidence is admissible in any court² unless it is given upon oath or affirmation³. By statute, any oath may be administered and taken in the following form and manner: the person taking the oath must hold the New Testament or, in the case of a Jew, the Old Testament, in his uplifted hand, and say or repeat after the officer⁴ administering the oath the words 'I swear by Almighty God . . .' followed by the words of the oath prescribed by law⁵. The officer must administer the oath in that form and manner without question unless the person about to take the oath objects to, or is physically incapable of, so taking it⁶; but in the case of a person who is neither a Christian nor a Jew the oath must be administered in any lawful manner⁷. Whether the oath is administered in a lawful manner to a witness who is neither a Christian nor a Jew depends not on the intricacies of his particular religion but on whether the oath appears to the court to be binding on the conscience of the witness and whether the witness himself considers the oath to be binding on his conscience⁸.

If a witness desires to take the oath in the Scottish manner⁹ with uplifted hand he must be permitted to do so without further question¹⁰.

If a witness takes the oath, in whatever form, without objection, or has declared it to be binding on him, or has affirmed¹¹, then if he gives false evidence he may be convicted of perjury¹².

1 See PARA 1025.

2 As to what constitutes a court see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 301 et seq.

3 At common law the form of oath was immaterial, providing it was binding on the witness's conscience: Omychund v Barker (1745) 1 Atk 21; R v Morgan (1764) 1 Leach 54; Atcheson v Everitt (1776) 1 Cowp 382; R v Gilham (1795) 1 Esp 284; Edmonds v Rowe (1824) Ry & M 77; R v Entrehman (1842) Car & M 248; Maden v Catanach (1861) 7 H & N 360; A-G v Bradlaugh (1885) 14 QBD 667, CA.

4 'Officer' includes any person duly authorised to administer oaths: Oaths Act 1978 s 1(4). As to such persons see PARAS 1026-1027.

5 Oaths Act 1978 s 1(1). The following form of oath was approved by the King's Bench Judges in January 1927 for use in the civil and criminal courts over which they preside: 'that the evidence I shall give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth'. This oath is also used in the Chancery Division and in the Family Division.

The Lord Chancellor may, after consulting the Lord Chief Justice of England and Wales, make rules prescribing a translation in the Welsh language of any form for the time being prescribed by law as the form of any oath or affirmation to be administered and taken or made by any person in any court, and an oath or affirmation administered and taken or made in any court in Wales in the translation prescribed by such rules is, without interpretation, to be of the like effect as if it had been administered and taken or made in the English language: Welsh Language Act 1993 s 23(1) (numbered as such and amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 15(1), Sch 4 Pt 1 para 232(1)-(3)). The Lord Chief Justice may nominate a judicial office holder (as defined in the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 109(4)) to exercise his functions under the Welsh Language Act 1993 s 23: s 23(2) (added by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 4 Pt 1 para 232(4)). When each witness is called, the court officer administering the oath or affirmation will inform the witness that he or she may be sworn or may affirm in Welsh or English as he or she wishes: Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in cases in the civil courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 6.1. For the form of words in Welsh which may be used as an alternative to the form of affirmation set out in the Oaths Act 1978 s 6(1) (see PARA 1023 note 2) see the Citizenship Oath and Pledge (Welsh Language) Order 2007, SI 2007/1484, art 4.

The form of oath to be administered to and taken by any person before a youth court, or any child or young person before any other court, is 'I promise before Almighty God . . .' instead of 'I swear by Almighty God': Children and Young Persons Act 1963 s 28(1) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 100, Sch 11 para 40; and the Oaths Act 1978 s 2). Whether the oath is administered in this form, or in the form prescribed by the Oaths Act 1978 s 1(1), it is deemed to have been duly administered and taken: see the Children and Young Persons Act 1963 s 28(2). For these purposes, 'child' means a person under the age of 14 years; and 'young person' means a person who has attained the age of 14 years and is under the age of 18 years: Children and Young Persons Act 1933 s 107 (definition of 'young person' substituted for certain purposes by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 68, Sch 8 para 1). See further CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 1-3.

6 Oaths Act 1978 s 1(2).

7 Oaths Act 1978 s 1(3). See also the text and note 8. Persons of other religions usually take the oath upon their own holy book. For the forms of oath customarily used by persons of other religions see Boland and Sayers Oaths and Affirmations (2nd Edn) p 107 et seq. Where it is not reasonably practicable without inconvenience or delay to administer an oath to such a person he may be required to make a solemn affirmation instead of being sworn: see the Oaths Act 1978 s 5(2), (3); and PARA 1023.

8 R v Kemble[1990] 3 All ER 116, [1990] 1 WLR 1111, CA.

9 One form of Scottish oath is as follows: 'I swear by Almighty God as I shall answer to God at the Great Day of Judgment . . .': see Home Office circular dated 31 May 1893. The words 'as I shall answer to God at the Great Day of Judgment' are often omitted in practice. No book is used, but the witness raises his ungloved right hand.

10 Oaths Act 1978 s 3; R v Palm(1910) 4 Cr App Rep 201, CCA; and see Rabey v Birch(1908) 72 JP 106. The Oaths Act 1978 obviates the necessity for a corporal oath, ie an oath ratified by corporally touching (eg by kissing) a sacred object.

11 As to affirmation see PARA 1023.

12 See the Perjury Act 1911 ss 1, 1A, 15; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 712 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1022. Validity of oaths.

1022. Validity of oaths.

In any case in which an oath may lawfully be and has been administered to any person¹, if it has been administered in a form and manner other than that prescribed by law², he is bound by it if it has been administered in such form and with such ceremonies as he may have declared to be binding³.

Where an oath has been duly administered and taken, the fact that the person to whom it was administered had, at the time of taking it, no religious belief, does not for any purpose affect the validity of the oath⁴.

1 As to the administration of oaths see PARA 1021.

2 See PARA 1021 the text and notes 7-8.

3 Oaths Act 1978 s 4(1).

4 Oaths Act 1978 s 4(2). As to the consequences of giving false evidence on oath see PARA 1021 text and notes 11-12.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1023. Affirmations.

1023. Affirmations.

Any person who objects to being sworn¹ must be permitted to make his solemn affirmation² instead of taking an oath³, and a solemn affirmation is of the same force and effect as an oath⁴. A person may also affirm, and he may be required to do so⁵, where it is not reasonably practicable without inconvenience or delay to administer an oath to him in the manner appropriate to his religious belief⁶.

Except in the case of a child or other person who may give unsworn evidence⁷, it is contempt of court for a witness to refuse to affirm or to be sworn⁸.

1 A special form of affirmation was long permitted to members of the religious bodies of Quakers and Moravians, and to persons who had ceased to belong to those bodies but who retained their religious objection to the taking of oaths: see the Quakers and Moravians Act 1833 s 1; the Quakers and Moravians Act 1838 s 1 (both repealed); and R v Doran (1838) 2 Mood CC 37, CCR.

2 Every affirmation must be as follows: 'I, (name) do solemnly, sincerely and truly declare and affirm', and then proceed with the words of the oath prescribed by law omitting any words of imprecation or calling to witness: Oaths Act 1978 s 6(1). As to affirmations in Welsh see PARA 1021 note 5. Every affirmation in writing must commence: 'I, (name), of (address), do solemnly and sincerely affirm', and the form in lieu of jurat must be 'Affirmed at . . . this . . . day of . . . [20] . . ., before me': s 6(2). As to the meaning of 'jurat' see PARA 990 note 8.

3 Oaths Act 1978 s 5(1). See also the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 ('oath' and 'affidavit' include affirmation and declaration, and 'swear' includes affirm and declare). Before the Oaths Act 1888 (repealed) it was a rule of the common law that persons of no religious belief were incompetent as witnesses, being incapable of acknowledging the obligation of an oath: see Maden v Catanach (1861) 7 H & N 360; A-G v Bradlaugh (1885) 14 QBD 667, CA; Nash v Ali Khan (1892) 8 TLR 444, CA.

4 Oaths Act 1978 s 5(4).

5 Oaths Act 1978 s 5(3). See also the Army Act 1955 s 102; the Air Force Act 1955 s 102; the Naval Discipline Act 1957 s 60, where the like provision is made with regard to courts-martial; and ARMED FORCES.

6 Oaths Act 1978 s 5(2); and see R v Pritam Singh [1958] 1 All ER 199, [1958] 1 WLR 143. See also note 5.

7 See PARA 1025.

8 See CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 407 at head (6) in the text.

UPDATE

1023 Affirmations

NOTE 5--Army Act 1955, Air Force Act 1955 and Naval Discipline Act 1957 replaced: Armed Forces Act 2006.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1024. Statutory declarations.

1024. Statutory declarations.

With regard to certain oaths required to be taken out of court and such voluntary declarations as may be required in confirmation of written instruments, proofs of debts or other matters, any person may make a solemn declaration¹ in place of an oath².

1 The form is: 'I, AB, of . . . do solemnly and sincerely declare that . . . and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of the Statutory Declarations Act 1835': s 20, Schedule. The form of jurat is 'Declared at . . . this . . . day of . . . before me': see Forms and Precedents.

2 See the Statutory Declarations Act 1835 ss 4, 7, 18, 20 (amended by the Statute Law Revision (No 2) Act 1888; the Statute Law Revision Act 1890; the Statute Law Revision (No 2) Act 1890; and the Perjury Act 1911 ss 17, 18, Schedule).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1025. Unsworn statements.

1025. Unsworn statements.

There are some exceptions to the general rule that evidence must be given on oath or affirmation¹. In civil claims which have been allocated to the small claims track, the court need not take evidence on oath or affirmation². In other proceedings, although a judge³ or jurymen⁴, if competent to give evidence in a trial in which he acts in that capacity⁵, must be sworn before he gives evidence in relation to any matter which is within his own particular knowledge, a judge explaining an incident occurring at a former trial may, it seems, be heard unsworn⁶. A barrister is permitted to make a statement from the bar without being sworn on any matter within his knowledge in connection with the case, for example when a question of his authority to enter into a compromise has arisen⁷; but he may be sworn, in which case the modern practice is for him to give his evidence, unrobed, from the witness box⁸.

In criminal proceedings, an accused person is not permitted to make an unsworn statement unless he is without legal representation and he wishes to address the court or jury otherwise than on oath on any matter on which, if he were represented, counsel or a solicitor could address the court or jury on his behalf⁹.

The unsworn statements of young children are considered subsequently, and elsewhere in this work¹⁰.

1 The rule is said to extend to the Sovereign herself: see Abignye v Clifton (1611) Hob 213, where a certificate of the Sovereign was received in place of an affidavit. It may be doubted whether this would be followed today. See also PARA 969.

2 See CPR 27.8(4); and PARA 279. As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq.

3 R v Anderson (1680) 7 State Tr 811; Hurpershad v Sheo Dyal (1876) LR 3 Ind App 259, PC.

4 R v Rosser (1836) 7 C & P 648; Manley v Shaw (1840) Car & M 361.

5 See PARA 971.

6 See (1905) 40 LJo 415; and PARA 971 note 6. See also R v Earl of Thanet (1799) 27 State Tr 821 (evidence against accused).

7 See eg Hickman v Berens [1895] 2 Ch 638, CA; and see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1147.

8 See LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1147.

9 See the Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 72 (amended by the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 67(1), Sch 4 para 10; and the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 2008); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1408.

10 See PARA 1029; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1277.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1026. Persons empowered to administer oaths and take affidavits, etc.

1026. Persons empowered to administer oaths and take affidavits, etc.

Only the following may administer oaths¹ and take affidavits²:

- 166 (1) commissioners for oaths³;
- 167 (2) practising solicitors⁴;
- 168 (3) other persons specified by statute⁵;
- 169 (4) certain officials of the Supreme Court⁶;
- 170 (5) a circuit judge or district judge⁷;
- 171 (6) any justice of the peace⁸; and
- 172 (7) certain officials of any county court appointed by the judge of that court for the purpose⁹.

1 As to the administration of oaths and affirmations see PARAS 1021, 1023. 'Oath' includes affirmation: see PARA 1023 note 3.

2 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 9.1. As to affidavits see PARA 989 et seq. As to oaths etc taken out of the jurisdiction see PARA 1027; and as to persons who may take evidence for the purposes of proceedings abroad see PARA 1059.

As from a day to be appointed, the administering of oaths is a reserved legal activity under the Legal Services Act 2007: see s 12(1)(f), Sch 2 paras 7, 8. Only persons who are authorised or exempt under that Act will be entitled to carry on reserved legal activities: see s 13. At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed bringing the relevant provisions into force. See LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 509.

3 A commissioner for oaths may, in England and Wales or elsewhere, administer any oath or take any affidavit for the purposes of any court or matter in England and Wales, including any of the ecclesiastical courts or jurisdictions, matters ecclesiastical, matters relating to applications for notarial faculties, and matters relating to the registration of any instrument, whether under an Act of Parliament or otherwise, and take any bail or recognisance in or for the purpose of any civil proceeding in the Supreme Court: Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 1(2) (amended by the Courts Act 1971 s 56(4), Sch 11 Pt IV; by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 125(7), Sch 20; and, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 4 para 15, to substitute a reference to the Senior Courts for the reference to the Supreme Court). A commissioner for oaths must not, however, exercise any of the powers so given in any proceeding in which he is solicitor to any of the parties to the proceeding, or clerk to any such solicitor, or in which he is interested: Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 1(3) (amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Legal Services Act 2007 ss 208(1), 210, Sch 21 paras 11, 12, Sch 23 to delete the words 'in which he is solicitor to any of the parties to the proceeding, or clerk to any such solicitor, or'): see note 2. For these purposes, 'oath' includes affirmation and declaration; and 'affidavit' includes affirmation, statutory or other declaration, acknowledgment, examination, and attestation or protestation of honour: Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 11. Every commissioner before whom any oath or affidavit is taken or made must state truly in the jurat or attestation at what place and on what date the oath or affidavit is taken or made: s 5.

4 Every solicitor who holds a practising certificate which is in force has the powers conferred on a commissioner for oaths by the Commissioners for Oaths Acts 1889 and 1891 and the Stamp Duties Management Act 1891 s 24 (statutory declarations relating to stamp duties); and any reference to such a commissioner in an enactment or instrument includes a reference to such a solicitor unless the context otherwise requires: Solicitors Act 1974 s 81(1). A solicitor must not exercise the powers so conferred in a proceeding in which he is solicitor to any of the parties, or in which he is interested: s 81(2). A solicitor before whom any oath or affidavit is taken or made must state in the jurat or attestation at which place and on what date the oath or affidavit is taken or made: s 81(3). A document containing such a statement and purporting to be sealed or signed by a solicitor must be admitted in evidence without proof of the seal or signature, and without proof that he is a solicitor or that he holds a practising certificate which is in force: s 81(4). Every practising solicitor has the right to use the title 'Commissioner for Oaths': Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113(10)(a). The Solicitors Act 1974 s 81 and the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113 are repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Legal Services Act 2007 ss 177, 210, Sch 16 Pt 1 paras 1, 73, Sch 23 and ss

208(1), 210, Sch 21 paras 83, 96, Sch 23 respectively. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed. See note 2.

5 Subject as follows, every authorised person has the powers conferred on a commissioner for oaths by the Commissioners for Oaths Acts 1889 and 1891 and the Stamp Duties Management Act 1891 s 24; and any reference to such a commissioner in an enactment or instrument includes a reference to an authorised person unless the context otherwise requires: Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113(3). For these purposes, 'authorised person' means (1) any authorised advocate or authorised litigator, other than one who is a solicitor (in relation to whom provision similar to that made by these provisions is made by the Solicitors Act 1974 s 81 (see note 4)); or (2) any person who is a member of a professional or other body prescribed by the Secretary of State for these purposes: Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113(1) (amended by SI 2003/1887). As to the prospective repeal of the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113 see note 4. The Council for Licensed Conveyancers and the Institute of Legal Executives are prescribed bodies for these purposes and licensed conveyancers and legal executives are authorised to administer oaths and take affidavits etc: see the Commissioners for Oaths (Prescribed Bodies) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/1380, reg 3; the Commissioners for Oaths (Prescribed Bodies) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/1676, reg 2; and LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARAS 1410, 1463.

Subject as follows, every general notary has the powers conferred on a commissioner for oaths by the Commissioners for Oaths Acts 1889 and 1891; and any reference to such a commissioner in an enactment or instrument includes a reference to a general notary unless the context otherwise requires: Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113(4). 'General notary' means any public notary other than an ecclesiastical notary: s 113(1) (amended by the Access to Justice Act 1999 s 106, Sch 15 Pt II).

No person must exercise the powers conferred by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113 in any proceedings in which he is interested: s 113(5). A person exercising such powers and before whom any oath or affidavit is taken or made must state in the jurat or attestation at which place and on what date the oath or affidavit is taken or made: s 113(6). A document containing such a statement and purporting to be sealed or signed by an authorised person or general notary is to be admitted in evidence without proof of the seal or signature, and without proof that he is an authorised person or general notary: s 113(7). The Secretary of State may, with the concurrence of the Lord Chief Justice and the Master of the Rolls, by order prescribe the fees to be charged by authorised persons exercising the powers of commissioners for oaths by virtue of s 113 in respect of the administration of an oath or the taking of an affidavit: s 113(8) (amended by SI 2003/1887). As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see note 3 (definition applied by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 113(9)). Every authorised person and general notary has the right to use the title 'Commissioner for Oaths': s 113(10) (b), (c). For the prescribed fees see the Commissioners for Oaths (Authorised Persons) (Fees) Order 1993, SI 1993/2298.

6 Every person who, being an officer of or performing duties in relation to any court, is for the time being so authorised by a judge of the court, or by or in pursuance of any rules or orders regulating the procedure of the court, and every person directed to take an examination in any cause or matter in the Supreme Court, has authority to administer any oath or take any affidavit required for any purpose connected with his duties: Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 2 (amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 11 Pt 4 para 15, to substitute a reference to the Senior Courts for the reference to the Supreme Court).

7 County Courts Act 1984 s 58(1)(a) (amended by virtue of the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 74(1), (3)).

8 County Courts Act 1984 s 58(1)(b).

9 County Courts Act 1984 s 58(1)(c). An affidavit sworn before a judge or district judge or before any such officer may be sworn without the payment of any fee: s 58(2) (as amended: see note 7).

UPDATE

1026 Persons empowered to administer oaths and take affidavits, etc

NOTES 3, 6--Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 11 in force 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vi) Oaths and Affirmations/1027. Taking oaths etc out of the jurisdiction.

1027. Taking oaths etc out of the jurisdiction.

Any oath¹ or affidavit² required for the purpose of any court or matter in England and Wales, or for the purpose of the registration of any instrument in any part of the United Kingdom³, may be taken or made in any place out of England and Wales before any person having authority to administer an oath in that place⁴. In the case of a person having such authority otherwise than by the law of a foreign country, judicial and official notice must be taken of his seal or signature affixed, impressed, or subscribed to or on any such oath or affidavit⁵.

The Lord Chancellor may, whenever it appears to him necessary to do so, authorise any person to administer oaths and take affidavits for any purpose relating to prize proceedings in the Supreme Court, whilst that person is on the high seas or out of Her Majesty's dominions, and it is not necessary to affix any stamp to the document by which he is so authorised⁶.

Every commissioner⁷ before whom any oath or affidavit is taken or made⁸ must state truly in the jurat or attestation at what place and on what date the oath or affidavit is taken or made⁹.

Every British ambassador, envoy, minister, chargé d'affaires, and secretary of embassy or legation exercising his functions in any foreign country, and every British consul-general, acting consul general, consul, acting consul, vice-consul, acting vice-consul, pro-consul, and consular agent or acting consular agent exercising his functions in any foreign place may, in that country or place, administer any oath and take any affidavit, and also do any notarial act which any notary public can do within the United Kingdom; and every oath, affidavit, and notarial act administered, sworn, or done by or before any such person is as effectual as if duly administered, sworn, or done by or before any lawful authority in any part of the United Kingdom¹⁰. Any document purporting to have affixed, impressed, or subscribed thereon or thereto the seal and signature of any person authorised by these provisions to administer an oath in testimony of any oath, affidavit, or act being administered, taken, or done by or before him, is to be admitted in evidence without proof of the seal or signature being the seal or signature of that person, or of the official character of that person¹¹.

Where in any country or area Her Majesty has for the time being no diplomatic or consular representatives appointed on the advice of Her Government in the United Kingdom, and arrangements made on such advice are in force for the representation of interests of Her Majesty in the country or area through diplomatic or consular representatives of any other country, Her Majesty may by Order in Council provide for empowering such representatives to administer oaths and do notarial acts¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'oath' for these purposes see PARA 1026 note 3.

2 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' for these purposes see PARA 1026 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

4 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 3(1).

5 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 3(2). As to judicial notice see PARA 779 et seq.

6 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 4 (amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 Pt 4 para 15, to substitute a reference to the Senior Courts for the reference to the Supreme Court; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed). See further PRIZE.

7 As to the persons who may use the title 'Commissioner for Oaths' see PARA 1026.

8 le under the Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889: s 5.

9 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 5. Where by or under the Merchant Shipping Act 1995, or the Customs Consolidation Act 1876 (mostly repealed: see now the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979; and CUSTOMS AND EXCISE), or Acts amending the same respectively, any oath or affidavit is required to be taken or made before any particular person or officer, whether having special authority or otherwise, and whether at any particular place, or within any specified limits or otherwise, such oath or affidavit may be taken or made before a commissioner for oaths, at any place, and is to be as effectual to all intents and purposes as if taken or made before such person or officer, and at any particular place or within specified limits: Commissioners for Oaths Act 1891 s 1 (amended by the Consumer Credit Consumer Credit Act 1974 s 192(3)(b), Sch 5 Pt I; the Trade Marks Act 1994 s 106(2), Sch 5; and the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 10).

10 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 6(1) (amended by the Commissioners for Oaths Act 1891 s 2). As from a day to be appointed, 'notary public' in the Commissioners for Oaths Act 1891 s 6(1) includes a person who, for the purposes of the Legal Services Act 2007, is an authorised person in relation to any activity which constitutes a notarial activity (within the meaning of that Act): Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 6(1A) (prospectively added by the Legal Services Act 2007 s 208(1), Sch 21 paras 11, 13). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

11 Commissioners for Oaths Act 1889 s 6(2).

12 Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 2(1). An order under s 2 may prescribe the facts to be stated in the jurat by any person by whom an oath is administered by virtue of the order; and any document purporting to have subscribed thereto the signature of any person in testimony of any oath being administered before him, and containing in the jurat a statement of the facts required to be stated therein by the order, is to be received in evidence without proof of the signature being the signature of that person or of the facts so stated: s 2(2). At the date at which this title states the law, no such order had been made.

UPDATE

1027 Taking oaths etc out of the jurisdiction

NOTE 6--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vii) Special Categories of Witness/1028. Expert witnesses.

(vii) Special Categories of Witness

1028. Expert witnesses.

Provision may be made by rules of court as to the conditions subject to which oral expert evidence may be given in civil proceedings¹. Expert witnesses, and the restrictions on expert evidence, are discussed elsewhere in this title².

1 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 2(4); and PARA 838.

2 See PARA 835 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vii) Special Categories of Witness/1029. Children.

1029. Children.

Where a child¹ who is called as a witness in any civil proceedings² does not, in the opinion of the court, understand the nature of an oath³, the child's evidence may be heard by the court if, in its opinion, he understands that it is his duty to speak the truth and he has sufficient understanding to justify his evidence being heard⁴.

The court has a general discretionary power to control the evidence⁵ and may, for example, allow a child to give evidence by means of a live video link⁶. Evidence in family proceedings is discussed in detail elsewhere in this work⁷.

Where a child may be called as a witness before a statutory tribunal, statutory provision may be made as to the circumstances in which this is done and as to the manner in which such evidence is given⁸.

In criminal proceedings, a witness may not be sworn unless he has attained the age of 14 years and he has a sufficient appreciation of the solemnity of the occasion and of the particular responsibility to tell the truth which is involved in taking an oath⁹. A person of any age who is competent to give evidence in criminal proceedings, but who is not permitted to be sworn for the purpose of giving evidence on oath in such proceedings, must give his evidence unsworn¹⁰. Provision is made by statute for a number of special measures to be taken by the court when a child is giving evidence in criminal proceedings¹¹. Additionally, there are statutory protections for child complainants in proceedings for sexual offences¹². These provisions are discussed elsewhere in this work¹³.

1 For these purposes, 'child' means a person under the age of 18 years: Children Act 1989 s 105(1). As to the competence of child witnesses see PARA 966.

2 For these purposes, 'civil proceedings' means civil proceedings, before any tribunal, in relation to which the strict rules of evidence apply, whether as a matter of law or by agreement of the parties, and references to the 'court' are to be construed accordingly: Children Act 1989 s 96(7) (definition substituted by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 15(1), Sch 1 para 16).

3 ie including a solemn affirmation: see PARA 1023 note 2.

4 Children Act 1989 s 96(1), (2).

5 See PARA 791.

6 As to video conferencing see generally PARA 1032.

7 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 228-229; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW. As to video conferencing in the Family Division of the High Court see Practice Direction (Family Division: Video Conferencing) [2002] 1 All ER 1024, [2002] 1 WLR 406.

8 See eg the Protection of Children and Vulnerable Adults and Care Standards Tribunal Regulations 2002, SI 2002/816, reg 17, which provides as follows: (1) a child may only give evidence in person where (a) the president or the nominated chairman of the tribunal has given the parties an opportunity to make written representations before the hearing or representations at the hearing; and (b) having regard to all the available evidence, and the representations of the parties, the president or the nominated chairman considers that the welfare of the child will not be prejudiced by so doing (reg 17(1)); (2) if he directs that a child is to give evidence in person, the president or the nominated chairman must secure that any arrangements he considers appropriate (such as the use of a video link) are made to safeguard the welfare of the child and appoint for the purpose of the hearing a person with appropriate skills or experience in facilitating the giving of evidence by children (reg 17(2)); (3) the president or the nominated chairman must pay such fees as he may determine to any person appointed under reg 17 (reg 17(6)). See also the Protection of Children and Vulnerable Adults and Care Standards Tribunal (Review of Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1929, reg 13(1), (2), (6). See further CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 731.

9 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 55(2); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1403.

10 Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 56(1), (2). The fact that it appears to the Court of Appeal that the person should in fact have given his evidence on oath does not, of itself, render the conviction in question unsafe: see s 56(5).

11 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Pt II Chs I, IA (ss 16-33C). As to children see in particular s 21. See also the Criminal Procedure Rules 2005, SI 2005/384, Pt 29.

12 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Pt II Chs II, III (ss 34-43). As to children see in particular s 35.

13 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

UPDATE

1029 Children

NOTE 8--SI 2002/816 revoked: SI 2008/2683.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vii) Special Categories of Witness/1030. Vulnerable or intimidated adult witnesses.

1030. Vulnerable or intimidated adult witnesses.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, the court has a general discretionary power to control the evidence¹ and may order that the identity of any party or witness must not be disclosed if it considers non-disclosure necessary in order to protect the interests of that party or witness². The court's power to hold a hearing in private is discussed elsewhere in this title³.

Where a vulnerable adult may be called as a witness before a statutory tribunal, statutory provision may be made as to the circumstances in which this is done and as to the manner in which such evidence is given⁴.

In criminal proceedings, a person of any age who is competent to give evidence but who is not permitted to be sworn for the purpose of giving evidence on oath in such proceedings⁵ must give his evidence unsworn⁶. Provision is made by statute for a number of special measures to be taken by the court when a vulnerable adult witness or an intimidated witness is giving evidence in criminal proceedings⁷. Additionally, there are statutory protections for complainants in proceedings for sexual offences⁸. These provisions are discussed elsewhere in this work⁹.

It has been held that in public law proceedings involving children a social worker giving evidence as a witness should only be afforded the protection of anonymity in an exceptional case¹⁰.

1 See PARA 791.

2 CPR 39.2(4). As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

3 See PARA 1020.

4 See eg the Protection of Children and Vulnerable Adults and Care Standards Tribunal Regulations 2002, SI 2002/816, reg 17, which provides as follows: (1) where the president or the nominated chairman of the tribunal believes that it might not be in the best interests of a vulnerable adult for the vulnerable adult to give oral evidence to the tribunal, the president or the nominated chairman must (a) give the parties the opportunity to make written representations before the hearing or representations at the hearing; and (b) having regard to all the available evidence, including any written representations made by the parties, consider whether it would prejudice the vulnerable adult's welfare to give oral evidence to the tribunal either in any circumstances or otherwise than in accordance with reg 17(5) (reg 17(3)); (2) if the president or the nominated chairman considers that (a) it would prejudice the vulnerable adult's welfare to give oral evidence to the tribunal in any circumstances, he must direct that the vulnerable adult must not do so; or (b) it would prejudice the vulnerable adult's welfare to give oral evidence to the tribunal otherwise than in accordance with reg 17(5) he must direct that reg 17(5) is to apply in relation to the vulnerable adult (reg 17(4)); (3) if he directs that reg 17(5) is to apply in relation to the vulnerable adult, the president or the nominated chairman must (a) secure that any arrangements he considers appropriate (such as the use of a video link) are made to safeguard the welfare of the vulnerable adult; and (b) appoint for the purpose of the hearing a person with appropriate skills or experience in facilitating the giving of evidence by vulnerable adults (reg 17(5)). As to the payment of fees to persons so appointed see PARA 1029 note 8. See also the Protection of Children and Vulnerable Adults and Care Standards Tribunal (Review of Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1929, reg 13(3)-(5).

5 Ie by virtue of the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 55(2): see PARA 1029.

6 See Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 56(1), (2).

7 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Pt II Chs I, IA (ss 16-33C). See also the Criminal Procedure Rules 2005, SI 2005/384, Pt 29.

8 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Pt II Chs II, III (ss 34-43).

9 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES. Provision has been made as to reporting directions in relation to witnesses in criminal proceedings who have attained the age of 18: see the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 46; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1430.

10 See Re W (children) (family proceedings: evidence) [2002] EWCA Civ 1626, [2003] 1 FLR 329, [2002] All ER (D) 81 (Oct).

UPDATE

1030 Vulnerable or intimidated adult witnesses

NOTE 4--SI 2002/816 revoked: SI 2008/2683.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(vii) Special Categories of Witness/1031. Witnesses unable to communicate in spoken English.

1031. Witnesses unable to communicate in spoken English.

In civil proceedings in courts in England the use of interpreters by parties or witnesses is entirely a matter of discretion for the judge¹ but the authorities to that effect must be read in the light of the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998². In any legal proceedings in Wales the Welsh language may be spoken by any party, witness or other person who desires to use it, subject in the case of proceedings in a court other than a magistrates' court to such prior notice as may be required by rules of court; and any necessary provision for interpretation must be made accordingly³. The Lord Chancellor may make rules as to the provision and employment of interpreters of the Welsh and English languages for the purposes of proceedings before courts in Wales⁴. The diary manager, in consultation with the designated civil judge, will ensure that a case in which the Welsh language is to be used is listed wherever practicable before a Welsh speaking judge and, where translation facilities are needed, at a court with simultaneous translation facilities⁵. Whenever an interpreter is needed to translate evidence from English to Welsh or from Welsh to English, the court manager in whose court the case is to be heard will take steps to secure the attendance of an interpreter whose name is included in the list of approved court interpreters⁶.

Additionally, the guides to proceedings in particular civil courts contain information about the use of interpreters⁷.

Where, by reason of any defect of speech or hearing from which he is suffering, a person called as a witness in any legal proceedings gives his evidence in writing or by signs, that evidence must be treated for the purposes of the Civil Evidence Act 1968 as being given orally⁸.

1 Re Fuld, Hartley v Fuld (Fuld intervening) [1965] 2 All ER 653, [1965] 1 WLR 1336. The judge must accord litigants natural justice in exercising his discretion, so that a litigant has a right to go into the witness box and give evidence through an interpreter: Re Fuld, Hartley v Fuld (Fuld intervening) [1965] 2 All ER 653, [1965] 1 WLR 1336. In the ordinary course of litigation it is undesirable that the judge should be addressed from the well of the court through an interpreter, although the court may allow it: Re Trepca Mines Ltd [1959] 3 All ER 798n, [1960] 1 WLR 24 (revsd on another point [1960] 3 All ER 304n, [1960] 1 WLR 1273, CA); Re Fuld, Hartley v Fuld (Fuld intervening) [1965] 2 All ER 653, [1965] 1 WLR 1336. The court may in its discretion allow evidence to be translated, as it is given: Re Fuld, Hartley v Fuld (Fuld intervening) [1965] 2 All ER 653, [1965] 1 WLR 1336. Where an interpreter translates counsel's questions into the language of the witness, it often happens that the rules of evidence are broken, and unless counsel or the judge knows the language they are powerless to prevent it: Re Trepca Mines Ltd [1959] 3 All ER 798n, [1960] 1 WLR 24.

An interpreter who can have no bias is necessary: R v Mitchell (1969) 114 Sol Jo 86, CA; Singh v Singh [1971] P 226, [1971] 2 All ER 828, CA (interpreter ought not to be called as expert witness).

2 See the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6, now given direct effect in domestic law by the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6; and PARAS 5, 792.

3 Welsh Language Act 1993 s 22(1). Any power to make rules of court includes power to make provision as to the use, in proceedings in or having a connection with Wales, of documents in the Welsh language: s 22(2). As to taking the oath or making an affirmation in Welsh see PARA 1021 note 5.

4 Welsh Language Act 1993 s 24(1). The interpreters must be paid, out of the same fund as the expenses of the court are payable, such remuneration in respect of their services as the Lord Chancellor may determine: s 24(2). The Lord Chancellor's powers under s 24 must be exercised with the consent of the Treasury: s 24(3).

5 Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 4.1.

6 Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 5.1.

7 As to such guides and their status see PARA 757; and PARA 16.

8 Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 18(6).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(viii) Evidence by Video Link, Telephone etc/1032. Court's power to allow use of video link etc.

(viii) Evidence by Video Link, Telephone etc

1032. Court's power to allow use of video link etc.

As a specific example of the court's¹ case management power under the Civil Procedure Rules to make use of technology², a witness may be allowed to give evidence through a video link or by other means³. Guidance has been issued with regard to video conferencing in the civil courts generally⁴ and specifically with regard to the Family Division of the High Court⁵. Additionally, the guides to proceedings in particular civil courts contain information about the use of video links⁶.

In criminal proceedings, a special measures direction may provide for the witness to give evidence by means of a live link⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 See CPR 1.4(2)(k); and PARA 246.

3 CPR 32.3. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. The hearing of an application or part of an application may be by telephone: see PARA 309.

No defined limit or set of circumstances must be placed upon the discretion to permit video link evidence, which is to be exercised with the objective of enabling the court to do justice. Although a refusal to attend which can be characterised as an abuse or contemptuous, or which seeks to obtain a collateral advantage, may put an application beyond a favourable exercise of the discretion, considerations of cost, time, inconvenience etc are relevant considerations. Regard must also be had to the need that parties should be on an equal footing as far as possible. Full access to the court for justice in a civil matter should not, save in exceptional circumstances, be at the price of a litigant losing his liberty and facing criminal proceedings: Rowland v Bock[2002] EWHC 692 (QB), [2002] 4 All ER 370 (appeal against master's refusal to allow witness to give evidence by video link on ground that he faced arrest if he entered the United Kingdom). See also Polanski v Condé Nast Publications Ltd[2005] UKHL 10, [2005] 1 All ER 945, [2005] 1 WLR 637; McGlinn v Waltham Contractors Ltd (No 2)[2006] EWHC 2322 (TCC), (2006) 108 Con LR 43.

4 See PARAS 1033-1035.

5 See Practice Direction (Family Division: Video Conferencing) [2002] 1 All ER 1024, [2002] 1 WLR 406; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

6 As to such guides and their status see PARA 757; and PARA 16.

7 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 s 24; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1422; MAGISTRATES. Video recorded interviews may also be admitted as evidence in chief: see s 27.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(viii) Evidence by Video Link, Telephone etc/1033. Video conferencing; general guidance.

1033. Video conferencing; general guidance.

Guidance for the use of video conferencing ('VCF') is annexed to the practice direction relating to written evidence¹. The guidance covers the use of VCF equipment both in a courtroom, whether via equipment which is permanently placed there or via a mobile unit, and in a separate studio or conference room. In either case, the location at which the judge sits is referred to as the 'local site'. The other site or sites to and from which transmission is made are referred to as the 'remote site' and in any particular case any such site may be another courtroom. The guidance applies to cases where VCF is used for the taking of evidence and also to its use for other parts of any legal proceedings².

VCF may be a convenient way of dealing with any part of proceedings: it can involve considerable savings in time and cost. Its use for the taking of evidence from overseas witnesses will, in particular, be likely to achieve a material saving of costs, and such savings may also be achieved by its use for taking domestic evidence. It is, however, inevitably not as ideal as having the witness physically present in court. Its convenience should not therefore be allowed to dictate its use. A judgment must be made in every case in which the use of VCF is being considered not only as to whether it will achieve an overall cost saving but as to whether its use will be likely to be beneficial to the efficient, fair and economic disposal of the litigation. In particular, it needs to be recognised that the degree of control a court can exercise over a witness at the remote site is or may be more limited than it can exercise over a witness physically before it³.

When used for the taking of evidence, the objective should be to make the VCF session as close as possible to the usual practice in a trial court where evidence is taken in open court⁴.

It should not be presumed that all foreign governments are willing to allow their nationals or others within their jurisdiction to be examined before a court in England or Wales by means of VCF⁵. Further, time zone differences need to be considered when a witness abroad is to be examined in England or Wales by VCF⁶.

Those involved with VCF need to be aware that, even with the most advanced systems currently available, there are the briefest of delays between the receipt of the picture and that of the accompanying sound⁷. With current technology, picture quality is good, but not as good as a television picture. The quality of the picture is enhanced if those appearing on VCF monitors keep their movements to a minimum⁸.

1 See Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 29.1, Annex 3. The guidance is in part based, with permission, on the protocol of the Federal Court of Australia. It is intended to provide a guide to all persons involved in the use of VCF although it does not attempt to cover all the practical questions which might arise: Annex 3 introduction.

2 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 1. Examples of other parts of legal proceedings where VCF may be used are interim applications, case management conferences and pre-trial reviews: Annex 3 para 1. When presenting short applications before the Civil Division of the Court of Appeal, counsel should consider using video link where it would be more appropriate and less costly: Babbings v Kiklees Metropolitan Council [2004] EWCA Civ 1431, (2004) Times, 4 November. Those advising parties appearing before Civil Division of the Court of Appeal must take all steps possible to reduce the cost of proceedings, including using video conferencing facilities where available and appropriate: Pastouna v Black [2005] EWCA Civ 1389, (2005) Independent, 2 December.

3 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 2.

4 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 3. As to the giving of oral evidence generally see PARA 1036 et seq. To gain the maximum benefit, several differences have to be taken into account. Some matters, which are taken for granted when evidence is taken in the conventional way, take on a different dimension when it is taken by VCF: eg, the administration of the oath, ensuring that the witness understands who is at the local site and what their various roles are, the raising of any objections to the evidence and the use of documents: Annex 3 para 3. As to the administration of oaths etc see generally PARA 1021 et seq.

5 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 4. If there is any doubt about this, inquiries should be directed to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (International Legal Matters Unit, Consular Division) with a view to ensuring that the country from which the evidence is to be taken raises no objection to it at diplomatic level. The party who is directed to be responsible for arranging the VCF (see PARA 1034) will be required to make all necessary inquiries about this well in advance of the VCF and must be able to inform the court what those inquiries were and of their outcome: Annex 3 para 4.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 5. The convenience of the witness, the parties, their representatives and the court must all be taken into account. The cost of the use of a commercial studio is usually greater outside normal business hours: Annex 3 para 5.

7 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 6. If due allowance is not made for this, there will be a tendency to 'speak over' the witness, whose voice will continue to be heard for a millisecond or so after he or she appears on the screen to have finished speaking: Annex 3 para 6.

8 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 7.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(viii) Evidence by Video Link, Telephone etc/1034. Preliminary arrangements for video conferencing.

1034. Preliminary arrangements for video conferencing.

The court's permission is required for any part of any proceedings to be dealt with by means of video conferencing ('VCF')¹. Before seeking a direction, the applicant must notify the listing officer, diary manager or other appropriate court officer of the intention to seek it, and must inquire as to the availability of court VCF equipment for the day or days of the proposed VCF². If a witness at a remote site³ is to give evidence by an interpreter, consideration must be given at this stage as to whether the interpreter should be at the local site⁴ or the remote site. If a VCF direction is given, arrangements for the transmission will then need to be made. The court will ordinarily direct that the party seeking permission to use VCF is to be responsible for this⁵.

The local site will, if practicable, be a courtroom but it may instead be an appropriate studio or conference room⁶. It is recommended that the judge, practitioners and witness should arrive at their respective VCF sites about 20 minutes prior to the scheduled commencement of the transmission⁷. If the local site is not a courtroom, but a conference room or studio, the judge will need to determine who is to sit where⁸.

In cases in which the VCF is to be used for the taking of evidence, the VCF arranging party must arrange for recording equipment to be provided by the court which made the VCF direction so that the evidence can be recorded. An associate will normally be present to operate the recording equipment when the local site is a courtroom. The VCF arranging party must take steps to ensure that an associate is present to do likewise when it is a studio or conference room. The equipment must be set up and tested before the VCF transmission⁹.

Some countries may require that any oath or affirmation¹⁰ to be taken by a witness accord with local custom rather than the usual form of oath or affirmation used in England and Wales. The VCF arranging party must make all appropriate prior inquiries and put in place all arrangements necessary to enable the oath or affirmation to be taken in accordance with any local custom. That party must be in a position to inform the court what those inquiries were, what their outcome was and what arrangements have been made. If the oath or affirmation can be administered in the manner normal in England and Wales, the VCF arranging party must arrange in advance to have the appropriate holy book at the remote site. The associate will normally administer the oath¹¹.

Consideration will need to be given in advance to the documents to which the witness is likely to be referred. The parties should endeavour to agree on this. It will usually be most convenient for a bundle of the copy documents to be prepared in advance, which the VCF arranging party should then send to the remote site¹². Additional documents are sometimes quite properly introduced during the course of a witness's evidence. To cater for this, the VCF arranging party must ensure that equipment is available to enable documents to be transmitted between sites during the course of the VCF transmission¹³.

¹ Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 29.1, Annex 3 para 8; and see CPR 32.3, cited in PARA 1032.

² Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 8. The application for a direction must be made to the master, district judge or judge, as may be appropriate. If all parties consent to a direction, permission can be sought by letter, fax or email, although the court may still require an oral hearing. All parties are entitled to be heard on whether or not such a direction should be given and as to its terms: Annex 3 para 8.

³ As to the meaning of 'remote site' see PARA 1033.

4 As to the meaning of 'local site' see PARA 1033.

5 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 8. That party is referred to as the 'VCF arranging party': Annex 3 para 8. Subject to any order to the contrary, all costs of the transmission, including the costs of hiring equipment and technical personnel to operate it, will initially be the responsibility of, and must be met by, the VCF arranging party. All reasonable efforts must be made to keep the transmission to a minimum and so keep the costs down. All such costs will be considered to be part of the costs of the proceedings and the court will determine at such subsequent time as is convenient or appropriate who, as between the parties, should be responsible for them and (if appropriate) in what proportions: Annex 3 para 9. As to costs see PARA 1729 et seq.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 10. The VCF arranging party must contact the listing officer, diary manager or other appropriate officer of the court which made the VCF direction and make arrangements for the VCF transmission. Details of the remote site, and of the equipment to be used both at the local site (if not being supplied by the court) and the remote site (including the number of ISDN lines and connection speed), together with all necessary contact names and telephone numbers, will have to be provided to the listing officer, diary manager or other court officer. The court will need to be satisfied that any equipment provided by the parties for use at the local site and also that at the remote site is of sufficient quality for a satisfactory transmission. The VCF arranging party must ensure that an appropriate person will be present at the local site to supervise the operation of the VCF throughout the transmission in order to deal with any technical problems. That party must also arrange for a technical assistant to be similarly present at the remote site for like purposes: Annex 3 para 10.

7 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 11.

8 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 12. The VCF arranging party must take care to ensure that the number of microphones is adequate for the speakers and that the panning of the camera for the practitioners' table encompasses all legal representatives so that the viewer can see everyone seated there: Annex 3 para 12. The proceedings, wherever they may take place, form part of a trial to which the public is entitled to have access (unless the court has determined that they should be heard in private). If the local site is to be a studio or conference room, the VCF arranging party must ensure that it provides sufficient accommodation to enable a reasonable number of members of the public to attend: Annex 3 para 13. In cases where the local site is a studio or conference room, the VCF arranging party must make arrangements, if practicable, for the royal coat of arms to be placed above the judge's seat: Annex 3 para 14.

9 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 15. It will often be a valuable safeguard for the VCF arranging party also to arrange for the provision of recording equipment at the remote site. This will provide a useful back-up if there is any reduction in sound quality during the transmission. A direction from the court for the making of such a back-up recording must, however, be obtained first. This is because the proceedings are court proceedings and, save as directed by the court, no other recording of them must be made. The court will direct what is to happen to the back-up recording: Annex 3 para 15.

10 As to oaths and affirmations see PARA 1021 et seq.

11 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 16.

12 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 17.

13 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 17. Consideration should be given to whether to use a document camera. If it is decided to use one, arrangements for its use will need to be established in advance. The panel operator will need to know the number and size of documents or objects if their images are to be sent by document camera. In many cases, a simpler and sufficient alternative will be to ensure that there are fax transmission and reception facilities at the participating sites: Annex 3 para 17.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(viii) Evidence by Video Link, Telephone etc/1035. Examination of witnesses by video conferencing.

1035. Examination of witnesses by video conferencing.

The procedure for conducting the transmission will be determined by the judge and he will determine who is to control the cameras¹. The following guidance applies primarily to cases where the video conferencing ('VCF') is being used for the taking of the evidence of a witness at a remote site². At the beginning of the transmission, the judge will probably wish to introduce himself and the advocates to the witness. He will probably want to know who is at the remote site and will invite the witness to introduce himself and anyone else who is with him. He may wish to give directions as to the seating arrangements at the remote site so that those present are visible at the local site during the taking of the evidence. He will probably wish to explain to the witness the method of taking the oath or of affirming³, the manner in which the evidence will be taken, and who will be conducting the examination and cross-examination⁴.

The examination of the witness at the remote site should follow as closely as possible the practice adopted when a witness is in the courtroom. During examination, cross-examination and re-examination, the witness must be able to see the legal representative⁵ asking the question and also any other person, whether another legal representative or the judge, making any statements in regard to the witness's evidence. It will in practice be most convenient if everyone remains seated throughout the transmission⁶.

1 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 para 29.1, Annex 3 para 19. In cases where the VCF is being used for an application in the course of the proceedings, the judge will ordinarily not enter the local site until both sites are on line. Similarly, at the conclusion of the hearing, he will ordinarily leave the local site while both sites are still on line: Annex 3 para 19. As to the meaning of 'local site' see PARA 1033.

2 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 19. As to the meaning of 'remote site' see PARA 1033. In all cases, the judge will need to decide whether court dress is appropriate when using VCF facilities. It might be appropriate when transmitting from courtroom to courtroom. It might not be when a commercial facility is being used: Annex 3 para 19.

3 As to oaths and affirmations see PARA 1021 et seq. See also PARA 1034 the text and notes 10-11.

4 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 20. He will probably also wish to inform the witness of the matters referred to in Annex 3 paras 6 and 7 (co-ordination of picture with sound, and picture quality: see PARA 1033): Annex 3 para 20. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

5 As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

6 Practice Direction--Written Evidence PD 32 Annex 3 para 21.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/A. INTRODUCTION/1036. Oral evidence of witnesses; in general.

(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial

A. INTRODUCTION

1036. Oral evidence of witnesses; in general.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules, the court has a general discretionary power to control the evidence by giving directions as to the issues on which it requires evidence, the nature of the evidence it requires to decide those issues and the way in which the evidence is to be placed before the court¹. The following paragraphs describing the examination of witnesses² must be read in the light of this general discretionary power.

The general rule in civil proceedings is that the evidence of witnesses is given orally at trial and by means of written evidence at any other hearing, but this is subject to exceptions³. There are also restrictions on expert evidence⁴ and on calling witnesses at trial in respect of whom a witness statement or witness summary has not been served within the specified time⁵.

The discretion to allow evidence to be given by a live video link is discussed elsewhere in this title⁶.

The rules regarding the examination of witnesses in criminal proceedings are dealt with elsewhere in this work⁷.

¹ See CPR 32.1(1); and PARA 791. In the context of the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)) art 6 (now given direct effect in domestic law: see PARAS 5, 792), as a general rule the assessment of facts is within the province of the national courts; and where the domestic courts have examined the applicant's requests to have witnesses called and given detailed reasons for their refusals which are not tainted by arbitrariness, there is no violation of art 6(1): see Application 24541/94 Wierzbicki v Poland (2004) 38 EHRR 38, [2002] ECHR 24541/94, ECtHR.

The administrative court has power, in an appropriate case, to direct oral evidence and cross-examination in judicial review proceedings; and there is nothing in CPR Pt 54 (judicial review: see JUDICIAL REVIEW) which excludes recourse to the exercise of the general and unfettered powers in CPR 32.1: see CPR 54.16(1), which has been amended with effect from 2 December 2002 to confirm this position in the light of R (on the application of PG) v Ealing London Borough Council [2002] EWHC 250 (Admin), [2002] All ER (D) 61 (Mar).

² See PARA 1037 et seq.

³ See CPR 32.2; and PARA 979.

⁴ See PARA 835 et seq.

⁵ See CPR 32.10; and PARAS 982, 986-987.

⁶ See PARAS 1032-1035.

⁷ See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF/1037. Examination in chief; in general.

B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF

1037. Examination in chief; in general.

A witness is examined in chief by or on behalf of the party for whom he is called to give evidence¹. Where a witness in respect of whom a witness statement has been served² is called to give oral evidence, his witness statement stands as his evidence in chief³ unless the court orders otherwise⁴. He may amplify his witness statement or give evidence in relation to new matters which have arisen, but only with the permission of the court⁵. These restrictions also apply, so far as practicable, to oral evidence given by a witness in respect of whom a witness summary has been served⁶. Oral expert evidence requires the court's permission⁷.

Leading questions, that is to say questions which by their form suggest the answer which it is desired the witness shall give⁸, are not generally permitted in examination in chief⁹. This rule is relaxed where evidence is being given about facts not in dispute, or which are formal¹⁰, or introductory, or where the other parties consent. A witness may be directed to a particular topic upon which it is desired to examine him by a preliminary leading question¹¹, the limit of this indulgence being a matter of discretion for the judge¹². Even if a question is one which contravenes the rules of evidence, the witness is bound to answer, unless objection is taken to its admissibility¹³.

A witness may generally give evidence only of fact, and not of inference from facts, or of his opinion or belief, unless such opinion or belief is relevant to an issue, is a way of conveying facts personally perceived by him or falls within one of the other established exceptions to this general principle¹⁴.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence¹⁵.

1 For circumstances in which it is permitted to contradict or cross-examine one's own witness see PARAS 1047-1048. As to evidence given on affidavit see PARA 989 et seq; and as to examination of witnesses out of court see PARA 992 et seq.

2 As to the requirement to serve witness statements see PARA 982; as to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1; and as to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'evidence in chief' see PARA 983 note 5.

4 See CPR 32.5(2); and PARA 983. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

5 See CPR 32.5(3); and PARA 983.

6 See CPR 32.9(5); and PARA 986.

7 See CPR 35.5; and PARA 839.

8 Nicholls v Dowding and Kemp (1815) 1 Stark 81. Questions which assume the existence of facts in issue may not be asked. A question couched in an alternative form may be, but is not necessarily, a leading question: Rowe v Brenton (1828) 3 Man & Ry KB 133.

9 R v Rosewell (1684), as reported in 10 State Tr 147 per Jeffreys CJ; Nicholls v Dowding and Kemp (1815) 1 Stark 81; Gregory v Marychurch (1850) 19 LJ Ch 289; Moor v Moor[1954] 2 All ER 458, [1954] 1 WLR 927, CA (leading questions in hearing of undefended divorce disapproved). The judge has a discretion to allow leading questions if they are necessary or desirable: Ex p Bottomley[1909] 2 KB 14, DC. Answers given to leading questions often carry no weight and are of no value: Moor v Moor[1954] 2 All ER 458, [1954] 1 WLR 927, CA.

10 Eg the witness's name, address and calling: Nicholls v Dowding and Kemp (1815) 1 Stark 81.

11 Courteen v Touse (1807) 1 Camp 43; Acerro v Petroni (1815) 1 Stark 100; Edmonds v Walter (1820) 3 Stark 7. So, also, a witness's attention may be directed to an individual in court for the purpose of identifying him (R v Watson (1817) 2 Stark 116), although such evidence is clearly less satisfactory than that given spontaneously by the witness (see eg R v Chapman(1911) 7 Cr App Rep 53, CCA). As to identification evidence in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1010.

A witness called to contradict another as to what the other has said may have the words in issue put to him, otherwise it would be impossible to come to a direct contradiction: Courteen v Touse (1807) 1 Camp 43; Edmonds v Walter (1820) 3 Stark 7. A witness called to explain ancient records may be asked to state the result of his examination of them, and may be examined on them in detail: Rowe v Brenton (1828) 3 Man & Ry KB 133. Proof of a custom must be given before a question is asked about some detail of the custom: Curtis v Peek (1864) 13 WR 230, Ex Ch.

12 See Bastin v Carew (1824) Ry & M 127.

13 Unless a witness is protected by privilege from the obligation to answer a question (or the party calling him is so protected) he must answer all questions that are put to him, on pain of punishment for contempt of court: Ex p Fernandez (1861) 10 CBNS 3. As to privilege see PARA 970 et seq; and as to contempt of court in the case of a witness see CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 407 at head (6) in the text. As to the making of objections see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1210.

14 As to evidence of opinion see PARA 826 et seq; and as to expert evidence see PARA 835 et seq.

15 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF/1038. Previous consistent statements.

1038. Previous consistent statements.

The general rule¹ is that a witness may not state, nor may evidence be given to prove, that he has previously made a statement consistent with his evidence². This rule does not apply to witness statements served for use at the trial since they stand as the witness's evidence in chief³. Subject to certain exceptions, a witness statement may be used only for the purpose of the proceedings in which it is served⁴.

In civil proceedings⁵, however, evidence of such a previous statement may be adduced with the leave of the court⁶ or for the purpose of rebutting a suggestion that the witness's evidence has been fabricated⁷. There are additional exceptions to the rule in criminal proceedings: (1) in sexual cases, where the victim made a complaint shortly after the incident complained of⁸; (2) where it constitutes a previous identification of the accused⁹; and (3) where the statement forms part of the res gestae of the matter in issue¹⁰. These are discussed elsewhere in this work¹¹.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence¹².

1 The rule has been largely superseded by statute in civil cases: see the text and notes 5-7.

2 R v Parker (1783) 3 Doug KB 242; R v Coll (1889) 24 LR 1r 522, CCR; Jones v South Eastern and Chatham Rly Co's Managing Committee (1917) 87 LJKB 775, CA; Gillie v Posho Ltd [1939] 2 All ER 196, PC; Corke v Corke and Cook [1958] P 93, [1958] 1 All ER 224, CA; Fox v General Medical Council [1960] 3 All ER 225, [1960] 1 WLR 1017, PC; and see Spittle v Spittle [1965] 3 All ER 451, [1965] 1 WLR 1156.

3 See CPR 32.5(1); and PARAS 983, 1037. See also the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 2; and PARA 810. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2; as to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1; and as to the meaning of 'evidence in chief' see PARA 983 note 5. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32. It has been stated in the context of proceedings for ancillary relief, to which CPR Pt 32 does not apply (see PARA 32), that the openness and candour of parties should be judged more reliably on the oral evidence given in the witness box rather than on the statements prepared for them by their lawyers during the course of the adversarial exchanges: see Shaw v Shaw [2002] EWCA Civ 1298, [2002] 3 FCR 298.

4 See CPR 32.12; and PARA 984.

5 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

6 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2)(a); and PARA 810.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2)(b); and PARA 810.

8 See R v Valentine [1996] 2 Cr App Rep 213, CA; R v Jarvis and Jarvis [1991] Crim LR 374, CA; R v Lillyman [1896] 2 QB 167, CCR; R v Osborne [1905] 1 KB 551, CCR; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1529.

9 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1456.

10 As one of the circumstances of the events that are being described: see Milne v Leisler (1862) 7 H & N 786; Ratten v R [1972] AC 378, [1971] 3 All ER 801, PC. In civil cases res gestae statements are admissible with the leave of the court under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(2)(a). For the operation of this exception in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1530.

11 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

12 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF/1039. Reference to documents to refresh memory.

1039. Reference to documents to refresh memory.

A witness is permitted to refresh his memory¹ in the course of his evidence by reference to documents or memoranda². The document or memorandum must have been made either at the time of the events described in it or so shortly afterwards that the facts were fresh in the witness's memory³.

It need not have been made by the witness personally, but if it was not made by him it must have been checked by him while the facts were fresh in his memory⁴. Documents may be used by a witness to refresh his memory even if they would not be admissible in evidence if tendered as such⁵. Documents may be read over to a witness who has become blind to refresh his memory⁶.

A copy of a document may not be used by a witness to refresh his memory⁷ if the original is in existence or its absence is not accounted for⁸. Even where the original is not in existence, a copy cannot be used unless it is proved to be correct⁹.

It is not necessary that the witness should have any independent recollection of the facts to which he testified and of which he seeks to refresh his memory, apart from the document to which he refers¹⁰.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence¹¹.

1 Experts may refresh their memories by reference to accredited works (see PARA 835 note 5), and when giving evidence as to foreign law a witness may refer to authorities, laws and treatises (see PARA 1088).

2 From early times, witnesses were not permitted to give the whole of their evidence in writing: Anon (1753) 3 Term Rep 752n. As to the circumstances in which witness evidence is now given in writing see PARA 1036. Witnesses may see statements they made previously up to the time when they go into the witness box, provided they were made at some time reasonably close to the time of the event which is the subject of the trial: R v Richardson [1971] 2 QB 484, [1971] 2 All ER 773, CA; and see Lawes v Reed (1835) 2 Lew CC 152.

3 Duchess of Kingston's Case (1776) 20 State Tr 355; Kensington v Inglis (1807) 8 East 273; Jones v Stroud (1825) 2 C & P 196; Hill v Barry (1842) 7 Jur 10; R v Mills [1962] 3 All ER 298, [1962] 1 WLR 1152, CCA; R v Simmonds [1969] 1 QB 685, [1967] 2 All ER 399n, CA; R v Richardson [1971] 2 QB 484, [1971] 2 All ER 773, CA; cf Whitfield v Aland (1849) 2 Car & Kir 1015; and see R v Graham [1973] Crim LR 628, CA (27 days too long a period before document made). Where a witness has taken notes of a conversation it is not necessary that they should be a verbatim report, provided they substantially reproduce what was said: R v O'Connell (1844) Armstrong & Trevor 163. The requirement of contemporaneity is merely an evidential rule of practice and need not be followed in extradition proceedings: R v Gloucester Prison Governor, ex p Miller [1979] 2 All ER 1103, [1979] 1 WLR 537, DC.

4 Rambert v Cohen (1802) 4 Esp 213 (receipt which witness saw given when money was paid); Burrough v Martin (1809) 2 Camp 112 (log book examined by witness from time to time shortly after events in it were recorded). See also Anderson v Whalley (1852) 3 Car & Kir 54; Burton v Plummer (1834) 2 Ad & El 341 (entries copied daily from waste book to ledger and checked by the witness); Lord Bolton v Tomlin (1836) 5 Ad & El 856 (document assented to in witness's presence); Smith v Morgan (1839) 2 Mood & R 257 (deposition signed by witness after examination by bankruptcy commissioner), following Vaughan v Martin (1796) 1 Esp 440. See also Wood v Cooper (1845) 1 Car & Kir 645; R v Mullins (1848) 3 Cox CC 526 (reports dictated by witness and afterwards read over and signed by him); Dyer v Best (1866) LR 1 Exch 152 (witness who had read in newspaper shortly afterwards of event at which he had been present allowed to refresh his memory from newspaper as to date of event); Hiscox v Batchelor (1867) 15 LT 543; R v Langton (1876) 2 QBD 296 (time sheet used every week by witness in paying wages); R v Dexter, Laidler and Coates (1899) 19 Cox CC 360

(transcript of shorthand note made by clerk and afterwards read over to witness); R v Bass [1953] 1 QB 680, [1953] 1 All ER 1064, CCA (police notes of interview made after interview); R v Mills [1962] 3 All ER 298, [1962] 1 WLR 1152, CCA (notes made by police officer from tape recording of conversation which the officer heard); and B v B (1962) Times, 29 May. See also R v Kelsey (1981) 74 Cr App Rep 213, CA (contemporaneous note made by police officer at direction of witness; witness seeing note made and verifying accuracy when read out to him).

For cases in which the delay in making the document was held to be too long see Anon (1753) 3 Term Rep 752n; Doe d Church and Phillips v Perkins (1790) 3 Term Rep 749; Jones v Stroud (1825) 2 C & P 196 (six months too long); Steinkeller v Newton (1838) 9 C & P 313.

5 Jacob v Lindsay (1801) 1 East 460 (unstamped receipt); Catt v Howard (1820) 3 Stark 3; Maugham v Hubbard (1828) 8 B & C 14; Lord Bolton v Tomlin (1836) 5 Ad & El 856 (invalid lease); Birchall v Bullough [1896] 1 QB 325 (unstamped document).

6 Catt v Howard (1820) 3 Stark 3. It is uncertain whether this would be so if the document is not proved to have been made or checked by the witness while the facts were fresh in his memory.

7 It may be used if it was itself made while the facts were fresh in the witness's memory, and it is then used as an original: see eg Burton v Plummer (1834) 2 Ad & El 341.

8 Tanner v Taylor (1756) cited in 3 Term Rep 754; Doe d Church and Phillips v Perkins (1790) 3 Term Rep 749; R v St Martins, Leicester, Inhabitants (1834) 2 Ad & El 210; Beech v Jones (1848) 5 CB 696; Alcock v Royal Exchange Assurance Co (1849) 13 QB 292; Lord Talbot De Malahide v Cusack (1864) 12 LT 678; R v Harvey (1869) 11 Cox CC 546.

9 Topham v M'Gregor (1844) 1 Car & Kir 320 (witness allowed to refresh memory from newspaper, where editor gives evidence that the manuscript is lost, and that the printed paper is a true copy); cf Alcock v Royal Exchange Assurance Co (1849) 13 QB 292; Doe d Church and Phillips v Perkins (1790) 3 Term Rep 749 (copy shown to be imperfect); and see R v St Martins, Leicester, Inhabitants (1834) 2 Ad & El 210.

10 R v Bryant, R v Dickson (1946) 31 Cr App Rep 146, CCA; Maugham v Hubbard (1828) 8 B & C 14; R v St Martins, Leicester, Inhabitants (1834) 2 Ad & El 210; Topham v M'Gregor (1844) 1 Car & Kir 320.

11 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF/1040. Production of the document at the trial.

1040. Production of the document at the trial.

Where a witness uses a document in the witness box to refresh his memory, the document may be seen by the opposing party¹. Where a witness has used a document to refresh his memory before going into the witness box, it should be produced if he has no independent recollection of the facts, and it is customary, though not necessary, to produce it in all cases in order to make it available to the other party².

The other party may not see the document at all where the witness is unable to refresh his memory even with its assistance, or where it is used only for the purpose of enabling a witness to identify handwriting³, except for the purposes of examination as to the handwriting⁴.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁵.

1 See Senat v Senat [1965] P 172, [1965] 2 All ER 505. If only part of the document is used, then all of the document which is relevant to the facts in issue must be made available to the other party: Loyd v Freshfield and Kaye (1826) 2 C & P 325. Thus, documents should not be fastened in such a way that other parts, besides those referred to by the witness, cannot be read: Betts v Betts and Brodrick (1917) 33 TLR 200. See also R v Sekhon (1986) 85 Cr App Rep 19, CA.

For the circumstances in which a document used to refresh a witness's memory becomes evidence in the case see PARA 1041.

2 Sinclair v Stevenson (1824) 1 C & P 582; Howard v Canfield (1836) 5 Dowl 417; Dupuy v Truman (1843) 2 Y & C Ch Cas 341; Beech v Jones (1848) 5 CB 696. However, it is not customary to produce a proof of evidence which a witness has made on a previous occasion and from which he refreshes his memory before going into the witness box. Where a witness refreshes his memory from a notebook outside court, the opposing party may examine the notebook and cross-examine upon the relevant matters contained in it: Owen v Edwards (1983) 77 Cr App Rep 191, DC.

3 Sinclair v Stevenson (1824) 1 C & P 582; Russell v Rider (1834) 6 C & P 416.

4 Holland v Reeves (1835) 7 C & P 36; R v Duncombe (1838) 8 C & P 369; Peck v Peck (1870) 21 LT 670.

5 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/B. EXAMINATION IN CHIEF/1041. When the document becomes evidence.

1041. When the document becomes evidence.

When a document is used by a witness to refresh his memory, the other party may inspect that document in order to check it without making it evidence, and his counsel may use it for cross-examination without making it evidence, providing his cross-examination does not go further than the parts which the witness has used to refresh his memory¹. But if the other party goes further than those parts, or if he calls for and inspects a document in the possession of the other party which has not been used to refresh the memory of a witness, he is bound to put the document in evidence if required to do so².

When, in civil proceedings³, a document becomes evidence as a result of cross-examination going further than the part used for refreshing the memory of a witness, any statement⁴ made in that document or part by the person using the document to refresh his memory is admissible as hearsay evidence of any fact stated in it if it would otherwise be so admissible under the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁵.

1 Senat v Senat [1965] P 172, [1965] 2 All ER 505; R v Ramsden (1827) 2 C & P 603; Gregory v Tavernor (1833) 6 C & P 280; Payne v Ibbotson (1858) 27 LJ Ex 341. See also R v Britton [1987] 2 All ER 412, [1987] 1 WLR 539, CA.

2 Senat v Senat [1965] P 172, [1965] 2 All ER 505; Wharam v Routledge (1805) 5 Esp 235; Wilson v Bowie (1823) 1 C & P 8; Palmer v Maclear and M'Grath (1858) 1 Sw & Tr 149; Stroud v Stroud [1963] 3 All ER 539, [1963] 1 WLR 1080. It is not permissible to put only part of a document in evidence: Loyd v Freshfield and Kaye (1826) 2 C & P 325.

3 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 1.

4 As to the meaning of 'statement' for these purposes see PARA 808 note 3.

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(4), (5); and PARA 810. The rule at common law is probably the same. Nothing in the Civil Evidence Act 1995 affects the rule of law, explained in this paragraph, concerning when a document used to refresh a witness's memory may be made evidence: see s 6(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/C. CROSS-EXAMINATION/1042. Time and scope of cross-examination.

C. CROSS-EXAMINATION

1042. Time and scope of cross-examination.

Under the Civil Procedure Rules the court¹ has a general discretionary power to limit cross-examination².

Where, at a hearing other than the trial, evidence is given in writing, any party may apply to the court for permission to cross-examine the person giving the evidence³. If the court gives such permission but the person in question does not attend as required by the order, his evidence may not be used unless the court gives permission⁴.

Where a witness is called to give evidence at trial, he may be cross-examined on his witness statement⁵ whether or not the statement or any party of it was referred to during the witness's evidence in chief⁶.

Any party may cross-examine any other party who gives evidence and his witnesses, and no evidence affecting a party is admissible against that party unless the latter has had an opportunity of testing its truthfulness by cross-examination⁷. Cross-examination of a witness, unless postponed by leave or direction of the judge, follows immediately upon his examination in chief⁸. However, where a single joint expert has been appointed⁹, there is generally no need for that expert's evidence to be amplified by oral evidence or tested in cross-examination. The court may permit amplification or cross-examination where the need arises but any such cross-examination must be carried out with restraint¹⁰.

A witness, once sworn¹¹, is liable to be cross-examined, even though he has not given evidence or been asked any questions in chief¹², unless he has been called by mistake and not examined in consequence of the mistake being discovered¹³. Where, however, a witness is called and examined by the judge¹⁴, and not by either of the parties, he cannot be cross-examined save at the judge's discretion¹⁵. A defendant may cross-examine his co-defendant who gives evidence¹⁶ and any of his co-defendant's witnesses, provided the cross-examination is relevant to an issue in the case¹⁷.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence, including the power to limit cross-examination set out above¹⁸.

In criminal proceedings there are statutory restrictions on (1) cross-examination of the accused person as to his character¹⁹; (2) the right of an accused person to cross-examine a witness in person²⁰; and (3) the questions which may be asked in cross-examination of a complainant in the trial of a person accused of a sexual offence²¹. These matters are discussed elsewhere in this work²².

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 See CPR 32.1(3); and PARA 791. As to the exercise of this discretion see eg Watson v Chief Constable of Cleveland Police[2001] EWCA Civ 1547, [2001] All ER (D) 193 (Oct). This power applies to claims allocated to the small claims track: CPR 27.2(1)(c). As to cases allocated to the small claims track see PARAS 267, 274 et seq. As to the application of the CPR see generally PARA 32. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

It was held that under the former rules, there is no automatic right to cross-examine declarants in the Trade Marks Registry: see the Trade Marks Rules 2000, SI 2000/136, r 55(2) (revoked); and Lombard Bank Ltd v Alliance & Leicester plc [2001] All ER (D) 417 (Oct). Cf now the Trade Marks Rules 2008, SI 2008/1797, r 64(3).

3 CPR 32.7(1).

4 CPR 32.7(2).

5 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

6 See CPR 32.11; and PARA 983. As to the meaning of 'evidence in chief' see PARA 983 note 5.

7 Allen v Allen[1894] P 248, CA; Lonnkvist v Lonnkvist [1952] WN 88, DC; Blaise v Blaise[1969] P 54, [1969] 2 All ER 1032, CA; and see Lord v Colvin (1855) 3 Drew 222. As to the rules approved by the Bar Council in regard to cross-examination see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1213.

As to the duty of a magistrates' court to assist an unrepresented party in examination or cross-examination in family proceedings see the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 73; Fox v Fox[1954] 3 All ER 526, [1954] 1 WLR 1472, DC; Marjoram v Marjoram[1955] 2 All ER 1, [1955] 1 WLR 520, DC; Brewster v Brewster[1971] 2 All ER 993, [1971] 1 WLR 1102, DC; and MAGISTRATES.

8 Beaugh v Beaugh (1830) 1 Hog 98.

9 As to single joint experts see PARA 847.

10 See Austen v Oxfordshire County Council [2002] All ER (D) 97 (Apr).

11 Summers v Moseley (1834) 3 LJ Ex 128 (witness only called to produce a document); Perry v Gibson (1834) 1 Ad & El 48; Griffith v Lunell, Griffith v Ricketts (1849) 19 LJ Ch 399. In proceedings for civil contempt the judge may in his discretion disallow cross-examination of the defendant: Comet Products UK Ltd v Hawkey Plastics Ltd[1971] 2 QB 67, [1971] 1 All ER 1141, CA; and see CONTEMPT OF COURT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 501. As to oaths and affirmations see PARA 1021 et seq.

12 Phillips v Eamer (1795) 1 Esp 355; R v Brooke (1819) 2 Stark 472; Wood v Mackinson (1840) 2 Mood & R 273.

13 Clifford v Hunter (1827) 3 C & P 16 (wrong witness called owing to a mistake in name); Rush v Smith (1834) 3 LJ Ex 355; Wood v Mackinson (1840) 2 Mood & R 273 (witness called by counsel's mistake); and see Reed v James (1815) 1 Stark 132.

14 See PARA 1046. As to the powers of the judge in a criminal trial see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

15 Coulson v Disborough[1894] 2 QB 316, CA. Where, however, a witness is recalled and asked a question by the judge the other party should be allowed to cross-examine on the point and to call rebutting evidence: R v Howarth(1918) 13 Cr App Rep 99, CCA. For the judge's power to recall a witness see PARA 1046.

16 Lord v Colvin (1855) 3 Drew 222; Allen v Allen[1894] P 248, CA; and see Dryden v Surrey County Council and Stewart[1936] 2 All ER 535.

17 The right to cross-examine exists even where the witness has not given evidence which the cross-examiner seeks to challenge (Re Baden's Deed Trusts, Baden v Smith[1967] 3 All ER 159, [1967] 1 WLR 1457; on final appeal sub nom McPhail v Doulton[1971] AC 424, [1970] 2 All ER 228, HL), but not in relation to cross-examination (cf Re Dunhill, ex p Dunhill (1894) 29 LJo 368). The principle in criminal cases is similar: R v Hilton[1972] 1 QB 421, [1971] 3 All ER 541, CA. See also Re Wagstaff, Wagstaff v Jalland[1907] 2 Ch 35 (on appeal [1908] 1 Ch 162, CA) (no cross-examination which is not relevant to an issue in which the cross-examiner has an interest); Tedeschi v Singh[1948] Ch 319 (a party cannot be cross-examined by his own counsel, even if he has given evidence for another party). As to the cross-examination of attesting witnesses see PARA 867 note 5.

18 See PARAS 791, 1036; and see the text and note 2.

19 See the Criminal Evidence Act 1898 s 1; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1502 et seq.

20 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 ss 34-37; and see H v L [2006] EWHC 3099 (Fam), [2007] 1 FCR 430, [2007] 2 FLR 162 (equivalent statutory provision urgently needed in civil context).

21 See the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 ss 41-43.

22 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/C. CROSS-EXAMINATION/1043. Purpose of cross-examination.

1043. Purpose of cross-examination.

Cross-examination is directed to (1) the credibility of the witness¹; (2) the facts to which he has deposed in chief, including the cross-examiner's version of them; and (3) the facts to which the witness has not deposed but to which the cross-examiner thinks he is able to depose². Where the court is to be asked to disbelieve a witness, the witness should be cross-examined³; and failure to cross-examine a witness on some material part of his evidence, or at all, may be treated as an acceptance of the truth of that part or the whole of his evidence⁴.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence, including its power to limit cross-examination⁵.

1 As to impeaching the credit of a witness see PARA 1047 et seq; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1433 et seq.

2 However, a party may be prevented from cross-examining as to facts which his own witnesses have not dealt with in their evidence: R v Rice [1963] 1 QB 857, [1963] 1 All ER 832, CCA. As to the duty of counsel in relation to the cross-examination of witnesses see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1213.

3 Browne v Dunn (1893) 6 R 67, HL. Defence counsel is under a duty to cross-examine a co-defendant if the veracity of his evidence is challenged: R v Fenlon (1980) 71 Cr App Rep 307, CA.

4 Browne v Dunn (1893) 6 R 67, HL; R v Hart (1932) 23 Cr App Rep 202, CCA. This rule is not strictly applied in magistrates' courts, where the parties or their representatives do not always appreciate the need to cross-examine: O'Connell v Adams [1973] RTR 150, DC.

5 See PARAS 791, 1036, 1042.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/C. CROSS-EXAMINATION/1044. Leading questions in cross-examination.

1044. Leading questions in cross-examination.

Leading questions¹ may be asked in cross-examination, and must be answered², although it is not permissible to mislead the witness by false assumptions or actual mis-statements³. Provided the questions are relevant to matters in issue⁴ they need not be confined to the subject matter of the evidence already given by the witness in chief⁵; and where one party has examined a witness in chief, who is afterwards called by another party as his own witness, he is nevertheless liable to be cross-examined by the party who first called him⁶.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence, including its power to limit cross-examination⁷.

1 As to leading questions generally see PARA 1037 text and note 8.

2 Parkin v Moon (1836) 7 C & P 408. It has been suggested that it is not permissible to put the actual words into the witness's mouth for him to repeat: R v Hardy (1794) 24 State Tr 199 at 755 per Buller J.

3 The court has a power to stop cross-examination which is vexatious or oppressive: see Re Mundell, Fenton v Cumberlege (1883) 48 LT 776; Mechanical and General Inventions Co Ltd and Lehwess v Austin and Austin Motor Co Ltd [1935] AC 346, HL; Jones v National Coal Board [1957] 2 QB 55, [1957] 2 All ER 155, CA; and see further LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1213.

4 Haigh v Belcher (1836) 7 C & P 389; Tennant v Hamilton (1839) 7 Cl & Fin 122, HL; Lever & Co v Goodwin Bros [1887] WN 107, CA. However, counsel may undertake to show by subsequent evidence that questions apparently irrelevant are not so in fact: Haigh v Belcher (1836) 7 C & P 389.

5 Morgan v Brydges (1818) 2 Stark 314; Berwick upon Tweed Corp'n v Murray (1850) 19 LJ Ch 281. But see Re Woodfine, Thompson v Woodfine (1878) 47 LJ Ch 832, where the defendant, who was counterclaiming, recalled the plaintiff as his own witness, and was directed not to cross-examine him on matters raised by the counterclaim.

6 Lord v Colvin (1855) 3 Drew 222. This is not so if the result would be that a party was able to be cross-examined by his own counsel: see Tedeschi v Singh [1948] Ch 319; and PARA 1042 note 15.

7 See PARAS 791, 1036, 1042.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/D. RE-EXAMINATION/1045. Scope of re-examination.

D. RE-EXAMINATION

1045. Scope of re-examination.

On the conclusion of his cross-examination a witness may be re-examined on behalf of the party for whom he has given evidence in chief, for the purpose of explaining any part of his evidence given during cross-examination which is capable of being construed unfavourably to his own side¹; but no questions may be asked in re-examination which introduce wholly new matters², except by leave of the court, which is given subject to cross-examination on the new matter. Where, however, questions asked in cross-examination let in evidence which would not have been admissible in chief, the witness may be re-examined upon it³. Leading questions are not permissible in re-examination⁴.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁵.

1 See The Queen's Case (1820) 2 Brod & Bing 284; Dicas v Lord Brougham (1833) 6 C & P 249; R v St George (1840) 9 C & P 483; Dunn v Aslett (1838) 2 Mood & R 122. As to re-establishing the credit of a witness in re-examination see PARA 1052.

2 The Queen's Case (1820) 2 Brod & Bing 284 (witness, cross-examined as to whether he had not stated that he was to be one of the witnesses for the prosecution, can only be asked what induced him to make the statement); Dicas v Lord Brougham (1833) 6 C & P 249 (witness, admitting in cross-examination a conversation with defendant, may be re-examined as to the whole of the conversation, but not if he denies that he had any such conversation at all); Prince v Samo (1838) 7 Ad & El 627 (if cross-examined as to a particular statement only, witness may not be re-examined on other statements in some conversation unconnected with the one spoken to). See also Cartwright v W Richardson & Co Ltd [1955] 1 All ER 742n, [1955] 1 WLR 340; Harvey v Smith-Wood [1964] 2 QB 171, [1963] 2 All ER 127.

3 Blewett v Tregonning (1835) 5 Nev & MKB 308; Greville v Chapman (1844) 5 QB 731. See also Davies v DPP [1954] AC 378, [1954] 1 All ER 507, HL.

4 Ireland v Taylor as reported in [1949] 1 KB 300, CA.

5 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/D. RE-EXAMINATION/1046. Judge's power to question or call witnesses.

1046. Judge's power to question or call witnesses.

The judge may ask a witness any question which he considers necessary¹. He may at any time recall a witness who has already given evidence to ask him further questions². Questions may be put by the jury to a witness³, but the usual practice is for questions suggested by the jury to be put by the judge. The parties themselves, except where they call evidence in rebuttal, may only recall a witness at the judge's discretion⁴.

Leave will be given to a party, even after his own case is closed, to call fresh evidence when he has been taken by surprise in the course of his opponent's conduct of his case⁵.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁶.

1 As to the limits of permissible judicial intervention see R v Cain (1936) 25 Cr App Rep 204, CCA; Yuill v Yuill [1945] P 15, [1945] 1 All ER 183, CA; R v Bateman (1946) 31 Cr App Rep 106, CCA; Harris v Harris (1952) Times, 9 April, CA; Jones v National Coal Board [1957] 2 QB 55, [1957] 2 All ER 155, CA; Vernon v Bosley [1994] PIQR P337, CA. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities with regard to civil proceedings see PARA 33 text and note 2.

2 R v Remnant (1807) Russ & Ry 136; R v Watson (1834) 6 C & P 653; Middleton v Bamed (1849) 4 Exch 241; R v Sullivan [1923] 1 KB 47, CCA; Fallon v Calvert [1960] 2 QB 201, [1960] 1 All ER 281, CA; South Eastern Gas Board v Cooper (1968) 112 Sol Jo 803, CA. As to cross-examination by the parties of a witness recalled by the judge see PARA 1042 note 15.

3 R v Lillyman [1896] 2 QB 167, CCR; and see JURIES vol 61 (2010) PARA 801 et seq. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

4 Cattlin v Barker (1847) 5 CB 201; Adams v Bankart (1835) 1 Cr M & R 681; R v Morrison (1911) 75 JP 272, CCA (for the defence during the final speech for the prosecution); Bristol Corp v Great Western Rly Co and Midland Rly Co [1916] WN 47 (on appeal sub nom Great Western Rly and Midland Rly v Bristol Corp (1918) 87 LJ Ch 414, HL) (not after judgment on a question of costs); Burgess v Burgess [1958] 2 All ER 63n, [1958] 1 WLR 608. See further PARA 774.

5 Bigsby v Dickinson (1876) 4 ChD 24, CA. The claimant will not usually be allowed to call the defendant as a witness after the defence case is closed, unless there has been a representation that the defendant would be called to support his own case: Barker v Furlong [1891] 2 Ch 172. See also Nellins v Chief Constable of the Royal Ulster Constabulary [1998] NI 1.

6 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1047. Contradicting own unfavourable witness.

E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES

1047. Contradicting own unfavourable witness.

In certain circumstances a party is permitted to contradict a witness whom he himself has called¹, but he is not allowed to impeach the credit of such a witness by general evidence of bad character².

Where a witness gives unfavourable evidence the party calling him may adduce other evidence of the facts in question, not consistent with the unfavourable evidence³, including, in civil cases (subject to certain conditions), the evidence of a statement made by that witness on another occasion⁴. Where a party contradicts his witness by other evidence he does not thereby destroy that witness's evidence; it is a matter for the judge or jury⁵ to decide where the truth lies⁶.

The course to be taken in the case of a witness who is declared hostile is discussed below⁷.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁸.

1 A witness called in pursuance of law, such as an attesting witness to a will, may be cross-examined by the party calling him: see PARA 867 note 5. As to a debtor in bankruptcy proceedings see Re A Debtor, Jacobs v Lloyd [1944] Ch 344, [1944] 1 All ER 597; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 299.

2 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3, which applies both to criminal and civil proceedings: see PARA 1048 note 2.

3 The wording of the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3 might suggest that leave of the judge is first necessary, but it is not: see Greenough v Eccles (1859) 5 CBNS 786, decided on the similar wording of the Common Law Procedure Act 1854 s 22 (repealed). See, however, the text and note 8.

4 Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1, 6(3). For the conditions see ss 2-4; and PARAS 811-815.

5 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

6 See Ewer v Ambrose (1825) 3 B & C 746; Bradley v Ricardo (1831) 8 Bing 57. For a different view of the effect of contradictory evidence see Sumner and Leivesley v John Brown & Co (1909) 25 TLR 745 (disapproved in Cariboo Observer Ltd v Carson Truck Lines and Tyrell (1961) 32 DLR (2d) 36 (BC CA); and R v Brent [1973] Crim LR 295, CA (prosecution in a criminal case has duty to present all evidence fairly, even if inconsistent).

7 See PARA 1048.

8 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1048. Contradicting own hostile witness.

1048. Contradicting own hostile witness.

If a witness whom a party has called proves hostile¹ the witness may be contradicted by other evidence, and the party calling him may, with the leave of the judge, prove that he has, at some other time, made a statement inconsistent with his present testimony². Before proof is given of an inconsistent statement the circumstances of the alleged statement, sufficient to designate the particular occasion, must be mentioned to the witness, and he must then be asked whether or not he made the statement³.

An adverse witness is one who shows a mind hostile to the party calling him⁴ and, by his manner of giving evidence, shows that he is not desirous of telling the truth⁵. Whether he shows himself to be so hostile as to justify his cross-examination⁶ by the party calling him is a matter for the discretion of the judge⁷, the exercise of which will rarely be interfered with by a higher court⁸. This is so even where a party calls a witness who must of necessity wish to be unfavourable to him, for example, his opponent in the case⁹.

In a criminal case where a previous inconsistent statement by a hostile witness is proved, that statement does not become evidence of the facts stated in it¹⁰, but in a civil case it may¹¹.

1 The word used in the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3 is 'adverse', but see Greenough v Eccles (1859) 5 CBNS 786. As to the meaning that has been ascribed to 'adverse' see the text and note 4.

2 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3. This applies both to criminal and to civil proceedings: see s 1 (amended by the Statute Law Revision Act 1893; the Criminal Law Act 1967 s 10(2), Sch 3 Pt III; and the Criminal Law Act (Northern Ireland) 1967 s 15(2), Sch 2).

3 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 3.

4 Greenough v Eccles (1859) 5 CBNS 786 (he is not 'adverse' when his evidence is merely unfavourable to the party calling him); and see R v Williams (1913) 29 TLR 188, CCA.

5 Coles v Coles and Brown (1866) LR 1 P & D 70. See also Parkin v Moon (1836) 7 C & P 408; R v Ball (1839) 8 C & P 745; R v Murphy and Douglas (1837) 8 C & P 297; Dear v Knight (1859) 1 F & F 433. A witness who is genuinely forgetful cannot be treated as hostile: R v Manning (1968) 112 Sol Jo 745, CA.

6 As to cross-examination of attesting witnesses see PARA 867; and as to that of opposing witnesses see PARA 1042.

7 Greenough v Eccles (1859) 5 CBNS 786; Ohlsen v Terrero (1874) 10 Ch App 127; Rice v Howard (1886) 16 QBD 681, DC; Price v Manning (1889) 42 ChD 372, CA; R v Williams (1913) 29 TLR 188, CCA.

8 R v Manning (1968) 112 Sol Jo 745, CA.

9 Price v Manning (1889) 42 ChD 372, CA; cf Tedeschi v Singh [1948] Ch 319. Where a witness gave evidence contradicting his proof he was treated as hostile: Amstell v Alexander (1867) 16 LT 830; cf Reed v King (1858) 30 LTOS 290; and see Pound (Assignee of Dod) v Wilson (1865) 4 F & F 301; Jackson v Thomason (1861) 31 LJQB 11, differently reported in 1 B & S 745. Cf the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence: see PARAS 791, 1036.

10 The statement is admissible only to destroy the evidence given by the witness at the trial: R v White (1922) 17 Cr App Rep 60, CCA; R v Birch (1924) 18 Cr App Rep 26; R v Harris (1927) 20 Cr App Rep 144; R v Golder [1960] 3 All ER 457, [1960] 1 WLR 1169, CCA.

11 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(5); and PARA 810.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1049. Previous convictions and inconsistent statements of opponent's witness.

1049. Previous convictions and inconsistent statements of opponent's witness.

A witness may be asked whether he has been convicted¹. If he denies or does not admit the fact, the conviction may be proved, and in civil proceedings a certificate signed by the proper officer² of the court where the conviction took place is sufficient evidence of the conviction, provided evidence of identity is also given³.

A witness may be asked in cross-examination whether he has previously made a statement inconsistent with his present evidence, and if he does not distinctly admit that he made such a statement, proof may be given that he did in fact make it; but the circumstances of the alleged statement, sufficient to designate the particular occasion, must first be put to the witness⁴.

A witness may also be cross-examined as to a previous statement made by him in writing, without the writing being shown to him⁵; but if it is intended to contradict him by such writing, his attention must first be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for that purpose⁶, and the judge may at any time during the trial require production of the writing for his own inspection, and he may thereupon make such use of it for the purposes of the trial as he may think fit⁷. According to early authorities, if the writing is not in the possession of the party cross-examining, he may interpose evidence out of turn, either to prove it or to give secondary evidence of it⁸; these must now be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁹.

In criminal cases a previous inconsistent statement when proved is not evidence of the facts stated in it. It may be used only for the purpose of discrediting the witness¹⁰. The rule is different in civil cases¹¹.

The admissibility of evidence affecting the credibility of a person not called as a witness, but whose statement is admitted as hearsay evidence subject to the statutory safeguards¹² is discussed elsewhere in this title¹³.

1 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 6(1) (numbered as such and amended, and s 6(2) added, by the Access to Justice Act 1999 s 90(1), Sch 13 para 3(1)-(3); the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 6(1) further amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 331, 332, Sch 36 Pt 5 para 79, Sch 37 Pt 5), which applies in civil proceedings: see PARA 1048 note 2. An accused person in criminal proceedings is normally protected from such a question: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1502 et seq. Further restrictions on questions about and evidence to prove certain previous convictions are imposed by the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974: see PARA 1210; and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 660.

It is not clear how far one party has a duty to disclose his witness's previous convictions to his opponent, but if the effect of not making such a disclosure might be misleading it should be made: see Tombling v Universal Bulb Co Ltd [1951] 2 TLR 289, CA; Meek v Fleming [1961] 2 QB 366, [1961] 3 All ER 148, CA.

2 For these purposes, 'proper officer' means (1) in relation to a magistrates' court in England and Wales, the justices' chief executive of the court; and (2) in relation to any other court, the clerk of the court or other officer having the custody of the records of the court, or the deputy of such clerk or other officer: Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 6(2) (as added: see note 1).

3 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 6(1) (as so numbered and as amended (see note 1); repealed in relation to criminal proceedings by the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 119(2), (3), Sch 7 Pt IV). As to proof of convictions for the purposes of criminal proceeding see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

4 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 4, which applies to criminal and to civil proceedings: see PARA 1048 note 2. See also R v Funderburk [1990] 2 All ER 482, [1990] 1 WLR 587, CA; R v O'Boyle (1991) 92 Cr App Rep 202, [1991] Crim LR 67, CA.

5 He cannot demand to see it first: North Australian Territory Co Ltd v Goldsborough, Mort & Co Ltd [1893] 2 Ch 381, CA. Where, on cross-examination by defending counsel, a witness for the plaintiff (now known as the 'claimant' see PARA 18) admitted having given a signed statement to the defendants and was asked questions concerning parts of it, it was held that the plaintiff's counsel had the right to call for the whole of the statement to be put in evidence, privilege having been thereby waived in respect of the whole of the statement: Burnell v British Transport Commission [1956] 1 QB 187, [1955] 3 All ER 822, CA; cf PARA 1041 the text and note 2. As to waiver of privilege in general see PARA 970 the text and note 4; and PARA 571.

6 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 5, which applies to criminal and to civil proceedings: see PARA 1048 note 2. See R v Younsy (1914) 11 Cr App Rep 13.

7 Criminal Procedure Act 1865 s 5 proviso; and see Farrow v Blomfield (1859) 1 F & F 653. There is authority to the effect that the Criminal Procedure Act 1865 ss 4, 5 do not distinguish between oral and written statements. Although s 5 clearly refers only to written statements, s 4 covers both oral and written statements. Section 4 allows proof that a previous inconsistent statement was made if that is not distinctly admitted; s 5 additionally permits (1) cross-examination of a witness as to a previous inconsistent written statement without showing him the statement; and (2) contradiction of the witness's testimony by putting the previous statement to him. If he denies making it, the statement can be proved under s 4. Even if he admits making the statement but adheres to evidence inconsistent with it, the statement, or such part of it as the judge thinks proper, may be put before the jury under s 5: see R v Derby Magistrates' Court, ex p B [1996] AC 487, [1995] 4 All ER 526, HL.

8 Calvert v Flower (1836) 7 C & P 386; A-G v Bond (1839) 9 C & P 189; Davies v Davies (1840) 9 C & P 252; R v Shellard (1840) 9 C & P 277.

9 See PARAS 791, 1036.

10 North Australian Territory Co Ltd v Goldsborough, Mort & Co Ltd [1893] 2 Ch 381, CA; R v Golder [1960] 3 All ER 457, [1960] 1 WLR 1169, CCA; R v Oliva [1965] 3 All ER 116, [1965] 1 WLR 1028, CCA; R v O'Neill [1969] Crim LR 260, CA; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

11 Such a statement may be admitted as hearsay evidence of the facts contained in it, subject to the statutory safeguards: see the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 6(1), (3); and PARA 810.

12 It is admitted in evidence subject to the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4: see PARA 808 et seq.

13 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 5(2); and PARA 809.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1050. Finality of answers of opponent's witness.

1050. Finality of answers of opponent's witness.

In the course of cross-examination¹ a witness may be asked any question tending to impeach his character or credit, but unless such questions are also relevant to the matters in issue the witness's answers are conclusive and cannot be contradicted by other evidence². The exceptions to this general rule are discussed below³. It is often a matter of some difficulty to decide whether a question relating to a witness's character is also relevant to an issue⁴.

There are other limits, which must be determined by the judge's discretion, to the questions which may be asked affecting the witness's credit. Thus a question as to a witness's religious belief has been held not to be admissible to impeach credit, although asked with that object⁵.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁶.

¹ As to cross-examination generally see PARA 1042. As to evidence of character and credibility of witnesses in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE; MAGISTRATES.

² Spenceley v De Willott (1806) 7 East 108; Harris v Tippett (1811) 2 Camp 637; R v Yewin (1811) 2 Camp 638n; R v Watson (1817) 2 Stark 116; Tennant v Hamilton (1839) 7 Cl & Fin 122, HL; A-G v Hitchcock (1847) 1 Exch 91; Alcock v Royal Exchange Assurance Co (1849) 13 QB 292; Palmer v Trower (1852) 22 LJ Ex 32; Goddard v Parr (1855) 24 LJ Ch 783; R v Burke (1858) 8 Cox CC 44; Tolman v Johnstone (1860) 2 F & F 66; Baker v Baker (1863) 32 LJPM & A 145; Re Haggelmacher's Patents [1898] 2 Ch 280; R v Cargill [1913] 2 KB 271, CCA; Hobbs v CT Tinling & Co Ltd [1929] 2 KB 1, CA.

³ See PARA 1051. See also CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE.

⁴ Thus, on a charge of rape, it has been held that the complainant may be contradicted if she denies previous connection with the defendant, for that may be material to consent (R v Martin (1834) 6 C & P 562; R v Holmes (1871) LR 1 CCR 334; and see R v Riley (1887) 18 QBD 481); but that her answer is conclusive if she denies connection with other men, for then the question only goes to her character and credit (R v Hodgson (1812) Russ & Ry 211; R v Holmes (1871) LR 1 CCR 334). However, the complainant in a case of rape or other sexual offence may not now be questioned at all about her sexual behaviour except with leave of the court and subject to certain statutory conditions: see the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 ss 41-43; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1446-1447.

⁵ Darby v Ouseley (1856) 1 H & N 1; and see R v Bernard (1858) 1 F & F 240; Seaman v Netherclift (1876) 2 CPD 53, CA.

⁶ See PARAS 791, 1036. As to the exercise of this discretion see eg Great Future International Ltd v Sealand Housing Corpn [2002] EWCA Civ 1183, [2002] All ER (D) 391 (Jul) (where the defendants' case was in part based on allegations of bad faith on the part of the claimants, the judge was wrong not to permit the examination and cross-examination of witnesses by the defendants relating to an allegation that a claimant had authorised an individual to approach one of the defendants' witnesses in an improper manner).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1051. Calling evidence to discredit opponent's witness.

1051. Calling evidence to discredit opponent's witness.

In addition to the right to prove the convictions and previous inconsistent statements of an opponent's witness¹, there are the following exceptions to the general rule that a witness's answers in cross-examination as to credit are final:

- 173 (1) evidence may be given to contradict a witness who denies the truth of questions tending to show that he is not impartial, or that for some other reason he has a bias in favour of, or against, one of the parties²;
- 174 (2) evidence may be given of a witness's general reputation³ for untruthfulness, and the person giving such evidence may be asked whether in his opinion the witness is to be believed on oath⁴, although he is not permitted to give evidence of particular facts and circumstances upon which his opinion, or the general reputation of the witness, has been formed⁵; however, evidence intended to impeach the credit of a witness should be given by somebody acquainted with him, and not by a stranger sent to make inquiries about him⁶;
- 175 (3) medical evidence is admissible to show that a witness suffers from some disease or defect or abnormality of mind which affects the reliability of his evidence⁷.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁸.

1 See PARA 1049.

2 R v Yewin (1811) 2 Camp 638n; The Queen's Case (1820) 2 Brod & Bing 284 (witness suborned); Thomas v David (1836) 7 C & P 350 (witness the mistress of party calling her); R v Shaw (1888) 16 Cox CC 503 (hostility between witness and other party); R v Phillips (1936) 26 Cr App Rep 17, CCA (witness 'schooled'); R v Denley [1970] Crim LR 583 (offer by witness to make false allegations); and see A-G v Hitchcock (1847) 1 Exch 91.

3 As to the admissibility in civil proceedings of evidence of reputation see PARA 827 et seq.

4 R v Richardson, R v Longman [1969] 1 QB 299, [1968] 2 All ER 761, CA; R v Brown and Hedley (1867) LR 1 CCR 70; Stebbins v London and North Western Rly Co (1899) 63 JP Jo 138; R v Gunewardene [1951] 2 KB 600, [1951] 2 All ER 290, CCA; and see Toohey v Metropolitan Police Comr [1965] AC 595, [1965] 1 All ER 506, HL (overruling in part R v Gunewardene [1951] 2 KB 600, [1951] 2 All ER 290, CCA); cf R v Rowton (1865) Le & Ca 520.

5 He may, however, be asked about particular incidents in cross-examination: R v Gunewardene [1951] 2 KB 600, [1951] 2 All ER 290, CCA; R v Richardson, R v Longman [1969] 1 QB 299, [1968] 2 All ER 761, CA. The character of a witness who is called to impeach that of another might be impeached, but the process might not be carried further: Five Popish Lords' Case (1680) 7 State Tr 1217; R v Murphy (1753) 19 State Tr 693; R v Whelan (1881) 14 Cox CC 595; R v Richardson, R v Longman [1969] 1 QB 299, [1968] 2 All ER 761, CA.

6 Mawson v Hartsink (1803) 4 Esp 102; R v Richardson, R v Longman [1969] 1 QB 299, [1968] 2 All ER 761, CA.

7 Toohey v Metropolitan Police Comr [1965] AC 595, [1965] 1 All ER 506, HL; overruling in part R v Gunewardene [1951] 2 KB 600, [1951] 2 All ER 290, CCA. Such evidence is not confined to a general opinion of the unreliability of the witness, but may include all the matters necessary to show not only the reason for and foundation of the diagnosis, but also the extent to which the credibility of the witness is affected: Toohey v Metropolitan Police Comr [1965] AC 595, [1965] 1 All ER 506, HL; and see R v Eades [1972] Crim LR 99; Lowery

v R [1974] AC 85, [1973] 3 All ER 662, PC; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1445. However, in the absence of mental illness, there is no general rule that psychiatric evidence is admissible to show that a witness is likely to be telling the truth: see R v Turner [1975] QB 834, [1975] 1 All ER 70, CA.

8 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/E. IMPEACHING THE CREDIT OF WITNESSES/1052. Re-establishing credit of witness.

1052. Re-establishing credit of witness.

General evidence of good character and reputation is admissible subsequent to the cross-examination of a witness where his character or credit has been impugned¹, but does not become admissible if the cross-examination goes no further than to show that the witnesses contradict each other². Where, however, it has been suggested in cross-examination that the witness's evidence is a recent invention³, he may be asked, and evidence may be given to prove⁴, when he first made the impugned statement⁵.

This paragraph must be read in the light of the court's general discretionary power to control the evidence⁶.

1 Annesley v Earl of Anglesea (1743) 17 State Tr 1139; Doe d Walker v Stephenson (1801) 3 Esp 284; Bishop of Durham v Beaumont (1808) 1 Camp 207; R v Clarke (1817) 2 Stark 241. As to the admissibility of evidence of reputation in civil cases see PARA 827 et seq.

2 Bishop of Durham v Beaumont (1808) 1 Camp 207. Evidence of good general reputation may not be led to rebut an allegation of a particular instance of bad behaviour: R v Wood [1951] 2 All ER 112n.

3 It is not sufficient that the whole of the witness's evidence has merely been attacked in cross-examination: Fox v General Medical Council [1960] 3 All ER 225, [1960] 1 WLR 1017, PC; Flanagan v Fahy [1918] 2 IR 361.

4 Such statements when proved may be admissible as hearsay evidence of the matters contained in them, subject to the statutory safeguards: see the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4, 6(1); and PARA 808 et seq.

5 R v Coll (1889) 24 LR Ir 522, CCR; R v Benjamin (1913) 8 Cr App Rep 146, CCA; O'Gorman v O'Gorman (1912) 56 Sol Jo 634; Flanagan v Fahy [1918] 2 IR 361; R v Roberts [1942] 1 All ER 187; Ahmed v Brumfitt (1967) 112 Sol Jo 32, CA; and see Fox v General Medical Council [1960] 3 All ER 225, [1960] 1 WLR 1017, PC. As to previous consistent statements generally see PARA 1038.

6 See PARAS 791, 1036.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/F. PARTICULAR CARE REQUIRED IN CASE OF CERTAIN WITNESSES/1053. No requirement for corroboration in civil cases.

F. PARTICULAR CARE REQUIRED IN CASE OF CERTAIN WITNESSES

1053. No requirement for corroboration in civil cases.

In general, a court may act on the evidence of a single witness, or a single document properly proved¹, both in civil and criminal proceedings². There are no circumstances in which such evidence requires corroboration in civil proceedings. The limited circumstances in which a criminal court cannot convict an accused person of speeding³, perjury⁴ or an attempt to commit such an offence⁵ without corroboration are discussed elsewhere in this work⁶. The corroborating evidence must be independent; thus the previous statement of a witness cannot corroborate his sworn evidence⁷.

1 As to proof of documents and their contents see PARA 864 et seq.

2 DPP v Kilbourne[1973] AC 729, [1973] 1 All ER 440, HL; and see Wright v Tatham (1838) 5 Cl & Fin 670; Davis v Hardy (1827) 6 B & C 225; Morrow v Morrow[1914] 2 IR 183.

3 See the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 89(2); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 856.

4 See the Perjury Act 1911 s 13; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 723.

5 See the Criminal Attempts Act 1981 s 2(2)(g); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 79.

6 See notes 3-5.

7 R v Christie[1914] AC 545, HL; R v Evans(1924) 18 Cr App Rep 123, CCA; R v Whitehead[1929] 1 KB 99, CCA; cf Milne v Leisler (1862) 7 H & N 786; R v Fowkes(1856) Times, 8 March (statements part of res gestae); O'Gorman v O'Gorman (1912) 56 Sol Jo 634; Stephenson v River Tyne Improvement Comrs (1869) 17 WR 590. 'Corroboration' has no technical legal meaning; however, 'corroborative evidence' is that which strengthens or supports other evidence: DPP v Hester[1973] AC 296, [1972] 3 All ER 1056, HL; DPP v Kilbourne[1973] AC 729, [1973] 1 All ER 440, HL; R v O'Reilly[1967] 2 QB 722, [1967] 2 All ER 766, CA; and see R v Baskerville[1916] 2 KB 658, CCA; Thomas v Jones[1921] 1 KB 22, CA; Fromhold v Fromhold [1952] 1 TLR 1522, CA (corroboration in matrimonial cases).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(7) WITNESSES/(ix) Oral Examination of Witnesses at or prior to Trial/F. PARTICULAR CARE REQUIRED IN CASE OF CERTAIN WITNESSES/1054. Corroboration of the evidence of certain witnesses desirable in practice.

1054. Corroboration of the evidence of certain witnesses desirable in practice.

Although there is no requirement of corroboration in civil cases, evidence will always carry more weight if it is corroborated¹. This may be particularly true in cases of claims against a deceased person's estate² and in certain matrimonial cases, particularly where sexual misconduct is alleged³. A high standard of proof is required in cases where serious allegations, such as allegations of child abuse, are made⁴.

In criminal cases, the previous requirements that the jury should be warned about the dangers of convicting the accused on the uncorroborated evidence of (1) an alleged accomplice of the accused; or (2) the complainant, where the offence charged was a sexual offence, were abrogated by the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994⁵.

It has been held that the principles concerning the need for caution in relying solely on identification evidence in the criminal justice system⁶ apply equally to public law proceedings involving children⁷.

¹ As to the weight of evidence generally see PARAS 766-768. As to what constitutes corroboration see PARA 1053 note 7.

² See Rawlinson v Scholes (1898) 79 LT 350, DC; and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS; cf Re Cummins, Cummins v Thompson [1972] Ch 62, [1971] 3 All ER 782, CA (claim under the Married Women's Property Act 1882). See also Re Farrow's Estate (1856) 22 Beav 400; cf Gill v Gill 1907 SC 532; and Forrest v Forrest (1865) 5 New Rep 299 (uncorroborated evidence of alleged admission by testator); Kinleside v Harrison (1818) 2 Phillim 449 (sanity of testator impeached); and see WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 481 et seq.

³ See Alli v Alli [1965] 3 All ER 480, DC; and see generally MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 213.

⁴ See Re H and R (minors) (sexual abuse: standard of proof) [1996] AC 563, [1996] 1 All ER 1, HL; and see generally PARA 775.

⁵ See the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 s 32(1). Any corresponding requirement applicable to the summary trial of a person for an offence was likewise abrogated: see s 32(3).

⁶ See R v Turnbull [1977] QB 224, [1976] 3 All ER 549, CA; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1458.

⁷ See Re W (children) (family proceedings: evidence) [2002] EWCA Civ 1626, [2003] 1 FLR 329, [2002] All ER (D) 81 (Oct).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1055. Cases in which assistance may be given.

(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS

1055. Cases in which assistance may be given.

Facilities are afforded by the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975¹ enabling the High Court, the Court of Session or the High Court of Justice in Northern Ireland to order evidence to be obtained² in the part of the United Kingdom³ in which it exercises jurisdiction where it is satisfied, on application made to it, (1) that the application is made in pursuance of a request⁴ issued by or on behalf of a court or tribunal (the 'requesting court'), exercising jurisdiction in any other part of the United Kingdom, in any country or territory outside the United Kingdom⁵, or in any court exercising jurisdiction in any international proceedings to which the statutory provisions are applied⁶; and (2) that the evidence concerned is to be obtained for the purposes of civil proceedings⁷ which either have been instituted before the requesting court⁸ or whose institution before that court is contemplated⁹.

The provisions may be extended by Order in Council to any of the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man, any colony other than one for whose external relations a country other than the United Kingdom is responsible, or any country or territory outside Her Majesty's dominions in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction in right of her United Kingdom government¹⁰.

The statutory provision which has been made for the obtaining of evidence to be used for criminal proceedings in other jurisdictions is dealt with elsewhere in this work¹¹, as is the provision made for the obtaining of evidence pursuant to a request from a court in a reciprocating country under the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) Act 1972¹².

¹ See the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975, which came into force on 4 May 1976: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 (Commencement) Order 1976, SI 1976/429.

² See PARA 1058.

³ As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

⁴ 'Request' includes any commission, order or other process issued by or on behalf of the requesting court: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 9(1).

⁵ Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 1(a). For these purposes, 'tribunal' does not include a private tribunal: Commerce and Industry Insurance Co of Canada v Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's of London [2002] 2 All ER (Comm) 204, [2002] 1 WLR 1323.

⁶ Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that, subject to such exceptions, adaptations or modifications as may be specified in the order, the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 ss 1-3 are to have effect in relation to international proceedings of any description specified in the order (s 6(1)); and such an order may direct that the Perjury Act 1911 s 1(4) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 714) or the Perjury (Northern Ireland) Order 1979, SI 1979/1714, art 3(4) is to have effect in relation to the relevant international proceedings as it has effect in relation to a judicial proceeding in a tribunal of a foreign state (Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 6(2) (amended by SI 1979/1714). 'International proceedings' means proceedings before the International Court of Justice or any other court, tribunal, commission, body or authority (whether consisting of one or more persons) which, in pursuance of any international agreement or any resolution of the United Nations General Assembly, exercises any jurisdiction or performs any functions of a judicial nature or by way of arbitration, conciliation or inquiry, or is appointed, temporarily or permanently, for the purpose of exercising any jurisdiction or performing any such functions: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 6(3). The power to make such an Order in Council includes power to revoke or vary it by a subsequent such Order: s 9(3).

The Evidence (European Court) Order 1976, SI 1976/428, made under this power, applies the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 ss 1-3 to the Court of Justice of the European Communities ('ECJ') (Evidence (European Court) Order 1976, SI 1976/428, art 2) and provides that the Perjury Act 1911 s 1(4) has appropriate effect in relation to the court's proceedings (Evidence (European Court) Order 1976, SI 1976/428, art 3). As to the ECJ see further PARA 1087.

The Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Guernsey) Order 1980, SI 1980/1956, art 4, Sch 2 and the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Isle of Man) Order 1979, SI 1979/1711, art 3, Sch 1 apply the Evidence (European Court) Order 1976, SI 1976/428, to the Bailiwick of Guernsey and to the Isle of Man respectively, subject to specified exceptions, modifications and adaptations.

7 'Civil proceedings', in relation to the requesting court, means proceedings in any civil or commercial matter: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 9(1). The question whether proceedings are a 'civil or commercial matter' depends on the classification of those proceedings according to the law of the requesting court and the law of the court to which the request is made (ie English law), since the classification cannot be made by reference to any internationally acceptable classification: see Re State of Norway's Applications (Nos 1 and 2) [1990] 1 AC 723, [1989] 1 All ER 745, HL. See also Re Gross, ex p Treasury Solicitor [1968] 3 All ER 804, sub nom Re Extradition Act 1870, ex p Treasury Solicitor [1969] 1 WLR 12 at 15 ('civil or commercial matter' is a wide general term covering all kinds of suits, petitions, summonses, applications for orders and so forth, of which courts are competent to take cognisance). The words 'civil proceedings' in the phrase 'evidence . . . to be obtained for the purposes of civil proceedings' include all the procedural steps taken in the course of the proceedings from their institution up to and including their completion and if the procedural system of the requesting court provides for the examination of witnesses or the production of documents for the purposes of enabling a party to ascertain whether there exists admissible evidence to support his own case or contradict that of his opponent the High Court has jurisdiction to make an order under the 1975 Act: Rio Tinto Zinc Corp v Westinghouse Electric Corp [1978] AC 547 at 633, [1978] 1 All ER 434 at 461-462, HL, per Lord Diplock.

8 In relation to any application made in pursuance of a request issued by the High Court under the County Courts Act 1984 s 56 (see PARA 1001) or the High Court of Justice in Northern Ireland under the County Courts (Northern Ireland) Order 1980, SI 1980/397, art 43, this reference to proceedings instituted before the requesting court is to be construed as a reference to the relevant county court proceedings: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 9(2) (amended by the County Courts Act 1984 s 148(1), Sch 2 para 53; and by SI 1980/397).

9 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 1(b).

10 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 10(3); and see s 9(3), cited in note 6. At the date at which this title states the law, the following orders had been made: (1) the Bermuda (Evidence) Order 1987, SI 1987/662; (2) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Anguilla) Order 1986, SI 1986/218; (3) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Cayman Islands) Order 1978, SI 1978/1890; (4) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Falkland Islands and Dependencies) Order 1978, SI 1978/1891; (5) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Gibraltar) Order 1978, SI 1978/1892; (6) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Guernsey) Order 1980, SI 1980/1956; (7) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Isle of Man) Order 1980, SI 1980/1956; (8) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Jersey) Order 1983, SI 1983/1700; (9) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia) Order 1978, SI 1978/1920; and (10) the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) (Turks and Caicos Islands) Order 1987, SI 1987/1266.

11 See the Criminal Justice (International Co-operation) Act 2003 s 15; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 906.

12 See the Family Proceedings Rules 1991, SI 1991/1247, r 7.34; and CONFLICT OF LAWS.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1056. Application for order.

1056. Application for order.

An application for an order under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975¹ for evidence to be obtained, other than an application made as a result of a request by a court in another regulation state² must be made to the High Court³. It must be supported by written evidence⁴ and accompanied by the request⁵ as a result of which the application is made and, where appropriate, a translation of the request into English⁶. The application may be made without notice⁷.

1 As to the cases in which assistance may be given under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 see PARA 1055; and as to the orders that may be made see PARA 1058.

2 CPR 34.16(1). As to the meaning of 'regulation state' see CPR 34.16(2); and PARA 1002 note 1; and as to requests made by a court in another regulation state see PARA 1064.

3 CPR 34.16(1), 34.17(a)(i).

4 CPR 34.17(a)(ii). The written evidence supporting the application (which should be made by application notice: see CPR Pt 23; and PARA 303 et seq) must include or exhibit (1) a statement of the issues relevant to the proceedings; (2) a list of questions or the subject matter of questions to be put to the proposed deponent; (3) a draft order; and (4) a translation of the documents in heads (1) and (2) into English, if necessary: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 6.3.

5 As to the meaning of 'request' see PARA 1055 note 4.

6 CPR 34.17(a)(iii).

7 CPR 34.17(b).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1057. Application by Treasury Solicitor in certain cases.

1057. Application by Treasury Solicitor in certain cases.

The Senior Master of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court¹ will send to the Treasury Solicitor any request² (1) forwarded by the Secretary of State³ with a recommendation that effect should be given to the request without requiring an application to be made; or (2) received by him in pursuance of a Civil Procedure Convention⁴ providing for the taking of evidence of any person in England and Wales to assist a court or tribunal in a foreign country where no person is named in the document as the applicant⁵. In relation to such a request, the Treasury Solicitor may, with the consent of the Treasury, apply for an order under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975⁶ and take such other steps as are necessary to give effect to the request⁷.

1 As to the Senior Master see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 654.

2 As to the meaning of 'request' see PARA 1055 note 4.

3 The Secretary of State here concerned is the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs.

4 There are many bilateral conventions; they generally provide that requests made under them are to be made by the consular authority in England and Wales of the foreign country concerned. See further PARA 1000.

5 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 6.4(1).

6 As to the orders that may be made see PARA 1058.

7 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 6.4(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1058. Order for evidence to be obtained.

1058. Order for evidence to be obtained.

The High Court has power, on application¹, by order to make such provision for obtaining evidence in England and Wales as appears to it appropriate for the purpose of giving effect to the request in pursuance of which the application is made². The order may require a person specified in it to take such steps as the court considers appropriate for the purpose³, but no steps may be required to be taken unless they are steps which can be required to be taken by way of obtaining evidence for the purposes of civil proceedings⁴ in the High Court, whether or not proceedings of the same description as those to which the application relates⁵. This does not, however, preclude the making of an order requiring a person to give testimony, either orally or in writing, otherwise than on oath⁶ where this is asked for by the requesting court⁷.

Subject to the provisions set out above, the order may, in particular, make provision for the examination of witnesses, either orally or in writing⁸, for the production of documents⁹, for the inspection, photographing, preservation, custody or detention of any property¹⁰, for the taking of samples of any property and the carrying out of any experiments on or with any property¹¹, for the medical examination of any person¹², and for the taking and testing of blood samples from any person¹³. A person required by the order to attend at any place is entitled to the same conduct money and payment for expenses and loss of time as on attendance as a witness in High Court civil proceedings¹⁴.

The order may not, however, require a person to state what documents relevant to the proceedings to which the application relates are or have been in his possession, custody or power¹⁵, or to produce any documents other than particular documents specified in the order or being documents appearing to the High Court to be, or to be likely to be, in his possession, custody or power¹⁶. Further, effect will not be given to a request for evidence, including oral evidence, which is oppressive, or which is merely 'fishing'¹⁷.

Nothing in the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 is to be construed as enabling the court to make an order which binds the Crown or any person in his capacity as an officer or servant of the Crown¹⁸. Nor may a court in the United Kingdom¹⁹ make an order under the above provisions for giving effect to a request issued by or on behalf of a court or tribunal of an overseas country²⁰ if it is shown that the request infringes the jurisdiction of the United Kingdom or is otherwise prejudicial to the sovereignty of the United Kingdom²¹. A certificate signed by or on behalf of the Secretary of State to the effect that it infringes that jurisdiction or is so prejudicial is conclusive evidence of that fact²².

1 As to making the application see PARA 1056.

2 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(1). As to the meaning of 'request' see PARA 1055 note 4. For the form of order see Practice Direction--Forms PD 4, para 4, Table 2 Form 93; and see The Civil Court Practice. As to the use of the forms listed in Table 2 see PARA 14.

The Court of Session in Scotland and the High Court of Justice in Northern Ireland have the like power in relation to Scotland and Northern Ireland: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(1).

3 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' in relation to the requesting court see PARA 1055 note 7.

5 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(3). As to taking the evidence of witnesses see generally PARA 979 et seq. As to whether the request is oppressive see First American Corp v Sheikh Zayed Al-Nahyan [1998] 4 All ER 439, sub nom First American Corp v Zayed [1999] 1 WLR 1154, CA; and note 17.

6 As to oaths and affirmations see generally PARA 1021 et seq; and as to who may administer oaths etc when taking evidence for the purposes of foreign proceedings see PARA 1059.

7 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(3).

8 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(a). See further PARA 1059. For the offence committed by a person making a false statement in testimony otherwise than on oath pursuant to an order under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 see the Perjury Act 1911 s 1A (added by the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 8(1), Sch 1); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 717.

9 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(b). See, however, the text and notes 15-16. Under earlier legislation it was held that the court would only order the production of documents by a witness if this was ancillary to oral testimony: Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt (No 2) [1964] 2 QB 647, [1964] 2 All ER 594, CA; Panthalu v Ramnord Research Laboratories Ltd [1966] 2 QB 173, [1965] 2 All ER 921, CA; American Express Warehousing Ltd v Doe [1967] 1 Lloyd's Rep 222, CA. However, production need not be by a witness who is orally examined: Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt [1964] 1 QB 40, [1963] 1 All ER 258, CA. A company may be ordered to produce by its proper officer documents specified in the order: Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt [1964] 1 QB 40, [1963] 1 All ER 258, CA.

10 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(c). 'Property' includes any land, chattel or other corporeal property of any description: s 9(1).

11 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(d).

12 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(e).

13 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(2)(f).

14 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(5). As to witnesses' expenses see PARAS 1013-1015.

15 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(4)(a).

16 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2(4)(b). The requirements of s 2(4)(b) are not satisfied by the specification of classes of documents; what is called for is the specification of 'particular documents' which means individual documents separately described: Rio Tinto Zinc Corp v Westinghouse Electric Corp [1978] AC 547 at 625, [1978] 1 All ER 434 at 455, HL per Viscount Dilhorne and at 635 and 463 per Lord Diplock; Re Asbestos Insurance Coverage Cases [1985] 1 All ER 716, [1985] 1 WLR 331, HL.

Under earlier legislation it was held that an order for production would not be made for the purpose of giving discovery (now known as 'disclosure': see PARA 963) against a person who was not a party to the action (now known in England and Wales as a 'claim': see PARA 18): Burchard v McFarlane, ex p Tindall [1891] 2 QB 241, CA; Radio Corp of America v Rauland Corp [1956] 1 QB 618, [1956] 1 All ER 549, DC; Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt (No 2) [1964] 2 QB 647, [1964] 2 All ER 594, CA; American Express Warehousing Ltd v Doe [1967] 1 Lloyd's Rep 222, CA; Seyfang v GD Searle & Co [1973] QB 148, [1973] 1 All ER 290.

17 State of Minnesota v Philip Morris Inc [1998] ILPr 170, CA; First American Corp v Sheikh Zayed Al-Nahyan [1998] 4 All ER 439, sub nom First American Corp v Zayed [1999] 1 WLR 1154, CA.

18 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 9(4); and see Re Pan American World Airways Inc's Application [1992] QB 854, [1992] 3 All ER 197, CA.

19 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

20 For these purposes, 'overseas country' means any country or territory outside the United Kingdom other than one for whose international relations Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom is responsible: Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 s 8(2). References to the law or a court, tribunal or authority of an overseas country include, in the case of a federal state, references to the law or a court, tribunal or authority of any constituent part of that country: s 8(3).

21 Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 s 4. Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that the Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 is to extend with such exceptions, adaptations and modifications, if any, as may be specified in the Order to any territory outside the United Kingdom, being a territory for the international relations of which Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom is responsible: s 8(8). At the date at which this title states the law, the following Orders had been made: the Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 (Guernsey) Order 1983, SI 1983/1703; the Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 (Isle of Man) Order 1983, SI 1983/1704; and the Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 (Jersey) Order 1983, SI 1983/607 (amended by SI 1983/1700). The Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 extends to Northern Ireland: s 8(7).

If it appears to the Secretary of State (1) that a requirement has been or may be imposed on a person or persons in the United Kingdom to produce to any court, tribunal or authority of an overseas country any commercial document which is not within the territorial jurisdiction of that country or to furnish any commercial information to any such court, tribunal or authority; or (2) that any such authority has imposed or may impose a requirement on a person or persons in the United Kingdom to publish any such document or information, the Secretary of State may, if it appears to him that the requirement is inadmissible by virtue of s 2(2) or (3), give directions for prohibiting compliance with the requirement: s 2(1). Such a requirement is inadmissible (a) if it infringes the jurisdiction of the United Kingdom or is otherwise prejudicial to the sovereignty of the United Kingdom; or (b) if compliance with the requirement would be prejudicial to the security of the United Kingdom or to the relations of the government of the United Kingdom with the government of any other country: s 2(2). Such a requirement is also inadmissible (i) if it is made otherwise than for the purposes of civil or criminal proceedings which have been instituted in the overseas country; or (ii) if it requires a person to state what documents relevant to any such proceedings are or have been in his possession, custody or power or to produce for the purposes of any such proceedings any documents other than particular documents specified in the requirement: s 2(3). Directions under s 2(1) may be either general or special and may prohibit compliance with any requirement either absolutely or in such cases or subject to such conditions as to consent or otherwise as may be specified in the directions; and general directions under s 2(1) must be published in such manner as appears to the Secretary of State to be appropriate: s 2(4). For these purposes, the making of a request or demand is to be treated as the imposition of a requirement if it is made in circumstances in which a requirement to the same effect could be or could have been imposed; and (A) any request or demand for the supply of a document or information which, pursuant to the requirement of any court, tribunal or authority of an overseas country, is addressed to a person in the United Kingdom; or (B) any requirement imposed by such a court, tribunal or authority to produce or furnish any document or information to a person specified in the requirement, is to be treated as a requirement to produce or furnish that document or information to that court, tribunal or authority: s 2(5). For these purposes, 'commercial document' and 'commercial information' mean respectively a document or information relating to a business of any description and 'document' includes any record or device by means of which material is recorded or stored: s 2(6). For the penalty for contravening a direction under s 2 see s 3; and see further CONFLICT OF LAWS.

22 Protection of Trading Interests Act 1980 s 4. As to the effect of conclusive evidence see PARA 767.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1059. Procedure for examination of witness.

1059. Procedure for examination of witness.

Where an order is made under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 for the examination of a witness¹, the court² may order the examination to be taken before any fit and proper person nominated by the person applying for the order³ or before an examiner of the court⁴ or before any other person whom the court considers suitable⁵. Unless the court orders otherwise, the examination must be conducted in the same way as if the witness were giving evidence at a trial⁶. If all the parties are present, the examiner may conduct the examination of a person not named in the order for examination if all the parties and the person to be examined consent⁷. The examiner may conduct the examination in private if he considers it appropriate to do so⁸. He must ensure that the evidence given by the witness is recorded in full⁹.

The court may make an order¹⁰ for payment of the fees and expenses of the examination¹¹.

Any person appointed by a court or other judicial authority of any foreign country has power in the United Kingdom¹² to administer oaths¹³ for the purpose of taking evidence for use in proceedings, not being criminal proceedings, carried on under the law of that country¹⁴.

Where an order is made for the examination of witnesses under the 1975 Act in certain cases relating to patents¹⁵, the court may permit an officer of the European Patent Office to attend the examination and examine the witnesses or request the court or the examiner before whom the examination takes place to put specified questions to them¹⁶.

1 As to the power to make such orders see PARA 1058.

2 I.e. the High Court: see CPR 34.17(a)(i); and PARA 1056 (application for the order must be made to the High Court).

3 CPR 34.18(1)(a). As to application for the order see PARA 1056.

4 CPR 34.18(1)(b). As to examiners of the court see PARA 993.

5 CPR 34.18(1)(c). A company cannot be ordered to attend for the purpose of being examined on oath: Penn-Texas Corp v Murat Anstalt [1964] 1 QB 40, [1963] 1 All ER 258, CA. An order will not readily be made requiring an expert to give evidence against his wishes in a case where he has no connection with the facts or history of the matter in issue, particularly where giving such evidence would involve breach of confidence and the expenditure of time and study: Seyfang v GD Searle & Co [1973] QB 148, [1973] 1 All ER 290. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

6 CPR 34.9(1), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(a). Examinations in England and Wales for the purpose of obtaining evidence for foreign courts should follow the procedural norms for proceedings in England and Wales. However, where a request is made by a foreign court as to the manner for taking depositions, the English court should, subject to the exercise of judicial discretion whether to make an order in any particular case, normally employ that method unless what is proposed is so contrary to established English procedures that it ought not to be permitted: J Barber & Sons (a firm) v Lloyd's Underwriters [1987] QB 103, [1986] 2 All ER 845. It has been held that questions of admissibility of evidence are governed by the procedural laws of the requesting court: R v Rathbone, ex p Dikko, Noga OGA Commodities (Overseas) Inc v Rijn Maas- en Zeescheepvaartknaoor NV [1985] QB 630, [1985] 2 WLR 375. See also Desilla v Fells & Co (1879) 40 LT 423, DC, approved in Eccles & Co v Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co [1912] 1 KB 135, CA. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

7 CPR 34.9(2), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(a). See also R v Rathbone, ex p Dikko Noga OGA Commodities (Overseas) Inc v Rijn Maas- en Zeescheepvaartknaoor NV [1985] QB 630, [1985] 2 WLR 375 (conduct of proceedings where the witness is attended by a legal representative in order to receive advice).

- 8 CPR 34.9(3), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(a).
- 9 CPR 34.9(4), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(a). See further PARA 995.
- 10 le under CPR 34.14: see PARA 994.
- 11 CPR 34.18(3). As to calculation of the examiner's fee see PARA 994.
- 12 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.
- 13 For this purpose, references to the administration of an oath includes references to the taking of an affidavit: Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 6(2).
- 14 Oaths and Evidence (Overseas Authorities and Countries) Act 1963 s 1.
- 15 le under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 1 as applied by the Patents Act 1977 s 92: see PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 541.
- 16 CPR 34.21.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1060. Enforcing attendance of witness.

1060. Enforcing attendance of witness.

Unless the court¹ orders otherwise when making an order for the examination of a witness under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975², the following provisions apply³. If a person served⁴ with an order to attend before an examiner⁵ fails to attend or refuses to be sworn⁶ for the purpose of the examination or to answer any lawful question or produce any document at the examination, a certificate of his failure or refusal, signed by the examiner, must be filed⁷ by the party requiring the deposition⁸. On the certificate being filed, the party requiring the deposition may apply to the court for an order requiring that person to attend or to be sworn or to answer any question or produce any document, as the case may be⁹. An application for such an order may be made without notice¹⁰.

The court may order the person against whom an order is made under these provisions to pay any costs resulting from his failure or refusal¹¹.

¹ In the High Court: see CPR 34.17(a)(i); and PARA 1056 (application for the order must be made to the High Court).

² As to the power to make such orders see PARA 1058.

³ CPR 34.18(2)(b).

⁴ As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

⁵ As to persons who may conduct the examination see PARA 1059.

⁶ As to oaths etc see generally PARA 1021 et seq; and as to persons who may administer oaths and take affidavits for these purposes see PARA 1059. As to the power to make an order requiring the witness to give unsworn testimony see PARA 1058.

⁷ As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

⁸ CPR 34.10(1), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(b).

⁹ CPR 34.10(2), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(b).

¹⁰ CPR 34.10(3), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(b).

¹¹ CPR 34.10(4), applied by CPR 34.18(2)(b). See further PARA 996. As to costs see PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1061. Privilege of witnesses.

1061. Privilege of witnesses.

A person is not to be compelled by virtue of an order for obtaining evidence for use in foreign proceedings¹ to give any evidence² which he could not be compelled to give (1) in civil proceedings in England and Wales³; or (2) in civil proceedings⁴ in the country or territory in which the requesting court exercises jurisdiction⁵, although this latter restriction does not apply unless the claim of the person in question to be exempt from giving the evidence is either supported by a statement contained in the request (whether it is so supported unconditionally or subject to conditions that are fulfilled)⁶, or conceded by the applicant for the order⁷. Where such a claim made by any person is not so supported or conceded he may be required to give the evidence to which the claim relates, but it is not to be transmitted⁸ to the requesting court if that court, on the matter being referred to it, upholds the claim⁹.

Further, a person is not to be compelled by virtue of such an order to give any evidence if his so doing would be prejudicial to the security of the United Kingdom¹⁰.

1 le an order under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 2: see PARA 1058.

2 In the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3, references to giving evidence include references to answering any question and to producing any document: s 3(4).

3 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(1)(a).

4 As to the meaning of 'civil proceedings' in relation to the requesting court see PARA 1055 note 7; and as to the meaning of 'requesting court' see PARA 1055.

5 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(1)(b); and see R v Rathbone, ex p Dikko, Noga OGA Commodities (Overseas) Inc v Rijn Maas- en Zeescheepvaartknaator NV [1985] QB 630, [1985] 2 WLR 375.

6 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(2)(a).

7 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(2)(b).

8 References to transmitting evidence are to be construed in the light of what is said in note 2: Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(4).

9 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(2). For the procedure to be followed in such circumstances see PARA 1062.

10 Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(3). A certificate signed by or on behalf of the Secretary of State to the effect that it would be so prejudicial to do so is conclusive evidence of that fact: s 3(3). As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1062. Procedure where privilege not supported or conceded.

1062. Procedure where privilege not supported or conceded.

Where a witness claims to be exempt from giving evidence, on the ground that he would be exempt from giving it under the law of the country of the court making the request¹, and the witness's claim is not supported² or conceded³, the examiner⁴ may require the witness to give the evidence which he claims to be exempt from giving⁵. Where the examiner does not require the witness to give that evidence, the court⁶ may order the witness to do so⁷ and an application for such an order may be made by the person who obtained the order for examination of the witness⁸.

Where such evidence is taken, it must be contained in a document separate from the remainder of the deposition⁹. The examiner will send the deposition, and a signed statement setting out the claim to be exempt and the ground on which it was made, to the Senior Master of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court¹⁰. On receipt of the statement the Senior Master will retain the document containing the part of the witness's evidence to which the claim relates¹¹ and send the statement and a request to determine that claim to the foreign court or tribunal, together with the other documents relating to the examination¹². If the claim is rejected by the foreign court or tribunal, the Senior Master will send to that court or tribunal the document containing that part of the witness's evidence to which the claim relates¹³, but if the claim is upheld he must send the document to the witness¹⁴. In either case he must notify the witness and the person who obtained the order for examination of the foreign court or tribunal's determination¹⁵.

1 le on the ground specified in the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(1)(b): see PARA 1061.

2 le supported by a conditional or unconditional statement contained in the request: see the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(2)(a); and PARA 1061. As to the meaning of 'request' see PARA 1055 note 4.

3 le conceded by the party who applied for the order: see the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 s 3(2)(b); and PARA 1061. As to applications for an order for the examination of a witness see PARAS 1056-1058.

4 As to persons who may conduct the examination see PARA 1059.

5 CPR 34.20(1), (2).

6 le the High Court: see CPR 34.17(a)(i) (application for the order for examination must be made to the High Court); and PARA 1056.

7 CPR 34.20(3).

8 CPR 34.20(4).

9 CPR 34.20(5)(a).

10 CPR 34.20(5)(b)(i), (ii). As to the Senior Master see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 654.

11 CPR 34.20(6)(a).

12 CPR 34.20(6)(b). The other documents referred to in the text are the documents referred to in CPR 34.17 (see PARA 1056): see CPR 34.20(6)(b).

- 13 CPR 34.20(7)(a).
- 14 CPR 34.20(7)(b).
- 15 CPR 34.20(7)(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1063. Dealing with deposition.

1063. Dealing with deposition.

Unless the court¹ orders otherwise, the examiner² must send the deposition of the witness to the Senior Master of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court³. The Senior Master will give a certificate sealed⁴ with the seal of the Supreme Court for use out of the jurisdiction⁵ identifying the following documents:

- 176 (1) the request⁶;
- 177 (2) the order of the court for the examination⁷; and
- 178 (3) the deposition⁸.

He will send the certificate, with the documents referred to above, to the Secretary of State⁹, or, where the request was sent to the Senior Master by another person in accordance with a Civil Procedure Convention¹⁰, to that other person, for transmission to the court or tribunal requesting the examination¹¹.

1 The High Court: see CPR 34.17(a)(i) (application for the order for examination must be made to the High Court); and PARA 1056.

2 As to persons who may conduct the examination for the purposes of the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975 see PARA 1059.

3 CPR 34.19(1). As to the Senior Master see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 654.

4 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

5 As to the meaning of 'jurisdiction' see PARA 117 note 6. As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court of England and Wales is renamed the Senior Courts of England and Wales: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no day had been appointed for these purposes.

6 As to the meaning of 'request' see PARA 1055 note 4.

7 As to the orders which may be made see PARA 1058.

8 CPR 34.19(2)(a). As to the procedure where a witness has made a claim to privilege see PARA 1062.

9 The Secretary of State here concerned is the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs.

10 As to the treatment of a request sent to the Senior Master in accordance with a Civil Procedure Convention see PARA 1062.

11 CPR 34.19(2)(b).

UPDATE

1063 Dealing with deposition

TEXT AND NOTES 4-8--CPR 34.19(2)(a) amended: SI 2009/2092.

NOTE 5--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(8) EVIDENCE FOR USE IN FOREIGN PROCEEDINGS/1064. Request for evidence to be taken in England and Wales for use in regulation state.

1064. Request for evidence to be taken in England and Wales for use in regulation state.

Where a court in another regulation state¹ (the 'requesting court') issues a request for evidence to be taken from a person who is in England and Wales, an application for an order for evidence to be taken:

- 179 (1) must be made to a designated court²;
- 180 (2) must be accompanied by the form of request for the taking of evidence as a result of which the application is made and, where appropriate, a translation of the form of request³; and
- 181 (3) may be made without notice⁴.

When the designated court in England and Wales receives the request it will send the request to the Treasury Solicitor⁵ who may, with the consent of the Treasury, apply for the order⁶. The application must be accompanied by the form of request to take evidence and any accompanying evidence⁷, which may be written either in English or French⁸.

The order for the deponent to attend and be examined together with the evidence on which the order was made must be served on the deponent⁹. Arrangements for the examination to take place at a specified time and place must be made by the Treasury Solicitor and approved by the court¹⁰. The court must send details of the arrangements for the examination to such of the parties and, if any, their representatives, or the representatives of the foreign court, who have indicated¹¹, that they wish to be present at the examination¹².

The procedure for the examination is similar to that for an order for the examination of a witness made under the Evidence (Proceedings in Other Jurisdictions) Act 1975¹³. The examiner must send the deposition to the court for transmission to the requesting court and a copy of the deposition to the person who obtained the order for evidence to be taken¹⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'regulation state' see CPR 34.16(2); and PARA 1002 note 1.

2 CPR 34.24(1), (2)(a). As to the meaning of 'designated court' see PARA 1002 note 2. Each regulation state must nominate a central body to be responsible for supplying information to courts, seeking solutions to any difficulties and forwarding, in exceptional cases, at the request of a requesting court, a request to the competent court: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 9.1. The United Kingdom has nominated the Senior Master, Queen's Bench Division, to be the Central Body for England and Wales, responsible for taking decisions on requests pursuant to EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1) art 17: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A paras 9.2, 9.3.

3 CPR 34.24(2)(b).

4 CPR 34.24(2)(c).

5 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.1.

6 I.e the order under CPR 34.24: Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.2.

7 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.3.

8 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.4. Where the form of request and any accompanying documents are received in French they will be translated into English by the Treasury Solicitor: para 11.4.

9 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.5.

10 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.6.

11 le in accordance with EC Council Regulation 1206/2001 (OJ L174, 27.6.2001, p 1).

12 Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.7.

13 le CPR 34.18(1), (2) (see PARAS 1059-1060) and Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A paras 4.3-4.12 apply: CPR 34.24(3); Practice Direction--Depositions and Court Attendance by Witnesses PD 34A para 11.8.

14 CPR 34.24(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/A. FACTS IN ISSUE/1065. Facts in issue.

(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF

(i) Facts which may be Proved

A. FACTS IN ISSUE

1065. Facts in issue.

The facts in issue are those facts which it is necessary to prove or disprove in order to establish or to refute a case. What these are will normally be clear from the statements of case¹, and are a matter for the judge to determine if the trial is with judge and jury². Facts in issue must normally be proved by evidence³. The distinction between proving the essential facts and drawing inferences or conclusions from those facts must be remembered⁴. A witness may speak as to the former, but not in general as to the latter⁵, since that is the province of the court⁶.

In practice, many matters which are matters of opinion or conclusion, such as speed and identity, are given in evidence⁷, fact and opinion being so closely bound up as to be substantially inseparable. Equally, a witness can give evidence of his feelings and condition⁸, although he may not testify directly as to the state of mind of another person, but should only state facts from which it may be inferred⁹; such facts may include the usual expression of bodily or mental feelings¹⁰. A patient's answers to inquiries are admissible to prove his state of health provided they are limited to symptoms¹¹, and what a doctor told his patient as to the patient's state of health has been held admissible¹². Where it is relevant to prove the terms on which people have lived, their correspondence with each other and with third parties is admissible¹³. It should be noted that, since the abolition of the rule against hearsay¹⁴, many of these limitations no longer have much practical significance.

1 As to the meaning of 'statement of case' see PARA 584. As to statements of case and the matters relied on which must be set out in them specifically see PARA 584 et seq. Subject to certain exceptions, a defendant who fails to deal with an allegation in his statement of case is taken to admit it: see CPR 16.5(5); and PARA 599. Statements of case must be verified by a statement of truth: see PARA 613. As to trial with no statement of case see PARA 796. As to the parties' obligation to put all relevant issues before the court see PARA 1676 note 5.

2 See PARA 795 et seq. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

3 Sometimes they may be admitted (see PARAS 776-778), or a court may take judicial notice of a fact in issue. As to judicial notice see PARA 779 et seq; and see Commonwealth Shipping Representative v P & O Branch Service[1923] AC 191, HL. A judge has no right to nonsuit a claimant without his consent without hearing the evidence tendered by him: Fletcher v London and North Western Ry Co[1892] 1 QB 122, CA; Cross v Rix(1912) 77 JP 84; Allen v Francis[1914] 3 KB 1065, CA. If, however, it appears to the court that a statement of case discloses no reasonable grounds for bringing or defending a case, the statement of case may be struck out before trial: see PARA 520. If a claimant calls no evidence, the defendant is entitled to the verdict: Fox v Star Newspaper Co Ltd[1900] AC 19, HL. If the defendant admits all the facts pleaded, the claimant will not be allowed to call evidence, save on special grounds: The Hardwick (1884) 9 PD 32; The Rothbury (1893) 10 TLR 60. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

4 See Hollington v F Hewthorne & Co Ltd[1943] KB 587, [1943] 2 All ER 35, CA.

5 In many cases, no inference on the part of a witness may be involved, as in a claim for slander where the fact in issue may be simply whether or not words were spoken: see eg Clarke v Main(1904) Times, 24 March. A witness may give evidence of opinion in order to convey relevant facts personally perceived: Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(2); and see the text to note 7.

6 Bonfield v Smith (1844) 12 M & W 405; Rigg v Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire Rly Co (1866) 14 WR 834; Seed v Higgins (1860) 8 HL Cas 550; Grove v Buluwayo Estate and Trust Co (1898) Times, 30 March, CA. Thus, the views of those engaged in trade on the reasonableness of a contract in restraint of trade are inadmissible: Haynes v Doman [1899] 2 Ch 13, CA; North Western Salt Co Ltd v Electrolytic Alkali Co Ltd [1914] AC 461, HL; Mason v Provident Clothing Co Ltd [1913] AC 724, HL.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 3(2); and PARA 831.

8 Angus v Clifford [1891] 2 Ch 449, CA; Davies v Fortior Ltd [1952] 1 All ER 1359n.

9 See Philippi v IRC [1971] 3 All ER 61, [1971] 1 WLR 1272, CA. Evidence of what is said is always admissible to show a person's state of mind.

10 See note 8.

11 Nothing in the nature of a narrative as to causation is admissible: see Gardner Peerage (1824) Le Marchant's Report 169-179; R v Blandy (1752) 18 State Tr 1117; Gilbey v Great Western Rly Co (1910) 102 LT 202, CA; R v Thomson [1912] 3 KB 19, CCA; Amyes v Barton [1912] 1 KB 40, CA; Sharp v Loddington Ironstone Co Ltd (1924) 132 LT 229, CA. As to complaints made after the commission of sexual offences see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1441.

12 Tickle v Tickle [1968] 2 All ER 154, [1968] 1 WLR 937, DC.

13 Trelawney v Coleman (1817) 2 Stark 191; Willis v Bernard (1832) 1 LJCP 118; Winter v Wroot (1834) 1 Mood & R 404. Independent evidence may be necessary to show that letters were written before any question of collusion could arise: see Edwards v Crock (1801) 4 Esp 39; Trelawney v Coleman (1817) 2 Stark 191; Houlston v Smyth (1825) 2 C & P 22; Wilton v Webster (1835) 7 C & P 198.

14 See PARA 808.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/A. FACTS IN ISSUE/1066. Surrounding circumstances and the res gestae.

1066. Surrounding circumstances and the res gestae.

There is a distinction to be made between the bare facts in issue, and the tissue of circumstances and facts which surround them. These surrounding circumstances have sometimes been spoken of as the res gestae¹, but it is more accurate and satisfactory to limit that expression to those items of evidence relating to contemporaneous or almost contemporaneous statements which are admitted under the doctrine of the res gestae². Facts, as opposed to statements, of which the truth is in issue, which make up the surrounding circumstances are admissible in so far as they are relevant, and witnesses are naturally expected to give their evidence with reasonable fullness of detail and circumstance³.

1 See eg Rouch v Great Western Rly (1841) 1 QB 51.

2 Ratten v R [1972] AC 378, [1971] 3 All ER 801, PC. The doctrine of the res gestae is now mainly of significance in the context of criminal evidence, as such statements would now be admissible as hearsay under the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARAS 759, 825. As to the admissibility of hearsay see PARA 806 et seq.

3 R v Stephenson (1904) 68 JP 524; A-G (Jersey) v Norton [1967] 1 AC 464.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(A) In general/1067. Classification of relevant facts.

B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE

(A) IN GENERAL

1067. Classification of relevant facts.

Facts which may be relevant in the course of a judicial inquiry may conveniently be considered under five principal headings: (1) facts probative of a fact in issue¹; (2) facts showing identity or connection of parties²; (3) facts showing states of mind³; (4) similar facts⁴; and (5) character⁵.

1 See PARAS 1068-1075.

2 See PARAS 1076-1077.

3 See PARAS 1078-1081.

4 See PARA 1082.

5 See PARA 1083.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1068. Facts logically probative.

(B) FACTS PROBATIVE OF A FACT IN ISSUE

1068. Facts logically probative.

Facts which have a natural and logical tendency to prove or disprove a fact in issue, or which experience ordinarily shows to have that effect, are in general admissible¹. Recourse may be had to circumstantial evidence, as well as direct evidence, of facts in issue².

Subsisting convictions by United Kingdom courts for offences are admissible in civil proceedings to prove, where relevant, that a person committed the offence for which he has been convicted³. Similarly, findings of adultery and paternity are admissible to prove the facts to which the findings relate⁴.

Statements made on previous occasions are frequently relevant, and are admissible when falling within the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995⁵.

1 Metropolitan Asylum District Managers v Hill (Appeal No 1) (1882) 47 LT 29 at 35, HL, per Lord Watson; Hampson v Powell [1970] 1 All ER 929, DC. Thus, in paternity cases, the fact that in appearance the child resembles the putative parent is both relevant and admissible (C v C and C [1972] 3 All ER 577, [1972] 1 WLR 1335; Bagot v Bagot (1878) 1 LR 1r 308; Burnaby v Baillie (1889) 42 ChD 282; see also Slingsby v A-G (1916) 33 TLR 120, HL), but such evidence should be given little weight (Russell v Russell and Mayer (1923) 129 LT 151 (revsd on other grounds [1924] AC 687, HL); and see C v C and C [1972] 3 All ER 577, [1972] 1 WLR 1335) particularly since evidence of blood tests or DNA tests is likely to be available (see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 113).

2 See eg Joy v Phillips, Mills & Co Ltd [1916] 1 KB 849, CA (indirect evidence of cause of death); and for examples of inferences to be drawn from circumstantial evidence see PARAS 1069-1071.

3 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 11; and PARA 1208. In defamation claims, a conviction for a criminal offence is conclusive evidence that the claimant who stands convicted of the offence committed that offence: see s 13; and PARA 1209.

4 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 12; and PARA 1211.

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-7; and PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1069. Continuance of life and other facts.

1069. Continuance of life and other facts.

In many cases the existence of a fact in issue may be shown by proving its previous existence at a reasonably proximate date, there being a probability that certain conditions or relations continue. This was once regarded as a presumption of law¹, but the better opinion is that it is merely a probability, or presumption of fact, the effect of which will vary with the particular circumstances². The most important application of this principle arises in the case of human life³. There is no presumption of law in favour of the continuance of life, but an inference of fact may legitimately be drawn that a person alive and in health at a certain time was alive a short time⁴, or even several years⁵, later. Similar inferences have also been drawn in the case of sanity⁶, insanity⁷, religious opinions⁸, partnership⁹, and the tenure of land¹⁰ or office¹¹. So, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, a debt once proved to exist is presumed to remain unpaid¹². Where adultery has been proved, its continuance will be presumed while the parties live under the same roof¹³; but if the continuance of a condition is unlawful, it will not in general be presumed¹⁴.

The presumption of continuance may operate retrospectively¹⁵. Thus, the fact that a ship became unseaworthy, without visible cause, shortly after sailing is evidence that she was unseaworthy at the time of sailing¹⁶.

1 As to presumptions of law see PARA 1097 et seq.

2 Eg the fact that defendant was driving a car when stopped is some evidence that he had been driving it at a recent stage of the same journey: see Beresford v St Albans Justices (1905) 22 TLR 1.

3 As to presumptions of life and death see PARA 1100.

4 R v Lumley (1869) LR 1 CCR 196; Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Connor (1892) 29 LR Ir 261; Re Aldersey, Gibson v Hall [1905] 2 Ch 181; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721.

5 R v Willshire (1881) 6 QBD 366, CCR (eleven years); R v Jones (1883) 15 Cox CC 284, CCR (17 years).

6 Dyce Sombre v Troup and Solaroli (1856) Dea & Sw 22 (on appeal sub nom Prinser and East India Co v Dyce Sombre (1856) 10 Moo PCC 232); Sutton v Sadler (1857) 26 LJCP 284.

7 Smith v Tebbitt (1867) LR 1 P & D 398. As to proof of the mental state of the accused see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 33; CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1264-1265.

8 A-G v Bradlaugh (1885) 14 QBD 667, CA; and see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW.

9 Clark v Alexander (1844) 8 Scott NR 147; Brown v Wren Bros [1895] 1 QB 390.

10 Pickett v Packham (1868) 4 Ch App 190. See also PARA 1071.

11 R v Budd (1805) 5 Esp 230; Doe d Hopley v Young (1845) 8 QB 63; and see PARA 1072.

12 Jackson v Irvin (1809) 2 Camp 48; but cf Douglass v Lloyds Bank Ltd (1929) 34 Com Cas 263, where Roche J presumed payment of a very old bank deposit account.

13 Turton v Turton (1830) 3 Hag Ecc 338.

14 Price v Worwood (1859) 4 H & N 512.

15 Doe d Hopley v Young (1845) 8 QB 63.

16 Pickup v Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Co Ltd (1878) 3 QBD 594, CA; Ajum Goolam Hossen & Co v Union Marine Insurance Co, Hajee Cassim Joosub v Ajum Goolam Hossen & Co [1901] AC 362, PC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1070. Course of business.

1070. Course of business.

The doing of an act may sometimes be inferred from the existence of a general course of business according to which it would ordinarily be done, there being a probability that the general practice will be followed in the particular case. The most common illustration under this heading arises in the case of letters which, if proved to have been addressed properly and posted, are presumed to have been received in due course¹. This presumption applies when a modern statute authorises or requires the service of any document by post, unless the contrary intention appears². A similar inference has been drawn where the question was whether a licence to export goods had been obtained, and proof was given that the goods had been entered at the Custom House for exportation; a licence was presumed from the fact that the course of office did not permit exportation without one³.

The principle, however, is not confined to public offices, but applies also to private concerns. Thus, where it was necessary to prove that an employer had paid certain wages to his employees, evidence was received that it was the employer's practice to pay all his employees regularly every Saturday, that the employee in question had been seen with the others waiting to be paid, and that he had not afterwards been heard to complain⁴.

The inference of the trustworthiness and reliability of business routine is presumably the justification⁵ for the admissibility of statements contained in the records of a business or public authority without further proof⁶.

1 Kufh v Weston (1799) 3 Esp 54; Warren v Warren (1834) 1 Cr M & R 250; Dunlop v Higgins (1848) 1 HL Cas 381; Household Fire and Carriage Accident Insurance Co Ltd v Grant (1879) 4 ExD 216, CA; R v Rice [1963] 1 QB 857, [1963] 1 All ER 832, CCA (airline ticket likely to have been used by person named on it). As to proof of the posting and delivery of letters see PARAS 945-946; as to when knowledge of the contents of letters will be inferred see PARA 1079 the text and note 3; and as to faxes and emails see PARA 947.

2 See the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7, Sch 2 para 3; and PARA 946.

3 Van Omeron v Dowick (1809) 2 Camp 42. As to the application of the maxim omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta, as in this case, see PARA 1103.

4 Lucas v Novofilieski (1795) 1 Esp 296. As to contemporaneous statements see PARA 1066.

5 See eg Morris v Kanssen [1946] AC 459, [1946] 1 All ER 586, HL.

6 Ie under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 9: see PARA 817.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1071. Acts of ownership.

1071. Acts of ownership.

As a general rule, title to property may be shown by the exercise of acts of ownership in connection with it¹. Thus, possession is not only prima facie evidence of ownership² but is also evidence of the highest title to the property in question³; as against mere wrongdoers, in cases of trespass to real property, it has even been said to be conclusive⁴. Moreover, the presumption from the possession of land will in general apply not only to the surface but also to the minerals underneath⁵, although an exception to this exists in mining districts where the two are frequently, or, where the mineral concerned is coal, usually⁶, held in different rights, and even in other cases the presumption may always be rebutted by proof of separate enjoyment⁷.

In addition to possession, other indicia of title are also admissible as evidence of ownership, for example receipt of the rents and profits of the property, and the discharge of its burdens and repairs⁸. On the same principle granting leases⁹, planting and felling timber¹⁰, cutting grass, and grazing cattle or turning off those of strangers¹¹ have been held evidence of a right to the soil; perambulations by the lord have been held evidence of the boundaries of a manor¹²; and user has been held evidence of title to an easement, the character of the user determining the extent of the easement¹³. Ancient documents produced from proper custody may themselves be evidence of acts of ownership if they purport to show the exercise of ownership¹⁴, but proof of modern enjoyment under them adds weight to such documentary evidence¹⁵.

In all these cases acts of ownership are receivable not as admissions, since they operate in favour of the party exercising them, but as evidence of possession, and thus as proof of title¹⁶.

1 Barnes v Mawson (1813) 1 M & S 77. The acts of ownership in connection with land must be exercised on land which forms part of the parcel of land in dispute; except where the question is whether the land belongs to the lord of the manor or to the owner of the adjoining land, evidence of acts done in connection with similar pieces of land is admissible, provided they lie within the same manor: *Leeke v Portsmouth Corp*n (1912) 107 LT 260; see BOUNDARIES. Acts of ownership on one part of the land may be evidence of title to the whole or of other parts: see Jones v Williams (1837) 2 M & W 326; Lord Advocate v Lord Blantyre (1879) 4 App Cas 770, HL; Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641, HL; Lord Advocate v Young, North British Rly Co v Young (1887) 12 App Cas 544, HL; Duke of Beaufort v John Aird & Co (1904) 20 TLR 602; Clark v Elphinstone (1880) 6 App Cas 164, PC; Coverdale v Charlton (1878) 4 QBD 104, CA; Stanley v White (1811) 14 East 332; Taylor v Parry (1840) 1 Man & G 604; Wild v Holt (1842) 9 M & W 672.

2 Webb v Fox (1797) 7 Term Rep 391. The property may be either real property (Clayton v Corby (1842) 2 QB 813; Asher v Whitlock (1865) LR 1 QB 1; Lord St Leonards v Ashburner (1870) 21 LT 595), or personalty (Mason v Lickbarrow (1790) 1 Hy Bl 357 (on appeal sub nom Lickbarrow v Mason (1793) 4 Bro Parl Cas 57, HL); Jeffries v Great Western Rly Co (1856) 5 E & B 802; Vance v Frost (1894) 58 JP 398, DC; The Winkfield [1902] P 42, CA; Glenwood Lumber Co Ltd v Phillips [1904] AC 405, PC; Eastern Construction Co Ltd v National Trust Co Ltd and Schmidt [1914] AC 197, PC; The Tubantia [1924] P 78; Tingle Jacobs & Co v Kennedy [1964] 1 All ER 888n, [1964] 1 WLR 638n). Where possession is doubtful, as in the case of property in a house jointly occupied by a man and his wife, the actual possession is determined by which of them has the right to possess: Ramsay v Margrett [1894] 2 QB 18, CA; cf R v Murray [1906] 2 KB 385.

3 Jayne v Price (1814) 5 Taunt 326; Doe d Daniel v Coulthred (1837) 7 Ad & El 235; Doe d Graham v Penfold (1838) 8 C & P 536; Daintry v Brocklehurst (1848) 3 Exch 207; Metters v Brown (1863) 1 H & C 686. For a discussion of the weight of acts of possession as evidence see Lord Advocate v Lord Blantyre (1879) 4 App Cas 770 at 791-792, HL, per Lord Blackburn.

4 Elliott v Kemp (1840) 10 LJ Ex 321; Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641, HL; Glenwood Lumber Co Ltd v Phillips [1904] AC 405, PC; Foster v Warblington UDC [1906] 1 KB 648, CA. As to trespass to air space above a person's land by aircraft see AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARAS 653, 657, 658.

5 Rowbotham v Wilson (1860) 8 HL Cas 348; and see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 20.

6 See MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 22 et seq.

7 Rowe v Grenfel (1824) Ry & M 396; Rowe v Brenton (1828) 8 B & C 737; and see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 21.

8 Ferrand v Milligan (1845) 7 QB 730. Declarations accompanying acts of ownership may also be proved as indicating the nature of the acts: Bennison v Cartwright (1864) 5 B & S 1. Notice to a purchaser that rents are paid by tenants to some person whose receipt is inconsistent with the vendor's title is notice of that person's rights: Hunt v Luck [1902] 1 Ch 428, CA. See also Kirby v Cowderoy [1912] AC 599, PC.

9 Doe d Earl of Egremont v Pulman (1842) 3 QB 622, where counterparts signed by the lessees were received; Governors of Magdalen Hospital v Knotts (1878) 8 ChD 709, CA; Haigh v West [1893] 2 QB 19, CA.

10 Lord St Leonards v Ashburner (1870) 21 LT 595; Doe d Stansbury v Arkwright (1833) 5 C & P 575.

11 Countess Belmore v Kent County Council [1901] 1 Ch 873.

12 Woolway v Rowe (1834) 1 Ad & El 114; and see Leeke v Portsmouth Corpn (1912) 107 LT 260. See also BOUNDARIES; and as to rights of perambulation see CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 640. As to boundaries fixed by legal presumptions see BOUNDARIES.

13 Stepney Corpn v Gingell, Son and Foskett Ltd [1909] AC 245, HL; Cowling v Higginson (1838) 4 M & W 245; Blackett v Lowes (1814) 2 M & S 494; and see EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE.

14 See PARA 875.

15 Fort v Clarke (1826) 1 Russ 601.

16 Jones v Williams (1837) 2 M & W 326.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1072. Acting in a public or private capacity.

1072. Acting in a public or private capacity.

On the one hand, acting in a public capacity is evidence of title so to act, and acting in a public office is evidence of due appointment in accordance with the common law maxim that everything has been done according to due form¹. On the other hand, the fact that a person has acted in a private capacity is generally, although not always, excluded as evidence of title, since the same safeguards do not exist as in the case of public functionaries. Accordingly evidence of a person having acted in a particular private capacity² has been rejected to prove the authority of a solicitor to act for his client³ and that of a collector of tithes for a private owner⁴ although it has been allowed in order to establish the relations of master and apprentice, landlord and tenant, and co-partners⁵. Cohabitation following a marriage ceremony is prima facie evidence of a valid marriage⁶. A document purporting to contain the written consent of a person to act as trustee and to bear his signature verified by some other person is evidence of such consent⁷.

1 le omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta: see PARA 1103.

2 As to the evidential value of the ownership of motor vehicles in questions of agency and vicarious liability see Barnard v Sully (1931) 47 TLR 557, DC; Rambarran v Gurrucharraan [1970] 1 All ER 749, [1970] 1 WLR 556, PC; Nottingham v Aldridge, Prudential Assurance Co Ltd, Third Party [1971] 2 QB 739, [1971] 2 All ER 751; Morgans v Launchbury [1973] AC 127, [1972] 2 All ER 606, HL; Carberry v Davies [1968] 2 All ER 817, [1968] 1 WLR 1103, CA; Klein v Caluori [1971] 2 All ER 701, [1971] 1 WLR 619.

3 Bright v Legerton (1860) 29 Beav 60; affd (1861) 2 De GF & J 606.

4 Short v Lee (1821) 2 Jac & W 464.

5 R v Fordingbridge Inhabitants (1858) EB & E 678.

6 See PARA 1102.

7 CPR 33.8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1073. Treatment of state of things as existing.

1073. Treatment of state of things as existing.

The fact that a person has treated a state of things as existing is not usually receivable as evidence of its existence, unless it can be regarded as an admission by conduct made by a party to the proceedings, in which case it will operate as evidence against, but not for, him¹. On a question as to the testator's mental health, the fact that his doctor permitted him to make a will, or that he was elected to a high and responsible office in his absence, would be rejected; as also, on a question of seaworthiness, the fact that the captain showed his faith in the vessel by embarking in it with his family².

In some cases, however, this rule is relaxed, and acts of treatment by a party, even in his own favour, are received, as well as those done by strangers to the proceedings. Thus, acts of ownership by a party are admissible for him to establish title to property³; and, on questions of pedigree, family conduct and treatment are receivable, even from non-parties, to show relationship⁴. So a marriage may be inferred, not only from the cohabitation of the parties, but also from the fact that they were treated as married by their friends and neighbours⁵.

1 Pilot v Craze (1888) 52 JP 311; Wright v Doe d Tatham (1837) 7 Ad & El 313 (affd (1838) 4 Bing NC 489, HL); Re Marquis of Anglesey, Willmot v Gardner [1901] 2 Ch 548, CA; Way v Penrikyber Navigation Colliery Co Ltd [1940] 1 KB 517, [1940] 1 All ER 164, CA. As to admissions generally see PARAS 776-778, 819; and as to admissions by conduct see PARA 1074.

2 Wright v Doe d Tatham (1837) 7 Ad & El 313. That is because such facts are merely hearsay evidence of the doctor, the appointer and the captain.

3 See PARA 1071.

4 Greaves v Greenwood (1877) 2 ExD 289, CA. As to pedigree generally see PARA 830.

5 See PARA 830. Such evidence is insufficient when strict proof of marriage is required, eg by the prosecution in case of bigamy: R v Simpson (1883) 15 Cox CC 323; R v Althausen (1893) 17 Cox CC 630; see also McCarthy v Hastings [1933] NI 100, CA; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 832.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1074. Conduct as an admission.

1074. Conduct as an admission.

A party's admissions by conduct¹ of any material fact may be proved against him, and evidence to explain or disprove such admissions is receivable in his favour. Thus, it has been held that payment of tithe by A to B would be an admission by conduct on the part of A that he owed B the tithe². In a claim by C and her husband for injuries sustained in a railway accident, evidence that C's husband and her solicitor's clerk had conspired to suborn false witnesses at the trial to support their case may be an admission by conduct that the claim was not genuine³; and in such a case the fact that C had attributed her injuries to a fall, and not to the accident, would be receivable under the same head; while, in rebuttal, C might show that she had had no such fall⁴. Again, the conduct of a parent may rebut the common law presumption of legitimacy of his or her child⁵.

1 Conduct may include remaining silent: see Bessela v Stern (1877) 2 CPD 265, CA; Wiedemann v Walpole [1891] 2 QB 534, CA. But silence should not be regarded as evidence of an admission unless there are circumstances which render it more reasonably probable that a person would answer the charge made against him than that he would not: see Wiedemann v Walpole [1891] 2 QB 534, CA. As to the adverse inferences which may be drawn in criminal cases from the silence of the accused see the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 ss 34-38; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1552-1555.

2 See James v Biou, Owen v Flack (1826) 2 Sim & St 600.

3 Moriarty v London, Chatham and Dover Rly Co (1870) LR 5 QB 314; R v Watt (1905) 70 JP 29.

4 Melhuish v Collier (1850) 15 QB 878.

5 See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 94-96.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(B) Facts Probative of a Fact in Issue/1075. Complaints.

1075. Complaints.

On charges of sexual offences, the terms of complaints made by the victims are, subject to certain conditions, admissible¹. In civil cases, the terms of such complaints are admissible in so far as they are within the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1995².

1 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1440. Such complaints are not evidence of the facts complained of, but are only matters which may be taken into account by the jury when considering the consistency and therefore the credibility of the story: see R v Lovell (1923) 129 LT 638, CCA.

2 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 ss 1-4; and PARA 808 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(C) Facts Showing Identity/1076. Identity generally.

(C) FACTS SHOWING IDENTITY

1076. Identity generally.

Where the question of personal identity arises, without reference to the doing of any particular act, it may be proved or disproved not only by direct testimony but also by evidence of similarity or dissimilarity of personal characteristics¹, including a party's name². If A claims property on the ground that he is B, it is relevant to show that A possesses all, or any, of the known attributes or peculiarities of B³. The question of identity commonly occurs with respect to the doing of some specific act forming the subject matter of the proceedings, the point being whether A is or is not the author of that act. This act is often the signing of some contract or instrument, and in the absence of direct evidence of the identity of the alleged and the actual author, similarity of name and handwriting⁴, and sometimes also of residence and occupation, may have to be proved⁵.

¹ The reputation of a person's ancestors has been considered as evidence: Lovat Peerage(1885) 10 App Cas 763, HL.

² Hennell v Lyon (1817) 1 B & Ald 182; Simpson v Dismore (1842) 9 M & W 47; Hamber v Roberts (1849) 7 CB 861; Smith v Henderson (1842) 9 M & W 798; Keohane v Byrne[1934] NI 63, CA. There is prima facie evidence of identity if one calls at a house and a person within answers to the name asked for (Wilton v Edwards (1834) 6 C & P 677), or if a man's name appears on a door and a person within answers to the name (Collier v Nokes (1849) 2 Car & Kir 1012).

³ As to identification by comparison see PARA 1068 note 1; as to identity in pedigree cases see PARA 830; as to reputation of identity see PARA 829; as to the opinion of non-expert witnesses as to identity see PARA 831; as to the effect of birth, marriage and death certificates see PARAS 1094, 906 et seq; as to proof of identity by photographs see PARA 958; as to identity in relation to attestation see PARA 866; and as to the caution with which identification evidence may be treated see PARA 1054.

⁴ See PARA 864.

⁵ See eg Whitelocke v Musgrove (1833) 1 Cr & M 511; Jones v Jones (1841) 9 M & W 75; Greenshields v Crawford (1842) 9 M & W 314; Roden v Ryde(1843) 4 QB 626; Sayer v Glossop(1848) 2 Exch 409; Keohane v Byrne[1934] NI 63, CA. An important development of this principle occurs in criminal cases where similar fact evidence may be given to negative a plea of mistaken identity: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE. As to identification by fingerprints, bodily samples etc see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1021 et seq, vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1455.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(C) Facts Showing Identity/1077. Proof of age.

1077. Proof of age.

Age may be proved by various means, including the statement by a witness of his own age and the opinion of a witness as to the age of another person¹, but when age is in issue stricter methods of proof may be required². These are considered subsequently³.

¹ R v Cox [1898] 1 QB 179 (evidence of opinion as to ages of children under 16 admissible on charge of neglect).

² R v Rishworth Inhabitants (1842) 2 QB 476 (evidence of own age inadmissible). See also R v Day (1841) 9 C & P 722; R v Viasani (1866) 15 LT 240; R v Rogers (1914) 111 LT 1115, CCA.

³ See PARA 1095.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(D) Facts Showing States of Mind/1078. How state of mind is proved.

(D) FACTS SHOWING STATES OF MIND

1078. How state of mind is proved.

When the mental condition of a party is in question, it may be proved either directly by the party himself, or indirectly by other witnesses speaking to the outward expression of the condition by the party at the time¹. In addition to these sources², however, that supplied by circumstantial evidence has frequently to be invoked³.

1 Thus a letter written by the donee of a power of appointment is admissible to show what the donee's intentions at the time of exercise of the power were: Re Wright, Hegan v Bloor[1920] 1 Ch 108, and see PARA 1065. See also Angus v Clifford[1891] 2 Ch 449, CA; Davies v Fortior Ltd[1952] 1 All ER 1359n; Lloyd v Powell Duffryn Steam Coal Co Ltd[1914] AC 733, HL; Re Wright, Hegan v Bloor[1920] 1 Ch 108; and see R v Gunnell (1886) 16 Cox CC 154. As to questions of sanity see Wright v Doe d Tatham (1838) 4 Bing NC 489; R v Davies[1962] 3 All ER 97, [1962] 1 WLR 1111.

2 As to quasi-expert evidence of a witness's beliefs see Process Church of the Final Judgment v Rupert Hart-Davis Ltd(1975) Times, 29 January, CA.

3 In a claim for malicious prosecution, the question being whether the defendant acted in good faith in giving the plaintiff (now known as the 'claimant': see PARA 18) into custody, the fact that he had obtained counsel's opinion justifying such a course, together with the contents of the opinion, were received in his favour, although they would not have been evidence of any facts asserted in the opinion: Ravenga v Mackintosh (1824) 2 B & C 693.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(D) Facts Showing States of Mind/1079. Proof of knowledge.

1079. Proof of knowledge.

A party's knowledge of a fact may be inferred circumstantially in a variety of cases¹. Thus, it may be shown that he had prior knowledge of the fact, in which case there will be a presumption that his knowledge continued for a more or less lengthened period². In judicial proceedings, however, knowledge is more generally shown by documentary evidence. In ordinary cases, the mere fact that opened letters were found in the possession of a party will imply his knowledge of their contents³. The execution⁴, though not the mere attestation⁵, of a written instrument will have the same effect. Access to documents sometimes affords presumptive evidence of knowledge, for example in the case of the rules of a club, or of books kept between partners or banker and customer⁶. Knowledge of the books of a company, however, will not be imputed either to a director or shareholder⁷, although it will generally be implied where there is a duty to know⁸ as distinct from a mere right to inspect⁹. Again, the notoriety of a fact in a party's calling or neighbourhood is some evidence that he knows of its existence¹⁰, while the mere existence of a rumour of the fact is none¹¹.

1 As to the knowledge of an agent being imputed or not to his principal see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 137; as to actual and constructive notice of facts affecting title to land see EQUITY; and as to liability for an animal's acts where an abnormal dangerous characteristic is known to its keeper see ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARA 748. The nature of the malady of a mentally disordered person may be proved to show that the defendant must have known of the disorder: Beavan v M'Donnell (1854) 10 Exch 184.

2 See PARA 1069.

3 Wright v Doe d Tatham (1837) 7 Ad & El 313; affd (1838) 4 Bing NC 489, HL. This inference does not arise where the sanity of the recipient is in issue: Wright v Doe d Tatham (1837) 7 Ad & El 313; and on appeal (1837) 7 Ad & El 313, HL.

4 Re Cooper, Cooper v Vesey (1882) 20 ChD 611, CA.

5 Harding v Crethorn (1793) 1 Esp 57.

6 Wiltzie v Adamson (1789) 1 Phillipps and Arnold's Law of Evidence (10th Edn) 339; Raggett v Musgrave (1827) 2 C & P 556; Alderson v Clay (1816) 1 Stark 405; Symonds v Gas Light and Coke Co (1848) 11 Beav 283; Lodge v Prichard (1853) 3 De GM & G 906. As to knowledge of the terms of special contracts limiting liability see BAILMENT; CARRIAGE AND CARRIERS. Where printed conditions are contained in a sold note, it is a question of fact whether, when the agreement of sale was entered into, the sellers took reasonable care to bring the conditions to the buyer's notice: see Roe v RA Naylor Ltd (1918) 87 LJB 958, CA; Walls v Centaur Co Ltd (1921) 126 LT 242; and SALE OF GOODS AND SUPPLY OF SERVICES vol 41 (2005 Reissue) PARA 105. As to the rule that a lessee or purchaser of land has constructive notice of that which he would have discovered by a reasonable inquiry into the title see EQUITY; LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 89; MORTGAGE; SALE OF LAND.

7 See COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 548. As to the admissibility of returns to the Registrar of Companies see R v Halpin [1975] QB 907, [1975] 2 All ER 1124, CA. As to the duty to deliver annual returns see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1421 et seq.

8 Re Wincham Shipbuilding, Boiler and Salt Co, Hallmark's Case (1878) 9 ChD 329, CA.

9 Hill v Manchester and Salford Water Works Co (1833) 5 B & Ad 866.

10 Re Matthews, ex p Powell (1875) 1 ChD 501, CA.

11 Greenslade v Dare (1855) 20 Beav 284.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(D) Facts Showing States of Mind/1080. Intention.

1080. Intention.

It is a question of substantive law whether the intention with which any particular act was done is relevant. On the one hand, the intention with which a person did an act which he had a right to do is in general irrelevant¹; and in other cases, as where a defendant is charged with obtaining credit without disclosing the fact of his bankruptcy, his intent, however innocent, is under statute wholly immaterial, any evidence on the point being consequently excluded². It is the same with a party's intent in infringing copyright³, or inflicting cruelty to animals⁴.

On the other hand, intention can in many cases be properly put in issue, and when this is done it becomes the subject of evidence, for the state of a man's mind is as much a matter of fact as the state of his digestion⁵. Thus the state of a person's mind may be proved whenever it is relevant⁶. A party's intention may be proved by his own testimony, or by proof of his declarations made out of court at the time when the intention was material⁷. It may sometimes, especially in cases concerning domicile or residence, be established circumstantially by the party's conduct, whether prior to, contemporaneous with or subsequent to the act in question⁸. When the act is unequivocal, the proof that it was done may of itself be evidence of the intention which the nature of the act conveys. In such a case the inference is that the person intended the probable consequences of his deliberate act⁹.

1 Bradford Corp'n v Pickles [1895] AC 587, HL; Allen v Flood [1898] AC 1, HL; Quinn v Leathem [1901] AC 495, HL; Fitzroy v Cave [1905] 2 KB 364, CA; Salt Union Ltd v Brunner, Mond & Co [1906] 2 KB 822. See TORT.

2 R v Dyson [1894] 2 QB 176, CCR.

3 Oxford and Cambridge Universities v Gill (1899) 43 Sol Jo 570.

4 Duncan v Pope (1899) 80 LT 120: see ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARA 819. For a statement of the cases in which mens rea is or is not required to be proved see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 8 et seq.

5 Edgington v Fitzmaurice (1885) 29 ChD 459, CA; Citizens' Bank of Louisiana v First National Bank of New Orleans (1873) LR 6 HL 352; cf R v Dent [1955] 2 QB 590, [1955] 2 All ER 806, CCA; and see MISREPRESENTATION AND FRAUD vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 705.

6 See Sheen v Bumpstead (1863) 2 H & C 193; Saxlehner v Apollinaris Co [1897] 1 Ch 893.

7 Thomas v Connell (1838) 4 M & W 267; Brodie v Brodie (1861) 4 LT 307; Sugden v Lord St Leonards (1876) 1 PD 154. As to the intention of a deceased person cf PARA 1078 note 1. As to rebuttal of the presumption of advancement see Shephard v Cartwright [1955] AC 431, [1954] 3 All ER 649, HL; and GIFTS vol 52 (2009) PARA 247; TRUSTS vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 715. See also Philippi v IRC [1971] 3 All ER 61 at 73, [1971] 1 WLR 1272 at 1277, CA, per Lord Denning MR (what a person says is not the only means of proving a person's state of mind; it is just one of the means of finding out what his intentions were).

8 Re Grove, Vaucher v Treasury Solicitor (1888) 40 ChD 216, CA. See further CONFLICT OF LAWS. It is sometimes possible to deduce the intention with which a party did an act from the document by which the act was effected (Re Fletcher, Reading v Fletcher [1917] 1 Ch 339, CA), or from a document evidencing an intention to do the act at some future time (Re Wright, Hegan v Bloor [1920] 1 Ch 108). As to evidence of similar facts to prove states of mind see PARA 1082.

9 See PARA 1099.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(D) Facts Showing States of Mind/1081. Abnormal states of mind.

1081. Abnormal states of mind.

An abnormal state of mind, such as insanity, may itself be a fact in issue¹, or it may be relevant to an issue of knowledge or intention. A person's personality and mental make-up have a bearing upon his conduct². The admissibility of evidence of abnormality will then depend either on the substantive law or on the general principle of relevance. Insanity, for example, is a defence to a prosecution for a criminal offence³, but it may be irrelevant as a defence to a claim for damages for assault⁴. When relevant, insanity is usually the subject of expert evidence⁵, although other witnesses may depose to the symptoms⁶. Again, the state of mind resulting from intoxicants or drugs may be an element in a criminal offence⁷ or may affect civil capacity, for example the capacity to give real consent to a marriage⁸.

1 Eg as affecting testamentary capacity or capacity to marry: see Re Park, Park v Park [1954] P 112, [1953] 2 All ER 1411, CA; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 42; MENTAL HEALTH; WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 324. As to the presumption of sanity see PARA 1106 text and note 11.

2 See R v Turner [1975] QB 834, [1975] 1 All ER 70, CA (psychiatric evidence not allowed to establish provocation where matters were within experience of life of judge and jury or to prove probability of accused's veracity).

3 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 31-33.

4 Morriss v Marsden [1952] 1 All ER 925; see MENTAL HEALTH vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 611.

5 See PARA 835 et seq.

6 See R v Loake (1911) 7 Cr App Rep 71, CCA; Wright v Doe d Tatham (1838) 4 Bing NC 489; and cf R v Davies [1962] 3 All ER 97, [1962] 1 WLR 1111.

7 Eg under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4: see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 975. As to whether intoxication can be a defence to a criminal charge see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 28-30.

8 See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 43.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/(E) Similar Facts/1082. Exclusion of similar facts.

(E) SIMILAR FACTS

1082. Exclusion of similar facts.

The rule that facts similar to a fact in issue are not in general admissible to prove either the occurrence of the fact in issue or the identity of its author¹ and its exceptions are likely to be applied more flexibly in proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules apply. The general rule is based² on the ground that evidence of similar facts may be irrelevant³. In criminal cases, to which the rule is most frequently applied⁴, the judge has an additional discretion to exclude evidence of similar facts when to admit the evidence would operate unfairly against the accused⁵.

In civil proceedings it has been held that evidence that a brewer supplied good beer to other publicans during the material period was not admissible to prove that he supplied good beer to the particular publican in question⁶; that evidence that a surgeon had been negligent or skilful in performing similar operations on other patients was not admissible to prove whether or not he had performed a particular operation negligently⁷; and that in a claim against the acceptor of a bill of exchange who defended on the ground that his acceptance was a forgery by a particular person, evidence that that person had forged other bills was not admissible⁸. The principle has also been applied in a number of other situations⁹. However, valuations made in relation to similar premises or transactions have been held to be admissible as evidence of the value of land for various purposes¹⁰ and manorial and other customs and trade usages are provable by evidence of similar facts¹¹. Furthermore, evidence of similar facts may be relevant when the conduct of an animal is in issue. The actions of the same animal on other occasions may be proved¹², and even the actions of other animals of the same species¹³. The operation of physical agencies may be shown by evidence of the operation of those agencies on other occasions, for example of poisons¹⁴, explosives¹⁵, noxious discharges from works¹⁶, sparks from a railway engine¹⁷ or infection from a hospital¹⁸.

Various exceptions to the rule have been established, but the court may now generally be more flexible. In civil cases the cases established that the courts will admit evidence of similar facts if it is logically probative, provided it is not oppressive or unfair to the other side, and also that the other side has fair notice of it and is able to deal with it¹⁹. Similar fact evidence is admissible in civil proceedings if it is potentially probative of an issue in the action²⁰. When evidence of similar facts is relevant, namely when there is a nexus between the similar fact and the fact in issue, such evidence may be received to prove either the occurrence of the fact in issue or the identity of its author²¹. When a practice to do or omit an act is in issue, evidence of similar acts or omissions on other occasions by the person concerned is admissible. Thus, where a claimant contends that he has contracted a disease in consequence of the practice adopted by a barber regarding the care of his razors, evidence may be given that other customers have contracted disease²². Previous occurrences of the type complained of in the claim are frequently relevant in cases of industrial injury. Repeated acts of agency are admissible to establish agency²³, although no multiplication of acts by a special agent can be received to establish a general agency²⁴, nor is evidence of this kind allowable in proof of partnership²⁵.

Evidence of similar facts may sometimes be resorted to on questions of title to land and its value. Thus, not only are repeated acts of ownership with respect to the same property admissible in proof of title, but even acts done with respect to other places, provided the latter are connected with the relevant place by such a common character of locality as to give rise to the inference that the owner of one is likely to be the owner of the other²⁶.

Where it is relevant to prove the state of a party's mind²⁷, evidence of similar facts may be admissible. Thus such evidence has been received to prove a party's knowledge of the nature of a transaction, or his intent with respect to it²⁸. The same principle is applicable to proof of fraud or malice²⁹. To establish malice in a claim for libel, the publication by the defendant of other libels concerning the claimant, both prior and subsequent to that in issue, may be shown, together with all the circumstances attending their publication³⁰. In general, wherever it is necessary to rebut the defence of accident, mistake or other innocent condition of mind, evidence that the defendant has been concerned in a systematic course of conduct of the same kind as that in question may be given³¹.

1 See eg Brown v Eastern and Midlands Rly Co(1889) 22 QBD 391 at 393, CA.

2 The rule is not based, as is sometimes said, on the ground that evidence of similar facts may be res inter alios acta, for such evidence might be inadmissible if it were inter partes; nor is it based primarily on the inconvenience and delay which the admission of such evidence might occasion: see Hollingham v Head (1858) 4 CBNS 388 at 392 per Willes J.

3 Harris v DPP[1952] AC 694, [1952] 2 All ER 1044, HL; approving Makin v A-G for New South Wales[1894] AC 57, PC. See also Berger v Raymond Sun Ltd [1984] 1 WLR 625 (applying Makin v A-G for New South Wales[1894] AC 57, PC); R v Straffen[1952] 2 QB 911, [1952] 2 All ER 657, CCA; R v Morris(1969) 54 Cr App Rep 69, CA. The court now has a general discretionary power to control the evidence: see PARA 791.

4 As to the application of the rule in criminal cases see DPP v Boardman[1975] AC 421, sub nom Boardman v DPP (1974) 60 Cr App Rep 165, HL; DPP v P[1991] 2 AC 447, sub nom R v P[1991] 3 All ER 337, HL; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1507.

5 Harris v DPP[1952] AC 694, [1952] 2 All ER 1044, HL; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1507. It has been stated that in civil cases tried before a jury the court must be more careful about admitting evidence which is in truth merely prejudicial than is necessary where there is a trial by a judge alone who is trained to distinguish between what is probative and what is not: see Thorpe v Chief Constable of Greater Manchester Police [1989] 2 All ER 827 at 831, [1989] 1 WLR 665 at 670, CA, per Dillon LJ. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

6 Holcombe v Hewson (1810) 2 Camp 391; but cf Manchester Brewery Co Ltd v Coombs (1900) as reported in 82 LT 347; Richard Holden Ltd v Bostock & Co Ltd (1902) 50 WR 323, CA; and Bostock & Co Ltd v Nicholson & Sons Ltd[1904] 1 KB 725.

7 R v Whitehead (1848) 3 Car & Kir 202; and see Brown v Eastern and Midlands Rly Co(1889) 22 QBD 391, CA; McAllum v Reid(1869) LR 3 A & E 57n. As to the standard of professional competence to be expected of a surgeon see generally NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 23.

8 Griffits v Payne (1839) 11 Ad & El 131; Viney v Barss (1795) 1 Esp 293; Balcetti v Serani (1792) Peake 192.

9 Eg to roads (R v Brightside Bierlow Inhabitants(1849) 13 QB 933), rivers (Neill v Duke of Devonshire(1882) 8 App Cas 135, HL; cf Frost v Richardson (1910) 103 LT 22 (mill tail of mill built across navigable river not part of river); affd 103 LT 416, CA); inland lakes (Bristow v Cormican(1878) 3 App Cas 641, HL), woods, hedges (Jones v Williams (1837) 2 M & W 326) and other boundaries (see BOUNDARIES). Thus in the cases cited, acts of ownership and the exercise of rights on other land were irrelevant to the facts in issue.

10 Pointer v Norwich Assessment Committee[1922] 2 KB 471, CA; Stockbridge Mill Co Ltd v Central Land Board[1954] 2 All ER 360, [1954] 1 WLR 886, CA. Evidence of this character is, however, generally of little weight: see RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 117.

11 See CUSTOM AND USAGE.

12 See Bativala v West[1970] 1 QB 716, [1970] 1 All ER 332, CA. Evidence that an animal had a propensity to bite other animals is irrelevant to its propensity to bite human beings: Osborne v Chocquee[1896] 2 QB 109; Glanville v Sutton & Co Ltd[1928] 1 KB 571, DC.

13 Brown v Eastern and Midlands Rly Co(1889) 22 QBD 391; affd (1889) 22 QBD 393, CA; *Gordon v Mackenzie*1913 SC 109; Draper v Hodder[1972] 2 QB 556, [1972] 2 All ER 210, CA (propensities of Jack Russell terriers); and see the Animals Act 1971 s 1; and ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARAS 702, 747 et seq.

14 R v Geering (1849) 18 LJMC 215; R v Garner (1864) 3 F & F 681; R v Cotton (1873) 12 Cox CC 400; R v Flannagan and Higgins (1884) 15 Cox CC 403.

15 R v Bernard (1858) 1 F & F 240; R v McGrath and McKeivitt (1881) 14 Cox CC 598.

16 Tennant v Hamilton (1839) 7 Cl & Fin 122, HL.

17 Aldridge v Great Western Rly Co (1841) 3 Man & G 515; Piggot v Eastern Counties Rly Co (1846) 3 CB 229.

18 Metropolitan Asylum District Managers v Hill (Appeal No 1) (1882) 47 LT 29, HL. Cf A-G v Nottingham Corp[1904] 1 Ch 673.

19 Mood Music Publishing Co Ltd v De Wolfe Ltd[1976] Ch 119, [1976] 1 All ER 763, CA (dictum of Lord Denning MR at 127 and 766 applied in Berger v Raymond Sun Ltd [1984] 1 WLR 625); and see Moore v Ransome's Dock Committee (1898) 14 TLR 539, CA; EG Music v RF (Film) Distributors Ltd [1978] FSR 121; R v Crown Court at Isleworth, ex p Marland (1998) 162 JP 251 (applicability to forfeiture proceedings in drug trafficking cases). As to the admission of similar fact evidence in civil trials before a jury see note 5.

20 O'Brien v Chief Constable of South Wales Police[2005] UKHL 26, [2005] 2 AC 534, [2005] 2 All ER 931.

21 To show that the defendant had given orders for work on a house, evidence that he had given similar orders for other work on the same house may be admitted: Woodward v Buchanan(1870) LR 5 QB 285. And see Mood Music Publishing Co Ltd v De Wolfe Ltd[1976] Ch 119, [1976] 1 All ER 763, CA (evidence of other breaches admitted in claim for breach of copyright).

22 Hales v Kerr[1908] 2 KB 601; Joy v Phillips, Mills & Co Ltd[1916] 1 KB 849, CA; and see Martin v Osborne (1936) 55 CLR 367.

23 Blake v Albion Life Assurance Society (1878) 4 CPD 94.

24 Barrett v Irvine[1907] 2 IR 462, CA; and see AGENCY vol 1 (2008) PARA 11.

25 Kennedy v Dodson[1895] 1 Ch 334, CA.

26 Jones v Williams (1837) 2 M & W 326; Lord Advocate v Lord Blantyre(1879) 4 App Cas 770, HL; *Leeke v Portsmouth Corp*n (1912) 107 LT 260.

27 As to other evidence of states of mind see PARAS 1065, 1078; and R v Mackie(1973) 57 Cr App Rep 453, CA (evidence of previous incidents admitted to prove victim's state of mind).

28 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1507.

29 Blake v Albion Life Assurance Society (1878) 4 CPD 94; Barnes v Merritt & Co (1899) 15 TLR 419, CA. As to the admission of evidence of similar facts to prove fraud or malice in criminal cases see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1507.

30 Barrett v Long (1851) 3 HL Cas 395; Pearson v Lemaitre (1843) 5 Man & G 700.

31 See eg R v Church[1966] 1 QB 59, [1965] 2 All ER 72, CCA; R v Lipman[1970] 1 QB 152, [1969] 3 All ER 410, CA; R v Mackie(1973) 57 Cr App Rep 453, CA; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1507.

UPDATE

1082 Exclusion of similar facts

NOTES 29-31--See Desmond v Bower[2009] EWCA Civ 667, [2010] EMLR 109, [2009] All ER (D) 276 (Jul) (alleged libel by newspaper owner with personal vendetta against victim; summons to hear evidence from victim of 'strikingly similar' separate incident granted).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/B. FACTS RELEVANT TO THE ISSUE/ (F) Reputation/1083. Rule of exclusion.

(F) REPUTATION

1083. Rule of exclusion.

When a party's character, which in this context means his reputation¹, is not directly in issue in the proceedings, but evidence of it is tendered in proof of some other fact, it is generally excluded². This rule is observed, it is said, not because evidence of character is necessarily irrelevant, but for reasons of policy and fairness, since no litigant can be prepared to protect himself against imputations made without previous notice, which may range over the whole of his career³. The character of a witness, however, may be attacked for the purpose of impeaching his credit⁴, and in this context character is not confined to reputation.

It is not in general permissible in a criminal case for the prosecution to adduce evidence that the accused either bears a bad general reputation in the community, or has a natural disposition to commit crimes of the class charged⁵. The accused, nevertheless, is permitted to adduce or give evidence of his good reputation⁶, and if he thus puts his character in issue, the prosecution may attack it⁷.

In certain circumstances in civil cases, evidence of reputation⁸ is admissible for the purpose of establishing a person's good or bad character⁹. The admission of evidence of reputation¹⁰ is now largely confined to defamation claims, where what is relevant will depend upon the terms of the statements of case¹¹. Where damages are at large¹², the bad character¹³ of the claimant in such claims may be proved in chief in mitigation of damages, irrespective of the right to cross-examine¹⁴. In general, in civil cases, evidence as to character and reputation is not admissible to bolster a party's case¹⁵, although it may certainly be relevant in cross-examination, for example as to credibility¹⁶.

1 Scott v Sampson(1882) 8 QBD 491, DC; Wood v Cox (1888) 4 TLR 550, 652, 655 (affd (1889) 5 TLR 272, CA); and cf Wood v Earl of Durham(1889) 21 QBD 501, DC.

2 Narracott v Narracott and Hesketh (1864) 33 LJP & A 61. In general, evidence cannot be led in chief to bolster up the credibility of witnesses: see R v Turner[1975] QB 834, [1975] 1 All ER 70, CA; cf Lowery v R[1974] AC 85, [1973] 3 All ER 662, PC. As to the admissibility of evidence of reputation under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 see PARA 827 et seq.

3 R v Rowton (1865) 34 LJMC 57, but see the dissenting judgments of Erle CJ and Willes J.

4 See PARA 1047 et seq; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1433.

5 R v Butterwasser[1948] 1 KB 4, [1947] 2 All ER 415, CCA; R v Rowton (1865) 34 LJMC 57; R v Cole (1810) Judge's Note printed in [1946] KB 544; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1505.

6 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1499.

7 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1515 et seq.

8 Reputation must be treated as a fact, and not as a statement or multiplicity of statements dealing with the matter reputed: Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3). Evidence admissible under s 7(3) is not subject to the statutory safeguards contained in ss 2-4 (see PARAS 811-815): see s 1(4).

9 See the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 7(3)(a); and see also PARA 827.

10 For the distinction between reputation and specific acts see Plato Films v Speide[1961] AC 1090, [1961] 1 All ER 876, HL.

11 Maisel v Financial Times Ltd (1915) 84 LJKB 2145, HL; see also Scott v Sampson(1882) 8 QBD 491, DC; and LIBEL AND SLANDER. As to statements of case see generally PARA 584 et seq. In defamation claims, statements of case should be confined to the information necessary to inform the other party of the nature of the case he has to meet. Such information should be set out concisely and in a manner proportionate to the subject matter of the claim: Practice Direction--Defamation Claims PD 53 para 2.1. A claimant must give full details of the facts and matters on which he relies in support of his claim for damages: para 2.10(1).

12 See LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 248.

13 To be admissible, previous convictions must be in the relevant sector of the claimant's life and have taken place within a relevant period such as to affect his current reputation: Goody v Odhams Press Ltd[1967] 1 QB 333, [1966] 3 All ER 369, CA; and see LIBEL AND SLANDER vol 28 (Reissue) PARA 261.

14 In claims for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment (see TORT) evidence is probably not admissible at all to prove the claimant's bad character: Newsam v Carr (1817) 2 Stark 69; Cornwall v Richardson (1825) Ry & M 305; Downing v Butcher (1841) 2 Mood & R 374; cf Rodriguez v Tadmire (1799) 2 Esp 720.

15 A-G v Bowman (1791) 2 Bos & P 532n; R v Turner[1975] QB 834, [1975] 1 All ER 70, CA; and see note 2.

16 As to the credibility of witnesses see PARA 1047 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(i) Facts which may be Proved/C. COLLATERAL OR SUBORDINATE FACTS/1084. In general.

C. COLLATERAL OR SUBORDINATE FACTS

1084. In general.

There are three kinds of collateral or subordinate facts: (1) facts affecting the competence of a witness¹; (2) facts affecting the credibility of a witness²; and (3) facts which must be proved as a condition precedent to the admissibility of certain items of evidence³.

A collateral fact may also be a fact in issue⁴ if one party is seeking to establish it and its existence is denied by his opponent.

1 Eg the fact that a witness is not competent to testify because of mental illness. As to the competence of witnesses see PARA 966 et seq. Under the Civil Evidence Act 1995, hearsay evidence is not admissible if it consists of or is proved by means of a statement made by a person who was not competent as a witness: see s 5(1); and PARA 809.

2 Eg the fact that an eyewitness suffers from a visual impairment. As to the credibility of witnesses see PARA 1047 et seq.

3 Eg the common law rule that the loss of an original document must be proved before a copy can be admitted as evidence of its contents: see PARA 761. Under the Civil Evidence Act 1995, a statement contained in a document may now be proved by the production of an authenticated copy, regardless of whether or not the original is in existence: see s 8; and PARA 816.

4 As to the facts in issue see PARAS 1065-1066. In cases where there is a jury trial, the ascertainment of the issues is a function of the judge: see PARA 796. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1085. Proof of foreign law; in general.

(ii) Special Modes of Proof

A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS

1085. Proof of foreign law; in general.

In general, courts in England and Wales may not take judicial notice¹ of foreign law², which has to be determined when necessary as a question of fact³. The burden of proof rests upon the party who asserts that foreign law differs from English law⁴.

A decision on a question of foreign law is not binding, for such a question is a question of fact to be decided in each case on the actual evidence in that case⁵.

Provision is made for the proof of foreign and colonial acts of state, judgments and other legal documents under the Evidence Act 1851⁶. In determining a question of foreign law the court will generally hear expert evidence in accordance with the Civil Evidence Act 1972⁷ but may adopt the alternative statutory procedure under the British Law Ascertainment Act 1859⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'judicial notice' see PARA 779.

2 Brenan and Galen's Case(1847) 10 QB 492. There are examples to the contrary: see eg Saxby v Fulton[1909] 2 KB 208, CA, where judicial notice was taken of the fact that roulette is legal in Monte Carlo; and see PARA 783. As to the meaning of 'foreign law' for the purposes of judicial notice see PARA 783.

3 As to the determination of what system of law, English or foreign, may need to be applied in cases having a foreign element see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

4 There is said to be a presumption that English and foreign law are the same unless the contrary is proved: see CONFLICT OF LAWS; but see also Shaker v Al-Bedrawi (No 2)[2002] EWCA Civ 1452, [2002] All ER (D) 255 (Oct).

5 Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd[1933] AC 289, HL. This is so despite the provisions of the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4 (see PARA 1088): see Phoenix Marine Inc v China Ocean Shipping Co [1999] 1 All ER (Comm) 138, [1999] 1 Lloyd's Rep 682.

6 See the Evidence Act 1851 s 7; and PARA 899.

7 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4; and PARA 1088.

8 See PARAS 1092-1093.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1086. Proof of decisions of the European Court of Human Rights.

1086. Proof of decisions of the European Court of Human Rights.

An English court or tribunal determining a question which has arisen in connection with a Convention right¹ must take into account any judgment, decision, declaration or advisory opinion of the European Court of Human Rights and any opinion of the European Human Rights Commission given in a report adopted under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms², whenever made or given, so far as, in the opinion of the court or tribunal, it is relevant to the proceedings in which that question has arisen³. Evidence of any judgment, decision, declaration or opinion of which account may have to be taken is to be given in proceedings before any court or tribunal in such manner as may be provided by rules of court or, in the case of proceedings before a tribunal, rules made for these purposes⁴. If it is necessary for a party to give evidence of such an authority at a hearing before a court in which procedure is regulated by the Civil Procedure Rules, the authority to be cited must be an authoritative and complete report and the party must give to the court and any other party a list of the authorities he intends to cite and copies of the reports not less than three days before the hearing⁵.

Because of the status of such authority, cases decided in the organs of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms are not regarded as 'foreign' authorities for the purposes of citation by advocates in English courts⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'Convention right' see the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1; and PARA 792. See also JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 651; CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

2 Ie adopted under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969)) art 31: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

3 Human Rights Act 1998 s 2(1)(a), (b). Such a court or tribunal is also required to take into account any decision of the Commission in accordance with the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms art 26 or art 27(2) or any decision of the Committee of Ministers taken under art 46: Human Rights Act 1998 s 2(1)(c), (d).

On 1 November 1998 Protocol No 11 to the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, restructuring the control machinery established thereby (Strasbourg, 11 May 1994; ETS no 155) entered into force and the European Commission and Court of Human Rights were replaced with a new permanent Court although the Commission continued until 31 October 1999 to deal with those cases declared admissible prior to the date of entry into force.

4 Human Rights Act 1998 s 2(2), (3). Such rules are to be made by the Lord Chancellor or the Secretary of State, in relation to any proceedings outside Scotland, by the Secretary of State, in relation to proceedings in Scotland, or by a Northern Ireland department, in relation to proceedings before a tribunal in Northern Ireland which deals with transferred matters and for which no rules otherwise made for this purpose are in force: see the Human Rights Act 1998 s 2(3) (amended by SI 2005/3429).

5 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 8.1(1), (2). Copies of the complete original texts issued by the European Court of Human Rights and the Commission either paper based or from the court's judgment database (HUDOC), which is available on the Internet, may be used: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 8.1(3). As to the application of the CPR and complementary practice directions see PARA 32.

6 See PARA 1088 note 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1087. Proof of decisions of the European Court.

1087. Proof of decisions of the European Court.

Any question arising before a court in England and Wales as to the meaning or effect of a European Union treaty or the validity, meaning or effect of another Community instrument is declared by statute to be a question of law to be determined by the court in accordance with the principles laid down by, and any relevant decision of, the European Court (the 'ECJ') or any court attached to it, unless it is referred to the ECJ¹. Judicial notice² must be taken of the Treaties, of the Official Journal of the Communities and of any decision of, or expression of opinion by, the ECJ or any court attached to it on any such question; and the Official Journal is admissible as evidence of any instrument or other act thereby communicated of any of the Communities or of any Community institution³.

Evidence of any instrument issued by a Community institution, including any judgment or order of the ECJ or any court attached to it, or of any document in the custody of a Community institution, or any entry in or extract from such a document, may be given in any legal proceedings by production of a copy certified as a true copy by an official of that institution; and any document purporting to be such a copy is to be received in evidence without proof of the official position or handwriting of the person signing the certificate⁴. Evidence of any Community instrument may also be given in any legal proceedings by production of a copy purporting to be printed by the Queen's Printer or, where the instrument is in the custody of a government department (including a department of the Government of Northern Ireland), by production of a copy certified on behalf of the department to be a true copy by an officer of the department generally or specially authorised so to do⁵.

National courts must regard themselves as bound by decisions of the ECJ relating to the interpretation of particular instruments or other matters of Community law⁶. Provision is made for certain domestic courts to refer a particular question of law to the ECJ for a ruling⁷.

The rules relating to the citation of authorities before the courts⁸ apply to the citation of ECJ decisions which are not regarded as 'foreign' decisions for the purposes of those rules⁹. When a question of law has been referred to the ECJ and that court has given its judgment, a certified copy of the judgment is transmitted to the court which made the reference¹⁰.

¹ European Communities Act 1972 s 3(1) (s 3(1)-(3) amended by the European Communities (Amendment) Act 1986 s 2). The European Communities Act 1972 s 3(1) is further amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the European Union (Amendment) Act 2008 s 3(3), Schedule Pt 1, to substitute a reference to an 'EU instrument' for the reference to a 'Community instrument' and a reference to 'the European Court' for the reference to 'the European Court or any court attached thereto'. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

'European Court' means the Court of Justice of the European Communities or the Court of First Instance, and any reference to a court attached to the European Court is a reference to a judicial panel attached to the Court of First Instance: European Communities Act 1972 s 1(2), Sch 1 Pt II (definition amended by the European Communities (Amendment) Act 2002 s 2). The definition of 'European Court' in the European Communities Act 1972 Sch 1 Pt II is substituted, as from a day to be appointed, by the European Union (Amendment) Act 2008 s 3(3), Schedule Pt 1, so as to provide that 'European Court' means the Court of Justice of the European Union. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

² As to judicial notice see PARA 779 et seq. Specific statutory provision is made for judicial notice of other Community law, eg the Brussels Conventions: see PARA 780.

3 European Communities Act 1972 s 3(2) (as amended: see note 1). Section 3(2) is further amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the European Union (Amendment) Act 2008 Schedule Pt 1, to substitute a reference to the 'Official Journal of the European Union' for the reference to the 'Official Journal of the Communities'; a reference to 'the European Court' for the reference to 'the European Court or any court attached thereto'; a reference to 'the EU' for the reference to 'any of the Communities'; and to 'EU institution' for the reference to 'Community institution'. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

The European Communities Act 1972 s 3(2)-(4) also has effect in relation to the EFTA Court and the EFTA Surveillance Authority: see the European Economic Area Act 1993 s 4. As to the meaning of 'the Treaties' see the European Communities Act 1972 s 1(2)-(4).

4 European Communities Act 1972 s 3(3) (as amended: see note 1). Section 3(3) is further amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the European Union (Amendment) Act 2008 Schedule Pt 1, to substitute references to 'EU institution' for references to 'Community institution' and a reference to 'the European Court' for the reference to 'the European Court or any court attached thereto'. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

5 European Communities Act 1972 s 3(4). Any document purporting to be a copy certified as mentioned in the text to be a true copy of an instrument in the custody of a government department is to be received in evidence without proof of the official position or handwriting of the person signing the certificate, or of his authority to do so, or of the document being in the custody of the department: s 3(4). Section 3(4) is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the European Union (Amendment) Act 2008 Schedule Pt 1, to substitute a reference to 'EU instrument' for the reference to 'Community instrument'. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

6 See Case 66/80 SpA International Chemical Corp'n v Amministrazione delle Finanze dello Stato [1981] ECR 1191, [1983] 2 CMLR 593, ECJ; Case 283/81 SRL CILFIT and Lanificio di Gavado SpA v Ministry of Health [1982] ECR 3415, [1983] 1 CMLR 472, ECJ; Case 314/85 Foto-Frost v Hauptzollamt Lübeck-Ost [1987] ECR 4199, [1988] 3 CMLR 57, ECJ.

7 See PARA 1720 et seq.

8 See Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA, para 8: see PARA 91.

9 See Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA, para 9.3.

10 See PARA 1720.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1088. Mode of proof of foreign law.

1088. Mode of proof of foreign law.

Where it is necessary¹ for an English court to know or apply the law of any country or territory outside the United Kingdom², or of any part of the United Kingdom other than England and Wales, other than European Union or European human rights law³, that law may be proved in civil proceedings⁴ by a person suitably qualified to give expert evidence of such law on account of his knowledge or experience⁵. It is immaterial whether he has acted or is entitled to act as a legal practitioner in the country concerned⁶. A court is not generally⁷ entitled to construe a foreign code itself⁸ without expert assistance⁹ but, where any question as to the law of any country or territory outside the United Kingdom or any part of the United Kingdom other than England or Wales with respect to any matter has already been determined¹⁰, and any finding made or decision given, and reported or recorded in citable form¹¹, then if such a finding or decision is adduced¹² before the court (which must be done in accordance with the relevant rules¹³), the law will be taken to be in accordance with the finding or decision unless the contrary is proved¹⁴, unless there are conflicting decisions on the same question adduced by virtue of the same provision in the same proceedings¹⁵. Nothing in the statutory provisions set out above prejudices any power of a court, in any civil proceedings, to exclude evidence, whether by preventing questions from being put or otherwise, at its discretion¹⁶ or the operation of any agreement, whenever made, between the parties to any civil proceedings as to the evidence which is to be admissible, whether generally or for any particular purpose, in those proceedings¹⁷.

When giving evidence as to foreign law, a witness may refer to authorities, laws and treaties upon it¹⁸, and is entitled to refer to and state the effect of any written law without having to produce a copy¹⁹.

If no witnesses are called to give expert evidence on the foreign law concerned the court itself may in exceptional circumstances and with the consent of the parties construe and apply that law²⁰ on the assumption that the rules of construction applicable are the same as the English rules²¹.

1 Foreign law need not be proved if it is admitted: Moulis v Owen [1907] 1 KB 746, CA; and see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

2 As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 221 note 2.

3 As to when an English court must apply a decision of the European Court of Human Rights or the Court of Justice of the European Communities ('ECJ') see PARAS 1086-1087; and PARAS 101-102. With regard to the rules for citation of authorities by advocates in civil courts, decisions of the European Court and cases decided in the organs of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969) (see PARA 1086) are not regarded as 'foreign' decisions: see Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA, para 9.3.

4 For these purposes, 'civil proceedings' means civil proceedings, before any tribunal, in relation to which the strict rules of evidence apply, whether as a matter of law or by agreement, of the parties; and references to the 'court' are to be construed accordingly: Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 5(1) (s 5(1), (2) substituted by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 15(1), Sch 1 para 7).

5 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(1). The witness should clearly be well acquainted with the legal system about which he is to give evidence: see eg Brailey v Rhodesia Consolidated Ltd [1910] 2 Ch 95 (reader in Roman-Dutch law for the Incorporated Council of Legal Education sufficiently expert to prove that law in the former Rhodesia was the same as English, although he had not practised there); Re Moses, Moses v Valentine [1908] 2 Ch 235 (uncontested written opinion of ex-Chief Justice of the Transvaal on Roman-Dutch law); Sussex Peerage Case (1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85, HL (where a Roman Catholic bishop gave evidence upon the matrimonial law of Rome); Vander Donckt v Thellusson (1849) 8 CB 812 (where a Belgian merchant and stockbroker proved Belgian law with reference to negotiable instruments); Re Dost Aly Khan (1880) 6 PD 6 (where Persian diplomats proved Persian law); Cooper-King v Cooper-King [1900] P 65 (where an ex-governor of Hong Kong proved the law of Hong Kong); De Beêche v South American Stores Ltd and Chilean Stores Ltd [1935] AC 148, HL (London banker competent on the law as to bills drawn in Chile); Ajami v Customs Comptroller [1954] 1 WLR 1405, PC (Nigerian bank manager held competent on legal tender in French West Africa); Associated Shipping Services Ltd v Department of Private Affairs of HH Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al-Nahayan (1990) Financial Times, 31 July, CA. Members of a consular post are entitled to decline to give evidence as expert witnesses regarding the law of their sending state: Consular Relations Act 1968 s 1(4), Sch 1 art 44(3).

6 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(1). As to the particulars to be set out in affidavits made in non-contentious probate matters by persons qualified under s 4(1) see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 254.

7 For the exceptions see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

8 There is authority to the effect that, in exceptional circumstances and with the parties' consent, a court can itself decide questions of foreign law: Beatty v Beatty [1924] 1 KB 807, CA; Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139. See also United States of America v McRae (1867) 3 Ch App 79.

9 Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd (No 2) [1967] 1 AC 853, [1966] 2 All ER 536, HL; Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd [1933] AC 289, HL; Baron de Bode's Case (1844) 8 QB 208; Buerger v New York Life Assurance Co (1927) 96 LJBK 930, CA; see also Camille and Henry Dreyfus Foundation Inc v IRC [1954] Ch 672, [1954] 2 All ER 466, CA (admission of evidence of New York lawyers on meaning of English words capable, in the context in which they were used in American law, of being terms of art); affd on another point [1956] AC 39, [1955] 3 All ER 97, HL; Sharif v Azad [1967] 1 QB 605, [1966] 3 All ER 785, CA.

10 It is determined whether before or after the passing of the Civil Evidence Act 1972 in any of the following proceedings, whether civil or criminal: at first instance in the High Court, the Crown Court, quarter sessions (now replaced by the Crown Court) or the Lancaster or Durham Chancery Court (now merged with the High Court: see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 606) or appeals therefrom, or proceedings before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on appeal from any decision of any court outside the United Kingdom: s 4(4).

11 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(2)(a). A finding or decision is taken to be reported or recorded in citable form if, but only if, it is reported or recorded in writing in a report, transcript or other document which, if the question had been a question as to the law of England and Wales, could be cited as an authority in legal proceedings in England and Wales: s 4(5). As to the citation of authorities in courts in England and Wales see Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA; note 13; and PARAS 91, 106.

12 Except with the leave of the court, a party to any civil proceedings is not to be permitted to adduce any such finding or decision as is mentioned in the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(2), unless he has, in accordance with rules of court, given every other party to the proceedings notice that he intends to do so: s 4(3). The rules of court made for the purposes of the application of s 4 to proceedings in the High Court apply, except in so far as their application is excluded by agreement, to proceedings before tribunals other than the ordinary courts of law, subject to such modifications as may be appropriate; and any question arising as to what modifications are appropriate must be determined, in default of agreement, by the tribunal: s 5(2) (as substituted: see note 3).

13 See PARA 1089.

14 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(2)(b). Although s 4(2)(b) effectively raises a presumption that the earlier decision is correct, the language of s 4 does not itself indicate how much weight the court should attach to a previous decision and although it is obviously desirable to reach consistent conclusions, that does not provide sufficient grounds for construing s 4 as if it laid down a general rule that the presumption could not be displaced except by particularly cogent evidence. A court which has to consider the question for a second time is in a good position to decide for itself what weight should be attached to the previous decision: see Phoenix Marine Inc v China Ocean Shipping Co [1999] 1 All ER (Comm) 138, [1999] 1 Lloyd's Rep 682.

15 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(2) proviso. Where there is a conflict of expert testimony the judge must resolve it, as in eg Re Duke of Wellington, Glentanar v Wellington [1947] Ch 506, [1947] 2 All ER 854. See also PARA 1085 text and note 5.

16 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 5(3)(a). As to the court's general power to control evidence see PARA 791.

- 17 Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 5(3)(b).
- 18 Sussex Peerage Case (1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85, HL; Earl Nelson v Lord Bridport (1845) 8 Beav 527.
- 19 Baron de Bode's Case (1844) 8 QB 208.
- 20 Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139; see also Re Cohn [1945] Ch 5; Beatty v Beatty [1924] 1 KB 807, CA.
- 21 Jabbour v Custodian of Israeli Absentee Property [1954] 1 All ER 145, [1954] 1 WLR 139.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1089. Evidence of finding on question of foreign law.

1089. Evidence of finding on question of foreign law.

A party who intends to put in evidence a finding on a question of foreign law¹ must give any other party notice of his intention². If there are to be witness statements³, he must give the notice not later than the latest date for serving⁴ them⁵ or, otherwise, not less than 21 days before the hearing at which he proposes to put the finding in evidence⁶. The notice must specify the question on which the finding was made⁷ and enclose a copy of any document where it is reported or recorded⁸. A party failing to comply with these rules will be precluded from putting in evidence the finding on which he relies except with the leave of the court⁹.

1 Ie by virtue of the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(2): see PARA 1088.

2 CPR 33.7(2).

3 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

4 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to the service of witness statements see PARA 982.

5 CPR 33.7(3)(a).

6 CPR 33.7(3)(b). As to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq.

7 CPR 33.7(4)(a).

8 CPR 33.7(4)(b). As to the citation of authority from another jurisdiction see PARA 105 note 2.

9 See the Civil Evidence Act 1972 s 4(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1090. The duty of the court.

1090. The duty of the court.

The effect of the evidence given with respect to foreign law must be decided by the judge alone¹, and must not be submitted to the jury² even in a criminal trial³. If the experts' evidence is unsatisfactory or conflicting the court will itself examine the decisions of foreign courts, textbooks, codes and other documents in order to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion on the question⁴. Where, however, the expert witnesses are in agreement the court must base its findings on the effect of the foreign law on the evidence given by the experts and should not reject their evidence and conduct its own researches into the effect of the foreign law by recourse to textbooks and foreign law reports⁵.

Where the court is obliged to conduct its own researches it is not bound to accept the decisions of foreign courts as correctly setting out the law of the foreign state⁶ and it is entitled, on looking at or dealing with any textbook, decision, code or other legal document produced to it as stating or representing the foreign law, to construe them and form its own conclusion on them⁷.

The construction of a foreign document by the application to it of the foreign law, when ascertained, is for the judge, and not for the witness⁸.

1 See Lazard Bros & Co v Midland Bank Ltd [1933] AC 289, HL. An appellate court may be more ready to come to a different conclusion to that reached at first instance: see Parkasho v Singh [1968] P 233, [1967] 1 All ER 737, DC.

2 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(5); County Courts Act 1984 s 68. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

3 R v Hammer [1923] 2 KB 786, CCA; R v Okolie (2000) Times, 16 June, [2000] All ER (D) 661, CA; and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1486.

4 Trimbey v Vignier (1834) 1 Bing NC 151; Bremer v Freeman (1857) 10 Moo PCC 306; Buerger v New York Life Assurance Co (1927) 96 LJB 930, CA; Kolbin & Sons v Kinnear & Co Ltd 1930 SC 724 (on appeal 1931 SC 128); R v Secretary of State for India in Council, ex p Ezekiel [1941] 2 KB 169, [1941] 2 All ER 546, DC; Re Duke of Wellington, Glentanar v Wellington [1947] Ch 506, [1947] 2 All ER 854 (affd on other grounds [1948] Ch 118, [1947] 2 All ER 864, CA) (where the experts agreed that there was no express provision in point); Rouyer Guillet et Cie v Rouyer Guillet & Co Ltd, Rouyer Guillet v Jackson Knowland & Co [1949] 1 All ER 244n, CA; and see Sharif v Azad [1967] 1 QB 605, [1966] 3 All ER 785, CA (trial judge entitled to construe a Pakistani Act himself). Where there are no foreign authorities precisely in point, and expert witnesses cannot agree, the Court of Appeal is entitled and bound to form its own independent view on the issue of construction, although regard should be paid to the relevant circumstances as found by the trial judge: Macmillan Inc v Bishopsgate Investment Trust plc (No 4) [1999] CLC 417, 478, (1998) Times, 7 December, CA.

5 Bumper Development Corp Ltd v Metropolitan Police Comr (Union of India, claimants) [1991] 4 All ER 638, [1991] 1 WLR 1362, CA.

6 Guaranty Trust Co of New York v Hannay & Co [1918] 2 KB 623, CA, per Pickford LJ and at 667 per Scrutton LJ. Where, however, the decision is that of the highest court of the country whose law is in question, a court of this country is most unlikely to hold that its decision is erroneous: Guaranty Trust Co of New York v Hannay & Co [1918] 2 KB 623 at 638, CA, per Pickford LJ; Bankers and Shippers Insurance Co v Liverpool Marine and General Insurance Co (1925) 24 Ll L Rep 85, HL. An English court does not exercise a discretion vested in a foreign court: Kornatzki v Oppenheimer [1937] 4 All ER 133; cf Re Schnapper, Westminster Bank Ltd v Schnapper [1936] 1 All ER 322. These authorities must now be read in the light of Bumper Development Corp Ltd v Metropolitan Police Comr (Union of India, claimants) [1991] 4 All ER 638, [1991] 1 WLR 1362, CA: see the text and note 5. As to the position in relation to the International Court of Justice see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 499 et seq; and as to the European Court of Human Rights and the Court of Justice of the European Communities ('ECJ') see PARAS 1086-1087.

7 Concha v Murrieta, De Mora v Concha (1889) 40 ChD 543, CA; on appeal sub nom Concha v Concha [1892] AC 670, HL; Buerger v New York Life Assurance Co (1927) 96 LJB 930, CA; De Beeche v South American Stores Ltd and Chilian Stores Ltd [1935] AC 148, HL; Bankers and Shippers Insurance Co v Liverpool Marine and General Insurance Co (1925) 24 Ll L Rep 85, HL; O'Callaghan v O'Sullivan [1925] 1 IR 90; Kolbin & Sons v Kinneir & Co Ltd 1930 SC 724; Parkasho v Singh [1968] P 233, [1967] 1 All ER 737, DC. See also Craster v Thomas [1909] 2 Ch 348, CA; Lindo v Belisario (1795) 1 Hag Con 216; Dalrymple v Dalrymple (1811) 2 Hag Con 54; on appeal (1814) 2 Hag Con 137n; Lacon v Higgins (1822) 3 Stark 178; Prowse v European and American Steam Shipping Co (1860) 13 Moo PCC 484; United States of America v McRae (1867) 3 Ch App 79; Macdonald v Macdonald (1872) LR 14 Eq 60. These authorities must now be read in the light of Bumper Development Corp Ltd v Metropolitan Police Comr (Union of India, claimants) [1991] 4 All ER 638, [1991] 1 WLR 1362, CA: see the text and note 5.

A judge should evaluate expert evidence in the same way as he would evaluate the evidence of any witness of fact, testing it against the relevant documents and probabilities and taking account of any views he has formed as to the independence and impartiality of the witness. He should find the relevant facts, whether they be ordinary facts or facts of a peculiar kind, eg the principles of a relevant foreign law. In assessing expert evidence of foreign law, the role of a judge often differs in one respect from his role in assessing ordinary evidence of fact, ie that being a lawyer he will bring that legal training to bear on the issue to be decided notwithstanding that it is an issue of foreign law. However, where the principles of the foreign law in question are significantly different from the equivalent principles in English law, there is less room for a judge to apply his own training; in such a situation the correct approach is to consider the evidence of the foreign law in substantially the same way as the other evidence of fact and opinion: Morgan Grenfell & Co Ltd v SACE - Istituto per I Servizi Assicurativi del Commercio [2001] EWCA Civ 1932, [2001] All ER (D) 303 (Dec), considering Bumper Development Corp Ltd v Metropolitan Police Comr (Union of India, claimants) [1991] 4 All ER 638, [1991] 1 WLR 1362, CA (held that the judge had gone too far in rejecting the whole of the defendant's expert's evidence on Italian law).

8 See DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 201.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1091. Procedural law applicable.

1091. Procedural law applicable.

In considering a question of foreign law the court follows its own rules of evidence and procedure, and not those of the foreign country¹, except to the extent that statute provides otherwise².

¹ Appleton v Lord Braybrook (1817) 6 M & S 34; Yates v Thomson (1835) 3 Cl & Fin 544, HL; Clark v Mullick (1840) 3 Moo PCC 252; Fergusson v Fyffe (1841) 8 Cl & Fin 121, HL; and see CONFLICT OF LAWS. As to the general application of the law of evidence in the courts in England and Wales see PARA 753 et seq.

² See PARA 755 note 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1092. Other methods of ascertaining overseas law.

1092. Other methods of ascertaining overseas law.

Copies of Acts, ordinances and statutes passed by or under the authority of the legislatures of British possessions are receivable in evidence by United Kingdom courts if they purport to be printed by the government printer of the possession, without proof that the copies were so printed¹.

Instead of deciding on the law of any part of Her Majesty's dominions upon the evidence of witnesses, the court may² have recourse to the provisions of the British Law Ascertainment Act 1859³. The court, if of opinion that it is necessary or expedient for the proper disposal of any proceedings⁴, may state a case to one of the superior courts in the appropriate part of Her Majesty's dominions for its opinion upon the law⁵.

1 See the Evidence (Colonial Statutes) Act 1907 s 1; and PARA 898.

2 Lord v Colvin (1860) 1 Drew & Sm 24 per Kindersley V-C; and see Phosphate Sewage Co v Molleson (1876) 1 App Cas 780, HL.

3 The British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 may be extended to territories in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction: Foreign Jurisdiction Act 1890 s 5, Sch 1. As to such extensions see PARA 899 note 2.

4 The statutory wording is 'action', which is defined as including every judicial proceeding instituted in any court, civil, criminal or ecclesiastical: British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 5. In England and Wales 'actions' in civil proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules apply are now known as 'claims': see PARA 18.

5 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 1. The procedure is very little used: see Fentiman Foreign Law in English Courts (1998) pp 134-135.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/A. PROOF OF LAW IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS/1093. Procedure to ascertain overseas law under statute.

1093. Procedure to ascertain overseas law under statute.

The facts to be stated in the case may be ascertained by the verdict of a jury¹ or other competent mode, or may be agreed by the parties, or settled by such person or persons as may have been appointed by the court for the purpose in the event of the parties not agreeing². When the case has been prepared the court must approve it and settle the questions of law arising upon the facts stated, and the questions of law, together with the case, are then remitted to the court whose opinion is desired. That court may hear the parties or counsel on the case, or may pronounce its opinion without so doing, and may take such further procedure as it thinks proper for pronouncing its opinion³. Upon the opinion being pronounced, a copy, certified by an officer of the court pronouncing it, is given to each of the parties to the proceedings requiring it⁴, and any of the parties may lodge the copy of the opinion with the court in which the proceedings are pending, and move it to apply the opinion to the facts stated in the case⁵.

The opinion may be applied as a statement of the foreign law to the facts of the case, or be submitted to the jury with the other facts of the case as evidence, or conclusive evidence, as the court trying the case may think fit, of the foreign law stated in it⁶. The House of Lords and the Privy Council, in the event of an appeal in the proceedings, may review, adopt or reject any such opinion pronounced by any court whose judgments are respectively reviewable by them⁷.

1 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 1. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 1; see Lord v Colvin (1860) 1 Drew & Sm 24 (case for opinion of Scottish court); Topham v Duke of Portland (1863) 1 De GJ & Sm 517; on appeal sub nom Duke of Portland v Lady Topham (1864) 11 HL Cas 32; Wilson v Moore (1864) 12 WR 1137; and Earl of Eglinton v Lamb (1867) 15 LT 657 (cases ordered to be sent for the opinion of the Court of Session); Login v Princess Coorg (1862) 30 Beav 632 (case for opinion of court in India); and Re Moses, Moses v Valentine [1908] 2 Ch 235 (case for the opinion of the Transvaal court suggested but not sent).

3 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 1.

4 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 2.

5 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 3.

6 See note 5.

7 British Law Ascertainment Act 1859 s 4; and see De Thoren v A-G (1876) 1 App Cas 686, HL. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

UPDATE

1093 Procedure to ascertain overseas law under statute

NOTE 7--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/B. PROOF OF BIRTH, DEATH OR AGE/1094. Proof of birth and death.

B. PROOF OF BIRTH, DEATH OR AGE

1094. Proof of birth and death.

A person's birth or death is normally proved by the production of a certified copy of an entry in the register of births or deaths¹, supplemented by evidence identifying the person whose birth or death is there certified². Any certified copy of an entry in such a register purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office is³ to be received as evidence of the birth or death to which it relates without any further or other proof of the entry⁴. A person's birth or death may also be proved by the evidence of a witness who was present at the birth or death of the person concerned⁵; by the oral or written declarations of deceased persons⁶; and, in civil proceedings, by admissible hearsay evidence⁷.

Additionally, a person's death may be proved in reliance on the presumption of death which arises after seven years' absence⁸.

1 See the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34; PARA 906; and REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 522 et seq. As to births and deaths outside England and Wales see PARA 918.

2 R v Weaver(1873) LR 2 CCR 85; R v Bellis(1911) 6 Cr App Rep 283, CCA; R v Rogers (1914) 111 LT 1115, CCA.

3 Is subject to the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(1)-(5) (see PARA 906): s 34(6).

4 Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 34(6).

5 R v Nicholls (1867) 16 LT 466.

6 As to declarations as to matter of pedigree see PARA 830.

7 Is under the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

8 See PARA 1100.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/B. PROOF OF BIRTH, DEATH OR AGE/1095. Proof of age.

1095. Proof of age.

Where strict proof of age is required¹, this is normally supplied by the production of a birth certificate² or a certified copy of an entry in the adopted children register³, supplemented by evidence identifying the person whose birth is there certified⁴. A person's age may also be proved by the admission of a party⁵; by the evidence of a witness who was present at the birth of the person concerned⁶; by the oral or written declarations of deceased persons⁷; and, in civil proceedings, by admissible hearsay evidence⁸. In certain criminal and other cases in which the age of a person is material, the age will be presumed or deemed to be what appears to the court to be his age at the relevant time after considering any available evidence⁹. There is a rebuttable presumption that the parties to a conveyance are of full age¹⁰.

1 As to proof by means of a statement by a witness of his own age and the opinion of a witness as to the age of another person see PARA 1077.

2 See PARA 1094. An examined copy of a baptismal register is inadequate: R v Wedge (1832) 5 P & C 298; and see PARA 910.

3 See the Adoption and Children Act 2002 s 77(5); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 383.

4 R v Weaver (1873) LR 2 CCR 85; R v Bellis (1911) 6 Cr App Rep 283, CCA; R v Rogers (1914) 111 LT 1115, CCA.

5 R v Turner [1910] 1 KB 346, CCA; R v Grimsby Recorder, ex p Purser [1951] 2 All ER 889, DC.

6 R v Nicholls (1867) 16 LT 466.

7 As to declarations as to matter of pedigree see PARA 830.

8 Ie under the Civil Evidence Act 1995: see PARA 808 et seq.

9 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1470.

10 See the Law of Property Act 1925 s 15; and REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 244. A person attains full age on reaching the age of 18 years: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1096. Presumptions of fact.

C. PRESUMPTIONS

1096. Presumptions of fact.

Presumptions of fact are inferences logically drawn from one fact as to the existence of other facts¹. There is no obligation upon a tribunal of fact to draw such inferences², and presumptions of fact are rebuttable by evidence to the contrary³. In the law of negligence the doctrine of *res ipsa loquitur*⁴ is a particular application of the effect of inferences of fact⁵.

1 Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721. Note that presumptions of fact may now be more readily understood as devices for distributing the burden of proof.

2 As to evidence which may be taken as probative of facts in issue, however, see PARA 1068.

3 Inferences to be drawn from evidence given in a case may affect the incidence of the burden of proof as the case proceeds: see PARA 771; and see eg Gardiner v Motherwell Machinery and Scrap Co Ltd [1961] 3 All ER 831n, [1961] 1 WLR 1424, HL (presumption of fact that industrial disease caused by conditions likely to cause it); Over v Harwood [1900] 1 QB 803, DC (use of presumption of fact to prove negative averment); R v Schama, R v Abramovitch (1914) 84 LJBK 396, CCA; R v Aves [1950] 2 All ER 330, CCA (presumption of guilty knowledge of accused on proof of his recent possession of stolen property); see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 304. For other cases in which presumptions of fact may arise see PARA 1069.

4 le the thing speaks for itself.

5 See Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721. The doctrine is no more than a common sense approach, not limited by technical rules, to the assessment of the effect of evidence in certain circumstances: Lloyde v West Midlands Gas Board [1971] 2 All ER 1240 at 1247, [1971] 1 WLR 749 at 755, CA, per Megaw LJ; and see Bennett v Chemical Construction (GB) Ltd [1971] 3 All ER 822, [1971] 1 WLR 1571, CA. Some authorities, however, suggest that the operation of the doctrine may cast the legal burden of proof upon the party against whom it operates: see eg Barkway v South Wales Transport Co Ltd [1949] 1 KB 54, [1948] 2 All ER 460, CA; Moore v R Fox & Sons [1956] 1 QB 596, [1956] 1 All ER 182, CA. See further NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 64 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1097. Presumptions of law.

1097. Presumptions of law.

Presumptions of law are rules of substantive law rather than rules of evidence; and they may be either irrebuttable, so that no evidence to the contrary may be given¹, or rebuttable. A rebuttable presumption of law is a legal rule to be applied by the court in the absence of conflicting evidence². Where two inconsistent rebuttable presumptions arise they neutralise each other, and the issue must be decided upon the evidence actually adduced³.

The classification of many presumptions is uncertain⁴. In some cases the same rule has, at different periods in its history, been treated as a presumption of fact, a rebuttable presumption of law, an irrebuttable presumption, or a rule of substantive law⁵.

1 As to irrebuttable presumptions of law see PARA 1098.

2 Such a presumption may be regarded as having the effect of shifting the evidential burden of proof: see Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corp'n Ltd [1942] AC 154 at 193, [1941] 2 All ER 165 at 191, HL, per Lord Wright. As to the effect of rebuttable presumptions on the burden of proof see further PARA 772. A distinction may be made between compelling and provisional presumptions: see the article by Denning J in (1945) 61 LQR 379; and see Huyton-with-Roby UDC v Hunter [1955] 2 All ER 398, [1955] 1 WLR 603, CA.

3 R v Willshire (1881) 6 QBD 366, CCR; Westwood v Chettle (1895) 98 LT Jo 228; Monckton v Tarr (1930) 23 BWCC 504, CA; cf Taylor v Taylor [1967] P 25, [1965] 1 All ER 872.

4 For criticism of the existing classification see the article by Denning J in (1945) 61 LQR 379.

5 See Bryant v Foot (1867) LR 2 QB 161. As to the different ways in which the presumption of death has been treated see Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721; and PARAS 1100-1101. The common law presumption that a child born of a married woman is legitimate used to be regarded as indisputable (Co Litt 244a) but may now be rebutted: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 94-96.

For a discussion of operative presumptions in claims for representation, estoppel and undue influence see Alistair Craig 'Evidential Presumptions' [2002] 152 NLJ 217.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1098. Irrebuttable presumptions of law.

1098. Irrebuttable presumptions of law.

There are today few irrebuttable presumptions of law: many rules which were formerly regarded as such are not now so treated¹, and those that remain may equally be regarded as rules of substantive law². Thus, the rule that ignorance of the law does not excuse or relieve from the consequences of a crime³, or from liability under a contract⁴, has sometimes, and less aptly, been expressed as an irrebuttable presumption that every person who is subject to the law is acquainted with it⁵.

Examples of rules that have the effect of irrebuttable presumptions are the rule that no child under the age of ten years can be guilty of any offence⁶; that a judgment is conclusive as against all persons of the existence of the state of things which it actually affects, when the existence of that state is a fact in issue⁷; that a relevant conviction is conclusive evidence in a claim for libel or slander⁸; and that production of a copy of the London Gazette containing any notice of a bankruptcy order is conclusive evidence in all legal proceedings of an order having been duly made and of its date⁹. It has also been held that the flying of an enemy flag in wartime, if done voluntarily, is conclusive of the nationality of the ship¹⁰.

1 See PARA 1097 text and note 5.

2 See Bache & Co (London) Ltd v Banque Vernes et Commerciale de Paris SA (1973) 117 Sol Jo 483, CA (in the absence of fraud or inaccuracy, the tendering of evidence which by agreement is declared to be conclusive precludes evidence to the contrary).

3 See CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 17.

4 See Cooper v Phibbs (1867) LR 2 HL 149, and MISTAKE.

5 Brett v Rigden (1568) 1 Plowd 340; Mildmay's Case (1584) 1 Co Rep 175a; Bilbie v Lumley (1802) 2 East 469; Stevens v Lynch (1810) 12 East 38; R v Esop (1836) 7 C & P 456; Martindale v Falkner (1846) 2 CB 706; R v Tweekesbury Corp'n (1868) LR 3 QB 629; R v Coote (1873) 9 Moo PCCNS 463.

6 See the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 s 50 (amended by the Children and Young Persons Act 1963 s 16(1)); and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 29, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1232.

7 See Hollington v F Hewthorn & Co Ltd [1943] KB 587, [1943] 2 All ER 35, CA. The judgment in this case, however, rejected the wider proposition that evidence of previous convictions or of previous civil judgments was admissible as evidence of the facts on which they were based. To that extent Hollington v F Hewthorn & Co Ltd [1943] KB 587, [1943] 2 All ER 35, CA, is now reversed by the Civil Evidence Act 1968 ss 11-13: see PARAS 1208-1211.

8 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 13; PARA 1209, and LIBEL AND SLANDER.

9 See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/125, r 12.20; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 787.

10 Lever Bros and Unilever NV v HM Procurator-General, The Unitas and Cargo [1950] AC 536, [1950] 2 All ER 219, PC. See further PRIZE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 810.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1099. Rebuttable presumption of innocence.

1099. Rebuttable presumption of innocence.

There is a presumption that all acts and conduct are in accordance with law and morality¹, so that a person who charges another with wrongdoing must make out a prima facie case before the person accused can be called upon to answer². The rule is peculiarly important in criminal cases or matters³, but it is also true in civil disputes⁴. Thus, for example, there is a presumption against fraud⁵ and where unseaworthiness of a vessel is alleged, it must be proved⁶. It has also been held that there is a presumption against suicide⁷.

Where, in a civil case, the intention of a person is relevant, he is presumed to have intended the natural consequences of his acts⁸.

1 R v Hawkins (1808) 10 East 211; Thomas v Thomas (1855) 2 K & J 79; Dysart Peerage Case (1881) 6 App Cas 489, HL; Re Postlethwaite, Postlethwaite v Rickman (1888) 60 LT 514, CA; Croft v Rickmansworth Highway Board (1888) 39 ChD 272, CA; Corea v Appuhamy [1912] AC 230, PC; Vatcher v Paull [1915] AC 372, PC; Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corp Ltd [1942] AC 154, [1941] 2 All ER 165, HL.

2 R v Burdett (1820) 4 B & Ald 95; Williams v East India Co (1802) 3 East 192 (presumption that notice has been given where failure to give notice amounts to crime); and see Huggins v Ward (1873) LR 8 QB 521; Over v Harwood [1900] 1 QB 803, DC; Lord v Lord [1900] P 297. See also Toleman v Portbury (1870) LR 5 QB 288, Ex Ch; Duke's Court Estates Ltd v Associated British Engineering Ltd [1948] Ch 458, [1948] 2 All ER 137 (facts to be proved when forfeiture of lease is sought).

3 Before there can be a conviction for a crime, the accused's guilt must be proved beyond reasonable doubt: Woolmington v DPP [1935] AC 462, HL; see PARA 775; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1372. For a limited exception to this rule in the case of certain statutory offences see R v Edwards [1975] QB 27, [1974] 2 All ER 1085, CA; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1218.

4 See Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corp Ltd [1942] AC 154, [1941] 2 All ER 165, HL. For the standard of proof required in a civil case where the commission of a crime is alleged see PARA 775.

5 Low v Guthrie [1909] AC 278, HL; Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Ltd v Imperial Smelting Corp Ltd [1942] AC 154, [1941] 2 All ER 165, HL. But the rule is sometimes different where undue influence is alleged (Huguenin v Baseley (1807) 14 Ves 273); and see EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 417 et seq.

6 Ajum Goolam Hossen & Co v Union Marine Insurance Co Ltd [1901] AC 362, PC.

7 See Harvey v Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corp Ltd [1905] 2 IR 1, CA; Bender v Zent (Owners) [1909] 2 KB 41, CA.

8 Re Trench, ex p Brandon (1884) 25 ChD 500, CA; Saxlehner v Apollinaris Co [1897] 1 Ch 893; and see Re Cohen, ex p Bankrupt v IRC [1950] 2 All ER 36, CA. Cf the Criminal Justice Act 1967 s 8 (which provides that a court or jury, in determining whether a person has committed an offence, is not bound in law to infer that he intended or foresaw a result of his actions by reason only of its being a natural and probable consequence of those actions but must decide whether he did intend or foresee that result by reference to all the evidence, drawing such inferences from the evidence as appear proper in the circumstances); and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 13. It is uncertain whether the Criminal Justice Act 1967 s 8 is applicable where the question arises in civil proceedings as to whether an offence has been committed.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1100. Presumptions of life and death.

1100. Presumptions of life and death.

There is generally no presumption of law¹ by which the fact that a person was alive or dead on a given date can be established, but the question must be decided on the facts of the particular case².

Certain exceptions to this general rule are provided by statute³, and, in addition, where there is no acceptable affirmative evidence that a person was alive at some time during a continuous period of seven years or more⁴ and it is proved that there are persons who would be likely to have heard of him over that period⁵, that those persons have not heard of him, and that all due inquiries have been made appropriate to the circumstances⁶, there arises a rebuttable presumption of law that he died sometime within that period⁷.

1 In so far as old cases speak of a presumption of continuance of life as if it were a presumption of law, they are not consistent with the modern authorities. For such cases see Wilson v Hodges (1802) 2 East 312; Nepean v Doe d Knight (1837) 2 M & W 894; Lapsley v Grierson (1848) 1 HL Cas 498; R v Willshire (1881) 6 QBD 366, CCR; R v Jones (1883) 11 QBD 118, CCR.

2 R v Lumley (1869) LR 1 CCR 196; Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Aldersley, Gibson v Hall [1905] 2 Ch 181; MacDarmid v A-G [1950] P 218, [1950] 1 All ER 497; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721.

3 As to the presumption of death and dissolution of marriage see the Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 s 19(3); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 416. As to the statutory defence to a charge of bigamy where the defendant's spouse has been absent for seven years see the Offences against the Person Act 1861 s 57; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 831. In a claim by a lessor or reversioner to recover an estate dependent on a life, the court must presume death on proof of absence for seven years: Cestui que Vie Act 1666 s 1; and see Doe d George v Jesson (1805) 6 East 80; and REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 156.

4 Where no statute applies, the mere fact of absence for more than seven years does not raise a presumption that death has occurred: see Prudential Assurance Co v Edmonds (1877) 2 App Cas 487, HL; Ivett v Ivett (1930) 94 JP 237, DC; Hogton v Hogton (1933) 50 TLR 18, DC; Re Watkins, Watkins v Watkins [1953] 2 All ER 1113, [1953] 1 WLR 1323; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721; Bradshaw v Bradshaw [1956] P 274n, DC. In so far as some cases lay stress on the mere fact of seven years' absence, they are not consistent with the trend of later authorities. For such cases see Nepean v Doe d Knight (1837) 2 M & W 894; Re How (1858) 1 Sw & Tr 53; Re Turner's Goods (1864) 3 Sw & Tr 476; R v Lumley (1869) LR 1 CCR 196; Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Lewes' Trusts (1871) 6 Ch App 356; Re Rhodes, Rhodes v Rhodes (1887) 36 ChD 586; Chipchase v Chipchase [1939] P 391, [1939] 3 All ER 895, DC. As to the practice in probate cases see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 145.

5 Prudential Assurance Co v Edmonds (1877) 2 App Cas 487, HL; MacDarmid v A-G [1950] P 218, [1950] 1 All ER 497; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721; Bradshaw v Bradshaw [1956] P 274n, DC. See also Watson v England (1844) 14 Sim 28; Bowden v Henderson (1854) 2 Sm & G 360; Re Liebeskind (1952) Times, 11 December. Cf Willyams v Scottish Widows' Fund Life Assurance Society (1888) 52 JP 471; Wills v Palmer (1904) 53 WR 169 (death presumed although person concerned not likely to communicate with his friends). See also Re Benjamin, Neville v Benjamin [1902] 1 Ch 723.

6 Hogton v Hogton (1933) 50 TLR 18, DC; Bradshaw v Bradshaw [1956] P 274n, DC; Bullock v Bullock [1960] 2 All ER 307, [1960] 1 WLR 975, DC; cf Re Watkins, Watkins v Watkins [1953] 2 All ER 1113, [1953] 1 WLR 1323; but see Chipchase v Chipchase [1939] P 391, [1939] 3 All ER 895, DC.

7 Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721; Prudential Assurance Co v Edmonds (1877) 2 App Cas 487, HL; Wills v Palmer (1904) 53 WR 169; Re Bowden (1904) 21 TLR 13; Lal Chand

Marwari v Mahant Ramrup Gir (1925) 42 TLR 159, PC; Bullock v Bullock [1960] 2 All ER 307, [1960] 1 WLR 975, DC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1101. Proof of life or death at a particular time.

1101. Proof of life or death at a particular time.

He who asserts that a person was alive on a given date, or dead on that date, must prove the fact by evidence¹, since there is no presumption of continuance of life², and, generally³, no presumption of death at a particular time. Where there is insufficient evidence in support of the fact alleged, the party bearing the burden of proof will fail⁴.

Where the presumption of death after seven years' absence applies⁵, the person will be presumed to have died by the end of that period⁶; where the presumption does not apply, or is displaced by evidence, the issue will be decided on the facts of the particular case⁷. In some old cases, where neither the evidence nor the incidence of the burden of proof was decisive, the court made the best order it could in the circumstances⁸. Where the question to be decided for purposes affecting the title to property is which of two persons died first, a statutory rule may apply⁹.

The question of whether a person was alive or dead at a given date will be decided on all the evidence available at the date of the hearing¹⁰.

1 See PARA 1100 the text and notes 1-2.

2 Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Rhodes, Rhodes v Rhodes (1887) 36 ChD 586; Re Aldersey, Gibson v Hall [1905] 2 Ch 181; MacDarmid v A-G [1950] P 218, [1950] 1 All ER 497; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721; Re Wilson [1964] 1 All ER 196, [1964] 1 WLR 214.

3 See the text and notes 6, 9.

4 Nepean v Doe d Knight (1837) 2 M & W 894; Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Lewes' Trusts (1871) 6 Ch App 356; Re Nicholls (1872) LR 2 P & D 461; Hickman v Upsall (1875) LR 20 Eq 136; Re Corbishley's Trusts (1880) 14 ChD 846; Elliott v Smith (1882) 22 ChD 236; Re Rhodes, Rhodes v Rhodes (1887) 36 ChD 586; Re Benjamin, Neville v Benjamin [1902] 1 Ch 723; Re Aldersey, Gibson v Hall [1905] 2 Ch 181; Lal Chand Marwari v Mahant Ramrup Gir (1925) 42 TLR 159, PC; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721.

5 As to the requirements of the presumption of death see PARA 1100.

6 Re Westbrook's Trusts [1873] WN 167; Re Aldersey, Gibson v Hall [1905] 2 Ch 181; Re Thompson (1905) 39 ILT 372; Chipchase v Chipchase [1939] P 391, [1939] 3 All ER 895, DC; Bullock v Bullock [1960] 2 All ER 307, [1960] 1 WLR 975, DC; but see contra Re Phené's Trusts (1870) 5 Ch App 139; Re Rhodes, Rhodes v Rhodes (1887) 36 ChD 586; Lal Chand Marwari v Mahant Ramrup Gir (1925) 42 TLR 159, PC.

7 Thus the court may infer as a matter of fact that death occurred within seven years of the disappearance: see eg Re Beasley's Trusts (1869) LR 7 Eq 498; Hickman v Upsall (1875) LR 20 Eq 136; Re Winstone [1898] P 143; Re Matthews [1898] P 17; Re Hurlston [1898] P 27; Hogton v Hogton (1933) 50 TLR 18, DC; and see Greig v Merchant Co of Edinburgh 1921 SC 76.

On the other hand, in some cases death may not be presumed, even though a much longer period than seven years has elapsed since the person was last seen: see Re Lidderdale (1912) 57 Sol Jo 3; Chard v Chard (otherwise Northcott) [1956] P 259, [1955] 3 All ER 721 (14 years' absence); Bradshaw v Bradshaw [1956] P 274n, DC (19 years' absence).

8 See eg Bailey v Hammond (1802) 7 Ves 590; Cuthbert v Purrier (1847) 2 Ph 199; Re Mileham's Trust (1852) 15 Beav 507; Danby v Danby (1859) 5 Jur NS 54; Lord Woodhouselee v Dalrymple (1861) 30 LJ Ch 607; Re Rhodes, Fraser v Renton (1873) 28 LT 392; Wollaston v Berkeley (1876) 2 ChD 213. For a common form of order as to the distribution of assets where a person's death is presumed see Re Benjamin, Neville v Benjamin [1902] 1 Ch 723.

9 See the Law of Property Act 1925 s 184 (in all cases where, after 1 January 1926, two or more persons have died in circumstances rendering it uncertain which of them survived the other or others, such deaths must (subject to any order of the court), for all purposes affecting the title of property, be presumed to have occurred in order of seniority, and accordingly the younger is to be deemed to have survived the elder). This presumption may be excluded by an express contrary provision in a will or by order of the court (see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 146; WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 335); and where a husband and wife or civil partners die intestate in such circumstances their estates are distributed as if neither had survived the other (see the Administration of Estates Act 1925 s 46(3) (added by the Intestates' Estates Act 1952 s 1(4); and amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 71, Sch 4 Pt 2 para 7); and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 146). Further, for certain inheritance tax purposes, where it cannot be known which of two or more persons who have died survived the other or others they are assumed to have died at the same instant: see the Inheritance Tax Act 1984 s 4(2); and INHERITANCE TAXATION vol 24 (Reissue) PARA 454.

10 Deakin v Deakin (1869) 33 JP 805; Hogton v Hogton (1933) 50 TLR 18, DC; Bullock v Bullock [1960] 2 All ER 307, [1960] 1 WLR 975, DC.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1102. Marriage and issue.

1102. Marriage and issue.

There is no presumption of law that a deceased person died unmarried or without issue¹, but where he was last heard of unmarried and childless, it may readily be inferred as a matter of fact that he died in that condition².

There is generally no presumption as to the age at which a woman is or is not past childbearing³, but for the purposes of the rule against perpetuities⁴ where the ability of a person to have a child at a future date is at issue there is a rebuttable presumption that a female can have a child between the ages of 12 and 55, and that a male can have a child at the age of 14 years or over, but not under that age⁵.

Where a ceremony of marriage has been celebrated, followed by cohabitation of the parties, there will generally be a presumption that a lawful marriage exists⁶ or that the ceremony was valid⁷.

1 Re Jackson, Jackson v Ward [1907] 2 Ch 354.

2 Greaves v Greenwood (1877) 2 ExD 289, CA; and see Re Callan (1905) 39 ILT 372. In many cases only slight evidence has been required to raise a presumption of fact that a person died without issue (Greaves v Greenwood (1877) 2 ExD 289, CA; Rawlinson v Miller (1875) 1 ChD 52) or unmarried (Dunn v Snowden (1862) 32 LJ Ch 104; Re Westbrook's Trusts [1873] WN 167; Re Benjamin, Neville v Benjamin [1902] 1 Ch 723). See also Re Doherty [1961] IR 219.

3 Re Westminster Bank Ltd's Declaration of Trust [1963] 2 All ER 400n, [1963] 1 WLR 820; Re White, White v Edmond [1901] 1 Ch 570; Re Thornhill, Thornhill v Nixon [1904] WN 112, CA; see Re Hocking, Michell v Loe [1898] 2 Ch 567, CA. But it has been said that trustees may with complete safety and propriety deal with their funds on the basis that a woman of 70 will not have a further child: Re Pettifor's Will Trusts, Roberts v Roberts [1966] Ch 257 at 260, [1966] 1 All ER 913 at 915 per Pennycuik J. It should be borne in mind that more accurate medical evidence is now available than when the old cases were decided and ought to be put before the court: see Re Westminster Bank Ltd's Declaration of Trust [1963] 2 All ER 400n at 401, [1963] 1 WLR 820 at 823 per Wilberforce J.

4 See PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS.

5 Perpetuities and Accumulations Act 1964 s 2(1)(a). In the case of a living person evidence may, however, be given to show that he or she will or will not be able to have a child at the time in question: s 2(1)(b). See PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS vol 35 (Reissue) PARA 1066. Note that the former statutory presumption that a boy under the age of 14 years was incapable of sexual intercourse has been abolished: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 29.

6 See eg Re Shephard, George v Thyer [1904] 1 Ch 456; Taczanowska (otherwise Roth) v Taczanowski [1957] P 301, [1957] 2 All ER 563, CA. As to the presumption of validity see Tweney v Tweney [1946] P 180, [1946] 1 All ER 564.

7 See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1103. Legality and regularity.

1103. Legality and regularity.

In accordance with the common law maxim that everything has been done according to due form¹, formal requisites to judicial, official or public acts, or to titles to property which are good in substance, will be presumed². The maxim has a wide application in different areas of the law. Thus a lawful origin will be presumed for proprietary rights which have been exercised for a long time where the exercise of any such right might have been interrupted or prevented by the person against whom the right is claimed³; evidence of long user of a chapel as such raises a presumption of its due consecration⁴; there is a presumption in favour of the good faith and validity of transactions which have long stood unchallenged⁵, and of the validity of documents not less than 20 years old produced from proper custody⁶; where a document has been lost there is a presumption that it was properly stamped⁷; erasures or interlineations in a deed are presumed to have been made before the execution of the instrument⁸; where a will is in proper form and due attestation is proved the court will presume that the testator knew and approved of its contents⁹; there is a presumption in favour of persons dealing with a company that acts within its constitution and powers have been properly and duly performed¹⁰; and where the consent of an officer or authority is required before a prosecution may be brought there is a rebuttable presumption that the consent has been given¹¹.

The fact that a person acted in an official capacity raises a rebuttable¹² presumption of due appointment to that office, even though the appointment is required to be by deed¹³ and is directly in issue in the proceedings¹⁴, and even though it can only be shown that the person so acted on a single occasion, and the case is a criminal one¹⁵.

This common law rule has, in some cases, found statutory expression, for example in the proof of appointment of officers of Revenue and Customs¹⁶. Under the Civil Procedure Rules, a document purporting to contain the written consent of a person to act as trustee and to bear his signature verified by some other person is evidence of such consent¹⁷.

1 le omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta.

2 Monke v Butler (1614) 1 Roll Rep 83; Doe d Hammond v Cooke (1829) 6 Bing 174; MacDougall v Purrier (1830) 2 Dow & Cl 135, HL; Miles v Bough (1842) 3 QB 845; Northampton County, Northern Division Case, Simpson v Wilkinson (1844) 7 Man & G 50; Harrison v Southampton Corpn (1853) 4 De GM & G 137; Baker v Cave (1857) 1 H & N 674; Gibson v Doeg (1857) 2 H & N 615; Waddington v Roberts (1868) LR 3 QB 579; Lee v Johnstone (1869) LR 1 Sc & Div 426, HL; Re Cruttenden, Davey v Lansdell (1881) 45 LT 465; St Matthew, Bethnal Green Vestry v London School Board [1898] AC 190, HL; Whelan v R [1921] 2 IR 310; Harper v Hedges [1924] 1 KB 151, CA; and see Kuruma, Son of Kaniu v R [1955] AC 197, [1955] 1 All ER 236, PC, applied in International Electronics Ltd v Weigh Data Ltd [1980] FSR 423.

3 Dalton v Angus & Co (1881) 6 App Cas 740, HL; Goodtitle d Parker v Baldwin (1809) 11 East 488; Doe d Devine v Wilson (1855) 10 Moo PCC 502; Chasemore v Richards (1859) 7 HL Cas 349; Webb v Bird (1862) 13 CBNS 841; Leconfield v Lonsdale (1870) LR 5 CP 657; Phillips v Halliday [1891] AC 228, HL; Whitmores (Edenbridge) Ltd v Stanford [1909] 1 Ch 427, following Baily & Co v Clark, Son and Morland [1902] 1 Ch 649, CA, and distinguishing Burrows v Lang [1901] 2 Ch 502; and see Davis v Whitby [1974] Ch 186, [1974] 1 All ER 806, CA; Egerton v Harding [1975] QB 62, [1974] 3 All ER 689, CA; Whitfield v Gowling (1974) 72 LGR 765, DC. The law will not presume any right which could not have had a legal origin: Lord Chesterfield v Harris [1908] 2 Ch 397, CA; affd sub nom Harris v Earl of Chesterfield [1911] AC 623, HL. A lost grant of ferry rights from the Crown may be presumed: see Earl of Dysart v Hammerton & Co [1914] 1 Ch 822, CA (revsd on other grounds sub nom Hammerton v Earl of Dysart [1916] 1 AC 57, HL); General Estates Co v Beaver [1914] 3 KB 918, CA. See further AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 789 et seq; CUSTOM AND USAGE; EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE; REAL PROPERTY; SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW.

4 Rugg v Kingsmill (1867) LR 1 A & E 343; R v Cresswell (1876) 1 QBD 446, CCR.

5 Vatcher v Paull [1915] AC 372, PC.

6 See PARA 869.

7 See PARA 961.

8 See DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 81. However, alterations and erasures in a will are presumed to be made after its execution: see eg Cooper v Bockett (1846) 4 Moo PCC 419, and WILLS vol 50 (2005 Reissue) PARA 375. As to alterations in bills of exchange see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 1561.

9 Harris v Knight (1890) 15 PD 170, CA; Re Musgrove, Davis v Mayhew [1927] P 264, CA.

10 See the Companies Act 1985 s 35 (prospectively replaced by the Companies Act 2006 s 39); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 265; and as to the previous position at common law see eg Morris v Kanssen [1946] AC 459, [1946] 1 All ER 586, HL, per Lord Simonds.

11 R v Waller [1910] 1 KB 364, CCA; Price v Humphries [1958] 2 QB 353, [1958] 2 All ER 725, DC. But the prosecution must be in a position to prove consent if the matter is raised by the defence before the end of the prosecution's case: R v Waller [1910] 1 KB 364, CCA; and Price v Humphries [1958] 2 QB 353, [1958] 2 All ER 725, DC. As to cases in which the direction or consent of an officer or authority is required see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1071-1072.

12 As to rebuttal see Woollett v Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries [1955] 1 QB 103, [1954] 3 All ER 529, CA.

13 Doe d James v Brawn (1821) 5 B & Ald 243.

14 Faulkner v Johnson (1843) 11 M & W 581; Dexter v Hayes (1860) 11 ICLR 106; affd sub nom Hayes v Dexter (1861) 13 ICLR 22, Ex Ch.

15 R v Roberts (1878) 38 LT 690, CCR; R v Lawson [1905] 1 KB 541, CCR. The appointment of the following officials has been held to be provable in this manner: Lords of the Treasury (R v Jones (1809) 2 Camp 131); deputy county court judges (R v Roberts (1878) 38 LT 690, CCR); commissioners for oaths (R v Howard (1832) 1 Mood & R 187; R v Newton (1844) 1 Car & Kir 469; and see R v Murphy and Douglas (1837) 8 C & P 297); surrogates (R v Verelst (1813) 3 Camp 432); incumbents (Bevan v Williams (1776) 3 Term Rep 635n; cf Miller v Wheatley (1890) 28 LR Ir 144); sheriffs and under-sheriffs (Bunbury v Matthews (1844) 1 Car & Kir 380; Doe d James v Brawn (1821) 5 B & Ald 243; Plumer v Briscoe (1847) 11 QB 46; Robinson v Collingwood (1864) 17 CBNS 777); justices of the peace, constables and watchmen, even though the appointments were, in some cases, made under local Acts (Berryman v Wise (1791) 4 Term Rep 366; Butler v Ford (1833) 1 Cr & M 662); churchwardens (Doe d Bowley v Barnes (1846) 8 QB 1037); trustees for raising rates under local Acts (R v Murphy and Douglas (1837) 8 C & P 297); trustees under a turnpike Act (Pritchard v Walker (1827) 3 C & P 212); bank directors (R v Boaler (1892) 67 LT 354, and see R v Lawson [1905] 1 KB 541, CCR); surgeons (Gremare v Le Clerk Bois Valon (1809) 2 Camp 144; Cope v Rowlands (1836) 2 M & W 149; but in a claim for fees, registration in accordance with statute must be proved: see the Medical Act 1983 s 46(1) (amended by SI 2002/3135; SI 2006/1914; and SI 2007/3101)); weigh-masters of market towns (M'Mahon v Lennard (1858) 6 HL Cas 970; Dexter v Hayes (1860) 11 ICLR 106; affd sub nom Hayes v Dexter (1861) 13 ICLR 22, Ex Ch); and attested soldiers in the recruiting services (Wolton v Gavin (1850) 16 QB 48).

16 See the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 154(1)(c); and CUSTOMS AND EXCISE vol 12(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1204.

17 CPR 33.8. See further TRUSTS.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1104. When the presumption of regularity does not apply.

1104. When the presumption of regularity does not apply.

The force of the common law maxim that everything has been done according to due form¹ varies with all the circumstances². It may be applied in a criminal case only with great care³, and it has no application where there is definite evidence to prove or disprove what is sought to be presumed⁴, nor where the giving or taking away of jurisdiction is in question⁵, nor where it is sought to impose by it an obligation rather than to presume a right⁶.

1 le omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta.

2 Re Bercovitz, Canning v Enever [1961] 2 All ER 481, [1961] 1 WLR 892; on appeal [1962] 1 All ER 552, [1962] 1 WLR 321, CA.

3 See Scott v Baker [1969] 1 QB 659, [1968] 2 All ER 993, DC.

4 Harris v Knight (1890) 15 PD 170, CA; and see Re Bercovitz, Canning v Enever [1962] 1 All ER 552, [1962] 1 WLR 321, CA.

5 See Edwick v Sunbury-on-Thames UDC (1959) 12 P & CR 38, CA.

6 Simpson v A-G [1904] AC 476, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1105. Unexplained circumstances and suppression of evidence.

1105. Unexplained circumstances and suppression of evidence.

As between an innocent and a guilty party¹, unexplained circumstances are presumed unfavourably to the wrongdoer². Thus a person who, having converted property, refuses to produce it so that its exact value may be known, is liable for the greatest value such an article could have³; and an unfavourable inference will be drawn in the case of one who destroys or suppresses⁴, or fails to produce, evidence⁵, or who declines to give evidence in support of his case, even though he is in court⁶.

1 This rule does not apply to a client who, in the exercise of his privilege, refuses to allow his solicitor to disclose confidential communications: Wentworth v Lloyd (1864) 10 HL Cas 589.

2 Childrens v Saxby (1683) 1 Vern 207; Armory v Delamirie (1722) 1 Stra 505; Hammersmith and City Rly Co v Brand (1869) LR 4 HL 171; cf Williamson v Rover Cycle Co [1901] 2 IR 615, CA. This rule is sometimes expressed in the maxim omnia praesumuntur contra spoliatores.

3 Armory v Delamirie (1722) 1 Stra 505; Coldman v Hill [1919] 1 KB 443, CA; Smith Ltd v Great Western Rly Co [1921] 2 KB 237, CA; Banco de Portugal v Waterlow & Sons Ltd (1931) 145 LT 362, CA; on appeal [1932] AC 452, HL. As to conversion see TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARA 548 et seq.

4 Lewis v Lewis (1680) Cas temp Finch 471; Wardour v Berisford (1687) 1 Vern 452; Cowper v Earl Cowper (1734) 2 P Wms 720; Delany v Tenison (1758) 3 Bro Parl Cas 659, HL; James v Biou, Owen v Flack (1826) 2 Sim & St 600; Gray v Haig (1855) 20 Beav 219; A-G v Dean and Canons of Windsor (1858) 24 Beav 679; The Ophelia [1916] 2 AC 206, PC. But where the means of ascertaining the truth have not been suppressed by the defendant's wrongful act, there is a presumption against the claimant's demand. Hence, in a claim for goods sold and delivered, it should be presumed, in the absence of proof of value, that the goods delivered were the cheapest in which the claimant dealt (Clunnes v Pezzey (1807) 1 Camp 8), and similarly, in a claim for money lent, on failure to prove value, it should be presumed that the bank note lent to the defendant was the lowest in circulation in this country (Lawton v Sweeney (1844) 8 Jur 964).

5 Roe v Harvey (1769) 4 Burr 2484; Lumley v Wagner (1852) 1 De GM & G 604; Wisniewski v Central Manchester Health Authority [1998] PIQR P324, CA (adverse inferences drawn from the failure of a party to a medical negligence claim to call a key individual as a witness).

6 Barker v Furlong [1891] 2 Ch 172. This rule has no application to a witness who declines to answer on the ground of privilege: Wentworth v Lloyd (1864) 10 HL Cas 589. In criminal cases, adverse inferences may be drawn from the accused's failure to answer questions or account for certain matters during police interviews and from his failure to give evidence at trial: see the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 ss 34-38; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1552-1555.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/C. PRESUMPTIONS/1106. Other presumptions.

1106. Other presumptions.

Various presumptions are dealt with elsewhere in this work. These include the presumptions of a resulting trust on a conveyance to a stranger¹; of advancement on a conveyance to a wife or child²; of satisfaction of legacies by portions and portions by legacies³ or of debts by legacies⁴; of performance of covenants to purchase and settle land by a purchase of suitable land⁵; of presumptions for and against merger⁶; as to the boundaries of property⁷; as to easements⁸; as to the existence and ownership of copyright⁹; of legitimacy¹⁰; of sanity and the continuance of insanity¹¹; in matrimonial proceedings¹²; and as to the construction of statutes¹³.

In addition, many statutes establish particular presumptions in order to facilitate proof of material facts¹⁴; and where in any civil proceedings, evidence is admitted¹⁵ of the fact that a person has been convicted of an offence, or has been found guilty of adultery in any matrimonial proceedings, or has been adjudged to be the father of a child in any relevant court proceedings, the burden is cast on the person against whom the conviction or finding was made to disprove the facts upon which it was based¹⁶, except that in a claim for libel or slander proof that a claimant stands convicted of an offence is conclusive evidence that he committed that offence¹⁷.

¹ See Shephard v Cartwright [1955] AC 431, [1954] 3 All ER 649, HL; and TRUSTS vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 713.

² See GIFTS vol 52 (2009) PARA 244; CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; TRUSTS vol 48 (2007 Reissue) PARA 715.

³ See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 740.

⁴ See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 751.

⁵ See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 754.

⁶ See EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARAS 767-768.

⁷ See BOUNDARIES; WATER AND WATERWAYS.

⁸ See EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE.

⁹ See COPYRIGHT, DESIGN RIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 431-432.

¹⁰ See CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 94-97.

¹¹ See MENTAL HEALTH vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 597.

¹² See MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 352 (adultery), PARA 394 (desertion), and PARA 415 et seq (death and dissolution).

¹³ See eg STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARAS 1285-1288, 1416, 1433, 1440, 1470 et seq.

¹⁴ Eg persons expressed to be parties to a conveyance must be presumed, until the contrary is proved, to be of full age at the date of the conveyance: see the Law of Property Act 1925 s 15; and PARA 1095. There is a rebuttable presumption that a bill of exchange has been validly delivered by all parties: Bills of Exchange Act 1882 s 21(3). Any document purporting to have been issued or signed by or with the authority of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs is to be treated as having been so issued or signed unless the contrary is proved, and is admissible in any legal proceedings: Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 24(1). For the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 36 (failure to comply with traffic directions), a traffic sign placed on or near a road is deemed to be of the prescribed size, colour and type, or of another character authorised by the Secretary of State, and to have been lawfully so placed, unless the contrary is proved (s 36(1), (3)); and cf Woodriff v Plowman (1962) 60 LGR 183, DC; Tingle Jacobs & Co v Kennedy [1964] 1 All ER 888n, [1964] 1 WLR 638n, CA (presumption that traffic light is working properly unless there is evidence to the contrary). See further ROAD TRAFFIC.

15 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 ss 11-13; and PARAS 1208-1211.

16 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 ss 11(2), 12(2); and PARAS 1208, 1211.

17 See the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 13(1) (amended by the Defamation Act 1996 s 12(1)); and PARA 1209.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/D. VIEWS AND INSPECTIONS/1107. Inspection in court.

D. VIEWS AND INSPECTIONS

1107. Inspection in court.

Information as to the facts of a case may be given to the court or jury¹, not only by the spoken words of witnesses or the written words of documents², but also by means of the court's or jury's own observation of persons or things in court³; or of pictures, photographs⁴, plans⁵, models⁶, tape recordings⁷ or films⁸; or of experiments made in the presence of the court⁹. The most common instance of this mode of proof is supplied by the demeanour and manner of a witness under examination. These constitute relevant elements in the consideration of the truthfulness of his statements¹⁰. The appearance of a person is admissible evidence, and in some cases sufficient evidence, as to his age¹¹.

Disputed handwriting may be compared in court by judge, jury or a witness with a specimen which is proved to be genuine¹². Where a party complains that his exclusive right to a picture, design, mark or name has been infringed, or where the question is whether a picture, design, mark or name is so like another as to be calculated to deceive the public, the most satisfactory test is an appeal to the eyesight or hearing of the judge¹³. No witness, indeed, should be asked whether the thing complained of is likely to deceive, because that is the very question which the court has to decide¹⁴.

1 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

2 As to inspection of documents in general see PARA 538 et seq; and as to the inspection of documents by the court to determine whether they should be withheld on grounds of public interest immunity see PARA 579.

3 In an action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) in respect of a dog bite, the dog itself may be brought into the presence of the jury, in order that its temper may be judged by its demeanour: Line v Taylor (1862) 3 F & F 731. Such evidence is often classified as 'real' evidence: see PARA 965. On a charge of being in possession of special paper, such as is used in the production of bank notes, it is not necessary for a genuine bank note to be produced to the jury for comparison: R v Woods (1922) 91 LJB 728, CCA; cf R v Keith (1855) Dears CC 486.

4 As to photographs see PARA 958.

5 As to plans see PARAS 954-955.

6 Nalder v Clayton and Shuttleworth (1859) Macr 371.

7 As to tape recordings etc see PARA 958.

8 The Statue of Liberty [1968] 2 All ER 195, [1968] 1 WLR 739. See also PARA 958.

9 Bigsby v Dickinson (1876) 4 ChD 24, CA; Twentyman v Barnes (1848) 2 De G & Sm 225. As to view or inspection out of court see PARA 1108. As to orders for a person to submit to inspection out of court see PARA 794. As to orders for the inspection or preservation etc of property see PARA 793.

10 As to witnesses generally see PARA 966 et seq.

11 Cf PARA 1077. Evidence is admissible to show the likeness of a child to its alleged parent where its parentage is in issue, but little weight is likely to be given to it: see C v C and C [1972] 3 All ER 577, [1972] 1 WLR 1335; and PARA 1068. The court will examine injuries and their effect when assessing damages, but it is generally impractical and undesirable for the Court of Appeal to do so: Stevens v William Nash Ltd[1966] 3 All ER 156, [1966] 1 WLR 1550, CA.

12 See PARA 834.

13 Holdsworth v M'Crea(1867) LR 2 HL 380; Hecla Foundry Co v Walker, Hunter & Co(1889) 14 App Cas 550, HL; J Harper & Co Ltd v Wright and Butler Lamp Manufacturing Co Ltd[1896] 1 Ch 142, CA; Bourne v Swan and Edgar Ltd, Re Bourne's Trade-Marks[1903] 1 Ch 211. However, a claim for deceit, based on the resemblance between an article of the defendant and that of the claimant, cannot be decided merely by the judge's inspection: London General Omnibus Co Ltd v Lavelle[1901] 1 Ch 135, CA (as explained by Farwell J in Bourne v Swan and Edgar Ltd, Re Bourne's Trade-Marks[1903] 1 Ch 211); Mitchell v Henry(1880) 15 ChD 181, CA; London General Omnibus Co Ltd v Felton (1896) 12 TLR 213.

14 North Cheshire and Manchester Brewery Co Ltd v Manchester Brewery Co Ltd[1899] AC 83, HL; Payton & Co Ltd v Snelling, Lampard & Co Ltd[1901] AC 308, HL. A witness may be asked, however, if in fact he was or was not deceived: Royal Warrant Holders' Association v Edward Deane and Beal Ltd[1912] 1 Ch 10; Claudius Ash, Sons & Co Ltd v Invicta Manufacturing Co Ltd (1912) 29 RPC 465, HL. As to evidence of opinion generally see PARA 826.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/20. EVIDENCE/(9) COMMON LAW RULES AS TO PROOF/(ii) Special Modes of Proof/D. VIEWS AND INSPECTIONS/1108. View or inspection out of court.

1108. View or inspection out of court.

The judge may arrange to view a relevant place¹ or to inspect an object out of court if it is impossible or inconvenient to bring that object to court². The authorities indicate that each of the parties, and the jury, if there is one³, should normally be present at a view or out of court inspection or demonstration in civil proceedings⁴ but that in appropriate circumstances the judge may visit a relevant location in order to see what has previously been represented to him in court by plan and photograph on his own and without reference to the parties⁵. Under the old civil procedure specific provision was made by rules of court⁶ for holding a view but such provision has not been reproduced in the Civil Procedure Rules⁷. Views and out of court inspections or demonstrations thus take place in the exercise of the court's inherent jurisdiction to regulate its own procedure⁸ and in the exercise of its specific powers to control the evidence under the Civil Procedure Rules⁹.

1 Often referred to as the 'locus in quo'.

2 See eg London General Omnibus Co Ltd v Lavell [1901] 1 Ch 135, CA (inspection of an omnibus); Buckingham v Daily News Ltd [1956] 2 QB 534, [1956] 2 All ER 904, CA (demonstration of a machine). As to orders for a person to submit to inspection out of court see PARA 794. As to orders for the inspection or preservation etc of property see PARA 793.

3 As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

4 Goold v Evans & Co [1951] 2 TLR 1189, CA. The expression 'view' is used indifferently to describe two different things; a view of the static condition of a public place, and a demonstration in which events with which the court is concerned are simulated: Salsbury v Woodland [1970] 1 QB 324 at 343, [1969] 3 All ER 863 at 873, CA, per Widgery LJ. A view is part of the evidence: Karamat v R [1956] AC 256, [1956] 1 All ER 415, PC (a view is in substitution for or supplemental to plans, photographs and the like). As to applications for a view see Tito v Waddell [1975] 3 All ER 997, [1975] 1 WLR 1303. Every demonstration by a witness on a view is evidence in the case. If a witness on oath makes a false demonstration, he is guilty of perjury: Tameshwar v R [1957] AC 476, [1957] 2 All ER 683, PC; Goold v Evans & Co [1951] 2 TLR 1189, CA; Buckingham v Daily News Ltd [1956] 2 QB 534, [1956] 2 All ER 904, CA, where the restrictive statement of the evidential value of a view expressed in London General Omnibus Co Ltd v Lavell [1901] 1 Ch 135, CA, was disapproved. See also Payton & Co Ltd v Snelling, Lampard & Co Ltd [1901] AC 308, HL; cf Kessowji Issur v Great Indian Peninsular Rly Co (1907) 96 LT 859, PC (where a judgment based on the Court of Appeal's own inspection of the locus in quo, and not on the evidence given at the trial, was reversed, such procedure being irregular); Roberts v Great Eastern Rly Co (1872) 36 JP Jo 52; R v Lawrence [1968] 1 All ER 579, [1968] 1 WLR 341, CA; R v Nixon [1968] 2 All ER 33, [1968] 1 WLR 577, CA. As to the caution to be exercised in applying pre-CPR authorities see PARA 33 text and note 2.

5 Where there is anything in the nature of a demonstration, representatives of all parties should be present: Goold v Evans & Co [1951] 2 TLR 1189, CA; Salsbury v Woodland [1970] 1 QB 324, [1969] 3 All ER 863, CA. Where there is a static view, the judge may go alone, although it is undesirable that he should do so without warning the parties of his intention: Salsbury v Woodland [1970] 1 QB 324, [1969] 3 All ER 863, CA. See also Hare v British Transport Commission [1956] 1 All ER 578, [1956] 1 WLR 250. Where a jury attends a view, and there is a demonstration by a witness, it is eminently desirable for the judge to be present (Karamat v R [1956] AC 256, [1956] 1 All ER 415, PC); but in the case of a simple view, without witnesses, and where no demonstration takes place, the judge's absence is not a fatal defect in the trial (Tameshwar v R [1957] AC 476, [1957] 2 All ER 683, PC). See also Re Gregson and Armstrong (1894) 70 LT 106 (view by arbitrator); and for a discussion of the recent authorities see Gibbons v DPP CO/1480/2000 (12 December 2000, unreported) at paras [5]-[11], DC, per Waller LJ.

6 See RSC Ord 35 r 8; CCR Ord 22 r 6 (both revoked).

7 As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.

8 As to a court's inherent jurisdiction to regulate its own procedure see generally COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 303. Sittings of the High Court may be held, and any other business of the High Court may be conducted, at any place in England or Wales: Supreme Court Act 1981 s 71(1); PARA 64; and see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 505. As to the inherent jurisdiction of county courts see Langley v North West Water Authority [1991] 3 All ER 610, [1991] 1 WLR 697, CA; and COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 702. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

9 As to the power to control evidence see CPR 32.1; and PARA 791.

UPDATE

1108 View or inspection out of court

TEXT AND NOTES 4, 5--Where there is a multi-member tribunal, all members must attend a view: R (on the application of Broxbourne BC) v North and East Hertfordshire Magistrates' Court [2009] EWHC 695 (Admin), [2009] LLR 493, [2009] All ER (D) 96 (Apr).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/ (1) PLACE OF TRIAL/1109. In general.

21. THE TRIAL PROCESS

(1) PLACE OF TRIAL

1109. In general.

The court may deal with a case at any place that it considers appropriate¹. The High Court has power to hold hearings, receive evidence and conduct trials anywhere within or outside the jurisdiction². The jurisdiction of a county court to hold hearings and conduct trials is generally limited to the court for the district in which the court is situated³. Certain claims relating, in particular, to land must normally be commenced in the county court for the district in which the land is situated⁴ unless there are factors justifying the commencement of proceedings in the High Court⁵.

1 See CPR 2.7; and PARA 72.

2 See Tito v Waddell [1975] 3 All ER 997 at 1002, [1975] 1 WLR 1303 at 1308 per Megarry J (a view of the locus concerned in a case is the reception of evidence, so that it is part of the trial process).

3 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 1; and PARA 58. Proceedings may, however, be transferred between county courts or between a county court and the High Court: see CPR Pt 30; and PARA 66 et seq. As to the place of trial of claims in the various case management tracks see PARAS 1110-1112.

4 See CPR 56.2(1); CPR 55.1, 55.3; and PARA 116 text and notes 22-24.

5 See Practice Direction--Landlord and Tenant Claims and Miscellaneous Provisions about Land PD 56 para 2.4; Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 paras 1.1-1.4; and PARA 116 text and notes 22-24.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/ (1) PLACE OF TRIAL/1110. Place of hearing in small claims track.

1110. Place of hearing in small claims track.

The hearing of a claim in the small claims track¹ will normally be held in the judge's² room at the county court where the claim was commenced, but it may take place in a courtroom³. Moreover, it may be held at a place other than at the court, such as at the home or business premises of a party⁴. In such case the hearing will not be in public⁵.

1 As to cases normally allocated to the small claims track see PARA 267; and as to case management in the small claims track see PARA 274 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

3 See Practice Direction--Small Claims Track PD 27 para 4.2.

4 See CPR 2.7; Practice Direction--Small Claims Track PD 27 para 4.1(3).

5 Practice Direction--Small Claims Track PD 27 para 4.1(3). See also CPR 39.2; and PARAS 6, 1117.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/ (1) PLACE OF TRIAL/1111. Place of hearing in fast track.

1111. Place of hearing in fast track.

The trial of a claim allocated to the fast track¹ will normally take place at the county court where the case has been managed, but it may be heard at another court if it is appropriate having regard to the needs of the parties and the availability of court resources².

1 As to cases normally allocated to the fast track see PARA 268; and as to case management in the fast track see PARA 286 et seq.

2 See Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 8.1; and PARA 291.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/ (1) PLACE OF TRIAL/1112. Place of hearing in multi-track.

1112. Place of hearing in multi-track.

The trial of a claim which has been commenced and is being managed at the Royal Courts of Justice will take place there, unless it is transferred elsewhere¹. The trial of a claim allocated to the multi-track² will normally take place at a civil trial centre³.

1 As to cases which are suitable for trial at the Royal Courts of Justice see Practice Direction--The Multi-track PD 29 para 2.6; and PARA 294. As to the transfer of certain cases for trial (and management) at a county court trial centre see paras 2.2, 2.3; and PARA 294 note 1. As to transfer generally see CPR Pt 30; and PARA 66 et seq.

2 As to claims normally allocated to the multi-track see PARA 269.

3 See Practice Direction--Case Management--Preliminary Stage: Allocation and Re-allocation PD 26A para 10.2(3); and PARA 269. If a claim, which has been commenced in a court which is not a civil trial centre (called a 'feeder court': see PARA 269) is allocated to the multi-track, it will be transferred to a civil trial centre for case management and trial: see Practice Direction--Case Management--Preliminary Stage: Allocation and Re-allocation PD 26A para 10.2(4)-(12); and PARA 269. For the exceptions to this rule see PARA 269 text and notes 6-7.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(2) DATE OF TRIAL AND LISTING FOR TRIAL/1113. Date and listing in the small claims track.

(2) DATE OF TRIAL AND LISTING FOR TRIAL

1113. Date and listing in the small claims track.

The date for the hearing of a claim allocated to the small claims track¹ will be fixed as part of the process of allocating the claim² or, if the date for a preliminary hearing is fixed, at that hearing, if the claim is not disposed of at the preliminary hearing³.

1 As to cases normally allocated to the small claims track see PARA 267.

2 See CPR 27.4; and PARA 277.

3 See CPR 27.6(5); and PARA 278.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(2) DATE OF TRIAL AND LISTING FOR TRIAL/1114. Date and listing in the fast track.

1114. Date and listing in the fast track.

When the court allocates a claim to the fast track¹ and gives directions², the court will fix the trial date³ or fix a period, not exceeding three weeks, within which the trial is to take place⁴. The trial date or trial period will be specified in the notice of allocation⁵. The standard period between the giving of directions and the trial will be not more than 30 weeks⁶. The fast track is the normal track for a claim only where the court considers that the trial is likely to last for no longer than a day⁷. So that the court can assess the likely length of the trial and fix a date for it to be held having regard to the availability of witnesses, the court sends pre-trial check lists⁸ to the parties, who must complete and file them not more than eight weeks before the trial date or the beginning of the trial period⁹. An order for the postponement of a trial will only be made in exceptional circumstances¹⁰ and will be an order of last resort¹¹.

1 As to cases normally allocated to the fast track see PARA 268. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Ie under CPR 28.2, CPR 28.3: see PARA 287.

3 See CPR 28.2(2)(a); and PARA 287.

4 See CPR 28.2(2)(b); and PARA 287.

5 See CPR 28.2(3); and PARA 287.

6 See CPR 28.2(4); and PARA 287.

7 See CPR 26.6(5)(a); and PARA 291. If the trial is not finished on the day for which it is listed for trial, the judge will normally sit on the next court day in order to complete it: see Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 8.6; and PARA 291. As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

There are also limits on the number of expert witnesses who may give oral evidence: see CPR 26.6(5)(b); and PARA 291.

8 See Form N170 in The Civil Court Practice.

9 See CPR 28.5; and PARA 290. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

10 See Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 5.4(1); and PARA 289. If case management directions have not been complied with so that the parties may not be ready for trial on the date fixed, the court will give such directions as are necessary to ensure, so far as possible, that at least some of the issues in the case can be tried on that date: see generally PARA 289.

11 See Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 5.4(6); and PARA 289 note 4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(2) DATE OF TRIAL AND LISTING FOR TRIAL/1115. Date and listing in the multi-track.

1115. Date and listing in the multi-track.

When the court allocates a claim to the multi-track¹ and gives directions², consideration is given to the date of trial or the period within which the trial is to take place, and, either at that stage or at a case management conference³, the court will fix the date or period as soon as practicable⁴. So that the court can assess the likely length of the trial and fix a date for it to be held having regard to the availability of witnesses, the court may send pre-trial check lists⁵ to the parties, who must complete and file them⁶ by the date specified⁷. If no party files the completed pre-trial check list by the date specified, the court will order that unless a completed pre-trial check list is filed within seven days from service of that order, the claim, defence and any counterclaim will be struck out without further order of the court⁸.

If:

- 182 (1) a party files a completed pre-trial check list but another party does not;
- 183 (2) a party has failed to give all the information requested by the pre-trial check list; or
- 184 (3) the court considers that a hearing is necessary to enable it to decide what directions to give in order to complete preparation of the case for trial, the court may give such directions as it thinks appropriate⁹. The court may also fix a date for a pre-trial review¹⁰.

An order for the postponement of a trial will only be made in exceptional circumstances¹¹.

There are special provisions for the listing of trials at the Royal Courts of Justice¹².

1 As to cases normally allocated to the multi-track see PARA 269. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Ie under CPR 29.2(1): see PARA 294.

3 The hearing of the case management conference is fixed when the claim is allocated: see CPR 29.2(1)(b); and PARA 294.

4 See CPR 29.2(2); and PARA 294.

5 See Form N170 in The Civil Court Practice.

6 See CPR 29.6; and PARA 299.

7 Ie under CPR 29.2(3)(b): see PARA 294.

8 See CPR 29.6(3); and PARA 299.

9 See CPR 29.6(4); and PARA 299.

10 See CPR 29.3(1)(b); CPR 29.7; and PARAS 295, 300. Where the trial is estimated to last more than ten days or where the circumstances require it, the court may direct that a pre-trial review be held, usually before a judge, between eight and four weeks before the trial date: see The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) paras 7.6.1, 7.6.2; and see The Civil Court Practice.

11 See Practice Direction--The Multi-track PD 29 para 7.4(1); and PARA 298. If case management directions have not been complied with so that the parties may not be ready for trial on the date fixed, the court will give such directions as are necessary to ensure, so far as possible, that at least some of the issues in the case can be tried on that date: see generally PARA 298.

Courts cannot perform their duty of conducting cases justly if the preferences for hearing dates of doctors are always given priority over all other considerations. The right course for the parties to adopt is to attempt to reach agreement themselves as to the dates which can be met, to consult with court, and with the court's co-operation to find a date within a reasonable time for the hearing: see Matthews v Tarmac Bricks and Tiles Ltd [1999] CPLR 463, CA (application for permission to appeal from a decision of a county court judge, before the new civil procedure came into force, setting a hearing date when expert witnesses would be unavailable). It is not acceptable when a trial date is fairly imminent for a solicitor to seek to instruct an expert without checking the availability of that expert for the trial. If the solicitor does carry out the check and there is no reasonable prospect of securing his attendance for a year, then the solicitor should instruct another expert: Rollinson v Kimberly Clark Ltd [1999] All ER (D) 617, [1999] CPLR 581, CA. As to adjournment of a trial see also *Great Future International Ltd v Sealand Housing Corp*n [2001] All ER (D) 56 (Jun), [2001] CPLR 293.

12 See The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) Ch 8; and The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) para 9.1 et seq, which provide for the jury list and the trial list and for the listing of claims for trial after the court has directed, under its case management powers, that the trial take place within a particular period under CPR 29.2(2) (see the text and note 4); and see The Civil Court Practice. As to jury trial see PARA 1132.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(2) DATE OF TRIAL AND LISTING FOR TRIAL/1116. Date and listing for Part 8 claims.

1116. Date and listing for Part 8 claims.

Where a claim has been commenced using the alternative procedure¹, the court may fix a date for the hearing immediately it is issued, either on the application of a party or on its own initiative². Where the court has not fixed a date for the hearing upon the issue of the claim, it will do so as soon as practicable after the defendant has acknowledged service of the claim form³ or, if he does not do so, after the period for doing so has expired⁴. In certain claims required to be brought using the alternative procedure⁵, the court will fix a date for the hearing when the claim form is issued⁶.

1 Ie under CPR Pt 8: see PARA 127 et seq.

2 See Practice Direction--Alternative Procedure for Claims PD 8 para 6.1; and PARA 137. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 Ie under CPR 8.3: see PARA 130.

4 See Practice Direction--Alternative Procedure for Claims PD 8 para 6.2; and PARA 137.

5 As to claims required to be brought using the alternative procedure see PARA 127; and see The Civil Court Practice.

6 See Practice Direction--Alternative Procedure for Claims PD 8 para 20.9; and PARA 127 note 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1117. General rule that hearing is to be in public.

(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL

1117. General rule that hearing is to be in public.

The general rule is that a hearing, which includes a trial¹, is to be held in public². The requirement for a hearing to be in public does not require the court³ to make special arrangements for accommodating members of the public⁴. A hearing, or any part of it, may, however, be in private if certain conditions are satisfied⁵. These conditions have already been discussed in connection with the hearing of applications⁶.

The court may order that the identity of any party or witness must not be disclosed if it considers non-disclosure necessary in order to protect the interests of that party or witness⁷.

If the hearing of a claim in the small claims track is held otherwise than at a court or if the parties agree, the hearing will not be in public⁸.

When a hearing takes place in public, members of the public may obtain a transcript of any judgment given or a copy of any order made, subject to payment of the appropriate fee⁹.

1 In CPR Pt 39 (see PARA 1120 et seq), reference to a hearing includes a reference to the trial: CPR 39.1.

2 CPR 39.2(1); see also the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 art 6(1); and PARA 5; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 CPR 39.2(2). The judge may, if appropriate, adjourn a hearing to a larger room or court in order to accommodate members of the public: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 1.10. As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

5 See CPR 39.2(3); and PARA 6. The decision as to whether to hold a hearing in public or in private must be made by the judge conducting the hearing having regard to any representations which may have been made to him: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 1.4. If the court or judge's room in which the proceedings are taking place has a sign on the door indicating that the proceedings are private, members of the public who are not parties to the proceedings will not be admitted unless the court permits: para 1.9. Where there is no such sign on the door of the court or judge's room, members of the public will be admitted where practicable: para 1.10.

References to hearings being in public or private or in a judge's room contained in the Civil Procedure Rules (including the Rules of the Supreme Court and the County Court Rules scheduled to CPR Pt 50: see CPR Schs 1, 2; and PARA 30 text and note 20) and the practice directions which supplement them do not restrict any existing rights of audience or confer any new rights of audience in respect of applications or proceedings which under the rules previously in force would have been heard in court or in chambers respectively: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 1.14.

6 See PARA 6.

7 See CPR 39.2(4); and PARA 6.

8 See Practice Direction--Small Claims Track PD 27 para 4.1; Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 1.7; and PARAS 279, 6, 1110.

9 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 1.11. When a judgment is given or an order is made in private, if any member of the public who is not a party to the proceedings seeks a transcript of the judgment or a copy of the order, he must seek the leave of the judge who gave the judgment or made the order: para 1.12. A judgment or order given or made in private, when drawn up, must have clearly marked in the title: 'Before [title and name of judge] sitting in Private': para 1.13. As to judgments and orders see further PARA 1136 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1118. Evidence generally.

1118. Evidence generally.

The court¹ may control the evidence by giving directions as to the issues on which it requires evidence², the nature of the evidence which it requires to decide those issues³, and the way in which the evidence is to be placed before the court⁴. The court may use this power to exclude evidence that would otherwise be admissible⁵ and it may limit cross-examination⁶. The general rule is that any fact which needs to be proved by the evidence of witnesses is to be proved at trial, by their oral evidence given in public⁷. The court may allow a witness to give evidence through a video link or by other means⁸. Expert evidence is limited to that which is reasonably required to resolve the proceedings⁹.

In any legal proceedings in Wales the Welsh language may be spoken by any party, witness or other person who desires to use it, subject in the case of proceedings in a court other than a magistrates' court to such prior notice as may be required by rules of court; and any necessary provision for interpretation must be made accordingly¹⁰. Any power to make rules of court includes power to make provision as to the use, in proceedings in or having a connection with Wales, of documents in the Welsh language¹¹. A translation in the Welsh language of any prescribed form of oath or affirmation to be administered and taken or made by any person in any court may be prescribed¹². The Lord Chancellor may make rules as to the provision and employment of interpreters of the Welsh and English languages for the purposes of proceedings before courts in Wales¹³.

If any question or difficulty arises concerning the implementation of the practice direction which has been made under these provisions¹⁴, contact must be made in the first place with the liaison judge for the Welsh language¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 See CPR 32.1(1)(a); and PARA 791.

3 See CPR 32.1(1)(b); and PARA 791.

4 See CPR 32.1(1)(c); and PARA 791.

5 See CPR 32.1(2); and PARA 791.

6 See CPR 32.1(3); and PARA 791. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

7 See CPR 32.2(1)(a); and PARA 750. As to evidence in Part 8 claims see CPR 8.6(2), (3); and PARA 133.

8 See CPR 32.3; and PARA 750.

9 See CPR 35.1; and PARA 838. As to expert evidence generally see CPR Pt 35 and PARA 838 et seq; and as to limiting expert evidence in claims in the small claims track, the fast track and the multi-track see PARAS 280, 268, 295 respectively.

10 Welsh Language Act 1993 s 22(1). The existing practice of conducting a hearing entirely in Welsh on an ad hoc basis and without notice continues to apply when all parties and witnesses directly involved at the time consent to the proceedings being so conducted: Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 1.2. In every case in which it is possible that the Welsh language may be used by any party or witness or in any document which may be placed before the court, the parties or their legal representatives must inform the court of that fact so that appropriate arrangements can be made for the management and listing of the case: para 1.3. If costs are incurred as a result of a party failing to comply with the relevant practice direction, a costs order may be made against him or his legal representative: para 1.4.

11 Welsh Language Act 1993 s 22(2). In any proceedings in which a party is required to complete an allocation questionnaire, he must include details relating to the possible use of Welsh, ie details of any person wishing to give oral evidence in Welsh and of any documents in Welsh (eg documents to be disclosed under CPR Pt 31 (see PARA 538 et seq) or witness statements) which that party expects to use: Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 2.1. A party must include these details in the allocation questionnaire even if he has already informed the court of the possible use of Welsh in accordance with the provisions of para 1 (see note 10): para 2.2.

At any interlocutory hearing, the court will take the opportunity to consider whether it should give case management directions. To assist the court, a party or his legal representative must draw the court's attention to the possibility of Welsh being used in the proceedings, even where he has already done so in compliance with other provisions of the relevant practice direction: Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 3.1. In any case where a party is required to complete a pre-trial check list and has already intimated the intention to use Welsh, he must confirm the intended use of Welsh in the pre-trial check list and provide any details which have not been set out in the allocation questionnaire: para 3.2. The diary manager, in consultation with the designated civil judge, will ensure that a case in which the Welsh language is to be used is listed, wherever practicable, before a Welsh speaking judge and, where translation facilities are needed, at a court with simultaneous translation facilities: para 4.1.

12 See the Welsh Language Act 1993 s 23; and PARA 1021 note 5.

13 See the Welsh Language Act 1993 s 24; and PARA 1031 text and note 4. Whenever an interpreter is needed to translate evidence from English to Welsh or from Welsh to English, the court manager in whose court the case is to be heard will take steps to secure the attendance of an interpreter whose name is included in the list of approved court interpreters: Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 5.1.

14 Ie Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel: see notes 10-13; and PARA 1132.

15 Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 7.1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1119. Exhibits at trial; in general.

1119. Exhibits at trial; in general.

The detailed rules relating to exhibits to evidence are discussed elsewhere in this title¹. Exhibits which are proved at trial and handed in should be recorded on an exhibit list and kept in the custody of the court² until the conclusion of the trial, unless the judge³ directs otherwise. At the conclusion of the trial it is the parties' responsibility to obtain the return of those exhibits which they handed in and to preserve them for the period in which any appeal may take place⁴.

1 See PARAS 981, 990.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

4 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 7. As to appeals see PARA 1657 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1120. Timetable for trial.

1120. Timetable for trial.

When giving directions for trial, the court will consider setting a timetable for the trial¹ and will do so in consultation with the parties². A timetable will set or limit the time allowed for speeches, submissions and for the reception of evidence, including that allowed for the cross-examination of each witness, and may set the time when certain witnesses are to be called to give evidence³.

1 As to setting the timetable for cases allocated to the fast track see CPR 28.6(1)(b); and PARA 291; and as to setting the timetable for trial for cases allocated to the multi-track see CPR 29.8(i); and PARA 301. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 CPR 39.4. See also Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 7.2(2)(b) (for cases allocated to the fast track); Practice Direction--The Multi-track PD 29 para 9.2(2)(b) (for cases allocated to the multi-track) which provide that the parties may submit an agreed timetable for consideration by the court; see also Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 2.7, Appendix, which includes a sample timetable for a trial of a claim allocated to the fast track as part of standard directions. As to standard directions see PARA 287.

3 See the sample timetable in Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28, Appendix. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1121. Trial in the small claims track.

1121. Trial in the small claims track.

The court¹ may adopt any method of proceeding at a hearing of a claim allocated to the small claims track that it considers to be fair². The hearing will be informal³ and the strict rules of evidence will not apply⁴. The conduct of such hearings is discussed elsewhere in this title⁵.

After allocation to the small claims track, the court may give notice to the parties that it proposes to deal with the claim without a hearing and invite the parties to notify the court of their agreement by a specified date⁶.

1 The hearing of a claim allocated to the small claims track will generally be before a district judge but may be before a circuit judge if it is assigned to and heard by him with his consent: see Practice Direction--Small Claims Track PD 27 para 1; Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B paras 11.1(a), 11.2; and PARAS 279, 62 respectively. As to claims normally allocated to the small claims track see PARA 267.

2 See CPR 27.8(1); and PARA 279.

3 See CPR 27.8(2); and PARA 279.

4 See CPR 27.8(3); and PARA 279.

5 See PARA 279. As to the restriction on expert evidence at the trial see PARA 280.

6 See CPR 27.4(1)(e); and PARA 277 head (5) in the text.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1122. Trial in the fast track.

1122. Trial in the fast track.

The trial of a claim allocated to the fast track¹ may be heard by a circuit judge² or a district judge³ in a county court.

There are restrictions on the use of expert evidence⁴. Unless the trial judge otherwise directs, the trial will be conducted in accordance with any order previously made⁵; in particular, such an order may set a timetable for the trial⁶. The statements of witnesses, which have been served⁷, will stand as the witnesses' evidence in chief, unless the court orders otherwise⁸.

The conduct of fast track hearings is discussed elsewhere in this title⁹.

1 As to claims normally allocated to the fast track see PARA 268.

2 As to circuit judges see PARA 59.

3 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 11.1(a); and PARA 62.

4 See PARA 268. See also Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 7.2(4), which makes provision for directions to be given as to whether expert evidence is to be given by written report or orally, when the court has given permission for expert evidence.

5 See CPR 28.7; and PARA 291. If the trial is not finished on the day for which it is listed for trial, the judge will normally sit on the next court day in order to complete it: see Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 8.6; and PARA 291.

6 See PARA 287 text and note 9. See also Practice Direction--The Fast Track PD 28 para 8.3 (which provides for the trial judge to confirm or vary the timetable: see PARA 291) and the Appendix to that practice direction which includes a sample timetable; such a timetable will set or limit the time allowed for speeches, submissions and the reception of evidence, including cross-examination of each witness, and may set the time at which particular witnesses are to be called.

7 Ie under CPR 32.4 (see PARA 982) and in accordance with the case management directions previously given under eg CPR 28.3 (see PARA 287).

8 See CPR 32.5(2); and PARA 983. The court may order otherwise, ie that the evidence in chief be given orally, where the witness's credibility is in issue and his evidence is strongly disputed: Mercer v Chief Constable of the Lancashire Constabulary [1991] 2 All ER 504, [1991] 1 WLR 367, CA. As to the use of cases decided under the old rules as an aid to interpreting the current Civil Procedure Rules see PARA 33 text and note 2.

9 See PARA 291.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1123. Trial in the multi-track.

1123. Trial in the multi-track.

The trial of a claim commenced in the High Court and allocated to the multi-track¹ will normally take place before a High Court judge² or a deputy sitting as a High Court judge³, but may take place before a master or a district judge of a district registry with the consent of the parties⁴. In proceedings in the Chancery Division, certain additional matters may only be dealt with by a master or district judge with the consent of the Chancellor of the High Court⁵. The trial of a claim commenced in a county court and allocated to the multi-track will normally take place before a circuit judge or a recorder, but in certain circumstances may be heard by a district judge⁶.

The conduct of multi-track hearings is discussed elsewhere in this title⁷.

1 As to cases normally allocated to the multi-track see PARA 269.

2 See The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) para 10.1.1; and see The Civil Court Practice.

3 I.e. a deputy appointed under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 9 (see COURTS); but deputies may not try claims for a declaration of incompatibility or in respect of a judicial act under the Human Rights Act 1998 ss 4, 6: see Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 7A; and PARA 50 text and notes 28-29. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

4 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 4.1; and PARA 50 text and note 21. Masters and district judges may not try claims for a declaration of incompatibility or in respect of a judicial act under the Human Rights Act 1998 ss 4, 6, even with the consent of the parties: see Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 7A; and PARA 50 text and notes 28-29.

5 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 5.1; and PARA 50.

6 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 11.1; and PARA 62.

7 See PARA 301.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1124. Trial of Part 8 claims.

1124. Trial of Part 8 claims.

The trial of a Part 8 claim¹ in the High Court may be heard by a master or district judge² and in a county court by a district judge³, provided that they have jurisdiction to make all the orders sought by the claim⁴. Since the Part 8 procedure is to be used to obtain the court's decision on, or resolve, a question which is unlikely to involve a substantial dispute of fact⁵, witnesses do not generally give their evidence orally at the trial or hearing, but the court may require or permit oral evidence⁶ or give directions requiring a witness to attend for cross-examination⁷. All written evidence should have been filed and served by the date of the hearing⁸, but the court may permit a party to rely upon written evidence filed and served later⁹.

1 As to Part 8 claims see PARA 127 et seq.

2 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 4.1; and PARA 50.

3 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 11.1; and PARA 62. This is subject to exceptions: see PARA 62 note 19.

4 Where the proceedings include, eg a claim for an injunction, then the hearing will normally be before a judge, since neither a master nor a district judge has the power to make such an order except in limited circumstances: see Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 2.3; and PARA 62. As to the meaning of 'injunction' see PARA 315 note 2.

5 See CPR 8.1(2)(a); and PARA 127.

6 See CPR 8.6(2); and PARA 133.

7 See CPR 8.6(3); and PARA 133. As to the meaning of 'cross-examination' see PARA 50 note 4.

8 See CPR 8.5; CPR 8.6(1)(a); and PARAS 132, 133. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8; and as to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

9 See CPR 8.6(1)(b); and PARA 133.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1125. Bundles of documents for use at trial.

1125. Bundles of documents for use at trial.

Unless the court¹ orders otherwise, the claimant² must file³ a trial bundle containing documents required by a relevant practice direction⁴ and any court order⁵. The claimant must file the trial bundle not more than seven days and not less than three days before the start of the trial⁶.

Unless the court orders otherwise, the trial bundle must include a copy of:

- 185 (1) the claim form⁷ and all statements of case⁸;
- 186 (2) a case summary and/or chronology where appropriate;
- 187 (3) requests for further information and responses to the requests⁹;
- 188 (4) all witness statements¹⁰ to be relied on as evidence;
- 189 (5) any witness summaries¹¹;
- 190 (6) any notices of intention to rely on hearsay evidence¹²;
- 191 (7) any notices of intention to rely on evidence (such as a plan, photograph etc)¹³ which is not either contained in a witness statement, affidavit¹⁴ or expert's report¹⁵, or being given orally at trial or hearsay evidence¹⁶;
- 192 (8) any medical reports and responses to them;
- 193 (9) any experts' reports and responses to them;
- 194 (10) any order giving directions as to the conduct of the trial; and
- 195 (11) any other necessary documents¹⁷.

The originals of the documents contained in the trial bundle, together with copies of any other court orders, should be available at the trial¹⁸.

The preparation and production of the trial bundle, even where it is delegated to another person, is the responsibility of the legal representative¹⁹ who has conduct of the claim on behalf of the claimant²⁰.

If there are numerous bundles, a core bundle should be prepared containing the core documents essential to the proceedings, with references to the supplementary documents in the other bundles²¹. If a document to be included in the trial bundle is illegible, a typed copy must be included in the bundle next to it, suitably cross-referenced²².

The contents of the trial bundle should be agreed where possible. The parties should also agree where possible that the documents contained in the bundle are authentic even if not disclosed under Part 31 of the Civil Procedure Rules²³ and that documents in the bundle may be treated as evidence of the facts stated in them even if a notice under the Civil Evidence Act 1995 has not been served²⁴. Where it is not possible to agree the contents of the bundle, a summary of the points on which the parties are unable to agree should be included²⁵.

The party filing the trial bundle should supply identical bundles to all the parties to the proceedings and for the use of the witnesses²⁶.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

4 CPR 39.5(1)(a). The trial bundle should be paginated (continuously) throughout, and indexed with a description of each document and the page number. Where the total number of pages is more than 100, numbered dividers should be placed at intervals between groups of documents: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.5. The bundle should normally be contained in a ring binder or lever arch file. Where more than one bundle is supplied, they should be clearly distinguishable, eg by different colours or letters: para 3.6. For further requirements see the text and notes 7-26.

Any bundle or list of authorities prepared for the use of the court must bear a certification by the advocate responsible for arguing the case that the requirements of Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA, para 8 have been complied with: see PARA 91 text and notes 16-18.

5 CPR 39.5(1)(b). As to court bundles in family proceedings see Re X & Y (Bundles) [2008] EWHC 2058 (Fam).

6 CPR 39.5(2).

7 As to the claim form see PARA 117.

8 As to statements of case see PARA 584 et seq.

9 As to requests for further information see CPR Pt 18; and PARA 611.

10 As to the meaning of 'witness statement' see PARA 751 note 1.

11 As to witness summaries see PARA 986.

12 Ie under CPR 33.2: see PARA 811.

13 Ie under CPR 33.6: see PARA 817.

14 As to the meaning of 'affidavit' see PARA 540 note 5.

15 As to experts' reports see PARA 839. For convenience, experts' reports may be contained in a separate bundle and cross-referenced in the main bundle: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.7.

16 See note 12.

17 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.2.

18 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.3.

19 As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

20 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.4.

21 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.6.

22 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.8.

23 As to disclosure see CPR Pt 31; and PARAS 112, 538 et seq.

24 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.9. As to the Civil Evidence Act 1995 see further PARA 808 et seq.

25 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.9.

26 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 3.10.

For further provisions as to the contents of bundles and their lodging at court see The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) paras 7.9-7.19, Appendix 6; The Queen's Bench Guide (2007 Edn) paras 7.11.7, 7.11.8; The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (2006 Edn) para D7.1 et seq, Appendix 10; and The Civil Court Practice. As to trial bundles for the Court of Appeal see PARA 1710.

UPDATE

1125 Bundles of documents for use at trial

NOTE 26--See now The Admiralty and Commercial Courts Guide (8th Edn, 2009) para D7.1 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1126. Representation at trial.

1126. Representation at trial.

At any hearing, a written statement containing the following information must be provided for the court: (1) the name and address of each advocate; (2) his qualification or entitlement to act as an advocate; and (3) the party for whom he so acts¹.

A company or other corporation may be represented at trial by an employee if the employee has been authorised by the company or corporation to appear at trial on its behalf² and the court gives permission³. Permission is not normally granted in jury trials⁴ or in contempt proceedings⁵.

A litigant in person may be assisted at a hearing by another person often referred to as a 'McKenzie friend'⁶, if the court gives permission⁷. Applications for such permission are considered carefully and on a case by case basis⁸.

Rights of audience are discussed elsewhere in this work⁹.

1 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 5.1.

2 CPR 39.6(a). If a company or other corporation is to be represented by an employee, the court must be provided with a written statement giving the full name of the company or corporation as stated in its certificate of registration, its registered number, the position or office in the company or corporation of the proposed representative and details of the date on which and the manner in which he has been authorised to represent the company or corporation: see Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 5.2.

3 CPR 39.6(b). CPR 39.6 is intended to enable a company or other corporation to represent itself as a litigant in person. Permission under CPR 39.6(b) should therefore be given by the court unless there is some particular and sufficient reason why it should be withheld. In considering whether to grant permission the matters to be taken into account include the complexity of the issues and the experience and position in the company or corporation of the proposed representative: Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 5.3. Such permission should be obtained in advance of the hearing from, preferably, the judge who is to hear the case, but may, if it is for any reason impracticable or inconvenient to do so, be obtained from any judge by whom the case could be heard: para 5.4. The permission may be obtained informally and without notice to the other parties. The judge who gives the permission should record in writing that he has done so and supply a copy to the company or corporation in question and to any other party who asks for one: para 5.5. As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

4 As to jury trials see PARA 1132.

5 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 5.6. As to contempt proceedings see generally CONTEMPT OF COURT.

6 See McKenzie v McKenzie [1971] P 33, [1970] 3 All ER 1034, CA.

7 See The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) paras 15.11-15.13; and see The Civil Court Practice. For guidance on the role of a McKenzie friend in care proceedings which concern children, see Re O (Children) (Hearing in Private: Assistance), Re WR (A Child), Re W (Children) [2005] EWCA Civ 759, [2006] Fam 1; Re N (a child) (McKenzie friends: rights of audience) [2008] EWHC 2042 (Fam), [2008] 1 WLR 2743, [2008] All ER (D) 116 (Aug). For guidance in regard to using a McKenzie friend in family proceedings, see Practice Direction (President's guidance: McKenzie friends) [2008] 2 FCR 90, [2008] All ER (D) 193 (Apr).

8 See eg Izzo v Philip Ross & Co (a firm) (2001) Times, 9 August.

9 As to rights of audience see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARAS 732 et seq, 1109 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1127. Citation of authorities at the trial.

1127. Citation of authorities at the trial.

The citation of judicial decisions as authorities is discussed elsewhere in this title¹. Particular provision is made by the practice direction supplementing Part 39 of the Civil Procedure Rules in relation to the giving of evidence of certain judgments, decisions, declarations and advisory opinions of the European Court of Human Rights, reports of the European Human Rights Commission and other related matters².

¹ As to judicial decisions as authorities see PARA 91 et seq; and see, in particular, Practice Note [2001] 2 All ER 510, sub nom Practice Direction (citation of authorities) [2001] 1 WLR 1001, CA, para 8; and PARA 91 text and notes 16-18.

² See Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 8; and PARA 102 note 4. As to the replacement of the Court and the Commission with a new permanent Court see PARA 102 note 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1128. Failure to attend final hearing of a claim in the small claims track.

1128. Failure to attend final hearing of a claim in the small claims track.

If a claimant¹ does not attend the hearing and does not give notice seven days before the hearing that he will not attend which also requests the court to decide the claim in his absence², the court may strike out the claim³. If a defendant⁴ does not attend the hearing or give similar notice and the claimant either does attend the hearing or gives such a notice, the court may decide the claim on the basis of the evidence of the claimant alone⁵. If neither party attends or gives such notice, the court may strike out the claim and any defence and counterclaim⁶.

A party who was neither present nor represented at the hearing of the claim and who has not given written notice to the court may apply for an order that any judgment be set aside and the claim re-heard⁷. A party may not, however, apply to set aside a judgment under this provision if the court dealt with the claim without a hearing⁸ with the agreement of all parties⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

2 See CPR 27.9(1); see PARA 281. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 See CPR 27.9(2); and PARA 281. As to the meaning of 'striking out' see PARA 218 note 2.

4 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

5 See CPR 27.9(3); and PARA 281.

6 See CPR 27.9(4); and PARA 281. As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

7 See CPR 27.11(1); and PARA 283. As to the procedure on such application see PARA 283. As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

8 See CPR 27.10; see PARA 282.

9 See CPR 27.11(5); and PARA 283.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1129. Failure to attend trial of claims in the fast track and multi-track.

1129. Failure to attend trial of claims in the fast track and multi-track.

The court¹ may proceed with a trial in the absence of a party but:

- 196 (1) if no party attends the trial, it may strike out² the whole of the proceedings³;
- 197 (2) if the claimant⁴ does not attend, it may strike out his claim and any defence to counterclaim⁵; and
- 198 (3) if a defendant⁶ does not attend, it may strike out his defence or counterclaim (or both)⁷.

Where the court strikes out proceedings, or any part of them, under these provisions, it may subsequently restore the proceedings, or that part⁸.

Where a party does not attend and the court gives judgment or makes an order against him, the party who failed to attend may apply for the judgment or order to be set aside⁹.

An application for an order to restore proceedings, or for the judgment or order to be set aside, must be supported by evidence¹⁰. Where such an application is made by a party who failed to attend the trial, the court may grant the application only if the applicant acted promptly when he found out that the court had exercised its power to strike out or to enter judgment or make an order against him, if he had a good reason for not attending the trial and if he has a reasonable prospect of success at the trial¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'striking out' see PARA 218 note 2.

3 CPR 39.3(1)(a); and see Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 2.2(3).

4 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

5 CPR 39.3(1)(b); and see Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 2.2(2). As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

6 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

7 CPR 39.3(1)(c); and see Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 2.2(1).

8 CPR 39.3(2).

9 CPR 39.3(3). See Nelson v Clearsprings (Management) Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 1252, [2007] 2 All ER 407. As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

10 CPR 39.3(4). The application must be made in accordance with CPR Pt 23 (see PARA 303 et seq): Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 2.3. The supporting evidence must give reasons for the failure to attend court and state when the applicant found out about the order against him: para 2.4.

11 CPR 39.3(5). As to the meaning of 'a reasonable prospect of success' in the context of summary judgment see PARA 524 note 7.

UPDATE

1129 Failure to attend trial of claims in the fast track and multi-track

NOTES 1-6--A hearing of an undefended claim will not necessarily amount to a 'trial': Forcelux Ltd v Binnie [2009] EWCA Civ 854, [2009] All ER (D) 216 (Oct) (hearing of undefended possession proceedings usually would not constitute a trial).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1130. Settlement or discontinuance after trial date fixed.

1130. Settlement or discontinuance after trial date fixed.

Where an offer to settle a claim is accepted¹, or a settlement is reached², or a claim is discontinued³, which disposes of the whole of a claim for which a date or 'window' has been fixed for the trial, the parties must ensure that the listing officer for the trial court is notified immediately⁴. If an order is drawn up giving effect to the settlement or discontinuance, a copy of the sealed⁵ order should be filed⁶ with the listing officer⁷.

Whilst the court will always encourage litigants to settle their differences, even at a late stage, in a case where judgment has been reserved it is the duty of the parties and their professional advisers to inform the court immediately when they become aware that there is a possibility of agreement, in order that the court's resources may be properly and efficiently deployed⁸.

1 As to offers to settle see PARA 729 et seq.

2 As to settlements see PARA 505.

3 As to discontinuance see PARA 723 et seq.

4 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 4.1.

5 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

6 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

7 Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 4.2. As to the disposal of proceedings without trial see PARA 503 et seq.

8 See HFC Bank plc v Midland Bank plc [2000] All ER (D) 159, [2000] CPLR 197, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(3) MODE OF TRIAL AND PROCEEDINGS AT TRIAL/1131. Impounded documents.

1131. Impounded documents.

Documents impounded by order of the court¹ must not be released from the custody of the court except in compliance with a court order² or with a written request made by a Law Officer or the Director of Public Prosecutions³. While they are in the custody of the court such documents may not be inspected except by a person authorised to do so by a court order⁴.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 CPR 39.7(1)(a).

3 CPR 39.7(1)(b). A document released from the custody of the court under CPR 39.7(1)(b) must be released into the custody of the person who requested it: CPR 39.7(2).

4 See CPR 39.7(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(4) TRIAL OTHERWISE THAN BY JUDGE ALONE/1132. Trial by judge and jury.

(4) TRIAL OTHERWISE THAN BY JUDGE ALONE

1132. Trial by judge and jury.

On the application of any party¹ to a claim to be tried in the Queen's Bench Division, where the court is satisfied that there is in issue:

- 199 (1) a charge of fraud against that party²; or
- 200 (2) a claim in respect of libel, slander, malicious prosecution or false imprisonment³; or
- 201 (3) any question or issue of a kind prescribed for this purpose⁴, the claim will be ordered to be tried with a jury⁵, unless the court is of opinion that the trial requires any prolonged examination of documents or accounts or any scientific or local investigation which cannot conveniently be made with a jury⁶.

Where a claim to be tried in the Queen's Bench Division does not fall within the classes of claims mentioned above, it will be ordered to be tried without a jury unless the court in its discretion orders it to be tried with a jury⁷.

Jury trial in a county court is not permitted in respect of certain specified proceedings⁸. In all other proceedings in a county court the trial must be without a jury unless the court otherwise orders on an application made in that behalf by any party to the proceedings in such manner and within such time before the trial as may be prescribed⁹. Where, on any such application, the court is satisfied that there is in issue any such matter as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above, or any question or issue of a kind prescribed for these purposes, the claim must be tried with a jury, unless the court is of opinion that the trial requires any prolonged examination of documents or accounts or any scientific or local investigation which cannot conveniently be made with a jury¹⁰.

The court has a wide discretion to refuse an order for trial with a jury¹¹, but it is not an untrammelled¹², unfettered or unrestrained discretion, and its exercise will, if necessary, be reviewed by the Court of Appeal to ensure that it is exercised upon proper considerations and materials¹³. Thus, in claims for personal injuries, trial by jury will not be ordered unless there are exceptional circumstances¹⁴. It is not an exceptional circumstance that the claim involves issues of credibility nor, except at the instance of the party affected, that it involves issues of integrity and honour¹⁵. If a person has already been tried and convicted, his honour or integrity cannot be still at stake in a civil claim raising the same issues as in the criminal proceedings¹⁶. A trial by jury in the Commercial Court will be refused¹⁷.

In the civil courts in Wales, where a case is tried with a jury, the law does not permit the selection of jurors in a manner which enables the court to discover whether a juror does or does not speak Welsh or to secure a jury whose members are bilingual to try a case in which the Welsh language may be used¹⁸. The court officer swearing in the jury will, however, inform the jurors in open court that each juror may take the oath or may affirm in Welsh or English as he wishes¹⁹.

In proceedings in the High Court, the verdict of the jury need not be unanimous and the court will accept a majority verdict where, with a jury of not less than eleven jurors²⁰, ten of them agree on the verdict²¹, and where there are ten jurors, nine of them agree on the verdict²².

The trial judge has a discretion to discharge a juror, even during the trial, on the ground of evident necessity²³. He also has discretion, where the jury has made a mistake and the interests of justice so require, to set aside the discharge of the jury and allow the jurors to deliberate further under properly controlled circumstances²⁴.

1 The application must be made within 28 days of service of the defence: see CPR 26.11; and the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(2). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to service of the defence see PARA 199; and as to time limits generally see PARA 88 et seq. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

2 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1)(a); and see also the County Courts Act 1984 s 66(3)(a). As to jury trial in county courts see the text and notes 8-10. A charge of fraud is equivalent to the common law action of deceit within the meaning of Derry v Peek (1889) 14 App Cas 337, HL (see MISREPRESENTATION AND FRAUD), and does not therefore include a charge of robbery (Barclays Bank Ltd v Cole [1967] 2 QB 738, [1966] 3 All ER 948, CA), nor a general charge of dishonesty (Stafford Winfield Cook & Partners Ltd v Winfield [1980] 3 All ER 759, [1981] 1 WLR 458). However, the right of a party charged with fraud to trial by jury arises only if the claim is brought in the Queen's Bench Division and not if it is brought in the Chancery Division, although, if the court thinks it appropriate to do so and the interests of justice so require, it may order that the proceedings be transferred to the Queen's Bench Division, but not otherwise: Stafford Winfield Cook & Partners Ltd v Winfield [1980] 3 All ER 759, [1981] 1 WLR 458. The party by whom a charge of fraud is made has no right to apply for trial by jury: Williams v Beesley [1973] 3 All ER 144 at 147, [1973] 1 WLR 1295 at 1299, HL, per Lord Diplock. As to the transfer of proceedings in the High Court see PARA 67.

3 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1)(b); and see also the County Courts Act 1984 s 66(3)(b); but a county court has no original jurisdiction to hear and determine any claim for libel or slander (see s 15(2)(c)), unless the claim has been transferred from the High Court under s 40 or by agreement between the parties under s 18 (see PARA 69) or the cause of action is confined to malicious falsehood: Joyce v Sengupta [1993] 1 All ER 897, [1999] 1 WLR 337, CA. As to jury trial in county courts see the text and notes 8-10.

4 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1)(c). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by rules of court: s 151(1). At the date at which this title states the law no kind of question or issue had been so prescribed.

5 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1). As to the earlier legislation see Ford v Blurton, Ford v Sauber (1922) 38 TLR 801, CA. In the classes of case specified there is therefore a prima facie right to trial by jury, although in practice in a considerable number of such cases the parties forgo this right.

6 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1). The right to trial by jury is not lost simply because of the length or complexity of a case, but only if it comes within the terms of this provision. Even in such a case the court retains a discretion to order trial by jury: see Rothermere v Times Newspapers Ltd [1973] 1 All ER 1013, [1973] 1 WLR 448, CA, where the honour and reputation of a party was at stake and the action concerned matters of national importance. Nor is that right necessarily overridden by CPR 24.3 (summary judgment): see PARA 524 note 12.

Where for the purpose of disposing of any claim or other matter which is being tried in the High Court by a judge with a jury it is necessary to ascertain the law of any other country which is applicable to the facts of the case, any question as to the effect of the evidence given with respect to that law must, instead of being submitted to the jury, be decided by the judge alone: see the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(5).

7 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(3). Even if the case falls within one of the classes mentioned (eg a claim for libel), the court may in its discretion, where the case is complicated because the issues of law and fact are commingled and it is in everybody's interests to have it tried by a judge alone, refuse to order trial with a jury: see Richards v Naum [1967] 1 QB 620, [1966] 3 All ER 812, CA.

8 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 66(1) (amended by the Housing (Consequential Provisions) Act 1985 s 4, Sch 2 para 57(2); and the Housing Act 1988 s 140(1), Sch 17 para 35(1)). In the following proceedings in a county court the trial must be without a jury: (1) Admiralty proceedings; (2) proceedings arising under the Rent (Agriculture) Act 1976 Pt I (ss 1-5), Pt II (ss 6-19) or Pt III (ss 20-26) (all as amended), or under any provision of the Rent Act 1977 (other than a provision contained in Pt V (ss 77-85) (restricted contracts), ss 103-106 or Pt IX (ss 119-128 (premiums etc)), or under the Protection from Eviction Act 1977 Pt I (ss 1-4) or under the Housing Act 1988 Pt I (ss 1-45) (rented accommodation); (3) any appeal to the county court under the Housing Act 1985: County Courts Act 1984 s 66(1) (as so amended). See further AGRICULTURAL LAND; LANDLORD AND TENANT.

9 County Courts Act 1984 s 66(2). As to the time limit for making an application see note 1.

10 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 66(3). As to fees payable in respect of jury trial in a county court see s 66(4) (amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 271(a)). As to empanelling the jury see the County Courts Act 1984 s 67; and as to the judge's duty to determine foreign law in jury trials see s 68; and PARA 1090.

11 The Civil Procedure Rules do not specifically make provisions for orders for trial by jury, but the court's powers under Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(3) will be exercised in accordance with the overriding objective (see PARA 33) and under its general case management powers (see eg CPR 3.1(2)(m); and PARA 247). Nothing in the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 69(1)-(3) affects the power of the court to order, in accordance with rules of court, that different questions of fact arising in any action be tried by different modes of trial; and where any such order is made, s 69(1) has effect only as respects questions relating to any such charge, claim, question or issue as is mentioned in that provision: s 69(4).

12 See Hope v Great Western Rly Co[1937] 2 KB 130, [1937] 1 All ER 625, CA, where it had been so described. This case has been drained of any authority by Ward v James[1966] 1 QB 273, [1965] 1 All ER 563, CA.

13 Ward v James[1966] 1 QB 273, [1965] 1 All ER 563, CA.

14 Ward v James[1966] 1 QB 273, [1965] 1 All ER 563, CA. See also Hennell v Ranaboldo[1963] 3 All ER 684, [1963] 1 WLR 1391, CA; Sims v William Howard & Son Ltd[1964] 2 QB 409, [1964] 1 All ER 918, CA; Watts v Manning[1964] 2 All ER 267, [1964] 1 WLR 623, CA; Hodges v Harland and Wolff Ltd[1965] 1 All ER 1086, [1965] 1 WLR 523, CA; H v Ministry of Defence [1991] 2 QB 103, [1991] 2 All ER 834, CA.

15 Williams v Beesley[1973] 3 All ER 144, [1973] 1 WLR 1295, HL, negating dicta of Lord Denning MR to the contrary in Ward v James[1966] 1 QB 273, [1965] 1 All ER 563, CA. Nor is it an exceptional circumstance that a party believes, however honestly, that judges as a class might be prejudiced against him or in favour of his opponent: Williams v Beesley[1973] 3 All ER 144, [1973] 1 WLR 1295, HL.

16 Barclays Bank Ltd v Cole[1967] 2 QB 738, [1966] 3 All ER 948, CA.

17 Woodvine v Midland Bank Ltd, Cliff v Midland Bank Ltd (1965) 109 Sol Jo 234, CA.

18 Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 1.5.

19 Practice Direction relating to the use of the Welsh Language in Cases in the Civil Courts in Wales CPR PD 39 Wel para 6.2. As to the meaning of 'court officer' see PARA 49 note 3. As to the use of the Welsh language in civil proceedings see further PARA 1118.

20 A jury consists of 12 individuals chosen at random from the appropriate panel: Practice Note[1973] 1 All ER 240, sub nom Practice Direction [1973] 1 WLR 134, DC. See further JURIES vol 61 (2010) PARA 801 et seq.

21 Juries Act 1974 s 17(1)(a). However, a majority verdict will not be accepted unless it appears to the court that the jury had had such a period of time for deliberation as the court thinks reasonable having regard to the nature and complexity of the case: s 17(4). The practice by which a court in a civil case may accept a majority verdict with the consent of the parties or by which the parties may agree to proceed with an incomplete jury is preserved by s 17(5). See further JURIES vol 61 (2010) para 801 et seq.

22 Juries Act 1974 s 17(1)(b). See also note 19.

23 See R v Hambery[1977] QB 924, [1977] 3 All ER 561, CA. In a proper case this discharge may be authorised otherwise than in open court: see R v Richardson[1979] 3 All ER 247, [1979] 1 WLR 1316, CA. See further JURIES vol 61 (2010) para 801 et seq.

24 See Igwemma v Chief Constable of Greater Manchester Police [2001] EWCA Civ 953, [2002] QB 1012, [2001] 4 All ER 751.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(4) TRIAL OTHERWISE THAN BY JUDGE ALONE/1133. Trial by judge with assessors.

1133. Trial by judge with assessors.

In any cause or matter the court may, if it thinks it expedient to do so¹, call in the aid of one or more assessors specially qualified, and hear and dispose of the cause or matter wholly or partially with their assistance². Assessors may also be called in to assist the Court of Appeal³ and the House of Lords⁴.

Special provision is made for assessors in Admiralty proceedings⁵. Assessors are usually appointed to assist a judge hearing appeals from costs judges or district judges relating to the detailed assessment of costs⁶. An independent scientific adviser may be appointed to assist the Patents Court⁷ and provision is made for assessors to assist on the hearing of certain race relations claims⁸.

An assessor is an expert, specially qualified in the subject matter of the cause or matter in which he is appointed. His function is to assist and advise the court on the technical questions or issues arising. He is not generally permitted to take an active part in the proceedings, and thus he may not examine the witnesses; nor may he be examined or cross-examined by the parties. His presence acts as a restraining influence on the parties' own expert witnesses. Whatever advice or assistance the trial judge may receive from an assessor, the sole responsibility for the ultimate decision in the case rests with the judge⁹, who is not bound to follow the assessor's advice¹⁰.

1 As to the desirability of hearing cases concerning shipping casualties or involving questions of seamanship or navigation with the assistance of assessors, see the remarks of Devlin J in Waddle v Wallsend Shipping Co Ltd [1952] 2 Lloyd's Rep 105 at 131, and in Southport Corpn v Esso Petroleum Co Ltd [1953] 2 All ER 1204 at 1206 (on appeal [1954] 2 QB 182, [1954] 2 All ER 561, CA; and sub nom Esso Petroleum Co Ltd v Southport Corpn [1956] AC 218, [1955] 3 All ER 864, HL).

2 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70(1); County Courts Act 1984 s 63(1) (amended by SI 1998/2940; substituted by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 14(2) as from a day to be appointed; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed); and see CPR 35.15; and PARA 863. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. Any remuneration to be paid to an assessor is to be determined by the court and will form part of the costs of the proceedings: Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70(2); County Courts Act 1984 s 63(3) (amended by SI 1998/2940); CPR 35.15(5).

3 Supreme Court Act 1981 s 54(8), (9). See eg The Llanelly (1925) 23 Ll L Rep 187, CA; The Sobieski [1949] P 313, [1949] 1 All ER 701, and especially as reported in 82 Ll L Rep 370, CA. It is convenient if the Court of Appeal addresses its questions to the assessors in writing: see SS Melanie (Owners) v SS San Onofre (Owners) [1927] AC 162n, HL.

4 See eg The Llanelly (1926) 25 Ll L Rep 37, HL; The Marinegra [1960] 2 Lloyd's Rep 1, HL. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

5 In Admiralty claims case management directions will determine whether the trial is to be without assessors or with one or more assessors, whether Elder Brethren of Trinity House, nautical assessors or other assessors: see CPR 61.13; and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW. The function of nautical assessors is to advise the court upon such nautical matters as seamanship or navigation.

6 Appeals from decisions as to the detailed assessment of costs (under CPR Pt 47) lie to a judge: see PARA 1658 note 23. As to costs generally see PARA 1729 et seq.

7 See the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70(3), (4); Practice Direction--Patents and other Intellectual Property Claims PD 63 para 4.10; and PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS.

8 See the Race Relations Act 1976 s 67(4); and DISCRIMINATION vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 500 note 20. For guidance as to the role of assessors in race discrimination claims before a county court, see Ahmed v Governing Body of the University of Oxford [2002] EWCA Civ 1907, [2003] 1 All ER 915, [2003] 1 WLR 995.

9 The Gannet [1900] AC 234, HL; The City of Berlin [1908] P 110, CA; SS Melanie (Owners) v SS San Onofre (Owners) [1927] AC 162n, HL.

10 The Magna Charta (1871) 1 Asp MLC 153, PC; The Aid (1881) 6 PD 84, CA; The Beryl (1884) 9 PD 137, CA.

UPDATE

1133 Trial by judge with assessors

NOTE 4--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(5) RECORDING OF PROCEEDINGS/1134. Recording of proceedings.

(5) RECORDING OF PROCEEDINGS

1134. Recording of proceedings.

At any hearing, whether in the High Court or a county court, the proceedings will be tape recorded, unless the judge otherwise orders¹. A transcript of the recording may be obtained by any party or person upon payment of the authorised charges², except that, if the hearing or any part of it is in private³, then, if the person requiring the transcript is not a party, he must obtain an order of the court permitting him to obtain it⁴. It is the duty of advocates to take as full a note as possible of the judgment and evidence, so that if, for any reason, there is no recording or transcript available, those notes may be referred to at any appeal⁵. It is a contempt of court for any party or member of the public to use unofficial recording equipment in any court or judge's room without the court's permission⁶.

¹ Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 6.1. As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

² Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 6.3. See also Practice Direction--Appeals PD 52 paras 5.12, 5.17, 5.18; and PARA 1663 notes 14-15.

³ See CPR 39.2(3); and PARA 6.

⁴ Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 6.4.

⁵ See Practice Direction--Appeals PD 52 paras 5.12(2), (3), 5.14; and PARA 1663 note 14; and see Letts v Letts (1987) Times, 8 April.

⁶ See Practice Direction--Miscellaneous Provisions relating to Hearings PD 39A para 6.2; and see further CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/21. THE TRIAL PROCESS/(6) TRIAL OF SEPARATE ISSUES/1135. Trial of separate issues; in general.

(6) TRIAL OF SEPARATE ISSUES

1135. Trial of separate issues; in general.

As part of its general case management powers, the court¹ may direct that part of any proceedings be dealt with as separate proceedings², direct the separate trial of any issue³ and decide the order in which issues are to be tried⁴.

Where the court so decides or directs, the trial of the separate proceedings or issue is conducted in the same manner as if it were the trial of the whole proceedings, except that any assessment of damages⁵ following a trial of the issue of liability may be dealt with by a master or district judge⁶.

Credibility of witnesses is best assessed after the survey of all the issues and it is only in exceptional circumstances that the court will allow a separate trial where the credibility of the same witness is crucial in a later trial too⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 See CPR 3.1(2)(e); and PARA 247 head (5) in the text. For example, a counterclaim (see PARA 618 note 3) or a claim against a party not a party to the original claim (under CPR Pt 20: see PARA 618 et seq) may be ordered to be tried separately.

3 See CPR 3.1(2)(i); and PARA 247 head (9) in the text. For example, the issue of liability might be tried first with the assessment of damages to be tried thereafter.

4 See CPR 3.1(2)(j); and PARA 247 head (10) in the text.

5 As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1.

6 See Practice Direction--Allocation of Cases to Levels of Judiciary PD 2B para 4.2 (High Court), para 11.1(c) (county court); and PARAS 50, 62.

7 Umm Qarn Management Co Ltd v Bunting [2000] All ER (D) 1421, [2001] CPLR 568, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1136. Scope of this part of the title.

22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS

(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY

1136. Scope of this part of the title.

The following paragraphs deal with Part 40 of the Civil Procedure Rules¹ which sets out rules about judgments and orders which apply except where any other rule or a practice direction makes a different provision in relation to the judgment or order in question². Part 40 also contains rules about the sale of land and conveyancing counsel³ and makes provision in relation to declaratory judgments⁴. Practice directions supplementing that Part make provision in respect of accounts and inquiries (discussed elsewhere in this title)⁵ and periodical payments⁶. Orders for provisional damages are provided for by Part 41 of the rules⁷.

The particular provisions made in relation to default judgments⁸, summary judgments⁹, interim remedies¹⁰ and the payment of money out of court¹¹ are discussed elsewhere in this title. The procedure for applications to make an order of the House of Lords an order of the High Court is discussed elsewhere in this title¹².

The provisions made by Part 21 of the rules in relation to orders respecting children and protected parties are discussed elsewhere in this work¹³.

Provision is made by the County Courts Act 1984 in relation to the satisfaction of county court judgments and orders for the payment of money¹⁴, set-off in cases of cross-judgments in county courts and the High Court¹⁵ and the keeping of a register of county court judgments and orders¹⁶.

1 Ie CPR Pt 40: see PARA 1137 et seq.

2 CPR 40.1. See further CPR 40.2-CPR 40.14; and PARA 1137 et seq. As to orders where the parties are agreed as to the terms on which proceedings can be disposed of, as to the terms of an interim order, or as to the discontinuance or withdrawal of proceedings see Practice Statement (Administrative Court: uncontested proceedings)[2009] 1 All ER 651.

3 See CPR 40.15-CPR 40.19; PARAS 1215-1216; and SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 133 et seq.

4 See CPR 40.20; and PARA 1145.

5 See Practice Direction--Accounts, Inquiries etc PD 40; and PARA 1524 et seq.

6 See Practice Direction--Periodical Payments Under the Damages Act 1996 PD 41B; PARA 1222; and DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 931.

7 See CPR Pt 41; PARAS 1217-1221; and DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARAS 930, 1154.

8 See CPR Pt 12; and PARA 506 et seq.

9 See CPR Pt 24; and PARA 524 et seq.

10 See CPR Pt 25; and PARA 315 et seq.

11 See CPR Pts 36, 37; and PARA 729 et seq.

12 See Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B paras 13.1-13.3; and PARA 1718 text and notes 22-23. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

13 See CPR Pt 21; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1411 et seq. As to the meaning of 'child' and 'protected party' see PARA 222 notes 3, 1 respectively.

14 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 71; and PARA 1229.

15 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 72; and PARA 1230.

16 See the Courts Act 2003 s 98; and PARA 1147.

UPDATE

1136 Scope of this part of the title

NOTE 12--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1137. Standard requirements and certain specific orders.

1137. Standard requirements and certain specific orders.

Every judgment or order must state the name and judicial title of the person who made it¹, unless it is:

- 811 (1) a default judgment entered by a court officer² or a default costs certificate³;
- 812 (2) a judgment entered on admission where judgment is entered by a court officer⁴;
- 813 (3) a consent order⁵ made by a court officer⁶;
- 814 (4) an order⁷ made by a court officer to enforce an award as if it were payable under a court order⁸; or
- 815 (5) an order to obtain information from a judgment debtor⁹ made by a court officer¹⁰.

Every judgment or order must bear the date on which it is given or made¹¹ and be sealed¹² by the court¹³. Where a judgment, order or direction imposes a time limit for doing any act, wherever practicable the last date for compliance must be expressed as a calendar date and the time of day by which the act is to be done must be stated¹⁴.

The court may order that an account be taken or that an inquiry be made¹⁵ and may order the preparation, execution or signature of any deed or other document¹⁶. An order which restrains a party from doing an act or requires an act to be done should, if disobedience is to be dealt with by an application to bring contempt of court proceedings, have a penal notice indorsed on it¹⁷.

Where a party to proceedings which have gone to trial requires a statement to be included in the judgment as to where, and by what means, the claim form issued in those proceedings was served¹⁸, application should be made to the trial judge when judgment is given¹⁹. If the judge so orders, the statement will be included in a preamble to the judgment as entered²⁰.

Where judgment is ordered to be entered in a foreign currency, the order should be in the prescribed form²¹.

Where a judgment is to be paid by instalments, the judgment should set out the total amount of the judgment, the amount of each instalment, the number of instalments and the date on which each is to be paid and to whom the instalments should be paid²².

If an order makes no mention of costs, no costs are payable in respect of the proceedings to which the order relates²³.

Where a party applies for permission to appeal against a judgment or order at the hearing at which the judgment or order was made, the judgment or order must state (a) whether or not the judgment or order is final; (b) whether an appeal lies from the judgment or order and, if so, to which appeal court; (c) whether the court gives permission to appeal; and (d) if not, the appropriate appeal court to which any further application for permission may be made²⁴.

1 CPR 40.2(1).

2 ie default judgment by a court officer entered under CPR 12.4(1): see PARA 508. As to the meaning of 'court officer' see PARA 49 note 3.

3 CPR 40.2(1)(a). Ie a default costs certificate obtained under CPR 47.11: see The Civil Court Practice. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

4 CPR 40.2(1)(b). Ie judgment entered under CPR 14.4, CPR 14.5, CPR 14.6, CPR 14.7 and CPR 14.9: see PARAS 191-195.

5 Ie a consent order under CPR 40.6(2): see PARA 1141.

6 CPR 40.2(1)(c).

7 Ie under CPR 70.5: see PARA 1231.

8 CPR 40.2(1)(d).

9 Ie under CPR 71.2: see PARA 1252.

10 CPR 40.2(1)(e).

11 CPR 40.2(2)(a). The following general forms may be used: (1) judgment after trial before judge without jury: Form no 45; (2) judgment after trial before judge with jury: Form no 46; (3) judgment after trial before a master or district judge: Form no 47; (4) judgment after trial before a judge of the Technology and Construction Court (as to which see PARA 1546): Form no 47 but with any necessary modifications: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 14.1. A trial judgment should, in addition to the matters set out in paras 5, 6 and 7 (adjustments in respect of compensation recovery payments or an interim payment and statement as to service of a claim form: see the text and notes 18-20; and PARA 1151), have the following matters set out in a preamble: (a) the questions put to a jury and their answers to those questions; (b) the findings of a jury and whether unanimous or by a majority; (c) any order made during the course of the trial concerning the use of evidence; (d) any matters that were agreed between the parties prior to or during the course of the trial in respect of (i) liability, (ii) contribution, (iii) the amount of the damages or part of the damages; and (e) the findings of the judge in respect of each head of damage in a personal injury case: para 14.2. Form no 49 should be used for a trial judgment against an estate: para 14.3. The forms referred to are listed in Practice Direction--Forms PD 4: see PARA 14; and see The Civil Court Practice. As to jury trial see PARA 1132.

On any application or appeal concerning a committal order, a refusal to grant habeas corpus (see PARA 1531; and ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 207 et seq) or a secure accommodation order made under the Children Act 1989 s 25 (see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1037 et seq), if the court ordering the release of the person concludes that his Convention rights have been infringed by the making of the order to which the application or appeal relates, the judgment or order should so state. If the court does not do so, that failure will not prevent another court from deciding the matter: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 14.4. The rights referred to are the person's rights under European Convention on Human Rights (Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969)) as incorporated into domestic law: see the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. As to the meaning of 'Convention rights' see s 1(1); and JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 651; CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

12 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

13 CPR 40.2(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

14 See CPR 2.9; and PARA 89. As to the calculation of periods of time expressed as days see CPR 2.8; and PARA 88; and as to the meaning of 'months' in judgments etc see CPR 2.10; and PARA 90.

An order which requires an act to be done (other than a judgment or order for the payment of an amount of money) must specify the time within which the act should be done: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 8.1. The consequences of failure to do an act within the time specified may be set out in the order. In this case the wording of the following examples suitably adapted must be used:

84 (1) Unless the [claimant] [defendant] serves his list of documents by 4.00 pm on Friday, January 22, 1999 his [claim] [defence] will be struck out and judgment entered for the [defendant] [claimant].; or 85 (2) Unless the [claimant] [defendant] serves his list of documents within 14 days of service of this order his [claim] [defence] will be struck out and judgment entered for the [defendant] [claimant].

Example (1) should be used wherever possible: para 8.2.

15 See Practice Direction--Accounts, Inquiries etc PD 40A; and PARA 1524 et seq.

16 Where the High Court has given or made a judgment or order directing a person to execute any conveyance, contract or other document, or to indorse any negotiable instrument, then, if that person neglects or refuses to comply with the judgment or order or cannot after reasonable inquiry be found, the High Court may, on such terms and conditions, if any, as may be just, order that the conveyance, contract or other document shall be executed, or that the negotiable instrument shall be indorsed, by such person as the court may nominate for that purpose: Supreme Court Act 1981 s 39(1). A conveyance, contract, document or instrument executed or indorsed in pursuance of such an order operates, and is to be for all purposes available, as if it had been executed or indorsed by the person originally directed to execute or indorse it: s 39(2). As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

Where a judgment or order directs any deed or document to be prepared, executed or signed, the order will state (1) the person who is to prepare the deed or document; and (2) if the deed or document is to be approved, the person who is to approve it: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 2.1. If the parties are unable to agree the form of the deed or document, any party may apply in accordance with CPR Pt 23 (see PARA 303 et seq) for the form of the deed or document to be settled: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 2.2. In such case the judge may (a) settle the deed or document himself; or (b) refer it to a master, or a district judge, or a conveyancing counsel to settle: para 2.3. As to conveyancing counsel see PARA 1216; and SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARAS 134, 137.

17 See Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 9.1. The notice to be indorsed is as follows: 'If you the within-named [...] do not comply with this order you may be held to be in contempt of court and imprisoned or fined, or [in the case of a company or corporation] your assets may be seized.': para 9.1.

The provisions of para 8.1 (see note 14) also apply to an order which contains an undertaking by a party to do or not to do an act; but the court has the power to decline to accept an undertaking and deal with disobedience in respect of an undertaking by contempt of court proceedings, unless the party giving the undertaking has made a signed statement to the effect that he understands the terms of his undertaking and the consequences of failure to comply with it: paras 9.2, 9.3. The statement may be indorsed on the court copy of the order containing the undertaking or may be filed in a separate document such as a letter: para 9.4. As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

18 As to service of the claim form see PARA 120; and as to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

19 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 7.1.

20 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 7.2.

21 See Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 10. The order must be in the following form: 'It is ordered that the defendant pay the claimant (state the sum in the foreign currency) or the sterling equivalent at the time of payment.': para 10.

22 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 12.

23 See CPR 44.13(1); and Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 11.2. See also The Civil Court Practice. Attention is drawn to the costs practice direction and, in particular, to the court's power to make a summary assessment of costs and the provisions relating to interest in detailed assessment proceedings (see PARAS 1752, 1783): Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 11.1. Where the court makes an order which does not mention costs (1) the general rule is that no party is entitled to costs in relation to that order; but (2) this does not affect any entitlement of a party to recover costs out of a fund held by him as trustee or personal representative, or pursuant to any lease, mortgage or other security: CPR 44.13(1). Where the court makes (a) an order granting permission to appeal; (b) an order granting permission to apply for judicial review; or (c) any other order or direction sought by a party on an application without notice, and its order does not mention costs, it will be deemed to include an order for applicant's costs in the case: CPR 44.13(1A). Any party affected by a deemed order for costs under CPR 44.13(1A) may apply at any time to vary the order: CPR 44.13(1B).

24 CPR 40.2(3), (4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1138. Reserved judgments.

1138. Reserved judgments.

Where judgment is to be reserved the judge (or presiding judge) may, at the conclusion of the hearing, invite the views of the parties' legal representatives as to the arrangements made for the handing down of the judgment¹. Unless the court directs otherwise, the following provisions apply where the judge or presiding judge is satisfied that the judgment will attract no special degree of confidentiality or sensitivity². The court will provide a copy of the draft judgment to the parties' legal representatives by 4 pm on the second working day³ before handing down, or at such other time as the court may direct⁴. A copy of the draft judgment may be supplied, in confidence, to the parties provided that (1) neither the draft judgment nor its substance is disclosed to any other person or used in the public domain; and (2) no action is taken (other than internally) in response to the draft judgment, before the judgment is handed down⁵. The case will be listed for judgment, and judgment handed down at the appropriate time⁶.

Unless the parties or their legal representatives are told otherwise when the draft judgment is circulated, any proposed corrections to the draft judgment should be sent to the clerk of the judge who prepared the draft with a copy to any other party⁷.

Following the circulation of the draft judgment the parties or their legal representatives must seek to agree orders consequential upon the judgment⁸. In respect of any draft agreed order the parties must fax or e-mail a copy to the clerk to the judge or presiding judge (together with any proposed corrections or amendments to the draft judgment) and file⁹ four copies (with completed backsheets) in the relevant court office, by 12 noon on the working day before handing down¹⁰.

Where a party wishes to apply for an order consequential on the judgment the application must be made by filing written submissions with the clerk to the judge or presiding judge by 12 noon on the working day before handing down¹¹. Unless the court orders otherwise, where judgment is to be given by an appeal court¹², the application will be determined without a hearing and, where judgment is to be given by any other court, the application will be determined at a hearing¹³.

If there is not to be an oral hearing of an application for an order consequential on judgment, the parties' advocates need not attend on the handing down of judgment¹⁴ and the judgment may be handed down by a judge sitting alone¹⁵.

1 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 2.1. The practice direction applies to all reserved judgments which the court intends to hand down in writing: para 1. As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 2.2.

3 'Working day' means any day on which the relevant court office is open; and 'relevant court office' means the office of the court in which judgment is to be given: Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 1.2.

4 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 2.3.

5 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 2.4. Where a copy of the draft judgment is supplied to a party's legal representatives in electronic form, they may supply a copy to that party in the same form: para 2.5. If a party to whom a copy of the draft judgment is supplied under para 2.4 is a partnership, company, government department, local authority or other organisation of a similar nature, additional copies may be distributed in confidence within the organisation, provided that all reasonable steps are taken to preserve its confidential nature and the requirements of para 2.4 are adhered to: para 2.6. If the parties or their legal representatives are in any doubt about the persons to whom copies of the draft judgment may be distributed they should inquire of the judge or presiding judge: para 2.7. Any breach of the obligations or restrictions under para 2.4 or failure to take all reasonable steps under para 2.6 may be treated as contempt of court: para 2.8. It is inappropriate for a draft judgment to be disseminated to anyone other than the parties and their immediate legal advisers; if there is any doubt as to whether a draft judgment should be considered by any other person, permission should be sought from the judge concerned: DPP v P [2007] EWHC 1144 (Admin), [2007] 4 All ER 648, [2008] 1 WLR 1024.

6 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 2.9.

7 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 3.1.

8 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 4.1.

9 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

10 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 4.2. A copy of a draft order must bear the case reference, the date of handing down and the name of the judge or presiding judge: para 4.3.

11 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 4.4.

12 'Appeal court' has the same meaning as in CPR 52.1(3)(b): see PARA 1660 note 2.

13 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 4.5.

14 Where this applies but an advocate does attend the handing down of judgment, the court may if it considers such attendance unnecessary, disallow the costs of the attendance: Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 5.2.

15 Practice Direction--Reserved Judgments PD 40E para 5.1.

UPDATE

1138 Reserved judgments

NOTE 5--Observations on draft judgments by any party are covered by confidentiality principles which govern circulation of judgments in draft: R (on the application of Mohamed) v Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs [2010] All ER (D) 3031 (Feb), CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1139. Drawing up and filing of judgments and orders.

1139. Drawing up and filing of judgments and orders.

With certain exceptions¹, every judgment or order will be drawn up by the court² unless:

- 816 (1) the court orders a party to draw it up³;
- 817 (2) a party, with the permission of the court, agrees to draw it up⁴;
- 818 (3) the court dispenses with the need to draw it up⁵; or
- 819 (4) it is a consent order⁶.

The court may direct that a judgment or an order drawn up by a party must be checked by the court before it is sealed⁷ or that, before a judgment or an order is drawn up by the court, the parties must file an agreed statement⁸ of its terms⁹. Where a judgment or an order is to be drawn up by a party he must file it no later than seven days after the date on which the court ordered or permitted him to draw it up so that it can be sealed by the court¹⁰ and if he fails to file it within that period, any other party may draw it up and file it¹¹.

However, except for orders made by the court of its own initiative and unless the court otherwise orders, every judgment or order made in claims proceeding in the Queen's Bench Division at the Royal Courts of Justice, other than in the Administrative Court, will be drawn up by the parties¹².

1 le except as is provided in CPR 40.3(4) (see the text to note 12) or by any practice direction: CPR 40.3(1).

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22. Provided that the recording of his decision has not been formally completed, a judge has power to reconsider his conclusion and in effect reverse his own decision. This jurisdiction, if exercised very cautiously and sparingly, is fully in accord with the overriding objective of enabling the court to deal with cases justly (as to which see PARA 33) and may be justifiably invoked eg where there is a plain mistake on the part of the court, where the parties have failed to draw the court's attention to a fact or point of law which is plainly relevant, where new facts have been discovered after judgment has been given, or where a party can argue that he has not been given fair opportunity to consider an application which has taken him by surprise: see Stewart v Engel [2000] 3 All ER 518, [2000] 1 WLR 2268, CA; applied in Kirin-Amgen Inc v Transkaryotic Therapies Inc (No 2) [2002] RPC 187, [2001] All ER (D) 111 (May); Cie Noga D'Importation et D'Exportation SA v Abacha [2001] 3 All ER 513, [2001] All ER (D) 49 (May). The power of a judge to review his own judgment before the drawing up of the order includes a discretion to permit the amendment of statements of case, even if that involves the putting forward of a new argument or the adducing of further evidence: see Charlesworth v Relay Roads Ltd (in liquidation) [1999] 4 All ER 397, [2000] 1 WLR 230. See also Robinson v Bird [2003] EWCA Civ 1820, (2004) Times, 20 January (exercise of discretion to amend draft judgment depended on circumstances of particular case), applied in Gravgaard v Aldridge & Brownlee (a firm) (2004) Times, 2 December, CA. Where the parties compromise their action before the judgment has been delivered to them, it is doubtful whether a first instance judge has a discretion to publish the judgment: Gurney Consulting Engineers (a firm) v Gleeds Health and Safety Ltd [2006] EWHC 536 (TCC), (2006) 108 ConLR 43. But see Prudential Assurance Co Ltd v McBains Cooper (a firm) [2001] 3 All ER 1014, [2000] 1 WLR 2000, CA (where a judge circulated a draft judgment to the parties' legal advisers, he had begun the process of delivering judgment and, providing that a list was in being at that stage, he then had a discretion whether to continue the process by handing down the judgment or to abort it at the parties' request). As to applications to vary a judgment or order see PARA 1143.

3 CPR 40.3(1)(a).

4 CPR 40.3(1)(b).

5 CPR 40.3(1)(c).

6 CPR 40.3(1)(d). As to consent orders see CPR 40.6; and PARA 1141.

7 CPR 40.3(2)(a). If the court directs that a judgment or order which is being drawn up by a party must be checked by the court before it is sealed, the party responsible must file the draft within seven days of the date the order was made with a request that the draft be checked before it is sealed: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 1.3. As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2; and as to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

8 If the court directs the parties to file an agreed statement of terms of an order which the court is to draw up, the parties must do so no later than seven days from the date the order was made, unless the court directs otherwise: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 1.4.

9 CPR 40.3(2)(b). If the court requires the terms of an order which is being drawn up by the court to be agreed by the parties the court may direct that a copy of the draft order is to be sent to all the parties (1) for their agreement to be indorsed on it and returned to the court before the order is sealed; or (2) with notice of an appointment to attend before the court to agree the terms of the order: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 1.5. As to the position where the parties compromise their dispute before the judgment is formally handed down see Prudential Assurance Co Ltd v McBains Cooper (a firm) [2001] 3 All ER 1014, [2000] CPLR 475, CA.

10 CPR 40.3(3)(a); and see Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 1.2.

11 CPR 40.3(3)(b); and see Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 1.2.

12 CPR 40.3(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1140. Service of judgments and orders.

1140. Service of judgments and orders.

Where a judgment or an order has been drawn up by a party and is to be served¹ by the court², the party who drew it up must file³ a copy to be retained at court and sufficient copies for service on him and on the other parties⁴. Once it has been sealed⁵, the court will serve a copy of it on each party to the proceedings⁶.

Unless the court directs otherwise, any order made otherwise than at trial must be served on the applicant and the respondent⁷ and any other person on whom the court orders it to be served⁸.

Where the party on whom a judgment or order is to be served is acting by a solicitor, the court may order the judgment or order to be served on the party as well as on his solicitor⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2. As to who may serve judgments and orders see CPR 6.21; and PARA 141.

2 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

3 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

4 CPR 40.4(1)(a).

5 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

6 CPR 40.4(1)(b).

7 CPR 40.4(2)(a).

8 CPR 40.4(2)(b).

9 CPR 40.5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1141. Consent judgments and orders.

1141. Consent judgments and orders.

Where all the parties agree the terms in which a judgment should be given or an order should be made¹, a court officer² may enter and seal³ an agreed judgment or order if:

- 820 (1) none of the parties is a litigant in person⁴;
 - 821 (2) the approval of the court⁵ is not required by the Civil Procedure Rules, by a practice direction or by any enactment before an agreed order can be made⁶; and
 - 822 (3) either the judgment or order is a judgment or order for the payment of an amount of money⁷ or for the delivery up of goods with or without the option of paying the value of the goods or the agreed value⁸, or it is an order for:
- 17
- 26. (a) the dismissal of any proceedings, wholly or in part⁹;
 - 27. (b) the stay¹⁰ of proceedings on agreed terms, disposing of the proceedings, whether those terms are recorded in a schedule to the order or elsewhere¹¹;
 - 28. (c) the stay of enforcement of a judgment, either unconditionally or on condition that the money due under the judgment is paid by instalments specified in the order¹²;
 - 29. (d) the setting aside¹³ of a default judgment which has not been satisfied¹⁴;
 - 30. (e) the payment out of money which has been paid into court¹⁵;
 - 31. (f) the discharge from liability of any party¹⁶;
 - 32. (g) the payment, assessment or waiver of costs, or such other provision for costs as may be agreed¹⁷.
- 18

Where heads (1) to (3) above do not apply, any party may apply for a judgment or order in the terms agreed¹⁸.

Where these provisions apply, the order which is agreed by the parties must be drawn up in the terms agreed and must be expressed as being 'By Consent'¹⁹. It must be signed by the legal representative²⁰ acting for each of the parties to whom the order relates or, where the judgment or order has been entered on the application of a party²¹, by the party if he is a litigant in person²².

1 See CPR 40.6(1).

2 As to the meaning of 'court officer' see PARA 49 note 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'seal' see PARA 81 note 2.

4 CPR 40.6(2)(b).

5 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

6 CPR 40.6(2)(c); see eg CPR 21.10, which requires the approval of the court to be given before a consent order settling a claim made on behalf of a child or protected party is valid; and CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARA 1422. As to the meaning of 'child' and 'protected party' see PARA 222 notes 3, 1 respectively.

7 ie including a judgment or order for damages or the value of goods to be decided by the court: see CPR 40.6(3)(a)(i). As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1.

8 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(a)(ii).

9 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(i). As to the court's power to dismiss proceedings see CPR 3.1(2)(l); and PARA 247 head (12) in the text.

10 As to the meaning of 'stay' see PARA 233 note 11; and as to the stay of proceedings see PARA 529 et seq.

11 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(ii). Where the parties draw up a consent order in the form of a stay of proceedings on agreed terms, disposing of the proceedings, and where the terms are recorded in a schedule to the order, any direction for the payment of money out of court (see eg CPR Pt 36; and PARAS 115, 729 et seq) or as to the payment or the assessment of costs should be contained in the body of the order and not in the schedule: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 3.5. An order in such terms is known as a 'Tomlin' order. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

12 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(iii). As to judgments paid by instalments see Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 12; and PARA 1137.

13 Ie under CPR Pt 13: see PARA 516 et seq. As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

14 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(iv). As to the meaning of 'default judgment' see PARA 506.

15 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(v).

16 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(vi).

17 CPR 40.6(2)(a), (3)(b)(vii). CPR 40.3 (drawing up and filing of judgments and orders: see PARA 1139) applies to judgments and orders entered and sealed by a court officer under CPR 40.6(2) as it applies to other judgments and orders: CPR 40.6(4). A consent judgment or order must (1) be drawn up in the terms agreed; (2) bear on it the words 'By Consent'; and (3) be signed by (a) solicitors or counsel acting for each of the parties to the order; or (b) where a party is a litigant in person, the litigant: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 3.4. If a consent order filed for sealing appears to be unclear or incorrect the court officer may refer it to a judge for consideration: para 3.2. As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.

18 CPR 40.6(5). An application notice requesting a judgment or order in the agreed terms must be filed with the draft judgment or order to be entered or sealed and the draft judgment or order must be drawn so that the judge's name and judicial title can be inserted: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 3.3. The court may deal with an application without a hearing: CPR 40.6(6).

19 CPR 40.6(7)(a), (b).

20 As to the meaning of 'legal representative' see PARA 1833 note 13.

21 Ie where CPR 40.6(5) applies: see the text and note 18.

22 CPR 40.6(7)(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1142. When judgment or order takes effect.

1142. When judgment or order takes effect.

A judgment or order takes effect from the day when it is given or made, or such later date as the court¹ may specify². This rule applies to all judgments and orders except to those against a state which are described below³.

Where the claimant⁴ obtains default judgment⁵ on a claim against a state⁶ where the defendant⁷ has failed to file⁸ an acknowledgment of service⁹, the judgment does not take effect until two months after service on the state of a copy of the judgment and a copy of the evidence¹⁰ in support of the application for permission to enter default judgment¹¹.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 CPR 40.7(1).

3 CPR 40.7(2). The exception referred to in the text is in respect to judgments to which CPR 40.10 applies: see the text and notes 4-10.

4 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

5 I.e. under CPR Pt 12: see PARA 506 et seq. As to the meaning of 'default judgment' see PARA 506.

6 For these purposes, 'state' has the meaning given by the State Immunity Act 1978 s 14 (see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 245): CPR 40.10(2).

7 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

8 As to the meaning of 'filing' see PARA 1832 note 8.

9 As to the requirement for filing an acknowledgment of service see PARAS 184, 186. As to the meaning of 'service' see PARA 138 note 2.

10 I.e. unless the evidence has already been served on the state in accordance with an order made under CPR Pt 12 (see PARA 506 et seq): see CPR 40.10(1)(b).

11 CPR 40.10(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1143. Setting aside or varying a judgment or order.

1143. Setting aside or varying a judgment or order.

A person who is not a party but who is directly affected by a judgment or order may apply to have the judgment or order set aside¹ or varied².

A judgment which has been obtained by fraud either in the court³ or of one or more of the parties⁴ may be set aside⁵ if challenged in fresh proceedings alleging and proving the fraud⁶. In such proceedings it is not sufficient merely to allege fraud without giving any particulars⁷, and the fraud must relate to matters which prima facie would be a reason for setting the judgment aside if they were established by proof⁸, and not to matters which are merely collateral⁹. The court requires a strong case to be established before it will set aside a judgment on this ground¹⁰ and the proceedings will be stayed or dismissed as vexatious unless the fraud alleged raises a reasonable prospect of success and was discovered since the judgment¹¹. Theoretically, it may be true that even a party to a judgment which has been obtained by fraud is entitled to ask the court to disregard it in subsequent proceedings, but a party who has taken no proceedings to set the judgment aside would have great difficulty in establishing fraud, and a party to a consent judgment obtained by fraud must apply to set aside the judgment in order to avoid the estoppel¹². As a rule a judgment can only be set aside, if at all, against those who procured it by fraud, but this does not apply to probate proceedings to set aside the probate of a will¹³.

A judgment may be set aside on the ground of the discovery of new evidence which would have had a material effect upon the decision of the court¹⁴. It must be shown that (1) the evidence could not have been obtained with reasonable diligence for use at the trial; (2) the further evidence is such that, if given, it would have an important influence on the result of the trial, although it need not be decisive; and (3) the evidence is such as is presumably to be believed¹⁵.

A judgment given or an order made by consent may be set aside on any ground which would invalidate a compromise not contained in a judgment or order¹⁶. Compromises have been set aside on the ground that the agreement was illegal as against public policy¹⁷, or was obtained by fraud¹⁸ or misrepresentation, or non-disclosure of a material fact which there was an obligation to disclose¹⁹, or by duress²⁰, or was concluded under a mutual mistake of fact²¹, ignorance of a material fact²², or without authority²³. A compromise in ratification of a contract which is incapable of being ratified is not enforceable²⁴; and a compromise which is conditional on some term being carried out, or on the assent of the court or other persons being given to the arrangement, is not enforceable if the term is not carried out or the assent is given effectually²⁵. The court may refuse to set aside a compromise when the party seeking to set it aside is guilty of delay in questioning it²⁶. It has been held that a consent order cannot be set aside by way of appeal²⁷ but in a recent case the Court of Appeal set aside a consent order in circumstances where it had been presented with all the information which the judge was likely to have had²⁸.

There is a residual jurisdiction for a court of appeal to re-open a case in exceptional circumstances to avoid real injustice²⁹.

1 As to the meaning of 'set aside' see PARA 197 note 6.

2 CPR 40.9. See Gerrard Ltd v Read (2002) Times, 17 January (disputed term not unenforceable and, therefore, deletion of it not appropriate); and Hepworth Group Ltd v Stockley [2006] EWHC 3626 (Ch), [2007] 2

All ER (Comm) 82. As to the court's general powers to set aside or vary a judgment or order see CPR 3.1(2)(m), CPR 3.1(7); and PARA 247; and as to whether a person who is not a party but is directly affected may appeal a judgment see PARA 1703. As to the judge's power to re-open a judgment that has not been finally issued see PARA 1139 notes 1, 8. As to setting aside a judgment on the ground that there is a real danger or reasonable apprehension or suspicion of bias by the judge see PARA 95 note 8; and JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 631 et seq.

3 Cammell v Sewell (1858) 3 H & N 617.

4 Birch v Birch [1902] P 130, CA; Coaks v Boswell (1886) 11 App Cas 232, HL; Boswell v Coaks (No 2) (1894) 86 LT 365n, HL; Thorne v Smith [1947] KB 307, [1947] 1 All ER 39, CA. Where a party is a corporation, it is possible for evidence perjured by a natural person to be treated as that of the company, even where it is neither procured or knowingly adopted by the company, nor given by someone who was part of the company's directing mind and will or a person to whom the conduct of the litigation had been delegated. The test to be adopted is whether the natural person in question has the status and authority which in law make his acts in the matter under consideration the acts of the company, so that he is to be treated as the company itself: Odyssey Re (London) Ltd (formerly Sphere Drake Insurance plc) v OIC Run-Off Ltd (formerly Orion Insurance Co plc) [2001] Lloyd's Rep IR 1, CA.

5 Flower v Lloyd (1877) 6 ChD 297, CA, citing Lord Redesdale on Pleadings (5th Edn) 112, 113; Cole v Langford [1898] 2 QB 36; Baker v Wadsworth (1898) 67 LJQB 301; Wyatt v Palmer [1899] 2 QB 106, CA; Charles Bright & Co Ltd v Sellar [1904] 1 KB 6, CA; Gordon-Smith v Peizer (1921) 65 Sol Jo 607. The validity of a judgment debt on which an adjudication in bankruptcy has been founded may only be contested by the bankrupt in the bankruptcy court. So long as the adjudication stands, any right of action to set aside the judgment is a chose (or thing) in action vested in the trustee: Boaler v Power [1910] 2 KB 229, CA.

6 Kuwait Airways Corpn v Iraqi Airways Co (No 2) [2001] 1 WLR 429, HL; and see Jonesco v Beard [1930] AC 298, HL; Stern v Friedmann [1953] 2 All ER 565, [1953] 1 WLR 969. See also Cinpres Gas Injection Ltd v Melea Ltd [2008] EWCA Civ 9, [2008] All ER (D) 165 (Jan).

7 Boswell v Coaks (No 2) (1894) 86 LT 365n, HL. The particulars must be exactly given and the allegation established by the strict proof such a charge requires: Jonesco v Beard [1930] AC 298, HL. The court will refuse to set aside a judgment on mere allegation of perjury without new facts: Baker v Wadsworth (1899) 67 LJQB 301; Everett v Ribbands (1946) 175 LT 143, CA.

8 Boswell v Coaks (No 2) (1894) 86 LT 365n, HL.

9 Birch v Birch [1902] P 130, CA.

10 See the observations of James LJ in Flower v Lloyd (1879) 10 ChD 327, CA, and of Cozens-Hardy LJ in Birch v Birch [1902] P 130, CA. See also Priestman v Thomas (1884) 9 PD 210, CA (will admitted to probate under a compromise subsequently discovered to be a forgery); Colclough v Bolger (1816) 4 Dow 54, HL (sale under court order set aside on ground of fraud and collusion); Brooke v Lord Mostyn (1864) 2 De GJ & Sm 373 (setting aside a compromise).

11 Birch v Birch [1902] P 130, CA; Shedden v Patrick (1854) 1 Macq 535, HL, per Lord Cranworth LJ; cf White v Hall (1806) 12 Ves 321; Cotter v Earl Barrymore (1733) 4 Bro Parl Cas 203, HL. On the defendant's move to stay the proceedings as vexatious the court should receive evidence on either side as to whether or not there has been a discovery of new and material evidence since the judgment: Boswell v Coaks (No 2) (1894) 86 LT 365n, HL. It has been held that the fact that there exists a more summary way of setting aside a judgment by default does not prevent recourse being had to such fresh proceedings: see Wyatt v Palmer [1899] 2 QB 106, CA. If proceedings are begun they ought not to be stayed on terms although such terms could have been imposed had the summary procedure been utilised: Kennedy v Dandrick [1943] Ch 291, [1943] 2 All ER 606, distinguishing Wyatt v Palmer [1899] 2 QB 106, CA.

12 Parker v Simpson (1869) 18 WR 204; cf Priestman v Thomas (1884) 9 PD 210, CA.

13 Birch v Birch [1902] P 130, CA.

14 For the power to adduce fresh evidence on appeal under CPR 52.11 see PARA 1672.

15 Ladd v Marshall [1954] 3 All ER 745, [1954] 1 WLR 1489, CA. See also Re Barrell Enterprises [1972] 3 All ER 631, [1973] 1 WLR 19, CA. For earlier cases see Boswell v Coaks (No 2) (1894) 6 R 167, HL, where fraudulent suppression of evidence was alleged; Falcke v Scottish Imperial Insurance Co (1887) 57 LT 39; The Alfred Nobel [1918] P 293; and cf Re Scott and Alvarez's Contract, Scott v Alvarez [1895] 1 Ch 596; on appeal [1895] 2 Ch 603, CA; JH Rayner (Mincing Lane) Ltd v Cafénorte SA Importadora [1999] 1 All ER (Comm) 120, affd on different grounds [1999] 2 All ER (Comm) 577, CA. Where an application is made to adduce new evidence before a trial judge after judgment but prior to the making of the order for relief, the principles derived from authority should be applied more flexibly than they might be by the Court of Appeal: Fisher v Cadman [2005] EWHC 377 (Ch), [2006] 1 BCLC 499, applying Ladd v Marshall [1954] 3 All ER 745, [1954] 1 WLR 1489, CA.

16 Wilding v Sanderson [1897] 2 Ch 534, CA; Hickman v Berens [1895] 2 Ch 638, CA; Kinch v Walcott [1929] AC 482, PC. See further Sturrock v Littlejohn (1898) 68 LJQB 165. As to consent orders see PARA 1141. It has been held that, unless all the parties agree, a consent order, when entered, can only be set aside by fresh proceedings (Emeris v Woodward (1889) 43 ChD 185; Ainsworth v Wilding [1896] 1 Ch 673; and see also Marsden v Marsden [1972] Fam 280, [1972] 2 All ER 1162) and that an application cannot be made to the court of first instance in the original proceedings to set aside the judgment or order (Harrison v Rumsey (1752) 2 Ves Sen 488; Stannard v Harrison (1871) 19 WR 811; Ainsworth v Wilding [1896] 1 Ch 673. See also Munster v Cox (1885) 10 App Cas 680; Australasian Automatic Weighing Machine Co v Walter [1891] WN 170), except, apparently, in the case of an interim order (Mullins v Howell (1879) 11 ChD 763; B (GC) v B (BA) [1970] 1 All ER 913, sub nom Brister v Brister [1970] 1 WLR 664; and see Chanel Ltd v FW Woolworth & Co Ltd [1981] 1 All ER 745, [1981] 1 WLR 485, CA, distinguished in Butt v Butt [1987] 3 All ER 657, [1987] 1 WLR 1351, CA). These decisions may, however, no longer be authoritative in view of the court's wide powers under CPR 3.1(7): see PARA 247.

17 Windhill Local Board of Health v Vint (1890) 45 ChD 351, CA (compromise of prosecution).

18 Priestman v Thomas (1884) 9 PD 210, CA.

19 Gilbert v Endean (1878) 9 ChD 259, CA: see MISREPRESENTATION AND FRAUD.

20 Cumming v Ince (1847) 11 QB 112.

21 Wilding v Sanderson [1897] 2 Ch 534, CA; Huddersfield Banking Co Ltd v Henry Lister & Son Ltd [1895] 2 Ch 273, CA. A compromise will not be set aside merely upon the ground of mistake of law: Holsworthy UDC v Holsworthy RDC [1907] 2 Ch 62. See also MISTAKE. For the difference between an application to set aside a judgment on grounds of mistake when made before, as compared with after, the judgment has been entered see A-G v Tomline (1887) 7 ChD 388.

22 Furnival v Bogle (1827) 4 Russ 142.

23 Shepherd v Robinson [1919] 1 KB 474, CA. Bad or negligent legal advice can never be a ground for setting aside a consent order: Tibbs v Dick [1999] 2 FCR 322, CA.

24 Great North-West Central Rly Co v Charlebois [1899] AC 114, PC (ultra vires, but see Holsworthy UDC v Holsworthy RDC [1907] 2 Ch 62); Smith v King [1892] 2 QB 543, DC (infancy).

25 Plumley v Horrell (1869) 20 LT 473.

26 Watt v Assets Co, Bain v Assets Co [1905] AC 317, HL.

27 Re Elstein's Affairs [1945] 1 All ER 272, CA.

28 See Middleton v Middleton [1999] 2 FCR 681, CA.

29 See Taylor v Lawrence [2002] EWCA Civ 90, [2003] QB 528, [2002] 2 All ER 353. See also eg R v Bow Street Metropolitan Stipendiary Magistrate, ex p Pinochet Ugarte (No 2) [2000] 1 AC 119, [1999] 1 All ER 577, HL.

UPDATE

1143 Setting aside or varying a judgment or order

NOTE 7--See also Noble v Owens [2010] EWCA Civ 224, [2010] All ER (D) 87 (Mar).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1144. Correction of errors in judgments and orders.

1144. Correction of errors in judgments and orders.

The court¹ may at any time correct an accidental slip or omission in a judgment or order².

A party may apply for a correction without notice³. The application notice (which may be an informal document such as a letter) must describe the error and set out the correction required. An application may be dealt with without a hearing where the applicant so requests, with the consent of the parties or where the court does not consider that a hearing would be appropriate⁴.

The judge may deal with the application without notice if the slip or omission is obvious or may direct notice of the application to be given to the other party or parties⁵. If the application is opposed it should, if practicable, be listed for hearing before the judge who gave the judgment or made the order⁶.

The court has an inherent power to vary its own orders to make the meaning and intention of the court clear⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 CPR 40.12(1).

3 CPR 40.12(2); and see Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 4.2.

4 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 4.2.

5 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 4.3.

6 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 4.4.

7 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 4.5. As to the inherent jurisdiction of the court see PARA 15.

UPDATE

1144 Correction of errors in judgments and orders

NOTE 2--See JSC BTA Bank v Ablyazov [2009] EWHC 3267 (Comm), [2009] All ER (D) 137 (Dec) (correction of freezing order).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1145. Declaratory judgments.

1145. Declaratory judgments.

The court¹ may make binding declarations, whether or not any other remedy is claimed². Some recent examples are a declaration (1) that the court had jurisdiction to make a scheme dividing the assets of a charity and holding them on trusts³; (2) that office premises owned by the defendant were subject to an equitable mortgage in favour of the claimant⁴; (3) that a tenancy was an assured shorthold tenancy⁵; (4) that the claimants were to be allowed access from their land onto a private road⁶; (5) that a parent had wrongfully removed children from the jurisdiction⁷; and (6) that artificial hydration and nutrition of a protected party in a persistent vegetative state could lawfully be withdrawn⁸.

The court has refused to make a declaration that a person registered as male at birth was female for the purposes of the marriage laws⁹. Except in exceptional circumstances, it is not appropriate for a member of the public to bring proceedings against the Crown for a declaration that certain proposed conduct is not criminal¹⁰.

A number of statutes provide for the court to make declarations; for example, the court may make a declaration under the Companies Act 1985 that the dissolution of a company is void¹¹ or a declaration under the Human Rights Act 1998 that a statutory provision is incompatible with the European Convention on Human Rights¹².

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 CPR 40.20. This power appears to be unfettered: see Financial Services Authority v Rourke [2001] All ER (D) 266 (Oct) per Neuberger J.

3 Varsani v Jesani [2001] All ER (D) 458 (Jul).

4 Al Wazir v Islamic Press Agency Inc [2001] EWCA Civ 1276, [2002] 2 P & CR 157, [2001] All ER (D) 437 (Jul).

5 Yenula Properties Ltd v Naidu [2001] All ER (D) 236 (Jul), [2001] 31 EG 100 (CS).

6 Lomax v Wood [2001] EWCA Civ 1099, [2001] All ER (D) 80 (Jun).

7 See Re L (children) (abduction: declaration) [2001] 2 FCR 1. This declaration was made in the Family Division, as were the first-instance judgments in the cases cited in notes 8, 9. As to the limited application of the Civil Procedure Rules to family proceedings see PARA 32.

8 See eg NHS Trust v H [2001] All ER (D) 363 (Mar), [2001] 2 FLR 501, applying Airedale NHS Trust v Bland [1993] 1 All ER 821, [1994] 1 FCR 485, CA; affd [1993] AC 789, [1993] 1 All ER 821, HL.

9 See eg Bellinger v Bellinger [2001] EWCA Civ 1140, [2002] Fam 150, [2001] 3 FCR 1.

10 See R (on the application of Rusbridger) v A-G [2003] UKHL 38, [2004] 1 AC 357, [2003] 3 All ER 784 (claimants proposed to publish articles advocating abolition of monarchy; court refused to declare whether such publications would be felony treason); applied in Blackland Park Exploration Ltd v Environment Agency [2003] EWCA Civ 1795, [2003] All ER (D) 249 (Dec) (interests of justice required that claimant be able to obtain ruling of civil court before continuing with course of conduct that could lead to prosecution).

11 Under the Companies Act 1985 s 651: see COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 937; and see Smith v White Knight Laundry Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 660, [2001] 3 All ER 862, [2002] 1 WLR 616.

12 See the Human Rights Act 1998 s 4. A county court has no power to make such a declaration: see PARA 58 the text and note 13; and see eg Poplar Housing and Regeneration Community Association Ltd v Donoghue [2001] EWCA Civ 595, [2001] 3 WLR 183, sub nom Donoghue v Poplar Housing and Regeneration Community Association Ltd [2001] 3 FCR 74.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1146. Media neutral judgments.

1146. Media neutral judgments.

With effect from 11 January 2001, all judgments in every Division of the High Court and the Court of Appeal are prepared for delivery, or issued as approved judgments, with single spacing and paragraph numbering in the margins but no page numbers. In courts with more than one judge, the paragraph numbering continues sequentially through each judgment, and does not start again at the beginning of the second judgment. Indented paragraphs are not given a number¹.

Also with effect from 11 January 2001, a form of neutral citation has been introduced in both Divisions of the Court of Appeal and in the Administrative Court. A unique number is given by the official shorthand writers to each approved judgment issued out of these courts². The neutral citation will be the official number attributed to the judgment by the court and must always be used on at least one occasion when the judgment is cited in a later judgment. Once the judgment is reported, the neutral citation will appear in front of the familiar citation from the law report series³.

The neutral citation arrangements will be extended to include other parts of the High Court as soon as the necessary administrative arrangements can be made⁴. They now apply to all judgments given by judges in the High Court in London⁵.

1 See Practice Note (judgments: neutral citation) [2001] 1 All ER 193 para 1.1. The main reason for these changes was to facilitate the publication of judgments on the World Wide Web and their subsequent use by the increasing numbers of those who have access to the Web. The changes should also assist those who use and wish to search judgments stored on electronic databases: see para 1.2. It is desirable in the interests of consistency that all judgments prepared for delivery (or issued as approved judgments) in county courts, should also contain paragraph numbering (in the margins): para 1.3. The reasoning in judgments should be set out in manageable paragraphs and sub paragraphs, with cross-headings where appropriate, so that the documents can be understood and analysed: Jasim v Secretary of State for the Home Department [2006] EWCA Civ 342, [2006] All ER (D) 453 (Mar).

2 See Practice Note (judgments: neutral citation) [2001] 1 All ER 193 paras 2.1, 2.2. The judgments will be numbered in the following way: (1) Court of Appeal (Civil Division): [2000] EWCA Civ 1, 2, 3 etc; (2) Court of Appeal (Criminal Division): [2000] EWCA Crim 1, 2, 3 etc; (3) High Court (Administrative Court): [2000] EWHC Admin 1, 2, 3 etc: para 2.1. Under these new arrangements, para 59 in Smith v Jones, the tenth numbered judgment of the year in the Civil Division of the Court of Appeal, would be cited: Smith v Jones [2001] EWCA Civ 10 at [59]: Practice Note (judgments: neutral citation) [2001] 1 All ER 193 para 2.2. The paragraph number must be the number allotted by the court in all future versions of the judgment: para 2.3. If it is desired to cite more than one paragraph of a judgment each numbered paragraph should be enclosed with a square bracket: para 2.5. The Administrative Court citation will be given to all judgments in the Administrative Court, whether they are delivered by a Divisional Court or by a single judge: para 2.7.

3 See Practice Note (judgments: neutral citation) [2001] 1 All ER 193 para 2.3.

4 See Practice Note (judgments: neutral citation) [2001] 1 All ER 193 para 2.6.

5 See Practice Direction [2002] 1 All ER 351, with effect from 14 January 2002. The judgments will be numbered in the following way: Chancery Division EWHC number (Ch); Patents Court EWHC number (Pat); Queen's Bench Division EWHC number (QB); Administrative Court EWHC number (Admin); Commercial Court EWHC number (Comm); Admiralty Court EWHC number (Admlty); Technology & Construction Court EWHC number (TCC); Family Division EWHC number (Fam). For example, [2002] EWHC 123 (Fam), or [2002] EWHC 124 (QB), or [2002] EWHC 125 (Ch): Practice Direction [2002] 1 All ER 351 para 2. It is unnecessary to include the descriptive word in brackets when citing the paragraph number of a judgment. Thus para 59 in Smith v Jones [2002] EWHC 124 (QB) would be cited: Smith v Jones [2002] EWHC 124 at [59]: Practice Direction [2002] 1 All ER 351 para 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1147. Register of judgments and orders.

1147. Register of judgments and orders.

A register is to be kept, in accordance with regulations¹, of (1) judgments entered in the High Court; (2) judgments entered in county courts; (3) administration orders²; (4) orders restricting enforcement³; (5) sums which are, for the purposes of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980, sums adjudged to be paid by a conviction or order of a magistrates' court; and (6) a decision or award of the First-tier Tribunal, the Upper Tribunal, an employment tribunal, or the Employment Appeal Tribunal, in pursuance of which any sum is payable⁴. The Lord Chancellor may fix charges to be made for (a) making information in an entry in the register available for inspection; (b) carrying out an official search of the register; (c) supplying a certified copy of information in an entry in the register⁵. The proceeds of those charges are to be applied in paying the expenses incurred in maintaining the register; and any surplus is to be paid into the Consolidated Fund⁶. If there is in force an agreement between the Lord Chancellor and a body corporate relating to the keeping by that body corporate of the register the register is to be kept by that body corporate⁷. If in accordance with such an agreement the register is kept by a body corporate, the Lord Chancellor may recover from the body corporate any expenses incurred by the Lord Chancellor in connection with the supply of information to that body for the purposes of the register and different provisions apply as to the charges⁸. If there is no longer an agreement in force with a body corporate as a result of the termination (for any reason) of the agreement, the Lord Chancellor may require the information contained in the entries in the register to be transferred to such person as he may direct⁹.

1 'Regulations' means regulations made by the Lord Chancellor for the purposes of the Courts Act 2003 s 98: s 98(2). The regulations may (1) provide for prescribed classes of judgments, decisions, awards, orders or adjudged sums to be exempt from registration; (2) prescribe circumstances in which judgments, decisions, awards, orders or adjudged sums (or classes of them) are to be exempt from registration; (3) prescribe circumstances in which an entry in the register is to be cancelled; (4) in the case of sums adjudged to be paid by conviction of a magistrates' court or in the case of sums payable in pursuance of decisions or awards of a tribunal mentioned in s 98(1)(f) (see head (6) in the text), provide for sums to be registered only in prescribed circumstances or subject to prescribed conditions: s 98(3) (amended by the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007 s 48(1), Sch 8 para 55(1), (3)).

In exercise of this power the Lord Chancellor has made the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, which came into force on 30 December 2005 (regs 1, 2, 4) and 6 April 2006 (all other provisions): see reg 2. As to the power of the Lord Chancellor or Lord Chief Justice to make regulations under the Courts Act 2003 generally see s 108 (amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 4 para 348).

2 Ie under the County Courts Act 1984 s 112: see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 893. As from a day to be appointed, the Courts Act 2003 s 98(1)(c) is amended by the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007 s 106(2), Sch 16 para 15 to substitute a reference to the County Courts Act 1984 Pt 6 for the reference to s 112. At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

3 Ie made under the County Courts Act 1984 s 112A (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 893). As from a day to be appointed, the Courts Act 2003 s 98(1)(d) is substituted by the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007 s 107(3) to refer to enforcement restriction orders under the County Courts Act 1984 Pt 6A (ss 117A-117X) (power of county courts to make enforcement restriction orders). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

4 Courts Act 2003 s 98(1) (amended by the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007 Sch 8 para 55(2)).

The appropriate officer must send to the registrar a return of every judgment entered in the High Court and a county court (Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(a)), every administration order made under the County Courts Act 1984 s 112 (Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(b)), every sum to be registered by virtue of the Courts Act 2003 Sch 5 para 38(1)(b) (Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(c)), and every tribunal decision made by the First-tier Tribunal, the Upper Tribunal, an employment tribunal or the Employment Appeal Tribunal in pursuance of which a sum of money is payable (reg 8(1)(d) (added by SI 2009/474)). However, the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(d) does not apply until, pursuant to CPR 70.5(2A)(a) (see PARA 1231), a copy of the tribunal decision is filed with the High Court or a county court (in the case of a tribunal decision made by the First-tier Tribunal or the Upper Tribunal) or a copy of the tribunal decision is filed with a county court (in the case of a tribunal decision made by an employment tribunal or the Employment Appeal Tribunal): Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 9A (added by SI 2009/474). As to the details to be contained in the return see the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 10 (amended by SI 2009/474). Following receipt of a return, the registrar must record the details of the return as an entry in the register: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(2). As to the appropriate officer see reg 3 (amended by SI 2009/474). Where the register is kept by a body corporate in accordance with the Courts Act 2003 s 98(6) (see the text and note 7), 'registrar' means that body corporate; or otherwise, it means the Lord Chancellor: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 3.

Judgments made in family proceedings, by the Administrative Court or by the Technology and Construction Court are exempt from registration (see reg 9(a)), as are the following (reg 9(b)-(e)):

- 86 (1) any judgment made in proceedings which are the subject of an appeal under CPR Pt 52, until that appeal has been determined;
- 87 (2) any judgment, other than a liability order designated under the Child Support Act 1991 s 33(5), where the hearing was contested, until an order is made for payment by instalments following an application by the judgment creditor; an application is made for payment by instalments by the judgment debtor; the judgment creditor takes any step to enforce the judgment under CPR Pt 70 (general rules about enforcement of judgments and orders); the judgment creditor applies for an order under CPR Pt 71 (orders to obtain information from judgment debtors); (e) the judgment creditor applies for a certificate of judgment under CPR Sch 2 CCR Ord 22 r 8;
- 88 (3) an order for the payment of money arising from an action for the recovery of land (whether for costs, payments due under a mortgage, arrears of rent, or otherwise), until the creditor takes any step to enforce the order under CPR Pt 70;
- 89 (4) an order of a county court under the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 73(15) (order for the recovery of an amount which is payable under an adjudication of a parking adjudicator) or Sch 6 para 7 (order for the recovery of an increased penalty charge).

In the case of an entry in the register to which the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(a) or reg 8(1)(d) applies, where it comes to the attention of the appropriate officer that (a) the debt to which the entry relates has been satisfied one month or less from the date of the judgment or the date on which the tribunal decision was filed with the court in accordance with reg 9A; (b) the judgment to which the entry relates has been set aside or reversed; or (c) the tribunal decision to which the entry relates has been set aside, that officer must send a request to the registrar to cancel the entry: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 11(1), (2) (amended by SI 2009/474). Where it comes to the attention of the appropriate officer that the debt has been satisfied more than one month from the date of the judgment or the date on which the tribunal decision was filed with the court in accordance with reg 9A, that officer must send a request to the registrar to indorse the entry as to the satisfaction of the debt: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 11(3) (amended by SI 2009/474). As to the cancellation or endorsement of entries relating to fines see the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, regs 13, 14 (reg 14 amended by SI 2009/474). Where it comes to the attention of the appropriate officer that an administrative error has been made and he is of the opinion that the error is such to require the cancellation of an entry in the register, that officer must send a request to the registrar to cancel the relevant entry: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 15. Provision is made for amendment of entries in the register: see regs 20-25 (regs 20, 21 amended by SI 2009/474). The registrar must remove any entry in the register registered (i) by virtue of the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(a) or (b), six years from the date of the judgment; (ii) by virtue of reg 8(1)(c), five years from the date of conviction; (iii) by virtue of reg 8(1)(d), six years from the date on which the tribunal decision was filed with the court in accordance with reg 9A: reg 26 (amended by SI 2009/474). A registered debtor may apply for a certificate of satisfaction in respect of the payment in full of a debt owed under a judgment or administration order and in respect of the payment in full of a fine: see the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, regs 17-19 (reg 18 amended by SI 2009/474). Any step to be taken under the regulations by the appropriate officer or the registrar must be taken within one working day in respect of:

90 (A) the registration of judgments to which the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 8(1)(a) applies;

91 (B) the registration of administration orders to which reg 8(1)(b) applies; and

92 (C) the registration of tribunal decisions to which reg 8(1)(d) applies, and as soon as may be reasonably practicable in respect of the registration of sums to which reg 8(1)(c) applies: reg 5 (amended by SI 2009/474).

5 Courts Act 2003 s 98(4). Searches of a section of the register may be carried out on payment of the applicable charge relevant to the type and method of search: see the Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 27. On receipt of a written request for a certified copy of an entry in the register and the applicable charge for such a request, the registrar must provide a copy of that entry, certified by him as a true and complete copy of the entry in the register: see reg 28. However, the registrar may refuse a person access to the register, or to a part of the register and refuse to carry out a search of the register if he believes that the purpose for which access has been requested or for which the results of the search will be used contravenes any of the data protection principles or the provisions of any other enactment: reg 29(1). Where such a refusal is made, the person who has been denied access to, or has been denied a search of, the register may appeal to a county court against the decision of the registrar: reg 29(2).

6 Courts Act 2003 s 98(5).

7 Courts Act 2003 s 98(6). Where the registrar is a body corporate, the register is to be kept in accordance with the terms of the agreement between the Lord Chancellor and that body: Register of Judgments, Orders and Fines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3595, reg 6(1). The terms of the agreement between the Lord Chancellor and the body corporate must specify (1) the manner in which the register is to be kept; (2) the form of the register; and (3) the place at which the register is to be kept: reg 6(2). Where the registrar is not a body corporate, the register is to be kept by the Lord Chancellor in such a manner and at such a place as he shall determine: reg 7.

8 The Courts Act 2003 s 98(4) (see the text to note 5) applies as if it enabled the Lord Chancellor to fix the maximum charges to be made (instead of the charges to be made), and s 98(5) (see the text to note 6) does not apply: s 98(7).

9 Courts Act 2003 s 98(8).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1148. Time from which interest begins to run.

1148. Time from which interest begins to run.

Where interest is payable on a judgment¹, the interest will begin to run from the date that judgment is given unless a rule² or a practice direction makes different provision³ or the court⁴ orders otherwise⁵.

The court may order that interest shall begin to run from a date before the date that judgment is given⁶.

1 Ie pursuant to the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 or the County Courts Act 1984 s 74: see PARA 1149.

2 Ie a rule in another Part of the Civil Procedure Rules: see CPR 40.8(1)(a).

3 CPR 40.8(1)(a).

4 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

5 CPR 40.8(1)(b).

6 CPR 40.8(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1149. Interest on judgment debts.

1149. Interest on judgment debts.

Every judgment debt, including a debt due to or from the Crown¹, carries interest² at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from the date that judgment is given³ until the debt is satisfied, unless a rule or practice direction makes a different provision or the court orders otherwise⁴. Rules of court may provide for the court to disallow all or part of any interest otherwise so payable⁵.

This rule applies also to debts due to any person⁶ under orders of the High Court, including orders for costs⁷. Owing to the merger of a cause of action in the judgment⁸, interest in respect of a period after judgment can only be recovered under the judgment, as the judgment operates as a bar to a separate claim⁹, and if the judgment becomes unenforceable so does the claim for subsequent interest¹⁰. When, however, there is an agreement between the parties that a higher rate is to be secured by a judgment or order¹¹, then a fieri facias will issue on the judgment or order at that higher rate¹². Interest on a judgment by consent for instalments does not run until the instalments fall due¹³. The same rule applies when an order has been made for payment of a judgment debt by instalments¹⁴. A judgment for damages to be assessed carries interest from the date of entry of judgment and not from the date of assessment¹⁵. Interest on costs normally runs from the date of judgment rather than from the date of issue of the costs certificate¹⁶ but the court has power to award interest on costs from or until a certain date, including a date before judgment¹⁷.

When a claimant loses at first instance but recovers judgment in the Court of Appeal, interest only runs from the date of the order of the Court of Appeal¹⁸ unless that court for special reasons decides to date its order differently¹⁹. Where on an appeal to the House of Lords the decision of the court of first instance and of the Court of Appeal is reversed, and judgment is, for the first time, directed to be entered in favour of any litigant party by the House of Lords, the date which that judgment bears is, in the absence of any direction by the House, the date when the order is made²⁰; but, when the effect of an order of the House of Lords is to restore a judgment of the court of first instance which was reversed by an order of the Court of Appeal, the judgment of the court of first instance is expressly restored and remains standing as from the date when it was given²¹.

Interest on a judgment debt has been held not to be yearly interest for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts²².

A judgment entered in foreign currency will carry the statutory rate of interest on the amount of the judgment in foreign currency and such interest will be added to the amount of the judgment itself for the purposes of enforcement of the judgment²³.

Proceedings to enforce a charging order are not proceedings to enforce a judgment but proceedings to recover a sum due to the claimant as a secured creditor and, as such, the claimant is not restricted to recovering only six years' interest out of the proceeds of enforcing his security²⁴.

An arbitrator's award carries interest at the rate applicable to judgment debts²⁵.

1 See CROWN PROCEEDINGS AND CROWN PRACTICE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 135.

2 As to the power of the High Court to award interest on debts and damages up to the date of judgment or, in the case of any sum paid before judgment, the date of the payment, under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 35A and the like power of county courts under the County Courts Act 1984 s 69 see DAMAGES vol 12(1)

(Reissue) PARA 848. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1.

3 See CPR 40.8(1); and PARA 1148. The rate of interest can be varied either up or down in accordance with a particular case: Jaura v Ahmed [2002] EWCA Civ 210, (2002) Times, 18 March, CA (higher rate of interest awarded to reflect higher borrowing costs generally incurred by small businesses).

4 See the Judgments Act 1838 s 17(1) (amended by the Statute Law Revision (No 2) Act 1888; the Civil Procedure Acts Repeal Act 1879 s 2, Schedule Pt I; and SI 1993/564; renumbered and amended SI 1998/2940; and amended by virtue of CPR 40.8(1)). The Judgment Debts (Rate of Interest) Order 1993, SI 1993/564, was made under the Administration of Justice Act 1970 s 44. The interest is recoverable as a debt: Re Clagett, ex p Lewis [1888] WN 100, CA. For the liability to pay interest of a person who has agreed that an action to which he is not a party shall be a test action see Zachariassen v London General Insurance Co Ltd (1925) 133 LT 604.

In relation to county courts, the Lord Chancellor may by order made with the concurrence of the Treasury provide that any sums payable under judgments or orders given or made in a county court, including sums payable by instalments and sums which by virtue of any enactment are, if the county court so orders, recoverable as if payable under an order of that court, and in respect of which the county court has so ordered, are to carry interest at such rate and between such times as may be prescribed by the order: County Courts Act 1984 s 74(1), (2). The payment of interest so due is enforceable as a sum payable under the judgment or order: s 74(3). The power conferred by s 74(1) includes power: (1) to specify the descriptions of judgment or order in respect of which interest is to be payable; (2) to provide that interest is to be payable only on sums exceeding a specified amount; (3) to make provision for the manner in which and the periods by reference to which the interest is to be calculated and paid; (4) to provide that any enactment is or is not to apply in relation to interest so payable or is to apply to it with such modifications as may be specified in the order; and (5) to make such incidental or supplementary provisions as the Lord Chancellor considers appropriate: s 74(4). Without prejudice to the generality of s 74(4), an order under s 74(1) may provide that the rate of interest is to be the rate specified in the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 as that enactment has effect from time to time: s 74(5). The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 74(6). In exercise of the power so conferred, the Lord Chancellor has made the County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, which prescribes the rate of interest specified in the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 as that applicable: see the County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 5 (substituted by SI 1996/2516). Every judgment debt under a relevant judgment, to the extent that it remains unsatisfied, carries interest under the 1991 Order from the date on which the relevant judgment was given: County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 2(1). In the case of a judgment or order for the payment of a judgment debt, other than costs, the amount of which has to be determined at a later date, the judgment debt carries interest from that later date: art 2(2). Interest is not, however, payable under the 1991 Order where the relevant judgment is given in proceedings to recover money due under an agreement regulated by the Consumer Credit Act 1974 or grants either the landlord of a dwelling house, or the mortgagee under a mortgage of land which consists of or includes a dwelling house, a suspended order for possession: County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 2(3). Where the relevant judgment makes financial provision for a spouse or a child, interest is only payable on an order for the payment of not less than £5,000 as a lump sum (whether or not the sum is payable by instalments); and for these purposes, no regard must be had to any interest payable under the Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 s 23(6) (see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 479): County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 2(4).

Where a judgment creditor takes proceedings in a county court to enforce payment under a relevant judgment, the judgment debt ceases to carry interest thereafter, except where those proceedings fail to produce any payment from the debtor in which case interest accrues as if those proceedings had never been taken: art 4(1). For these purposes, 'proceedings to enforce payment under a relevant judgment' include any proceeding for examining or summoning a judgment debtor or attaching a debt owed to him, but do not include proceedings under the Charging Orders Act 1979 (see PARA 1467 et seq): County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 4(2). Where an administration order or an attachment of earnings order is made, interest does not accrue during the time the order is in force: art 4(3).

5 Judgments Act 1838 s 17(2) (added by SI 1998/2940).

6 Orders for payment of money into or out of court do not carry interest unless expressed to do so: see Taylor v Roe [1894] 1 Ch 413; A-G v Lord Carrington (1843) 6 Beav 454; A-G v Nethercote (1841) 11 Sim 529. A charging order for a judgment debt carries interest from the date of the judgment (Stoker v Elwell [1942] Ch 243, [1942] 1 All ER 261), and a judgment charging costs on land or a fund bears interest from the date when the land or fund becomes subject to them (Re MacDermott's Estate [1912] 1 IR 166, CA).

7 See the Judgments Act 1838 s 18; and the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 19. As to the prospective citation of the Supreme Court Act 1981 as the Senior Courts Act 1981 see PARA 8 note 1. As to costs, however, see the text and notes 16-17.

8 See PARA 1157.

9 Re European Central Rly Co, ex p Oriental Financial Corpn (1876) 4 ChD 33, CA; Re Sneyd, ex p Fewings (1883) 25 ChD 338, CA; Arbuthnot v Bunsilall (1890) 62 LT 234. But a mortgagee may be entitled to retain his security until the full interest stipulated by his mortgage has been paid: Economic Life Assurance Society v Usborne [1902] AC 147, HL. The doctrine of merger cannot contradict a statutory right to interest after judgment: Ealing London Borough Council v El Isaac [1980] 2 All ER 548, [1980] 1 WLR 932, CA. As to the doctrine of merger see PARA 1157.

10 Amam v Southern Rly Co [1926] 1 KB 59, CA.

11 It is common practice in mortgages and charges to require interest to be paid at a specified rate 'as well before as after any judgment'. See also in this connection Economic Life Assurance Society v Usborne [1902] AC 147, HL; Ealing London Borough Council v El Isaac [1980] 2 All ER 548, [1980] 1 WLR 932, CA.

12 As to execution see PARA 1265 et seq.

13 Caudery v Finnerty (1892) 66 LT 684.

14 See the County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 3; and Morse v Muir [1939] 2 KB 106, [1939] 2 All ER 40.

15 See Borthwick v Elderslie Steamship Co (No 2) [1905] 2 KB 516, CA: but cf Ashover Fluor Spar Mines Ltd v Jackson [1911] 2 Ch 355, where a consent order was made referring the assessment of damages to a special referee, the defendants agreeing to pay the amount so found due, and it was held that there was no order to pay to any person and so interest could only be awarded from the date of the certificate. See now Thomas v Bunn, Wilson v Graham, Lea v British Aerospace plc [1991] 1 AC 362, [1991] 1 All ER 193, HL (interest runs from the date of judgment on damages and not from the date of judgment on liability).

16 Hunt v RM Douglas (Roofing) Ltd [1990] 1 AC 398, [1988] 3 All ER 823, HL (overruling K v K [1977] Fam 39, [1977] 1 All ER 576, CA).

17 See CPR 44.3(6)(g); and see The Civil Court Practice. Interest payable on costs deemed to have been ordered runs from the date on which the event which gave rise to the entitlement to costs occurred: see CPR 44.12(2); and PARA 1754. As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

18 See Borthwick v Elderslie Steamship Co (No 2) [1905] 2 KB 516, CA (unliquidated sum); Belgian Grain and Produce Co Ltd v Cox & Co (France) Ltd [1919] WN 317, CA (liquidated sum). See also Nykredit Mortgage Bank plc v Edward Erdman Group Ltd (No 2) [1998] 1 All ER 305, [1997] 1 WLR 1627, HL (the court does not have power to order the payment of interest on costs from a date earlier than the date on which the court gives judgment).

19 Belgian Grain and Produce Co Ltd v Cox & Co (France) Ltd [1919] WN 317, CA.

20 Nitrate Producers Steamship Co Ltd v Short Bros Ltd (1922) 127 LT 726, HL. The fact that the cause is remitted to the High Court 'to do therein as shall be just and consistent with the judgment' does not give the High Court any discretion to vary the House of Lords judgment by giving a different date to it from the date it bears: Nitrate Producers Steamship Co Ltd v Short Bros Ltd (1922) 127 LT 726, HL, distinguishing Macbeth & Co Ltd v Maritime Insurance Co Ltd (1908) 24 TLR 559, where the House of Lords had directed that the whole question of damages should be determined by the High Court, and in pursuance of that direction interest was given as damages from the date of the original judgment, and Deeley v Lloyds Bank (No 2) (1912) 57 Sol Jo 158, CA, where the House of Lords judgment was confined to part only of the original dispute. As from a day to be appointed the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords is abolished and the new Supreme Court of the United Kingdom is established: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Pt 3 (ss 23-60); and COURTS. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

21 Nitrate Producers Steamship Co Ltd v Short Bros Ltd (1922) 127 LT 726, HL. Cf Stickney v Keeble (No 2) (1915) 84 LJ Ch 927, where the House of Lords order restored a judgment of the court of first instance and remitted the cause to that court to do therein as should be just and consistent with the judgment, and interest was allowed on the costs of the appeal to the Court of Appeal from the date of the order of the Court of Appeal, and not from the date of the judgment of the House of Lords.

22 Re Cooper [1911] 2 KB 550, CA; and see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(1) (Reissue) PARA 513.

23 Where a judgment is given for a sum expressed in a currency other than sterling and the judgment debt is one to which the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 applies, the court may order that the interest rate applicable to the debt is such rate as the court thinks fit: Administration of Justice Act 1970 s 44A(1) (s 44A added by the Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995 s 1). If such an order is made, the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 has effect in relation to the judgment debt as if the rate specified in the order were substituted for the rate specified in s 17: Administration of Justice Act 1970 s 44A(2) (as so added). Section 44A applies to judgment debts to or from the Crown: see the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 24(1) (amended by the Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995 s 4(1)). The power conferred by the County Courts Act 1984 s 74(1) (see note 4) includes power to make provision enabling a county court to order that the rate of interest applicable to a sum expressed in a currency other than sterling is to be such rate as the court thinks fit (instead of the rate otherwise applicable): s 74(5A) (added by the Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995 s 2). See also the County Courts (Interest on Judgment Debts) Order 1991, SI 1991/1184, art 5(2) (as substituted: see note 4).

24 See Ezekiel v Orakpo [1997] 1 WLR 340, CA; and LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 1111. A judgment debt carries interest of its own force and it is not necessary to mention interest in the judgment or a charging order carrying it into effect: Ezekiel v Orakpo [1997] 1 WLR 340, CA. Common law rules applicable to equitable charges generally apply to the right of the holder of a charging order to add to the security conferred by the order further sums for interest and costs: Holder v Supperstone [2000] 1 All ER 473.

25 Rocco Giuseppe & Figli v Tradax Export SA [1983] 3 All ER 598, [1984] 1 WLR 742.

UPDATE

1149 Interest on judgment debts

NOTE 20--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1150. Time for complying with a judgment or order for the payment of money.

1150. Time for complying with a judgment or order for the payment of money.

A party must comply with a judgment or order for the payment of an amount of money (including costs) within 14 days of the date of the judgment or order, unless: (1) the judgment or order specifies a different date for compliance (including specifying payment by instalments)¹; (2) any of the Civil Procedure Rules specifies a different date for compliance²; or (3) the court³ has stayed⁴ the proceedings or judgment⁵.

1 CPR 40.11(a).

2 CPR 40.11(b). See CPR Pt 12, CPR Pt 14 which specify different dates for complying with certain default judgments and judgments on admissions; and PARAS 506-518.

3 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

4 As to the meaning of 'stay' see PARA 233 note 11. As to stay of proceedings see PARA 529 et seq.

5 CPR 40.11(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1151. Adjustment of final judgment figure in respect of compensation recovery payments or interim payments.

1151. Adjustment of final judgment figure in respect of compensation recovery payments or interim payments.

In a final judgment¹ where some or all of the damages² awarded fall under the relevant heads of damage set out in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997³ in respect of recoverable benefits⁴ received by the claimant⁵ and where the defendant⁶ had paid the recoverable benefits to the Secretary of State in accordance with the certificate⁷, there will be stated in the preamble to the judgment or order the amount awarded under each head of damage and the amount by which it has been reduced in accordance with the relevant provisions⁸ of the 1997 Act⁹. The judgment or order must then provide for entry of judgment and payment of the balance¹⁰.

In a final judgment where an interim payment¹¹ has previously been made which is less than the total amount awarded by the judge¹², the judgment or order should set out in a preamble the total amount awarded by the judge and the amount and date of the interim payment¹³. The total amount awarded by the judge should then be reduced by the total amount of any interim payments, and the judgment or order should then provide for entry of judgment and payment of the balance¹⁴.

In a final judgment where an interim payment has previously been made which is more than the total amount awarded by the judge, the judgment or order should likewise set out in a preamble the total amount awarded by the judge and the amount and date of the interim payment. An order should then be made for repayment, reimbursement, variation or discharge¹⁵ and for interest¹⁶ on an overpayment¹⁷.

1 For the purposes of Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B paras 5, 6 (see the text and notes 2-17), 'final judgment' includes any order to pay a sum of money, a final award of damages and an assessment of damages: paras 5.1, 6.1 note.

2 As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1.

3 Ie set out in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 8(1), Sch 2 col 1: see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 919.

4 Ie recoverable benefits as set out in the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 Sch 2 col 2: see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 919.

5 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

6 As to the meaning of 'defendant' see PARA 18.

7 Ie the certificate as defined in CPR 36.15(1)(e): see PARA 741 note 9. As to certificates relating to recoverable benefits see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 906 et seq.

8 Ie reduced in accordance with the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 8, Sch 2: see DAMAGES vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 919 et seq.

9 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 5.1. Where damages are awarded in a case where a lump sum payment (to be construed in accordance with the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 s 1A) has been made to a dependant, then s 15 (as modified by the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) (Lump Sum Payments) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1596, Sch 1) sets out what the court order must contain: Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 5.1A.

- 10 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 5.2. As to compensation recovery payments see also PARA 326.
- 11 As to the meaning of 'interim payment' see PARA 324 note 3.
- 12 As to the meaning of 'judge' see PARA 49.
- 13 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 6.1. As to the court's powers where it has made an order for interim payment see PARA 328.
- 14 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 6.2.
- 15 Ie under CPR 25.8(2): see PARA 327.
- 16 Ie under CPR 25.8(5): see PARA 327.
- 17 Practice Direction--Judgments and Orders PD 40B para 6.4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1152. Cases where court gives judgment both on claim and counterclaim.

1152. Cases where court gives judgment both on claim and counterclaim.

Where the court¹ gives judgment for specified amounts both for the claimant² on his claim and against the claimant on a counterclaim³, then if there is a balance in favour of one of the parties, the court may order the party whose judgment is for the lesser amount to pay the balance⁴.

In a case to which these provisions apply, the court may make a separate order as to costs against each party⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'court' see PARA 22.

2 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

3 CPR 40.13(1). As to the meaning of 'counterclaim' see PARA 618 note 3.

4 CPR 40.13(2).

5 CPR 40.13(3). As to costs generally see also PARA 1729 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(1) JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY/1153. Judgment in favour of certain part owners relating to the detention of goods.

1153. Judgment in favour of certain part owners relating to the detention of goods.

Where a part owner¹ makes a claim relating to the detention of the goods and the claim is not based on a right to possession, any judgment or order given or made in respect of the claim is to be for the payment of damages² only, unless the claimant³ had the written authority of every other part owner of the goods to make the claim on his behalf as well as for himself⁴.

1 For these purposes, 'part owner' means one of two or more persons who have an interest in the same goods: CPR 40.14(1). As to interpleader relief where two or more persons make adverse claims to goods see PARA 1585 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'damages' see PARA 37 note 1.

3 As to the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 18.

4 CPR 40.14(2). CPR 40.14 applies notwithstanding anything in the Torts (Interference with Goods) Act 1977 s 3(3), but does not affect the remedies and jurisdiction mentioned in s 3(8): CPR 40.14(3). See further TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARAS 653, 672.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/A. CIVIL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(A) Conclusiveness and Finality/1154. Conclusiveness of judgments in general.

(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION

(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders

A. CIVIL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS

(A) CONCLUSIVENESS AND FINALITY

1154. Conclusiveness of judgments in general.

Every final judgment is conclusive evidence against all the world of its existence, date and legal consequences¹. The reason is that a judgment, being a public transaction of a solemn nature, is conclusively presumed to have been truly recorded; but this presumption only extends to what has been called the substantive as distinguished from the judicial portions of the record².

It is a fundamental doctrine of all courts that there must be an end of litigation³, and a party may plead the doctrine of *res judicata*⁴ by way of estoppel. Where a judgment has been given which is a matter of record, an 'estoppel by record' arises⁵ and may take the form of cause of action estoppel⁶ or of issue estoppel⁷. It may also be said that the cause of action has merged in the judgment⁸.

1 Green v New River Co (1792) 4 Term Rep 589; Legatt v Tollervey (1811) 14 East 302.

A judgment may be of two kinds, namely a judgment in rem or a judgment in personam; this distinction is significant in determining who is bound by a judgment: see PARAS 1158-1159. The conclusiveness of judgments in rem of the matters actually decided is against all persons, whether parties, privies or strangers to the decision; but, except to prove their existence, date and legal consequences, judgments in personam are generally inadmissible for or against strangers. As to the classification of judgments see further PARA 1158 et seq; and as to the parties estopped by a judgment see PARA 1191 et seq. As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

As to finality of judgments see PARA 1156.

2 Legatt v Tollervey (1811) 14 East 302; King v Norman (1874) 4 CB 884; and cf Re Kitchin, ex p Young (1881) 17 ChD 668, CA. There is old authority to the effect that where a claim is brought against a person for acts done in a judicial capacity, the judgment is conclusive in favour of that person of the truth of the facts stated in it: Brittain v Kinnaird (1819) 1 Brod & Bing 432. As to claims for a remedy under the Human Rights Act 1998 s 7 in respect of judicial acts see, however, PARA 1213.

3 Co Rep 9a (interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium); Re May (1885) 28 ChD 516, CA; and see Re Graydon, ex p Official Receiver [1896] 1 QB 417; Philips v Bury (1696) Holt KB 715; Badar Bee v Habib Merican Noordin [1909] AC 615, PC; Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC; R v Middlesex Justices, ex p Bond [1933] 2 KB 1, CA; and PARA 1184. Thus a judgment for the claimant on a plea of set-off, being a matter distinctly put in issue, may be pleaded by way of estoppel in an action (now a claim) subsequently brought against him by the defendant for the debt which he sought to set off (Eastmure v Laws (1839) 5 Bing NC 444; Danks v Farley (1853) 1 WR 291; cf Webster v Armstrong (1885) 54 LJQB 236); a judgment for the defendant in a libel claim in respect of certain parts of a publication constitutes a defence of res judicata to a second claim in respect of other parts of the same publication, the subject matter of both claims being the same (Macdougall v Knight (1890) 25 QBD 1, CA); and an unsatisfied judgment against a woman for payment of a sum of money misapplied by her as trustee, such sum with costs to be payable out of her separate estate, estopped the plaintiff from obtaining in another action on practically the same facts judgment in a different form for payment into court of the money proved to have reached her hands as a trustee (Green v Weatherill [1929] 2 Ch 213).

4 As to the doctrine of res judicata see PARA 1168 et seq. 'In many of the older cases the terms 'res judicata', 'issue estoppel' and 'cause of action estoppel', 'estoppel by record' or 'collateral estoppel' were sometimes used loosely and the distinction between them was not always clear. The modern tendency has been to use 'res judicata' comprehensively to cover all those terms of estoppel. Cause of action estoppel is confined to cases where the cause of action and the parties are the same in the second suit as they are in the first suit': North West Water Ltd v Binnie & Partners (a firm)[1990] 3 All ER 547 at 551, 30 ConLR 136 at 141-142 per Drake J, whose 'broad approach' to issue estoppel in that case was considered eg in Lloyds TSB Bank Ltd v Cooke-Arkwright (a firm)[2001] All ER (D) 127 (Oct). Cf Specialist Group International Ltd v Deakin [2001] EWCA Civ 777 at [10], [2001] All ER (D) 287 (May) per Aldous LJ, where the terms 'cause of action finality' and 'issue finality' are suggested for 'cause of action estoppel' and 'issue estoppel' and they are described as forms of abuse of process; and see at [22]-[23] per May LJ. See also Blackburn Chemicals Ltd v BIM Kemi AB[2004] EWCA Civ 1490, [2004] All ER (D) 168 (Nov); and Laemthong International Lines Co Ltd v Artis[2004] EWHC 2226 (Comm), [2004] 2 All ER (Comm) 797.

The principle of res judicata had no application in affiliation proceedings: R v Sunderland Justices, ex p Hodgkinson[1945] KB 502, [1945] 2 All ER 175, DC. Although affiliation proceedings were abolished by the Family Law Reform Act 1987 s 17, this rule remains important, as allowing an applicant in proceedings for financial relief under what is now the Children Act 1989 s 15(1), Sch 1 para 1 (see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 539 et seq) to re-open the question of paternity by eg reliance on DNA genetic finger-printing evidence not available at the time of earlier proceedings under the old law: Hager v Osborne [1992] Fam 94, [1992] 2 All ER 494. As to the inappropriateness of the strict application of estoppel by record in proceedings under the Children Act 1989 see PARAS 1169, 1178.

As to the application of the doctrine of res judicata to proceedings under the former Workmen's Compensation Acts see Green v Cammell Laird & Co Ltd[1913] 3 KB 665, CA; Smith v Cutler & Sons (1932) 25 BWCC 408, CA.

5 See PARA 1168 et seq.

6 As to cause of action estoppel see PARA 1174 et seq.

7 As to issue estoppel see PARA 1179 et seq.

8 As to merger of the cause of action in the judgment see PARAS 1157, 1190.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/A. CIVIL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(A) Conclusiveness and Finality/1155. Conclusiveness of judgments between the parties etc.

1155. Conclusiveness of judgments between the parties etc.

Subject to appeal¹ and to being amended or set aside², a judgment³ is conclusive as between the parties⁴ and their privies⁵, and is conclusive evidence against all the world of its existence, date and legal consequences⁶. Thus a verdict followed by judgment operates as an estoppel⁷ or conclusive evidence of the facts found as between parties and privies, and in subsequent proceedings between the same parties on the same cause of action the defendant can plead the former judgment as an estoppel ('cause of action estoppel')⁸. If an order made by the court necessarily involves a finding, whether there was argument or not, on a point which is later sought to be litigated, that point cannot subsequently be argued ('issue estoppel')⁹; but an order directing an inquiry as to facts, although clearly made on a certain hypothesis of the relevant law, is not conclusive as to that hypothesis when the whole question of law involved has been reserved until the inquiry has been answered¹⁰.

In order to ascertain what was in issue between the parties the judgment, verdict, if any, and pleadings may be examined, but no evidence is admissible to contradict the record¹¹. When a judgment is clear as to its terms, not even the pleadings nor the history of the proceedings may be utilised to construe the judgment contrary to its clear meaning¹²; but a judgment is not conclusive of any matter that is neither directly decided nor a necessary ground for the decision¹³.

In general a judgment relates back to the earliest moment of the day on which it is entered¹⁴, but this rule is hedged by exceptions. In particular, it does not apply if the precise time of signing judgment is made material by statute or when its application would result in injustice¹⁵.

A claimant who has once sued a defendant to judgment may not, while the judgment stands, even though unsatisfied, sue him again for the same cause, not because he is estopped from doing so (although he, as well as the defendant, is estopped from averring anything contrary to the record¹⁶), but because the cause of action is merged in the judgment, which creates an obligation of a higher nature¹⁷. It is also probably true to say that a person who has once recovered judgment for a sum of money is estopped from averring that he ought to recover any further sum for the same cause of action¹⁸. Thus the recovery of the maximum amount recoverable in a county court for fraudulent misrepresentation is a bar to a claim for damages subsequently accruing from the same misrepresentation¹⁹, and the recovery in a magistrates' court of a statutory penalty 'by way of satisfaction' for damage to property is a bar to a claim at common law for negligence to recover the balance of the damage²⁰. So a consent order in the Chancery Division restraining the defendant from parting with shares is a bar to a claim in the Queen's Bench Division for damages for detention of the same shares, as the claimant might have obtained the relief in the first proceedings. Moreover where there is but one cause of action, the damages (except in a case where an award of provisional damages is available) must be assessed once for all²¹, and there would appear to be no distinction on this point between the award of an arbitrator and the judgment of a court²².

1 As to appeals generally see PARA 1657 et seq. Even where a judgment is reversed on appeal, acts done under an order made pursuant to the judgment are lawful if done before the appeal: Hillgate House Ltd v Expert Clothing Service and Sales Ltd [1987] 1 EGLR 65.

2 See PARA 1143. For the right to go behind judgments in bankruptcy proceedings see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY. A person ought to be entitled to act in pursuance of a court order without being at risk of his action being judged unlawful retrospectively: Brent London Borough Council v Botu (2000) 33 HLR 151, CA.

3 An arbitrator's award, until set aside, is final and binding both on the parties and on any persons claiming through or under them, unless otherwise agreed by the parties (see the Arbitration Act 1996 s 58(1); and ARBITRATION), but is inadmissible as between strangers except as proving acts of ownership (see PARA 1188). As to the conclusiveness of foreign judgments and their effect as implied contracts see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

4 See the County Courts Act 1984 s 70, which provides that every judgment and order of a county court is final and conclusive between the parties, except as provided by that or any other Act or as may be prescribed. A judge ought not to disregard a previous order in the same proceedings which has not been appealed against even if he considered it was made without jurisdiction: Cohen v Jonesco [1926] 2 KB 1, CA; Re Gale, Gale v Gale [1966] Ch 236, [1966] 1 All ER 945, CA. See Roche v Chief Constable of Greater Manchester Police [2005] EWCA Civ 1454, [2005] All ER (D) 283 (Oct), (2005) Times, 10 November (in circumstances of case, court entitled, when hearing appeal against one judgment, to consider second judgment given in relation to same issue).

5 Privies are either 'in estate', 'in blood' or 'in law'; they are those persons having the same interest to, or claiming through, an original party. See further PARAS 1196-1198.

6 See PARA 1154. In Amphill Peerage [1977] AC 547, [1976] 2 All ER 411, HL, it was held that a declaration made in 1926 by the High Court under the Legitimacy Declaration Act 1858 s 8 (repealed), was binding in 1976 on all persons, including the Crown and the House of Lords. See also Strachan v Gleaner Co Ltd [2005] UKPC 33, [2005] 1 WLR 3204 (default judgment set aside).

7 There can be no estoppel without a judgment: see PARA 1171. As to estoppel by record see PARA 1168 et seq.

8 Default judgments and refusals to set them aside should, however, be carefully scrutinised before entertaining an estoppel: see Pugh v Cantor Fitzgerald International [2001] EWCA Civ 307, [2001] All ER (D) 67 (Mar), [2001] CPLR 271. For the earlier authorities see PARA 1172. As to cause of action estoppel see PARA 1174 et seq. As to merger of the cause of action in the judgment see PARAS 1157, 1190.

9 Re Koenigsberg, Public Trustee v Koenigsberg [1949] Ch 348, [1949] 1 All ER 804, CA, per Somervill LJ, approved in Re Wright, Blizard v Lockhart [1954] Ch 347, [1954] 2 All ER 98, CA. For the earlier authorities see PARA 1164. As to issue estoppel see PARA 1179 et seq.

10 Re Wright, Blizard v Lockhart [1954] Ch 347, [1954] 2 All ER 98, CA, where an inquiry as to the practicability of a charitable legacy after the death of the tenant for life was held not to estop the Attorney General from arguing subsequently that the material date for the ascertainment of practicability was the date of the testator's death.

11 See PARA 1168 et seq.

12 Gordon v Gonda [1955] 2 All ER 762, [1955] 1 WLR 885, CA.

13 See PARA 749 et seq.

14 Edwards v R (1854) 9 Exch 628. See also CPR 40.7(1); and PARA 1142.

15 Re Seaford, Seaford v Seifert [1968] P 53, [1968] 1 All ER 482, CA. Nor does it apply when judgment is entered against a foreign state: see CPR 40.10; and PARA 1142.

16 Webster v Armstrong (1885) 54 LJQB 236; Stewart v Todd (1846) 9 QB 767, Ex Ch. As to the use of cases decided under the old rules as an aid to interpreting the Civil Procedure Rules see PARA 33 text and note 2.

17 See King v Hoare (1844) 13 M & W 494; Re Hodgson, Beckett v Ramsdale (1885) 31 ChD 177, CA; Florence v Jennings (1857) 2 CBNS 454; Stewart v Todd (1846) 9 QB 767, Ex Ch; Isaacs & Sons v Salbstein [1916] 2 KB 139, CA; cf Savile v Jackson (1824) 13 Price 715.

18 Stewart v Todd (1846) 9 QB 767, Ex Ch; Hills v Co-operative Wholesale Society Ltd [1940] 2 KB 435, [1940] 3 All ER 233, CA.

19 Clarke v Yorke (1882) 52 LJ Ch 32; cf Wright v London General Omnibus Co (1877) 2 QBD 271; Sanders v Hamilton (1907) 96 LT 679. As to the abandonment of excess so as to give the county court jurisdiction see COURTS.

20 Birmingham Corpn v S Allsopp & Sons Ltd (1918) 88 LJB 549, DC. For the effect of summary conviction or dismissal of information in respect of common assault or of aggravated assault see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 151 et seq.

21 Serrao v Noel (1885) 15 QBD 549, CA, per Bowen LJ; distinguished in Worman v Worman (1889) 43 ChD 296 (relief claimed in second action entirely outside the former compromise); Conquer v Boot [1928] 2 KB 336, DC. See further DAMAGES. See also Lord Bagot v Williams (1824) 3 B & C 235. As to provisional damages see PARAS 1217-1222.

22 HE Daniels Ltd v Carmel Exporters and Importers Ltd [1953] 2 QB 242, [1953] 2 All ER 401 obiter per Pilcher J.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/A. CIVIL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(A) Conclusiveness and Finality/1156. Finality of judgment.

1156. Finality of judgment.

When the word 'final' is used with reference to a judgment, it does not mean a judgment which is not open to appeal but merely a judgment which is 'final' as opposed to 'interim'¹. A judgment which purports finally to determine rights is nonetheless effective for the purposes of creating an estoppel because it is liable to be reversed on appeal², or because an appeal is pending³, or because the judgment includes an order for damages to be assessed and inquiries or accounts have to be taken for the purpose of such assessment⁴.

1 Marchioness of Huntly v Gaskell [1905] 2 Ch 656, CA; Allnutt v Mills (1925) 42 TLR 68. A judgment which has been communicated to the other parties may be final although certain procedural steps remain to be complied with: Jowett v Earl of Bradford [1977] 2 All ER 33, [1977] ICR 342, EAT (second tribunal therefore unable to re-hear matter de novo). As a general rule the principles of estoppel by record can apply in proceedings before employment tribunals: see PARA 1186. As to final and interim judgments see PARAS 315 et seq, 1136 et seq.

The same principle applies to foreign judgments: see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 158. As to the position relating to a sheriff's return to a writ of execution, which is not a judgment, see PARA 1282.

2 Doe v Wright (1839) 10 Ad & El 763; Overton v Harvey (1850) 9 CB 324; Marchioness of Huntly v Gaskell [1905] 2 Ch 656, CA; cf Horrocks v Stubbs (1896) 74 LT 58, CA; Uxbridge Union v Winchester Union (1904) 91 LT 533 (appeal failed, but not on merits); Lady Clanmorris v Lord Clanmorris (1862) 14 I Ch R 420. The same principle applies to foreign judgments: see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 158.

3 Harris v Willis (1855) 15 CB 710.

4 Poulton v Adjustable Cover and Boiler Block Co [1908] 2 Ch 430, CA; applied in Coflexip SA v Stolt Offshore MS Ltd [2003] EWHC 1892 (Pat), [2003] All ER (D) 572 (Jul); affd [2004] EWCA Civ 213, [2004] FSR 708.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/A. CIVIL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(B) Merger of Cause of Action/1157. Merger of cause of action in judgment.

(B) MERGER OF CAUSE OF ACTION

1157. Merger of cause of action in judgment.

When judgment has been given in a claim (formerly known as an 'action')¹, the cause of action in respect of which it was given is merged in the judgment and its place is taken by the rights created by the judgment², so that a second claim may not be brought on that cause of action³. Merger is not effected by an order which is not a judgment⁴, nor by a judgment which is not final⁵, or which is void⁶.

There will be no merger unless the cause of action is the same in both claims⁷, and the claimant (formerly the 'plaintiff')⁸ had an opportunity of recovering in the first claim (namely the claim in which judgment was given) what he seeks to recover in the second; otherwise the defendant is not to be twice vexed for the same cause⁹. A claimant, therefore, is not precluded by an order in administration proceedings to which he was a party from afterwards beginning proceedings relating to the same subject matter for relief for which he was not in a position to ask in the earlier proceedings¹⁰; and this principle applies even though the claimant might have set up in the first claim the case which he made in the second, and did not do so¹¹.

The same applies where the matters in question in the second claim arose while the first was pending, and could only have been raised (if at all) in the first by amendment of the proceedings¹², or where, though the causes of action in the first and the second claim have a common origin, they are not the same¹³, as in the case of a continuing trespass¹⁴ or of successive breaches of the same contract¹⁵. A claimant is allowed to bring successive claims in respect of the same circumstances, provided those circumstances give rise to different causes of action¹⁶.

Under the court's case management powers, however, it has a duty to deal with as many aspects of the case as it can on the same occasion¹⁷ and it has power to consolidate proceedings¹⁸, to try two or more claims on the same occasion¹⁹ and to take any other step or make any other order for the purpose of managing the case and furthering the overriding objective²⁰.

1 See PARA 18.

2 Greathead v Bromley (1798) 7 Term Rep 455; Langmead v Maple (1865) 18 CBNS 255; Re European Central Rly Co, ex p Oriental Financial Corp'n (1876) 4 ChD 33, CA. A judgment obtained by a mortgagee in an action on the personal covenant in the mortgage merely operated as an additional security for due payment of the debt, and if the debt was extinguished the judgment was extinguished too: Aman v Southern Rly Co [1926] 1 KB 59, CA. In a claim for the detention of goods, a judgment in favour of the claimant does not of itself and apart from special circumstances, without satisfaction, vest the property in the goods in the defendant from the time of the judgment: Brinsmead v Harrison (1871) LR 6 CP 584 (affd (1872) LR 7 CP 547, Ex Ch); Ellis v John Stenning & Son [1932] 2 Ch 81. This is so whether the judgment is for the value of the goods or for damages for their conversion, or is one with an alternative provision for the return of the goods: Ellis v John Stenning & Son [1932] 2 Ch 81. See Lloyds Bank plc v Hawkins [1998] 3 EGLR 109, [1998] 47 EG 137, CA (plaintiff (now known as 'claimant') estopped from bringing second action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) following merger of cause of action in an earlier judgment despite inadvertent error in the judgment). As to the defence of 'judgment recovered' see further PARA 1190. As to the use of cases decided under the old rules as an aid to interpreting the Civil Procedure Rules see PARA 33 text and note 2.

3 As to the defence of 'judgment recovered' see further PARA 1190.

4 Westmoreland Green and Blue Slate Co v Feilden[1891] 3 Ch 15, CA.

5 Langmead v Maple (1865) 18 CBNS 255.

6 Vibart v Coles(1890) 24 QBD 364, CA.

7 Leggott v Great Northern Rly Co(1876) 1 QBD 599 (recovery by personal representatives of damages sustained by relatives of deceased from his death by accident was no bar to action for damage to his estate; followed in Daly v Dublin, Wicklow and Wexford Rly Co (1892) 30 LR Ir 514, CA); Goldrei, Foucard & Son v Sinclair and Russian Chamber of Commerce in London[1918] 1 KB 180, CA.

8 See PARA 18.

9 See Nelson v Couch (1863) 15 CBNS 99; Few v Backhouse (1838) 8 Ad & El 789; Webster v Armstrong (1885) 54 LJQB 236 (High Court action on cause raised as counterclaim in county court, but as respects which the county court had no jurisdiction to give relief in excess of the plaintiff's claim in the county court action: no estoppel of High Court plaintiff by judgment in his favour on the counterclaim in the county court, and High Court defendant estopped by the county court judgment from denying the plaintiff's cause of action; as to the jurisdiction of county courts on a counterclaim see now PARA 58); cf Midland Rly Co v Martin & Co[1893] 2 QB 172. A party who selects a tribunal having jurisdiction may not afterwards, however, seek the same remedy before another tribunal on the ground that the first had not power to award him adequate damages: Wright v London General Omnibus Co(1877) 2 QBD 271; Birmingham Corp'n v S Allsopp & Sons Ltd (1918) 88 LJB 549, DC. See generally Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100; and PARA 1167. The principle behind the rule is that to raise in subsequent proceedings matters which could and therefore should have been litigated in earlier proceedings is an abuse of process: Yat Tung Investment Co Ltd v Dao Heng Bank Ltd[1975] AC 581, PC; Brisbane City Council v A-G for Queensland[1979] AC 411, [1978] 3 All ER 30, PC; and see PARA 534.

10 Guidici v Kinton (1843) 6 Beav 517; cf Whittaker v Kershaw(1890) 45 ChD 320, CA; Re Hampshire Co-operative Milk Co Ltd, Purcell's Case (1880) 29 WR 170.

11 Hunter v Stewart (1861) 4 De G F & J 168; Simpson v Fogo (1863) 1 Hem & M 195; Stewart v Kennedy (No 2)(1890) 15 App Cas 108, HL; Wilding v Sanderson[1897] 2 Ch 534, CA; Mulgrew v O'Brien[1953] NI 10. See, however, the rule in Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100; and PARA 1167. For the position where the cause of action is really the same see PARA 1175.

12 National Bolivian Navigation Co v Wilson(1880) 5 App Cas 176, HL.

13 Payana Reena Saminathan v Pana Lana Palaniappa[1914] AC 618, PC.

14 Clarke v Midland and Great Western Rly Co[1895] 2 IR 294, CA, following Thompson v Gibson (1841) 7 M & W 456; and see Bulmer Rayon Co Ltd v Freshwater[1933] AC 661, HL.

15 Bristowe v Fairclough (1840) 1 Man & G 143; Ebbetts v Conquest (1900) 82 LT 560, DC (breaches of covenant to keep, and to deliver up, in repair).

16 Brunsdon v Humphrey(1884) 14 QBD 141, CA (injury to a man's person and to his carriage). 'The test is not whether the plaintiff had the opportunity of recovering in the first action what he claims to receive in the second': Brunsdon v Humphrey(1884) 14 QBD 141 at 146, CA, per Bowen LJ), but whether he in fact sought to do so; cf Florence v Jennings (1857) 2 CBNS 454 (plaintiff recovered the principal due on a bill in one action, and in another interest due on the bill under a separate agreement, but only down to the date of the first judgment, for thereupon the bill passed in rem judicatum); Whittaker v Kershaw(1890) 45 ChD 320, CA; Gibbs v Cruikshank(1873) LR 8 CP 454; see the cases cited in note 8. See also Derrick v Williams[1939] 2 All ER 559, CA (different heads of damage arising from same cause of action, distinguishing Brunsdon v Humphrey(1884) 14 QBD 141, CA). An action for false imprisonment was no bar to a subsequent action for a malicious prosecution following on the same arrest, even though a jury improperly gave damages in the first action for imprisonment consequential on the prosecution: Guest v Warren(1854) 9 Exch 379.

17 See CPR 1.4(2)(i); and PARA 246 head (9) in the text.

18 See CPR 3.1(2)(g); and PARAS 75, 247 head (7) in the text.

19 See CPR 3.1(2)(h); and PARAS 75, 247 head (8) in the text.

20 See CPR 3.1(2)(m); and PARA 247 head (14) in the text. As to the overriding objective see PARA 33.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(A) In general/1158. Classification of judgments; in general.

B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS

(A) IN GENERAL

1158. Classification of judgments; in general.

Final judgments which give rise to an estoppel are divided into two classes: judgments determining status, known as 'judgments in rem'¹ and judgments determining the rights of parties, known as 'judgments in personam'² or 'judgments between parties'³. The distinction is important because it is relevant in determining who will be bound by the judgment⁴.

1 As to judgments in rem see PARAS 1160-1162.

2 As to judgments in personam see PARAS 1163-1164.

3 This term is adopted by the author of the notes to Smith's Leading Cases.

4 As to the importance of the distinction between the two classes see PARA 1159.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(A) In general/1159. Importance of distinction between judgments in rem and judgments in personam or between parties.

1159. Importance of distinction between judgments in rem and judgments in personam or between parties.

A judgment in rem¹ (that is, a judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction determining the status of a person or thing or the disposition of a thing, as distinct from a particular interest in it of a party to the litigation) is conclusive of the facts or state of things actually decided or effected; and is conclusive against all persons, whether parties, privies² or strangers to the decision³. Other judgments which affect the interests of the parties rather than their status, often referred to as judgments in personam⁴ (or judgments between parties), have the effect that the parties to them, and their privies, are prevented from denying what the judgment itself establishes, and the grounds upon which it was founded⁵; but, save to prove their existence, date and consequences, such judgments are generally inadmissible for or against strangers⁶.

Thus the most important distinction between judgments in rem and judgments in personam is that, whereas the latter are binding only as between the parties to them and those who are privy to them, the judgment in rem of a court of competent jurisdiction is, as regards persons domiciled and property situated within the jurisdiction of the court pronouncing the judgment⁷, conclusive against all the world⁸ in whatever it settles as to the status of the persons or property⁹, or as to the right or title to the property, and as to whatever disposition it makes of the property itself, or of the proceeds of its sale¹⁰. In other words all persons, whether party to the proceedings or not, are estopped by a judgment in rem from averring that the status of persons or things, or the right or title to property, is other than the court has by such a judgment declared or made it to be.

1 As to judgments in rem see PARA 1160 et seq.

2 As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

3 Lazarus-Barlow v Regent Estates Co Ltd [1949] 2 KB 465, [1949] 2 All ER 118, CA. This principle is often analysed as being an example of estoppel by record, as to which see PARA 1168 et seq.

4 As to judgments in personam see PARA 1163 et seq.

5 If one party brings a claim against another for a particular cause and judgment is given upon it, there is a strict rule of law that he cannot bring another claim against the same party for the same cause: Fidelitas Shipping Co Ltd v VO Exportchleb [1966] 1 QB 630 at 640, [1965] 2 All ER 4 at 8, CA, per Lord Denning MR. As to cause of action estoppel see PARA 1174 et seq; and as to merger of the cause of action in the judgment see PARAS 1157, 1190. The same principle applies where the same issue has previously been raised and determined: R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1885) 4 E & B 780; Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC; Fidelitas Shipping Co Ltd v VO Exportchleb [1966] 1 QB 630, [1965] 2 All ER 4, CA. As to issue estoppel see PARA 1179 et seq. The judge's notes of evidence are admissible to show what was decided in the earlier proceedings: Randolph v Tuck [1962] 1 QB 175, [1961] 1 All ER 814.

6 Castrique v Imrie (1870) LR 4 HL 414; Evans v Evans (1844) 1 Rob Eccl 165 at 170; Doe d Bacon v Lady Brydges (1843) 6 Man & G 282. See also Yates v Kyffin-Taylor and Wark [1899] WN 141; Leyman v Latimer (1878) 3 ExD 352, CA. The rule that a judgment in personam is inadmissible against strangers is subject to the following exceptions in addition to those mentioned in the text: (1) when the judgment determines a question of public right and is admissible as evidence of reputation (see Reed v Jackson (1801) 1 East 355; Brisco v Lomax (1838) 8 Ad & El 198; Pim v Curell (1840) 6 M & W 234; Petrie v Nuttall (1856) 11 Exch 569; Berry v Banner (1792) Peake 156; City of London v Clerke (1691) Carth 181; Cort v Birkbeck (1779) 1 Doug KB 218; Neill v Duke of Devonshire (1882) 8 App Cas 135, HL; Hemphill v M'Kenna (1845) 8 ILR 43; Mulholland v Killen (1874) 9

IR Eq 471; R v Lordsmere District Inhabitants (1886) 16 Cox CC 65, CCR); (2) in bankruptcy proceedings (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY); (3) in proceedings relating to the administration of estates (see Harvey v Wilde (1872) LR 14 Eq 438; and see also EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 36); and (4) to an extent in patent claims (see Edison and Swan United Electric Light Co v Holland (1889) 6 RPC 243, CA; Pneumatic Tyre Co Ltd v Leicester Pneumatic Tyre and Automatic Valve Co (1889) 16 RPC 531, HL; and see also PATENTS AND REGISTERED DESIGNS vol 79 (2008) PARA 425).

7 See R v St Pancras Inhabitants (1794) Peake 220; Wakefield Corp v Cooke [1904] AC 31, HL (highway cases). As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198. As to domicile see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. As to international conventions affecting jurisdiction see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 125.

8 Simpson v Fogo (1860) 1 John & H 18; Hill v Clifford, Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1907] 2 Ch 236, CA, per Cozens-Hardy MR (on appeal sub nom Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1908] AC 12, 15, HL). A judgment in rem can have no effect as such, however, beyond the limits of the state within which the court delivering the judgment exercises jurisdiction, unless the thing affected is situated within those limits (see Castrique v Imrie (1870) LR 4 HL 414 at 435 per Blackburn J, citing Novelli v Rossi (1831) 2 B & Ad 757; and see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARAS 162 et seq, 385 et seq) or the person affected is domiciled within them (see Shaw v Gould (1868) LR 3 HL 55; Bonaparte v Bonaparte [1892] P 402).

9 R v Wick St Lawrence Inhabitants (1833) 5 B & Ad 526 (settlement of pauper); Noell v Wells and Page (1668) 1 Lev 235; Poulton v Adjustable Cover and Boiler Block Co [1908] 2 Ch 430, CA. The decree of a probate court establishing a will, or the status of an administrator, although conclusive against all parties and in all courts until set aside, is not, as against persons who had no opportunity of intervening or upon whom a fraud had been practised in obtaining the decree, so far conclusive as to prevent their taking proceedings in the same court for revocation of the probate or the grant: see Priestman v Thomas (1884) 9 PD 210, CA; Young v Holloway [1895] P 87; Ritchie v Malcolm [1902] 2 IR 403; Re Langton's Estate [1964] P 163, sub nom Re Langton, Langton v Lloyd's Bank Ltd [1964] 1 All ER 749, CA (former procedure by citation and intervener); PARA 1194; and EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

10 Minna Craig Steamship Co v Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China [1897] 1 QB 460, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(B) Judgments Determining Status/1160. Meaning of 'judgment in rem'.

(B) JUDGMENTS DETERMINING STATUS

1160. Meaning of 'judgment in rem'.

The term 'judgment in rem' has been judicially described as 'a specialised and somewhat misleading term of art limited to judgments concerned with status'¹. A judgment in rem may be defined as the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction² determining the status of a person or thing, or the disposition of a thing, as distinct from the particular interest in it of a party to the litigation³. Apart from the application of the term to persons, it must affect the subject matter of the proceedings in the way of condemnation, forfeiture, declaration of status or title, or order for sale or transfer⁴.

1 See Skyparks Group plc v Marks [2001] EWCA Civ 319 at [46], [2001] All ER (D) 102 (Mar) per Robert Walker LJ.

2 R v Hutchings (1881) 6 QBD 300, CA.

3 Castrique v Imrie (1870) LR 4 HL 414; cf Warren v Baring Bros & Co Ltd (1910) 54 Sol Jo 720; Lazarus-Barlow v Regent Estates Co Ltd [1949] 2 KB 465 at 475, [1949] 2 All ER 118 at 122, CA, citing the meaning given in the text to this note.

4 Fracis Times & Co v Carr (1900) 82 LT 698, CA; revsd on other grounds sub nom Carr v Fracis Times & Co [1902] AC 176, HL. As to declarations of the status of highways see R v St Pancras Inhabitants (1794) Peake 220 (record of conviction on indictment against parish not repairing road conclusive evidence of liability of parish to repair); Wakefield Corpn v Cooke [1904] AC 31, HL (determination of court of summary jurisdiction that a street was a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large a judgment in rem). See also The City of Mecca (1881) 6 PD 106, CA (court had no jurisdiction to enforce judgment in personal action by proceedings in rem).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(B) Judgments Determining Status/1161. Examples of judgments in rem.

1161. Examples of judgments in rem.

The following are examples of judgments in rem: the judgment of a prize court condemning a vessel as prize¹; the judgment of an Admiralty court establishing a lien², or condemning a vessel in a claim (for example for the supply of goods) where there was no lien before the commencement of proceedings³, or disposing of the proceeds of a sale in enforcement of a lien⁴; the judgment of a probate court establishing a will or creating the status of administrator⁵; the judgment of a divorce court of competent jurisdiction dissolving or establishing a marriage⁶, or declaring the nullity of a marriage or affirming its existence⁷; the judgment on a parliamentary election petition⁸; a conviction for non-repair of a highway⁹; a determination of justices that a street was a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large¹⁰, establishing the status of the highway and the liability to repair; a determination that a path was subject to a public right of way¹¹; an order for revocation of a patent¹²; a sentence or order of expulsion or rustication from a college¹³ or deprivation of a living¹⁴. Condemnations in the old Court of Exchequer for breach of revenue laws¹⁵ and the order of justices for the removal of a poor person, establishing both his status and the place of his settlement¹⁶, were also examples of judgments in rem.

Upon the same principles it would seem that a bankruptcy order or an order of discharge in bankruptcy¹⁷, and an order for the dissolution of a company or an order declaring such a dissolution void¹⁸, are in the nature of judgments in rem¹⁹.

1 Hughes v Cornelius (1682) 2 Show 232; 2 Smith LC (13th Edn) 654; Castrique v Imrie (1870) LR 4 HL 414. As to the High Court's prize jurisdiction see PRIZE vol 36(2) (Reissue) PARA 837.

2 Castrique v Imrie (1870) LR 4 HL 414; Simpson v Fogo (1863) 1 Hem & M 195; Ballantyne v Mackinnon [1896] 2 QB 455, CA; cf The City of Mecca (1881) 6 PD 106, CA (foreign judgment in personam not enforceable against the ship by subsequent proceedings).

3 The Cella (1888) 13 PD 82, CA.

4 Minna Craig Steamship Co v Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China [1897] 1 QB 460, CA.

5 Noell v Wells and Page (1668) 1 Lev 235; Douglas v Cooper (1834) 3 My & K 378; Beardsley v Beardsley [1899] 1 QB 746, approving the dictum of Sir C Cresswell in Emberley v Trevanion (1860) 4 Sw & Tr 197; Concha v Concha (1886) 11 App Cas 541, HL. See also PARA 1159 note 7. For a similar rule which is peculiar to the court's probate jurisdiction and not, strictly speaking, an instance of estoppel see Re Langton's Estate [1964] P 163, sub nom Re Langton, Langton v Lloyd's Bank Ltd [1964] 1 All ER 749, CA.

6 Bater v Bater [1906] P 209, CA. A decree of divorce, granted after trial by a competent court, puts an end to the status of marriage between the parties: see Thynne (Marchioness of Bath) v Thynne (Marquess of Bath) [1955] P 272, [1955] 3 All ER 129, CA; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 879.

7 Bunting v Lepingwell (1585) 4 Co Rep 29a; Duchess of Kingston's Case (1776) 2 Smith LC (13th Edn) 644; Salvesen (or Von Lorang) v Austrian Property Administrator [1927] AC 641, HL.

8 Taunton Case, Waygood v James (1869) LR 4 CP 361.

9 R v St Pancras Inhabitants (1794) Peake 220; R v Haughton Inhabitants (1853) 1 E & B 501.

10 See Wakefield Corpn v Cooke [1904] AC 31, HL, distinguishing R v Hutchings (1881) 6 QBD 300, CA. The determination in Wakefield Corpn v Cooke [1904] AC 31, HL, was made under the Private Street Works Act 1892 ss 7, 8 (repealed). Under the Highways Act 1980 the determination would be whether the path in question is a private street or a highway maintainable at the public expense: see s 208(1)(a); and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES.

11 Armstrong v Whitfield [1974] QB 16, [1973] 2 All ER 546, DC; LE Walwin & Partners Ltd v West Sussex County Council [1975] 3 All ER 604.

12 Poulton v Adjustable Cover and Boiler Block Co [1908] 2 Ch 430, CA.

13 R v Grundon (1775) 1 Cowp 315.

14 Philips v Bury (1696) 1 Ld Raym 5; as to the effect of an order of the dental board (now the Professional Conduct Committee) removing the name of a dentist from the register cf Hill v Clifford, Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1907] 2 Ch 236, CA; affd on other grounds sub nom Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1908] AC 12, HL; and see PARA 1193.

15 Scott v Shearman (1775) 2 Wm Bl 977; R v Matthews (1797) 5 Price 202n; Geyer v Aguilar (1798) 7 Term Rep 681; Hart v M'Namara (1817) 4 Price 154n. A judgment of acquittal is a further example of a judgment in rem: see Cooke v Sholl (1793) 5 Term Rep 255; Buller's Nisi Prius 241.

16 Uxbridge Union v Winchester Union (1904) 91 LT 533, following R v Corsham Inhabitants (1809) 11 East 308; and R v Township of Catterall (1817) 6 M & S 83; R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 780; and see R v Kenilworth Inhabitants (1788) 2 Term Rep 598. An order quashing an order of removal was conclusive only between the parties as to what it decided: R v Wick St Lawrence Inhabitants (1833) 5 B & Ad 526.

17 See BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 195 et seq, 692 et seq; cf Re Bremner, ex p Harper (1875) 10 Ch App 379.

18 See COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

19 The former finding upon an inquisition of lunacy was also in the nature of a judgment in rem, although this was not conclusive in subsequent proceedings and could be traversed: see Hill v Clifford, Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1907] 2 Ch 236, CA; on appeal sub nom Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1908] AC 12, HL; and PARA 1193.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(B) Judgments Determining Status/1162. Judgments resembling judgments in rem.

1162. Judgments resembling judgments in rem.

A judgment is not a judgment in rem because it has, in a suit between parties, determined an issue concerning the status of a particular person or family¹. Nor, it seems, is a judgment determining that a sale of personal property was valid according to the law of the country where it was made and that the property had passed to the purchaser a judgment in rem².

The following have also been held not to be judgments in rem: a conviction in the old Court of Exchequer for penalties for adulteration³; a verdict in the divorce court, followed by the dismissal of the suit, effecting no change of status⁴; a conviction on an indictment for obstructing a highway⁵; a finding of magistrates, on a summons for payment of expenses⁶, that the street in question was a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large⁷; an order for the winding up of a company⁸; a coroner's inquisition⁹; and a judgment determining the status of premises under the Rent Acts¹⁰.

It has been held that the re-registration of the birth of a legitimated child¹¹ does not create *res judicata*¹², as the Registrar General, in authorising the re-registration, is not acting in a judicial capacity¹³.

1 Katama Natchiar v Rajah of Shivagunga (1863) 9 Moo Ind App 539, PC.

2 Cammell v Sewell (1860) 5 H & N 728, Ex Ch. The Court of Exchequer had held ((1858) 3 H & N 617) that the judgment of the Norwegian court was 'in the nature of' a judgment in rem, but the Exchequer Chamber declined to concur in this view, while affirming the judgment on the ground that the sale was governed by Norwegian law and therefore valid. As to the conclusiveness of foreign judgments see PARA 1189.

3 Hart v M'Namara (1817) 4 Price 154n; cf PARA 1161 the text and note 15 (condemnations of goods in that court).

4 Needham v Bremner (1866) LR 1 CP 583; cf R v Wick St Lawrence Inhabitants (1833) 5 B & Ad 526 (quashing an order for the removal of a pauper).

5 Petrie v Nuttall (1856) 11 Exch 569.

6 Ie under the Public Health Act 1875 s 150 (repealed). As to the recovery of the expenses of street works see now the Highways Act 1980 Pt XI (ss 203-237); and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES.

7 R v Hutchings (1881) 6 QBD 300, CA, followed in Scott v Lowe (1902) 86 LT 421; cf A-G for Trinidad and Tobago v Eriché [1893] AC 518, PC; and see PARA 1161 the text and note 10.

8 Ie under the Insolvency Act 1986: see Re Bowling and Welby's Contract [1895] 1 Ch 663, CA; and COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY.

9 Bird v Keep [1918] 2 KB 692, CA.

10 Lazarus-Barlow v Regent Estates Co Ltd [1949] 2 KB 465, [1949] 2 All ER 118, CA; and see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 808 et seq.

A custody order did not import a declaration of legitimacy binding in rem merely because the order was embodied in the same document as a decree of divorce: see B v A-G [1965] P 278, [1965] 1 All ER 62. Custody orders in family proceedings have now been replaced by residence orders and other orders under the Children Act 1989 s 8: see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 247 et seq.

11 le under the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 s 14: see REGISTRATION CONCERNING THE INDIVIDUAL vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 552 et seq.

12 As to the meaning of 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

13 Jones v Jones (1929) 98 LJP 74.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(C) Judgments Determining Parties' Rights/1163. Meaning of 'judgment in personam' or 'judgment between parties'.

(C) JUDGMENTS DETERMINING PARTIES' RIGHTS

1163. Meaning of 'judgment in personam' or 'judgment between parties'.

Judgments which determine the rights of parties as between one another to or in respect of the subject matter in dispute, whether it be corporeal property of any kind whatever or a liquidated or unliquidated demand, but which do not affect the status of either persons or things, or make any disposition of property or declare or determine any interest in it except as between the parties litigant¹, may be referred to as 'judgments in personam' or 'judgments between parties'². All judgments which are not judgments in rem are in personam³. Some examples have been given⁴ of judgments which, although having some resemblance to judgments in rem, were only judgments between parties. Judgments in claims for conversion by wrongful detention of goods⁵ and recovery of land may also be mentioned; they determine rights of possession, and may (as does also the judgment on an interpleader issue) decide questions of title as between the parties; but none of them at all affects any interests which third parties may have in the subject matter. It may be added that as a judgment between parties, though binding between them, does not affect the rights of third parties, so neither does a sale by way of execution for giving effect to that judgment; it is only a disposition of the particular interest⁶.

1 Castrique v Imrie(1870) LR 4 HL 414; Simpson v Fogo (1863) 1 Hem & M 195.

2 See PARA 1158.

3 As to the meaning of 'judgment in rem' see PARA 1160.

4 See PARA 1162.

5 See Brinsmead v Harrison(1871) LR 6 CP 584; affd (1872) LR 7 CP 547, Ex Ch.

6 See Castrique v Imrie(1870) LR 4 HL 414.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/B. CLASSIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS/(C) Judgments Determining Parties' Rights/1164. Estoppel arising on judgments between parties.

1164. Estoppel arising on judgments between parties.

The most usual manner in which questions of estoppel by record arise in respect of judgments between parties is where a party in an action or claim pleads that a matter in question in the current proceedings has already been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction in a previous action or claim between the current parties. A prior judgment may give rise to cause of action estoppel or issue estoppel¹. In order to prove cause of action estoppel it is necessary to show that the subject matter in dispute is the same, namely that everything that is in controversy in the second suit as the foundation of the claim for relief was also in controversy or open to controversy in the first suit²; while in order to prove issue estoppel it is necessary to show that an issue which arose in the previous proceedings has been raised in the current proceedings³.

The cause of action or the issue must have come in question before a court of competent jurisdiction⁴; the result must have been conclusive (or final) so as to bind every other court⁵; and the parties to the judicial decision or their privies must have been the same persons as the parties to the proceedings in which the estoppel is raised or their privies⁶.

1 As to cause of action estoppel and issue estoppel see further PARAS 1169, 1174 et seq.

2 Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC; Moss v Anglo-Egyptian Navigation Co (1865) 1 Ch App 108 (explaining Brandlyn v Ord (1738) 1 Atk 571); Behrens v Sieveking (1837) 2 My & Cr 602; Re Hilton, ex p March (1892) 67 LT 594; Worman v Worman (1889) 43 ChD 296, following Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100; Humphries v Humphries [1910] 2 KB 531, CA; Re Surfleet's Estate, Rawlings v Smith (1911) 105 LT 582; Bradshaw v McMullan [1920] 2 IR 412, HL; Re Waring, Westminster Bank v Burton-Butler [1948] Ch 221, [1948] 1 All ER 257 (Court of Appeal decision remained binding on actual party, although held to have been wrong by the House of Lords in a subsequent case); Patchett v Sterling Engineering Co Ltd (1953) 71 RPC 61, CA; revsd on appeal on other grounds sub nom Sterling Engineering Co Ltd v Patchett [1955] AC 534, [1955] 1 All ER 369, HL; and see PARA 1183. A decision relating to an assessment to tax in one year does not create an estoppel binding upon the parties in relation to an assessment to tax in another year, as the question in each year is different: see Edwards v Old Bushmills Distillery Co Ltd (1926) 10 TC 285, HL (income tax); Broken Hill Pty Co v Broken Hill Municipal Council [1926] AC 94, PC (rating valuations); IRC v Sneath [1932] 2 KB 362, CA (the former surtax); Society of Medical Officers of Health v Hope (Valuation Officer) [1960] AC 551, [1960] 1 All ER 317, HL (decision that body is exempt for rating purposes in one year's valuation list creates no estoppel in respect of later year's list); Hood Barrs v IRC (No 3) [1960] TR 113, CA; Caffoor (Trustees of the Abdul Caffoor Trust) v Income Tax Comr, Colombo [1961] AC 584, [1961] 2 All ER 436, PC (exemption of trust income from income tax); cf IRC v Brooks [1915] AC 478, HL. See also Re Koenigsberg, Public Trustee v Koenigsberg [1949] Ch 348, [1949] 1 All ER 804, CA, commenting on Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC; Matuszczyk v National Coal Board 1955 SLT 101 (action for damages for injury from accident brought on grounds of common law duty precluded second action in respect of the same accident alleging breach of statutory duty); Mills v Cooper [1967] 2 QB 459, [1967] 2 All ER 100, DC (justices not estopped by decision that a man was not a gypsy in December 1965 from holding that in March 1966 he was a gypsy); Public Trustee v Kenward [1967] 2 All ER 870, [1967] 1 WLR 1062; cf Vernon v IRC [1956] 3 All ER 14, [1956] 1 WLR 1169 (Attorney General not estopped from denying charitable nature of scheme merely because he agreed to the making of an order in earlier proceedings that a scheme should be set up).

3 Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd (No 2) [1967] 1 AC 853, [1966] 2 All ER 536, HL, per Lord Guest; DSV Silo- und Verwaltungsgesellschaft mbH v Owners of the Sennar, The Sennar [1985] 2 All ER 104, [1985] 1 WLR 490, HL. As competition proceedings before the EC Commission are administrative rather than judicial and, therefore, cannot be described in English terminology as civil proceedings between the complainant and the investigatee, it cannot be said that issue estoppel arises in a national case between the same parties; however, it is not right that national courts and Community institutions should both independently determine a case where there is a possibility that they might reach different conclusions; English courts must therefore take all reasonable steps to avoid or reduce the risk of drawing conclusions which are inconsistent with decisions of the Commission: Iberian UK Ltd v BPB Industries plc [1996] 2 CMLR 601, [1997] ICR 164. As to parties and privies see PARA 1196.

4 A-G for Trinidad and Tobago v Eriché [1893] AC 518, PC; Eastwood and Holt v Studer (1926) 31 Com Cas 251; IRC v Sneath [1932] 2 KB 362, CA. A judgment of a court which has no jurisdiction to pronounce it is void and cannot give rise to estoppel: see PARA 1170. The court may be a private tribunal, such as an arbitrator, whose forum is a domestic one constituted by the parties themselves: IRC v Sneath [1932] 2 KB 362, CA; and see Re Dances Way, West Town, Hayling Island [1962] Ch 490, [1962] 2 All ER 42, CA (Chief Land Registrar's decision to delete a note of an exception and reservation of a right of way held not to be a final determination giving rise to an estoppel as to the construction of the exception and reservation). The plea of res judicata is available in prize if the necessary conditions exist: The Annie Johnson (1921) 91 LJP 64, PC. As to prize cases see PARA 1192.

5 Behrens v Sieveking (1837) 2 My & Cr 602; Eastwood and Holt v Studer (1926) 31 Com Cas 251; Bradshaw v McMullan [1920] 2 IR 412, HL.

6 As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(i) Finality of Judgments and Orders/C. LIBERTY TO APPLY/1165. Liberty to apply.

C. LIBERTY TO APPLY

1165. Liberty to apply.

The circumstances or the nature of a judgment or order often render necessary subsequent applications to the court for assistance in working out the rights declared. All orders of the court carry with them inherent liberty to apply to the court¹, and there is no need to reserve expressly such liberty in the case of orders which are not final². Where in the case of a final judgment the necessity for subsequent application is foreseen, it is usual to insert in the judgment words expressly reserving liberty to any party to apply to the court as he may be advised³. The judgment is not thereby rendered any the less final; the only effect of the declaration is to permit persons having an interest under the judgment to apply to the court touching their interest in a summary way without again setting the case down⁴. It does not enable the court to deal with matters which do not arise in the course of working out the judgment⁵, or to vary the terms of the order except possibly on proof of change of circumstances⁶. Should the declaration be omitted, application may be made to have the judgment rectified by inserting it⁷. It will not, however, be made or implied in favour of a defendant as against whom the claim has been dismissed for any other purpose than for enforcing the terms of the order⁸, nor in favour of a claimant whose cause of action disappeared before trial but who fears that the circumstances giving rise to the cause of action may recur⁹.

1 Fritz v Hobson(1880) 14 ChD 542, following Viney v Chaplin (1858) 3 De G & J 282; Chandless-Chandless v Nicholson[1942] 2 KB 321, [1942] 2 All ER 315, CA. See also Practice Direction[1980] 1 All ER 1008, [1980] 1 WLR 322.

2 Penrice v Williams(1883) 23 ChD 353. A judgment for an amount to be ascertained on taking an account implies liberty to apply: Light v William West & Sons Ltd[1926] 2 KB 238, CA. See also Practice Direction[1980] 1 All ER 1008, [1980] 1 WLR 322. Orders in the Family Division relating to residence, contact and maintenance are not final, and liberty to apply is not normally inserted in such an order.

3 Kevan v Crawford(1877) 6 ChD 29, CA; Pawley v Pawley[1905] 1 Ch 593.

4 Bund v Green [1875] WN 213. For an example of an order in the 'Tomlin' form staying proceedings on terms with liberty to apply to enforce the terms see The Chancery Guide (2005 Edn) para 9.16.

5 Poisson and Woods v Robertson and Turvey (1902) 50 WR 260, CA.

6 Cristel v Cristel[1951] 2 KB 725, [1951] 2 All ER 574, CA.

7 As to rectifying judgments see PARA 1144.

8 Huntley v Link (1881) 26 Sol Jo 59.

9 Carr & Co v Bath Gas Light and Coke Co (1899) [1900] WN 265n; Dunning v Grosvenor Dairies Ltd [1900] WN 265.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(ii) Abuse of Process and the Rule in Henderson v Henderson/1166. Re-litigation and abuse of process.

(ii) Abuse of Process and the Rule in Henderson v Henderson

1166. Re-litigation and abuse of process.

The law discourages re-litigation of the same issues except by means of an appeal¹. It is not in the interests of justice that there should be re-trial of a case which has already been decided by another court, leading to the possibility of conflicting judicial decisions, or that there should be collateral challenges to judicial decisions; there is a danger, not only of unfairness to the parties concerned, but also of bringing the administration of justice into disrepute². The principles of res judicata, issue estoppel and abuse of process have been used to address this problem³.

1 Arthur JS Hall v Simons, Barratt v Ansell (t/a Seddon (a firm)), Harris v Scholfield Roberts & Hill (a firm) [2000] 3 All ER 673 at 701, HL, per Lord Hoffmann. As to appeals see PARA 1657 et seq.

2 See Rondel v Worsley[1969] 1 AC 191 at 251, [1967] 3 All ER 993 at 1013, HL, per Lord Morris of Borth-y-Gest; Saif Ali v Sydney Mitchell & Co (a firm) (P, third party)[1980] AC 198 at 222-223, [1978] 3 All ER 1033 at 1045, HL, per Lord Diplock; Arthur JS Hall v Simons, Barratt v Ansell (t/a Seddon (a firm)), Harris v Scholfield Roberts & Hill (a firm)[2000] 3 All ER 673 at 700-703 and 706, HL, per Lord Hoffmann.

3 See eg Hunter v Chief Constable of West Midlands[1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727 (abuse of process). As to the rules relating to res judicata see PARA 1168 et seq; as to issue estoppel see PARAS 1169, 1179 et seq; and as to abuse of process see further PARA 534.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(ii) Abuse of Process and the Rule in Henderson v Henderson/1167. The rule in Henderson v Henderson.

1167. The rule in Henderson v Henderson.

Where a case does not fall within the rules relating to res judicata¹, the court may still exercise its discretion under its general inherent jurisdiction to prevent litigation that amounts to abuse of process² so as to stop a party from raising an issue which was or could have been determined in earlier proceedings. The rule in *Henderson v Henderson*³ has been described as being essentially part of the court's wider jurisdiction for striking claims out as an abuse of process⁴, and as a form of issue estoppel⁵. Although the rule as now understood is separate and distinct from cause of action estoppel and issue estoppel, it has much in common with them and the underlying public interest is the same: that there should be finality in litigation and that a party should not be twice vexed in the same matter⁶.

The rule provides that a claimant is barred from litigating a claim that has already been adjudicated upon or which could and should have been brought before the court in earlier proceedings arising out of the same facts⁷. Parties are expected to bring their whole case to the court and will in general not be permitted to re-open the same litigation in respect of a matter which they might have brought forward but did not, whether from negligence, inadvertence or even accident⁸. The abuse in question need not involve the re-opening of a matter already decided in proceedings between the same parties, but may cover issues or facts which are so clearly part of the subject matter of the litigation and so clearly could have been raised that it would be an abuse of the process of the court to allow new proceedings to be started in respect of them⁹. It is, however, wrong to hold that because a matter could have been raised in early proceedings it should have been, so as to render the raising of it in later proceedings necessarily abusive¹⁰; the question is whether in all the circumstances a party's conduct is an abuse¹¹.

The scope of the rule has been extended to claims where there has been a settlement rather than a judgment or a consent order¹².

1 As to the rules relating to res judicata see PARA 1168 et seq.

2 As to abuse of process see further PARA 534.

3 See Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100.

4 See Yat Tung Investment Co Ltd v Dao Heng Bank Ltd [1975] AC 581, PC; Brisbane City Council v A-G for Queensland [1979] AC 411, [1978] 3 All ER 30, PC; and see PARA 534. Lord Hailsham of St Marylebone LC described the rule as 'both a rule of public policy and an application of the law of res judicata': Vervaeke v Smith [1983] 1 AC 145 at 157, [1982] 2 All ER 144 at 152, HL. See also Barrow v Bankside Members Agency Ltd [1996] 1 All ER 981 at 983, [1996] 1 WLR 257 at 260, CA. The rule may also be seen as an aspect of the court's power to restrict vexatious civil proceedings, as to which see PARA 258.

5 As to issue estoppel see PARAS 1169, 1179 et seq.

6 Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1 at 31, [2001] 1 All ER 481 at 498-499, HL, per Lord Bingham of Cornhill.

7 Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100. See also Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1, [2001] 1 All ER 481, HL; and see eg Watson v Irwin Mitchell (a firm) [2009] EWHC 441 (QB), [2009] All ER (D) 113 (Mar) (applying Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100 and Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1, [2001] 1 All ER 481, HL).

8 Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100.

9 Greenhalgh v Mallard [1947] 2 All ER 255 at 257, CA, per Somervell LJ; Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1 at 23, [2001] 1 All ER 481 at 491, HL, per Lord Bingham of Cornhill (note that much of the recent case law on abuse of process was considered in this case). See also Yat Tung Investment Co Ltd v Dao Heng Bank Ltd [1975] AC 581, PC; Brisbane City Council v A-G for Queensland [1979] AC 411, [1978] 3 All ER 30, PC; Hunter v Chief Constable of West Midlands [1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727, HL; Vervaeke v Smith [1983] 1 AC 145, [1982] 2 All ER 144, HL; Ashmore v British Coal Corp [1990] 2 QB 338, [1990] 2 All ER 981, CA; House of Spring Gardens Ltd v Waite [1991] 1 QB 241, [1990] 2 All ER 990, CA; Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL; Talbot v Berkshire County Council [1994] QB 290, [1993] 4 All ER 9, CA; C (a minor) v Hackney London Borough Council [1996] 1 All ER 973, [1996] 1 WLR 789, CA; Barrow v Bankside Members Agency Ltd [1996] 1 All ER 981, [1996] 1 WLR 257, CA; Manson v Vooght [1999] BPIR 376, [1998] All ER (D) 531, CA; Bradford & Bingley Building Society v Seddon [1999] 4 All ER 217, [1999] 1 WLR 1482, CA.

See further Dexter Ltd (in administrative receivership) v Vlieland-Boddy [2003] EWCA Civ 14, [2003] All ER (D) 221 (Jan), where at [49] Peter Gibson LJ summarised the principles to be derived from the authorities:

- 93 (1) where A has brought an action against B, a later action against B or C may be struck out where the second action is an abuse of process;
- 94 (2) a later action against B is much more likely to be held to be an abuse of process than a later action against C;
- 95 (3) the burden of establishing abuse of process is on B or C or as the case may be;
- 96 (4) it is wrong to hold that because a matter could have been raised in earlier proceedings it should have been, so as to render the raising of it in later proceedings necessarily abusive;
- 97 (5) the question in every case is whether, applying a broad merits based approach, A's conduct is in all the circumstances an abuse of process;
- 98 (6) the court will rarely find that the later action is an abuse of process unless the later action involves unjust harassment or oppression of B or C.

10 Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1 at 31, [2001] 1 All ER 481 at 499, HL, per Lord Bingham of Cornhill. See note 9 head (4).

11 Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1 at 31, [2001] 1 All ER 481 at 499, HL, per Lord Bingham of Cornhill.

12 See Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1, [2001] 1 All ER 481, HL. See also Dexter Ltd (in administrative receivership) v Vlieland-Boddy [2002] EWHC 1561 (Ch), [2002] All ER (D) 376 (Jul); affd [2003] EWCA Civ 14, [2003] All ER (D) 221 (Jan) (earlier claim set aside for want of jurisdiction; further claim not an abuse of process). As to offers to settle see PARA 115 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1168. Origin of term 'estoppel by record'.

(iii) Res Judicata

A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD

1168. Origin of term 'estoppel by record'.

Under the doctrine of res judicata¹, a matter that has been adjudicated on by a competent court cannot be re-litigated²; thus a form of estoppel known as 'estoppel by record' arises when a judgment has been given which is a matter of record, principally matters appearing on the records of courts of law³. Estoppel by record may now arise whether or not the judicial decision in question has been pronounced by a tribunal that is required to keep a written record of its decisions⁴.

The rationale for the existence of estoppel by record can be summed up in two expressions, that it is in the public interest that there should be an end of litigation⁵, and that no one should be proceeded against twice for the same cause⁶. It accords with the first of these expressions that a party relying on estoppel by record should be able to show that the matter has been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction⁷ in a judgment which is final⁸.

1 As to the term 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

2 See Ord v Ord[1923] 2 KB 432 at 439; and see also eg Arthur JS Hall v Simons, Barratt v Ansell (t/a Seddon (a firm)), Harris v Scholfield Roberts & Hill (a firm)[2000] 3 All ER 673 at 701, HL, per Lord Hoffmann.

3 As to courts of record and courts not of record see 3 BI Com (14th Edn) 24-25, 30 et seq; 4 BI Com (14th Edn) 258 (criminal courts); COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 308. As to the conclusiveness of such records see also Co Litt 260a, cited by Lord Tenterden CJ in R v Carlile (1831) 2 B & Ad 362 at 367-368; 3 BI Com (14th Edn) 24.

A number of matters were enumerated by Lord Coke as matters of record giving rise to an estoppel including, among others which are obsolete, letters patent, pleadings and warrants of attorney: Co Litt 352a.

4 As to estoppel arising from judgments and decisions not made by courts of record see PARA 1184 et seq.

5 le 'interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium'. Parties involved in litigation have a duty to put before the court all the issues relevant to that litigation: see Taylor v Lawrence [2002] EWCA Civ 90, [2003] QB 528, [2002] 2 All ER 353.

6 le 'nemo debet bis vexari pro una et eadem causa'.

7 See PARA 1170.

8 Langmead v Maple (1865) 18 CBNS 255; Massam v Thorley's Cattle Food Co(1880) 14 ChD 748, CA; Badar Bee v Habib Merican Noordin[1909] AC 615, PC; and see Pitt v Hill and Broadway (1673) Cas temp Finch 70; Temple v Viscountess Baltinglass (1677) Cas temp Finch 275; Brunsdon v Humphrey(1884) 14 QBD 141, CA. It is on this principle that no claim may be brought to recover money paid under a judgment which has not been set aside, or for maliciously and without probable cause setting the law in motion while a judgment against the party complaining stands unreversed: see Huffer v Allen(1866) LR 2 Exch 15; cf Wildes v Russell(1866) LR 1 CP 722; Bynoe v Bank of England[1902] 1 KB 467, CA (following Basébé v Matthews(1867) LR 2 CP 684; Vanderbergh v Blake (1662) Hard 194; Castrique v Behrens (1861) 3 E & E 709; and applied in Turley v Daw (1906) 94 LT 216); cf Huddleston v Asbugg (1675) Cas temp Finch 204. A decree for foreclosure is a bar to proceedings for redemption: Mallock v Galton (1735) 1 Dick 65; cf Ford v Tynte (1864) 10 LT 93. For cases in which an interim judgment intended finally to determine rights has been allowed to have the effect of res judicata (ie a final decision) see PARA 1184 note 12. See also Buehler AG v Chronos Richardson Ltd[1998] 2 All ER 960, [1998] RPC 609 (no cause of action estoppel arising from decision of Opposition Division of European Patent Office since under the European Patent Convention the national courts have exclusive jurisdiction over revocation proceedings, and therefore validity is finally decided by those courts). See further PARA 1156.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1169. Where estoppel by record arises.

1169. Where estoppel by record arises.

Estoppel by record, also known as estoppel per rem judicatam, arises:

- 823 (1) where an issue of fact has been judicially determined in a final manner between the parties by a tribunal having jurisdiction¹, concurrent or exclusive, in the matter, and the same issue comes directly in question in subsequent proceedings between the same parties (this is known as 'cause of action estoppel')²;
- 824 (2) where the first determination was by a court having exclusive jurisdiction, and the same issue comes incidentally in question in subsequent proceedings between the same parties³ (this is known as 'issue estoppel')⁴;
- 825 (3) in some cases⁵ where an issue of fact affecting the status of a person or thing has been necessarily⁶ determined in a final manner as a substantive part⁷ of a judgment of a tribunal having jurisdiction to determine that status⁸, and the same issue comes directly in question in subsequent civil or criminal proceedings⁹ between any parties whatever.

It has been held that issue estoppel applies only to the issues actually determined in the earlier proceedings and does not extend to issues which the parties, by exercising reasonable diligence, could have raised in those proceedings¹⁰, whereas cause of action estoppel applies in respect of all claims or defences which the parties by exercising reasonable diligence could have brought forward in those proceedings¹¹. The latter proposition has, however, been held to have no application in the case of a default judgment¹²; and the practical effect of the former may be diminished by the duty of parties who are involved in litigation to put before the court all the issues relevant to that litigation¹³. Issue estoppel cannot arise where a party has come into possession of fresh evidence which brings into question the findings in the earlier proceedings¹⁴ but cause of action estoppel may arise notwithstanding such fresh evidence¹⁵.

A change in the law between the date of the earlier and later proceedings cannot prevent a party from raising a cause of action estoppel but may prevent a party from raising an issue estoppel depending on the circumstances¹⁶.

Estoppel by record does not operate according to the ordinary principles in matrimonial and family proceedings. Under the Matrimonial Causes Act 1973, on a petition for divorce it is the duty of the court to inquire, so far as it reasonably can, into the facts alleged by the petitioner and into any facts alleged by the respondent¹⁷ and it has been said that estoppels bind the parties but do not bind the court¹⁸. Strict application of the doctrine of estoppel by record is inappropriate in proceedings under the Children Act 1989¹⁹.

1 Lack of jurisdiction deprives the judgment of any effect, whether by estoppel or otherwise: Rogers v Wood (1831) 2 B & Ad 245 (decree of court unknown to the law composed of some members of the Court of Exchequer and other distinguished persons); Archbishop of Dublin v Lord Trimleston (1849) 12 I Eq R 251. The court must have proceeded to final judgment: see PARA 1156. The finality of a judgment is not affected by the fact that an appeal may be brought (Huntly v Gaskell [1905] 2 Ch 656, CA) or is actually pending (Harris v Willis (1855) 15 CB 710) but the judgment of a lower court will only give rise to an estoppel if it was open to appeal (Concha v Concha (1886) 11 App Cas 541, HL). As to appeals in civil proceedings see generally PARA 1657 et seq. As to issue estoppel (see head (2) in the text) arising from an interim decision of a foreign court on a procedural issue see Desert Sun Loan Corpn v Hill [1996] 2 All ER 847, CA. No cause of action or issue estoppel can arise from a decision of the Opposition Division of the European Patent Office because the final decision as to the validity of any patent it has granted rests with the courts of the contracting states to the European Patent Convention: Buehler AG v Chronos Richardson Ltd [1998] 2 All ER 960, [1998] RPC 609, CA. There is no estoppel by record in cases of dismissal for want of prosecution: Pople v Evans [1969] 2 Ch 255, [1968] 2 All ER 743.

2 As to cause of action estoppel see PARA 1174 et seq. As to merger of the cause of action in the judgment see PARAS 1157, 1190.

3 Duchess of Kingston's Case (1776) 2 Smith LC (13th Edn) 644; Mackintosh v Smith and Lowe (1865) 4 Macq 913, HL.

4 As to issue estoppel see PARA 1179 et seq.

5 See Hill v Clifford, Clifford v Timms, Clifford v Phillips [1907] 2 Ch 236, CA.

6 R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 780; Concha v Concha (1886) 11 App Cas 541, HL, affg De Mora v Concha (1885) 29 ChD 268, CA. R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 780 was doubted by Lord Selborne LC in R v Hutchings (1881) 6 QBD 300 at 303, CA, but it appears to be well established: see Wakefield Corpn v Cooke [1903] 1 KB 417, CA; affd [1904] AC 31, HL.

7 R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 780; Hobbs v Henning (1865) 17 CBNS 791 (foreign judgment in rem). As to foreign judgments see PARAS 899, 1189.

8 Is a judgment in rem: see PARA 1160.

9 Armstrong v Whitfield [1974] QB 16, [1973] 2 All ER 546, DC (a decision in civil proceedings that a lane was subject to a public right of way estopped a party charged in later criminal proceedings with wilfully obstructing a highway from calling evidence to show that there was no public right of way); cf Murphy v Culhane [1977] QB 94, [1976] 3 All ER 533, CA (a conviction for manslaughter did not prevent the defences of ex turpi causa non oritur actio and volenti non fit injuria being raised in a subsequent civil action (now known as a 'claim': see PARA 18) brought by the widow of the deceased).

10 See Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner & Keeler Ltd (No 2) [1967] 1 AC 853, [1966] 2 All ER 536 HL.

11 See Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100.

12 New Brunswick Rly Co v British & French Trust Corpn Ltd [1939] AC 1, HL.

13 As to that duty see Taylor v Lawrence [2002] EWCA Civ 90 at [6], [2003] QB 528 at [6], [2002] 2 All ER 353 at [6] per Lord Woolf CJ. See also Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1, [2001] 1 All ER 481, HL.

14 See McIlkenny v Chief Constable of West Midlands Police Force [1980] QB 283 at 320, [1980] 2 All ER 227; affd sub nom Hunter v Chief Constable of West Midlands Police [1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727, HL.

15 See Workington Harbour Board v Trade Indemnity Co (No 2) [1938] 2 All ER 101, HL.

16 See Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL.

17 See the Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 s 1(3) (prospectively repealed); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 348.

18 See Thompson v Thompson [1957] P 19, [1957] 1 All ER 161, CA. As to estoppels in ancillary relief proceedings see Porter v Porter [1971] P 282, [1971] 2 All ER 1037.

19 See K v P (Children Act proceedings: estoppel) [1995] 2 FCR 457, [1995] 1 FLR 248; Re S (minors) (care orders: appeal out of time) [1996] 2 FCR 838, sub nom Re S (minors) (discharge of care order) [1995] 2 FLR 639, CA; Re L (minors) (care proceedings: issue estoppel) [1996] 1 FCR 221, sub nom Re S, S and A (care proceedings: issue estoppel) [1995] 2 FLR 244. See also Re B (minors) (care proceedings: issue estoppel) [1997] Fam 117, sub nom Re B (minors) (care proceedings: evidence) [1997] 2 All ER 29.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1170. Court must have jurisdiction to pronounce judgment.

1170. Court must have jurisdiction to pronounce judgment.

In order that estoppel by record may arise out of a judgment the court which pronounced the judgment must have had jurisdiction to do so¹; lack of jurisdiction deprives the judgment of any effect, whether by estoppel or otherwise². This rule applies even where the party alleged to be estopped himself sought the assistance of the court whose jurisdiction is impugned³. The absence of a condition necessary to found the jurisdiction to make an order or give a decision deprives the order or decision of any conclusive effect⁴. It is otherwise where the order is good on its face and the court adjudicating has jurisdiction to determine the existence or not of the condition necessary to confer jurisdiction, and the party denying its existence has neglected his opportunity of raising the objection at the hearing⁵.

1 Cf Rosenfeld v Newman [1953] 2 All ER 885, [1953] 1 WLR 1135, CA. A decision of a superior court of record remains binding until set aside; the concepts of void and voidable are inapplicable: Isaacs v Robertson [1985] AC 97, [1984] 3 All ER 140, PC; IRC v Hoogstraten [1985] QB 1077, [1984] 3 All ER 25, CA.

2 Rogers v Wood (1831) 2 B & Ad 245 (decree of court unknown to the law composed of some members of the Court of Exchequer and other distinguished persons); Archbishop of Dublin v Lord Trimleston (1849) 12 I Eq R 251.

3 Toronto Rly Co v Toronto Corp [1904] AC 809, PC; see and distinguish Wright v London General Omnibus Co (1877) 2 QBD 271; and see Hines v Birkbeck College (No 2) [1992] Ch 33, [1991] 4 All ER 450, CA (plaintiff's claim for wrongful dismissal by college struck out on ground that subject matter exclusively within jurisdiction of visitor; subsequent legislation conferred jurisdiction on court; plaintiff not estopped either from asserting that court now had jurisdiction or from suing again in that court). As to the effect of nomination of an unqualified arbitrator see Oakland Metal Co Ltd v D Benaim & Co Ltd [1953] 2 QB 261, [1953] 2 All ER 650; and PARA 1188. A 'plaintiff' is now known as a 'claimant': see PARA 18.

Thus a magistrate hearing a summons for the expenses of making up a new street under the Public Health Act 1875 s 150 (repealed) (see R v Hutchings (1881) 6 QBD 300, CA, followed in Scott v Lowe (1902) 86 LT 421 (decided under the Metropolis Management Act 1855 (largely repealed))); Crown Estate Comrs v Dorset County Council [1990] Ch 297, [1990] 1 All ER 19; and PARA 1162 text and notes 6-7) or for trespass to land (see A-G for Trinidad and Tobago v Eriché [1893] AC 518, PC), and having jurisdiction for that purpose, might dismiss the summons on the express ground in the one case that the street was repairable by the inhabitants, or in the other that the defendant had established a title to the property; but, although such a finding was embodied in the order as drawn up, it created no estoppel between the parties, for it related to a matter which the magistrate had no jurisdiction directly and immediately to adjudicate upon, being at most incidentally cognisable, so far only as necessary to his decision on the actual question submitted: cf Dover v Child (1876) 1 ExD 172 (magistrate's refusal to order delivery up of goods under the Metropolitan Police Courts Act 1839 s 40 (repealed) was not an adjudication on title which he had no jurisdiction to make).

4 Reed v Nutt (1890) 24 QBD 669 (certificate of dismissal of charge of assault without a hearing on the merits (Offences against the Person Act 1861 s 44) given without jurisdiction, and no bar (under s 45) to an action for the same cause); Davis v Morton [1913] 2 KB 479, DC; cf Jungheim, Hopkins & Co v Foukelmann [1909] 2 KB 948 (arbitrator lacking qualification which was a condition of his appointment); and see PARA 1188. The question of jurisdiction or no jurisdiction and its effect on estoppel is well illustrated by old compensation cases. The verdict of a jury assessing compensation under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 s 50 (repealed), and the sheriff's signed judgment on it, was held to constitute a record. The parties were not, however, estopped in subsequent proceedings as to the right to compensation, whether it turned on the claimant's title to the property (R v London and North Western Rly Co (1854) 3 E & B 443), or on the question whether any damage had been occasioned by the execution of the works (Read v Victoria Station and Pimlico Rly Co (1863) 1 H & C 826), which matters the sheriff's jury had no jurisdiction to determine. When once it was determined, however, in an action on the judgment that any damage whatever had been sustained, that jury's verdict was conclusive between the parties as to the amount: Barber v Nottingham Canal Co (1864) 15 CBNS 726; Read v Victoria Station and Pimlico Rly Co (1863) 1 H & C 826. This procedure for assessing compensation is obsolete; as to assessment by the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq.

5 River Ribble Joint Committee v Croston UDC [1897] 1 QB 251.

Under the old practice demurrers were frequently allowed to pleas of res judicata on the ground that the pleas did not show that the court adjudicating had jurisdiction to do so: Harris v Willis (1855) 15 CB 710 (demurrer to plea of res judicata in Admiralty court); Briscoe v Stephens (1824) 2 Bing 213 (inferior court); see also O'Grady v Synan [1900] 2 IR 602, CA. The same principle has been applied where it has been sought to give effect, whether as a cause of action or a ground of defence, to foreign judgments: Ferguson v Mahon (1839) 11 Ad & El 179 (Irish judgment). As to international jurisdiction see CONFLICT OF LAWS vol 8(3) (Reissue) PARA 142 et seq. See also PARA 1189.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1171. Judgment essential.

1171. Judgment essential.

The proceedings must have resulted in a final judgment or decree¹; a pending action without judgment creates no estoppel². Where a case has been commenced and subsequently an earlier case comes to judgment that earlier case can give rise to an estoppel in the later case³. However, where the verdict has been given in the earlier case but no judgment has yet been delivered the earlier case will not create an estoppel, the reason being that there is nothing to show that the verdict may not have been set aside, or that the court has not declined to act upon it⁴. Nor will a verdict which has come to judgment be admitted in evidence unless the judgment which is founded upon it is also proved⁵. In those divorce proceedings which can give rise to a plea of estoppel⁶ a decision, followed by decree nisi, is conclusive evidence in a subsequent suit between the same parties, even though the decree has been set aside on the intervention of the Queen's Proctor⁷, if this has been done on grounds outside the decision, and not affecting its correctness⁸.

The dismissal of a claim for want of prosecution is no bar to a new claim; it amounts to nothing⁹ and this is so where the dismissal is by consent, if there was no compromise of the cause of action¹⁰. However, a claimant who discontinues a claim now needs the court's permission to make another claim against the same defendant if he discontinued after a defence was filed and if the other claim arises out of the same, or substantially the same, facts as those relating to the discontinued claim¹¹.

1 Jenkins v Robertson (1867) LR 1 Sc & Div 117, HL; Bradshaw v McMullan [1920] 2 IR 412, HL; Ellerman Lines Ltd v Read (1927) 44 TLR 7 (on appeal [1928] 2 KB 144, CA). The withdrawal of a summons, not leading to an adverse adjudication, does not operate as an estoppel: see Land v Land [1949] P 405, [1949] 2 All ER 218, DC; and PARA 1184 note 8.

2 Hitchin v Campbell (1772) 2 Wm Bl 827. The pendency of another suit for the same cause might formerly be pleaded in abatement, however, not on the ground of estoppel, but for the prevention of vexatious litigation: see Henry v Goldney (1846) 15 M & W 494. The object is now attained by application to stay: see McHenry v Lewis (1882) 22 ChD 397, CA; and PARA 529 et seq. As to vexatious litigants see PARAS 244, 258; and as to the effect of the registration under the Land Charges Act 1972 of a pending action see LAND CHARGES.

It has been held that the record of the court's act on which the estoppel is founded must be forthcoming, or some valid reason given why it cannot be produced: The Annie Johnson (1921) 91 LJP 64, PC. However, estoppel by record may now arise whether or not the judicial decision in question has been pronounced by a tribunal that is required to keep a written record of its decisions: see PARA 1168.

3 Re Defries, Norton v Levy (1883) 48 LT 703; Bell v Holmes [1956] 3 All ER 449, [1956] 1 WLR 1359; Morrison Rose & Partners v Hillman [1961] 2 QB 266, [1961] 2 All ER 891, CA.

4 O'Connor v Malone (1839) 6 Cl & Fin 572, HL (verdict on an issue directed in a chancery suit); Bancroft v Bancroft and Rumney (1864) 3 Sw & Tr 597; cf Robinson v Duleep Singh (1878) 11 ChD 798, CA.

5 Fitch v Smalbrook (1661) T Raym 32; Pitton v Walter (1719) 1 Stra 162; Fisher v Kitchingman (1742) Willes 367; Holt v Miers (1839) 9 C & P 191; Gillespie v Cumming (1841) Long & T 181; Jameson v Leitch (1842) Milw 683. Garland v Scoones (1798) 2 Esp 647 and Foster v Compton (1818) 2 Stark 364, in which verdicts were admitted without proof of the judgments, can no longer be considered good law. A verdict was also inadmissible if founded on evidence which would have been inadmissible in the action in which such verdict was intended to be proved: Stoate v Stoate (1861) 2 Sw & Tr 223. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings (which is now only available in a restricted set of circumstances) see PARA 1132.

6 See PARA 1178.

7 A finding of adultery in a decree nisi is not res judicata (ie finally determined) so as to prevent its being questioned by the court on an intervention by the Queen's Proctor alleging that the decree nisi was pronounced contrary to the justice of the case eg on false evidence: Chalmers v Chalmers [1930] P 154; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARAS 353, 357.

8 Butler v Butler [1894] P 25, CA (applying Conradi v Conradi (1868) LR 1 P & D 514); Hopkins v Hopkins and Castle (1933) 78 Sol Jo 64; cf Waters v Waters (1848) 2 De G & Sm 591. Cf PARA 1178.

9 Byrne v Frere (1828) 2 Mol 157; cf Re Hampshire Co-operative Milk Co Ltd, Purcell's Case (1880) 29 WR 170; Pople v Evans [1969] 2 Ch 255, [1968] 2 All ER 743.

10 Magnus v National Bank of Scotland (1888) 57 LJ Ch 902. Cf the old practice in Chancery of dismissing a bill without prejudice to the plaintiff's right to sue at law: see Seymour v Nosworthy (1670) 1 Cas in Ch 155; Rochester Corp'n v Lee (1849) 1 Mac & G 467; Langmead v Maple (1865) 18 CBNS 255; cf Collins v Cave (1858) 27 LJ Ex 146 (bill dismissed for want of equity); Peters v Tilly (1886) 11 PD 145 (failure of probate action for want of evidence of contents of will). The acceptance of money paid into court creates no res judicata, and the parties are not precluded from re-opening the matters in dispute, except so far as regards the damages for the particular cause of action in respect of which it is paid in: Coote v Ford [1899] 2 Ch 93, CA; and see PARA 1207. The discharge of a jury without finding on an issue submitted to it will not prevent the same issue being litigated again (Carnegie v Carnegie (1886) 17 LR Ir 430, CA; R v Charlesworth (1861) 1 B & S 460 (prosecution for misdemeanour); and see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1272-1275). The withdrawal of a juror does not even put a legal end to the actual litigation: Thomas v Exeter Flying Co (1887) 18 QBD 822. As to trial by judge and jury in civil proceedings see note 5.

11 See CPR 38.7; and PARA 728.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1172. Judgment by consent or by default.

1172. Judgment by consent or by default.

A judgment which would be final if it resulted from judicial decision after a contest is not prevented from being so by the fact that it was obtained by consent¹ or by default² provided the party against whom it is set up was under no disability³; but the efficacy of a judgment so obtained is strictly limited⁴.

Under the previous civil procedure, where the former judgment was a judgment by default, and the plaintiff had served no pleading, the estoppel was limited to what appeared on the face of the judgment itself⁵. On the same principle, a defendant who had consented to judgment before service of any pleading was not estopped as against the plaintiff from subsequently setting up matters which might have constituted a defence, because they had never been in issue⁶; but it was otherwise with a defendant who had consented to judgment after pleading in his defence the matters which he sought to set up in the later proceedings⁷. The extent to which these principles will now apply in civil proceedings where the claimant has served a claim form but no particulars of claim, or the defendant has consented to judgment before service of a defence, is uncertain⁸.

1 Re South American and Mexican Co, ex p Bank of England [1895] 1 Ch 37, CA; Allason v Stark (1838) 9 Ad & El 255; Williams v St George's Harbour Co (1858) 2 De G & J 547; Bradshaw v McMullan [1920] 2 IR 412, HL; Stephens & Co v Allen (1921) 126 LT 458, PC; Cohen v Jonesco [1926] 1 KB 119 (on appeal [1926] 2 KB 1, CA); Kinch v Walcott [1929] AC 482, PC; B (MAL) v B (NE) [1968] 1 WLR 1109; Palmer v Durnford Ford (a firm) [1992] QB 483, [1992] 2 All ER 122; and see Bowden v Beauchamp (1740) 2 Atk 81; Burke v Crosbie (1811) 1 Ball & B 489.

2 Huffer v Allen (1866) LR 2 Exch 15; Re South Essex Estuary Co, ex p Chorley (1870) LR 11 Eq 157; and see the cases cited in PARA 1183 note 4. As to the effect of dismissal for want of prosecution see PARA 1171.

3 Where a minor is a party to proceedings before the court, it is the interposition of the court, charged with the duty to watch over his interests, that lends sanctity to a judgment for or against the minor: see Arabian v Tufnall and Taylor Ltd [1944] KB 685, [1944] 2 All ER 317. As to the court's jurisdiction to approve compromises on behalf of minors see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 1422-1423.

It has been held that a judgment by consent or by default cannot give validity to a contract which is outside the objects of a corporation (ie which is ultra vires), where the legality of that contract has not been an issue in the case and the lack of capacity of the company depends on facts which have not been disclosed: Great North-West Central Rly Co v Charlebois [1899] AC 114, PC; Re Jon Beauforte (London) Ltd [1953] Ch 131, [1953] 1 All ER 634 (judgment on contract ultra vires a company not inviolable); A-G v Dublin Corp'n (1841) 1 Dr & War 545. The validity of an act done by a company may not, however, now be called into question on the ground of lack of capacity by reason of anything in the company's memorandum: see the Companies Act 1985 s 35(1); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 265.

As to the effect of the ultra vires doctrine on the raising of an estoppel by representation see ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 1053; and see EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 774.

4 See New Brunswick Rly Co v British and French Trust Corp'n Ltd [1939] AC 1, [1938] 4 All ER 747, HL; and PARAS 1183, 1194.

5 Irish Land Commission v Ryan [1900] 2 IR 565, CA. The indorsement on the writ in this case was in fact a special indorsement (ie the statement of claim was indorsed on the writ). Having regard to Cribb v Freyberger [1919] WN 22, CA, the principle enunciated in the text must be limited to cases in which the writ was not specially indorsed. See also PARA 1183.

6 Goucher v Clayton (1865) 34 LJ Ch 239 (consent to injunction in patent action no estoppel against denying validity and infringement).

- 7 Thompson v Moore (1889) 23 LR Ir 599, CA (validity and infringement denied in former proceedings).
- 8 As to the procedure for obtaining default judgments see PARA 506 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/A. ESTOPPEL BY RECORD/1173. Default of pleading; formal admissions.

1173. Default of pleading; formal admissions.

A judgment which would be final if it resulted from judicial decision after a contest is not prevented from being so by the fact that it was obtained as the result of admissions¹, provided the party against whom it is set up was under no disability²; but the efficacy of a judgment so obtained is strictly limited³.

It has been held that a party who has suffered judgment in default of defence is not estopped from pleading in a later claim matters not inconsistent with the material averments in the particulars of claim in the earlier one⁴. Under the former civil procedure, a claimant who replied by admitting a defence was precluded from bringing a fresh claim unless fresh circumstances arose; the matter was *res judicata*⁵ as to everything that might have been controverted at the time he so replied⁶. These principles are now unlikely to apply; but where a party makes an admission in response to a notice to admit facts, that admission may be used against him only in the proceedings in which that notice is served and only by the party who served the notice⁷.

1 See Boileau v Rutlin (1848) 2 Exch 665.

2 Where a minor is a party to proceedings before the court, it is the interposition of the court, charged with the duty to watch over his interests, that lends sanctity to a judgment for or against the minor: see Arabian v Tuftall and Taylor Ltd [1944] KB 685, [1944] 2 All ER 317. As to the court's jurisdiction to approve compromises on behalf of minors see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(4) (2008 Reissue) PARAS 1422-1423.

3 See New Brunswick Rly Co v British and French Trust Corp Ltd [1939] AC 1, [1938] 4 All ER 747, HL; and paras 984, 997.

4 Howlett v Tarte (1861) 10 CBNS 813. This case turned upon default of pleading, but the general principle laid down by Williams J at 826 has been accepted expressly over and over again: Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC. See PARA 1183 note 2. In any case an estoppel cannot be based on averments which are not a necessary part of the record and are neither proved nor admitted: Irish Land Commission v Ryan [1900] 2 IR 565, CA.

5 As to the meaning of 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

6 Newington v Levy (1870) LR 6 CP 180, Ex Ch; cf Hall v Levy (1875) LR 10 CP 154; Sandwich Corp v R (1847) 10 QB 571, Ex Ch. On an interpleader issue all grounds of claim or defence are open, and therefore a party cannot, after failing at the trial to raise any such ground, raise it in subsequent proceedings: Re Hilton, ex p March (1892) 67 LT 594; cf Williams v Richardson (1877) 36 LT 505; and see PARA 1175.

7 See CPR 32.18(3); and PARA 777.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL/1174. Meaning of 'cause of action estoppel'.

B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL

1174. Meaning of 'cause of action estoppel'.

It is a fundamental doctrine of all courts that there must be an end of litigation¹. Where res judicata² is pleaded by way of estoppel to an entire cause of action, rather than to a single matter in issue³, it amounts to an allegation that the whole legal rights and obligations of the parties are concluded by the earlier judgment, which may have involved the determination of questions of law as well as findings of fact⁴. To decide which questions of law and fact were determined in the earlier judgment the court is entitled to look at the judge's reasons for his decision and his notes of the evidence⁵, and is not restricted to the record⁶; but, as a general rule, the judge's reasons cannot be looked at for the purpose of excluding from the scope of his formal order any matter which, according to the issues raised on the pleadings and the terms of the order itself, is included in it⁷.

Even though the judgment was pleaded by way of estoppel, it is perhaps not strictly correct to regard its determination of legal rights as a question of estoppel. The parties are estopped by the findings of fact involved in the judgment⁸; as respects the determination of questions of law, the true view seems to be that the parties' legal rights are such as they have been determined to be by the judgment of a competent court. The conclusiveness of the determination, however, rests upon the same principles in each case⁹.

Where there is no earlier judgment capable of amounting to res judicata, an attempt in later proceedings to allege facts inconsistent with those found in the previous proceedings may amount to an abuse of process¹⁰. The onus of proving it is an abuse of process lies on the party seeking to rely on the previous judgment¹¹.

Except where the situation pertaining at the hearing of a second application for an adjournment is virtually identical to that pertaining at the first it is totally inappropriate to apply the doctrine of res judicata to such applications, in particular where the previous application was made by a different party to that making the application under consideration¹².

1 See PARA 1154 et seq.

2 As to res judicata see PARAS 1154 note 4, 1168 et seq.

3 As to issue estoppel see PARAS 1169, 1179 et seq.

4 Collier v Walters (1873) LR 17 Eq 252; Badar Bee v Habib Merican Noordin [1909] AC 615, PC. In Marriot v Hampton (1797) 7 Term Rep 269, which rested on the same principle, the plaintiff was non-suited on its appearing in an action for money had and received that the money had been paid under a judgment which had not been set aside.

5 See Randolph v Tuck [1962] 1 QB 175, [1961] 1 All ER 814.

6 Marginson v Blackburn Borough Council [1939] 2 KB 426, [1939] 1 All ER 273, CA; Patchett v Sterling Engineering Co Ltd (1953) 71 RPC 61, CA; revsd on other grounds sub nom Sterling Engineering Co Ltd v Patchett [1955] AC 534, [1955] 1 All ER 369, HL; Re Bullen (No 2) (1972) 29 DLR (3d) 257 (BC) (the court may have regard to the reasons for the judgment in order to determine the question of law decided in an earlier decision); cf Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler (No 3) [1970] Ch 506, [1969] 3 All ER 897. Cf PARA 1206.

7 Patchett v Sterling Engineering Co Ltd (1953) 71 RPC 61, CA; revsd on other grounds sub nom Sterling Engineering Co Ltd v Patchett [1955] AC 534, [1955] 1 All ER 369, HL. If a declaration made in a judgment is unambiguous, regard may not be had to the pleadings in the action or to the history of the case for the purpose of attributing another meaning to the declaration: Gordon v Gonda [1955] 2 All ER 762, [1955] 1 WLR 885, CA.

8 The facts must appear from the judgment as delivered to be the ground on which it was based: Jaeger Co Ltd v Jaeger (1929) 46 RPC 336, CA; Clyne v Yardley [1959] NZLR 617. As to the effect of a finding of adultery not stated in the order of the court see Lake v Lake [1955] P 336, [1955] 2 All ER 538, CA; and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 830.

9 The doctrine of legal precedent, or stare decisis, is discussed elsewhere in this title: see PARA 91 et seq.

10 Bradford and Bingley Building Society v Seddon (Hancock, t/a Hancocks (a firm), third parties) [1999] 4 All ER 217, [1999] 1 WLR 1482, CA, applied in Schellenberg v BBC [2000] EMLR 296; and see Time Group v Computer 2000 [2002] EWHC 126 (TCC), (2002) 86 ConLR 47, [2002] All ER (D) 37 (Feb). As to abuse of process see PARAS 1166-1167. As to striking out proceedings for abuse of process see PARAS 252, 520; and as to staying proceedings for abuse of process see PARA 534.

11 See eg Sweetman v Nathan [2003] EWCA Civ 1115 at [34], [2003] All ER (D) 441 (Jul) per Shiemann LJ.

12 Bass Taverns Ltd v Carford Catering Equipment Ltd [2002] EWCA Civ 671, [2002] All ER (D) 183 (Apr).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL/1175. Doctrine applicable wherever same cause of action determined on the merits.

1175. Doctrine applicable wherever same cause of action determined on the merits.

In all cases where the cause of action is really the same¹ and has been determined on the merits², and not on some ground (such as the non-expiration of the term of credit) which has ceased to operate when the second action or claim is brought, the plea of res judicata³ should succeed. The doctrine applies to all matters which existed at the time of the giving of the judgment and which the party had an opportunity of bringing before the court. If, however, there is matter subsequent which could not be brought before the court at the time, the party is not estopped from raising it⁴.

The doctrine of res judicata does not, however, apply in child care cases, as it is outweighed by public policy considerations relating to the protection of children⁵.

1 See Hills v Co-operative Wholesale Society Ltd [1940] 2 KB 435, [1940] 3 All ER 233, CA.

2 'It is often said that the final judgment . . . must be 'on the merits'. The moral overtones which this expression tends to conjure up may make it misleading. What it means in the context of judgments delivered by courts of justice is that the court has held that it had jurisdiction to adjudicate on an issue raised in the cause of action to which the particular set of facts gives rise, and that its judgment on that cause of action is one that cannot be varied, re-opened or set aside by the court that delivered it or any other court of co-ordinate jurisdiction although it may be subject to appeal to a court of higher jurisdiction': DSV Silo-und Verwaltungsgesellschaft mbH v Owners of the Sennar, The Sennar [1985] 2 All ER 104 at 106, [1985] 1 WLR 490 at 494, HL, per Lord Diplock; applied in Charm Maritime Inc v Minas Xenophon Kyriakou and David John Mathias [1987] 1 Lloyd's Rep 433, CA; and see DSV Silo-und Verwaltungsgesellschaft mbH v Owners of the Sennar, The Sennar [1985] 2 All ER 104 at 110-111, [1985] 1 WLR 490 at 499, HL, per Lord Brandon of Oakbrook. See also Badar Bee v Habib Merican Noordin [1909] AC 615, PC; Livesey v Harding (1855) 21 Beav 227; A-G v Rochester Corp (1833) 6 Sim 273; Glasgow and South-Western Rly Co v Boyd and Forrest 1918 SC (HL) 14; Long v Gowlett [1923] 2 Ch 177; Alfred Rowntree & Sons Ltd v Frederick Allen & Sons (Poplar) Ltd (1935) 41 Com Cas 90; Matuszczyk v National Coal Board 1955 SLT 101.

No express finding is necessary provided the point arose as a separate issue for decision and was decided between the parties: Shoe Machinery Co Ltd v Cutlan [1896] 1 Ch 667; Duedu v Yiboe [1961] 1 WLR 1040, PC; and see PARA 1176. A holding that the court has no jurisdiction to consider a claim is not a determination of the merits of the claim and creates no estoppel: Ideal General Supply Co Ltd v Edelson and Edelson (t/a Ideal Clothing Co) [1957] RPC 252; Tak Ming Co Ltd v Yee Sang Metal Supplies Co [1973] 1 All ER 569, [1973] 1 WLR 300. A prohibition is not a decision on the merits, and raises no estoppel as regards the cause of action in the prohibited proceeding: Grundy v Townsend (1888) 36 WR 531, CA. A settlement reached in the course of an employment tribunal hearing does not amount to a decision of the tribunal giving rise to an estoppel by virtue of the doctrine of res judicata: Dattani v Trio Supermarkets Ltd [1998] ICR 872, [1998] IRLR 240, CA; but cf ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 953. As to the effect of want of finality see PARA 1156.

3 As to the meaning of 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

4 Newington v Levy (1870) LR 6 CP 180, Ex Ch; and see the sequel in Hall v Levy (1875) LR 10 CP 154. See also Earl of Peterborough v Germaine (1709) 6 Bro Parl Cas 1, HL; Ord v Ord [1923] 2 KB 432; Higginson and Arundel v Pyman (1926) 43 RPC 291, CA; Bone v Seale (1973) 229 Estates Gazette 1469; and see PARA 1176.

5 See eg K v P (Children Act proceedings: estoppel) [1995] 2 FCR 457, [1995] 1 FLR 248; and see PARAS 1169, 1178.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL/1176. Effect of previous judgment.

1176. Effect of previous judgment.

Although it is true that estoppel by record must be reciprocal (that is, both parties must be precluded from re-opening matters determined in a prior case), a judgment in favour of a defendant is not always as decisive in his favour on the points in issue as judgment for a claimant would be, despite the fact that it is equally conclusive of the claim brought. Where a claimant recovers judgment, it almost necessarily follows that all the issues raised by the defendant have been determined in the claimant's favour; there must at least have been a decision on the merits. A judgment may, however, have been passed in favour of the defendant on dilatory grounds¹, or on one only of many alternative defences, and circumstances may have arisen entitling the claimant to judgment which were not in existence when the first claim was brought². The burden is on the defendant to show that the judgment relied on was obtained upon grounds or in circumstances which afford him a defence to the subsequent claim³.

1 Jenkins v Merthyr Tydvil UDC (1899) 80 LT 600; and see PARA 1175.

2 National Bolivian Navigation Co v Wilson (1880) 5 App Cas 176, HL; Waine v Crocker (1862) 3 De GF & J 421; Heath v Weaverham Overseers [1894] 2 QB 108; Hall v Levy (1875) LR 10 CP 154; cf R v North Eastern Rly Co (1901) 84 LT 502; Hitchin v Campbell (1772) 2 Wm Bl 827 (judgment for a defendant in trover (now wrongful interference with goods: see TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARA 542 et seq) on general issue pleaded was held on demurrer no answer to an action for money received for the same goods, since, although it appeared that the goods were the same, it did not appear that the question was the same; at the trial it appeared that the only question was the property in the goods, and it was held that the first action was a bar: Hitchin v Campbell (1772) 2 Wm Bl 827); cf Phillips v Ward (1863) 2 H & C 717; Behrens v Sieveking (1837) 2 My & Cr 602; Moss v Anglo-Egyptian Navigation Co (1865) 1 Ch App 108; R v May (1880) 5 QBD 382. As to judgment of acquittal in the former Exchequer cf Cooke v Sholl (1793) 5 Term Rep 255, citing Buller's Nisi Prius 245.

3 Isaacs & Sons v Salbstein [1916] 2 KB 139, CA.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL/1177. Fresh evidence.

1177. Fresh evidence.

The mere discovery of fresh evidence, as distinguished from the development of fresh circumstances¹, on matters which have been open for controversy in the earlier proceedings is no answer to a defence of res judicata². Where this is applicable, the original cause of action is gone and may be restored only by getting rid of the res judicata³; and this must be done by a claim or application, which can only succeed on the same grounds as the former 'bill of review' in the Court of Chancery, namely the discovery of fresh evidence which entirely changes the aspect of the case, and was not and could not by reasonable diligence have been obtained before⁴.

There is some authority for the view that the exception of fresh or special circumstances applies only to issue estoppel; and it has been said that cause of action estoppel binds absolutely⁵.

The above must now be read in the light of the court's duty, in civil proceedings to which the Civil Procedure Rules 1998⁶ apply, to give effect to the overriding objective of dealing with cases justly⁷.

1 Eg a change in the law which indicated that an earlier decision on a point sought to be re-opened in a second action was wrong: Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc [1989] Ch 63, [1988] 3 All ER 977; on appeal [1990] Ch 573, [1990] 1 All ER 529, CA; affd [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL. Cf Barber v Staffordshire County Council [1996] 2 All ER 748, [1996] ICR 379, CA (applicant unsuccessfully sought to re-open unfair dismissal and redundancy claims two years after original claim, following changes in law brought about by developments in Community law). See also Heming v Wilton (1832) 5 C & P 54; Liverpool Corpn v Chorley Waterworks Co (1852) 2 De GM & G 852; Cotter v Earl of Barrymore (1733) 4 Bro Parl Cas 203, HL; Hall v Levy (1875) LR 10 CP 154; Re Inecto Ltd (1922) 38 TLR 797; R v Middlesex Justices, ex p Bond [1933] 2 KB 1, CA; cf R v Evenwood and Barony Inhabitants (1843) 3 QB 370; and distinguish R v Wick St Lawrence Inhabitants (1833) 5 B & Ad 526; Peters v Tilly (1886) 11 PD 145; and see PARA 1159.

2 As to the meaning of 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

3 Lockyer v Ferryman (1877) 2 App Cas 519, HL; cf Dundas v Waddell (1880) 5 App Cas 249, HL. An order of a bankruptcy court as to amendment of proof made under mistake does not amount to res judicata: Re Greaves, ex p Whitton (1880) 43 LT 480.

4 Phosphate Sewage Co v Molleson (1879) 4 App Cas 801, HL (applied in Taylor Walton v David Eric Laing [2007] EWCA Civ 1146, [2008] BLR 65); Re May (1885) 28 ChD 516, CA; Falcke v Scottish Imperial Insurance Co (1887) 57 LT 39; Re Scott and Alvarez's Contract, Scott v Alvarez [1895] 1 Ch 596, CA; Tebbutt v Haynes [1981] 2 All ER 238, CA; Hunter v Chief Constable of the West Midlands Police [1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727, HL; Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc [1989] Ch 63, [1988] 3 All ER 977 (on appeal [1990] Ch 573, [1990] 1 All ER 529, CA; affd [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL); North West Water Ltd v Binnie & Partners (a firm) [1990] 3 All ER 547, 30 ConLR 136. See also Cinpres Gas Injection Ltd v Melea Ltd [2008] EWCA Civ 9, [2008] All ER (D) 165 (Jan).

As to the effect of fraud and collusion in preventing an estoppel by record see PARA 1204. As to the procedure for reviewing the decisions of employment tribunals on the grounds, inter alia, that new evidence has become available since the conclusion of the hearing to which the decision relates, provided that its existence could not have been reasonably known of or foreseen at the time of the hearing, see the Employment Tribunals (Constitution and Rules of Procedure) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/1861, reg 16, Sch 1 rr 34-36; and EMPLOYMENT.

5 Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc [1990] Ch 573, [1990] 1 All ER 529, CA (affd [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL), explaining Re Waring, Westminster Bank Ltd v Awdry [1942] Ch 426, [1942] 2 All ER 250, CA.

- 6 le the Civil Procedure Rules 1998, SI 1998/3132. As to the application of the CPR see PARA 32.
- 7 As to the overriding objective see CPR 1.1; and PARAS 33-35.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/B. CAUSE OF ACTION ESTOPPEL/1178. Res judicata in matrimonial and family proceedings; in general.

1178. Res judicata in matrimonial and family proceedings; in general.

The applicability of estoppel in matrimonial cases is difficult¹ and the doctrine of res judicata² is now in retreat in matrimonial proceedings³. A petitioner in divorce proceedings whose claim for relief is based on an alleged act by the respondent cannot oblige the court to decide the issue in his favour on the grounds that the respondent is estopped from denying the charge by the finding of some other court, as this would prevent the court from exercising its statutory duty to inquire into the truth of the facts upon which the petition is based and thus be contrary to public policy⁴. However, a party who attempts to bring a claim for relief based on facts that have already been judicially determined adversely to him will be estopped from bringing evidence of those facts before the court⁵, and a party will not be allowed to re-litigate, by way of defence, claims of a positive nature which have previously been decided against him⁶. When the subject matter of the two suits is different, a party will not be estopped from adducing in the second suit evidence which in the first suit was given and accepted (or, it seems, rejected⁷), even though held to be insufficient to support the charge then made⁸. A party to proceedings which involve the incidental assumption of the validity of a marriage will not be allowed in subsequent proceedings to challenge its validity if he has not done so in the earlier proceedings⁹, unless the marriage was null and void from the beginning¹⁰. A decree of divorce granted by a court of competent jurisdiction is unimpeachable after the death of one of the parties even if the decree was obtained by fraud¹¹.

The strict application of issue estoppel is inappropriate in both public and private law proceedings under the Children Act 1989¹².

The statutory provisions relating to recognition of divorces, annulments and legal separations¹³ do not require the recognition of any finding of fault made in any proceedings for divorce, annulment or separation¹⁴. The admissibility in evidence of a previous finding of adultery or paternity is discussed elsewhere in this title¹⁵.

1 James v James [1948] 1 All ER 214 at 217 per Lord Merriman P. As to the position regarding res judicata in matrimonial proceedings for maintenance see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

2 As to the meaning of 'res judicata' see PARA 1154 note 4.

3 Rowe v Rowe [1980] Fam 47, [1979] 2 All ER 1123, CA (parentage of children; father not estopped in maintenance proceedings from denying parentage on basis of custody order made in undefended divorce proceedings), overruling Lindsay v Lindsay [1934] P 162 and G (SD) v G (HH) [1970] 3 All ER 844, sub nom Gower v Gower [1970] 1 WLR 1556.

4 Harriman v Harriman [1909] P 123, CA; Hudson v Hudson [1948] P 292, [1948] 1 All ER 773. See also Harris v Harris [1952] 1 All ER 401, DC; Thompson v Thompson [1957] P 19, [1957] 1 All ER 161, CA; Holland v Holland [1961] 1 All ER 226, [1961] 1 WLR 194, CA; Warren v Warren [1962] 3 All ER 1031, [1962] 1 WLR 1310; Laws v Laws [1963] 3 All ER 398, [1963] 1 WLR 1133, CA; Thoday v Thoday [1964] P 181, [1964] 1 All ER 341, CA; Hudson v Hudson [1948] P 292, [1948] 1 All ER 773; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 830.

5 Finney v Finney (1868) LR 1 P & D 483; Butler v Butler [1894] P 25, CA; James v James [1948] 1 All ER 214; Bright v Bright [1954] P 270, [1953] 2 All ER 939. This does not prevent a party repeating in later proceedings a charge which he succeeded in proving in earlier proceedings: Bernard v Bernard (Sutton cited) [1958] 3 All ER 475, [1958] 1 WLR 1275. See also Foster v Foster [1954] P 67, [1953] 2 All ER 518, DC; Cooper v Cooper (No 2) [1955] P 168, [1954] 3 All ER 358, DC; Dixon v Dixon [1953] P 103, [1953] 1 All ER 910; Warren v Warren [1962] 3 All ER 1031, [1962] 1 WLR 1310.

6 Sopwith v Sopwith (1861) 2 Sw & Tr 160; Hill v Hill [1954] P 291, [1954] 1 All ER 491; Hull v Hull [1960] P 118, [1960] 1 All ER 378 (party in custody proceedings precluded, by express finding in earlier divorce proceedings that he had deserted his wife, from denying desertion and alleging that the wife had deserted him); Holland v Holland [1961] 1 All ER 226, [1961] 1 WLR 194, CA; Field v Field [1964] P 336, [1964] 2 All ER 81; Thoday v Thoday [1964] P 181, [1964] 1 All ER 341, CA; Porter v Porter [1971] P 282, [1971] 2 All ER 1037. See also the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 12 (qualified statutory estoppel in the case of a finding of adultery or paternity in matrimonial proceedings); and PARA 1211.

7 Winnan v Winnan [1949] P 174, [1948] 2 All ER 862, CA; Thompson v Thompson [1957] P 19, [1957] 1 All ER 161, CA.

8 Fisher v Fisher [1960] P 36, [1959] 3 All ER 131, CA; Holland v Holland [1961] 1 All ER 226, [1961] 1 WLR 194, CA; Thoday v Thoday [1964] P 181, [1964] 1 All ER 341, CA.

9 Woodland v Woodland (otherwise Belin or Barton) [1928] P 169; Tindall v Tindall [1953] P 63, [1953] 1 All ER 139, CA; cf W v W [1952] P 152, [1952] 1 All ER 858, CA; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 321 note 2.

10 Hayward v Hayward (otherwise Prestwood) [1961] P 152, [1961] 1 All ER 236; and see MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 321.

11 Callaghan v Hanson-Fox [1992] Fam 1, sub nom Callaghan v Andrew-Hanson [1992] 1 All ER 56; cf Moynihn v Moynihn (Nos 1 and 2) [1997] 2 FCR 105, [1997] 1 FLR 59 (application by the Queen's Proctor to set aside decree obtained by deliberate and sustained deception); cf Kemp-Welch v Kemp-Welch and Crymes [1912] P 82 (where it was held that the court had jurisdiction, on motion by co-respondent, to rescind decree absolute on the ground that it was obtained by fraud).

12 See PARA 1169. Cf F v F [1968] 2 All ER 946, sub nom Frost v Frost [1968] 1 WLR 1221, CA; Hull v Hull [1960] P 118, [1960] 1 All ER 378.

13 In the Family Law Act 1986 Pt II (ss 44-54): see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

14 Family Law Act 1986 s 51(5).

15 See PARA 1211.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/C. ISSUE ESTOPPEL/1179. Issue estoppel; in general.

C. ISSUE ESTOPPEL

1179. Issue estoppel; in general.

Issue estoppel¹ means that a party is precluded from contending the contrary of any precise point which, having once been distinctly put in issue, has been solemnly and with certainty² determined against him³. Even if the objects of the first and second claims or actions are different, the finding on a matter which came directly⁴ in issue in the first claim or action, provided it is embodied in a judicial decision that is final⁵, is conclusive in a second claim or action between the same parties and their privies⁶. Issue estoppel will only arise where it is the same issue which a party is seeking to re-litigate. This principle applies whether the point involved in the earlier decision, and as to which the parties are estopped, is one of fact or one of law, or one of mixed fact and law⁷.

There may, however, be an exception to issue estoppel in the special circumstances where there becomes available to a party further material relevant to the correct determination of a point involved in the earlier proceedings, whether or not that point was specifically raised and decided, and such further material could not by reasonable diligence have been adduced in those proceedings and relates to facts or a change in the law⁸.

1 See eg Hoystead v Federal Taxation Comr (1921) 29 CLR 537, Aust HC (on appeal sub nom Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC); Thoday v Thoday [1964] P 181, [1964] 1 All ER 341, CA; Fidelitas Shipping Co Ltd v V/O Exportchleb [1966] 1 QB 630, [1965] 2 All ER 4, CA; Mills v Cooper [1967] 2 QB 459, [1967] 2 All ER 100, DC.

2 An estoppel must be 'certain to every intent': Co Litt 352b. See Re Koenigsberg, Public Trustee v Koenigsberg [1949] Ch 348, [1949] 1 All ER 804, CA; Sanders (otherwise Saunders) v Sanders (otherwise Saunders) [1952] 2 All ER 767, DC; Patchett v Sterling Engineering Co Ltd (1953) 71 RPC 61, CA (revsd on other grounds sub nom Sterling Engineering Co Ltd v Patchett [1955] AC 534, [1955] 1 All ER 369, HL); Re Wright, Blizard v Lockhart [1954] Ch 347, [1954] 2 All ER 98, CA (an order for an inquiry as to the possibility of executing charitable trusts in a will ordered to be made in a suit for determining the validity of the trusts held not to be a decision in the suit, which was directed by the order to stand over pending the determination of the inquiry; the doctrine of res judicata did not apply so as to preclude argument on the question of what was the natural date to determine the practicability of the trust). See also Turner v London Transport Executive [1977] ICR 952, [1977] IRLR 441, CA (no issue estoppel where findings in earlier proceedings were obscure and uncertain).

3 Outram v Morewood (1803) 3 East 346 (successive actions for different trespasses to the same close; defendant estopped from alleging the same title as was found against his wife, in whose right he claimed, in the first action; approved in Jones v Lewis [1919] 1 KB 328, CA; and in Hoystead v Taxation Comr [1926] AC 155, PC); Hancock v Welsh and Cooper (1816) 1 Stark 347 (finding of tenancy in action of replevin conclusive in action for rent); Flitters v Allfrey (1874) LR 10 CP 29, following Routledge v Hislop (1860) 2 E & E 549 (defendant in first action plaintiff in second action); Re Bank of Hindustan, China, and Japan, Campbell's Case, Hippisley's Case, Alison's Case (1873) 9 Ch App 1 (liquidator barred by finding in action for calls that respondent was not a shareholder); Bright v Bright [1954] P 270, [1953] 2 All ER 939 (allegations in divorce petition alleging desertion same as those raised, or capable of being raised, in earlier petition charging adultery and cruelty which had been dismissed); Hill v Hill [1954] P 291, [1954] 1 All ER 491 (allegations in answer pleading just cause for desertion same as those in unsuccessful petition alleging cruelty); Thoday v Thoday [1964] P 181, [1964] 1 All ER 341, CA; McLoughlin v Gordons (Stockport) Ltd [1978] ICR 561, EAT (second application for equal pay to industrial tribunal (now known as 'employment tribunal')); Khan v Goleccha International Ltd [1980] 2 All ER 259, [1980] 1 WLR 1482, CA (admission in first action that transaction fell outside the Moneylenders Act 1927 (repealed); issue could not be re-opened later).

4 le not collaterally or incidentally: see Spens v IRC[1970] 3 All ER 295 at 301, [1970] 1 WLR 1173 at 1184 per Megarry J; Angle v Minister of National Revenue (1974) 47 DLR (3d) 544, Can SC; and PARA 1191.

5 Bobolas v Economist Newspaper Ltd[1987] 3 All ER 121, [1987] 1 WLR 1101, CA (rulings made in trial where jury failed to agree not conclusive of issues in later proceedings), doubting a dictum of Diplock LJ in Fidelitas Shipping Co Ltd v V/O Exportchleb[1966] 1 QB 630 at 642, [1965] 2 All ER 4 at 10, CA, and citing Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler (No 2)[1967] 1 AC 853 at 935, [1966] 2 All ER 536 at 565-566, HL, per Lord Guest and at 947 and at 573 per Lord Upjohn. See also Egger v Viscount Chelmsford[1965] 1 QB 248, [1964] 3 All ER 406, CA; and PARA 1156. An issue estoppel can arise from an interlocutory (interim) judgment of a foreign court on a procedural issue where there is an express submission of the procedural or jurisdictional issue to the foreign court, and the specific issue of fact is raised before and decided by the court: Desert Sun Loan Corp v Hill[1996] 2 All ER 847, [1996] 11 LS Gaz R 30, CA.

6 Duchess of Kingston's Case (1776) 2 Smith LC (13th Edn) 644; R v Hartington Middle Quarter Inhabitants (1855) 4 E & B 780 (finding that children settled in locality by reference to father's place of settlement conclusive in later proceedings for determining where mother was settled); Priestman v Thomas (1884) 9 PD 210, CA (first action to set aside compromise; second action to revoke probate founded on the same compromise); Barrs v Jackson (1845) 1 Ph 582 (first suit for grant of letters of administration; second suit for distribution of assets); Jewsbury v Mummery(1872) LR 8 CP 56, Ex Ch (verdict against executor on a plea of plene administravit estopped him from any defence open to him under that plea, citing Ramsden v Jackson (1737) 1 Atk 292); cf Dawson v Gregory(1845) 7 QB 756; Ennis v Rochford (1884) 14 LR Ir 285; Erving v Peters (1790) 3 Term Rep 685; Thompson & Sons v Clarke (1901) 17 TLR 455 (as to failure on plea of plene administravit see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS). See also Re South American and Mexican Co, ex p Bank of England[1895] 1 Ch 37, CA; Doe v Wright (1839) 10 Ad & El 763 (judgment in ejectment before the Common Law Procedure Act 1852 conclusive in action for mesne profits; distinguish Harris v Mulkern (1875) 1 ExD 31, after the Common Law Procedure Act 1852); Re National Sulphuric Acid Association's Agreement (No 2) (1966) LR 6 RP 210 (issue in question must be precisely the same as the issue previously decided); Gipps v Gipps [1974] 1 NSWLR 259, NSW CA (court's sanction in earlier proceedings of an arrangement between husband and wife that wife should transfer property to husband at an agreed price no bar by virtue of doctrine of issue estoppel to a later claim by wife that her agreement to the arrangement was induced by the husband's fraudulent misrepresentation as to the value of the property, since in the earlier proceedings the court had not considered the way in which the agreement had been reached, and the question of whether it had been induced by fraud had never been considered); Porter v Secretary of State for Transport[1996] 3 All ER 693, [1996] 2 EGLR 10, CA (where first action to determine basis of assessment of compensation in respect of compulsorily acquired land and second action to determine compensation for injurious affection to retained land, no issue estoppel). As to the application of the same principle to criminal proceedings see PARA 1181; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1272 et seq. As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

As to the court's power to consolidate proceedings, or to try two or more claims on the same occasion, see CPR 3.1(2)(g), (h); and PARAS 75, 247.

7 Re Graydon, ex p Official Receiver[1896] 1 QB 417; Jones v Lewis[1919] 1 KB 328, CA.

8 Arnold v National Westminster Bank plc[1990] Ch 573, [1990] 1 All ER 529, CA; affd [1991] 2 AC 93, [1991] 3 All ER 41, HL.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/C. ISSUE ESTOPPEL/1180. Scope of the doctrine of issue estoppel.

1180. Scope of the doctrine of issue estoppel.

The conditions for the application of issue estoppel require a final decision on the issue by a court of competent jurisdiction¹ and that:

- 826 (1) the issue raised in both proceedings is the same; and
- 827 (2) the parties to the judicial decision or their privies were the same persons as the parties to the proceedings in which the estoppel is raised or their privies².

Deciding if the issue is the 'same' in both cases will depend upon whether the court takes a narrow³ or a wide⁴ view of the extent of the issue determined in the earlier case. It is now established that the question whether the raising of an issue in subsequent proceedings amounts to an abuse of process is one to be decided in a broad, merits based way in the light of all the circumstances⁵. Where a matter is held not to fall within the scope of issue estoppel, it may nonetheless be struck out as vexatious or frivolous; to re-litigate a question which in substance has already been determined is an abuse of process⁶. Where issue estoppel does not arise, this does not enable parties in civil proceedings to attack collaterally decisions reached in criminal proceedings by a court of competent jurisdiction⁷.

Where one party has raised an issue which his opponent alleges is barred by issue estoppel, the opponent may either plead the estoppel and leave the matter to be dealt with at the trial or attempt to have the offending plea struck out⁸.

A claimant who has two heads of claim and recovers judgment for one only, full relief not being open to him on the other, is not barred in a subsequent claim as to the latter⁹. Where, however, relief is properly asked of a competent court, and after trial is not noticed in a judgment granting other relief, or, where in a claim brought for several demands there is judgment for one only, the other relief is presumed to have been refused, and its refusal is a bar to a subsequent claim for the same cause¹⁰.

To be distinguished, however, is the rule that, where a claimant, having two inconsistent claims, elects to abandon one and pursues the other, he may not afterwards choose to return to the former and sue on it¹¹.

1 As to jurisdiction see PARA 1170; and as to finality of judgment see PARA 1156.

2 As to privies see eg PARAS 1155 note 5, 1196-1198.

3 Randolph v Tuck [1962] 1 QB 175, [1961] 1 All ER 814; Re Manly's Will Trusts (No 2) [1976] 1 All ER 673 (construction of will in relation to share of one deceased child not binding to prevent litigation on death of second child; judge perhaps influenced by presence of parties not alive at time of first action and hence not on any view estopped).

4 Marginson v Blackburn Borough Council [1939] 2 KB 426, [1939] 1 All ER 273, CA; Bell v Holmes [1956] 3 All ER 449, [1956] 1 WLR 1359; Wood v Luscombe [1966] 1 QB 169, [1964] 3 All ER 972; North West Water Ltd v Binnie & Partners (a firm) [1990] 3 All ER 547, 30 ConLR 136; Wall v Radford [1991] 2 All ER 741. See also Black v Mount and Hancock [1965] SASR 167; Craddock's Transport Ltd v Stuart [1970] NZLR 499, NZ CA; Crown Estate Comrs v Dorset County Council [1990] Ch 297, [1990] 1 All ER 19.

5 Johnson v Gore Wood & Co (a firm) [2002] 2 AC 1, [2001] 1 All ER 481, HL.

It has been held that no estoppel arises as to matters which were not in issue in the proceedings the record of which is relied upon (see eg Blackham's Case (1709) 1 Salk 290; Collins v Gough (1785) 7 Bro Parl Cas 94, HL; Minor Canons of St Paul's v Crickett (1810) Wight 30 (action for tithes for different years); Goddard v Goddard and Mentz [1924] SALR 290, TPD S Af (action in England as to user of trade mark in England not conclusive in action between same parties as to similar user of same trade mark in South Africa); Spens v IRC [1970] 3 All ER 295, [1970] 1 WLR 1173 (a court order approving a scheme for the variation of a trust does not estop the Board from claiming tax on a fund unaffected by the scheme in later proceedings); Re a Bankrupt [2000] All ER (D) 2340 (previous decision on breach of contract did not estop defendant in bankruptcy proceedings from contending that she was not a partner in the relevant firm)) and it is not sufficient that they were decided by implication (Brandlyn v Ord (1738) 1 Atk 571; Newall v Elliot (1863) 1 H & C 797). See, however PARA 1191; and see Humphries v Humphries [1910] 2 KB 531, CA (an issue as to the existence of an agreement having been affirmed in a former action between the same parties, the defendant could not object that it did not satisfy the requirements of the Law of Property Act 1925 s 53 as to writing, because, although that defence was not pleaded, and therefore could not be relied on in the former action, there was an opportunity of pleading it); see also PARA 1183; and cf Saunders v Vautier (1841) Cr & Ph 240; Vernon v IRC [1956] 3 All ER 14, [1956] 1 WLR 1169 (Attorney General not estopped from denying that trusts were limited to charitable objects by the fact that he did not oppose a court order sanctioning a scheme setting up those trusts directed by an earlier court order to be limited to charitable purposes). Issue estoppel, as developed in patents and registered design cases, also applies to trade mark cases: Hormel Foods Corp v Antilles Landscape Investments NV [2005] EWHC 13 (Ch), [2005] RPC 657 (claimant attacking validity of defendant's mark after being unsuccessful in earlier proceedings). As to the effect in divorce proceedings of a finding of adultery etc in previous matrimonial or family proceedings see PARA 1214; MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 73 (2009) PARA 830.

6 Ashmore v British Coal Corp [1990] 2 QB 338, [1990] 2 All ER 981, CA (large number of workers alleging discrimination in relation to pay; small group of representative cases selected and heard by industrial tribunal (now known as 'employment tribunal'); on failure of selected cases other workers sought to have their claims litigated; public policy and interests of justice held to render claims abuse of process in absence of fresh evidence which justified re-opening the issue); House of Spring Gardens Ltd v Waite [1991] 1 QB 241, [1990] 2 All ER 990, CA (two of three joint tortfeasors unsuccessfully challenged judgment against them in Irish court in further Irish proceedings on ground of fraud; third defendant not entitled to re-open question of fraud in English court); North West Water Ltd v Binnie & Partners (a firm) [1990] 3 All ER 547, 30 ConLR 136 (action by victims of explosion against water board, contractors and consultant engineers in which consultant engineers held to be wholly to blame; engineers not allowed to challenge finding of negligence in later action by local authority for damages to property caused by explosion); Wall v Radford [1991] 2 All ER 741 (two vehicles collided resulting in injury to passenger in one of vehicles; decision on the respective drivers' liability in an action brought by the passenger was conclusive of the drivers' liability inter se, with the result that they were estopped from re-litigating their liability inter se in a second action).

7 Hunter v Chief Constable of the West Midlands Police [1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727, HL (probably an abuse of process case); cf Re Norris [2001] UKHL 34, [2001] 3 All ER 961, [2001] 1 WLR 1389 (defendant's wife entitled to challenge restraint order in respect of matrimonial home). A formal caution and a criminal conviction are not sufficiently close to engage the public policy against collateral attacks on the judgment of a court, because of the fundamental distinction that a formal caution has not been brought about by any decision of a court of justice; thus an attack on an admission to a police officer does not involve an attack on a court of co-ordinate jurisdiction: Abraham v Metropolitan Police Comr [2001] 1 WLR 1257, [2000] All ER (D) 2201, CA.

8 Carl Zeiss Stiftung v Rayner and Keeler Ltd (No 3) [1970] Ch 506, [1969] 3 All ER 897. A pleading will be struck out on this ground only if it is plain and obvious that the earlier judgment disposed of the issue: Silver Standard Mines Ltd v Granby Mining Co Ltd (1972) 31 DLR (3d) 356, BC CA.

9 Hadley v Green (1832) 2 Cr & J 374 (promissory note and money received for value of stone; subsequent action for damages for quarrying the stone), following Seddon v Tutop (1796) 6 Term Rep 607; cf Lord Bagot v Williams (1824) 3 B & C 235; Grundy v Townsend (1888) 36 WR 531, CA (prohibition of action for goods sold no bar to subsequent action on account stated); Bollard v Spring (1887) 51 JP 501 (same principle applied in criminal proceedings); see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1272-1275.

10 Blake v O'Kelly (1874) IR 9 Eq 54; Gregory v Molesworth (1747) 3 Atk 626; and see Henderson v Henderson (1843) 3 Hare 100.

11 See ESTOPPEL vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 962.

UPDATE

1180 Scope of the doctrine of issue estoppel

NOTE 1--For this purpose a consent order is to be treated in the same way as a judgment: South Somerset DC v Tonstate (Yeovil Leisure) Ltd [2009] EWHC 3308 (Ch), [2009] All ER (D) 190 (Dec).

NOTE 2--Where the conditions for the application of the doctrine are satisfied, parties cannot subsequently, in the same proceedings, advance arguments or adduce further evidence directed to showing that the issue in question was wrongly determined: See/e Austria GmbH Co v Tokio Marine Europe Insurance Ltd [2009] EWHC 255 (TCC), [2009] All ER (D) 41 (Sep).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/C. ISSUE ESTOPPEL/1181. No issue estoppel in criminal proceedings.

1181. No issue estoppel in criminal proceedings.

Issue estoppel does not operate in criminal proceedings¹; but when in the first of two trials an accused has been acquitted, the prosecution in the second trial is normally estopped from challenging the correctness of that verdict². Evidence of acquittals may, however, be admitted as similar fact evidence in criminal proceedings involving similar incidents, provided that the accused is not unfairly prejudiced by its admission³.

1 DPP v Humphrys [1977] AC 1, [1976] 2 All ER 497, HL, overruling R v Hogan [1974] QB 398, [1974] 2 All ER 142 (where Lawson J had adjudged that issue estoppel did apply in criminal proceedings so as to estop the accused in a murder trial from denying that he had caused the deceased grievous bodily harm with intent when in an earlier trial he had admitted causing such harm with intent but had alleged unsuccessfully that he had done so in self-defence) and disapproving of obiter dicta in Connelly v DPP [1964] AC 1254, [1964] 2 All ER 401, HL, that issue estoppel could be applicable on appropriate facts; Hunter v Chief Constable of the West Midlands Police [1982] AC 529, [1981] 3 All ER 727, HL; Customs & Excise Comrs v T (1996) 162 JP 193, [1997] CLY 1107, CA (prosecution not estopped from relying on evidence of a previous acquittal in forfeiture proceedings under the Drug Trafficking Act 1994 s 43(3) (repealed: see now the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002; and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 390 et seq)).

To the extent that the law in this area prevents the re-litigation of issues already determined, it relies upon the doctrines of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict, otherwise known as the rule against 'double jeopardy': see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1272-1275; and see eg R v Clegg [2000] NI 305, NI CA. The Criminal Justice Act 2003 has abolished this rule in the case of certain serious offences: see Pt 10 (ss 75-97); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(4) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1937 et seq.

2 Sambasivam v Public Prosecutor, Federation of Malaya [1950] AC 458, PC; followed in R v Hay (1983) 77 Cr App Rep 70, CA. See also G (an infant) v Coltart [1967] 1 QB 432, [1967] 1 All ER 271, DC.

3 R v Z [2000] 2 AC 483, [2000] 3 All ER 385, HL; applied in R v Degnan [2001] 4 LRC 65, NZ CA. As to similar fact evidence see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1503 et seq; and for changes to the common law rules about evidence of the accused's bad character see the Criminal Justice Act 2003 Pt 11 (ss 98-141); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1502 et seq.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CIVIL PROCEDURE (VOLUME 11 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-1108; VOLUME 12 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1109-1836)/22. JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS/(2) FINALITY OF JUDGMENTS AND OF LITIGATION/(iii) Res Judicata/C. ISSUE ESTOPPEL/1182. Extent to which issue estoppel applies in public law proceedings.

1182. Extent to which issue estoppel applies in public law proceedings.

